S.F.T.S
LIBRARY

THE
BOOK REVIEW DIGEST

FORTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL CUMULATION

MARCH 1951 TO FEBRUARY 1952 INCLUSIVE

EDITED BY MERTICE M. JAMES
AND DOROTHY BROWN

Property of Graduate Theological Union
Return to San Francisco Theological Seminary

NEW YORK
THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY
1952

Published 1952
Printed in the United States of America

Publications from which Digests of Reviews are made

Am Anthropol—American Anthropologist. $6. American Anthropological Association, 13 E. 71st St, New York 21

Am Chem Soc J—Journal of the American Chemical Society. $10. American Chemical Society, 1155 16th St, NW, Washington 6, D.C.

Am Econ R—American Economic Review. Paul T. Homan, managing ed. $6; $5 to members. American Economic Assn, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Am Hist R—American Historical Review. Guy Stanton Ford, managing ed. $6; $5 to members of the American Historical Assn. Macmillan Co, 60 Fifth Av, New York 11

Am J Pub Health—American Journal of Public Health and The Nation's Health. C.-E. A. Winslow, ed. $7. American Public Health Assn, 1790 Broadway, New York 19

Am J Soc—American Journal of Sociology. Herbert Blumer, ed. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Am Pol Sci R—American Political Science Review. Frederic A. Ogg, managing ed. $6.60; free to members. American Political Science Assn, 450-458 Ahnaip St, Menasha, Wis.

Am Soc R—American Sociological Review. $5 (membership dues including subscription $8) American Sociological Soicety, 450 Ahnaip St, Menasha, Wis.

Ann Am Acad—Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Thorsten Sellin, ed. $5; free to members. American Academy of Political and Social Science, 3817 Spruce St, Philadelphia 4

Atlantic—Atlantic Monthly. $6. Atlantic Monthly Co, 8 Arlington St, Boston 16

Booklist—Booklist. $5. American Library Assn, 50 E Huron St, Chicago 11

Bookmark—Bookmark. $1. New York State Library. University of the State of New York press, Albany 1

Canadian Forum—Canadian Forum. $5. Canadian Forum, Ltd, 16 Huntley St, Toronto 5

Canadian Hist R—Canadian Historical Review. $3. University of Toronto Press, Toronto 5

Cath World—Catholic World. John B. Sheerin, ed. $4 Missionary Society of St Paul the Apostle, 411 W 59th St, New York 19

Chem & Eng N—Chemical and Engineering News. $4. American Chemical Society, 1155 16th St, NW, Washington 6, D.C.

Chem Eng—Chemical Engineering with Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering. $3. McGraw-Hill Pub. Co. Inc. 330 W. 42d St, New York 18

Chicago Sun—Chicago Sun-Times, $14.40. Chicago Sun-Times, 400 W Madison St, Chicago 6, Ill.

Chicago Sunday Tribune—Chicago Sunday Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Christian Century—Christian Century. Paul Hutchinson, ed. $6. Christian Century Foundation, 407 S Dearborn St, Chicago 5

Christian Science Monitor (Atlantic ed)—Christian Science Monitor. $15. Christian Science Publishing Society, 1 Norway St, Boston 15

Churchman—Churchman. Guy Emery Shipler ed. $5. The Churchman Company, 425 Fourth Av, New York 16

Commonweal—Commonweal. Edward S. Skillin and Philip Burnham, eds. $7. Commonweal Pub. Co, Inc, 386 Fourth Av, New York 16

Crozer Q—Crozer Quarterly. $2.50. Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa.

Current Hist—Current History. D. G. Redmond, ed. $4. Events Pub. Co, Inc, 108-10 Walnut St, Philadelphia 6

El School J—Elementary School Journal. R. W. Tyler and others, eds. $4.50. Dept. of Education Publications, University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Eng N—Engineering News-Record. $6. McGraw-Hill Publishing Co, Inc, 330 W 42d St. New York 18

Ethics—Ethics. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Foreign Affairs—Foreign Affairs. Hamilton Fish Armstrong, ed. $6. Council on Foreign Relations, Inc, 58 E 68th St, New York 21

Geog R—Geographical Review. $5. American Geographical Society, Broadway & 156th St, New York 32

Hibbert J—Hibbert Journal. George Allen & Unwin, Ltd, 40 Museum St, London WC 1 ($3.50. Leroy Phillips, 569 Boylston st, Boston 16)

Horn Bk—Horn Book. Bertha E. Mahony Miller, ed. $3. Horn Book, Inc, 248 Boylston St, Boston 16

J Geol—Journal of Geology. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

J Home Econ—Journal of Home Economics. Lillian L. Steckman, ed. $5. American Home Economics Assn, 700 Victor Bldg, Washington 1, D.C.

J Philos—Journal of Philosophy. $5. Journal of Philosophy, Inc, 515 W 116th St, New York 27

J Phys & Colloid Chem—The Journal of Physical and Colloid Chemistry. $10; single numbers $1.25. m except (Jl, Ag and S) Williams & Wilkins Co, Mt. Royal & Guilford Avs, Baltimore 2, Md.

J Pol Econ—Journal of Political Economy. Earl J. Hamilton and others, eds. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

J Religion—Journal of Religion. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Kirkus—Bulletin from Virginia Kirkus' Bookshop Service. Service basis, 38 Bank St, New York

Library J—Library Journal, Karl Brown, ed. $6. R. R. Bowker Co, 62 W 45th St, New York 19

Library Q—Library Quarterly. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Management R—Management Review. M. J. Dooher, ed. $6. American Management Assn, 330 W 42d St, New York 18

Manchester Guardian—Manchester Guardian. 91s. Manchester Guardian and Evening News, Ltd, 3 Cross St, Manchester; Guardian Newspapers, Inc, 53 East 51st St, New York 22

Mod Philol—Modern Philology. $6. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Music Lib. Assn. Notes—Music Library Association, Inc. Richard S. Hill, ed. $3. Music Library Association, Inc., Library of Congress, Washington 25, D.C.

Nation—Nation. Freda Kirchwey, ed. $7. Nation Associates, Inc, 20 Vesey St, New York 7

New Eng Q—New England Quarterly. $4. H. Brown, Hubbard Hall, Brunswick, Me.

New Repub—New Republic. Michael Straight. ed. $6.50. Editorial Publications, Inc, 40 E 49th St, New York 17

New Statesman & Nation—New Statesman and Nation. 32s 6d New Statesman & Nation pub. co. 10 Great Turnstile, London, WC 1 ($7 International News Co, 131 Varick St, New York 13)

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R—New York Herald Tribune Book Review. $2.50. N Y Herald Tribune, Inc. Publisher, 230 W 41st St, New York

N Y Herald Tribune Wkly Bk. R. See N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

N Y New Tech Bks—New Technical Books. $1.50 N Y Public Library, Fifth Av & 42 St, New York

N Y Times—New York Times Book Review. $3. N Y Times Co, Pub, 229 W 43d St, New York 18

New Yorker—New Yorker. $7. The New Yorker Magazine, Inc. 25 W 43d St, New York 18

Pacific Affairs—Pacific Affairs. $4 Institute of Pacific Relations, 1 East 54th St, New York 22

Poetry—Poetry. Marion Strobel [and others] eds. $5. Modern Poetry Assn, 232 E Erie St, Chicago 11

Pol Sci Q—Political Science Quarterly. John A. Krout, managing ed. $6; free to members. Academy of Political Science, Columbia University, New York 27

San Francisco Chronicle—San Francisco Chronicle. P. C. Smith, ed. $21. Chronicle Pub Co, 901 Mission St, San Francisco 19

Sat R of Lit—Saturday Review of Literature. Norman Cousins, ed. $6. Saturday Review Associates, Inc, 25 W 45th St, New York 19

School & Society—School and Society. $7. Society for the Advancement of Education, Inc, 15 Amsterdam Av, New York 23

School Arts—School Arts. Pedro deLemos, ed. $4. The Davis Press, Inc, Worcester 8, Mass.

School R—School Review. R. W. Tyler and others, eds. $4.50. University of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Chicago 37

Social Educ—Social Education. L. P. Todd, ed. $3. National Council for the Social Studies, 1201 Sixteenth St, NW, Washington 6, D.C.

Social Forces—Social Forces. $5. Williams & Wilkins Co, Baltimore 2

Social Studies—Social Studies. Leonard B. Irwin, ed. $3 McKinley Publishing Co, 809-811 N 19th St, Philadelphia

Special Libraries—Special Libraries. $7. Special Libraries Assn, 31 East Tenth St, New York 3

Spec—Spectator. 30s. The Spectator, Ltd, 99 Gower St, London, WC 1 ($7. International News Co, 131 Varick St, New York 13)

Springf'd Republican—Springfield Republican. $5. Republican pub. co, 32 Cypress St, Springfield, Mass.

Subscription Bks Bul—Subscription Books Bulletin. $2.50. American Library Assn, 50 E Huron St, Chicago 11

Survey—Survey, Paul Kellogg, ed. $5. Survey Associates, Inc, 112 E 19th St, New York 3

Theatre Arts—Theatre Arts. Charles MacArthur, ed. $5. Stage Publications, Inc, 130 West 56th, St, New York 19

Time—Time. T. S. Matthews, ed. $6. Time, Inc, 540 N. Michigan Av, Chicago 11

Times [London] Lit Sup—Times Literary Supplement. 19s 6d. Times Publishing Co. Ltd, Printing House Square, London, E.C. 4; $4.15. The Times (London), North American Office, 640 Fifth Ave, New York 19

U S Quarterly Bk R—United States Quarterly Book List. Joseph P. Blickensderfer, ed $3.75. The Rutgers Univ. Press, New Brunswick, N.J.

Wis Lib Bul—Wisconsin Library Bulletin. $1. Wisconsin Library Bulletin, Madison, Wis.

Yale R n s—Yale Review. David M. Potter, ed. $3.50. Yale Review. 143 Elm St, New Haven 7, Conn.

In addition to the above list the Book Review Digest sometimes quotes from Cleveland Open Shelf; Columbia Law Review: Harvard Law Review; Publishers' Weekly; Review of Scientific Instruments; Yale Law Journal; and other bulletins and papers.

Explanations

The descriptive note is separated from critical notices of a book by a dash.

The plus and minus signs preceding the name of the magazine indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of the entire review.

In reference to a magazine, the first number refers to the volume, the next to the page, the letters to a date and the last figure to the number of words in the review.

Publishers' Directory will be found at the end of this number.

Book Review Digest

Devoted to the Valuation of Current Literature

Cumulation of monthly numbers March 1951—February 1952

AARON, DANIEL. Men of good hope; a story of American progressives. 329p $4 Oxford

920 Reformers. Progressive party. U.S.—Biography 51-1402

"A scholarly analysis of the social philosophies of America's 'prophetic agitators' Emerson, Parker, George, Bellamy, Lloyd, Veblen, and 'pseudo-progressives' T. R. Roosevelt, Brooks Adams. 'Retrospect 1912-1950' includes critical estimate of New Deal and challenge of communism." Library J

Reviewed by Louis Filler
Am Pol Sci R 45:932 S '51 420w

"Daniel Aaron has written a significant book. . . Unlike most discussions of social movement, the doctrines are interestingly stated and are interlaced with descriptions of the background of each writer and the environments in which he wrote. . . The book is the product of extensive research and of a broad and sympathetic appreciation of social forces in American history." C. E. Warne
+ Ann Am Acad 276:145 Jl '51 500w

Booklist 47:251 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 30w

Reviewed by K. W. McNaught
Canadian Forum 31:111 Ag '51 2500w

Christian Century 68:965 Ag 22 '51 180w

Reviewed by Henry Sowerby
Christian Science Monitor p11 Mr 29 '51 850w

"The book makes interesting and solid reading. It brings out, sometimes indirectly, sometimes with more explicitness, the connection which traditionally exists between unorthodox economics or politics and unorthodoxy in religion." H. B. Scholefield
+ Crozer Q 28:263 Jl '51 850w

"Aaron's book is a heartening and courageous treatment of a much-neglected subject. But he is dealing with a subject that requires the highest degree of sophistication, analytical skill, thoroughness and comprehensiveness. He has made the beginning of a contribution; I hope he will continue it." Joseph Dorfman
+ J Pol Econ 59:544 D '51 490w

"Stimulating. Recommended." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:323 F 15 '51 140w

"Mr. Aaron has studied these men with care and affection. His account of them contains some fresh biographical information and a number of insights which will be helpful to their new and old acquaintances. He emphasizes and succeeds in demonstrating the common attributes of this apparently diverse group. . . The method of epitome, always attractive and always dangerous, is less successfully used by Mr. Aaron when he attempts, through prelude and postlude chapters, to place these progressive founding fathers in historical perspective." H. F. May
+ — New Eng Q 24:386 S '51 1000w

Reviewed by David Riesman
New Repub 124:21 Ap 30 '51 950w

"Mr. Aaron's book is a fine and thoughtful study of these currents of thought. One wishes that he had been more dramatic in his presentation and more complete in his materials. The writing is somewhat colorless. It is dubious whether a study of this type should have given so much space to Howells and Brooks Adams. . . More serious are Mr. Aaron's omissions. It is a matter of surprise that he left out such highly influential radicals as Eugene Debs and Upton Sinclair or such social satirists as H. L. Mencken and Sinclair Lewis." S. K. Padover
+ — N Y Times p6 Mr 11 '51 800w

"A brilliant and fascinating reevaluation of the American progressive tradition, now attacked both by liberals and anti-liberals." L. B.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 Mr 18 '51 350w

Reviewed by George Britt
+ Survey 87:182 Ap '51 850w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:160 Je '51 250w

ABDULLAH I, king of Jordan. Memoirs [ed. with notes and a foreword by Philip Graves; with an introd. by R. J. C. Broadhurst; tr. from the Arabic by G. Khuri]. 278p il $3.75 Philosophical lib.

B or 92 Arabia. Jordan 51-103

This is an autobiography of King Abdullah of Jordan. It "tells of the strained relations which existed between the Arabs and the Turkish empire during the early 1900's, and how his father, the Amir of Mecca, led the Arab revolt against the Constantinople regime during World War I." (Springf'd Republican) Index.

"Judged by scholarly standards this rendition . . . is not satisfactory. . . The author himself would find it rather difficult to recognize his memoirs in their English garb. This is especially regrettable in view of the importance of the material, some of which is fully presented for the first time and by a man whose knowledge was firsthand and who took a leading role in the events described." P. K. Hitti
Am Hist R 56:980 Jl '51 450w

"There is little of interest to the general reader in the 'King's Tale.' Those familiar with Arab affairs from 1908 to date will find in this volume some missing parts of the puzzling intrigues of the Arabs, the British, and the Turks preceding and during the first World War." William Yale
Ann Am Acad 275:226 My '51 430w

"This book gives the Western reader a chance to glimpse the mentality of one of the most respected of contemporary Arab spokesmen. He who wishes to understand what is taking place in the Middle East must comprehend such a mentality or be continually baffled." R. M. Saunders
+ Canadian Forum 31:163 O '51 210w

"This is the kind of memoirs one would expect King Abdullah to write. Unexcelled as a gracious host, he has opened the door to his life for all to enter but has carefully refrained from saying anything that would hurt the feelings of anyone but his arch enemy, Ibn Sa'ud." G. E. Hopkins
+ Christian Century 68:896 Ag 1 '51 360w

Current Hist 20:172 Mr '51 60w

Foreign Affairs 30:166 O '51 20w

"An exciting story skillfully told. . . Whether Abdullah, now 69, ends his days as a semi-independent British pensioner, or whether the turn of fate takes him to Damascus or even

ABDULLAH—Continued
back to Mecca, he has already given younger Arabs an example of simple elegance, good taste and moderation in many matters. Philip Graves has provided extensive notes and comments that clarify the setting and terminology and rectify occasional lapses in the chronology." Farnsworth Fowle
+ N Y Times p10 Je 3 '51 400w

"Unfortunately the story stops short of recent events and very little is uncovered regarding Abdullah's sympathies for, and antipathies against, the Jews in Western Palestine. What we are given is little more than a court memoir, written graciously, though occasionally obscurely, for the benefit of friends, kinsmen, fellow-tribesmen and the royal clique. . . The narrative is ably edited by Philip Graves, who for so long represented The Times of London in the Middle East. Mr. Graves applies his great erudition to elucidating for us some of the more obscure references and apparent inaccuracies in the story, and we are also grateful for his services as arbiter in the cause of impartiality when the King's oriental prejudices get the better of him." R. R. Reuter
Pol Sci Q 66:478 S '51 450w

"For a knowledge of the factors and personalities involved in the Near East political scene and more than a glimpse of the Arab psychology, this book is a must." R. H. D.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ap 8 '51 360w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Bruun
Sat R of Lit 34:33 Mr 10 '51 330w

"His opinions on contemporary affairs are original and vigorous. The appearance of his memoirs will naturally stimulate considerable interest, and if English readers find this account in some ways disappointing, they should remember that they were not in King Abdullah's mind when the book was written. His reminiscences, originally published in Arabic about four years ago, were addressed to the Arabs, and in particular to those of Jordan, to remind them of their past struggles and prepare them for fresh ones. The Arabic text has [now] undergone a process of translation (apparently at least three hands taking part in it), some of the original material has been omitted and some explanatory notes added. But nothing can conceal the fact that for an English-speaking audience these memoirs show a misplaced emphasis, both in scope and detail." Edward Hodgkin
Spec 184:20 Jl 7 '50 600w

"A book which should be welcomed by students of the tumultuous events that occurred in the Middle East since the turn of the century. . . The book may be particularly interesting to persons who have read of the exploits of 'Lawrence of Arabia' and other Britons who had a part in the revolt, since the king is writing strictly from the Arab viewpoint and his version of what happened does not coincide in all particulars with other accounts. In addition to its historical aspects, the volume is instructive in shedding a first-hand light on many Arab manners, traditions and characteristics which are not well known generally to people of the Western world." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p8B Ja 7 '51 210w

"Among his own people King Abdullah has some literary fame, but he does not speak any European language and for all his shrewd appreciation of other peoples, his background is oriental. His book, therefore, is a translation to which the great majority of English readers will need the admirable guidance provided chiefly in the form of notes, by Mr. Philip Graves. It is autobiographical in form—and, as is the manner of autobiographies, the first half is a good deal more vivid and coherent than the second."
Times [London] Lit Sup p512 Ag 18 '50 1000w

ABEL, HILDE (MRS DAVID ALBERT DAVIDSON). Guests of summer. 271p $3 Bobbs
51-11014

A summer hotel in the Adirondacks in 1939 is the scene of this story. The story itself concerns chiefly the thoughts and emotions of a young Jewish girl, daughter of a refugee woman doctor, and her gradual growth to understanding of herself and her mother.

"The story's focus is occasionally a bit fuzzy, and the characters live on an exceptionally persistent level of emotionalism, but all in all this is a fine book, deeply felt and with a poetic individuality of its own."
+ Atlantic 188:88 Jl '51 190w

"Significant on a variety of levels, 'The Guests of Summer' represents an impressive technical accomplishment. The total symmetry of the work seems to be the product of a well executed architectural conception in which the stresses of the parts flow into the harmony of the whole. The style is lyric, catching the most unexpected and revelatory nuances. . . Only on occasion does one feel that the sensitivity underlying all this is too restless, too nervous, that some images are too tautly wrought. On the other hand, a relaxing anywhere might gain comfort for the reader only at the expense of penetration." Frederic Morton
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Je 10 '51 840w

"It is a deeply moving, personal story written with the disciplined craftsmanship of a play. It is one of those rare occasions when an author has succeeded in transmitting the excitement of finding her meaning in life and her place in the world." Anzia Yezierska
+ N Y Times p23 Je 10 '51 220w

New Yorker 27:78 Jl 21 '51 60w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Jl 9 '51 700w

"The state of man has not changed very much since 1939, and the things Miss Abel has to say are pertinent and arresting. They are also, in a way, poetic, as prophetic outcries in a time of doom are apt to be. Whatever Miss Abel's book lacks in the way of flesh and blood it makes up in spirit." N. L. Rothman
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:14 Jl 28 '51 490w

ABELS, JULES. Welfare state; a mortgage on America's future; with a foreword by Raymond Moley. 214p $3 Duell

338.973 U.S.—Economic policy. Socialism. State, The 51-9600

From an economic point of view the author criticizes most of the federal government activities since the early New Deal days—that is the domestic policies of the Roosevelt administration after 1934, and the Truman Fair Deal.

Booklist 47:322 My 15 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '51

Reviewed by W. F. Kennedy
Commonweal 54:171 My 25 '51 550w

"An offensive against the administration's policies and programs which will certainly leave room for a counteroffensive."
Kirkus 19:145 Mr 1 '51 150w

"Mr. Abels has written trenchantly and lucidly, extending the more or less familiar exposition to include the impact of welfarism of the current mobilization program. His book will be welcomed as a tract for the times. It will provoke discussion, and should have the effect of stirring second thoughts even among those who are most convinced that existing economic trends are for the good of all." August Heckscher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Je 3 '51 550w

Reviewed by Eliot Janeway
N Y Times p15 Je 24 '51 360w

"A major criticism can be directed at Mr. Abels' failure to suggest, except in the vaguest terms, any alternative methods of providing some measure of security for the mass of the American people." William Haber
Survey 87:548 D '51 650w

ABRAMOVITZ, MOSES. Inventories and business cycles; with special reference to manufacturers' inventories. 632p $6 Nat. bur. of economic res.

338.54 Inventories. Business cycles 50-12951

"Presents the results of an intensive research study of inventory statistics to determine how inventories have moved during business cycles and what influence they have had on business activity." Management R

"This is the most important empirical study of business cycles which has appeared since the publication in 1937 of Kuznet's National Income and Capital Formation, 1919-1935. It is, however, more than a factual study. It interweaves statistical findings with theoretical analysis. Thus, both in terms and theory and statistics, it is a highly significant contribution to cycle literature." A. H. Hansen
+ Am Econ R 41:705 S '51 1100w

"The author's style, plan of organization, and persistence with which all promising avenues are explored, as well as his careful restraint in accepting finally only that which is definitely proven, represent an exercise in economic reasoning which should delight his fellow economists. It should also provide the young researcher, not yet arrived at full journeyman status, a model which cannot but be helpful in perfecting his own skill." W. N. Mitchell
+ Ann Am Acad 275:197 My '51 600w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:45 Ja 1 '51 60w
Management R 40:162 Mr '51 30w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:42 Mr '51 270w

ADAMASTOR, pseud. White man boss; footsteps to the South African volk republic. 240p $3 Beacon press

968 South Africa—Native races. South Africa—Race question 51-2191

A description of the nationalist-minded Afrikaners of South Africa, known as the Volk. The author has included much factual material on the methods and consequences of racial oppression; and he has also touched on the problems of the White Settler Territories to the north of the Union." (New Statesman & Nation) The author is a South African liberal. No index.

"For a clear insight into the psychology of the Volk, as well as up-to-date information, this book is essential. But it is unfortunate that the author thus lays his emphasis without giving apartheid its whole significance. . . He all but glosses over the larger issues: the future of Africa and the African; the primary economic value of the black to the white man as a political fact; black and white labor relations; the full significance of miscegenation; the vital need for the world to realize that all Africa, particularly the southern parts at present, are areas in which they must safeguard the future." David Parsons
Canadian Forum 31:21 Ap '51 310w

"Though the author shows himself to be an unblushing partisan and a passionate antagonist of the outdated fanatical and feudal attitudes and policies of the present reactionary government, there is sufficient documentation to buttress statements as being matters of fact." D. J. Fleming
+ Crozer Q 28:260 Jl '51 900w

Reviewed by R. W. Logan
Nation 172:473 My 19 '51 700w

"Those who want a brief and highly 'popular' guide to South African racialism will find it here. . . If the wisecracks and vulgarity of this account can be excused. . . White Man Boss can be recommended as a useful corrective to the British liberal view that racialism in the Union somehow arose after—and even as a result of—the decline of Smuts."
New Statesman & Nation 41:80 Ja 20 '51 150w
New Yorker 27:117 My 3 '51 220w

ADAMS, CHARLOTTE. Home entertaining; a complete guide; with decorations by Margaret Jervis. 443p $3.95 Crown

642 Entertaining. Games. Cookery 50-10622

The housekeeping editor of Charm provides a complete party book, discussing how to plan parties; what to serve at them; recipes, including ten pages of canapes; different types of parties; etc. Index.

Booklist 47:183 Ja 15 '51
Cleveland Open Shelf p14 Jl '51

"Excellent all round manual."
+ Kirkus 18:580 S 15 '50 140w

"An excellent guide for all types of entertaining from the simplest to the more elaborate." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 75:2152 D 15 '50 40w

Reviewed by Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p67 D 3 '50 90w
Wis Lib Bul 47:57 Mr '51

ADAMS, HENRY. Selected letters; ed. with an introd. by Newton Arvin. 279p $3.50 Farrar, Straus

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-7883

"In this volume, Newton Arvin allows Henry Adams to speak for himself, not as the embittered misfit of The Education bemoaning a useless life, but as a traveller penetrating his own time and space brilliantly and with insight." Library J

"Alternating with passages of grey cynicism and youthful optimism are some incisive, often wry observations about places and people."
Kirkus 19:520 S 1 '51 200w

"This is an excellent selection, necessary to counteract the portrait of his own making which Adams erected in The Education." R. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:1557 O 1 '51 130w

"To [his] friends Adams paid the compliment of writing as well as he ever did for that larger public that he hoped to find but did not during his own life. He wrote as he talked, and one who knew him has said that his letters, when not cut to pieces by an officious editor, are the man himself. . . Since this is the only volume of Adams' letters now easily accessible, it must be a matter of regret that the editor did not print them with as few excisions as possible and that the editorial apparatus is inadequate. Incidentally, the introduction, for all its praise of the letters, displays little sympathy for their author." George Genzmer
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 D 30 '51 650w

Reviewed by Harvey Breit
N Y Times p46 D 2 '51 70w
Time 58:118 N 12 '51 1100w

ADAMS, JAMES DONALD. Literary frontiers. 175p $2.75 Duell

804 Literature 51-9613

A book of essays: "the binding thread . . . literature in relation to life." Most of the material originally appeared in the author's weekly column, "Speaking of books" in the New York Times Book Review. Contents: Literary frontiers; Women and fiction; The wonder of the world; Words; Writer and reader; The writer's responsibility; American realism; The American Ulysses; Indian song; The little laird of Auchinleck; A note on poetry.

Booklist 47:337; 359 Je 1 '51; Je 15 '51
Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 30w

"However ably supported from his wide reading, some of his generalizations as to current authors will be queried, but all, and Catholics especially, should welcome Adams's sane, constructive approach." J. M. Thellusson
+ Cath World 174:79 O '51 210w

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Je 10 '51 240w
Kirkus 19:204 Ap 1 '51 220w

ADAMS, J. D.—Continued

"This is a serious book, social and philosophical, but not a dull or heavy one. Recommended." Shirley Baker

+ Library J 76:958 Je 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 N 4 '51 550w

Reviewed by Robert Hillyer

N Y Times p9 Je 10 '51 500w

"It is good reading for anyone interested in contemporary writing and in the ways in which that writing reflects contemporary ideas, emotions and conflicts." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Je 8 '51 900w

"One of Mr. Adams's most interesting chapters is called Women and Fiction. . . There are other admirable and suggestive chapters, and throughout his book Mr. Adams is pleading that the modern writer must have a sense of responsibility. . . This is a hopeful book, and to all of it the reader can only say, 'Amen.' " Harrison Smith

+ Sat R of Lit 34:23 Jl 14 '51 900w

ADAMS, ROGER, ed. See Organic reactions, v5-6

ADAMS, SAMUEL HOPKINS. Santa Fe trail; il. by Lee J. Ames. (Landmark bk) 181p $1.50 Random house

Santa Fe trail—Juvenile literature

A fictional account of the Santa Fe trail based on actual incidents and real people—the first wagon train; William Bucknell, its leader; etc. For junior high school age.

Booklist 48:148 D 15 '51

Reviewed by M. B. King

Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 N 11 '51 110w

Kirkus 19:439 Ag 15 '51 160w

"While not as beautiful as Holling's Tree in the Trail, its easy text will make it a worthwhile addition to any library. Clearer map with different point of view would have enhanced its value." A. B. Martin

Library J 77:65 Ja 1 '52 80w

"He tells the story of the first wagon expedition, makes its people alive, and gives a young reader also a sense of the whole historic setting." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 N 11 '51 70w

Reviewed by R. A. Brown

N Y Times p36 N 11 '51 80w

ADDISON, JAMES THAYER. Episcopal church in the United States, 1789-1931. 400p $4.50 Scribner

283.73 Protestant Episcopal church in the U.S.A.—History 51-10050

"An account of the growth of the Episcopal Church in America—a prologue relating its beginnings in England and in the American colonies, and the body of the work dealing in greater detail with the Church from 1789 to 1931. Stresses: organizational developments, missionary and educational efforts, the growth of social viewpoints, the great leader." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:321 My 15 '51

"This is a major contribution to American church history." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 68:1162 O 10 '51 140w

"This is the book that many of us have been waiting for. It is history as it should be written: interesting, against the background of social events, reflecting developments in other churches, high-lighted by significant characters, giving evaluations of events in terms of religious significance." R. C. Miller

+ Churchman 165:16 My 1 '51 250w

"Until this book by Dr. Addison appeared, there was a dearth of good histories of the Episcopal Church in this country. . . If Dr. Addison's treatment of his church's history suffers from any fault, it is in the sense of tediousness that arises in the reader, when about halfway through the book, over the sheer accumulation of data. Much of it could have been more interesting if there had been less historical 'objectivity' in interpreting it. But a refreshing virtue is the frank facing of the Episcopal Church's 'limitations, failures, faults, and even the sins.' " R. O. Kevin

+ — Crozer Q 29:85 Ja '52 500w

"A satisfactory, readable account of the Church which should prove useful. Larger libraries, at least, will want to purchase." G. W. Wakefield

+ Library J 76:864 My 15 '51 80w

"Individual leaders are well portrayed. The church's part in the Revolution, the slavery controversy and the Civil War, in education, social reform and the church unity movement is presented and fairly assessed." N. K. Burger

+ N Y Times p15 Je 17 '51 200w

ADDISON, WILLIAM. Worthy Dr Fuller. 298p il $3 Macmillan

B or 92 Fuller, Thomas [51-10660]

"A life of Thomas Fuller (1608-61), an English divine and the author of many learned works, notably a history of the Crusades and a series of biographical sketches of the great called 'Worthies of England,' which were designed to be read for entertainment as well as spiritual profit and were the first things of their kind in English. Dr. Fuller was something of a forerunner of Dr. Johnson." (New Yorker) Bibliography.

"Fortunately Mr. Addison is so thoroughly soaked in the history, literature, and spirit of Fuller's day as to achieve an account which would have pleased his subject. Like Fuller he delights in 'worthies,' and like him thinks no good anecdote irrelevant."

+ Nation 173:246 S 22 '51 290w

Reviewed by J. W. Krutch

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ag 12 '51 1050w

"Mr. Addison's book makes the worthy Doctor once more available to the kind of people he would have felt at home with."

+ New Yorker 27:118 Je 9 '51 160w

"At last, it may be said, the worthy Dr. Fuller has himself found a worthy biographer." Robert Halsband

+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 O 13 '51 250w

"Mr. Addison must have enjoyed writing this book, and we enjoy reading it. And if it sends us back to dip in and out of the incomparable Worthies, we shall enjoy that too." Rose Macaulay

+ Spec 185:184 F 9 '51 800w

"To Pepys he was 'the great Tom Fuller' and the few additional facts given here about his life are welcome, though perhaps not always presented with all the clarity that could be wished."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p118 F 23 '51 650w

ADELSON, LEONE. House with red sails; il. by Kurt Wiese. 185p $2.50 McKay 51-10586

Story of an American family whose home was a Chinese junk with red sails. They earned their living by charging admission to their novel home when they were tied up at the various ports along the inland waterways from New York to Florida. There is a slight mystery. For ages nine to twelve.

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 26 '51 200w

"The story provides wholesome entertainment."

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Jl 28 '51 220w

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51

"A patterned mystery with an unusual and delightful setting."

+ Kirkus 19:184 Ap 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by Anne Izard
Library J 76:1138 Jl '51 80w

"Here's a jolly, real, modern family. . . The sea-going life is fun, and the family's worries about living more normally are solved happily, as at last they become 'half-lubbers.'" L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 29 '51 60w

"Based on the experiences of a real American family, the story is an interesting one, with good characterizations and wholesome family life as well as an unusual setting." Elizabeth Hodges
+ N Y Times p18 Jl 1 '51 140w

ADKINS, BERNARD, and GIBBS, WILLIAM JOHN. Polyphase commutator machines. 230p il $4 Cambridge

621.3164 Electric motors, Alternating currents [51-7671]

Contents: Speed and power-factor regulation of induction motors; The windings of a polyphase commutator machine; Types of polyphase commutator machine; Commutation in the A.C. commutator machine; Some special problems; Polyphase shunt and series motors; The commutator frequency changer and the Schrage motor; The Scherbius machine; Phase advancers and compensated motors; Applications of polyphase commutator machines. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1230 Ag '51 150w

"The book is of potential interest to practically all engineers concerned with the selection or design of rotating alternating-current machines."
+ N Y New Techs Bks 36:54 Jl '51

ADLAM, THOMAS NAPIER. Snow melting. 224p il $4.50 Industrial press

628.46 Snow—Removal 50-10150

"Few homeowners, when faced with a long stretch of sidewalk or driveway to be shoveled free of snow, have not indulged in a daydream in which the task was accomplished by simply throwing a switch. This book deals with practical systems which actually remove snow from driveways, sidewalks and similar surfaces by melting it." Library J

Bookmark 10:168 Ap '51

"This is a comprehensive progress report on a fast-growing use of embedded-pipe heating for pavements. The author has put in one brief text a thorough treatment of what has developed so far in the field."
+ Eng N 146:43 Ap 5 '51 160w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:330 F 15 '51 150w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:14 Ja '51

ADRIAN, MARY, pseud. See Venn, M. E.

AESCHYLUS. Agamemnon; tr. by Louis MacNeice. 71p $2.50 Harcourt

882.1

A translation of the Agamemnon made fifteen years ago for a group of English players.

"By deft handling of a difficult literary form MacNeice has accomplished what he determined—to make the Agamemnon 'emerge as a play and not as a museum piece.'" John Astley-Cock
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 O 14 '51 140w

"Recommended for large theatre and drama collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:2116 D 15 '51 20w

"Possesses a kind of theological rather than dramatic tension. The dialogue suggests oratorio. But the translator has worked skillfully to preserve the long speeches and choruses from liturgical stiffness." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 2 '51 100w

AGARD, WALTER RAYMOND. Classical myths in sculpture. 203p 97il $5 Univ. of Wis. press

731.87 Art and mythology. Sculpture 51-62409

A study of the relation of sculpture to the classical myths of Greek antiquity. Partial contents: Classical gods and heroes; Early Christian and medieval sculpture; The renaissance; Baroque sculpture; French classicism; English and American classicism. Bibliography. Glossary. Indexes.

Booklist 48:26 S 15 '51

"The University of Wisconsin has long rendered a significant service to the state and nation thru the lectures and teaching of Walter Agard. By his profound understanding of the nature of art, particularly sculpture, he has sharpened the interest and appreciation of many a listener in the world of beauty." Clarence Seidenspinner
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ag 5 '51 280w

"It is difficult to write about sculpture and Mr. Agard does not entirely avoid embarrassing phrases such as 'the posture is lacking in dynamic development.' But most of his comments are sensible and useful. . . The book is excellently illustrated with 97 pictures."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p568 S 7 '51 350w

AGATE, JAMES EVERSHED. Later ego; consisting of Ego 8 and Ego 9; introd. and notes by Jacques Barzun. 625p $4 Crown

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10467

The author was an English drama critic, film critic, book reviewer, and radio commentator. During the last fifteen years of his life he kept a diary-journal, which was issued in parts as Ego 6, Ego 7, etc. This volume is composed of Ego 8 and Ego 9. It is a combination of letters to and from the author, clippings, and comments by the author, showing him in the English theatrical life. The author died in 1947. Glossary. Index.

"In Agate's journal, started in his mid-fifties, you will find no such intimate revelations as in Boswell's and none of the soul-searching of Gide's. Its great strength is its unfailing liveliness and wit—it is a storehouse of varied pleasures for the educated reader." C. J. Rolo
+ Atlantic 187:84 Je '51 700w

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 8 '51 500w

"Valuable for a theatre collection though as opinionated as George Jean Nathan, it is properly annotated and indexed." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:866 My 15 '51 60w

"After all allowances have been made, 'The Later Ego' is still a very readable, very entertaining mélange." J. W. Krutch
+ — Nation 173:35 Jl 14 '51 650w

"The mortality rate of drama criticism being what it is, it seems certain already that Agate will live as diarist-historian. And any reader of 'The Later Ego,' I should think, must hope the earlier volumes will make the Atlantic crossing soon." J. K. Hutchens
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ap 29 '51 450w

New Yorker 27:118 My 26 '51 240w

"I suppose a diarist is all the more fun to read if he is something of a—well, if he isn't exactly the nicest man in the world. James Agate wasn't an especially nice man. He was malicious and unfair and narrow-minded and a little spiteful. And certainly he was an intellectual show-off. But it happens that these are just the qualities which make his journals such fascinating and provocative reading. No one ever said that Boswell and Pepys were the most admirable of human beings. And James Agate is decidedly worthy to be mentioned in the same paragraph with them. He is in their tradition and quite possibly their peer." Richard Watts
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 My 19 '51 950w

AGATE, J. E.—Continued

"'The Later Ego' is a book that can be read neither lightly nor quickly, but must be absorbed, and with incalculable profit to the reader." L. M.

+ Springf'd Republican p5D Je 17 '51 600w

"What keeps The Later Ego from being stuffy is not its ideas but the 'I' behind them. . . Animated, but rarely intimate, the diaries suffer most from his sturdy British conviction that a gentleman does not disclose his private life. 'Hamlet,' he notes, 'could accuse himself of such things that it were better his mother had not borne him. But he did not tell Ophelia what those things were. . . What is good enough for Hamlet is good enough for me.'"

+ Time 57:120 My 14 '51 650w

AGEE, JAMES. Morning watch. 120p $2.25 Houghton

51-1831

A study of adolescence. The central character is a twelve-year-boy, Richard, a pupil at a church school. Richard, with some of the other boys, takes part in the three-hour watch in the school chapel on Good Friday morning. The main part of the story is taken up with Richard's stream of consciousness as he observes his devotions. The latter half shows the reactions of the boys as they come out of the chapel.

Reviewed by Edward Barry

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Je 24 '51 210w

"Some exquisite writing and sensitive insight into the mind of a youngster."

+ Kirkus 19:10 Ja 1 '51 190w

"'The Morning Watch' doubtless seeks to accomplish too much, but it still accomplishes a great deal—more than any American story by a new writer in the field has accomplished for some years." F. W. Dupee

+ Nation 172:400 Ap 28 '51 950w

"In sinuous, pliant prose, capable of echoing the huge ringing tones of the Church as well as the brutal crispness of boys' speech, James Agee has succeeded in molding a figure of an appealing and authentic twelve-year-old, solemn, pitiable and funny, rushing toward and retreating from a dreaded and fascinating world." Kate Simon

+ New Repub 124:21 Je 4 '51 460w

Reviewed by Gouverneur Paulding

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ap 8 '51 700w

"Mr. Agee has a style that adjusts nicely to his intention. Fresh, hard, alive, it moves with the movements of the boy's own mind. At times there is a quiet effect of meditation, practically the effect of so-called 'spiritual writing.' Then some graceless, lurid, adolescent shock comes through. . . Yet beyond the shock stands reverence. 'My soul fleeth unto the Lord before the morning watch.'" Richard Sullivan

+ N Y Times p4 Ap 8 '51 550w

"Mr. Agee takes full advantage of the power, evocativeness, and unbridled richness of liturgical language to achieve an effect of extreme tension, loneliness, and longing."

+ New Yorker 27:118 Ap 7 '51 180w

"Here is a successful and satisfying tour de force. . . The study of the boy is neither romantic, sentimental, nor cynical. It is realistic in the best sense, an exposition of credible thoughts and feelings in an adolescent under the influence of intense devotion through which constantly cut a boy's normal preoccupations and interests." Oliver La Farge

+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 Mr 31 '51 500w

"For the most part Mr. Agee succeeds in the liturgical and poetically spiritual rhapsody he has written, but the clear abstract quality of his legend is marred by ill-advised descents to the uncouth language of child hoodlums. It is a jarring note which completely shatters the spell the author undoubtedly wished to create." L. S. Munn

+ — Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 230w

"Handled with great sympathy and written as few living U.S. writers can write."

+ Time 57:119 Ap 23 '51 550w

"This difficult, if not downright forbidding, material Mr. Agee presents with remarkable power, assurance, and persuasiveness. He writes with distinction and with not a little of classic finality."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:144 Je '51 270w

AGLE, MRS NAN (HAYDEN), and WILSON, MRS ELLEN JANET (CAMERON). Three boys and a lighthouse; il. by Marian Honigman. 100p $2 Scribner

51-10329

The three boys were triplets and their father was a lighthouse keeper. This story for ages five to eight describes the summer the boys were considered old enough to join their father at the lighthouse.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 27 '51 100w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:246 Jl '51 100w

"A jolly, symmetrical tale for young readers, with just enough information about lighthouses to set the reader dreaming of sea air, boating and fishing, fog horns in the night, and of course, lighthouses."

+ Kirkus 19:152 Mr 15 '51 120w

"The subject matter (boats, a storm, a wounded eagle) will appeal to children of 7-9, who will find the large print and constant repetition easy reading. Recommended." E. E. Beatty

+ Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 70w

"With its big type, many excellent pictures, it is quite a find for boys beginning to read. Add to the fun the fact that the three heroes are triplets. . . The style is remarkably good. Its easy, short sentences have the humor, drama and ring of small boy talk as few can capture it." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 13 '51 60w

"Small boys will enjoy this story for its blend of fact and action, and the rhythmic simplicity of style makes it a good choice for the beginning reader." Eugenia Garson

+ N Y Times p30 Ap 29 '51 140w

+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 Je 9 '51 90w

AGNEW, HUGH ELMER, and HOUGHTON, DALE. Marketing policies. 2d ed 590p $6.50 McGraw

658.8 Marketing 51-896

"A text for advanced courses in marketing campaigns, directed at the executive level of decision on policies rather than at the detailing of processes and techniques." (Library J) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1941.

Booklist 47:295 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 76:600 Ap 1 '51 70w

AGRICOLA, GEORG. De re metallica; tr. from the 1st Latin ed. of 1556; with biographical introduction, annotations and appendices upon the development of mining methods, metallurgical processes, geology, mineralogy and mining law from the earliest times to the 16th century, by Herbert Clark Hoover and Lou Henry Hoover. 672p il $10 Dover

622 Mining engineering. Metallurgy

A51-8994

"Almost 400 years ago . . . a scholar of Saxony named Georgius Agricola . . . published a treatise on mining and metallurgy, 'De Re Metallica.' It was the first book in its field to be based on actual personal experience and first-hand research. . . It was, moreover, the first to provide a reliable history of mining from the days of antiquity to the middle Sixteenth Century... In 1912, Herbert Clark Hoover and the late Lou Henry Hoover translated Agricola's classic, and the edition which was not large was immediately snapped up by both mining men and book collectors... The whole of the 1912 edition is here, including 280 of the original Sixteenth Century drawings. The appendix material by Translator Hoover, the footnotes, and the biographical and historical introduction are reprinted, as well as Agricola's preface and four facsimiles of pages from the original Latin text." San Francisco Chronicle

"The publisher has performed a real service in reproducing it in so excellent a facsimile reprint." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:115 Ja 15 '51 80w
N Y New Tech Bks 35:91 N '50

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p10 Ja 13 '51 370w

AHRENS, LOUIS HERMAN. Spectrochemical analysis; arranged particularly for the D.C. arc analysis of minerals, rocks and soils and applicable also to ceramic materials, refractories, slag, biological ash and powders in general; foreword by George R. Harrison. 269p il $10 Addison-Wesley

544.6 Spectrum analysis 51-9239

"A thorough presentation of spectrochemical analysis as applied to D.C. arc analysis of minerals, rocks, and similar materials such as slag, biological ash, and others. General aspects of the subject such as the origin of spectra, characteristics of the D.C. arc, general techniques of qualitative and quantitative analysis, and the construction of a working curve are considered in the first part. In the second part, specific methods applicable to individual elements are described." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 130w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:20 Mr '51

AISTROP, JACK BENTLEY. Every child's book of animal wonders. 172p il $2.50 Roy pubs.

591.5 Animals, Habits and behavior of—Juvenile literature. Zoology—Juvenile literature [51-1255]

A series of short articles, written for young people, on animals most of which are to be found in the London Zoo. Materials are grouped in chapters with such headings as: Creatures which help man; Creatures which hinder man; Creatures which fight; Architects of the animal world; Some of nature's giants; One or two midgets; Clowns and 'show-offs'; Creatures facing extinction.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51
Christian Science Monitor p6 Ap 28 '51 120w

"Throughout the author conveys his devotion to the subject and a comradely pleasure in sharing his enthusiasm. Illustrated with excellent photographs, this is less of a textbook than an informative and joyous trip to the zoo."
+ Kirkus 19:185 Ap 1 '51 130w

"Any child interested in natural history should fall for Every Child's Book of Animal Wonders, which will show it how to get the maximum pleasure from a visit to the Zoo." Antonia White
+ New Statesman & Nation 40:685 D 30 '50 200w

"Do you haunt zoos? Do you keep strange animal pets? Are you ready to watch zoo creatures closely, and keep a nature notebook about them? Here's a grand writer for you supposing you are about ten to fourteen." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 My 13 '51 130w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
N Y Times p16 Jl 22 '51 120w

"It is a book to read for interest and information rather than a reference book."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 18 '51 60w

AKHILANANDA, SWAMI. Mental health and Hindu psychology. 231p $3.50 Harper

131.3 Philosophy, Hindu. Mental hygiene 51-13197

"The leader of the Ramakrishna Vedanta Society of Boston has lived in the United States for twenty-five years. His knowledge of American ways led to the writing of an earlier work Hindu Psychology, Its Meaning for the West [Book Review Digest 1946]. The present book covers some of the same ground, but is more specially directed towards the contribution the author believes Hindu (including Buddhistic and Jaina) psychology can make to American psychiatry and mental hygiene." Library J

Booklist 48:78 N 1 '51

"Quite limited value." A. D. Osborn
Library J 76:1557 O 1 '51 120w
Wis Lib Bul 47:247 N '51

ALBECK, ULLA. We two; our first seven years; tr. from the Danish by Barrows Mussey. 121p il $2 Coward-McCann

649.1 Parent and child. Infants 50-11612

A mother's picture of her life with her first child, a daughter, from the time before she was born, until she was seven.

"It's a wisp of a book, whether read swiftly or lingeringly, and to this reviewer, because she could read it again and again, it seems a classic." Marcia Winn
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Mr 4 '51 400w
Kirkus 18:672 N 1 '50 90w

"Sensitively and tenderly written, it is a portrait appealing through suggestion rather than detail. . . Books, such as this, too often are of limited appeal." E. P. Nichols
Library J 75:2072 D 1 '50 60w

"There are great lacks in this young life story. For one thing the rest of the child's world is excluded from the mother and daughter relationship—and perhaps this accounts for a great deal of its unreality. Again one feels these glancing passages are selected and written for their charm with all the headaches and irritations and minor upsets of life deliberately weeded out. The result is as if a pretty mother and daughter tripped a sort of minuet existence through a world completely removed from reality."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ja 28 '51 270w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Mr 2 '51 600w

ALBERT, ADRIEN. Acridines; their preparation, physical, chemical, and biological properties and uses. 381p $14 Longmans

661 Acridine 51-5928

"A monograph in which the present knowledge of the acridines is compactly presented. References to the pertinent literature are embodied in the text and are cited again in the reference and author index. The work is of interest to professional workers in biochemistry, organic chemistry, pharmaceutical manufacturing, etc." N Y New Tech Bks

"The reviewer was impressed particularly by the thoroughness with which the whole subject is discussed. This volume is highly recommended not only to those who have a special interest in pyridine derivatives but also to all those who enjoy examining an authoritative and stimulating elucidation of the place of one ring system in the surrounding areas of chemical, physical and biological science. The printing and binding are good but the quality of the paper leaves something to be desired." E. D. Amstutz
+ Am Chem Soc J 73:5516 N '51 370w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:49 Jl '51

ALBRAND, MARTHA, pseud. See Loewengard, H. H. F.

ALDEN, JOHN RICHARD. General Charles Lee, traitor or patriot? 369p il maps $4.75 La. State univ. press

B or 92 Lee, Charles. U.S.—History—Revolution 51-3315

A biography of General Charles Lee, an Englishman, who became an officer in the American army, and an American leader during the Revolution. The author is professor of history at the University of Nebraska. Index.

"Thoroly delightful study of this revolutionary character." R. J. Graf
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 20 '51 380w

Reviewed by Paul Hutchinson
Christian Century 68:1410 D 5 '51 80w
Nation 173:58 Jl 21 '51 70w

"This first careful and thoughtful biography of Lee makes, of course, its finest points for the student; yet the general reader will be sorry if he passes it by. Doctor Alden is very, very good. He balances his material; he writes easily and vividly; and he is as reasonable as Charles Lee never was." E. H. Smith
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Je 10 '51 1000w

"The book's most important contributions are its balanced demonstration of what actually happened at Monmouth and the fact that Lee was convicted and disgraced by the court-martial upon the flimsiest of evidence. This is deplorable without question. Yet Mr. Alden's easy cynicism in assessing the motives of the young officers of the army and denial of any patriotism to them is ungenerous and unfair. All honor was not on Lee's side. . . This scholarly biography tells us that Lee was a dramatic character, but unfortunately never makes us feel it." Carl Bridenbaugh
+ — N Y Times p32 Je 10 '51 750w

"Perhaps this is too solid a book for the average reader. Actually it is directed at those—there are a good many—who are specifically interested in the American Revolution and welcome any contribution in this field. Such readers will find Mr. Alden's book straight up their alley. And even the reader who does not want to get into the story in quite so much detail will perhaps be pleased to know that a significant figure in the Revolution, one who had a great deal to do in the beginning with bringing it to pass, has finally got his just due at the hands of a scholar who has taken pains to dig into the truth." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Je 4 '51 650w

"Whatever Lee's deficiencies in character and personality, Mr. Alden's fine study should restore him to his true position as one of the architects of our early successes in the Revolution." W. W. Wallace
+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 Je 16 '51 800w

"Though overly clotted with petty details, Biographer Alden's book goes far toward clearing Lee's name of the suspicion of treachery, plants him securely—if with dubious distinction—among 'the fathers of the American Republic.' "
Time 57:122 My 21 '51 800w

ALDERFER, EVAN BENNER, and MICHL, HERMAN EDWARD. Economics of American industry. 2d ed 716p il $5.50 McGraw

338.4 U.S.—Industries and resources 50-11314

"A college textbook for an introductory survey course on the leading manufacturing industries of the U.S., revised to cover the transformation in industry between 1940 and 1950." (Booklist) Bibliographies. For first edition see Book Review Digest 1943.

Booklist 47:189 Ja 15 '51

"Well-selected bibliography on each industry." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 76:182 F 1 '51 110w

ALDIS, MRS DOROTHY (KEELEY). Lucky year; il. by John Dukes McKee. 175p $2.50 Rand McNally 51-13748

Based on actual events, this story for boys and girls, describes the efforts of the people of Madison, Indiana, to earn enough money so Jenny Lind could sing in their town. Ages 8 to 12.

Booklist 48:161 Ja 1 '52
+ Cath World 174:321 Ja '52 20w

"Based on what once really happened, Mrs. Aldis has told for 8 to 12 year olds a lively story which delightfully captures the flavor of a small Indiana town, its people and doings of a century ago. Mr. McKee's woodcut type illustrations are a perfect complement." P. G.
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 11 '51 170w

"A delightful period story, based on actual fact."
+ Kirkus 19:617 O 15 '51 180w

"Highly recommended for 10-12-year-olds." Juanita Walker
+ Library J 76:2011 D 1 '51 70w

"Boys will be thrilled by the steamboat race, a money-making project devised by the school teacher; girls will enjoy the decorating of the Pork House until it becomes beautiful for the great event. And Jenny Lind lives up to all their hopes. The illustrations are in a clever, unusual style, adapting that of the nineteenth-century woodcuts." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p34 N 11 '51 220w

"Dorothy Aldis gives the story such life and immediacy that young readers will share the town's excitement at the idea of booking the singer, Jenny Lind, for a concert." S. C. Gross
+ N Y Times p52 N 25 '51 130w

ALDIS, HARRY GIDNEY. The printed book; the original manual; rev. and brought up to date by John Carter and Brooke Crutchley. 3d ed 142p il $1.75 Cambridge

655 Books. Printing—History

"Slight changes throughout the text; the chapter on the early history of printing in Europe has been recast to bring it up to date." (Booklist) For second edition see Book Review Digest 1941.

Booklist 48:33 S 15 '51

"In their revisions Mr. Carter and Mr. Crutchley have done the wise and bold thing: they have unceremoniously bundled out several of Aldis's views on type designs, substituting their own more erudite, tolerant and civilized views. Comparison with the original text is apt to provoke an occasional smile. Aldis was not always quite as urbane as his two editors sometimes would have him appear. They have managed, with considerable skill, to make him read like one of that small school of latter day typographical historians trained in manner by Mr. Updike and Mr. Morison. As a result the book can be recommended to all amateur book-collectors and students. . . In a future edition, however, greater attention must be given to the choice and captioning of illustrations."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p386 Je 22 '51 300w

ALDOR, FRANCIS, ed. Good time guide to London; art ed: I. Hofbauer. 319p col il maps $4 Houghton

914.21 London—Description 51-3640

A guidebook to London which includes material on night clubs, shopping, good places to eat, as well as what to see. Many illustrations in color in the text; informal, easy style. No index.

Reviewed by C. J. Rolo
Atlantic 188:84 Jl '51 140w
Booklist 47:379 Jl 1 '51

" 'The Good Time Guide' is rich in pictures and sketches, and contains some maps and hotel and theater lists which would be helpful to nonthirsty London visitors." A. C. Ames

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 24 '51 150w

Reviewed by Margaret Williamson
Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 28 '51 280w

"Recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:967 Je 1 '51 30w

"'The Good Time Guide to London' gives the reader a good time, indeed, in the reading, and promises an even better time when he gets there." P. C. Friedlander
+ N Y Times p19 Je 17 '51 120w

Sat R of Lit 34:37 My 26 '51 200w

Wis Lib Bul 47:186 Jl '51

ALDRICH, PUTNAM. Ornamentation in J. S. Bach's organ works. 61p $2 Coleman-Ross

786.8 Organ music. Bach, Johann Sebastian

"Ornamentation [is] the musical embellishments that in Bach, as in Rameau, Couperin, and other sixteenth- and seventeenth-century composers, are represented not by the notes but by a form of shorthand." (Sat R of Lit) In this study of ornamentation in Bach's organ works the author lays down principles based on painstaking consideration of contemporary sources.

"A modest, invaluable guide which will be welcomed especially by the many church and concert organists who perform the works of Bach. . . Well-written, technical in nature." C. K. Miller
+ Library J 76:328 F 15 '51 80w

"The reception Putnam Aldrich's modest volume has been given in the short time since its publication indicates that as an authority it may well supersede Dannreuther—no mean achievement. . . Many a practical musician will welcome these sixty pages as a guide to playing Bach's music, whether composed for the organ or any other instrument. Even a non-performer would find his enjoyment of Bach's music enhanced by a familiarity with Aldrich's ideas." David Hebb
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 F 24 '51 320w

ALDRIDGE, JAMES. The hunter. 277p $3 Little

51-10713

The story of Roy McNair, hunter and trapper, from the Canadian "bush" north of Lake Huron. Roy who is a mixture of humor, independence, and firmness, returns after each trip to his brother's home and his, and to the woman he loves, the wife of his former friend, who had disappeared. The loss of his home, the lack of game along his traplines, and the ever eager game warden constitute his hazards. But the woman remains faithful, and eventually Roy has his big chance—to hunt in the Far North.

Booklist 47:266; 329 Ap 1 '51; My 15 '51

"It must have been a relief for James Aldridge to turn from the complexities of international politics to the simple life of the Canadian woods—unless this novel was written earlier than its predecessors. It bears no resemblance to them. His other fiction presents against complex social backgrounds the clash of ideology and temperament, of mind and character, in the midst of international tensions. 'The Hunter' is not only simple; it is thin and hackneyed, and devoid of any overtone." Walter Havighurst
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 6 '51 470w

"Certainly not 'literature', but first rate reading."
+ Kirkus 19:164 Mr 15 '51 240w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:860 My 15 '51 80w

"'The Hunter' will hold few readers because of its story; what will attract its own special audience is the book's admirable depiction of the professional trapper's surroundings and special aptitudes and way of life. All this Mr. Aldridge does extremely well, and with deep personal affection, evidently based on knowledge and experience." H. L. Binsse
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Je 10 '51 450w

"Mr. Aldridge tells the story in the same straightforward and authoritative fashion which characterized his recent novel 'The Diplomat' —writing now out of what seems to be close familiarity with the country and an adequate knowledge of the art and science of trapping. His analyses of Roy McNair's states of mind are not always subtle, but he does give the character the semblance of life, and Roy's flight from the game preserve has plenty of drama." Granville Hicks
+ N Y Times p4 My 13 '51 440w

Reviewed by M. L. Mueller
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 160w

"Mr. Aldridge writes in flat, direct prose that just when you decide to be bored straightens you up with an incisive and revealing word or phrase. His narrative style is admirably simple; some might say his restraint is excessive. His dialogue at times is a bit surprising in the mouths of fur hunters. . . Here is a sincere and occasionally penetrating study of man against the eternal odds—and a readable yarn about the edge of the Big North." Walter O'Meara
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 My 12 '51 550w

"The natural beauties of the scenery are ably described, and many readers who revelled, at an earlier period, in the less sophisticated work of James Oliver Curwood are likely to enjoy the book unreservedly."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p741 N 24 '50 130w

Wis Lib Bul 47:165 Je '51

ALDRIDGE, JOHN WATSON. After the lost generation; a critical study of the writers of two wars. 263p $3.75 McGraw

813.09 American fiction—History and criticism 51-10588

"John W. Aldridge, a young professor at the University of Vermont, has written the first serious and challenging book about the new novelists who have appeared since World War II. . . The writers discussed are Norman Mailer, John Horne Burns, Irwin Shaw, Alfred Hayes, Merle Miller, Gore Vidal, Paul Bowles, Truman Capote and others whose first novels were published during the last five or six years. Aldridge sets them against the new novelists after World War I—especially Hemingway, Fitzgerald and Dos Passos—and he concludes that the members of the older group were doing much more important work at the same age." (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R) Index.

"Six of his young writers are studied on the basis of a single novel, and several of the books which he examines just don't seem worth a serious critical analysis. But within the limitations of his material, Aldridge has something substantial to say. His After the Lost Generation is a clearly written, carefully thought out, and generally interesting commentary on the contrasting outlook of two generations of Americans." C. J. Rolo
+ — Atlantic 187:81 Je '51 750w

Booklist 47:342 Je 1 '51

Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 30w

"There are, here and there, gaps in his argument; there are repetitions of points already established; there is a sometimes rather spotty progression; there may be a few questionable final assessments. But also there is a modest yet insistent good sense in this book, and the kind of vitality which rises out of sensitive, honest, forthright, and honorable concern." Richard Sullivan
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Je 3 '51 400w

Reviewed by O. D. Hormel
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 21 '51 700w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan
New Repub 125:19 Ag 27 '51 550w

"If Aldridge had omitted Shaw and Hayes, he would have had room for more novelists from the younger group. Saul Bellow, Jean

ALDRIDGE, J. W.—Continued
Stafford, Shirley Jackson, William Goyen, Brendan Gill—all these new writers are worth discussing at length, and if Aldridge had included some of them he would have shown more clearly that the new generation is producing distinguished fiction of many different types. Still, the faults of his book are easy to forgive when we reflect that he is doing pioneer work. . . Moreover, he is offering an indispensable first draft of the critical verdict that, after many revisions, will be reached in twenty or thirty years." Malcolm Cowley
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 My 27 '51 1950w

"Aldridge, a young teacher at the University of Vermont, is the first to make this assessment on a considerable scale. His study is important, even though it is somewhat simply conceived. . . This is a gloomy report, but based on evidence, and worth having." R. G. Davis
+ N Y Times p1 My 27 '51 1500w
New Yorker 27:107 Je 2 '51 200w

"Here is a really important book of criticism that is refreshingly different from the turgid productions of some of the new generation of critics. The importance of John W. Aldridge's work is that it raises some of the most urgent problems that now confront the American writer—problems that cannot be shirked if American literature is to go on to something better than the productions of the last ten years." William Barrett
+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 Je 9 '51 850w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:235 S '51 290w

ALEXANDER, DAVID. Most men don't kill. 241p $2.50 Random house 51-10103

Detective story.

"Flabbergasting characters in sparkling blend of tingling suspense and delirious burlesque." Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 10 '51 60w
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 20 '51 170w

"Alexander's vividness of observation and lively unconventionality may make him, once he's learned a little discipline, a welcome new writer in the field." A. B.
N Y Times p19 Je 3 '51 140w

"The characters in this yarn about New York private detectives may not be credible to the average reader, but they're certainly different." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p24 My 13 '51 90w
Sat R of Lit 34:32 Je 30 '51 60w

ALEXANDER, DAVID. Murder in black and white. 216p $2.50 Random house 51-13436

Detective story.

"Tremendous clowning with murder!" Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 O 28 '51 120w
Kirkus 19:501 S 1 '51 70w

"This is a vulgarian exercise aping the hard-boiled vein and thick with wheezes, chuckles and leers. . . The mortuary humor appears calculated to amuse any ghouls looking for a treat but readers are likely to find it laborious and very, very eclectic." James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 O 28 '51 80w

"Sentence by sentence, Alexander is readable. He may well write a good book if he can once get over his fixed delusion that eccentricity is a substitute for characterization and confused incredibility for mystification." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p44 O 21 '51 70w

"Mr. Alexander has provided the customary amount of violent activity—three homicides—but what entertainment there is stems mostly from his invention of some of the strangest people who ever got in a book."
New Yorker 27:143 O 27 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p28 N 4 '51 80w

"Boy is good." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 N 3 '51 80w

ALEXANDER, EDWIN P. American locomotives; a pictorial record of steam power, 1900-1950. 256p 125il $6.75 Norton
621.13 Locomotives—Pictorial works. Railroads—U.S. 50-11928

A survey of the steam locomotive in the first half of the twentieth century in the United States. It is composed of photographs and diagrams of the engines, and a few paragraphs of description for each. The book is a continuation of the locomotive story begun with Iron Horses (Book Review Digest 1941).

Booklist 47:200 F 1 '51

"This is a beautiful book about railroad locomotives. . . It is with regret that one turns the final page and realizes that the steam engine, like this book, may one day become a collector's item." H. S. Hayward
+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 22 '50 490w

"Mr. Alexander's current book is largely one of reference and sheer picture-pleasure. . . It is a good book and will become a classic of reference." Lucius Beebe
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 F 25 '51 350w

Reviewed by W. A. Howe
N Y Times p15 D 31 '50 140w

Reviewed by Ruth Teiser
San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 18 '51 350w

ALEXANDER, ROBERT JACKSON. Perón era. 239p $3.50 Columbia univ. press
982 Argentina—Politics and government. Perón, Juan Domingo 51-13537

"In gathering data for a history of the Argentine labor movement, the author met many political figures through whom Perón came to power. This acquaintance is reflected in the authoritative treatment of an intricate political background. While stressing Perón's manipulation of organized labor, the book treats fully of Argentina's Army, educational system, press, economic programs and foreign relations." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 48:100 N 15 '51

Reviewed by Gilbert Twiss
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 D 16 '51 410w

"There is no doubt that Professor Alexander has come up with a significant, worthwhile, and well-documented analysis of contemporary affairs in Argentina, a country that is determined in its attempt to play a larger role on the world scene."
+ Christian Science Monitor p9 N 16 '51 500w
Kirkus 19:383 Jl 15 '51 110w

"This is worth-while material for the international affairs shelf." Scott Adams
+ Library J 76:1557 O 1 '51 110w
Nation 173:573 D 29 '51 40w

Reviewed by Y. F. Rennie
New Repub 125:20 D 24 '51 750w

"Well organized, well written and well informed. . . It is a book which every American who has any interest in foreign affairs would do well to read and ponder." B. D. Wolfe
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 4 '51 1550w

"Readers will find here a thorough survey of the political, economic, military and diplomatic aspects of peronismo. Yet, unless they knew it beforehand, they are not likely to learn anything about the kind of human being either Perón or his wife is . . . What Alexander says of Señora Eva Perón is true enough, and important enough, but he misses completely the incredible humorlessness, the startling energy, the corroding rancor and the absolute inability to forget or forgive, which characterize the First Lady of Argentina." Milton Bracker

+ — N Y Times p6 N 4 '51 950w

ALFORD, LEON PRATT. Principles of industrial management; rev. and rewritten by H. Russell Beatty. 779p il $6 Ronald
658.01 Industrial management 51-11117

"The present edition of this standard text is designed to show how the basic principles and practices of management as originally presented by Alford have been and are being adapted to meet the changes in industry which have occurred since World War II. A chapter on industrial leadership, a chapter on marketing, a completely revised section on personnel administration, and additional material on time and motion study and quality control have been included in this edition." (Management R) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1940.

Booklist 48:33 S 15 '51

"Though primarily a college text, this book can serve as a useful guide to the operating executive seeking a comprehensive treatment of management principles and methods."
+ Management R 40:380 Je '51 100w

ALGER, PHILIP LANGDON. Nature of polyphase induction machines. 397p $7.50 Wiley
621.31364 Electric motors, Induction 51-5318

"The author is associated with the General Electric Company, and the book is addressed mainly to graduate engineers just beginning to work in industry. It is concerned with the theory, property, and design of motors and other rotating electrical machines that use polyphase alternating current and which have rotors in which the currents are induced." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1230 Ag '51 60w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:68 S '51

ALGREN, NELSON. Chicago: city on the make. 92p $1.50 Doubleday
917.7311 Chicago—Description 51-13506

"Nelson Algren's Chicago is the stormy, husky, brawling city of the broad shoulders that found its first true characterization in Carl Sandburg's famous poem. . . This short, crisp, fighting creed is both a social document and a love poem, a script in which a lover explains his city's recurring ruthlessness and latent power; in which an artist recognizes that these are portents not of death, but of life." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:99 N 15 '51

"Gift books characteristically are pleasant, meant to please the recipient and to be something one likes to have around. This one is thoroly unpleasant, unlikely to please any who are not masochists, and is definitely an ugly, highly scented object." A. C. Ames
— Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 21 '51 220w
Kirkus 19:427 Ag 1 '51 140w
Nation 173:49 N 10 '51 40w

"Nelson Algren has written a wonderful hymn to Chicago's driving energy, but the true measure of the city's civilizing power is the discipline that its people impose upon themselves." Harry Hansen
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 O 21 '51 420w

"This Algren is an angry man, a Chicagoman, punching all the time straight from the shoulder; and maybe the chapter shouldn't be taken away from him if once in a while he sneaks in a low one. That's the kind of writer he is. Something like Chicago itself, a 'Jekyll-and-Hyde sort of burg,' a Debs-and-McCormick town, a Capone-and-Hutchins town. Muscles and brains. Hustlers and poets. The white-haired poet himself never used the American language more effectively to conduct the tension Algren passes on to us from his city on the make, the city he loves like a beat-up old harridan whose youthful charms only he remembers—Hustler-town, U. S. A." Budd Schulberg
N Y Times p3 O 21 '51 750w
New Yorker 27:175 D 8 '51 140w

"The qualities of Nelson Algren's prose essay on Chicago are those of fine poetry—vivid images, richness of language, economy of form, and most importantly, poetic vision. It is necessary to go back to the 'Chicago Poems' of Carl Sandburg, to whom this volume is dedicated, to find a book about the city comparable to Algren's." Emmett Dedmon
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 D 8 '51 850w

ALISON, DAVID, pseud. Searchlight; an exposé of New York city schools; with a foreword by John J. De Boer. 302p il $2; pa $1 Teachers center press, 206 W. 15th st, N.Y. 11
379.747 New York (city)—Public schools 51-9334

"This book, with an introduction by John J. De Boer, professor of education, University of Illinois, tells the story of what is happening to the education of New York's children. Written by a New York teacher under a pseudonym." School & Society

"Pertinent facts other than those contained in the book are not immediately available in this office, so no opinion is expressed, but charges of this kind cannot be brushed off. Here they are. It is somebody's next move." W. E. G.
Christian Century 68:497 Ap 18 '51 60w
Reviewed by Albert Deutsch
New Repub 124:20 Je 4 '51 330w
School & Society 74:237 O 13 '51 40w
Reviewed by W. W. Brickman
School & Society 74:265 O 27 '51 270w

ALLCOCK, HAROLD JOHN, and JONES, JOHN REGINALD. Nomogram; the theory and practical construction of computation charts; rev. by J. G. L. Michel. 4th ed 238p $3.75 Pitman
510.83 Nomography 50-11993

"One of the standard books on the theory and construction of nomograms—which are charts constructed so that they can be used to give quick answers to involved mathematical problems. Such charts are useful both to scientists and engineers whose work requires the frequent repetition of similar computations. The main change in the present edition as compared to the third edition, published in 1941, is the addition of a chapter titled 'Connection Between Alignment and Intersection Nomograms.'" Library J

"The book is a suitable one for adding to collections on applied mathematics." R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:330 F 15 '51 90w
N Y New Tech Bks 35:90 N '50

ALLEE, WARDER CLYDE. Cooperation among animals with human implications. 233p pl $3.50 Schuman
591.55 Animals, Habits and behavior of 51-10185

"A revised and amplified edition of the Social life of animals." (Subtitle) [Book Review Digest 1938]. "Prof. Allee contributes to a new and rising scientific trend of interpreting animal behavior in terms of co-operation (not by previous conflict-competition misinterpretation); he reveals tremendous significance for modern human relations and future history." (Library J)

Reviewed by D. G. Haring
Am Soc R 16:588 Ag '51 190w

"Timely, enjoyable reading in sociological adventures." J. M. Scherr
+ Library J 76:594 Ap 1 '51 90w

ALLEE, W. C.—Continued

"Professor Allee is excellent when he summarizes the researches—his own and those of others—which indicate the influence of the group factor upon the vital processes of animals. When he permits himself to extrapolate from the nip order in fishes, the pecking order in hens, and the fighting order in lizards to the class structure of human societies, however, and even further to the nature of warfare and of international organization, he is going far beyond his data—as he himself, is candid enough to recognize. His 'human implications' are not devoid of interest, but neither, unfortunately, are they very helpful to the human sociologist." Robert Bierstedt

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:48 N 3 '51 300w

School & Society 73:237 Ap 14 '51 20w

ALLEN, ALLYN. Lone Star tomboy; pictures by Jane Castle. 235p $2.50 Watts, F.

51-10237

Francie Lou was born on a Texas ranch in the early 1900's. When she was eleven her mother decided it was time for her tomboy daughter to learn to be a lady. This story for ages eight to twelve tells what happened when Francie Lou went to San Antonio to learn ladylike manners.

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 26 '51 140w

Kirkus 19:184 Ap 1 '51 150w

"Recommended." F. M. Hensey

+ Library J 76:1879 My 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 29 '51 60w

"Inevitably this book will be confused with Lois Lenski's fine 'Texas Tomboy.' Each is good, and the child who likes one will like both. Miss Lenski's story has greater seriousness and regional flavor; Allyn Allen's 'Lone Star Tomboy' has lively incidents, a natural little girl, and wide appeal." S. C. Gross

+ N Y Times p12 Jl 29 '51 160w

Wis Lib Bul 47:192 Jl '51

ALLEN, ETHAN NATHAN. Baseball techniques illustrated; designed and il. by Tyler Micoleau. 96p $1.50 Barnes, A.S.

796.357 Baseball 51-409

First of a series for beginner or inexperienced coach. Describes techniques in brief text and includes drawings and diagrams. Glossary.

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by Robert Cromie

Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ap 8 '51 80w

Cleveland Open Shelf p7 Mr '51

"Exceptionally well written, with dozens of little sketches, clever, illuminative. . . Recommended." R. W. Henderson

+ Library J 76:413 Mr 1 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 My 6 '51 50w

"The excellent drawings are as important as the text."

+ N Y Times p26 Je 10 '51 60w

ALLEN, GEORGE HOWARD, ed. Individual initiative in business. 255p $3.50 Harvard univ. press

658.3124 Executive ability. Industrial management. Business 51-453

"Addresses and panel discussions at the Twentieth Annual Conference of the Harvard Business School Association. . . Eight addresses were followed by five panel discussions on various phases of the general subject, each session was opened by two or more speakers who, with the other panel members, answered questions from business men in attendance from 34 states and eight foreign countries, providing an interesting cross-section of varied reactions. Questions and answers are included in the report." Library J

Booklist 47:289 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Anthony Wirry

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 5 '51 380w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 76:45 Ja 1 '51 120w

Management R 40:103 F '51 60w

San Francisco Chronicle p20 F 18 '51 70w

"These talks contain at least flashes of light and fighting spirit. This is the first time that the subject of individual initiative in business has received such comprehensive treatment. . . This symposium may be a fumbling but nevertheless an encouraging attempt to dig out and to expose the foundations of individual initiative." H. C. Link

Sat R of Lit 34:50 Ja 20 '51 1150w

ALLEN, GWENFREAD. Hawaii's war years, 1941-1945 [prepared under the direction of the Hawaii war records committee of the University of Hawaii]. 418p il maps $5 Univ. of Hawaii

940.53969 World war, 1939-1945—Hawaiian Islands 50-10826

"Based on official records, this is a factual account of the impact of the war on Hawaii, and shows the part played by the people of these islands in the war in the Pacific. After two introductory chapters which include a description of the events of December 7th, the rest of the book presents a detailed account of daily life in this area. The question of military government is discussed clearly and fairly and adds to the value of the story. Profusely illustrated." Library J

Booklist 47:249 Mr 15 '51

Current Hist 21:355 D '51 100w

"This is a definitive study of Hawaii from every conceivable angle during the years between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day. . . But the almost complete lack of human interest material, of anecdote, of drama and color makes it a rather pedantic piece of research presentation."

Kirkus 18:629 O 1 '50 250w

Reviewed by Donald Wasson

Library J 75:2151 D 15 '50 80w

"Gwenfread Allen, an Island newspaper woman, skillfully presents the official history of a dramatic chapter of World War II. Her book, based on material collected over a six-year period by the Hawaii War Records Depository, is not an attempt to render judgments, but is primarily a straightforward statement of facts." R. D. Goldburgh

N Y Times p10 Mr 25 '51 180w

"'Hawaii's War Years' is thoroughly and carefully documented, well illustrated, and altogether constitutes a valuable addition to the growing list of our detailed war histories." C. W. W.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 D 3 '50 500w

"Without sacrifice of readability or loss of sustained narrative interest Miss Allen has compiled what amounts to an encyclopedia of Hawaii's participation in the Second World War."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 16 '51 180w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:48 Mr '51 260w

ALLEN, MERRITT PARMELEE. Silver wolf; decorations by Allan Thomas. 216p $2.50 Longmans

Carson, Christopher—Juvenile literature 51-9332

Historical adventure story of the pre-Civil war days of the Santa Fe trail, for ages twelve to fourteen. The youthful Kit Carson is one of the principal characters.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51

"This is a colorful, well-motivated, fast-moving story with a rich variety of characters which boys and girls will thoroughly enjoy." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:185 My '51 110w

"Although Mr. Allen has supplied us with several books of this type, he never descends to formula, and what may be lacking in probability of story is always compensated for by sound action and absorbing, scintillating Mudhen dialogue."
+ Kirkus 18:693 D 1 '50 190w

Reviewed by L. E. Cathon
+ Library J 76:606 Ap 1 '51 80w

"A new thriller for boys about the Santa Fe Trail is welcome, and this is a good one." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Mr 11 '51 230w

"While the line between fact and fiction is not always plain, few readers are likely to object. Mr. Allen shows a scrupulous regard for accurate historical and geographical detail, and he conveys unerringly the feeling of frontier days." Howard Boston
+ N Y Times p12 Jl 29 '51 130w

"There is a well-worked-out plot and plenty of action in this story of Captain Bent and his wagon freight-train that traveled the dangerous route between Missouri and Santa Fé in the early years of the nineteenth century. Its greatest value, however, to American boys and girls is its fine characterization of Kit Carson as a boy."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:41 Ap 21 '51 230w

"Like all the author's books for the young this has an excellent historical and geographical background."
+ School & Society 73:110 F 17 '51 20w
Wis Lib Bul 47:125 My '51

ALLEN, TERRY D., and ALLEN, DON B. (T. D. ALLEN, pseud). Doctor in buckskin. 277p $3 Harper

Whitman, Marcus—Fiction 51-12098

A historical novel based on the life of Marcus Whitman, pioneer medical missionary to the Willamette Valley of Oregon.

Booklist 47:373; 48:11 Jl 1 '51; S 1 '51
Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

"Recommended for those who prefer their history and biography somewhat cushioned for easy consumption."
Kirkus 19:304 Je 15 '51 170w

"A satisfactory story for those who enjoy reading of the days of the rolling wagon trains." Katherine Shorey
+ Library J 76:1218 Ag '51 80w

"'Doctor in Buckskin' might well have been just another run-of-the-mill historical novel considering the subject, but the Allens have brought to the Whitmans something of the zeal that the Whitmans brought to their pioneering. The result is a novel well worth their time and yours." V. P. Hass
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ag 26 '51 440w
San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 23 '51 320w

"The present work is labeled a novel, and its co-authors have permitted themselves considerable literary license. . . Their book follows a thoroughly discredited story, originated by one of Dr. Whitman's pious associates, the Rev. Henry Spaulding. . . 'Doctor in Buckskin' bears some dim resemblance to A. B. Guthrie's 'The Way West,' but it has none of the movement and power that novel has. A more apt comparison would be with one of Cooper's Leather-stocking tales." George Milburn
— Sat R of Lit 34:34 O 20 '51 430w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 230w
Wis Lib Bul 47:214 S '51

ALLEN, WALTER ERNEST. Square peg [Eng title: Dead man over all]. 271p $3 Morrow 51-9333

Four days in the lives of an English aircraft factory owner and the members of his family provides the background. During those days Eric Norby discovered the truth about his Victorian grandfather, who had been his idol, and the shock led to the ultimate tragedy.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

Reviewed by Henry Cavendish
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Mr 4 '51 450w

"By far the best of Mr Allen's novels and a good one by any measure." Norman Shrapnel
+ Manchester Guardian p4 N 17 '50 300w

"The nature of Mr. Allen's perception gives his novel an unusual advantage in depth. . . If the reader is left feeling that [the book] somehow lacks the final spurt which should sweep such a book to its climax, I think that this is a disadvantage which is indigenous to the author's method. . . Whether he is describing a small boy coming in tired from a party, an old man waiting eagerly for his breakfast or a workman gone plumb crazy in a steel foundry, the writing is always sharp and inevitable." John Raymond
+ — New Statesman & Nation 40:438 N 11 '50 650w

"Another of those highly intelligent self-scrutinies that the England of mid-century is giving itself; a novel permeated with the remembrance of things past, yet not without hope for the future; a cross between a requiem and an autopsy, yet free from mere nostalgia." James Hilton
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 F 18 '51 600w

"Almost everything that happens in the story is credible, the Black Country atmosphere and the atmosphere of the Norby works are both touched in neatly and persuasively, and the light descriptive phrases carry an acute edge. But the story itself has too little life." R. D. Charques
+ — Spec 184:670 D 8 '50 180w

ALLISON, BOB, and HILL, FRANK ERNEST. Kid who batted 1.000; il. by Paul Galdone. 238p $2.50 Doubleday 51-13749

"The story of Dave King, the small town Oklahoma boy with a rare talent that nearly upset American League baseball." Publisher's note

"Some of the dialogue is slightly reminiscent of Elmer the Great, and people who saw It Happens Every Spring may note a familiar ring, but the story itself has freshness and fast, authentic baseball jargon." M. F. Kieran
+ — Atlantic 188:104 D '51 160w

"An unusual baseball story that both adult readers and the older teens will welcome." Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 N 11 '51 110w

"A grand yarn. . . Good reading for anyone who enjoys fun and humorous situations, whether or not they are interested in baseball." E. C. Ince
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 25 '51 140w
Horn Bk 27:417 D '51 60w
Kirkus 19:485 S 1 '51 160w

"Here's the zaniest laugh-loaded baseball story since rhubarb stopped being a vegetable. There are even surprises in it for Dodger fans. . . If there's one story likely to survive the competition among teen agers this year, 'The Kid Who Batted 1.000' may well be it." N. A.
+ N Y Times p22 N 11 '51 210w

ALLOTT, KENNETH, and FARRIS, MIRIAM. Art of Graham Greene. 253p $3.50 British bk. centre

823 Greene, Graham [51-7411]

"The present book is an interim study of Mr. Graham Greene. It is by no means comprehensive, but aims primarily at being 'an evaluation of the novels and entertainments as full and as documented as possible'; and, within those limits, it achieves its purpose. Miss Farris and Mr. Allott have not written, as might have been expected, on different aspects of Mr. Greene's art and then bound their critical essays together in one volume: on the contrary, electing to write in the first person singular, they give little indication of their individual contributions to the whole." Times [London] Lit Sup

ALLOTT, KENNETH—Continued

---

"[This] is that rare thing an act of literary devotion which is also a good piece of analysis. . . Yet, ironically, its very virtues make it arguable whether this close and admiring study is a service to Greene. Thus spread out so proudly for dissection, the material not only appals (which in the technical sense is critically irrelevant) but sets going doubts about whether a novelist, whose task is not a poet's task though the two may be related, can survive for long on such food—longer, so to say, than the bitter nourishment stored in his hump. . . [The book] should stimulate discussion over a wider than usual field, and this, in expectation of the new novel Greene is now working on, will be all to the good." N. S.

+ — Manchester Guardian p4 Je 8 '51 240w

"Any book on a living novelist whose best work may be assumed still to lie ahead of him, must be in the nature of an interim report. Mr. Allott and Miss Farris are content to expose rather than to evaluate; they are judicious and scholarly enthusiasts, and what they have set out to do they have done well. Yet one can include oneself among Mr. Greene's most ardent admirers and still feel that a rather more severe approach was desirable." Walter Allen

+ — New Statesman & Nation 41:685 Je 16 '51 1050w

Reviewed by George Mayberry
N Y Times p5 O 28 '51 700w

"The approach of Miss Farris and Mr. Allott is a careful and detailed one; each statement is backed up by textual quotation, and the authors are only concerned with Mr. Greene's personal life or with his views on theology in so far as 'they appear to throw light on his fiction.' "

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p358 Je 8 '51 500w

ALPERT, PAUL. Twentieth century economic history of Europe. 466p $6 Schuman

330.94 Europe—Economic conditions 51-10047

"A review of the economic history of Western and Eastern Europe from 1914 to date. The author, born and educated in France, is now professor of public affairs and regional studies at the Graduate School of New York University. The economic emphasis is supplemented by an examination of the political, social, and national characteristics of Great Britain, France, Germany, and Russia." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by J. H. Landman
Ann Am Acad 276:178 Jl '51 360w

Booklist 47:355 Je 15 '51

"A French economist and world-known authority on European economics here presents a cogently reasoned and tightly organized analysis of 50 years of Europe's economic history."

+ Kirkus 19:170 Mr 15 '51 210w

Reviewed by J. N. Berthel
Library J 76:773 My 1 '51 70w

"In thirty-four short, readable chapters this survey deals effectively with various aspects of European economic development during the past fifty years."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:267 S '51 250w

ALSOP, GULIELMA FELL. History of the Woman's medical college, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 1850-1950. 256p il $4 Lippincott

610.711748 Woman's medical college of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia 50-10367

"Incorporated in 1850 as the Female Medical College, the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania has had a stormy career. This centennial volume tells the story of the institution from its beginnings, largely through accounts of the lives and personalities of the Deans of the College and their contributions to its vitality and growth. The narrative is supported with careful documentation from official and other contemporary sources." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Index.

"Dr. Alsop's survey tells a heartening and eloquent story." J. T. Winterich

+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 Ja 20 '51 200w

School & Society 74:318 N 17 '51 30w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:49 Mr '51 110w

ALTICK, RICHARD DANIEL. Scholar adventurers. 338p $5 Macmillan

820.72 Literary forgeries and mystifications. Research. English literature—History and criticism 50-11053

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"This book is good bedtime reading. It has several of the characteristics of a well-written detective story. Mr. Altick supplies suspense wherever his subject allows it; his characters include brilliant (and occasionaly odd) unravelers of riddles as well as some crafty villains; and his style is brisk." Carl Bode

+ Am Hist R 56:844 Jl '51 550w

Booklist 47:185 Ja 15 '51

"This might be a useful and amusing book for the shelves of a high-school library." P. O.
Canadian Forum 31:165 O '51 240w

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ja 7 '51 380w

"Some people like whodunits, and some like 'westerns,' but for those who (like me) care for neither of these but can still do with a spot of mystery and adventure, these true and authentic literary detective stories are just the thing. . . The most familiar story in this class is that of Tischendorf's finding of the Codex Sinaiticus. Not many can be as important as that, but many of them are of great interest to all bookish people, either for the importance of the find or for the ingenuity exhibited in the search. Mr. Altick tells about a dozen such in highly readable style and with ample documentation." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 68:113 Ja 24 '51 350w

Cleveland Open Shelf p5 Mr '51

"Mr. Altick's book is a challenge to popular misconceptions about scholars, for it is by a scholar about other scholars and yet enormously human and readable. He can launch a story, keep it afloat, and twist its tail with a neat anecdote when it flags." Robert Halsband

+ Nation 172:16 Ja 6 '51 700w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p22 D 25 '50 900w

"This is a book for the scholar as well as for the layman. To be sure, most scholars are familiar with the main outlines of the tales of adventure retold by Mr. Altick, but since few can keep up in all fields we may well be grateful to the author for combing so many and telling us the ends of stories whose beginnings we used to know and bringing us up to date on recent evidence in many major and minor investigations." Marjorie Nicolson

+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 Mr 17 '51 1000w

Springf'd Republican p8B Ja 7 '51 120w

"The particular virtues of this volume are that it assembles within one cover findings from literary research formerly widely scattered, and that it divests them of their academic and vocabular encumbrances and furnishes a running explanation of the scholarly techniques employed in them. In many instances, too, the author has filled in otherwise unrecorded detail through personal correspondence with the scholars themselves."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:19 Mr '51 280w

ALVAREZ, WALTER CLEMENT. Neuroses; diagnosis and management of functional disorders and minor psychoses. 667p $10 Saunders

616.85 Neuroses 51-2730

"This volume by the Professor of Medicine, Emeritus, at the Mayo Foundation and the Mayo Clinic, summarizes a long and fruitful medical practice, with principal emphasis on the neurotic patient, or those patients whose troubles are likely to be functional. There are many practical hints to the physician which should make his approach far more significant than if he is limited to that which the pathologist and the laboratory report." Am J Pub Health

"Many physicians have sought to distill a long experience. Few have succeeded as well as Dr. Alvarez." R. M. Atwater

+ Am J Pub Health 41:1303 O '51 180w

"There is much rich wisdom in this book, written clearly and simply by one physician to help others by what he has himself learned. There is some tendency to oversimplification, and to overemphasis of situational elements; recent work on the unconscious dynamic factors in the psychosomatic disorders could profitably have received more attention. Dr. Alvarez is impressed by the influence of heredity in the production of emotional illness, although his arguments in support of this belief are often unconvincing."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:304 S '51 250w

AMBLER, ERIC. Judgment on Deltchev. 247p $3 Knopf

51-1927

Foster, an Englishman, is sent to a Balkan city to cover a treason trial. He knows he cannot report the trial of Deltchev, but he does some private investigating. The end is violence and a narrow escape for Foster.

Booklist 47:401 Jl 15 '51

"An excellent job of serious escape reading." Riley Hughes

+ Cath World 173:312 Jl '51 190w

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Mr 25 '51 350w

+ Kirkus 19:37 Ja 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by J. D. Scott

New Statesman & Nation 42:211 Ag 25 '51 600w

"It's a subtler and grimmer type of intrigue that Ambler exploits in his new book and sometimes one feels a little nostalgic for the old cloak-and-dagger stories that made him famous. But nobody can help being impressed by the somberly real atmosphere of his entirely present-day story."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Ap 15 '51 310w

"Addicts who have been waiting for ten full years for a new Ambler novel can now settle under their reading lamps with a contented sigh—the maestro is back again, with all his sinister magic intact. . . 'Judgment on Deltchev' is a haunted maze—and you'll venture in at your peril. Once you're there, you'll stay till the end—no matter how numb you feel when you've groped your way into clean sunlight again." William Du Bois

+ N Y Times p5 Mr 18 '51 450w

"The politically uninformed may find some of Mr. Ambler's book pretty difficult, for the goings on are at least as chaotic and apparently senseless as they unquestionably are in fact behind the Iron Curtain, but there is probably enough genuine excitement to outweigh this confusion, and the author's writing, as it was in 'A Coffin for Dimitrios' and 'Journey Into Fear,' is neat, brisk, and altogether admirable."

+ New Yorker 27:107 Mr 24 '51 200w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p25 My 6 '51 60w

"Emphatically 'adult entertainment.' "

+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 My 19 '51 50w

Reviewed by Marghanita Laski

Spec 187:106 Jl 20 '51 90w

Time 57:118 Mr 19 '51 280w

Times [London] Lit Sup p513 Ag 17 '51 250w

AMBLER, ERIC, and RODDA, CHARLES. See Reed, E., pseud.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FOR GIFTED CHILDREN. Gifted child; ed. by Paul Witty. 338p $4 Heath

371.955 Children, Gifted 51-2586

"A collection of essays sponsored by the American Association for Gifted Children. Paul Witty edited the volume and wrote several integrating chapters. The book deals with problems of identification and education of gifted children at the elementary-and secondary-school levels and, in addition, reports and summarizes the psychological studies of gifted children, with special reference to their emotional adjustment." El School J

Booklist 47:395 Jl 15 '51

"The book will prove especially valuable because it brings together in one place reports of a wide variety of psychological studies. A good annotated bibliography is a useful feature. . . The book does a good job of pointing out that we still have a long way to go in recognizing talent and in giving it a chance to develop under really favorable circumstances." R. J. Havighurst

+ El School J 52:53 S '51 180w

"This book is not one of vague generalities, but rather one of specific details that will be most helpful to the average teacher in recognizing and developing the gifted child. Each of the 15 chapters is written by eminent authorities on phases of the main subject, giving the reader a compact yet comprehensive guide for work with children."

+ School Arts 51:9a N '51 80w

"Sponsored by the American Association for Gifted Children, this valuable book is part of the effort of the Association to help meet the needs of gifted children and the needs of the country for their potential services by furnishing a nontechnical volume of practical suggestions for handling such problems."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:293 S '51 220w

AMERICAN BOY (periodical). American boy anthology; compiled by Franklin M. Reck; il. by Clifford Geary. 488p $3 Crowell

51-12894

Anthology composed of twenty stories chosen from the magazine American Boy which flourished from 1899 to 1941.

Booklist 48:107 N 15 '51

Kirkus 19:533 S 15 '51 150w

"Fine addition to the story collection for grades 6-9 in both public and school libraries and useful for slower readers in ninth and tenth grades." M. K. Walraven

+ Library J 77:70 Ja 1 '52 70w

"The good type will appeal to boys from about eleven to sixteen. Though many of the authors are by now well known, the selections mostly are not." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p35 N 11 '51 50w

AMERICAN GIRL (periodical). On my honor; twenty stories; selected and ed. by Marjorie Vetter. 229p $2.75 Longmans

51-6803

Twenty stories selected from The American Girl to illustrate the Girl Scout laws. Includes brief biographical sketches of the authors. Grades 7 to 9.

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

Kirkus 19:352 Jl 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p35 N 11 '51 50w

AMERICAN GIRL—Continued

"These are good, fast-moving stories about girls, not actually about Girl Scouts, but they do vividly illustrate the Girl Scout Laws."

+ School & Society 74:208 S 29 '51 20w

AMERICAN international encyclopedia; a comprehensive reference work; ed. by William Dodge Lewis. 16v il maps 79c and 89c per volume American international encyclopedia, by John C. Winston Co.

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries

"The American International Encyclopedia is a general reference work. Articles are generally rather brief; often there are from twelve to fourteen on a page and there are less than one thousand words per page. There are, of course, articles of greater length. . . Usually the articles are popular in tone, written in language that may be understood by high school pupils. Among exceptions are those on scientific topics. . . Articles are arranged in alphabetical order and pronunciation is indicated for most entries." Subscription Bks Bul

"Information is usually accurate. Population figures for cities in the United States are those of 1940 and are so dated. However, statistics for foreign countries and cities are often given in round numbers and are frequently at variance with those in other reference works. As a rule they are not dated. Articles are not signed. . . Although this work has been advertised as the 'brand new 1950 edition,' one of the chief criticisms that may be brought against it is that much of its information is out of date and many articles are devoted to topics that are no longer of general interest. . . Volumes 1-9 of American International Encyclopedia show very poor press work. Many of the articles examined are completely or partially out of date; others omit important recent developments, and many are words and phrases that may be found in abridged dictionaries. Although the Committee has been unable to obtain a complete set of American International Encyclopedia, examination of nine of the sixteen volumes indicates that revision has been insufficient to attain the standard of an adequate reference tool."

— Subscription Bks Bul 22:41 Jl '51 2000w

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION. American library resources; a bibliographical guide; Robert B. Downs, director; sponsored by the Association board on resources of American libraries [proc]. 428p $7 A.L.A.

016.016 Bibliography—Bibliography. Libraries—U.S. 51-11156

"'In scope, the guide now presented is national in coverage and is inclusive of every field for which bibliographical information is available.'—Introd. Lists printed library catalogs, union lists of books and serials, descriptions of special collections, surveys of library holdings, calendars of archives and manuscripts, selected library reports, similar works of potential usefulness to research workers, and occasional unpublished bibliographies and indexes. There are brief annotations for most of the entries." Booklist

Booklist 48:78 N 1 '51

School & Society 74:222 O 6 '51 50w

AMERICAN men of science; a biographical directory; ed. by Jaques Cattell. 8th ed 2836p $17 Science press

925 Scientists. U.S.—Biography

"The eighth edition of American Men of Science contains, according to the preface, about 50,000 names, including about 30,000 of the 34,000 in the seventh edition published in 1944. This directory of living scientists was first published in 1906. The fifth edition was reviewed in Subscription Books Bulletin of July 1933, the sixth edition in the October 1938 Bulletin. . . Concise information about each biographee follows the same pattern as in former editions. . . Added for the first time are the marital status including the date of marriage, number of children, and the field of investigation in which the doctor's degree was received." Subscription Bks Bul

"American Men of Science, eighth edition, is recommended for all libraries among whose patrons there is sufficient scientific interest."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:1 Ja '51 1000w

AMERICAN WATER WORKS ASSOCIATION. Water quality and treatment; a manual. 2d ed 451p il $5 The association

628.1 Water supply. Water—Purification

"This second edition brings up to date a first edition published in 1940, which, in turn, replaced a manual produced another 15 years earlier. The manual evidences AWWA's constant endeavor to make available a complete guide to the latest in water treatment. Preparation of the text was a committee function depending entirely upon voluntary services of some 30 individuals well qualified to write on the various phases of water purification. Important new material included in this edition is to be found in the portions on disinfection and on fluoridation." Eng N

"This manual represents the best thinking of experts in the water works field. . . [It] has no real counterpart in water works literature and unquestionably would be a valuable addition to the library of any person interested in the water works field." E. A. Reinke

+ Am J Pub Health 41:1131 S '51 250w

Eng N 146:43 My 10 '51 80w

AMERINE, MAYNARD ANDREW, and WHEELER, LOUISE BESSIE, comps. Check list of books and pamphlets on grapes and wine and related subjects, 1938-1948. [proc] 240p $5 Univ. of Calif. press

016.6632 Wine and wine making—Bibliography. Grapes—Bibliography 51-62205

"A precise statement showing just how the list was computed, the extensiveness of the literary holdings consulted, and the form into which the citations are cast, precedes the main body of references that comprises 1,789 entries, alphabetically arranged by author, and drawn from Europe, North and South America, and South Africa. Since World War II interrupted the exchanges of printed material, such check lists as this are necessary to full understanding of recent progress in many technical fields." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Subject index and Index by countries and states.

"Often cooks are collectors and this rare bibliography may be sought after. It is not definitive but it does include articles published from Algeria to Wisconsin and in many languages." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:965 Je 1 '51 40w

"A great deal of meticulous work, and informed and selective judgment have obviously gone into the making of this valuable list. It will be immensely useful to scholars in their researches and, particularly in regard to wineries, will aid technicians in practical applications."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:210 Je '51 170w

AMES, DELANO L. Body on page one. 241p $2.50 Rinehart 51-12433

Detective story.

"Much of the drollery in the telling of 'The Body on Page One' is too heavily forced to provide uninterrupted enjoyment, altho situations and characters give a merry flavor to the puzzling knifing." Drexel Drake

Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 O 7 '51 130w

"Some fluttering confusion and ladidah edges here, but the gay touch as before."

Kirkus 19:369 Jl 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by James Sandoe

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p31 O 7 '51 120w

"Many readers find charm in the writings of Delano Ames, but this reviewer must confess to a blind spot. The Body on Page One, like most Ames, does contain some genuine wit; but it's hard to stomach." Anthony Boucher

— N Y Times p22 O 7 '51 70w

"Some good comedy characters in this, a more successful humor-and-mystery blend than other Ames items; it seems rather thick with complications, but maybe they're all necessary. B minus." L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p24 S 30 '51 90w

"Agreeable." Sergeant Cuff

Sat R of Lit 34:39 O 27 '51 40w

Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 50w

AMES, DELANO L. Corpse diplomatique. 252p $2.50 Rinehart

51-9243

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

Kirkus 18:740 D 15 '50 70w

"Delano Ames is a relative newcomer to the mystery field, but he has already produced four novels. This latest is just as sprightly and intelligent as the other three."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Mr 25 '51 190w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Bullock

N Y Times p34 Ap 1 '51 110w

New Yorker 27:116 Mr 3 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p25 Mr 18 '51 100w

"Like top vacation on Riviera—good!" Kathleen Sproul

+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 21 '51 60w

AMLIE, THOMAS RYUM. Let's look at the record. 352p $10 Capital city press, 121 N. Spooners st, Madison 5, Wis.

328.73 U.S. Congress—History 51-204

"Sets out to demolish the general assumption that Congressional 'liberals' and 'conservatives' are lined up fairly evenly on either side of a theoretical center line of politics. On the evidence of research into the voting pattern of Democrats and Republicans in the past Congresses, Mr. Amlie asserts that the line of demarcation 'is drawn so far to the right that fully 75 per cent of the American people would identify themselves as being to the left of the line that separates liberals from conservatives in the United States Congress.' The hopeful corollary of this, concludes the former Congressman from Wisconsin, is that 'if the people knew the facts, they would retire three-fourths of the present members of the United States Congress at the next election.' " Nation

"The fact that this book is not an objective scientific analysis, but essentially a campaign handbook, will not detract from its usefulness to political scientists. If used with care, Let's Look at the Record is a good guide to congressional action since 1933." Julius Turner

+ Am Pol Sci R 45:904 S '51 270w

"It is a rich, factual contribution to those who want political education. I have only one fear: those who are in want of political education are the least likely to benefit by it. For the chances are that they will leave it alone." Francis Downing

+ Commonweal 54:412 Ag 3 '51 700w

"It is well to recognize the limitations of 'record votes' as a complete guide to Congressional behavior, but given the cloak of secrecy about committee votes and cloakroom agreements, this compendium of recorded votes, accurately and effectively selected to reflect the conflict between conservatism and liberalism, is an invaluable encyclopedia of political ammunition." V. M. Gunther

+ Nation 172:593 Je 23 '51 400w

"Alert citizens are increasingly aware of the need for following the voting record of their legislators. They need reference books with handy lists of voting records. But the vast compilation of voting records by Mr. Amlie fails to inspire confidence in his interpretation of the record because the extremity of his statements stretches beyond credulity." A. L. Strauss

Survey 87:492 N '51 650w

AMOS, ALAN, pseud. See Knight, K. M.

ANDERSEN, HANS CHRISTIAN. Fairy tales; ed. by Svend Larsen; tr. from the original Danish text by R. P. Keigwin; il. by Vilhelm Pedersen reproduced from the original drawings in the Andersen museum at Odense. world ed 394p $2.50 Scribner

398.2 Fairy tales 51-467

"Nineteen well known tales and a biographical sketch of Hans Christian Andersen are included in this new English translation, considered in Denmark one of the best ever made, by an English-Danish scholar. Illustrated with the original drawings by the artist of Andersen's own choice." Booklist

Booklist 47:241 Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by A. C. Moore

Horn Bk 27:93 Mr '51 400w

"Some turns of expression mark it as the work of an English rather than an American writer, but that is no mark against it. Recommended for adult and young people's collections." Siri Andrews

+ Library J 76:530 Mr 15 '51 130w

"The editor feels that the translation does the author justice for the first time. It proves readable, alive and literate, an attempt to parallel Andersen's colloquial style. Ole Lukoi becomes 'Wee Willie Winkie,' and there are a few other surprises. . . One feels that Andersen would smile happily at such a precious little book, and hold it with pride. The very small type is not for the youngest eyes, but for adults to read aloud. Nevertheless, many a child of about ten on up would like to own it." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Mr 25 '51 270w

"It is fascinating now to compare Keigwin's wording with the older translations of James, Jean Hersholt, Paul Leyssac, and Mrs. Lucas. There is a freshness, a spontaneity in this—but there are minor things that bother us. We prefer the 'constant' or the 'steadfast' tin soldier to the 'stanch' tin soldier. . . It bothers us, too, to call Ole Lukoi Willie Winkie. Willie Winkie is well known to American boys and girls, but he belongs definitely to the Mother Goose rhymes."

Sat R of Lit 34:47 Mr 17 '51 450w

ANDERSON, A. W. Coming of the flowers; with a foreword by Roy Hay. 267p il $3 Farrar, Straus

631.524 Plant introduction 51-2686

"A story of plant hunters and their discoveries, from those who sailed to the Land of Punt in 1570 B. C. to gather plants for the palace gardens of Egypt's Queen Hatshepset to the twentieth-century journeys of 'Chinese' Wilson, Reginald Farrer and George Forest. Against this background many of our popular garden flowers of today stand out in a new light, some of them but little changed from their forms of 2,000 years ago, others so altered by man's attentions as to be scarcely recognizable." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 40w

Reviewed by R. E. Donlon

Christian Science Monitor p11 My 17 '51 700w

"An oddly fascinating small book, for a very special sort of market."

Kirkus 19:220 Ap 15 '51 180w

"Any one to whom 'a primrose by the river's brim' is more than just another primrose will find Mr. Anderson's volume a worthy addition to the permanent garden bookshelf."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Je 3 '51 150w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 22 '51 340w

ANDERSON, CAMILLA MAY. Saints, sinners and psychiatry. 206p $2.95 Lippincott

616.8 Psychology, Pathological 50-8798

"An experienced worker in the fields of psychiatry and mental hygiene describes, in this book, a theory of the dynamics of human behavior which she has developed and applied in her clinical practice. The theory is based largely upon the earlier work of Freud and of Harry Stack Sullivan, but is explained in simpler language than either of these writers ordinarily employed." (U S Quarterly Bkl) Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Cunningham
Am J Pub Health 41:347 Mr '51 410w

"So far as the book deals with the analysis of behavior problems and with discovering their origin, it is worth while reading. But it becomes objectionable once the author proceeds to outlining a definite theory of normal behavior. . . Like other psychiatrists, she is also hampered by an all too subjectivistic view. For her, the only motivation of human behavior is the desire to escape anxiety and to achieve security. Nobody will question that this is a powerful factor. But it is not the only one. . . Apart from these serious and regrettable defects, there is much good in this volume. The analysis of the nature and role of the image everyone has of himself is particularly well done. A critical reader may profit from perusing the book. But it may have a rather deleterious influence on anyone not sufficiently acquainted with the subject matter."
Commonweal 53:45 O 20 '50 700w

"Dr. Anderson's conscious goal is apparently a very kind, good goal. She wants to be helpful. But she has not yet mastered the art of seeing and telling clearly what it is all about. At times she seems purely intellectual and mechanistic, at other times more or less philosophically mystic. In all this the individual is lost on the altar of many generalities. Man in general can never tell us much about man in particular." Gregory Zilboorg
Sat R of Lit 34:18 F 17 '51 360w

"Dr. Anderson presents her formulation of personality structure and human behavior in a clear readable form. The presentation might be a little puzzling for the lay reader because the writer's basic assumptions presuppose a willingness to accept Dr. Anderson's psychiatric theories. On the other hand, the material is oversimplified for practitioners—psychiatrists, psychologists, or social workers." Virginia Bellsmith
+ Survey 87:91 F '51 450w

"Dr. Anderson's book should commend itself to both lay and professional students of psychiatry and mental hygiene."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:481 D '50 220w

ANDERSON, DILLON. I and Claudie. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 247p $3 Little 51-12708

Collection of short stories in which the hero (?)-narrator and his pal have adventures traveling thru the South trying to earn a living by means which are usually decidedly shady. Originally published in Atlantic or Colliers.

Booklist 48:65 O 15 '51

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 O 7 '51 240w

"A series of light and amusing Texas tall tales."
+ Kirkus 19:365 Jl 15 '51 120w

"Not an important book, but it might be a useful acquisition for public libraries which have a steady demand for light escapist titles." Clarence Gorchels
Library J 76:1218 Ag '51 70w

"Dillon Anderson, author of 'I and Claudie,' is a Texas lawyer who received his law degree at Yale. But the East has done nothing to mar or mark his writing, judging from the two zany, raffish characters, Clint and Claudie, that he has created. They are the product and essence of his native West, of its color and roughness and wit." Rose Feld
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 18 '51 410w

"The author's free-hand style is always refreshing; but his descriptive power is never quite strong enough to blend his stereotyped ingredients into anything but a rather pleasant adult comic book—however successful the best of them may be." Marshall Carlbom
N Y Times p47 N 18 '51 260w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 25 '51 80w

"They are an engaging pair of rascals, and their adventures make gay reading—in a world full of problems, they impose none on the reader beyond the choice of the right chair." J. T. Winterich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 N 3 '51 430w

ANDERSON, MARGARET C. Fiery fountains. 242p il $3.50 Hermitage

B or 92 Leblanc, Georgette 51-13661

Continues the author's autobiography begun in My Thirty Years War (Book Review Digest 1930). It covers the years 1925 to 1945, spent mostly in France, and is largely the narration of her years of friendship with Georgette Leblanc, the actress and singer, who was at one time the wife of Maeterlinck.

Booklist 48:100 N 15 '51

"Wonder, memory, and experience are all in 'The Fiery Fountains,' but somehow they simply don't mingle to make a great book, or even a book which has any permanent hold on a reader, despite some phrases, paragrafs, ideas which are irresistible." Fanny Butcher
Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 N 4 '51 450w

Reviewed by H. S. Taylor
Library J 76:1800 N 1 '51 100w

"Beyond incidental defects, the portrait of Georgette Leblanc dominates the book with an abiding radiance. Critical fault-finding seems ignoble beside the courage and tragic excitement of the final chapters. . . In spite of many barren stretches, 'The Fiery Fountains' is a book not to be missed." Robert Hillyer
+ — N Y Times p5 D 23 '51 390w

ANDERSON, MARY DÉSIRÉE (MRS TRENCHARD COX). Looking for history in British churches. 328p il $5 Morrow

274.2 Churches—Great Britain. Great Britain—History. Church architecture [51-12902]

A study of the monuments and inscriptions in British churches built prior to the eighteenth century, from which evidences of history and social life and customs in the British Isles can be traced. Glossary. Indexes.

"The author is extremely learned over a wide range of subjects and writes of them all in a lively, not to say exuberant, and evocative way. She constantly relates these ecclesiastical vestiges of bygone society to other historical sources, and while she is not afraid of guessing always gives warning (a rare virtue) when she indulges in conjecture. Discreet notes which multiply instances and guide a reader to the scattered literature of the subject add greatly to the book's value. There are some fifty well-chosen illustrations." C. R. C.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Je 29 '51 150w

Times [London] Lit Sup p629 O 5 '51 750w

ANDERSON, MAXWELL. Barefoot in Athens. 101p $2.75 Sloane

812 Socrates—Drama 51-13750

A play about Socrates in his old age. The first act takes place in his home, the second is the trial, the third shows Socrates waiting for his execution.

Booklist 48:97 N 15 '51
Bookmark 11:39 N '51 30w

"Socrates is Mr. Anderson's current hero, and the danger of silencing criticism in a democracy is his current concern. But he has become so much concerned with the integrity and freedom of the rational man that he has forgotten to write a play about him. He puts the Athenian into a series of picture-postcard tableaux, permits him to speak softly to a variety of ideological opponents, and then condemns him to death. But nowhere has he given him a clear, clean struggle with a single forcible enemy, a consistent point of view, or a doubt within himself." Dramatic criticism by Walter Kerr
— Commonweal 55:142 N 16 '51 650w

"Highly recommended." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1809 N 1 '51 30w

Dramatic criticism by J. W. Krutch
Nation 173:430 N 17 '51 1150w

Reviewed by Harold Clurman
New Repub 125:22 N 26 '51 100w

"'Barefoot in Athens' is a curiously gray and disappointing work. It is slow in getting started and awkward in some of its means. It lacks the needed fire." J. M. Brown
Sat R of Lit 34:26 N 24 '51 2000w

ANDERSON, MILDRED NAPIER. Sandra and the right prince; il. by J. Pajet-Fredericks. 70p $2.50 Oxford
51-2312

A modern fairy tale telling the old story of how the prince won the princess, but the test set for the prince is a quite unusual one, one only "the right prince" could win.

Booklist 47:369 Je 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 5 '51 100w

"The story has a lively enough plot to hold the interest of a storyhour group and, cut just a little, will be good for telling. It is a long time since we have had a book illustrated by Pajet-Fredericks. His pictures help to make this fairy tale one to treasure." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:179 My '51 100w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
Horn Bk 27:238 Jl '51 20w

Reviewed by M. E. Martignoni
Library J 76:781 My 1 '51 80w

"This California author brings to her first children's book a belief in fairy tales cherished during newspaper work, writing poetry, and library work with children. Using the old pattern of the king with one precious daughter, the tests for the princes, the stupid council, the dragon, she writes in a modern idiom, humorous, crisp, and appealing to fairy-tale minded girls of about eight to ten." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 My 13 '51 160w

"This smoothly written tale of a very modern princess in a medieval setting is both entertaining and plausible." Elizabeth Hodges
+ N Y Times p24 Je 17 '51 120w

"Miss Anderson writes a fairy tale that will delight young and old."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p9 N 11 '51 140w

ANDRADE, EDWARD NEVILLE DA COSTA. Isaac Newton. (Personal portraits) 111p il $1.75 Chanticleer
B or 92 Newton, Sir Isaac [50-54626]

"This is an account of Newton's contributions to science and of his personality. It is also a good introduction to the science of the Seventeenth Century, explaining with great clarity the concepts which are often obscure to readers unlettered in physics. Newton has a strange and complex personality, both theologian and scientist, both mystic and powerful analyst of physical phenomena." San Francisco Chronicle

"This is a tribute to a boyhood hero by one who has become probably as well qualified to write it as anyone now living. Written for the non-scientific reader, it presents a picture of Newton the man—so far as that enigmatic figure allows of such liberty—as well as a very easily understood account of the work which has made him the world's supreme man of science." H. D.
+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 30 '50 180w

Reviewed by G. P. Thomson
New Statesman & Nation 39:718 Je 24 '50 650w

"A clear and readable account of Newton and his work by a distinguished atomic physicist."
+ New Yorker 26:72 Jl 29 '50 180w

"Most of the routine accounts of this great man treat the mythical side of Newton's nature briefly, but Professor Andrade, himself a highly competent physicist, meets the problem squarely, with some interesting conclusions." J. W. H.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Jl 30 '50 110w

ANDRADE, EDWARD NEVILLE DA COSTA. Viscosity and plasticity. 82p il $2.25 Chemical pub. co.
532.1 Viscosity 51-11514

"A collection of lectures that were originally delivered before the London section of the Oil and Colour Chemists Association and originally published by the Association in 1947. Though the lectures were addressed to graduate chemists and others connected with the paint manufacturing industry, they are devoted mainly to the physical bases of viscosity and plasticity." N Y New Tech Bks

"Within a small compass, Prof. Andrade presents the theoretical background for an intelligent appreciation of the viscosity and plasticity of liquids and solids. That he largely succeeds is attributable to his lucidity and judicious selection. . . The presentation generally is good but a table of nomenclature would have facilitated reading the text." Frank Brown and K. G. Burridge
+ Chem & Eng N 29:4774 N 5 '51 200w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:63 Jl '51

ANDREWS, FRANK EMERSON. Philanthropic giving. 318p $3 Russell Sage 361.73 Charities—U.S. Foundations, Charitable and educational. Endowments 50-10963

A study of giving for philanthropic purposes. It is intended as a guide for donors of any sums; it analyzes sources of funds, methods of fund-raising; persons benefiting, government services, and religious and non-religious organizations. Index.

"In this excellent book F. Emerson Andrews and the Russell Sage Foundation have performed a valuable service for the many persons concerned with philanthropic giving." K. D. Widdemer
+ Am J Pub Health 41:592 My '51 230w

Reviewed by A. D. Ross
Am J Soc 57:89 Jl '51 1000w

"Here is the most up-to-date, comprehensive, and authoritative statement on the financing of philanthropic activities." M. R. Davie
+ Am Soc R 16:418 Je '51 400w

Reviewed by P. S. Broughton
Ann Am Acad 225:199 My '51 550w
Booklist 47:182 Ja 15 '51

"This very thorough study should be of importance to givers and to those charged with the administration of the funds given." W. E. G.
+ Christian Century 67:1524 D 20 '50 340w

"Mr. Andrews is a thorough man and, except for a mild divagation such as this, never makes a broad statement that is not well backed by facts. An awesome amount of research has gone into the statistical tables. For this reason 'Philanthropic Giving' is recommended reading not only for the layman but for executives of philanthropic agencies and institutions, and for professionals in the fund raising and public relations fields." Helen Denman
+ Survey 87:242 My '51 700w

ANDREWS, F. E.—Continued

"To prospective donors, a chapter upon the taxation factors involved in wise philanthropy may have particular significance. In general, in an area which is confusing even to those familiar with it, the author has made a contribution to clarity and order."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:75 Mr '51 200w

ANDREWS, ROY CHAPMAN. Heart of Asia; true tales of the Far East. 224p $3 Duell

915 Adventure and adventures. Asia—Description and travel 51-9603

Twelve tales of life in Asia, by the American scientist-explorer, who discovered dinosaur eggs in the Gobi desert. He asserts that the stories are true. Among them are the story of a dog who lived for vengeance; the story of the blue tiger; and the story of the bandit who paid a debt with the hearts of his wife and child.

Booklist 47:308 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 40w

Reviewed by Mason Warner

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 29 '51 330w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '51

"Some absolutely wondrous stories from the author's long career in the East which deal not only with his own experiences, occult as well as physical, but stories heard from others."

+ Kirkus 19:146 Mr 1 '51 150w

"A straight book of adventure, rough, gory and extremely exciting. . . Not for younger readers, but high school boys will thoroughly enjoy it." M. D. Read

+ Library J 76:1718 O 15 '51 50w

"There are twelve stories, factual, but told in narrative form, and each one is a little masterpiece of suspense. . . Most readers won't care if they are true or not, for they are rattling good yarns, told by an experienced raconteur who was certainly there." E. L. Acken

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 15 '51 220w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 13 '51 750w

"The best of the twelve tales are about people. Andrews sees his Mongol princes and huntsmen, his Chinese peasants at eye level, not from any artificial eminence. He likes and respects them, as he loves and knows their harsh and barren land. He imparts the secret, that he learned long ago, of supremely successful travel, which is to voyage not just in space but time." J. W. Vandercook

+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Je 2 '51 750w

ANDREWS, ROY CHAPMAN. Nature's ways; how nature takes care of its own; il. by Andre Durenceau and others. 205p $3.75 Crown

575.4 Adaptation (biology) 51-4326

"This is a book on nature and the many strange and wonderful ways in which nature's creatures have equipped themselves for survival. . . The information and illustrative material contained herein is organized for ease of reference and maximum usefulness. Following the Table of Contents there is a Classified Table of Contents listing the animals according to their most notable ways of protection—protective coloration, mimicry, speed, etc. Furthermore, the Index lists each creature discussed in the book by all its popular names as well as by its scientific name." Plan of this book

Booklist 47:383 Jl 1 '51

+ Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 40w

Reviewed by Pat Patten

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 2 '51 300w

Reviewed by H. B. Ellis

Christian Science Monitor p7 S 20 '51 650w

"Entertaining, informative, this who-do, who-don't book should provide answers for the curious and arouse further interest in the nature-minded. Should be popular with children too."

+ Kirkus 19:316 Je 15 '51 140w

"An unusual and interesting book. For junior high and high school." N. S. Chasteen

+ Library J 76:1235 Ag '51 90w

"You can read it as a book of curious true wonders, or, with its several indexes, use it as a reference book. Mr. Andrews' stores of reading and experience offer a rich mine from which he draws fascinating memories and quotations. It is not a children's book, but one for a family to share on their nature book shelf, and to turn to after their travels, and visits to zoos or aquariums. Measuring 8 by 11 inches, with three piece cloth binding, it is handsome bookmaking at this price." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 8 '51 220w

"The only bone a reader might have to pick with Mr. Andrews is that he could have included a great many more interesting animals. What about the elephant shrew that never closes its eyes? And the wolverine, with its odd prandial habits? Still, that is a small complaint. As it stands, 'Nature's Ways' is the most fascinating non-fiction book I have come upon in a long time. Nature is a pretty shrewd old lady." Rex Lardner

+ N Y Times p7 Jl 1 '51 600w

San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ag 5 '51 120w

"The book is essentially innocuous, appearances to the contrary notwithstanding. I found, though, that the sticky phrasing and rich pictures induced a slight feeling of queasiness as I read; and searching for an antidote, I happened to pick up one of the learned monographs by the late Will Cuppy. The queasiness miraculously disappeared. After all, nature is wonderful. But full appreciation requires a blending of Dr. Andrews with Dr. Cuppy. I wish the two could be packaged together." Marston Bates

— + Sat R of Lit 34:12 N 3 '51 800w

Reviewed by Y. W. Vance

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 22 '51 430w

Wis Lib Bul 47:160 Je '51

ANGELO, VALENTI. Marble fountain; il. by [the author]. 223p $2.50 Viking 51-12128

Story of two young Italian brothers, orphaned by the war, and the part they played in bringing back to life the village where they went to live. For ages nine to twelve.

Booklist 48:15 S 1 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 S 30 '51 260w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:325 S '51 80w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore

Horn Bk 27:401 D '51 50w

"A touching absorbing story of two orphan children in post-war Italy, rich in humanity, humor and understanding."

+ Kirkus 19:394 Ag 1 '51 190w

Reviewed by Phyllis Fenner

Library J 76:1433 S 15 '51 80w

"A tale which has action, humor, and a significance which children everywhere will appreciate. The lucky ones who escaped such horrors as these two boys saw will get an introduction to war which is sad, but not beyond their powers to comprehend." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 S 2 '51 240w

"The artistry of this writer has never been put to better use than in this post-war story set in his native Italy. It is the kind of responsible, sensitive authorship we have needed to bring home war's spiritual and material meaning to our own young readers." Irene Smith

+ N Y Times p28 N 11 '51 150w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:177 D 1 '51 60w

"This is a happy book, although it does leave a serious thought in the mind of the young or the older reader: 'People all over the world will have to stop hating and fighting and learn to understand each other.' "
+ San Francisco Chronicle p9 N 11 '51 210w

Sat R of Lit 34:56 N 10 '51 200w

Wis Lib Bul 47:218 S '51

ANGOFF, CHARLES. Journey to the dawn. 421p $3.75 Beechhurst press
51-9402

"From a small Russian village the pious, devoted Polonsky family emigrates to America, settling in Boston at the turn of the century and the narrative lights up their daily lives, focusing on Great-grandmother Yente and on little David, who loves school and the new country's ways. First volume in a planned trilogy." Bookmark

+ Bookmark 10:135 Mr '51 50w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '51

"If the next two volumes maintain the creative level of the present novel after it picks up David's story, this work may prove to be one of the few significant portrayals in American literature of authentic Jewish life." Eliezer Greenberg
+ Nation 172:236 Mr 10 '51 400w

"The book is over-written in places. It also suffers from over-crowding of characters, and as a result there is occasional blurring. Yet these minor defects cannot mar its over-all impact. 'Journey to the Dawn' is a pioneering work in American fiction." Anna Yezierska
+ — N Y Times p16 F 18 '51 330w

Reviewed by N. L. Rothman
Sat R of Lit 34:39 Mr 10 '51 290w

"It is a gentle novel, fondly told because Angoff's heart is warm with affectionate memories of little incidents of family life, little tragedies, with comedies and scarce understood revelations. It is also a novel rich in the promise of books to come." L. S. Munn
+ Springf'd Republican p6D Ap 8 '51 230w

ANNER, GEORGE EDMUND. Elements of television systems. 804p il $10.35; to schools $7.75 Prentice-Hall
621.388 Television 51-3871

"A college textbook on the engineering aspects of the three main varieties of television systems: (1) Closed systems such as are used in the observation of industrial processes, etc., being carried out at remote locations. (2) Commercial black-and-white telecasting systems. (3) Colored television. Also there is some discussion of facsimile systems. The subject is treated from the standpoint of engineers who will be concerned with the design of television. . . The author is a member of the faculty of New York University." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1131 Jl '51 140w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:62 Jl '51

School & Society 73:383 Je 16 '51 70w

ANNIXTER, PAUL, pseud. (HOWARD ALLISON STURTZEL). Brought to cover; 15 outdoor tales of action and adventure. 247p $2.75 Wyn
Animals, Legends and stories of 51-12469

"Outdoor tales of action and adventure" previously published in such magazines as Country Gentleman, Collier's, Cosmopolitan, etc. Contents: Dragon rider; With the greatest of ease; The white possum; The lynching; The hunting coat; Orchids and crocodiles; Secret of Coon castle; Old Hook 'n' Eye; Loose tiger; The last lobo; The swordsman; Ketch dog; Kadiak; The first ally; Brought to cover.

Booklist 48:127 D 1 '51

Reviewed by August Derleth
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 7 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:366 Jl 15 '51 120w

"In spite of some repetition of theme, good reading for all interested in the out-of-doors, and should be apple pie for young folks." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1218 Ag '51 80w

"Whether the author writes about crocodiles, dogs, coons, opossums or wild boars, each story is well organized and interesting. 'Brought to Cover' will give well-rounded pleasure to the increasing number of readers who are turning to outdoor fiction for relaxation." H. S. Pearson
+ N Y Times p17 D 16 '51 130w

"As always in collections of short pieces, each reader must pick his own pets. It's enough to say, I think, that Paul Annixter, a very old and expert hand at this business, has provided here a wide range of stories, and that almost any man who has hunted, fished or lived at all in the outdoors will take pleasure in reading them all." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 O 16 '51 650w

ANTHONY, EDGAR WATERMAN. Romanesque frescoes. 208p 500il $25 Princeton univ. press
751.73 Art, Romanesque. Mural painting and decoration. Church decoration and ornament. Christian art and symbolism 51-3518

"A presentation of Western European Romanesque frescoes. Dating from 800 to 1200, the works dealt with come from Italy, Germany, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Spain, England, and Scandinavia. The great bulk of the work extant is from the twelfth century. A long Introduction shows the background of Romanesque fresco painting, summarizes its iconography and ornament, indicates the elements of its international characteristics together with local deviations from them, and traces briefly its relationships to the other arts." U S Quarterly Bk R

"Well reproduced from clear photographs, the gravity and splendor of Romanesque formal rendering are sharply recalled despite absence of color. The scholarly text is full and orderly; concise introductions to style and technique give all needed information. Relations to mosaic, manuscripts and ivories are integrated. English, Scandinavian and Spanish work, being unfamiliar, is doubly welcome."
+ New Repub 125:20 D 10 '51 100w

"Well balanced, handsomely produced, and splendidly illustrated."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:232 S '51 400w

ANTHONY, GORDON. Margot Fonteyn. 131p il $3 British bk. centre
792.8 Fonteyn, Margot 51-6412

"Photographs and appreciation of the ballerina showing her development from child dancer to mature artist in her latest ballets." Cleveland Open Shelf

Cleveland Open Shelf p15 Jl '51

"Anthony's faults are the results of his approach. Rightly or wrongly, he concentrates on the pretty and sentimental, as opposed to the lyrical. Most of these sensitive and technically accomplished studies of Margot Fonteyn at all stages of her career reveal him at his most typical." Richard Johnson
New Statesman & Nation 41:720 Je 23 '51 130w

"Anthony's photographs capture the dancer as if in continuing flight; his accompanying comments are more the personal admiration of a diarist than the analysis of a critic." Russell Rhodes
Sat R of Lit 34:66 N 17 '51 360w

APPEL, BENJAMIN. Fortress in the rice. 425p $3.50 Bobbs
51-13642

The hero is a young American, David MacVey, who arrives in Manila just about the time of Pearl Harbor. David is aware of the racial problem, but nevertheless he falls in love with the daughter of a wealthy Filipino landowner. After the Japs come David joins the guerrilla forces, marries and loses the girl he loves, is captured but escapes, and lives to see the liberation of the islands.

Booklist 48:101 N 15 '51

Reviewed by A. L. Bader
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 O 28 '51 410w

"In addition to being an action-filled, exciting novel, 'Fortress in the Rice' should prove an excellent corrective for any one who holds the view that the role of the United States in the Philippines has been one of unparalleled generosity and wisdom, and that the islands have been left with the best of all possible governments." J. J. Espey
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 4 '51 750w

"An experienced reporter and an accomplished craftsman in the novel, Appel had the additional advantage of on-the-spot observation of the events he has dramatized. As special assistant to High Commissioner Paul McNutt he journeyed through Manila, the Luzon provinces and the Huk country, talked with the leaders and the people of every faction. Out of this experience he has constructed a tightly knit drama full of believable characters whose personal tensions and conflicts merge into the larger political struggle of which they are a part." Edward Fitzgerald
+ N Y Times p32 O 28 '51 290w

"Mr. Appel's battle-scenes are sharp; he handles his romance tenderly; his ironic picture of the self-seeking officers and big businessmen is admirably painted. Altogether this is pure story in every sense, a drama of action and romance and despair that makes a solidly conceived and executed novel." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 O 26 '51 800w

"Oddly, 'Fortress in the Rice' is not a story of the postwar Philippines that Appel knew, but a story of the Philippines at war. And it is more successful as an expression of his original non-fiction intentions than it is as a novel." Robert Lowry
Sat R of Lit 34:16 D 22 '51 450w

APPEL, DAVID. Comanche [il. by James Daughterty]. 224p $2.50 World pub.
Horses—Legends and stories 51-5190

In a first-person narrative, this is the story of the horse Comanche, the only survivor of the Battle of the Little Big Horn, Custer's last stand.

"An entertaining combination of fiction and history. . . Skilfully and colorfully told." Al Chase
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Je 3 '51 140w

Kirkus 19:155 Mr 15 '51 90w

"Unfortunately the effect is marred by sentimental writing and too much humanization of the horse's emotions." E. L. Buell
N Y Times p38 O 14 '51 70w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Je 10 '51 220w

APPLE, LEWIS T. Some are friends. 253p $3 Crown
51-10892

Love story of Elizabeth Chalmers, daughter of the leading Jewish merchant of Chalmers City, Arkansas, and Brian Winchester, son of the town's leading banker. When both families objected to their marriage Elizabeth broke the engagement, and both married to suit their families. Years later the pattern was about to repeat with Elizabeth's son and Brian's daughter. The time is from 1915 to World war II.

Booklist 48:31 S 15 '51

"We doubt if 'Some Are Friends' will move into the best seller lists. But in Elizabeth the author has created a gentle character to spearhead his appeal for tolerance. Mr. Apple's plot is unadorned and his story is simply told. He has something to say and sets forth to do it straightaway. In this gentle simplicity lies the book's greatest charm." William Yates
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Je 10 '51 290w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 1 '51 110w

"Despite recent heavy inventories on the race-prejudice theme, Mr. Apple has managed to hit the market with a highly acceptable first product, assembled with sincerity and good taste." Florence Crowther
+ N Y Times p15 Jl 1 '51 210w

Reviewed by Don Pitt
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 200w

APPLEBY, JOHN. Arms of Venus. 215p $2.75 Coward-McCann
51-9401

A novel of suspense, the scene of which is Greece and England. The lost arms of the statue of the Venus de Milo are the starting point for a series of exciting scenes, in which an English girl figures, as well as a young Englishman suffering from amnesia.

Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51

"An intriguing situation, but the plot is so slight and Mr. Appleby's villains so remarkably unsubtle, that the reader is in for some disappointment."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Mr 25 '51 180w

Reviewed by Patricia Highsmith
N Y Times p17 F 18 '51 230w

"It is marred by an intricate and arbitrary system of flashbacks and digressions, but it is still chase literature of an unusually high order, and it is to be hoped that the author will write many more books in the same vein."
+ — New Yorker 27:132 Mr 17 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p25 Mr 18 '51 90w

"Solid, believable scenes, people, action; archeological details interesting. Flashback technique tricky but story value can carry it for intelligent suspense. Good novel as well."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 3 '51 40w

APPLETON, WILLIAM WORTHEN. A cycle of Cathay. 182p il $3 Columbia univ. press
914.2 Great Britain—Relations (general) with China. China—Relations (general) with Great Britain 51-9335

An account of the vogue for things Chinese in English life and art during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Index.

"A good survey of the Chinese influence has long been wanted and Professor Appleton, writing as he does with care and clarity, has performed the task thoroughly and well." Douglas Grant
+ Canadian Forum 31:162 O '51 250w

Reviewed by John Randolph
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 My 6 '51 140w

"A charming study." G. W.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 17 '51 200w

New Repub 125:20 D 10 '51 50w

"After a slow and excessively academic start, this little essay develops some interesting history." C. W. W.
San Francisco Chronicle p23 Ap 15 '51 150w

School & Society 74:222 O 6 '51 30w

"Professor Appleton must be commended for the rare references to China which he has assembled. He is less happy, and somewhat less useful, when he turns to discuss the influence of China on the arts and tastes of England during the two centuries that preoccupy him."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p560 S 7 '51 750w

"Mr. Appleton exhibits a thorough acquaintance with his subject and has treated it in apt and scholarly fashion. Except that the chapter dealing with the Occidental evaluation of Chinese philology seems tedious and perhaps not highly significant, the materials are interesting. The arrangement is convenient, and the illustrations, although not as numerous as might be wished, help make the book attractive for the student, as well as for the general reader who is interested in cultural relationships."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:160 Je '51 260w

APULEIUS, LUCIUS. Transformations of Lucius, otherwise known as the Golden ass; a new tr. by Robert Graves. 293p $3.50 Farrar, Straus

878.9 51-10414

A new translation of a second century prose tale. It concerns a wellborn youth who offends a priestess of the White Goddess in Thessaly and is metamorphosed into an ass. His adventures are both picaresque and bawdy.

Booklist 48:141 D 15 '51

"As a basic novel influencing later writers such as Boccaccio, Fielding, Smollett, etc., this would have its primary market in literature classes, for libraries and reference."
Kirkus 19:359 Jl 15 '51 170w

"This modern translation makes lively reading (the earlier one was done by William Adlington in 1566), and it has the advantage of recent studies and revision in the original text. Recommended for libraries serving students of literature." B. B. Libaire
+ Library J 76:1218 Ag '51 120w

"The refractory and industrious intelligence of Robert Graves has here produced an easy-ambling and most readable translation of one of the world's earliest pieces of prose fiction."
+ Nation 173:286 O 6 '51 80w

Reviewed by Harvey Breit
N Y Times p43 O 7 '51 20w

"This rendering is fresh and much more readable than the previous English translations. Mr. Graves was probably led to undertake it by his earlier researches into the worship of the White Goddess. . . The new work glows with the same vast scholarship that illumined the earlier one—a scholarship that Mr. Graves wears as easily as an old dressing gown. Like the 'Satyricon,' 'The Golden Ass' is one of those classics with an ageless appeal to everyone but the stuffiest people, and it is good to have it freshened up every few hundred years."
+ New Yorker 27:122 S 29 '51 120w

ARAKELIAN, A. Industrial management in the USSR; tr. by Ellsworth L. Raymond. 168p pa $3 Public affairs press

658 Industrial management. Russia—Industries and resources 50-13066

"After sketching the past development of forms of management, Professor Arakelian considers in detail the existing administrative structure of socialist enterprises in the USSR. He discusses the role of the Communist Party and trade union organizations in this management and the problems which arose in the conversion of Soviet industry from war to peace. A number of helpful diagrams show the detailed managerial arrangements at different stages of the industrial administration hierarchy." Am Pol Sci R

"Makes available in English one of the most up-to-date discussions published in the Soviet Union on the structure of Soviet industrial organization. . . This is a valuable book recommended for all persons interested either in the general field of Soviet public administration or in the narrower area of industrial management." Harry Schwartz
+ Am Pol Sci R 44:784 S '50 170w

"Arakelian's account of the revolution and growing pains of Soviet industrial administration is informative and at times even readable. It will satisfy much of the general reader's curiosity, though it leaves unanswered the expert's queries on many points on which Soviet literature is traditionally reticent. A few debatable terminological choices do not detract from the general excellence of Mr. Raymond's translation." Oleg Hoeffing
+ — Ann Am Acad 271:229 S '50 550w
Foreign Affairs 29:327 Ja '51 40w

ARBUTHNOT, MAY HILL, comp. Time for poetry; il by Salcia Bahnc; a teacher's anthology to accompany The new basic readers. 438p $2.20 Scott

821.08 Children's poetry

In this anthology for children "the poems are meant to be read aloud. They were compiled for the express purpose of giving children experience with a wide variety of poems and of carrying them from the level of listening to nursery or nonsense verse to the place where they can and will read for themselves more and better poetry." (Introd) Indexed by author, title, and first line.

Booklist 47:385 Jl 1 '51
Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '51

ARCARO, EDDIE. I ride to win! as told to Jack O'Hara. 273p il $2.95 Greenberg

B or 92 Horse racing 51-10507

Autobiography of the only jockey who ever won the Kentucky Derby four times. He gives his story from stable boy to "the best race rider of his time." Illustrated with photographs.

Booklist 47:326 My 15 '51

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 My 6 '51 330w

"Not recommended for general reading. Specialists will want 'for the record.' " R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:779 My 1 '51 50w

"It is still early in the season. Racing fans may still have the price of a book. If so, this is the one for them." D. M. Mankiewicz
+ N Y Times p21 Je 10 '51 650w

ARD, WILLIAM. Perfect frame. 182p $2.50 Mill 51-10954

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 17 '51 40w
Kirkus 19:196 Ap 1 '51 40w

"A good active story along somewhat conventional lines."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 29 '51 90w

"In spite of its hackneyed content, this is more readable than some others of its type." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p22 Je 10 '51 80w
Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 60w

ARDIZZONE, EDWARD. Tim and Charlotte. [48p] $2 Oxford

Picture story book about the little girl named Charlote rescued from the sea by Tim and his brother Ginger. Altho Charlotte proved to be very rich, she finally came to live with Tim and Ginger and their parents.

Booklist 48:148 D 15 '51

Reviewed by Marcia Winn
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 11 '51 50w

ARDIZZONE, EDWARD—Continued
Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:406 D '51 100w

"The pictures in color and black and white have a gay, impulsive freshness with some sly heroic posturing. Again the comic strip balloons are a delightful surprise."
+ Kirkus 19:615 O 15 '51 120w

"Recommended." Anne Izard
+ Library J 76:1815 N 1 '51 60w

"There is no disappointment from the first picture of the windy beach to the comfortable ending." M. C.
+ Manchester Guardian p3 D 6 '51 60w

"When Mr. Ardizzone distorts, it is not in the interest of fashion or grownup humour: he is merely driving home an important point in the story. Charlotte, in her rich home, dwindles almost as Alice did after eating the mushroom: that is to show how really heartbroken she is at being separated from Tim. Mr. Ardizzone so clearly believes in every detail of his story that I can't think of the child who could resist him." J. A. Smith
+ New Statesman & Nation 42:684 D 8 '51 150w

"The continuous charm of the work of this famous English illustrator lies partly in his remarkably living people, partly in his delightful use of color, and, for children, in his way of telling the tale mostly in pictures, many of which have little balloon speeches inserted. A former review called his style 'eminently Victorian.' To my mind it is not that, for it is eminently free and timeless, but his backgrounds are of that era." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 18 '51 230w

"Little girls will sympathize with Charlotte's longing for the simple, domestic life she had known with Tim's family; boys will be proud of the vigor with which Tim defends his friendship when teased about Charlotte. Mr. Ardizzone, one of England's foremost artists, portrays the familiar emotions of childhood with accuracy and verve. He even uses the comic-strip balloon to good effect." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p26 Ja 6 '52 150w

Sat R of Lit 34:56 N 10 '51 90w

Reviewed by Eleanor Farjeon
+ Spec 187:828 D 14 '51 450w

"On its own very different level, this book is as satisfying as a Beatrix Potter."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p4 N 23 '51 200w

ARENDT, HANNAH. Origins of totalitarianism [Eng title: Burden of our time.] 477p $6.75 Harcourt

321.6 Totalitarianism. Jews—Persecutions. Imperialism 51-9465

"German-born author, pupil of noted philosopher Karl Jaspers at Heidelberg, now lives in this country; has taught at Brooklyn College and contributes frequently to scholarly journals. Her book, based on thorough knowledge of pertinent literature, ably analyzes crisis of our time and searches for deeper roots of three evils: antisemitism, imperialism, and totalitarianism." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"This is academic scholarship in both the best and worst senses of the word. Painstakingly as one analyzes it, it offers neither dynamic understanding of the events described nor any practical recommendations for solution of the problem. More important than that, I think, is the almost complete equation that Dr. Arendt makes between German fascism and Soviet communism. It is true that she makes a polite bow to Lenin and refuses to call him a complete demagogue. It is also true that she is not so naïve as to ignore completely the different historical backgrounds, but by and large she attempts to give scholarly support to the increasingly widely held dictum that Soviet communism is nothing but Red fascism." J. F. Brown
— + Ann Am Acad 277:272 S '51 900w

Booklist 47:288 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by M. A. Fitzsimons
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Mr 25 '51 400w

"This is an important book. It is important because it attempts to deal with the greatest single threat to our political and religious freedom—the rise of totalitarian mass movements in the past two decades." J. B. Parrish
+ Churchman 165:16 S '51 210w

Reviewed by H. A. Reinhold
Commonweal 54:217 Je 8 '51 1650w

"A provocative and difficult book. Some of her historical generalizations are questionable and too much of her interpretation is taken from the particular experience of Germany. But the book abounds in challenging insights which some readers will find stimulating, and others highly irritating."
+ — Foreign Affairs 29:666 Jl '51 70w

"A highly serious and commanding study, written not only knowledgeably but eloquently."
+ Kirkus 19:90 F 1 '51 180w

"Dr. Arendt writes lucidly, but makes no concessions to casual readers. Her book will appeal to serious students of history of ideas and international relations. Recommended for academic and large public libraries." F. E. Hirsch
+ Library J 76:510 Mr 15 '51 100w

"Academic historians will dislike this book intensely; they will have to read it." Max Beloff
+ — Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 27 '51 490w

"In 'The Origins of Totalitarianism' Dr. Hannah Arendt—a trained philosopher, a discerning critic, and a recognized authority on anti-Semitism—has produced what is without question a remarkable book. It is certainly the most important work on totalitarianism that has appeared since Franz Neumann's 'Behemoth.'" H. S. Hughes
+ Nation 172:280 Mr 24 '51 1850w

Reviewed by David Spitz
New Repub 125:19 S 3 '51 750w

"There are interpretations of totalitarianism that take into account a wider diversity of factors and are more descriptive of the divergent forms which it has assumed in our epoch. Even applied to Nazi Germany, moreover, Miss Arendt's analysis leaves questions unanswered. But her book will be read as a brilliantly creative reconstruction, lit by little-known facts and unfamiliar relationships. It will stand as the measure of one person's spiritual torment and victory." August Heckscher
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 8 '51 1050w

"Though it is in its way a work of scholarship—the mass of citations from a wide variety of sources testify to orderly and well-filled notebooks—it is written throughout under the stress of deep emotion; for Miss Arendt totalitarianism is a tragedy of the human race—the ultimate denial of the worth and dignity of the individual. . . Whatever its shortcomings, either in its general thesis or on particular issues, the book is the work of one who has thought as well as suffered." E. H. Carr
+ — N Y Times p3 Mr 25 '51 1250w

New Yorker 27:121 Ap 7 '51 280w

Reviewed by T. I. Cook
Pol Sci Q 66:290 Je '51 1750w

"Though at least to this reviewer no clear and convincing pattern of the origins of totalitarianism in anti-Semitism and imperialism emerges, the book, in which each page bears witness to the author's lucid intelligence and power of provocative analysis, will amply repay the careful reader." Hans Kohn
+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 Mr 24 '51 1400w

"A profound and important book."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p536 Ag 24 '51 1250w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:161 Je '51 290w

Reviewed by H. R. Rudin
Yale R n s 41:122 autumn '51 400w

ARFELLI, DANTE. The unwanted; tr. from the Italian by Frances Frenaye. 235p $2.75 Scribner
51-5875

Novel by a young Italian writer, picturing postwar life in Rome. It is the story of a lonely younger man from the provinces who arrives in Rome hoping to get a job, and of the prostitute who takes him home with her, and of the love story which follows this unlikely beginning.

Reviewed by August Derleth
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 19 '51 400w

Kirkus 19:303 Je 15 '51 110w

"Bitter in its episodes, this is still an optimistic story in its concern with the human spirit. Recommended for all collections attempting to cover current fiction of literary substance." R. E. Kingery
+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 130w

"It has all the virtues of the old school; the background is well drawn and the characters have a real life of their own. Indeed its merits are great as sheer narration. It has, however, none of the subtleties, the stratification of character or the sophisticated nuances that writers of the last twenty years in Italy and elsewhere have led us to expect in the novel. . . Frances Frenaye has made an excellent translation which preserves the clear and compact style of the original." T. G. Bergin
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ag 19 '51 600w

"It is a story one can find in any issue of a Rome newspaper, if the newspaper bothers to report a tragedy so commonplace. The sparseness of the plot is matched by the bare dialogue. These are people, for the most part, without words for their own drama, who can express themselves only in worn proverbs and sighs. Yet the author is at his best with them." W. F. Weaver
+ N Y Times p4 Ag 19 '51 360w

"Though the novel is uneven, in places faltering and uncertain, and consistently dismal, it is a remarkably convincing one." Anthony West
+ — New Yorker 27:109 S 8 '51 1100w

"Here is another young Italian novelist of remarkable promise. . . No tale about pure love between innocent bourgeois teen-agers could be more tender, more poignant, and in fact nobler, than this story about a prostitute and a not very bright nor very active boy. . . It is a pity Signor Arfelli has inserted in his book a number of upper-class scenes attempting social satire. They are decidedly second-hand." Robert Pick
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:20 Ag 18 '51 290w

ARGOW, WENDELIN WALDEMAR WIELAND. What do religious liberals believe? 94p $1.50 Antioch press
230 Liberalism (religion) 50-3149

"Dr. Argow gives an outline of liberal religion for those reaching out beyond the kinds they find on every side. The brotherhood of man, the perfectibility of man, the superiority of reason to superstition, and the presence in the universe of certain undergirding laws of justice, goodness, mercy and love which cannot be broken without paying a penalty—these will be the foundations for the coming universal religion of humanity, says the author." Springf'd Republican

"The book surely does a disservice to religious liberalism." F. J. Moore
Churchman 164:16 S 1 '50 90w

"This book is useful as a brief and readable summary of a certain variety of religious humanism. It is unfortunate that the author has chosen to contrast this only with a severe caricature of orthodoxy (cf. the treatment of Paul and Augustine and of orthodox conceptions of prayer). Argow's New Testament criticism is clearly dated, especially in the easy way in which he distinguishes the 'Jesus of History' from the theology of the early church and in the irreconcilable conflict he sees between the views of Jesus and Paul. Most serious, however, is a certain presumption implied in the title of the book; viz., the suggestion that this is what all religious liberals believe." Claude Welch
+ — J Religion 31:226 Jl '51 330w

Springf'd Republican p12C Je 4 '50 130w

ARGUS, MIKHAIL KONSTANOVICH. Moscow-on-the-Hudson; with il. by the author. 182p $2.50 Harper
325.247 Russians in the U.S. 51-9240

The story of the author's arrival in New York, following the Russian revolution, thirty years ago. He describes his own reactions and those of some of his Russian friends, who once felt exiled from their homeland, but now are beginning to take a different stand.

Booklist 47:165; 199 Ja 1 '51; F 1 '51

"Harmless, good-natured lunacy seems an outstanding feature of this national caricature, and it is perhaps as revealing as any we have had. For between cheerful lunacy and the harmful kind lies a margin too narrow these days for the world's safety." C. B. Burnett
Christian Science Monitor p7 Ja 31 '51 420w

Kirkus 18:687 N 15 '50 160w

"This is a rich, ridiculous and perceptive account of Russians in a strange land. The author manages to bridge the gap between two civilizations, and find occasion for humor on both sides of the gap. His Russian characters are absurd and delightful, and his stories are worth reading and re-reading." Lorine Pruette
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ja 21 '51 900w

"An uneven, motley book in which personal recollections and anecdotes alternate with short stories and character drawings. Its aim is to amuse rather than to narrate, and the Russian emerges from its pages as a conventional stock figure—loquacious, unpredictable, inconsequential, leaping from utter melancholy to wildest joy and completely devoid of any common sense." Marc Slonim
N Y Times p6 Ja 21 '51 850w

"Excellent material, rounded off neatly with a description of 'the new aristocracy' of Russian refugees, whose actions and attitudes so closely resemble those of Mr. Argus and his friends thirty years ago that the members of the latter group have suddenly been brought to realize how very un-Russian they have become."
+ New Yorker 27:116 Je 9 '51 170w

"This is a warm, friendly, funny and touching little book. A lot of people will find it not merely good reading but a worth while hint on seeing ourselves as others see us. In this sense it is a guidebook to America for everybody."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ja 17 '51 850w

"The book is a bit of Chekhov, a bit of Gogol, a bit of Mark Twain, but mostly of Mr. Argus himself, a civilized citizen, who is more amused than saddened by his own imperfections and by the failings of his compatriots in Moscow-on-the-Hudson." Maurice Hindus
+ Sat R of Lit 34:22 F 17 '51 1000w

Springf'd Republican p8D Mr 11 '51 240w

Wis Lib Bul 47:56 Mr '51

ARKELL, REGINALD. Old Herbaceous; il. by John Minton. 160p $2 Harcourt
51-9199

Bert Pinnegar, aged eighty, sitting in his cottage window overlooking the Manor gardens, muses on the days when he was head gardener there and things were much better. Bit by bit the picture of Bert's life is built up, from his childhood in the 1880's, to the almost-present, and glimpses of English history and English gardening add to the picture.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

Bookmark 10:109 F '51 50w

ARKELL, REGINALD—Continued
"Old Herbaceous celebrates the good old days without being testy about the new; scarcely a novel, this is rather a mild, pleasant, yet pallid tale." Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:76 Ap '51 100w

Reviewed by August Derleth
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Mr 4 '51 350w

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '51

+ Kirkus 18:730 D 15 '50 160w

"Recommended." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:179 F 1 '51 110w

"Here is a tale gardeners and garden lovers will welcome with enthusiasm. . . There are excellent passages of good gardening sense as well there might be, seeing that Mr. Arkell is known for his writings on country subjects. Without sentimentality or over-drawing, he has presented an authentic picture of an old gardener true to the last petal and destined to become the 'esteemed friend' of all who claim green fingers." Richardson Wright
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 F 11 '51 500w

"Only occasionally does a book come along concerning which one can say: 'Here is a gardening book for every garden lover.' This is such a book. . . Reginald Arkell, the son of a Gloucestershire farmer, is the author of many British musical plays. In 'Old Herbaceous' he has distilled the fragrance of bygone days. It is good writing, not overdone, as refreshing and pleasant as a summer morning in a garden after needed night showers." H. S. Pearson
+ N Y Times p20 F 11 '51 360w

New Yorker 26:104 F 10 '51 20w

"Mr. Arkell does the job perfectly. Without once seeming to intend it, he lets the reader see just how the rounding and strengthening of one gardener's character is no more and no less than the development of personality, of character, of essential humanity in all men in any walk of life." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 8 '51 900w

" 'Old Herbaceous' is at once a loving and amused portrait of a type of English countryman for which perhaps the mold is broken and the pattern lost, and a salute to a tradition and a way of life now gone forever. A thoroughly delightful little novel, it is made to order for those who are heard to complain frequently that 'everything written today is so unpleasant.' " Pamela Taylor
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 F 10 '51 450w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p8C F 11 '51 270w

"It is a story about flowers and the seasons and work among them, rather than about people. . . Only the old man is real, and by making him a crusty old bachelor the feeling of sentimentality has been avoided. People have a need for a success story occasionally, and this one can be heartily recommended."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p745 N 24 '50 480w

"A delightful book."
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:61 Mr '51

ARM, WALTER. Pay-off; the inside story of big city corruption; with a foreword by Miles F. McDonald. 267p $3 Appleton

364 Crime and criminals—Brooklyn. Gambling. Corruption (in politics) 51-7552

"The tale of the investigation made by the Brooklyn District Attorney and his staff, in 1950 and 1951, of a profit-sharing alliance between gamblers and policemen in New York City." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Kirkus 19:517 S 1 '51 170w

"Mr. Arm, one of The New York Herald Tribune's leading crime reporters, has done an excellent job. . . The book is important as an exposé of conditions which produce such corruption, but it is also a tribute to the self-sacrificing work of Miles McDonald, his staff, and the grand jury which heard the case over a period of two years." J. E. Brown
+ Library J 76:1929 N 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by John Lardner
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 4 '51 750w

"The cops-and-bookies investigation in Brooklyn which made national news copy for the past two years is summarized thoroughly and smoothly in 'Pay Off,' a tightly written book by an expert crime reporter. . . Arm has told the facts simply and dramatically, so that the narrative reads like fiction. Unfortunately, it is not fiction." Emanuel Perlmutter
N Y Times p11 D 16 '51 280w

ARMITAGE, MERLE, ed. Five essays on Paul Klee. 121p il $5 Duell

759.9494 Klee, Paul 50-10565

The essays are by Merle Armitage, Clement Greenberg, Howard Devree, Nancy Wilson Ross, and James Johnson Sweeney, with The Marionette Theatre, Kleist's essay written in 1800. Includes fourteen of Klee's hitherto unpublished drawings.

"Delightful volume. . . A welcome supplement to the text is the provocative essay written by Heinrich von Kleist early in the 19th century." Dorothy Adlow
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 D 16 '50 90w

"Of the five essays, Greenberg's, which traces subtly the origins and subsequent influences of Klee's style, is the most substantial. The others waste too much time describing particular pictures which the book does not contain." Selden Rodman
N Y Times p16 Ja 28 '51 600w

ARMS, GEORGE WARREN, and KUNTZ, JOSEPH MARSHALL. Poetry explication; a checklist of interpretation since 1925 of British and American poems past and present. (Contemporary critics) 187p $3 Morrow

016.821 English poetry—History and criticism—Bibliography. American poetry—History and criticism—Bibliography 50-10623

"The compilers of this checklist define explication as 'an examination of a work of literature for a knowledge of each part, for the relation of these parts to each other, and for their relation to the whole.' From books and literary periodicals representing the New Criticism, they have made an index to such analyses of specific poems. The references are all from publications of the past 25 years and most of them will be found in the larger libraries. The works of modern poets are predominant but the rule of inclusion is past and present, British and American." Library J

Kirkus 18:574 S 15 '50 130w

"The point-of-view is generally a little more doctrinaire than librarians might wish, but the book will be very helpful when the call comes, as it does so frequently, for interpretations of difficult poems." George McDonald
Library J 75:1668 O 1 '50 150w

"The editors have invited additional entries. For the next edition they might want to reconsider their having excluded items listing explications of long poems and dramas, at least passages from Shakespeare. The editors might also want to reconsider their attitude toward explication as such, that is, to be a little less respectful about its virtue. . . Explication passes into criticism only in skillful hands, and evaluation is a problem most modern critics have left to implication or have sidestepped. But all of these are minor issues insofar as the general usefulness of Poetry Explication goes. It is a volume which should be owned by every student and teacher of English poetry." W. V. O'Connor
Poetry 77:289 F '51 800w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:211 Je '51 210w

ARMSTRONG, CHARLOTTE. Black-eyed stranger. 216p $2.50 Coward-McCann 51-3718

Story of pseudo-kidnapping done to prevent a real one.

"Deft development of harrowing dilemma and fright for odd type of hero gives gripping impact to fantastic melodrama." Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Jl 1 '51 70w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 8 '51 130w

"This is a suspense study in kidnapping. It would be stronger if it were not for two publications of 1950: Thomas Walsh's definitive kidnap novel, 'Nightmare in Manhattan,' and Miss Armstrong's own 'Mischief,' surely one of the finest pure terror-suspense stories ever written. Remembering those two novels, one finds the new Armstrong a trifle flat and unconvincing." Anthony Boucher
— + N Y Times p16 Jl 15 '51 150w

"Miss Armstrong, whose 'Mischief' and 'The Unsuspected' are two of the best mysteries of recent years, has excelled herself this time, and here is a book that can hardly be too highly recommended."
+ New Yorker 27:90 Je 23 '51 120w

"Underworld characters good, but not in Miss Armstrong's best line; suspense, excellent; conclusion, honest. B plus." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 Jl 1 '51 90w

"Miss A's touch slipped on this one though you'll probably want to read. Somewhat tedious." Kathleen Sproul
— + Sat R of Lit 34:32 Jl 7 '51 50w

ARMSTRONG, HAMILTON FISH. Tito and Goliath. 312p $3.50 Macmillan

327.497 Yugoslavia—Foreign relations—Russia. Russia—Foreign relations—Yugoslavia. Tito, Josip Broz. Communism. Yugoslavia—Politics and government 51-101

This book on Marshal Tito "goes outside the frontiers of Yugoslavia and analyzes the impact of Tito's heresy on other 'iron curtain' countries and the general methods of soviet control... The author believes that Tito, after trying to tread a narrow tightrope of neutrality between Stalin's empire and the 'capitalist' west, has been driven by the logic of events into a more favorable attitude toward the west. Tito, according to Mr. Armstrong, possesses the largest land force in Europe outside of Russia, with a million and a quarter men at his disposal. The author argues that Yugoslav participation in war on the western side, or even Yugoslav neutrality, is worth the economic support, without attached strings, which the United States has been extending." (Chicago Sunday Tribune) Index.

"Tito and Goliath occupies a distinguished place in the mushrooming American literature on Eastern European politics. Cleverly combining ponderous theory with lighthearted personal observation, the author succeeds in assembling a truthful record of the Soviet-Yugoslav dispute and in offering pertinent military, economic and social reasons for the climactic clash of power and personality." Andrew Gyorgy
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:561 Je '51 750w

"The most menacing challenge that has arisen to the Stalinist idea is trenchantly explored in Tito and Goliath. Mr. Armstrong visited Eastern Europe last year and talked with Tito. His admirably written account of Belgrade's rebellion and its repercussions throughout the Communist world makes a fascinating and encouraging story, which, incidentally, has its quota of grim humor." C. J. Rolo
+ Atlantic 187:86 F '51 400w

Booklist 47:231 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 30w

"Since the author has been a student of the Balkans for over thirty years and a frequent visitor there, his judgment carries all the more weight. He has given us not only a first-rate description of Tito and his policies but also a timely survey of the signs of discontent in the other Soviet satellites where the Tito heresy made a deep impression." F. H. Soward
+ Canadian Hist R 32:268 S '51 200w

"What the author says is reasonable and certainly deserves careful consideration. When he touches upon the relationship between the Church and various governments he makes obvious and successful attempts to be impartial. But even recognizing his overall purpose we find it a bit hard to accept what seems an over-indulgent attitude toward Tito."
Cath World 173:398 Ag '51 240w

"A solid, informative, thoughtful book." W. H. Chamberlin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ja 14 '51 500w

Reviewed by Ernest Pisko
Christian Science Monitor p11 Ja 18 '51 500w

Reviewed by Max Fischer
Commonweal 53:449 F 9 '51 1200w

Current Hist 20:171 Mr '51 60w

Foreign Affairs 29:499 Ap '51 60w

"A careful, concise, detailed history of the background of Yugoslavia's break with the Kremlin."
+ Kirkus 18:715 D 1 '50 120w

"Despite its great merits this book arouses one major doubt. The entire subject is so complex and requires so much background, which the author has but which many of his readers will presumably lack, that one wonders whether the general public will follow the tortuous thread... This is an excellent book." R. L. Wolff
+ — Nation 172:110 F 3 '51 1450w

Reviewed by H. N. Brailsford
New Statesman & Nation 41:602 My 26 '51 1250w

"There is a good deal of news—material that so far as I know has never been printed before—in Mr Armstrong's admirable book... 'Tito and Goliath' is a book earnestly to be recommended to all literate and discriminating citizens." John Gunther
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Ja 14 '51 1600w

"If 'Tito and Goliath' seems fairly heavy going there is a reason for it; the subject is a complex one, and one which, unfortunately, is relatively unfamiliar to Americans. Nevertheless, the book is imperative reading—most of all is it imperative for those members of Congress who maintain a sharp scrutiny on our foreign policy as it adjusts itself to the profound revolt in the Marxist ranks." C. L. Sulzberger
+ N Y Times p1 Ja 14 '51 1500w

"A careful examination of the Tito-Stalin quarrel by the editor of Foreign Affairs. Mr. Armstrong has known Yugoslavia ever since he did a tour of diplomatic duty in Belgrade more than thirty years ago, and he has had several recent talks with Tito... His suggestions, which do not include embracing the Marshal as a friend, deserve serious and responsible consideration."
+ New Yorker 26:94 F 3 '51 200w

Reviewed by P. E. Mosely
Pol Sci Q 66:125 Mr '51 750w

"It is a superb theme for historical study and meditation, even now when the lines of destiny are still unclear before us. What Mr. Armstrong has done with it is so admirable in every respect, so fully informed and coolly reasoned, that one could wish it under the eyes and into the minds of all who have to deal with foreign policy. . . The book is so good and so valuable that it can stand one small word of complaint: it does not show much feeling, except in regard to Czechoslovakia." Vincent Sheean
+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 Ja 13 '51 1400w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Wiskemann
Spec 185:591 My 4 '51 100w

"This book will be of great value to the serious student of world affairs, particularly to one who desires an understanding of what is going on in Eastern Europe today."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:161 Je '51 240w

Reviewed by R. J. Kerner
+ Yale R n s 40:758 summer '51 550w

ARNOLD, BYRON, ed. Folksongs of Alabama. 193p il $4.50 Univ. of Ala. press

784.4 Folk songs, American 50-14684

"A collection of melodies and their verses with concordances to other versions in published form. Arrangement is by individual Alabama singer whose repertory follows biographical or autobiographical notes. Indexes by title, first lines, and type (English ballads, Negro folk songs, play party songs)." Library J

"Any library which collects regional folk materials will need this volume to help fill out its picture of the south." C. K. Miller

+ Library J 75:1827 O 15 '50 60w

Reviewed by Charles Seeger

Music Lib Assn Notes 8:523 Je '51 500w

"This volume is carefully prepared, based on sound scholarship, and a credit to both Mr. Arnold and his publisher." Carl Carmer

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ja 7 '51 320w

ARNOLD, RALPH. Fish and company. 248p $2.75 Macmillan

51-4265

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

Reviewed by Drexel Drake

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 12 '51 60w

Kirkus 19:80 F 1 '51 70w

"The murder mystery seems almost negligible against this bright background of an English villa in Italy, but there is an excellently conceived plot, and it is most pleasantly told."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 15 '51 160w

"Mr. Arnold has written Fish and Company with the exuberance of a novelist; his characters are all too faithfully delineated, if they are intended to mislead. So many of his would-be-suspects absolve themselves by their evident charm that he allows himself no margin for villains. This is the only flaw in his equipment." Ralph Partridge

+ New Statesman & Nation 41:348 Mr 24 '51 310w

Reviewed by K. S. Cole

N Y Times p12 Je 24 '51 190w

"Well written, with a perfectly sound plot that is a little hard to follow."

+ New Yorker 27:124 My 26 '51 110w

"At the finale everyone pairs off with such suspicious neatness that you may detect satire; the general effect is gay." L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p12 Je 3 '51 90w

"It is not to murderers, but to people as avid as I am for urbane and amusing detective fiction, that I recommend this delectable dish. It is, as Dr. Johnson said of haggis, fine confused feeding—villas in Italy, Rolls-Royces, Bentleys, charming characters, witty dialogue, a dear little detective, and several happy endings." Barbara Worsley-Gough

+ Spec 185:190 F 9 '51 100w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 70w

ARNSTEIN, FLORA J. (MRS LAWRENCE ARNSTEIN). Adventure into poetry. 217p $3 Stanford univ. press

372.88081 Children as authors. Poetry—Study and teaching 51-9822

"An . . . experiment, conducted at the Presidio Open-Air School by Flora Arnstein, provides the subject of, and the reason for, this book. Mrs. Arnstein inducts her young pupils into the world of poetry by the unique method of having them write their own poems, long before the average student is even aware that there is such a thing as metrical writing." (San Francisco Chronicle) Index of first lines. General index.

Booklist 47:290 Ap 15 '51

"Teachers and parents, as well as other persons who live closely with children and closely to children, will find the book a new and fresh approach to the 'inner spirit' of children and a contribution to their own experiences and sincere efforts in guiding children through satisfying adventures into poetry." Laura Oftedal

El School J 52:56 S '51 1100w

"The publication this spring of Flora J. Arnstein's Adventure into Poetry is an exciting event for all who are interested in children's creative expression. A San Francisco teacher's account of her experiences with children and poetry, it is equally inspiring and rewarding, whether she is telling of their writing or of their response to poetry read aloud." J. D. L.

+ Horn Bk 27:147 My '51 280w

"As a handbook for educators interested in similar results, or as a study in the formative processes of poetic creation which might well be undertaken by any intending poet, 'Adventure into Poetry' can be highly recommended." George Snell

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 F 11 '51 400w

School & Society 73:93 F 10 '51 50w

ARTS in renewal, by Lewis Mumford [and others] introd. by Sculley Bradley. 156p $2.50 Univ. of Pa. press

901 Civilization, Modern. Literature. Music 51-10150

"Five essays evaluate recent trends in American arts. The first, by Lewis Mumford, is an overall survey; those following are on poetry, by Peter Viereck, on music, by William Schuman, on the novel, by James Michener, and on the theatre, by Marc Connelly. Stimulating discussions presented with clarity. Orignially given as the Benjamin Franklin Lectures at the University of Pennsylvania." Booklist

Booklist 47:325 My 15 '51

"It is heartening and significant that the survey of the arts presented in this interesting small volume should be keyed to the idea of 'renewal.' . . It is fitting that Mr. Mumford should herald this renewal. No one has more deeply considered the roots of revolt in the arts nor more lucidly interpreted their development than has he in his great trilogy which began with 'Technics and Civilization' in 1934 and finished, a decade later with 'The condition of Man.' " O. D. Hormel

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 3 '51 850w

"Although these essays are well-intentioned, only Mr. Mumford has kept to the spirit of the theme and he alone has succeeded in making a major statement: one humanist's true opposition to the anti-human, to the machine which in this century has replaced Lucifer as the solemn image of darkness in our lives." Gore Vidal

N Y Times p9 Ag 5 '51 600w

New Yorker 27:123 My 26 '51 210w

"No one can read these essays without being refreshed and stimulated, although the evidence on which several authors base their conclusions is selective and the conclusions themselves are highly controversial. Sometimes the mere announcement of a new movement is all that is needed to call it into being."

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:139 Je '51 250w

ASCH, SHALOM. Moses; tr. by Maurice Samuel. 505p $3.75 Putman

Moses—Fiction 51-12035

"In this historical mural drawn from Biblical sources Mr. Asch offers a panoramic novel of the Exodus, with Moses the epic hero. From the early identification of Moses with the Egyptian god Horus, through mighty deeds and deep suffering of soul, to the final assumption of Moses into heaven of the Hebrew God, the tale has heroic proportions." Library J

"It gives me no pleasure to disparage the enormous creative effort which has gone into Mr. Asch's novel; and his passionate dedication as a writer commands respect. But it would be hypocrisy to profess that I can see what Asch's telling of the Moses story has that the Old Testament version does not have—except for roughly 100,000 additional words and the fact that we did not have to read it in Sunday school." C. J. Rolo

Atlantic 188:95 N '51 190w

Booklist 48:2; 31 S 1 '51; S 15 '51

"It is unfortunate that this account of Moses, admirable in so many ways, cannot with honesty be termed a great novel." Edward Peters

— + Cath World 174:159 N '51 250w

"Not many modern novelists have discovered such a vivid tale to tell as Sholem Asch has found in this book. It loses none of its vividness at his hands, and compared to Mann's books, 'Moses' is easy reading. It will no doubt find a very wide hearing." Edward Wagenknecht

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 S 23 '51 440w

"If there is a weakness in this book, it is in the author's failure or inability to evoke more clearly the centuries of spiritual advancement which preceded the Exodus and which made it possible. . . Such criticism apart, however, this volume is, in many ways, worthy of its transcendental theme. One puts it down with a warmer appreciation of what one of the colossal events in history meant in human terms." J. G. Harrison

+ — Christian Science Monitor p13 S 27 '51 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p28 N '51

Reviewed by J. M. Oesterreicher

Commonweal 54:602 S 28 '51 900w

"A monumental achievement and one into which Sholem Asch has poured the scholarship which endows remote Biblical times with an aliveness and a vitality that transforms the Pentateuch (the five books of Moses) into a human vital story."

+ Kirkus 19:401 Ag 1 '51 280w

"Imposing in its stately language rather than illuminating in conception, the novel will bring to Asch readers something very much to their taste." M. E. Monroe

+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 80w

"By not always adhering to the role of a straight expositor of the Biblical narrative and taking its events for unadorned fact, Asch may disconcert readers who prize consistency. . . But these discordances are few. Admirable justice is done to the major aspects of Moses' character and work. . . Asch's selections and explanations of the legal codes which are basic to Judaism have remarkable clarity and concision." Marvin Lowenthal

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 S 23 '51 1150w

Reviewed by Walter Mehring

N Y Times p5 S 23 '51 800w

New Yorker 27:140 O 27 '51 30w

"If for no other reason but to renew his acquaintance and compare, the reader will turn again to the Bible after laying Sholem Asch's novel down to see how Moses looks in the Old Testament, and any book that invites us to read the Scriptures for ourselves is always a good one." Jack Aldridge

+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 S 23 '51 1100w

Reviewed by Edmund Fuller

Sat R of Lit 34:16 S 22 '51 750w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn

Springf'd Republican p14C O 14 '51 450w

Time 58:104 O 1 '51 240w

ASCH, SHALOM. Salvation; tr. by Willa and Edwin Muir. rev & enl ed 343p $3.50 Putnam

51-9849

Novel about the making of a Jewish saint in post-Napoleonic Poland. Altho it was published in this country in abridged form in 1934 (Book Review Digest 1934) this is the first time it has been issued here in its entirety.

Booklist 47:295 Ap 15 '51

"The book has a strong anti-Catholic tone and suicide is justified." Riley Hughes

Cath World 173:394 Ag '51 180w

"It is a book that will make you laugh and make you weep. All the rich texture of background, all the vivid flesh and blood personalities, all the sweep of dramatic action we expect from Asch are here in their full measure. But with them is a deep probing examination of the mysterious 'hunger and thirst after righteousness,' and of the true nature of holiness and the love of God. It is a great novel." Edmund Fuller

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ap 8 '51 450w

"There is a universality in his interpretation of the essential spirit of religion that should reach beyond a Jewish market."

+ Kirkus 19:165 Mr 15 '51 220w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Je 10 '51 310w

"The unfamiliarity of its materials and background will probably prevent it from making so wide an appeal as that of Asch's well-known New Testament trilogy, but it is far more compelling fiction." Edward Wagenknecht

N Y Times p16 Ap 15 '51 320w

"Although there is plentiful incident in the book and a well drawn picture of an alien and almost vanished society the story is primarily a tracing of the spiritual depths that are possible within Judaism and particularly of what it means to be a 'pious Jew.' " E. M. T.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Ap 15 '51 550w

Reviewed by Robert Pick

Sat R of Lit 34:26 Ag 25 '51 500w

" 'Salvation' is an archaically beautiful book, written in the cadences of the Psalms; its quality, like the quality of many of Sholem Asch's novels, is apart from its worth as a mere story since it is a book written by a man who is deeply concerned with the meaning of faith, irrespective of religious creeds and who is also infinitely aware of the frailties of humanity." L. S. Munn

+ Springf'd Republican p10D Ap 15 '51 300w

ASHE, DOUGLAS, pseud. Shroud for grandma. 192p $2.50 Scribner

51-11515

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:251 My 15 '51 50w

"The pursuit of grandmama's murderer makes a torturous and somewhat overelaborate story. But Mr. Ashe has pulled off an amusing stunt in style and the result is a most entertaining book."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 29 '51 160w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher

+ N Y Times p11 S 2 '51 40w

"Intricate and perhaps a bit overwritten, but a legitimate enough puzzle."

+ New Yorker 27:119 S 8 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Jl 22 '51 70w

"Class A." Kathleen Sproul

+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 S 1 '51 50w

ASHLEY-MONTAGU, MONTAGUE FRANCIS. On being intelligent. 236p $2.95 Schuman

153 Conduct of life. Intellect 51-13624

"Another guide to successful or, in this book, intelligent living. Designed to aid any individual to find by the use of his intelligence, a rounded life, fulfilling the whole of his potentialities and satisfying all of his spiritual and material desires." (Library J) No index.

Booklist 48:93 N 15 '51

Kirkus 19:547 S 15 '51 210w

ASHLEY-MONTAGU, M. F.—Continued

"Ashley Montague, head of anthropology at Rutgers, has a direct and forceful style which the literate adult can read with ease and pleasure." Harold Lancour

+ Library J 76:1704 O 15 '51 130w

"This primer of human intelligence is written in language so simple and lucid, and substantiated by such convincing standard samples of everyday behavior, that it can be easily understood by children, and thoroughly enjoyed by adults." Martin Gumpert

+ N Y Times p12 D 9 '51 220w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 N 25 '51 290w

"Perhaps most of the readers who come to this book will—by virtue of being readers—have already encountered elsewhere most of the scientific facts it reports. The book does not aim to startle with the hitherto unknown. What it does, however, with primer-like simplicity, is to show that no individual can reasonably claim to be intelligent today until he has grappled intelligently with certain facts and their implications: facts about his own make-up and his place in the human scheme of things." B. W. Overstreet

+ Sat R of Lit 34:12 N 10 '51 750w

ASHLEY-MONTAGU, MONTAGUE FRANCIS. Statement on race; an extended discussion in plain language of the UNESCO statement by experts on race problems. 172p $2 Schuman

572 Race 51-9689

"[The author], a professor of Anthropology who was one of the members of the Committee which drafted the UNESCO statement of race, amplifies that statement here in a chapter by chapter analysis of its twenty-one paragraphs. This is the biological concept of race as against the social concept." (Kirkus) Annotated bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Gabriel Lasker

Am Anthropol 53:563 O '51 500w

"The merit of a book such as this lies in the fact that it gives to professional teachers of the social sciences, as well as to nonprofessionals interested in race relations, the backing of the authoritative statement about race from the point of view of human biology." Jitsuichi Masuoka

+ Am J Soc 57:405 Ja '52 450w

"On the whole Professor Montagu has done a masterly job of condensation and effective writing which is, at the same time, scientifically sound." R. A. Schermerhorn

+ Am Soc R 16:580 Ag '51 420w

Reviewed by J. J. Honigmann

Ann Am Acad 276:164 Jl '51 470w

Booklist 47:247 Mr 15 '51

"'Statement on Race' is authoritative. It is simply and clearly written. . . I recommend the book to all persons of good will, of all colors or creed, or race." W. M. Krogman

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Mr 18 '51 320w

Reviewed by Neil Martin

Christian Science Monitor p9 Je 2 '51 500w

Reviewed by Joseph Fletcher

Churchman 165:17 Ag '51 130w

"On most points, few will wish to quarrel with Dr. Montagu's exposition. He, like others, is against 'sin.' His campaign, however, is repetitive. Repetition, moreover, seems to be endemic to his method. The reader should know everything that is to be said before it is said so that he will better understand any particular verse of the 'Statement.' But he will not understand 'everything' until he has read it all. . . Despite several shortcomings, Statement on Race provides a basically sound, simple, condensed account of race for the serious although unversed reader." H. H. Stroup

+ — Crozer Q 28:266 Jl '51 850w

Reviewed by Walter Watson

Ethics 61:332 Jl '51 200w

Foreign Affairs 30:156 O '51 10w

"A substantiation and clarification of an abused and misused term, this should be important (in many cases required) reading, with particular value for schools."

+ Kirkus 19:20 Ja 1 '51 150w

"Essential in all libraries to help eliminate 'racial' prejudices." J. M. Scherr

+ Library J 76:515 Mr 15 '51 110w

"In his discussion of race the author leans heavily on modern genetic concepts and the result is a definition of race which it is difficult to correlate with existing systems of racial classification or even with some of the points which the author is trying to make. . . In his treatment of the interrelations of race and nationality and of the lack of any proved correlation between race and psychological potentialities, the author stands on firmer ground. Here his position is that of most modern scientists and his statements are useful in clearing up both incorrect usage of terms and popular misapprehensions." Ralph Linton

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 Ap 22 '51 650w

"The present volume should prove very useful to schools, churches and all interested in good human relations." I. B.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Mr 18 '51 200w

"This book is a must for any intelligent layman who is still wondering what exactly 'race' is all about and what our 'racial' policy should be. It is also recommended for anyone who fancies that he belongs to a 'superior' race." W. C. Boyd

+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 Ap 28 '51 850w

School & Society 73:128 F 24 '51 20w

Reviewed by Rachel Davis-DuBois

Survey 87:239 My '51 550w

ASHTON, HELEN (MRS ARTHUR JORDAN). Letty Landon. 306p $3 Dodd

Landon, Letitia Elizabeth—Fiction 51-12416

A novel based upon the life of Letty Elizabeth Landon, a minor English poet, who was born in 1802 and died in 1838. She enjoyed some popularity in her younger years, before her unprotected state gave rise to scandal. Her love match with the dour Scotch governor of the African Gold coast ended in her death only a few months after her marriage.

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 4 '51 400w

"Twenty novels have given Helen Ashton a light hand with her material. She adapts her style to her story with an effect of vivid spontaneity. Here is no stuffy reconstruction, but lively participation in the whirl of a ruffled, tufted and enthralling milieu." Kathleen Cannell

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 11 '51 280w

Manchester Guardian p4 N 20 '51 210w

"One wishes that Miss Ashton could have included some samples of Letty's writings in her novel, but apart from that she has handled the subject with understanding and charm." Anne Brooks

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 S 23 '51 300w

"Readers of Miss Ashton's earlier book on Jane Austen know how well and movingly she can write. In other hands than hers the present 're-creation' might have been a maudlin nineteenth-century romance. Miss Ashton quietly elevates Letty Landon to something like the stature of a tragic heroine." Carlos Baker

+ N Y Times p47 N 18 '51 440w

"Miss Ashton makes too much of it all, and her book, though it has some interesting chapters, notably those dealing with the literary gatherings of the time, is long-drawn-out and burdened with listless passages of gossipy detail and talk."

New Yorker 27:119 S 29 '51 80w

"It is evident that Miss Ashton has a genuine gift for narrative, but this is so hidden through most of the story beneath mounds of literary 'information' and conversations which are essays in disguise, it does not appear in time to save her book from monotony. I suggest the formula is wrong." H. M. Jones

Sat R of Lit 34:34 O 6 '51 700w

"There is too much of everything, from celebrities to clothes, coiffures and furniture. The pity of this over-loading is the greater because two or three of the incidental portraits show Miss Ashton at her intuitive best. Lady Blessington is the woman to the life; Bulwer's dual personality (all the 'Ned' nonsense apart) is brilliantly implied; Grantley Berkeley is labelled blackguard once for all; Maclean (for the first time in any experience) comes grimly yet impressively alive. As for the heroine—courageous, lonely Letty Landon, chattering bravely, choking down her terrors, counting her meagre money before buying a new ribbon—she has found a champion at the last." Michael Sadleir
Spec 187:306 S 7 '51 500w

"Miss Ashton, well known for her fictional biographies, ploughs through the career of Letty Landon, the once notorious L.E.L., with praiseworthy resolution but little vivacity. Not distinguished enough to render a fictional interpretation of her life impertinent, Letty Landon . . . should make a good subject for a novel. Yet she emerges from Miss Ashton's story so anaemic, so essentially uninteresting, that a reader wonders why she was loved, why employed and why maligned."
Times [London] Lit Sup p561 S 7 '51 160w

ASHTON, SIR LEIGH, ed. Art of India and Pakistan; based on the great London exhibit, 1947-1948. 291p pl il $15 Coward-McCann
709.54 Art, Indic

"The Western world has a very sketchy knowledge of the art of India. Our knowledge, however, was expanded by the great London exhibition of Indian art in 1947-48. . . This catalogue refutes emphatically the commonly held idea that Indian art is so bound up with the complicated religious beliefs of the Far East that it is unintelligible to the West." N Y Times

"A most beautiful book. . . This book gives a second opportunity to study sculpture which probably will not again for many years leave the shores of India. Those in India who sent their national treasures so far may be satisfied with this record which has been made of them." G. W.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 9 '51 150w

"The book is thoroughly worthy of the occasion; the additions to our knowledge are considerable, particularly in the sections devoted to the paintings which were so curiously overlooked in public comments three years ago. Mr. Grey's historical discussion is good enough to deserve even more sumptuous illustration." Lawrence Gowing
+ New Statesman & Nation 41:308 Mr 17 '51 480w

Reviewed by Howard Devree
N Y Times p18 F 18 '51 90w

Reviewed by Dorothy Norman
Sat R of Lit 34:54 O 6 '51 800w

"The text is authoritative and scholarly, though not aggressively so, and it will be found acceptable both by specialists and the general public. On the whole the illustrations are good, the coloured plates excellent. There are a few general criticisms. The bibliography, except for the books and articles on painting, is arbitrarily chosen, omitting many major works. The glossary, in its effort to be rather too much the primer, contains a few strange definitions."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p146 Mr 9 '51 1150w

ASIMOV, ISAAC. I, Robot. 253p $2.50 Gnome press
51-9134

A science-fiction story about the year 2058, when man has conquered inter-stellar space. Dr Susan Calvin, a robot psychologist, tells a reporter for the Interplanetary Press of the evolution of robots from the "human" interest angle.

Booklist 47:188 Ja 15 '51

"Well plotted and ingenious." M. C. Scoggin
+ Horn Bk 27:197 My '51 100w

"This is an exciting science thriller, chiefly about what occurs when delicately conditioned robots are driven off balance by mathematical violations, and about man's eternal limitations. It could be fun for those whose nerves are not already made raw by the potentialities of the atomic age." N. M.
N Y Times p16 F 4 '51 140w

"Somehow you end up wishing the robots were here now and could take things over. In Asimov's words, 'They're a cleaner, better breed than we are.' " Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p17 F 4 '51 120w

ASIMOV, ISAAC. Stars, like dust. 218p $2.50 Doubleday
51-1170

"The U.S. Constitution whoofs across a thousand years of time and a million light years of space to bring peace and freedom to the Kingdom of the Horsehead Nebula and prove itself the Universe's strongest weapon. It provides, too, a happy ending to the love of Biron Farril of Widemos and Artemisia of Rhodia." Kirkus

Booklist 47:347 Je 1 '51
Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

Reviewed by Fritz Leiber
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Je 10 '51 160w

"Top writing, with a welcome interspersion of humor often rare in the field."
+ Kirkus 18:738 D 15 '50 60w

"Though its characterizations are only fair, its clear writing and excellent suspense make this book a welcome addition to the science fiction lists." Villiers Gerson
+ N Y Times p19 Je 3 '51 110w

Reviewed by Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Mr 4 '51 80w

"Another excellent science fiction novel." R. F. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p8C Mr 4 '51 130w

ATKINSON, BROOKS. See Atkinson, J. B.

ATKINSON, JUSTIN BROOKS. Once around the sun [il. by Don Freeman]. 376p il $4 Harcourt
818 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10385

The drama critic of the New York Times chronicles his day-by-day observations thruout one whole year, writing of life in city and country, about birds, and life in general, spiced with some facts of history as well.

Booklist 47:359 Je 15 '51
Bookmark 10:179 My '51 30w

Reviewed by W. M. Kunstler
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 1 '51 500w
Cleveland Open Shelf p14 Jl '51

"The book is terribly uneven. Wisdom and entertainment rub friendly shoulders with tedium, naturalness with strain. If one attempts a book about things 'around the sun' it is perhaps to be expected that everything under the sun should be discussed." John Cournos
+ — Commonweal 54:124 My 11 '51 270w

"Definitely for the essay market."
Kirkus 19:173 Mr 15 '51 180w

"For the reader of essays—and since that group is growing—the book may be generally purchased." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 76:771 My 1 '51 110w

ATKINSON, J. B.—Continued

"His diary of reflections and observations in the city and at his country home owes a considerable debt to Thoreau's journals. The writing lacks the bravura of the master, but in tone and content it is not unworthy of the comparison. A delightful book, but fie on the publisher for providing no index."

+ Nation 172:572 Je 16 '51 70w

"It is one of the best titles of the year. And the book sustains it. This doesn't mean that it will appeal to every one. It is a style of writing heartily detested by some people. It is more than discursive, it is fragmentary. . . But if you can stand Marcus Aurelius, Epictetus, Gracian, Pascal, then you can find something in Atkinson." G. W. Johnson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 My 20 '51 850w

"'Once Around the Sun' is that rare thing today, a happy book. One of Mr. Atkinson's favorite writers once complained that he knew of no book which would teach him how to spend an afternoon. The present volume describes how to get a good deal out of 365 of them. It is a lesson and a reproach to most of us." J. W. Krutch

+ N Y Times p6 My 6 '51 1150w

"Since Mr. Atkinson comments on topics ranging all the way from the annual run of shad in the Hudson to the inauguration of George Washington in 1789, the contents of his book can't be readily summed up. His enthusiasm for any creature with wings (except, possibly, the blue jay) is so pervasive, however, that it seems very likely that the volume will win him a niche among bird-lovers only slightly lower than that occupied by his friend John Kieran."

+ New Yorker 27:114 My 3 '51 170w

"This is the kind of book to keep at hand, reading a few pages a day or in an evening, letting them soak into you. Atkinson is no sermonizer; I don't want to give you that idea. He's a meditator, a friendly, sensible thinker who has here given the reader a glimpse into the way he looks at life, a man who has thought about such basic things as right and wrong and is willing to be stubborn about either if he thinks he should. In fact, he's an admirable doctor—for the mind." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 15 '51 800w

Reviewed by L. J. Halle

Sat R of Lit 34:19 My 19 '51 750w

Reviewed by J. M. Brown

+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 Ag 11 '51 2000w

Time 57:124 My 14 '51 500w

Wis Lib Bul 47:118 My '51

ATKINSON, ORIANA (TORREY) (MRS JUSTIN BROOKS ATKINSON). Twin cousins. 320p $3 Bobbs

51-12434

A romance of life in and around Catskill, New York, after the Revolution. It is the story of Luther Ware and his wife Content, and the widowed Dutch wife of Luther's cousin, and the inn they built on the Susquehanna Turnpike.

Booklist 48:49 O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:59 D '51 20w

Reviewed by A. F. Otis

Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 O 14 '51 400w

"A delightful novel. . . Recommended for small library purchase." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 90w

"An unassuming and unabashedly romantic tale that will please grownup readers who, like most children, prefer their stories straight and active, uncomplicated by nuances." Mary Ross

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 2 '51 360w

"This period piece by Oriana Atkinson is so exceptionally rewarding that it deserves more serious attention than the great majority of novels of the American past. Not a tale of derring-do but an honest attempt at a realistic re-creation of a time and a place in our national development, it is so convincing in its detail, so adept in its characterizations, so charming in its style that it deserves a place near the top of the list in recent historical fiction." Carl Carmer

+ N Y Times p5 S 2 '51 300w

New Yorker 27:120 S 29 '51 80w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 O 28 '51 250w

"If Kinsey and khaki are too much with you in your current fiction reading, Mrs. Atkinson's delightful new novel will come as welcome relief. . . It sparkles with freshness and achieves a quality of folk-yarning as authentic and amusing as Irving." Charles Lee

+ Sat R of Lit 34:25 S 29 '51 450w

ATWATER, MRS MARY (MEIGS). Shuttle-craft book of American hand-weaving. rev ed 341p il $5.50 Macmillan

745.52 Weaving. Textile fabrics. Textile design 51-10000

Revised edition of a book on weaving which first appeared over twenty years ago (Book Review Digest 1929). "An account of the rise, development, eclipse, and modern revival of a national popular art, together with information of interest and value to collectors, technical notes for the use of weavers & a large collection of historical patterns." (Subtitle) Index

Booklist 47:330 My 15 '51

"For schools and organized, teacher-led groups. It is not for the beginner to use at home, as it assumes a certain fundamental knowledge of weaving impossible for a beginner to have."

Kirkus 18:585 S 15 '50 90w

"The completely revised edition of a very useful handbook on American weaving."

+ Wis Lib Bul 47:85 Ap '51

ATWATER, MONTGOMERY MEIGS. Avalanche patrol. 247p $2.50 Random house

51-9983

"Brad Davis, a forester, takes over the ski resort at Snowhole and finds not only a great responsibility for the safety of the sportsmen but a mystery in the disappearance of his predecessor, Max Luthi. Brad discovers Max's body in an abandoned tunnel under the mountain. Then comes the long and dangerous task of identifying his murderer." Sat R of Lit

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

"Excellent sports action and vocational material in this mystery-adventure."

+ Kirkus 18:694 D 1 '50 70w

"A good adventure story for the skiing enthusiasts." Eleanor Kidder

+ Library J 76:969 Je 1 '51 70w

"Those high school boys who are slow readers will enjoy this freshly written, brief thriller, in large type." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 My 13 '51 70w

"The story offers a good combination of mystery and up-to-date outdoor adventure against a true background of ski lore and winter woodcraft that should have wide appeal." F. C. Smith

+ N Y Times p18 Ap 15 '51 150w

"Knowledge of the country, a contagious enthusiasm for skiing, and an ability to create convincing characters make this an unusually good adventure tale."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:53 My 12 '51 90w

AUDEN, WYSTAN HUGH. Nones. 81p $2.50 Random house

821 51-9674

"This volume brings together verse written during the last four years on many themes and occasions. Some of these poems have appeared in British and American periodicals and others are printed for the first time in this collection." Publisher's note

Atlantic 189:81 Ja '52 80w

Booklist 47:269 Ap 1 '51

Bookmark 10:179 My '51 30w

Reviewed by Paul Engle
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 8 '51 200w

Kirkus 19:84 F 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:518 Mr 15 '51 70w

"In the end, one says that Auden is a magnificent poet. His failures are the thoroughly honorable ones that scholars will one day regard as unfortunate but not uninstructive. Young poets who publicize them now to gain critical prestige are liable to the gravest charges. . . Two poems I found unreadable—Part II of Memorial for the City and Music Is International. The rest vary, of course; but all of them are examples of genuine feeling and craftsmanship in a time when the corruption of sensitivity and the abuse of language are the daily occupations of countless men." Hayden Carruth
+ Nation 172:524 Je 2 '51 750w

Reviewed by M. L. Rosenthal
New Repub 125:19 O 1 '51 900w

"Admirers of the early Auden predicted freely that Auden would never recover from his change of citizenship. This reviewer was among the Cassandras and he is happy to admit that he was mistaken. For not only is Auden now writing poems as good as any he had written in the past ('In Praise of Limestone' deserves to rank with the early 'Prologue' as among his very finest), but he has managed finally to substitute for a Public School radicalism a mature humility without abandoning either his social conscience or his wit." Selden Rodman
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Mr 18 '51 650w

"W. H. Auden's lightness and ease of motion, beautifully displayed in his new volume of poetry, 'Nones,' is based on a true maturity of heart and mind. Readers hungry for the false and melancholy certainties characteristic of so much contemporary writing will not find them here. They will find, instead, a record of adventures and ideas, with places, with other people and with history." Louise Bogan
+ N Y Times p10 F 25 '51 550w

Reviewed by Louise Bogan
New Yorker 27:110 Je 9 '51 80w

Reviewed by Stephen Spender
Poetry 78:352 S '51 1600w

"Nearly five years have passed since Auden's last book of poems, and it is pleasant, though scarcely exhilarating, to discover in 'Nones' that he is still at work in the old shop with the tested, reliable goods." Dudley Fitts
+ Sat R of Lit 34:23 Jl 21 '51 270w

Time 57:110 Ap 30 '51 600w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:145 Je '51 210w

"Dexterity, metrical skill (conspicuous in the shorter-lined poems), ironic wisdom, wry insights into history and its relation to the present—all this we have, and it is all worth having; but sometimes I would trade it all for one more lyric like 'Lay your sleeping head, my love, Human on my faithless arm.' " David Daiches
Yale R n s 41:155 Autumn '51 400w

AUDEN, WYSTAN HUGH, and PEARSON, NORMAN HOLMES, eds. Poets of the English language. (Viking portable lib) 5v ea $2.50; de luxe ed set $17.50 Viking

821.08 English poetry—Collections. American poetry—Collections 50-9508

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"A magnificent anthology. . . Most criticism will be leveled at Volume V, and it is weak, particularly toward the end. This is chiefly because the editors have ruled that any poet represented must have been born before 1870 and any poem printed before August, 1914. An arbitrary ruling, and it ruins Yeats. Yet one has to stop somewhere; and Volume V is, after all, a taking off point of Volumes VI and VII. Let us hope that they will be prepared by the same editors with the same felicitous result." Dudley Fitts
+ N Y Times p5 Jl 1 '51 500w

" 'Poets of the English Language' is a peculiarly modern achievement. It could have been produced only in our time, and it is a work for which we should be grateful and of which we should be proud." Louise Bogan
+ New Yorker 27:126 Mr 17 '51 1050w

"In Poets of the English Language we are in the high company of high seriousness and total scholarship. These companion volumes take you through the whole range of English and American poetry, with extensive commentaries and time-calendars to augment the studies of the poets in each volume. To appraise this Auden-Pearson collaboration is to praise their work indeed. It is objective and genteel in the over-all presentation, without gaucheries, gadgets, or log-rolling fellowships. It is poetry as poetry that commends these volumes." Harry Roskolenko
+ Poetry 77:179 D '50 1350w

"The choice of poems is admirable, though one might quarrel with it here and there. . . It seems to me that the collection gets better as it goes on, and I can think of no significant omissions from the later centuries. But why take the text of 'Anthony and Cleopatra' from the second folio when the first folio text is readily available . . But I must not be captious. This is in truth a splendid collection of poetry in the English language, done by editors who have a true feeling for poetic craftsmanship in all its glorious diversity." David Daiches
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 F 10 '51 1500w

Times [London] Lit Sup p328 My 25 '51 2800w

AUDRIETH, LUDWIG FREDERICK, and OGG, BETTY ACKERSON. Chemistry of hydrazine. 244p $5 Wiley

546.17 Hydrazine 51-10051

"Hydrazine, N_2H_4, is a very reactive chemical compound with many potential uses. . . To date most of these uses have not been realized on a commercial basis because there is no lowcost method of preparing the substance in spite of its simple chemical structure. In this monograph, all of the knowledge released for publication on the compound is organized and summarized with references to the literature, including patents. Most of the book is written from the viewpoint of theoretical and research chemists, but the chapter on uses is slanted for industrial chemists." N Y New Tech Bks

Reviewed by E. C. Gilbert
Am Chem Soc J 73:5011 O '51 600w

"The book is clearly written, exceptionally well organized, and free from errors. The typography is excellent." G. A. Michalek
+ Chem & Eng N 29:3113 Jl 30 '51 250w

"Purpose of the book is to summarize. It is well written and admirably presents a subject that is beginning to gain the interest of chemists and chemical engineers in the industrial field." C. C. Clark
+ Chem Eng 58:274 Jl '51 430w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:708 Ap 15 '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:37 My '51

"The authors have assembled and reported essentially all of the data appearing in the literature concerning the values of the physical and thermodynamic properties of hydrazine, and of its chemical properties and behavior."
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:315 S '51 250w

AUDUBON, JOHN JAMES. Audubon's animals; the quadrupeds of North America; comp. and ed. by Alice Ford. 222p pl $12.50; portfolio ed $15 Studio

599 Mammals. Animal pictures 51-13760

This book represents the complete set of 156 animal prints from the original Imperial folio and Royal octavo editions, and also includes many recent discoveries exhibited in connection with the hundredth anniversary.

AUDUBON, J. J.—Continued

"A beautifully illustrated volume which sets the record clear and which brings to light a number of unknown originals." Edward Weeks
+ Atlantic 189:85 Ja '52 150w
Bookmark 11:29 N '51 30w

"Much delightful reading matter, some by Audubon and some about him, accompanies the plates. Every animal lover will want to read closely the original notes on the animals, notes full of anecdote. . . There is excellent biographical matter, much of it not to be had elsewhere." A. C. Ames
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 O 28 '51 350w
+ Kirkus 19:592 O 1 '51 190w

"The book should stimulate study of original paintings and drawings; it is primarily valuable as example in drawing and painting. As a scientist Audubon may be old-hat but as a draughtsman he is for the ages. Recommended."
+ Library J 77:50 Ja 1 '52 140w

"Well printed, carefully edited, with intelligent selections from the original captions."
+ New Repub 125:21 D 10 '51 60w

"The reproductions, sixteen of which are in full color, leave little to be desired. In them we see the mature product of a man who started from scratch in the sense that his artistic style had no precedent. In a few instances it may be difficult to determine what share of a plate came from John James, the father and what from John Woodhouse, the younger son. But no matter, for they were of one genre. . . Miss Ford has handled her subject succinctly and well. She does not always write with lean clarity or even altogether syntactically. Her very first paragraph in Chapter I is marked by a confusion both of ideas and of personal pronouns, as well as by a metaphor that certainly should have been blocked! But she is saturated with her subject, she hews to the line and her account of Audubon's life carries the reader's complete attention over occasional cascades of unhappy sentence structure." R. C. Murphy
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 4 '51 1200w

"In the present handsome quarto volume, Alice Ford, author of 'Pictorial Folk Art' and a recognized authority in this field, has given us a superbly reproduced selection, in color and black and white, of the illustrations for the 'Quadrupeds'. . . Particularly interesting are the editor's introductory chapters, sketching once more the general biography of Audubon, and giving due credit to his sons and to John Bachman. Wisely Miss Ford dwells upon the least often mentioned part of the artist's life: his years in Europe where he began his first work on mammals, his struggles to master oil painting, his expeditions up the Missouri to draw and collect quadruped specimens. A generous selection of his spirited journals of these, his last years of unclouded vigor, adds much zest to the account." D. C. Peattie
+ N Y Times p7 O 21 '51 500w

"The work has been somewhat overshadowed by the earlier and unforgettable 'Birds,' but it has, nevertheless, its own dash, and a similar sense of the excitement of the wild."
+ New Yorker 27:172 N 24 '51 80w
San Francisco Chronicle p19 N 18 '51 90w

"This beautifully produced volume so nearly approaches, if it does not actually achieve, perfection in both the art and technique of modern publishing that it leaves this reviewer in a somewhat schizophrenic frame of mind. One might easily over-emphasize this aspect of the work and this would be grossly unfair to Alice Ford, who is the compiler and editor, and also the authoress of a considerable body of the fluent and interesting historical text contained therein. To do so, moreover, would be the more reprehensible because her contribution is only a condensed end-product of years of masterly and original research into the subject, which warrants the utmost praise and full recognition." I. T. Sanderson
+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 N 3 '51 950w

AUER, JOHANNES ABRAHAM CHRISTOFFEL FAGGINGER, and HARTT, JULIAN. Humanism versus theism. 153p $2.50 Antioch press

144 Humanism. Theism 51-2282

"A public discussion between Professors Auer and Calhoun of the question, Is Humanism the Religion of the Future?, is the origin of this volume. Since the discussion revealed that neither humanism nor theism is a religion, and that it is idle to decide what the future will bring, the Religion Committee of Antioch College undertook to publish a more considered and formal statement of the basic issues between humanism and theism as systems of belief within any religion. Professor Calhoun nominated Professor Hart to prepare the statement on theism." U S Quarterly Bk R

Christian Century 68:1078 S 19 '51 70w

"This reviewer must protest, as a humanist against the casual arrogance with which Dr. Hartt makes his sweeping dismissal of humanism again and again, and for the sake of honesty it must be asserted that there are many humanists who will testify against his repeated obiter dicta on the subject of humanist beliefs. . . Nothing ever seemed quite so unnecessary a super-structure as the metaphysical theories Dr. Hartt presents in his half of this provocative book. Others, I am certain, will find his words impressive evidence for the traditional theism of the Christian faith." S. H. Fritchman
Churchman 166:17 Ja 1 '52 200w
Reviewed by H. A. Larrabee
J Philos 49:21 Ja 3 '52 230w
Springf'd Republican p8C Ap 29 '51 200w

"The dispute is in the best scholarly tradition, and will interest those concerned with the current problems of religious belief."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:147 Je '51 240w

AUGUR, HELEN. Tall ships to Cathay. 255p il $3 Doubleday

920 China—Commerce—U.S. Low family. Clipper ships 51-9289

"This [book] re-creates the glamorous and adventurous trade with China in the 19th century. It tells of the Low family of Salem and how they established their trading company in spite of opposition from the powerful British East India Company." Library J

Booklist 47:252 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 40w
Reviewed by Walter Havighurst
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 4 '51 450w
Reviewed by William McFee
Christian Science Monitor p9 F 14 '51 650w
Kirkus 18:715 D 1 '50 170w

"Interesting historical background, good characterizations, the quenchless zest for adventure of those early Americans, and good writing make this fast-moving story exciting reading. Recommended." Anne Whitmore
+ Library J 75:2149 D 15 '50 80w
Reviewed by A. W. Smith
New Eng Q 24:274 Je '51 120w

"For the lay reader it is enough that Miss Augur has written persuasively about a dramatic period of the American merchant marine, giving the color and danger that invested the lives of those who participated in it in lively form. To be sure, she has succumbed to the current vice of American popular historiography by translating documents into conversation, but she has done it with considerable skill and plausibility." H. W. Baehr
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Ja 28 '51 1100w

"The story has everything—romance, opium, the enigmatic East, beautiful women, and intrepid seafaring men."
+ New Yorker 26:96 F 3 '51 140w

"A fine and colorful tale." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ja 24 '51 750w
Wis Lib Bul 47:87 Ap '51

AUL, HENRY B. How to build garden structures; grills, terraces, shelters, arbors, fences, gates, etc. 384p il $3.50 Sheridan
717 Garden ornaments and furniture
50-10896

"Intended as 'a source-book of unusual ideas for the home garden builder to adapt to his own particular place,' this inviting volume teems with practicable suggestions, detailed drawings and plans. Reprinted from the weekly garden section of the Sunday New York Herald Tribune. Index." Bookmark

Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 50w

"Essentially it is an 'idea' book and most of the ideas are very good. On the other hand, a few of the articles give the impression that they were composed in last minute efforts to fill so many inches of newspaper space." R. R. Hawkins
+ — Library J 76:115 Ja 15 '51 100w

"Here is a veritable mine of information on making almost any kind of garden fixture you can think of. . . Many of the structures are of build-it-yourself size and character, while others may call for hired help. But all are sound, useful and far from run-of-mill in design and finished effect." R. S. Lemmon
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ap 15 '51 140w

AUSLANDER, JOSEPH, and WURDEMANN, AUDREY. Islanders. 305p $3 Longmans
51-9417

Writing in poetic prose the authors tell the story of a group of Greeks living in a small town in Florida. The story concerns chiefly the restaurant keeper Christidos and his three motherless children.

Booklist 47:236 Mr 1 '51
Bookmark 10:157 Ap '51 40w

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:155 My '51 150w

Reviewed by V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 8 '51 300w

"For certain readers some of the descriptions will, perhaps, be almost too candid, like a camera with an eye too inquisitive. Much is said that might well have been left unsaid, and nothing would have been lost from the essential story. There is, at times, unevenness to the writing as a book written by two people might tend to show. . . Out of strife and tension, conflict and disillusionment, something glowing emerges; something that the book reveals through the subtle language of two poets writing together but which a reviewer might sum up as man's humanity to man." Elizabeth Yates
+ — Christian Science Monitor p15 Mr 15 '51 420w

Reviewed by William Pfaff
Commonweal 53:574 Mr 16 '51 220w

"A friendly handling of a foreign culture, this is predicated on an audience which will recognize the quality of warmth and color, the intensity of character detail that the authors of Uncle Jan have already established."
+ Kirkus 19:30 Ja 15 '51 230w

"The authors, both poets, have clothed their tale in rich mantles of beautiful prose which will delight the discriminating reader. Recommended for all public libraries." Harriet Forbes
+ Library J 76:325 F 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by Hugh McGovern
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 My 27 '51 400w

" 'The Islanders' is not set in the grandiose key of Great Literature, of prose self-destined for compulsory reading. But it is a very good book which should give poets a larger reputation among plain people and everyone who reads it an enhanced sense of what poetry means by its beautiful display of meanings in mankind." Philip Wylie
+ N Y Times p5 Mr 4 '51 500w

Reviewed by W. R. White
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Mr 9 '51 750w
Wis Lib Bul 47:61 Mr '51

AUSTIN, ARTHUR. Family book of favorite hymns; il. by George Louden, junior [foreword by Norman Vincent Peale]. 176p $4.95 Funk
784.71 Hymns

The words and music of over a hundred hymns, most of them well known in Protestant churches. It includes short commentaries about the writers and composers. Index.

Cleveland Open Shelf p6 Mr '51

"A task which Mr. Austin could not have undertaken without considerable study and thought. He seems to have accomplished it with results that make this collection, Protestant but interdenominational, a happy addition to the family library which flourishes through the years on time-tested favorites." C. W. Baird
+ Music Lib Assn Notes 8:390 Mr '51 500w

"The difficulty with such an eclectic collection as this is that almost everyone will miss some personal favorite, but the compiler has succeeded fairly well in presenting the best-known hymns sung in American churches with the possible exception of the Mormon Church. . . The little notes accompanying each hymn are admirably concise." J. W. H.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p26 D 3 '50 120w

AUSTIN, MRS MARGOT. Growl Bear; il. by [the author]. 42p $1.50 Dutton
51-12668

Picture storybook about a baby bear who was misunderstood by all the forest animals, even the wise old owl, because he could only say "G-r-r-r." For ages 4 to 7.

• Bookmark 11:35 N '51
Kirkus 19:631 N 1 '51 110w

"All just right for small children, who will love this as they have all Miss Austin's books, and they also appeal widely to gift-giving adults. Growl Bear in his big bib, carrying a toy bear, in all his amusing positions and expressions, is most engaging." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 11 '51 160w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
N Y Times p50 O 21 '51 90w

"Three- to six-year-olds are certain to laugh over this cozy bit of whimsicality concerning a diminutive bear who is shunned by the other animals until they realize his growls are nothing but baby talk." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:171 D 1 '51 40w

"An amusing story."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 25 '51 60w
Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

AUSUBEL, HERMAN. Historians and their craft. 373p $4.75 Columbia univ. press 907 American historical association. Historiography
50-11010

"A study of the presidential addresses of the American Historical association, 1884-1945." (Subtitle) This critical study of the addresses analyses the views of history contained in them. Bibliography. Index.

"Professor Ausubel has proved himself a competent and, on the whole, a faithful reporter. . . The background comment includes some 'asides' which have a slight flavor of faculty-club talk from the younger end of the table, and a few of which, of a more personal character, seem inappropriate." W. G. Leland
+ — Am Hist R 56:526 Ap '51 900w

AUSUBEL, HERMAN—Continued
Reviewed by E. R. Adair
Canadian Hist R 32:166 Je '51 650w

Reviewed by John Randolph
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ap 8 '51 80w

"Laymen curious to know what the high priests of history discuss at their annual conventions will find this a painless initiation to the mysteries of the guild; for history graduates it should be required reading. . . Herman Ausubel's analysis, far from being the dull recapitulation one might dread, is a lively and illuminating account." Geoffrey Bruun
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 Mr 17 '51 650w
School & Society 73:93 F 10 '51 10w

AUSUBEL, NATHAN, ed. Treasury of Jewish humor. 735p $5 Doubleday
808.87 Humor, Jewish 51-10639

An anthology of stories, poems, epigrams, sayings, etc. from Jewish literature of all times. List of contributors. Glossary.

Booklist 47:359 Je 15 '51
Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 30w

"The translations, largely from the author's pen, are not always as happy as they ought to be. Frequently, the phrasing lacks that dab of linguistic 'schmalz' which made the originals so palatable. The renderings are pleasant, but not as good as those that mother made. Of course, 'A Treasury of Jewish Humor' is worth-while." Louis Zara
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 My 13 '51 600w

Reviewed by Marvin Lowenthal
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Jl 8 '51 650w

San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ag 12 '51 110w

"A few of the things that Mr. Ausubel has selected in all truth are not as funny as others; this is especially true of his 'name' pieces. There are also omissions or semi-omissions that are puzzling. . . Perhaps Mr. Ausubel will take care of these omissions in a succeeding volume. He certainly knows his subject, and his present volume, all in all, is a mechaye (delight.)" Charles Angoff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:12 Ag 25 '51 650w

AVERILL, ESTHER. When Jenny lost her scarf; il. by [the author]. 31p $1.50 Harper
51-11654

The fifth book about the little Greenwich Village cat, Jenny Linsky. This time a rough dog stole Jenny's pet red scarf from the clothesline and ran off with it. Jenny's fortitude and patience were rewarded when Pickles, the fire house cat, retrieved it for her.

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 28 '51 120w

"This is the fifth book about Jenny Linsky and once again I marvel at Miss Averill's ability to make a small black cat with a red scarf into such an appealng character." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:323 S '51 80w
Kirkus 19:347 Jl 15 '51 110w

"Esther Averill's usual fun and fantasy, nice ness of words, and rightness of pictures are in this little book." Phyllis Fenner
+ Library J 76:1341 S 1 '51 60w

"The clever small pictures, with touches of bright colors, are exactly right. The whole has a distinction that many more pretentious books lack." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 30 '51 90w
N Y Times p26 Ja 6 '52 130w

"There is a realness about Jenny, as well as a demure charm, that gives these annals of her doings a distinction lacking in many a more pretentious effort." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:181 D 1 '51 80w

"This is, perhaps, the nicest of the Jenny Linsky books."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:44 S 22 '51 120w
Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

AVERY, EMMETT LANGDON. Congreve's plays on the eighteenth-century stage. 226p $3.75 Modern lang. assn.
822 Congreve, William. Theater—London

"This study of the stage history of Congreve's plays has grown out of materials which I have collected in compiling a calendar of theatrical performances in London from the reopening of the theaters in 1660 to the end of the eighteenth century. The newspapers and playbills for that period offer a wealth of theatrical data for appraising the vogue of individual plays as well as types of drama, and in writing this monograph I have tried to present the fortunes of Congreve's plays, with some attention to their relation to other late-seventeenth-century comedies in the following century, against the background of the principal events in the London theatrical world of the eighteenth century." (Pref) List of performances of Congreve's plays. Index.

"Too special for most but essential for large theatre and drama collections." George Freedley
Library J 76:1427 S 15 '51 30w

"The whole sad story is fully documented here, thought somewhat dryly, and provides a useful work for the student of Congreve and of the eighteenth-century stage."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Je 30 '51 220w
Times [London] Lit Sup p610 S 28 '51 800w

AYER, ETHAN. Enclosure. 280p $3 Little 51-10509

The inhabitants of the Enclosure, a wealthy and conservative suburb, and some of their servants, are the characters in this novel. Over the years they grow more and more withdrawn, until a tragedy takes place which solves some of their difficulties.

"Mr. Ayer has been guided by the rules in choosing a subject that he knows first hand. He lacks, however, the creative ability to transform his ideas into a coherent literary work. Here and there, he exhibits a sure descriptive touch—but the total effect is flat and undramatic." Joyce Geary
— + N Y Times p17 Je 17 '51 160w

"His story is vague, melancholy, and shamelessly full of coincidence; his tone is elegant, hollow, and often witty; and he manifests an absolute fearlessness, which may be admired without being trusted, in turning out the minds and hearts of all his characters and their servants."
New Yorker 27:136 My 19 '51 70w

Reviewed by Don Pitt
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 120w

"If 'The Enclosure' sometimes confuses and often strains the reader's credulity it is definitely promising, with flashes of brilliant comprehension of the world which it mirrors." Pamela Taylor
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 Je 2 '51 200w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p5D Je 17 '51 140w

"Though he is clearly talented, Novelist Ayer has written a book that is long on artiness and short on life, full of mincing chatter and burdened with too complex a structure."
Time 57:118 My 14 '51 500w

AYME, MARCEL. Miraculous barber; tr. from the French by Eric Sutton. 248p $3 Harper
51-10186

Satirical novel of France during the mid-Thirties when "Rightists and Leftists clashed on the boulevards of Paris in civil strife; the franc was devalued, sit-down strikes spread throughout industry like a raging forest fire, and the Popular Front Government strove to bring order out of chaos." (N Y Times)

"Aymé's book is very funny, terribly true, and, of course, quite sad."
+ Atlantic 187:86 Je '51 180w

"The fertility of imagination that shows itself everywhere in 'The Miraculous Barber' is immense; M. Aymé's invention never flags. You think that he has exploited the ridiculous Ancelot family to the full—but a chapter later you see them improvising a movie scenario around the violent murder of the unsavory boxer, a murder of which they suspect Bernard, the son of the family. Eric Sutton's translation is excellent, capturing both the vitality and the unobtrusive wit of M. Aymé's style." Milton Crane
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ap 22 '51 400w

"An excellent translation by Eric Sutton of an incisive, satirical novel, full of sardonic humor, unmercifully lampooning the decadence in modern French life, literature, art, and government. . . For sophisticated readers." R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:704 Ap 15 '51 90w

"This novel strikes me as somewhat contrived and tuned to a nihilism that is less than Olympian. Nevertheless it is good unclean fun, more fun than any other novel of the year." Harvey Swados
New Repub 125:21 Ag 20 '51 160w

"It is clever, sophisticated, and diverting; it has been translated well enough, but one has a feeling that it could not have traveled too easily into the English language; its wit has a flavor, not merely of France, but of that Europe of which France is the essence as much in defeat as in victory." James Hilton
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 My 6 '51 550w

"No brief comment can do justice to the alertness of Aymé's humor and the sharpness of his satire, for 'The Miraculous Barber'—like 'The Barkeep of Blémont' which appeared here a year ago—places its author in the heart of a very Gallic tradition. In France Marcel Aymé is just beginning to come into his own as a leading novelist, short-story writer and dramatist and in America there is already forming a group of discerning enthusiasts who prescribe him as a cure for all ills." Justin O'Brien
+ N Y Times p4 Ap 22 '51 450w

"An easy, clever, witty, rather bored book about the members of a rich French family and their friends and acquaintances."
New Yorker 27:113 My 3 '51 70w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p20 My 9 '51 750w

"'The Miraculous Barber' is disappointing after 'The Barkeep of Blémont.' It begins beautifully. . . Parts of it are very acute, parts very funny. But as Aymé proceeds he falls into the trap set for the satirist. Striving constantly to heighten his effects, he pushes his satire into caricature." Morris Bishop
— + Sat R of Lit 34:16 Ap 21 '51 480w

"A sharp-edged piece of satire, yet something is missing. Author Aymé once said that in his work he tried to achieve two emotions, humor and pity. The humor is there in abundance, but the pity is hard to find."
Time 57:114 Ap 23 '51 600w

Reviewed by Paul Pickrel
Yale R n s 40:766 summer '51 110w

AYME, MARCEL. Wonderful farm; tr. from the French by Norman Denny; il. by Maurice Sendak. 182p $2.50 Harper
51-13662

Short stories about the animals on a French farm, and about the two little girls who could talk with them.

Booklist 48:161 Ja 1 '52

"An unusually delightful book." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:406 D '51 80w
Kirkus 19:633 N 1 '51 170w

"Children will enjoy the trickery of the animals and the girl's mischievous behavior which leads them into such delightful misadventures. Good for telling, with the flavor of folklore." Virginia Haviland
+ Library J 76:2009 D 1 '51 70w

"This French novelist has given us a very well written, most truly imaginative book, ably translated by Norman Denny. It is full of sharp wit, and has the usual French overtones from La Fontaine; the sharply etched glimpses of French farm life are very telling." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 11 '51 270w

"In every tale a moral view, an almost William Blakian view not restricted to the province of the child but related to the whole human world, emerges delicately and without emphasis. Maurice Sendak's drawings are close to the writings in their just balance of solidity and grace, of gravity and humor." A. S. Morris
+ N Y Times p26 N 11 '51 260w

"This French importation, about an enchanting collection of talking farm animals—Gallic individualists every one . . . calls for rejoicing by six- to ten-year old children. There isn't a false note in the writing or in the black-and-white illustrations." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:182 D 1 '51 100w

B

B. B. pseud. See Watkins-Pitchford, D. J.

BABSON, NAOMI LANE (MRS PAUL GRIEDER). I am Lidian. 311p $3 Harcourt
51-10510

An old lady of ninety sits drowsing in her chair, while a newspaper reporter tries to get her story. Thru her stream of consciousness the story of the first thirty years of Lidian's life is told. It begins with her pampered girlhood in Massachusetts in the 1840's, follows her thru her hard days in a singing troup with her husband crossing the plains, and finally settling in Montana with her second husband.

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51
Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '51
Kirkus 19:212 Ap 15 '51 190w

"Remembering at ninety the thoughts and feelings and affairs of her young life Lidian is a fascinating character, and with a light touch the author brings out all the nuances of long remembered events. . . Recommended." Katherine Shorey
+ Library J 76:772 My 1 '51 70w

"Miss Babson spins a tale ably, and this personal record of one woman's long and variegated life is an effective story." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 My 6 '51 550w

"Novels about matriarchs are apt to fall into a familiar groove—but the present book is a refreshing exception. A vivid re-creation of pioneer mores, it is also a well-drawn portrait of a pioneer woman in youth and in age—and it has the timeless quality of all good fiction." Evelyn Eaton
+ N Y Times p16 Je 3 '51 250w
New Yorker 27:113 My 3 '51 80w

Reviewed by M. L. Mueller
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 110w

"As the portrait of a woman 'I Am Lidian' is a tribute to the force of artistic restraint and good taste." Josephine Lawrence
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 Jl 21 '51 370w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p8C My 27 '51 120w

BACAS, PAUL EDMOND. Successful practice of accountancy. 458p $5.35; to schools $4 Prentice-Hall

657.069 Accounting as a profession 51-1887

"This answers your question of whether or not to establish your own accountancy practice. Go ahead, it indicates, but follow the advice of this successful practitioner when you locate your office, select assistants, confer with clients, determine fees and write reports. Above all, abide by the legal and ethical rules included. To further bolster your courage there are suggestions for income activities while your business is taking root." Chicago Sunday Tribune

Reviewed by Winifred Baum
Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 7 '51 50w

"A useful book on how to establish and conduct an accounting practice." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 76:600 Ap 1 '51 70w

BACH, MARCUS LOUIS. Faith and my friends. 302p $3 Bobbs

289 Religions 51-9823

"The author presents the religious experiences of six of his friends, each of whom was a convert to a different type of faith. There is a Trappist, a Vidantist, a Hutterite, a Penitente, a Swedenborgian and a Mormon." Wis Lib Bul

Booklist 47:321 My 15 '51

Reviewed by J. A. Cock
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 5 '51 420w

"This book, in the reviewer's opinion, is a worthy successor to Bach's other widely known volume, They Have Found a Faith. Ministers, laymen and study groups of all persuasions and opinions will find in it a valuable source of information and inspiration." H. L. Jacobs
+ Christian Century 68:686 Je 6 '51 450w

Reviewed by Neil Martin
Christian Science Monitor p13 My 5 '51 650w

Reviewed by E. W. Harris
Churchman 165:16 My 15 '51 120w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51

"The reader should be warned not always to take at face value what these people, and sometimes the author, say about the beliefs of orthodox Christians or the teaching of the Bible. . . The reader will find in this volume light on a variety of American faiths, not help in deciding their truth." Paul Ramsey
N Y Times p7 Mr 25 '51 400w

San Francisco Chronicle p12 My 27 '51 200w

Wis Lib Bul 47:84 Ap '51

BACMEISTER, MRS RHODA (WARNER). All in the family. 298p $3 Appleton

649.1 Family. Parent and child. Children—Management 51-12130

"Dealing with 'the everyday concerns of parents,' this book uses typical examples to suggest 'general methods of attack on common problems.' Selected reading list, index." Bookmark

Booklist 48:61 O 15 '51

"Sane and helpful."
+ Bookmark 11:29 N '51 30w

+ Kirkus 19:420 Ag 1 '51 120w

BACON, WALLACE A. Savonarola; a play in nine scenes. 128p $2.50 Bookman associates

812 Savonarola, Girolamo Maria Francesco Matteo—Drama 51-294

Dramatic incidents in the life of Savonarola presented in nine poetic scenes.

"The characterizations show a great deal of insight. Savonarola, with his blend of fanaticism, pride, and unquestioned devotion to God and the people of Florence, is particularly well done. There is nothing static about him. He lives, suffers, grows and finally emerges more the victor than the nondescript men who bring him to the stake." Chad Walsh
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 4 '51 400w

+ Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 60w

BAER, MAX F., and ROEBER, EDWARD CHARLES. Occupational information, its nature and use. 603p il $5.75 Science res.

371.425 Vocational guidance 51-5148

"The book can be used both as a text for those preparing to go into guidance work and as a handbook for those already in it. A few outstanding features are: a guide to the appraisal of occupational literature; an outlining in detail of the major sources of occupational information; suggestions on the building of a library; and a breakdown on the field of work." Library J

"This book should prove to be a useful handbook for guidance workers in schools and colleges and others in vocational guidance work and as a text for a course in occupational information." E. T. Sheerer
+ J Home Econ 44:66 Ja '52 220w

"A practical book, concrete in detail, which does not, however, fail to see the forest for the tree. . . Supplementary readings for the chapters will be useful both to the student and the professional." Murray Solomon
+ Library J 76:1935 N 15 '51 150w

School & Society 74:47 Jl 21 '51 40w

BAGNOLD, ENID. The loved and envied. 276p $3 Doubleday

51-9211

Portrait of a way of life, the scenes of which are variously London, Scotland, Jamaica, and France. The "loved and envied" is Lady MacLean, a woman of fifty-three, so beautiful that she is always "the only woman in the room that anyone looks at." Her life, her loves, are described and her effect upon those around her, especially her difficult daughter whose very being is overshadowed by the mother she loves but cannot compete with.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

Bookmark 10:133 Mr '51 60w

"If any novelist has ever written more understandingly and more enchantingly about the aged and their long shadows of philosofy than Enid Bagnold has in 'The Loved and Envied,' I have never read that story. But Enid Bagnold's latest book is no more the typical story of aging and aged men and women than her delightful 'National Velvet' was a typical story about a horse. . . The aged will probably find it full of both poignancy and beauty. The young will find it an amusing—even a satirical picture of the aged and the aging." Fanny Butcher
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ja 7 '51 550w

Reviewed by Ruth Chapin
+ Christian Science Monitor p5 Ja 10 '51 750w

Kirkus 18:728 D 15 '50 210w

Reviewed by H. R. Forbes
Library J 76:111 Ja 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by H. I'A. Fausset
Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 26 '51 210w

"The success is limited. . . The Loved and Envied is given away by occasional simple technical faults. There are one or two annoying instances of recapitulation of incident, caused by dipping back into the memories of more than one old person. And, granted that sudden deaths are more pardonable in a novel concerned with old age than most, the number of them in The Loved and Envied (four) seems excessive." Robert Kee
New Statesman & Nation 41:165 F 10 '51 750w

"A study of people who are not important in the course of the world except as they have qualities or things for which many others strive. Miss Bagnold has done a perceptive and distinguished job in transmitting these figure heads to credible human beings. Her very restraint and scrupulousness give the book a certain fascination. Though there is little action in the story, it holds one's attention consistently." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 D 31 '50 1250w

"Intricately designed fan of a book, folding and unfolding some fifty years of life. . . The picture upon this fan is that of a cohesive and meaningful community—aging and doomed. Since Enid Bagnold has been able to execute this picture, it becomes not merely a novel of high life, but a charting of the death of many hearts. It is another one of those reports that are being written by those who realize that their worlds are dying and know exactly why." Leo Lerman
N Y Times p5 D 31 '50 700w

"A very good book. . . What 'The Loved and Envied' does, and does extremely well, is create an atmosphere of maturity. . . There is a description of the loss of emotional contact between a woman and her parents that amounts to a tour de force; it is done, with a beautiful economy, in terms of a slow ebbing of intensity that shows up the ordinary Sturm-und-Drang account of the process, done in terms of adolescent rebellion, for the crude personal fantasy it usually is. . . These merits are substantial, but it has to be said that 'The Loved and Envied' has one major defect. Like so many British writers, Miss Bagnold dearly loves a lord." Anthony West
+ — New Yorker 26:86 Ja 27 '51 900w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ja 18 '51 850w

"This is a truly remarkable novel about a truly remarkable woman. . . Miss Bagnold has a rare and a welcome flavor. She is witty, worldly, and wise with the wisdom of the deeply compassionate. 'The Loved and Envied' displays her qualities at their glowing best, a best that is hard to beat." C. M. Brown
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 Ja 6 '51 500w

"Intelligent and accomplished, creamed and powdered with all sorts of feminine graces and presenting a genuinely worldly philosophic finish, but often exasperating. I have admired some of her earlier and less expensively well-groomed novels much more." R. D. Charques
Spec 185:160 F 2 '51 370w

"The Loved and Envied scatters its effect among too many characters, and despite a glossy prose surface often succumbs to lip-trembling sentimentality. Not all the wealthy, fading beauties in Novelist Bagnold's France are worth one little Velvet Brown."
— + Time 57:78 Ja 8 '51 440w

Times [London] Lit Sup p49 Ja 26 '51 180w

BAGNOLD, ENID. Theatre [Eng title: Two plays]. 165p $2.75 Doubleday
822 51-11314

Two plays by the author of National Velvet (Book Review Digest 1935). They are: Lottie Dundass, and Poor Judas.

"Recommended for drama and theatre collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1228 Ag '51 40w

"They furnish pleasant library entertainment." L. M.
+ Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 60w

BAILEY, ALTON EDWARD. Industrial oil and fat products. (Fats and oils) 2d rev & enl ed 967p il $15 Interscience
660 Oils and fats 51-4926

"A comprehensive monograph on the fats and oils used in industry and the technology of extracting and using them. In addition to natural products, information is included on 'Spans' 'Tweens' and other synthetic materials used in association with fats and oils, especially in food products. . . Nineteen-page author index. In comparison to the first edition the work has been extensively rewritten and much expanded." (N Y New Tech Bks) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1945.

"For the worker or student in the fats and oils field, this text should be a useful reference aid; for the novice, trainee, or merely interested person, this book provides one of the easiest ways the reviewer knows to obtain a broad picture of fat processing and utilization." G. W. Holman
+ Chem & Eng N 29:3770 S 10 '51 220w

"The book is a little heavy on its tabular content, and a little light on its illustrations. In general though, this new second edition looks like a very good thing." G. W. M.
+ Chem Eng 58:354 S '51 220w

"The treatment is on a professional level, and the book is intended for graduate students and graduate chemists already at work in industry."
N Y New Tech Bks 36:59 Jl '51

BAILEY, ALTON EDWARD. Melting and solidification of fats. (Fats and oil ser.) 371p il $7 Interscience
665 Oils and fats 50-13239

"One of a series of monographs on fats and oils . . . this book is a first edition, presenting the relationship between those physical properties which are associated with changes of state of fatty materials. Written primarily for the chemist and technologist interested in the physical chemistry of vegetable oils and derivatives, portions of the book are applicable to other materials." Chem & Eng N

"The author has already made notable contributions to both the physical chemistry and technology of fats and oils; by this presentation he has performed another good service. After reading this book the technologist will be further impressed by the importance of fundamental thermodynamic and phase rule data to the industry and the physical chemist will be better able to recognize the vital problems toward which he must direct his attack." E. L. Skau
+ Am Chem Soc J 73:2407 My '51 550w

"There are a number of minor typographical errors such as inevitably creep into the most carefully edited work. . . Aside from these minor defects the book will be a most welcome tool to the growing number of workers in this active though specialized field." W. S. Singleton
+ — Chem & Eng N 28:4494 D 18 '50 330w

"The book will unquestionably prove to be a useful reference volume for anyone working in the field of animal and vegetable fats and oils." G. W. M.
+ Chem Eng 57:308 N '50 220w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:75 S '51
U S Quarterly Bkl 6:493 D '50 240w

BAILEY, ARNOLD B. TV and other receiving antennas (theory and practice). 606p il $6 Rider, J.F.
621.38835 Television. Television receivers 50-11698

"A book for radio engineers and others in communication engineering rather than for the average television serviceman. . . Specific information on the special properties of most of the antenna types which have been found useful in radio and TV broadcasting is given along with practical design procedures." Library J

"The book should be added to well developed collections on radio and television engineering." R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:330 F 15 '51 100w

"The author has had a long experience in antenna design, which is reflected in the book. Nevertheless, the work is designed not so much for specialists in antenna theory as for television installers and others who desire a relatively full treatment from the practical viewpoint."
+ N Y New Tech Bks 36:2 Ja '51

BAILEY, A. B.—Continued
"A practical, elementary, and nonmathematical treatment of antennas which will be helpful to a broad range of users."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:105 Mr '51 230w

BAILEY, HELEN MILLER, and others. Your American government; the citizen's approach. 566p maps $4.25 Longmans
342.73 U.S.—Politics and government—Handbooks, manuals, etc. 51-11599

"A brief textbook, stressing the impact of government on the individual and the desirability of more citizen participation. The authors are members of the faculty of East Los Angeles Junior College." (Am Pol Sci R) Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:906 S '51 40w
Booklist 48:24 S 15 '51
Bookmark 11:29 N '51 20w

"The book is comprehensive and well documented; carefully indexed."
+ School & Society 74:31 Jl 14 '51 50w

BAILEY, RALPH EDGAR. Tim's fight for the valley. 246p il $2.50 Dutton
51-11427

"Halfway through college Tim Blake gave up his plans to be a farm management consultant and went home to try to save his land from being destroyed by soil erosion. His uphill struggle against the natural hazards of farming and lack of money was complicated by hostility on the part of some of the farmers to the newfangled methods he has brought from college." N Y Times

Booklist 48:35 S 15 '51

"Style and format of book good. Recommended for older boys." R. C. Buell
+ Library J 76:1343 S 1 '51 70w

"With its emphasis upon modern scientific agriculture this is a stimulating story for any young person interested in farming. Overwriting sometimes slows down its pace, but it has a fine sense of country life, plus a nicely handled romance." E. L. B.
+ — N Y Times p18 Ag 12 '51 130w
Sat R of Lit 34:37 Ag 18 '51 180w

BAILEY, THOMAS ANDREW. America faces Russia; Russian-American relations from early times to our day. 375p il $4 Cornell univ. press
327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations—Russia. Russia—Foreign relations—U.S. 50-10009
For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"Professor Bailey of Stanford University performs a real service by recapitulating the uneven course of relations between the United States and Russia during nearly two centuries. Writing in his accustomed lively style, which should make his book accessible to the general reader, with generous use of anecdotes and thought-provoking cartoons, he devotes nearly two thirds of his book to a review of the tsarist period which, as he points out in his preface, is less familiar than the oft-described era of Soviet rule." V. M. Dean
+ Am Hist R 56:846 Jl '51 1100w
Reviewed by S. F. Bemis
Ann Am Acad 274:214 Mr '51 550w
Booklist 47:182 Ja 15 '51
Reviewed by N. D. Palmer
Current Hist 20:37 Ja '51 470w
Foreign Affairs 29:499 Ap '51 30w

"Drawing from a wide selection of newspaper editorials and magazine articles, Professor Bailey paints a lively picture of the varied points of view entertained by Americans with regard to Russian policy, and of the many myths which have found currency. The initial two-thirds of the volume tells the story of the first century and a half, while the remaining third considers more closely the events of the thirty-odd years since the Russian Revolution."
U S Quarterly Bkl 6:459 D '50 240w

"Professor Bailey, a specialist in American diplomatic history who disclaims any special knowledge of things Russian, gives the reverse side of the picture, that is, the 'reception' of Russia by the American public. . . While his book is more readable [than Laserson: American Impact on Russia] it is also inevitably more superficial. In parts it is spoiled by a rather flippant tone and by hasty and unwarranted generalizations about Russian character, to which foreigners who do not know Russia are so prone." Gleb Struve
+ — Yale R n s 40:557 spring '51 350w

BAILLIE, JOHN. Belief in progress. 240p $2.75 Scribner
301.1535 Progress. Christianity—Philosophy
50-11180

"Material presented is somewhat condensed substance of course of lectures delivered in Post-Graduate School of Theology in University of Edinburgh. Modern champions of progress, the author shows, are uncertain as to whether realization of progress is inevitable or only an open possibility. Progress to him is only that which radiates from Christian center of history and can be 'nothing less than the progressive embodiment in the life of humanity of the mind that was in Christ.'" (Library J) The author is principal of New College, Edinburgh. Index.

Christian Century 68:966 Ag 22 '51 230w
Reviewed by Bradford Young
Churchman 165:18 Ap 15 '51 230w

"There is still room for questioning whether Professor Baillie has made a serious attempt to relate sacred history with secular history, in his conclusions about progress. . . Nevertheless, this work of Professor Baillie merits high praise for restoring a measure of balance in outlook, over against those who are too ready to throw all ideas of progress and of a forward moving history into the discard." Andrew Banning
Crozer Q 28:353 O '51 1000w

"Recommended for mature readers." O. G. Lawson
+ Library J 76:38 Ja 1 '51 130w

"This is an unusually informative and stimulating book." T. W. M.
+ Manchester Guardian p5 Je 12 '50 650w
Reviewed by Paul Hutchinson
N Y Times p18 Jl 22 '51 250w
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p489 Ag 4 '50 700w

BAINBRIDGE, JOHN. Wonderful world of Toots Shor; with il. by Alan Dunn. 121p $2.50 Houghton
B or 92 Shor, Bernard. Restaurants, lunch rooms, etc. 51-13976

"A series of profiles on Toots Shor and his famous New York restaurant appeared originally in The New Yorker. The author has now issued them in book form with apparently little or no revision." Library J

Reviewed by William Leonard
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 9 '51 210w
Kirkus 19:519 S 1 '51 130w

"The book is amusing but is rather too special for most libraries. Recommended for New York City, theater and sports collections only in large libraries." George Freedley
Library J 76:1557 O 1 '51 70w

"A fascinating book [which] gives a brutally amusing and accurate account of those fugitive Broadway folk who herd together because of their common loneliness." Richard Maney
+ N Y Times p14 N 18 '51 460w

BAINTON, ROLAND HERBERT. Here I stand; a life of Martin Luther. 422p il $4.75 Abingdon-Cokesbury
B or 92 Luther, Martin 50-9795
For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

Reviewed by G. C. Sellery
Am Hist R 56:863 Jl '51 500w

Bookmark 10:86 Ja '51

"This latest life of Luther is by the professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Yale Divinity School. Dr. Bainton is neither a German nor a Lutheran, so he is immune from the patriotic bias that appears in many of the German Protestant studies of his hero. He is quite candid about Luther's faults, but feels that his great achievements . . . outweigh them all. A Catholic is bound to take a very different view of all this, and to see with pity and dismay the working out of the great destructive forces Luther set in motion." F. D. Cohalan
Cath World 172:398 F '51 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p1 Ja '51

"The liberal use of woodcuts, drawings, and engravings adds to the book's interest and value. These are from the author's collection which he has built up as a hobby, and they help to make the volume worth more than its modest cost." R. J. Bean
+ Crozer Q 28:362 O '51 360w

" 'Here I Stand' is a great biography because it deals sensitively and presciently with the most important of all conflicts—the inward war between faith and doubt, between fear and courage, between God and the devil—in one of the great souls of Christian history. It is written with verve and humor and makes exciting reading from beginning to end." H. E. Fey
+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 F 10 '51 900w

Wis Lib Bul 46:20 O '50

"One of the chief merits of Roland Bainton's excellent study of Martin Luther is that it makes this vast new knowledge of Luther readily and pleasingly available to the reader of English. It is based on an intimate acquaintance with the primary works of Luther as well as with the extensive secondary sources. No other book on Luther in the English language equals Mr. Bainton's study in breadth, depth, and vividness of presentation." Heinz Bluhm
+ Yale R n s 40:350 winter '51 900w

BAINTON, ROLAND HERBERT. Travail of religious liberty; nine biographical studies. 272p il $4 Westminster press

272 Religious liberty. Religious biography 51-11705

Studies of Thomas of Torquemada; John Calvin; Michael Servetus; Sébastien Castellio; David Joris; Bernardino Ochino; John Milton; Roger Williams; John Locke. "The material in this book represents in large part lectures delivered at the invitation of the faculty and trustees of the Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, on the James Sprunt foundation." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:59 O 15 '51

Reviewed by Clarence Seidenspinner
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 14 '51 150w

"Any book by Bainton holds promise of sound historical scholarship brought into relationship with some vital present interest. . . My only criticisms (if they are criticisms) are these: that there might well be somewhere a little more decisive statement of all the conditions that are required to constitute full and complete religious liberty. . . and that the assertion of the interdependence of civil and religious liberty, in the book's closing paragraph (p. 260), might be developed and carried out to its logical conclusions." W. E. Garrison
+ — Christian Century 68:1344 N 21 '51 1450w

Reviewed by R. E. Donlon
Christian Science Monitor p9 O 17 '51 180w

"This is a most important book. . . Catholics will no doubt feel that the study is weighted in favor of Protestantism. But the author is a Protestant and his book is based on lectures delivered at a Presbyterian theological seminary. As Professor Bainton found a wide reading for his prize winning life of Luther, 'Here I Stand,' this book too, should be in wide demand. It deserves being pushed."
+ Kirkus 19:612 O 1 '51 280w

BAIRD, JANET H., ed. These harvest years. 300p $3.49 Doubleday

618.97 Old age 51-1847

"Twelve specialists offer suggestions for enriching maturity through mental and physical health, careful financing, occupations for retirement and religious practice. Index." Bookmark

---

Booklist 47:247 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:179 My '51 20w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 68:636 My 23 '51 250w

Cleveland Open Shelf p14 Jl '51

"A good deal of new material throughout; in its field an important book."
+ Kirkus 19:18 Ja 1 '51 180w

"The trouble with a good many books on geriatrics is that most people are not old enough to read them yet, and when they are, they are too old for the book to do them much good—though it may help their families. In this, however, any one who would rather be over seventy than dead may legitimately take an interest. . . The common sense of the book keeps a high level throughout."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 My 13 '51 320w

BAITY, MRS ELIZABETH (CHESLEY). Americans before Columbus; il. with drawings and maps by C. B. Falls and with 32 pages of photographs. 256p $4 Viking

970.1 America—Antiquities. Indians of Central America. Indians of North America. Indians of South America 51-10661

A study of the Indian cultures in North and South America before the days of Columbus. Following 32 pages of photographs of Indian arts, there are chapters on the Vikings, the Mayan eras, the "Mexican melting pot," the mound builders, the Incas, and others. Glossary. Index.

Booklist 47:348 Je 1 '51

Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 2 '51 280w

"An outstanding book for the more serious readers of junior high school age, and for any one past that age who has an interest in history, civilization, or Indians." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:255 Jl '51 170w

"A deep dish with a heady flavor; a future staple on history shelves, and a tempting first glimpse at the science of archeology."
+ Kirkus 19:129 Mr 1 '51 170w

"This distinguished and well-documented history of the Americas before Columbus should find a place in all libraries." A. B. Martin
+ Library J 76:1034 Je 15 '51 80w

"The sweep of history, from the ice age to the fall of Indian America, here is woven into a dramatic story; a brilliant, exciting background for the better-known days after 1492. Boys and girls over twelve, and many adults, too, will find it fascinating reading. . . The author's achievement is all the more surprising when one figures that the actual text story covers only about 150 pages. Such a swift presentation of facts hitherto found only in many separate books makes it a special contribution, one which will awaken many young minds to the meaning of history." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 My 13 '51 320w

"It's an important book, and an exciting one for any reader with a historical imagination." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p22 My 6 '51 260w

BAITY, E. C.—Continued
"A scholarly and imaginative unfolding of the ways of life, the cultures, and the fates of the peoples on this continent from the ice age down to the time Columbus crossed the Atlantic." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:186 D 1 '51 70w

"The scope of this book and the masterly way the subject is handled is unusual in books for young people. Without dragging in by main force a single 'historical' fact or date or character the author has given a vivid picture of the people who lived in North and South America long ago." M. P. Allen
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 Jl 21 '51 480w

Times [London] Lit Sup p9 N 23 '51 60w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:245 S '51 70w

Wis Lib Bul 47:153 Je '51

BAKER, CHARLES HENRY. South American gentleman's companion. 2v $5.95 Crown

641.5 Cookery, South American. Liquors. Wine and wine making 51-11322

"Mr. Baker, noted food and drink editor, has covered the outstanding spots in S.A. and given us the most exotic and the most delicious recipes of clubs and hotels from Arequipa to Viña del Mar. . . Good index." (Library J) Contents: v1, Being an exotic cookery book; v2, Being an exotic drinking book.

"For the greatest adventure in eating and drinking since the invention of fire and ice, get these 'Gentleman's Companions' and forget about Russia, taxes, and your in-laws." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Je 24 '51 320w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
+ Library J 76:965 Je 1 '51 80w

"Obviously these books were not written for those partial to 'jolly little cash saving casseroles,' whom the author views with scant sympathy. Nevertheless, the recipes are presented with keen kitchen-mindedness and a first-hand knowledge of what is involved in preparing a meal. . . The book's breezy style and crazy though amusing printing of titles contrast sharply with the practical and helpful information as well as useful charts that the author has compiled." Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p19 Jl 15 '51 260w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p14 Jl 10 '51 1000w

Sat R of Lit 34:23 D 29 '51 90w

BAKER, FRANK BERNARD. Performance of civil aircraft. 302p $8.50 Pitman

629.13252 Aircraft [51-1971]

"A compact but easily understood book on the aspects of aerodynamics and airplane performance that are of interest to the pilots and other crew members of commercial aircraft. It gives general and specific information on how planes perform while taking off, climbing, descending and landing; and on fuel calculations, maximum ranges and other topics pertinent to flight planning. Two chapters discuss the flight characteristics of jet-engined aircraft and some of the special aspects of high altitude flight." Library J

"Though written for British aviators, American pilots who read widely about their professional work will undoubtedly find the book of interest." R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1428 S 15 '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:49 Jl '51

BAKER, GLADYS (MRS ROY LEONARD PATRICK). I had to know. 309p $3 Appleton

B or 92 Roman Catholic church—Converts. Sheen, Fulton John 51-11270

Autobiography of a Southern society belle who became a foreign correspondent and interviewed such men as Mustafa Kemal, Mussolini, Michael Pupin, and Bernard Shaw. Returning to America she married a Vermont industrialist, and later was stricken with a supposedly incurable disease. With great fortitude she fought to live and succeeded. All thru her book she sought a religious faith and in the end entered the Catholic church.

"I Had to Know will no doubt reach a wide variety of readers all of whom will certainly wish the author success in her gallant search for health as well as consolation in her newfound faith." B. J. Thompson
+ Cath World 174:159 N '51 300w

"Mrs. Patrick writes in a lively and popular style. Although it deals with basic questions, I Had to Know is easy reading. But it is not just a slick and superficial tale. At the center there is a hard core of wisdom, faith and courage that anyone can recognize as part of the top heritage of universal man." J. C. Cort
+ Commonweal 55:205 N 30 '51 200w

"An intensely interesting record of a spiritual pilgrimage."
+ Kirkus 19:241 My 1 '51 220w

Reviewed by Anne Fremantle
N Y Times p15 Jl 29 '51 350w

"Honest and spirited apologia." A. F. Wolfe
+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 O 6 '51 200w

BAKER, HETTIE GRAY. Your Siamese cat. (Creative age Press bk) 115p il $3.50 Farrar, Straus

636.81 Siamese cat 51-7703

Brief book on Siamese cats, their origin, care and feeding, diseases, breeding, etc. Includes some poems and appreciations and tributes to Siamese cats. Illustrated with photographs and drawings. Bibliography. No index.

Booklist 48:116 D 1 '51

"For the cat fancier the gift book recommendation of the year." Bob Becker
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p33 D 2 '51 30w

Kirkus 19:514 S 1 '51 100w

BAKER, MARGARET JOYCE. Castle and Sixpence; decorations by Decie Merwin. 181p $2.50 Longmans

51-466

Four English children and their widowed mother go to live in a castle left them by a distant relative. The children help the boy called Christopher Sixpence, and take a hand in their mother's romance, before they discover the treasure of the castle. For ages ten to twelve.

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

"Young romantics will love every bit of it and be thoroly impressed, too, by the resourcefulness of these fatherless youngsters who tried so hard to help their overworked, worried mother, yet succeeded in having wonderful times together. And no story could be topped off with a more highly satisfactory ending." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ap 8 '51 200w

Kirkus 18:693 D 1 '50 130w

"Characterizations are stock and thin, as are the descriptions of the country. Plot is contrived and the tone sentimental." E. W. Turpin
Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 80w

"The story is too full of coincidences, but it is written with the same charm as this author's two books of last year. It has some very moving bits about the mother's writing, and about the way religion was 'saved' in the secret chapel. It offers real English countryside and a happy family of younger boys and girls." L. S. Bechtel
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 22 '51 200w

"Life is seldom like this. Miss Baker is more convincing in pure fantasy, as in 'Homer, the Tortoise.' Still, she writes so gracefully and with such warm understanding of children that only a curmudgeon is proof against her charm." E. L. B.
+ — N Y Times p26 My 20 '51 120w

"This present-day story of wholesome, natural children in England has genuine freshness and charm."
+ School & Society 73:110 F 17 '51 30w

BAKER, RICHARD MERRIAM. Drood murder case; five studies in Dickens's Edwin Drood. 195p $3 Univ. of Calif. press

823.83 Dickens, Charles. Mystery of Edwin Drood 51-62073

Five studies on Dickens' unfinished novel The Mystery of Edwin Drood. Contents: Who was Dick Datchery? John Jasper—murderer; The genesis of Edwin Drood; Was Edwin Drood murdered? What might have been. The studies were first published in Nineteenth-Century Fiction.

Booklist 47:290 Ap 15 '51

"An excellent addition to an already fairly extensive field of conjecture among Dickens' addicts; a choice item for that market."
+ Kirkus 19:143 Mr 1 '51 110w

"All a Droodian needs to know is that another has come out, and he will read it. He may as well be told that this is an uncommonly interesting one, well-reasoned, well-based, earnest and—as it should be—highly provocative. It tackles five major problems, deals with them in detail. . . All in all, I haven't enjoyed a Drood book so much since Cuming Walter's classic round-up. Hand me down that green book on the top shelf, will you? The one with the cover worn off. It's some time since I last re-read 'Edwin Drood.'" M. L. Becker
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Mr 18 '51 550w

"Though Mr. Baker's theory appears sound and is possibly true, it must be weighed and weighed again, without moralizing or false sentiment. It must be discussed round what G. K. Chesterton called 'the gigantic firelight of Dickens.' In any event, Mr. Baker's book is the best study of 'Edwin Drood' I have ever read." J. D. Carr
+ N Y Times p5 Mr 25 '51 1250w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p11 D 23 '51 70w

"To Mr. Baker and his fellow students, the novel is as freshly fascinating as a mystery by a brand-new author, and in this the readers of his studies will probably concur." L. G. O.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Ap 22 '51 390w

"Being myself quite uncommitted to any Droodian hypothesis I am like the heretic who reads all schools of controversial divinity with equal pleasure and relish. So long as he confines himself to purely literary matters Mr. Baker shows ingenuity and common sense. . . But when he attempts ambitiously to make a scholar of himself and to 'interpret' 'Edwin Drood' for the light it sheds on the soul of Dickens he comes a terrible cropper." Edward Wagenknecht
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:25 Je 16 '51 700w
Times [London] Lit Sup p654 O 19 '51 650w

BAKKE, EDWARD WIGHT. Bonds of organization; an appraisal of corporate human relations. 239p $4 Harper

658.3 Industrial relations. Employment management 50-13009

"Starting with the statement that 'human relations is our big unfinished job,' the author proceeds to present the result of a systematic study of human relations in a large New England Telephone Company. He advances the concept of a company and union as [a] small society of individuals bound together by a social system which has five major elements—the five bonds of organization. . . In the final chapter entitled 'What of it,' the author evaluates the significance and purpose of his research study and voices his hope that it may be a preliminary step in the eventual development of principles of effective teamwork for scientific or operational use." (Ann Am Acad) No index.

Reviewed by V. W. Bladen
Am J Soc 57:191 S '51 900w

"In the opinion of the reviewer, Mr. Bakke and his associates have made a significant contribution to the better understanding of corporate human relations. . . It is well worth the study and consideration of corporate executives, union officials, and students of the subject." J. F. Mee
+ Ann Am Acad 273:238 Ja '51 550w

"This is, indeed, an ambitious and promising study. It might be helpful to suggest that the reader turn to the first and last chapters before he takes up the substantive part. A more thorough evaluation of this work will have to await further publications in this series of studies." Reinhard Bendix
+ Management R 39:737 D '50 500w

"'Bonds of Organization' is not written in a style that will command the interest of the practicing executive." J. M. Juran
N Y Times p6 F 11 '51 140w

BALCH, GLENN. Indian fur; il. by Robert Frankenberg. 248p $2.75 Crowell 51-6448

This story for boys of ten to fourteen, relates how young John Daniels set out to find his brother who had disappeared into the West, and how after many adventures with trappers, mountain men and Indians, he finally found him.

Booklist 48:107 N 15 '51

"This tale of America's past is historical without being fact-laden; dramatic without seeming contrived. Its characters are sharply drawn and strongly motivated. And for once, Indians are realistically presented—neither noble Redmen nor bloodthirsty savages. A fine book." V. I.
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 N 11 '51 160w

"A lively and absorbing historical novel."
+ Kirkus 19:533 S 15 '51 110w

"Highly recommended." R. O. Bostwick
+ Library J 76:2125 D 15 '51 80w

"Mr. Balch knows his wilderness and Indians and trapping, and writes well." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 N 11 '51 40w

BALCH, GLENN. Winter horse. 177p $2.50 Crowell

Horses—Legends and stories 51-5637

Sequel to Lost Horse (Book Review Digest 1950). This tells how Ben and Dixie and their friend Gaucho saved a band of wild horses, led by the stallion King, from animals and starvation during the most terrible winter Idaho had known.

"A book which will be breathlessly read in one sitting by animal lovers."
+ Kirkus 19:295 Je 15 '51 130w

"Will be eagerly read by older boys and girls. Recommended." R. O. Bostwick
+ Library J 76:1235 Ag '51 70w

"It is not one of the best by Mr. Balch, but his followers will like it, and will welcome the stunning jacket photo of the author on horseback." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 11 '51 60w

"Crisply written, this is a dramatic account of the wilderness in its most savage mood." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p38 O 14 '51 80w

BALCHIN, NIGEL. A way through the wood. 280p $3 Houghton 51-6512

"Writing in the first person, Jim Manning tells the story of his marriage to Jill and her friendship with William Bule; it is around the ensuing emotional conflicts that the action revolves." Library J

Booklist 48:49 O 1 '51
Bookmark 11:33 N '51 30w

BALCHIN, NIGEL—Continued

"The author doubtless means to present a witty commentary on civic honor and personal honor, but these virtues are but trite words and triter attitudes to the worthless prigs who talk their way through Mr. Balchin's papier-mâché wilderness." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 174:235 D '51 210w

Reviewed by Ney MacMinn

Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 S 16 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:331 Jl 1 '51 190w

"This is an introspective novel of great charm due, chiefly, to the simplicity and candor with which Nigel Balchin writes. Reader's sympathy and interest mount steadily throughout the telling, which is a reliable gauge of the popularity the book will likely enjoy." E. P. Nichols

+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 80w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel

Manchester Guardian p4 Je 8 '51 60w

"Despite its readability and slick competence, there is a good deal that is disappointing about this novel. The banality of its plot, for example." John Raymond

New Statesman & Nation 41:753 Je 30 '51 800w

"There is much in 'A Way Through the Wood' to admire. It deals with real people caught in a real predicament, its moral analysis is searching and well contained, and its sheerly unflagging interest proves (if proof were ever needed) that quality depends on how a story is told far more than on what it is about. . . As for the last few pages, Mr. Balchin demonstrates in them again his skill at taking a stereotyped ingredient (in this case illness) and working it against the conventional grain, so that in 'A Way Through the Wood' it is the 'happily ever after' that is only narrowly averted." James Hilton

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 S 9 '51 650w

"Somehow, though the writing is brisk and the narrative nicely managed, the novel fails to achieve the development, the revelation and the final penetration which the material demands. Possibly this lack arises out of the fact that, except for the somewhat plaintive first-person narrator, none of the characters is convincing. Or possibly it arises out of the diffusion, from that narrator, of a kind of stuffy and aimless moral bewilderment." Richard Sullivan

N Y Times p23 S 9 '51 330w

"The whole thing is a matter of trivialities and small scenes and useless discussions, and holds the curiosity with exactly the same intensity as a friend's account of his brother-in-law's trouble with his wife, or a newspaper story of a family scandal almost anywhere in the world."

New Yorker 27:114 S 22 '51 140w

Reviewed by James Gray

— Sat R of Lit 34:36 O 27 '51 420w

"Mr. Balchin deploys his material so cunningly that one is apt to admire his skill, which after all is secondary, and take the material for granted. But, in a story so concentrated as this—there are very few characters—the material is all-important. . . Brilliantly told story." L. A. G. Strong

+ — Spec 185:874 Je 29 '51 450w

"A Way Through the Wood is probably Mr. Balchin's most successful book since The Small Back Room: and yet this book, which emphasizes once again his astonishing dexterity in dialogue and characterization, shows also his limitations as a novelist. . . At the end of the story we are left with a number of unanswered questions, in particular about the backgrounds and social position of the characters: certainty of touch has been achieved at the expense of such considerable omissions."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p369 Je 15 '51 470w

Wis Lib Bul 47:253 N '51

BALDWIN, FAITH. Whole armor. 334p $3 Rinehart

51-9083

A novel about a young Presbyterian minister in a Manhattan church. Paul Lennox has most of the outward marks of success, but he has an inner sense of failure. After a bout with polio he finally realizes where his weakness lies.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

"All in all, it's a tidy universe of benevolence, divorce, birth control, and nice people. Oh, yes boy gets girl." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 172:474 Mr '51 200w

Reviewed by Olive Carruthers

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Mr 11 '51 400w

"The plot offers nothing strikingly new and seems rather reminiscent of the late E. P. Roe, but the author has an observant eye, and her characterizations are closely connected with life." L. E. Cannon

Christian Century 68:798 Jl 4 '51 170w

Reviewed by M. W. Stoer

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ap 5 '51 350w

"It is never really exciting, seldom truly absorbing, and only occasionally interesting." R. M. Pearson

Churchman 165:15 F 15 '51 100w

Kirkus 18:706 D 1 '50 120w

"In order to write of what in her foreword she speaks of as 'spiritual values' Miss Baldwin has forsaken her vivacious, emotionally charged novelist's techniques in favor of obvious honesty of purpose and a quiet writing style." F. H. Bullock

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 F 11 '51 450w

"The protagonist of Miss Baldwin's umpteenth novel is a man of God—and he is difficult to accept in fictional terms. Like Mr. Robinson's cardinal, his sincerity is beyond reproach; unlike that colorful laborer in the vineyard, he seems bloodless, angular, and oddly unreal—for all the loving care an old hand has bestowed upon him. Only in the final chapter (when Paul Lennox discovers that virtue for virtue's sake is not always its own reward) does the human being emerge." Wilbur Watson

N Y Times p21 F 11 '51 270w

"This novel of a young Protestant minister in New York may surprise some of Miss Baldwin's thousands of enthusiastic readers. But they will certainly enjoy it, for the practised pen which has turned out an amazing number of glittering romances does not fumble over a spiritual theme." Pamela Taylor

+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 Mr 10 '51 360w

Time 57:96 F 12 '51 280w

BALET, JAN B. What makes an orchestra [il. by the author]. 41p $2.50 Oxford

785 Orchestras—Juvenile literature. Musical instruments—Juvenile literature 51-14388

A book about the instruments that make up an orchestra. Each page has a picture of one instrument, and a humorous picture showing the instrument being played. Pictures are accompanied by brief descriptive text.

Booklist 48:148 D 15 '51

Bookmark 11:61 D '51

"A gay book. . . The informative text is lightened by Jan Balet's humorous pictures, in fine pen line and brilliant color." E. C. I.

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 N 13 '50 50w

Kirkus 19:675 D 1 '51 130w

"Recommended, for all children's libraries." C. A. Hulton

+ Library J 76:2122 D 15 '51 90w

"The text is very well written; it makes one want to turn on radio or victrola at once, to see whether one agrees with his interesting descriptions of each sound. Families will enjoy discussing these descriptions. It is a book that will help to create more and better listeners, if its color and humor attract those who ordinarily would not turn to this sort of information." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 D 9 '51 270w

"Young music lovers, and those not quite so young, should find it completely delightful." Eugenia Garson

+ N Y Times p11 D 23 '51 180w

BALL, ALICE MORTON. Compounding and hyphenation of English words. 246p $4 Funk

425.1 English language—Words 51-9951

"The present volume is being issued as a ready-reference guide for the use of teachers, writers, editors, printers, typists, and any others interested in exactness of language. . . The alphabetic list of compound words includes the approved forms of most of the non-scientific or non-technical compounds that are variantly given in the several recent college dictionaries, as well as numerous compounds of current importance not to be found in any general dictionary or any published list. The alphabetic list of two-noun phrases, though much less comprehensive, is sufficiently illustrative of word groups that are not normally compounded. . . For a comprehensive dissertation upon the erratic and inharmonious practices of accepted authorities during the past hundred years, see my Compounding in the English Language [Book Review Digest 1939]. The rules and list appearing therein have been slightly revised and greatly augmented for the present volume." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by Edith James

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 23 '51 30w

"Written by Alice Morton Ball, formerly editor of publications for the United States Department of State, this book will be a valuable guide to writers, editors, printers, teachers, students, typists, and others, as to when and how to join together two or more English words." C. E.

+ Survey 87:246 My '51 110w

BALL, ELSIE. Perilous voyage; il. by Ralph Ray. 127p $1.75 Abingdon-Cokesbury

51-12142

A story for ages eight to twelve about Rufus, son of a mountain chieftain, who is seized by Roman soldiers, is in the shipwreck with Paul and Luke (told about in the Book of Acts) and becomes a Christian.

"Well told story for 10 to 13 year olds." F. D. Heron

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 N 11 '51 120w

Kirkus 19:434 Ag 15 '51 120w

"Interesting and exciting. But the boy's adventure overshadows that of Paul, whose character thus loses force. Still, it is a tale that illumines an early conversion." L. S. Bechtel

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 25 '51 40w

Reviewed by N. K. Burger

N Y Times p6 N 11 '51 110w

BANFIELD, EDWARD C. Government project; foreword by Rexford G. Tugwell. 271p il $3.50 Free press

334.683 Agriculture, Cooperative. Casa Grande Valley farms, incorporated 51-11633

"In 1936 the government established a cooperative farm at Casa Grande in the Arizona desert and settled fifty-seven indigent farm families on the land. After the expenditure of over a million dollars and seven years of constant effort by honest and reasonably efficient government officials, the project collapsed and was liquidated. . . This post mortem illuminates the difficulties inherent in such government projects." Nation

"Sociologists will find much meat in this book for purposes of illustrating the processes of social interaction—conflict, co-operation, and attempts and failures at accommodation; leader versus bureaucrat roles. Although sociologists might make different interpretations from the author's, the raw material is there for their use. It is undoubtedly the most satisfactory case study of a co-operative farming venture from a social-psychological standpoint which has yet been made." Lowry Nelson

+ Am J Soc 57:403 Ja '52 750w

Booklist 47:395 Jl 15 '51

"Professor Banfield of the University of Chicago's 'Program of Research and Education in Planning' was originally a newspaperman and information specialist with the U.S. Farm Security Administration, prior to obtaining a Doctorate in Political Science. He has written extremely well, and in a most interesting and informal style, a fascinating analysis of [a] case history of the F.S.A." Albert Rose

+ Canadian Forum 31:163 O '51 450w

"Objective, impartial, and wholly fascinating."

+ Nation 173:57 Jl 21 '51 80w

BANKS, MRS ELEANOR (MACDONALD). Wandersong; jacket by George Bonner; map and drawings by Julia Wallace. 309p $4 Caxton ptrs.

B or 92 Macdonald, Henry. Frontier and pioneer life—Montana 50-10921

A saga of the American West, based on the life of the author's father, Henry MacDonald. The only child of a Scotch Presbyterian minister, he was orphaned, ran away from Canada to enlist in the Civil war. After the war he went West and became, among other things, a sheep raiser.

"Authentic early Americana, this has human interest as well as regional."

+ Kirkus 18:453 Ag 1 '50 150w

"A tale of adventure, to be sure, but one that does not gloss over the filth and tedium and hard work that were the average pioneer's lot. The author's knowing portrait of the Plains Indians as a generally vain, dirty, gossipy, and cheerfully craven band of horse thieves is just one of the services this book renders in deflating some of the legends of the bad old days west of the Mississippi."

+ New Yorker 27:101 F 24 '51 230w

"With a certain mellowness born of looking backward, Mrs Banks has recaptured the piquant realities of this remarkable pioneer's life." C. E. M.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 F 11 '51 320w

BANKS, MRS STOCKTON (VOORHEES). Washington adventure; il. by Henry C. Pitz. (Whittlesey House publication) 191p $2.50 McGraw

50-10734

A mystery and adventure story for ages nine to thirteen. The hero is David Cameron who arrives in Washington, D.C. in 1800, searching for his older brother.

+ Horn Bk 27:111 Mr '51 80w

Kirkus 18:519 S 1 '50 110w

"Recommended." Elizabeth Hodges

+ Library J 76:122 Ja 15 '51 80w

"It is a good story in a setting that will have a special appeal to young Americans."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 F 17 '51 140w

BANNING, MRS MARGARET (CULKIN). Fallen away. 314p $3 Harper

51-12203

Barbara, the heroine is a devout, sincere Catholic. After her divorce from her worthless first husband she falls in love with a fine man, who is a Protestant. The novel describes Barbara's second marriage, her loss of faith, and her final return to the Catholic church.

Booklist 48:31 S 15 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes

— Cath World 174:154 N '51 200w

"It is the author's complete candor which makes this study outstanding. She pulls no punches—she doesn't even roll with the punches. Nor is there any whitewash mixed in the colors with which she paints her picture." Olive Carruthers

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 30 '51 400w

BANNING, M. C.—Continued

"Miss Banning's latest love story presents the eternal triangle with the very interesting difference that one of the girl's two loves is the Roman Catholic Church. Reading it, we are helped to see how honest Catholics feel about their rules and practices. I take this novel to be at least as useful for an understanding of the Catholic problem as anything Mr. Blanshard has written." E. L. Snodgrass

+ Christian Century 68:1130 O 3 '51 450w

"Live issues that explore the common and specific knowledge of Catholicism are treated fairly and honestly and offer a controversial book for women of all faiths."

Kirkus 19:307 Je 15 '51 260w

"The sincerity and straightforwardness of Mrs. Banning's picture make it of interest to Catholics and non-Catholics alike. On the other hand, it seems likely to me that many readers who do not share Barbara's faith will not become deeply enough involved in her dilemma to find it compelling. As in most 'problem' novels, the appeal of "Fallen Away" lies in its presentation of conflicting ideas and emotions rather than in the individuals with whom the story is concerned." Mary Ross

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 9 '51 180w

"Mrs. Banning writes in her usual easy-to-read prose, but the plot is mechanical, the characters stock." Andrea Parke

N Y Times p23 S 9 '51 90w

"Unfortunately, the theme of God's pursuing grace often sinks under the weight of religious dialectic. . . At best, Barbara, with her helplessness in the face of leisure, her failure to hold the extra drink gracefully, and her quasi-political indulgence in petty flirtation, is none too heroic a figure. Mrs Banning does better by Kenneth as she interweaves his love for Barbara with his patient endeavor to adjust to a bewildering marriage. While he shares with Barbara the social weaknesses of their class, he emerges a stronger, more vital character than his wife. It is only as an illumination of life and an authoritative commentary on our society that 'Fallen Away' achieves artistic integrity. On that level Mrs. Banning has never spoken more eloquently." A. F. Wolfe

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 S 15 '51 500w

Springf'd Republican p12C O 21 '51 130w

Wis Lib Bul 47:253 N '51

BANNON, LAURA MAY. Horse on a houseboat [il. by the author]. 94p $2.50 Whitman, A. 51-13919

Two California boys and a former circus horse, the pet of one of the boys, have an unexpected trip out into the Pacific ocean on a foggy morning, when their houseboat slips its mooring. Thanks to the horse, Scalawag, they are rescued in time to take part in a local celebration. For ages 9 to 11.

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 N 25 '51 110w

Kirkus 19:635 N 1 '51 140w

"Unusual plot plus amusing situations make this a first-rate story for 9-11 year-olds." Claire Nolte

+ Library J 76:2011 D 1 '51 80w

"Life in a California fishing village where a large part of the population lives in houseboats sounds wonderful. Laura Bannon's sharply patterned illustrations make it look so." E. L. B.

+ N Y Times p26 Ja 6 '52 150w

"The story [is] one that's sure to delight."

+ San Francisco Chronicle p7 N 11 '51 100w

BANTA, RICHARD ELWELL, ed. Hoosier caravan; a treasury of Indiana life and lore. 500p $5 Indiana univ. press

810.8 American literature—Indiana 51-14389

"An anthology of Hoosier literature. . . Among the authors included are: Booth Tarkington, George Barr McCutcheon, George Ade, Gene Stratton Porter, Maurice Thompson, George Lockwood, Ross Lockridge, Jr., James Whitcomb Riley, A. J. Beveridge, General Lew Wallace, Kin Hubbard, Mary Hartwell Catherwood, Paul Dresser, Theodore Dreiser, Eugene Debs, Elmer Davis, Ernie Pyle, Juliet V. Strauss, Hoagy Carmichael. Poets are included." Library J

Booklist 48:120 D 1 '51

"The book offers many bits of exciting and colorful reading; but, with an outline history of the state to guide you, it provides as vivid a history as one is likely to find anywhere." J. T. McCutcheon

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 9 '51 300w

Kirkus 19:594 O 1 '51 110w

"The editorial comment is brief, witty and to the point." R. P. Bartolini

+ Library J 76:1699 O 15 '51 160w

"This is rich fare, a choice combination of dishes, and all of them as native as corn on the cob and pumpkin pie. All in all the collection magnificently sustains the thesis that any one who supposes that a vacuum exists between Ohio and Illinois has never discovered the true heartland of America." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 D 23 '51 380w

Reviewed by W. M. Teller

N Y Times p12 N 18 '51 750w

BARBER, THOMAS H. Where we are at. 255p $3 Scribner

338.973 U.S.—Economic policy. U.S.—Politics and government—1945- 50-10078

A statement of the position of a conservative on the subject of domestic and foreign policy of the United States.

Bookmark 10:86 Ja '51

"Beyond its voicing of reaction and its refusal to consider the basic reasons for the rise in taxation, this is also at times a dangerous book, overtly intolerant and insufficiently informed."

Kirkus 18:575 S 15 '50 140w

San Francisco Chronicle p13 Ja 14 '51 280w

BARCLAY, WADE CRAWFORD. Early American Methodism, 1769-1844; 2v; v2, To reform the nation. (History of Methodist missions, pt 1, v 2) 562p $3.50 Meth. church. Bd. of missions

287 Missions. Methodism

"Dr. Barclay's second voume of the 'History of Methodist Missions' has the same chronological scope as Volume 1, Missionary Motivation and Expansion [Book Review Digest 1950], namely, the period 1769-1844. The six lengthy chapters include one on Methodism and reform, two on Indian missions, east and west of the Mississippi respectively, while the three remaining ones deal with the Methodist 'way,' the 'message,' and the ministry." Am Hist R

"The volume is well and interestingly written. The careful reader will gain a very definite comprehension of the spirit, the genius, the organization, the appeal, and the reasons for the enormous success of the denomination in gathering its membership. Only the two chapters on Indian missions are burdened with the encyclopedic details that characterized the first volume, and the desirability of presenting a rather complete record perhaps made this unavoidable." W. M. Gewehr

+ Am Hist R 56:909 Jl '51 750w

"It may be confidently stated that the volume is and will be for long to come a standard source of information on Methodism in the United States, in all its organization, type of ministry, leadership, vision, spirit, and marvelous achievement. But more, it is in reality the story of the achievement of Christianity and of the Christian church, so often neglected by general historians, in molding and guiding the course of America's development in the formative decades of its history. The author at times roams far afield, but ever in serious search, and he always returns laden with rich food to supplement the Methodist diet." R. E. E. Harkness

+ Crozer Q 28:146 Ap '51 1350w

BAREA, ARTURO. Broken root [tr. by Ilsa Barea]. 308p $3.50 Harcourt
51-1673

"A sombre picture of despair in present-day Spain. Don Antolin, ten years absent from his home, returns for a visit and finds that his family is really no more than a reflection of the chaos—political, emotional, and moral—that exists all over the country." New Yorker

Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51

"Mr. Barea is already widely known for his non-fiction, and he brings the technique of the essayist and factual writer to this book." Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:235 Je '51 280w

"In 'The Broken Root,' Arturo Barea gives us a novel that is powerful, compassionate, brilliant. It is one of the finest works of fiction I have read in a long time." Edmund Fuller
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Mr 25 '51 550w

Reviewed by J. G. Harrison
Christian Science Monitor p11 Mr 17 '51 490w

Kirkus 19:139 Mr 1 '51 210w

"Recommended." Joseph Borome
+ Library J 76:516 Mr 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by H. I'A. Fausset
Manchester Guardian p8 My 18 '51 100w

Reviewed by Joseph Kraft
Nation 172:330 Ap 7 '51 700w

Reviewed by Richard Holden
New Repub 124:21 Ap 23 '51 250w

"Mr. Barea, in translation at any rate, seems little troubled by problems of style. The Broken Root is a nakedly propagandist novel, and the propaganda has unfortunately damped the fire of the qualities that the author displayed in his earlier trilogy—the spontaneity, the vividness, the artist's authority and sense of relevance." J. D. Scott
+ — New Statesman & Nation 41:540 My 12 '51 210w

"That a book of such comprehensive scope should have some faults is not surprising. Its dramatis personae, for instance, are too patly arranged as a complete cross-section of Spanish society. . . Nothing in 'The Broken Root,' however, can overshadow its masterful portrayal of a beautiful and stricken country whose song and sun are now more than ever only a tourist-catching slogan." Frederic Morton
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Mr 18 '51 900w

"The best quality in the book is its simplicity and absence of sophistication. Facing the horror of the facts the narrative has a soothing and calming innocence which makes the argument more persuasive. The fusion of the autobiographical with the imaginary raises problems which Barea solves decorously." Ramon Sender
+ N Y Times p4 Mr 11 '51 500w

"Mr. Barea's book, which is written with sincerity and feeling, is depressing but not affecting, perhaps because the tragedy, as he recounts it, seems to belong to a great mass of people in which the fate of an individual cannot be regarded as important and need not be remembered."
+ — New Yorker 27:129 Mr 17 '51 90w

"Mr. Barea is a novelist of the front rank, and his book is a compelling, albeit a terrifying portrayal of what dictatorship can do and has done to the minds and bodies of ordinary people." C. W. Weinberger
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 Ap 1 '51 750w

"There are obvious flaws in Señor Barea's talent as a novelist that make one uncertain of his future as a writer of fiction. His most notable success lies in his convincing account of what can happen to a country when circumstances play with full force upon the historical weaknesses of a government and a people. . . The most curious lack in the novel is that of Spanish atmosphere. . . The translation by Ilsa Barea gains in readability by its easy colloquial tone, but one misses the formal flavor of Castilian." Herschel Brickell
Sat R of Lit 34:17 Mr 24 '51 500w

"Arturo Barea is not continuing his own story this time; he has never returned to Spain. He collected material for his novel from others who did. Perhaps for this reason, The Broken Root is more effective as a report than as a novel. Like many another intellectual turned novelist, Author Barea becomes so intent on making his point that he pushes his people around until coincidence swamps art and life together, but he does make his point, and a grim one it is."
Time 57:102 Mr 5 '51 550w

Times [London] Lit Sup p289 My 11 '51 550w

"In an effort to cover the ground, Mr. Barea crowds too many events and characters into his pages: Yet very few novels worth reading have come out of Spain since the era of the Civil War, and the many readers who have wondered what life is like under Franco will welcome Mr. Barea's convincing and at times vivid report." Paul Pickrel
+ — Yale R n s 40:765 summer '51 110w

BARGER, HAROLD. Transportation industries, 1889-1946; a study of output, employment and productivity. 288p $4 Nat. bur. of economic res.
385 Transportation—U.S. 51-2346

"This study is one of several related reports by the staff of the National Bureau of Economic Research analyzing productivity and output of industry, agriculture, mining, and public utilities. The three chapters of Part I, The Transportation Industries as a Whole, examine those industries as to relative size, kinds of traffic, growth and trends of freight and passenger business, and trends in employment and productivity. Part II, Individual Transportation Industries, contains five chapters analyzing the steam railroads, urban and interurban electric railroads, pipelines, waterways, and airlines. . . Approximately one hundred pages are devoted to appendixes, principally on technical problems of index construction, and a discussion of output measurement of other public utilities." U S Quarterly Bk R

Reviewed by D. P. Locklin
J Pol Econ 59:368 Ag '51 600w

"The book will be of special interest to economists, security analysts, labor unions, and management."
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:153 Je '51 180w

BARGHOORN, FREDERICK CHARLES. Soviet image of the United States; a study in distortion. 297p $4 Harcourt
327.47 Russia—Foreign relations—United States. Propaganda, Russian. U.S.—Foreign relations—Russia 50-10897

"Former member of our embassy at Moscow, now at Yale, devotes about one fourth of book to war period. He then tells how Russia now presents the United States to its own people. Different aspects of American life and policy, such as the atom bomb, our 'imperialism', and our domestic scene are described as they are made to appear to the Russians. Using all available sources, the Russian pattern of attitudes and beliefs is analyzed." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by A. N. Dragnich
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:889 S '51 600w

"This book is one of the best ever written in English about Russia and is 'must reading' for any serious student of foreign affairs today. Its faults are in presentation, rather than factual." Ellsworth Raymond
+ Ann Am Acad 275:216 My '51 480w
Booklist 47:183 Ja 15 '51

BARGHOORN, F. C.—Continued
Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 31 '50 450w

"The author's suggestions are as definite as an experienced and cautious diplomat could be expected to make them, especially in a world situation which now contains so many unknown and rapidly changing factors." W. E. G.
+ Christian Century 68:48 Ja 10 '51 350w

Reviewed by Ernest Pisko
Christian Science Monitor p3 Ja 11 '51 700w

Cleveland Open Shelf p5 Mr '51

Reviewed by E. S. Skillin
Commonweal 53:356 Ja 12 '51 800w

Foreign Affairs 29:499 Ap '51 60w

"This exposure of the specific content and techniques of Soviet political strategy is for the enlightenment and information of all thinking Americans and should be valuable as a study book on current affairs."
+ Kirkus 18:714 D 1 '50 160w

"Recommended for public and educational libraries." H. H. Bernt
+ Library J 75:2072 D 1 '50 140w

Reviewed by V. M. Dean
Nation 172:137 F 10 '51 2100w

Reviewed by E. J. Simmons
New Repub 124:20 Ap 2 '51 1050w

"Considering the importance of the subject it is unfortunate that the exposition will strike the average reader as lacking in imagination, and even the specialist will have to work hard to keep up his interest. . . When Mr. Barghoorn breaks out of his rigid framework he gives evidence of insight and analytical ability in treating Soviet problems. . . [His] competence is also evident in the two excellent chapters with which his book concludes." Alex Inkeles
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 D 31 '50 1150w

"Mr. Barghoorn did his research work at the Yale Institute of International Studies. His book is scholarly and not always easy for a general reader. He documents what we already knew or suspected or have heard from the lips of Mr. Vishinsky or Mr. Malik at the sessions of the United Nations. Everyone who wishes to understand the attitudes of Soviet Russia (regardless of what happens between the writing of these words and their appearance in print) will have to read this book." R. L. Duffus
+ N Y Times p1 D 31 '50 1400w

New Yorker 26:84 Ja 13 '51 250w

"The only fault there is to find in Mr. Barghoorn's earnest and thoughtful study is that an occasional overtone of moral disapproval evoked by some transparent example of Soviet mendacity may lead the reader to overlook the tragic fact that all who participate in the current conduct of international relations will be tempted in the same direction." Max Beloff
+ — Pacific Affairs 24:222 Je '51 750w

"The reviewer could find but one minor error in the entire book, though it is packed with data, events, statements and other material demanding meticulous treatment. The only slip he discovered is the marking of the year 1922 as the year of the first Soviet constitution, while the correct year of its promulgation is 1918, with 1924 as the year of the second Soviet constitution. The book is a valuable addition to the literature on American-Soviet relations." M. M. Laserson
+ Pol Sci Q 66:453 S '51 1250w

"Dr. Barghoorn's analysis is too detailed to be outlined here; his breakdown is a closely woven affair requiring attentive study. His conclusions, however, are few and clear." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ja 4 '51 900w

"This is a good book, well worth reading. Would that one could assure that its message and its implicit warning were impressed upon every Congressman in Washington." Harry Schwartz
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 Ja 13 '51 800w

"A chapter outlining an American program for counteracting the anti-American propaganda of the Kremlin is not the least valuable part of this excellent study." Bruno Lasker
+ Survey 87:367 Ag '51 600w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:75 Mr '51 300w

Reviewed by Gleb Struve
Yale R n s 40:557 spring '51 350w

BARKER, A. L. Novelette, with other stories. 239p $2.75 Scribner
51-7091

Eleven short stories by the author of The Innocents (Book Review Digest 1948). Contents: Novelette; Jane Dore—dear childe; The story of Mathias; The freak; Variations on a theme of rain; Romney; Heartbreak; Domini; The answer is nothing; The villain as a young boy; Pringle.

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Henry Cavendish
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 21 '51 360w

"This is distinguished story-telling for the discriminate."
+ Kirkus 19:496 S 1 '51 130w

"In this collection of eleven stories it seems unfortunate that Miss Barker began with 'Novelette,' the longest, and to this reviewer the least interesting of the group. The author's power to create an imaginative response in the reader is most apparent in the shorter stories." E. M. Lilley
+ Library J 76:1703 O 15 '51 60w

Reviewed by H. I'A. Fausset
Manchester Guardian p4 N 9 '51 100w

"Miss Barker's style is crisp yet suggestive; she is as apt to hit on the right and unexpected metaphor for clouds or silence as to record the 'clean, clear, unlikely blue' of Michaelmas daisies. She is over-articulate, has not yet learnt when to let well alone and her dialogue sometimes goes awry. Yet, when all is said, it is not often that a reviewer has the chance to salute such real talent. Miss Barker's book is the best piece of new writing that I have read for a great many months." John Raymond
+ — New Statesman & Nation 42:601 N 24 '51 650w

"Miss Barker's stories, products of craft, entertain by their clear developments, round characterizations and scenic solidity. But she is also hitting at something. . . [Some of] these people pull you up with a shock; they are selfish, deluded and cruel." Louis Simpson
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 420w

"Usually it is a mistake to read a writer's collection of short stories at one sitting. . . In the case of A. L. Barker's present collection such is the diversity of subject, of approach and of tone that the hazard doesn't exist. Each of the eleven stories stands as sharply clear of its fellows as might a handful of jewels each cut from a different stone." Alice Morris
+ — N Y Times p5 O 14 '51 230w

New Yorker 27:140 O 27 '51 100w

"Miss Barker's shorter pieces are more satisfying than her two novellas. Several of her stories, satires of circumstance, are very good indeed. . . 'Pringle,' one of the best stories in the collection, shows us an amiable man victimized by misunderstanding, prejudice, and fear. In such stories Miss Barker writes memorably about what Elizabeth Bowen has so aptly termed the problem of human unknowableness." William Peden
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:21 D 8 '51 500w

"The [title] story is flawed by a touch of rather precious feeling now and then, but it has a strength and delicacy that make the happiest impression." R. D. Charques
+ — Spec 187:582 N 2 '51 150w

BARKER, GEORGE. Dead seagull. 142p $2.50 Farrar, Straus
51-11466

"Since it is for poetry . . . that Mr. Barker is noted, it is not surprising that his brief and tragic novel is written with the imagery, symbolism, economy, and intensity of the poet. . . It is a dramatic, brooding, and often powerful exploration of the moral enigmas involved in loving and in being loved, in which Mr. Barker considers the concept of original sin and the contradictions in sacred and profane love, and draws a partisan conclusion that the greatest human catastrophe is love itself." Atlantic

Atlantic 188:85 Ag '51 100w

"This novel is in the style of an unjelled poem. And it is only fair to the poet to note that the five stanzas of his 'Summer Idyll,' for example, communicate more than the whole of The Dead Seagull and with a sureness that a reader of the novel would little expect." M. Avison

Canadian Forum 33:262 F '51 150w

"In my opinion this novel, tho very possibly deliberately overdrawn, is no expression of a mere esthetic will to shock. It is a serious book, and if one is not put off early by its unusualness, one will finish the book neither annoyed nor bewildered, but thoughtful." A. C. Ames

Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Jl 22 '51 320w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
Library J 76:1225 Ag '51 90w

"There are magnificent passages in the writing, as well as much sound and fury. But the total effect is self-conscious, and without true moving power." L. T. Nicholl

— + N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Jl 22 '51 350w

"The language of Mr. Barker's brief novel is spare and incandescent, and its images and symbolisms are evocative and apt; as might be expected from an author chiefly celebrated, both here and in his native England, as a poet. It is precisely the poet in Mr. Barker that raises the scenes and actions of 'The Dead Seagull' to an uncommon pitch of intensity, and gives to an unexceptional and even melodramatic story some of the dark majesty and violence of Greek tragedy." A. S. Morris

+ N Y Times p4 Jl 22 '51 360w

"His narrative betrays at all times a monstrous degree of egotism and self-satisfaction, [and] is set down in a highly coated, showy prose that fails entirely to conceal the banality of the mind behind it."

— New Yorker 27:78 Jl 21 '51 70w

"This is writing which demands a great deal of the reader but, though sometimes obscure, repays in rich and sometimes startling originality the effort demanded." Pamela Taylor

Sat R of Lit 34:51 S 8 '51 300w

"A reekingly unpleasant book; when the author waxes lyrical and theological about his nasty little mess, it becomes a conceited one. Nevertheless, The Dead Seagull has a clinical interest of its own as a crude dissection of evil."

— + Time 58:82 Jl 30 '51 440w

BARKER, LILLIAN. Dionne legend; quintuplets in captivity. 269p pl $3 Doubleday
920 Dionne quintuplets 51-9919

A reporter for the New York News tells the story of the Dionne quintuplets from 1935 to 1950. The villain of the story, according to this account, is Dr Dafoe, who separated the children from their parents, ignored and snubbed them, all for his own glory.

Booklist 47:271 Ap 1 '51

Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 40w

"Sidelights here and there on that fascinating five give this considerable human interest as well as news value."

+ Kirkus 19:41 Ja 15 '51 110w

"It is a new angle on a famous story, which will undoubtedly provoke objection."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Mr 18 '51 290w

BARKER, MELVERN J. Little Sea Legs [il. by the author]. [30p] $2 Oxford 51-6973

Picture book for small boys. It shows how a little boy who loved the sea went sailing in a storm and was miserable. But by the next morning he had his "sea legs."

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 11 '51 80w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

+ Kirkus 19:528 S 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by M. B. Snow
Library J 76:1711 O 15 '51 80w

"Done in sou'wester yellow with grays, the full-page illustrations make distinct and amusing characterizations. That old salt humor is, however, a little subtle for nursery school tots." M. J.

N Y Times p42 N 11 '51 110w

BARKER, SHIRLEY. Rivers parting. 311p $3 Crown
50-14406

Historical novel with seventeenth century England and the American colony of New Hampshire as background. John Scarlock from near Nottingham, an Englishman of yeoman stock, leaves his farm in good hands and goes out to a new settlement in America. There he becomes a respected citizen, an upholder of the Royalist cause, and firmly opposed to the Puritans from Massachusetts. His son, Will, returns to England on business for the colonists, and stays long enough to experience both the plague and the great fire of London. Returning to New Hampshire, with a charming but unsuitable wife, Will follows in his father's footsteps. Later he marries the girl he has always loved, when his first wife returns to the life she loves in London.

"Rivers Parting though not exactly notable for its literary merit is notable for its freedom from synthetic lustiness and gustiness, and for its sensible characterizations. Admittedly, the ghost of one of Robin Hood's merry men puts in an appearance. . . But in the main, Miss Barker's fictional world bears conspicuously more resemblance to reality than is customary in the historical romance." C. J. Rolo

+ Atlantic 187:83 Ja '51 650w

Boooklist 47:53; 75 O 1 '50; O 15 '50

"In a word: no. Indeed, no." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 172:393 F '51 200w

"This is an unusually engaging story." Kelsey Guilfoil

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 31 '50 450w

"Some of the author's theories about history may be challenged, the hedonistic philosophy of Will and his friends is certainly not to everyone's taste; but the book has a full and glowing story, and brings to throbbing, lusty life old London and the first years in the Piscataqua country, a region Miss Barker has known ever since she can remember." W. K. Rugg

+ Christian Science Monitor p3 Ja 15 '51 330w

Cleveland Open Shelf p4 Ja '51

Kirkus 18:645 O 15 '50 200w

"Of limited appeal, but recommended nevertheless." H. A. Wooster

Library J 75:2149 D 15 '50 110w

"'Rivers Parting' is written with extraordinary vividness of detail. Its complete naturalness, except for one rash sortie into cloak-and-dagger melodrama, and its spaciousness bear happy testimony to the limitless and effective research Miss Barker has done into the life of the period, both in colonial New Hampshire and England of the Restoration." F. H. Bullock

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 D 31 '50 1000w

"A generous, forward-moving story, with characters who are more than puppets, who come alive, and if they lapse occasionally into a modern turn of speech or thought, it does not matter. They round out our knowledge of this country's past. . . Let us be grateful for the Scarlocks. Their story makes more pleasant reading than gloomy speculation on our reddening future." Evelyn Eaton

+ N Y Times p13 D 31 '50 410w

New Yorker 26:85 Ja 6 '51 120w

BARKER, SHIRLEY—Continued

"There are action and adventure enough to delight the most avid of readers. There is not a dull page or even a dull paragraph throughout the book; and Miss Barker's marked skill in writing is as satisfying and lively as her quick succession of thrilling incidents." M. E. Chase

+ Sat R of Lit 34:29 Ja 6 '51 500w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal

Springf'd Republican p8B Ja 7 '51 360w

Times [London] Lit Sup p481 Ag 3 '51 170w

BARLOW, HAROLD, and MORGENSTERN, SAM. Dictionary of musical themes; introd. by John Erskine. 656p $5 Crown

781.97 Music—Encyclopedias and dictionaries 48-6784

For descriptive note see Annual for 1948.

"Together [with A Dictionary of Vocal Themes] the two works make a new and unique contribution to reference material in the field of music. Regardless of the interpretations that users of these volumes may put upon the jacket claims that 'the exact music of any important vocal [or instrumental] composition ever written' may be found through them, it is probably safe to say with the publishers that in the two books, 'the main body of music for the voice [and for instruments] has been organized for ready reference.'"

+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:51 Jl '51 240w

BARLOW, HAROLD, and MORGENSTERN, SAM, comps. Dictionary of vocal themes. 547p $5 Crown

781.97 Vocal music—Thematic catalogs 51-395

"Designed as a companion to the Dictionary of Musical Themes, for instruments [Book Review Digest 1948] also compiled by Barlow and Morgenstern, this volume contains over 8,000 themes from vocal works including operas, cantatas, oratorios, masses, motets, madrigals, art songs, and folk songs, and represents more than 450 composers dating from the Middle Ages to the present day. The earliest item is the tenth-century Hymn of St. Adelbert; the most recent, the arias from Gian-Carlo Menotti's music drama, The Consul." U S Quarterly Bk R

Reviewed by C. K. Miller

Library J 76:865 My 15 '51 140w

"The problem of determining the contents of this volume must have presented even greater difficulties to the authors than in the case of the dictionary of instrumental themes because the instrumental repertoire is probably somewhat closer to being crystallized. . . This does not mean the selection of the authors will satisfy everyone. I was surprised at the omission of certain works and equally surprised at the inclusion of others. It is doubtful if any two musicians could ever agree on what should go into this kind of book, and I sincerely hope Messrs. Barlow and Morgenstern are still on speaking terms." Harold Spivacke

Music Lib Assn Notes 8:334 Mr '51 850w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 F 25 '51 90w

"A Dictionary of Vocal Themes is recommended for all libraries where reference service includes the field of music, and for home use where musical interest is sufficient."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:48 Jl '51 1900w

"The first of its kind, this dictionary should prove useful especially to music librarians and to collectors of recordings."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:111 Mr '51 220w

BARNE, KITTY (MRS ERIC STREATFEILD). Dog stars; il. by Alice Molony. 238p $2.50 Dodd

51-2811

Story of several English children who help in the training of half a dozen dogs for an appearance in a movie. Dinah, the youngest, preferred cats, and she too had her spot of glory. For grades 4-7.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

"The strenuous, earnest efforts of Farrar & Co. to train the dogs are most amusing. And the fact that their chronicler writes so well and so knowingly of both people and animals should make her a prime favorite with 8 to 12 year old readers." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Jl 22 '51 160w

"To good readers who enjoy English stories Dog Stars will be a delight. There is so much going on in the book that the story occasionally gets a little involved and some children may put it down on that account." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ — Horn Bk 27:248 Jl '51 130w

"Very English in feeling. Will be liked by the Kitty Barne fans but possibly not by the average dog story enthusiast." Phyllis Fenner

Library J 76:971 Je 1 '51 80w

"Not recommended." Marian Herr

— Library J 76:971 Je 1 '51 200w

"Serious dog-lovers of eleven and twelve will enjoy this thoroughly for it is packed with information about various types of dogs and their obedience training. . . Much unusual information lies behind the story, such as authentic data on cats being taught tricks. The many sketches are delightful, giving a lively feeling of the various dogs." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 My 13 '51 220w

"'Dog Stars' is an entertaining mixture of animals and children. There is suspense too." Marjorie Burger

+ N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '51 100w

BARNES, MRS MARGARET CAMPBELL. With all my heart. 284p $3 Macrae-Smith co.

Catherine of Braganza, consort of Charles II, king of England—Fiction 51-13075

Historical novel based on the life of Catharine of Braganza, queen of Charles II of England.

Booklist 47:374; 48:65 Jl 1 '51; O 15 '51

"With All My Heart scarcely possesses the density of historical record, but neither does it violate, as do so many of the current crop of historical novels, one's sense of history and of human decency. Here is a spirited novel of constancy and courage, one well worth the reading." Riley Hughes

+ Cath World 174:313 Ja '52 250w

"Incurable addicts of Restoration romance may find themselves wishing there were more of Nell Gwyn in the book; she is even robbed of the king's deathbed solicitude. But Nelly is a dangerous female to have around if you want to keep the spotlight on somebody else!" Edward Wagenknecht

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 23 '51 290w

"Neither great writing nor important biography, but persuasively delightful reading."

Kirkus 19:327 Jl 1 '51 170w

"Recommended for the reader of light historical fiction." K. A. Shorey

+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 80w

"Miss Barnes draws heavily on a romantic imagination to supplement known facts. But she succeeds in creating a convincing love story, if a superficial one, and if one would find fault with the book it is not on grounds of character analysis but because it fails to create a picture of those roaring, boisterous days of the English Restoration."

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 O 14 '51 250w

"An excellent capsule history of the Restoration. . . It has all the makings of a bang-up historical novel—except the breath of life." Melville Heath

N Y Times p23 S 30 '51 220w

New Yorker 27:124 O 6 '51 40w

Wis Lib Bul 47:253 N '51

BARNES, WINSTON H. F. Philosophical predicament. 184p $2.50 Beacon press

104 Philosophy [51-5611]

"This book is an expanded version of the Inaugural Lecture which I gave in 1946, after my appointment to the Chair of Philosophy in the Durham Division of the University of Durham." (Pref) Index.

"This book with its profound and sympathetic treatment of the whole analytic movement from Moore to the present day, including Logical Positivism, should be in the hands of all serious students of philosophy." F. H. Heinemann
+ Hibbert J 49:182 Ja '51 200w

"Professor Barnes writes in a clear, lively style which, in the few passages in which he permits himself to take a holiday from the close-knit reasoning that forms the major part of his book, has considerable literary pretensions."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p9 Ja 5 '51 1800w

BARNETT, ANTHONY. Human species; a biology of man. 280p il $3.75 Norton

575 Anthropology. Man. Biology [50-13274]

An outline of biology, which considers the various branches of the subject from the viewpoint of the contributions each can make to contemporary problems. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by S. L. Washburn
Am Soc R 16:576 Ag '51 400w

Booklist 47:110 N 15 '50

New Repub 124:21 F 5 '51 50w

Reviewed by D. V. Glass
New Statesman & Nation 40:596 D 9 '50 340w

"To say that the author is objective in his treatment does not mean that he neutralizes himself by fence straddling, as anyone who reads his discussion of race prejudice will discover. The book is well illustrated." J. W. H.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 Ja 14 '51 130w

"Written without technical jargon, it makes an easy introduction to the subject." H. L. Shapiro
+ Yale R n s 40:556 spring '51 110w

BARNETT, LINCOLN KINNEAR. Writing on life: sixteen close-ups [decoration by Armin Landeck]. 383p $4.50 Sloane

920.02 Biography (as a literary form) 51-10590

An account of the author's method of writing short biographies, illustrated with several of his own close-ups, some of which were written for Life. In the case of each sketch a brief essay is included, describing the particular problems of getting material for the biography in question.

Booklist 47:344 Je 1 '51

"He is a master of the alert and delicate art of the interview, preferring to gather his information and impressions from living people, not from print, however trustworthy, nor from the files of clippings in the morgue. He puts a special value on those small, revelatory facts that the biographer must observe for himself. He says that he writes only about people whom he likes, and it is evident that his subjects like him." George Genzmer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Je 3 '51 850w

Reviewed by Lewis Nichols
N Y Times p25 Je 17 '51 340w

Springf'd Republican p8D Jl 1 '51 150w

BARNEY, MRS HELEN CORSE. Fruit in His season. 246p $3 Crown

51-10823

A novel of eighteenth century Virginia and the Ohio frontier. The characters are Quakers, who object to the slavery laws and set out for the free territory of Ohio. They have their troubles with Indians, and smallpox epidemics, but their Quaker faith carries thru to peace.

Booklist 47:285; 346 Ap 15 '51; Je 1 '51

"The complexity of characterization is not great; the plotting is by no means independent of coincidence. This novel is technically competent, tho, and rich in action and tension." A. G. Ames
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 27 '51 380w

Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 21 '51 150w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:963 Je 1 '51 70w

"Mrs. Barney has transcribed a page from the past that is serene and refreshing."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Je 17 '51 120w

"Being a first novel, it is, in places, rather stiffly written. Yet one feels this is a minor fault set against its sound realities. For all the rigid rulings under which the Quakers lived, there is throughout the book a sense of tenderness, kindliness, strength and well-willing. One feels a security and a peace which outward storms may shake but cannot finally wreck." Margaret Widdemer
+ N Y Times p16 Je 3 '51 360w

Reviewed by Don Pitt
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 190w

Reviewed by G. A. Panichas
Springf'd Republican p5D Je 17 '51 200w

Wis Lib Bul 47:253 N '51

BARNHART, CLARENCE LEWIS, ed. See Thorndike-Barnhart comprehensive desk dictionary

BARON, —. Baron at the ballet; introd. and commentary by Arnold L. Haskell; foreword by Sacheverell Sitwell. 222p il $10 Morrow

793.32 Ballet. Photography, Artistic [51-6265]

"Baron, the London photographer who has photographed all the ballet companies which have appeared in that city since 1935, has gathered about 300 of his best shots and put them into [this] book. It is a bit off the beaten track of dance picture books in that Arnold Haskell has written, in addition to the conventional introduction, a chatty kind of running comment to tie it all together. His text is full of personal preferences and predilections." N Y Times

Booklist 48:45 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Margaret Lloyd
Christian Science Monitor p9 N 13 '51 300w

"Highly recommended." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1427 S 15 '51 50w

"Of the many volumes of photographs of ballet and ballet dancers which have been published in Britain during the past twenty years Baron at the Ballet is probably the best." J. H. M.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 12 '51 170w

"At its worst, his work is crude and vulgar, largely because technique is sacrificed to tricky effects. . . But at their best Baron's photographs are dramatically composed and vivid, full of movement and atmosphere, though never, as Messrs. Haskell and Sitwell claim, works of art. Most successful are his action photographs." Richard Johnson
+ — New Statesman & Nation 41:720 Je 23 '51 140w

Reviewed by John Martin
N Y Times p14 S 23 '51 200w

Reviewed by R. H. Hagan
San Francisco Chronicle p21 O 7 '51 350w

Reviewed by Rosalyn Krokover
Sat R of Lit 34:68 N 17 '51 260w

BARON, —.—Continued

"Sacheverell Sitwell's short preface could easily have been dispensed with. . . Mr. Haskell has done his job admirably. He has covered a wide range with clarity and brevity, he has refreshingly refrained from superlatives, and his text is as readable to those who know ballet-history as it is informative to those who do not. Baron's selection of photographs is, naturally and desirably, the expression of his own personal taste in ballet, influenced—as is to be expected—by the photogenic possibilities of the subject." Lillian Browse

Spec 185:56 Ja 12 '51 280w

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p818 D 22 '50 350w

BARON, ABRAHAM LOUIS. Handbook of antibiotics. 303p $6.50 Reinhold

615.329 Antibiotic substances 50-11407

"A reference manual in which information about 141 antibiotics is presented. The main part of the work is arranged alphabetically by name of substance. . . Under the name of each compound information is generally presented on the following points: Name of discoverer and date of discovery; source; isolation and purification; chemistry; bacteriology; pharmacology; and pertinent literature. Other features of the volume are an article on the certification of antibiotics, by Henry Welch, of the Food and Drug Administration; one on the selection and registration of trademarks for antibiotics, by W. J. Derenberg, of the United States Patent Office; and a tabulation of existing registrations for antibiotics." (N Y New Tech Bks) Glossary. Indexes.

"A welcome and valuable addition to the rapidly growing list of books and monographs on this subject." S. A. Waksman

+ Chem & Eng N 29:1153 Mr 19 '51 550w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:2 Ja '51

"The outline method of treatment will make the book particularly useful to librarians and research workers in the field."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:112 Mr '51 120w

BARON, SALO WITTMAYER, and others, eds. Freedom and reason; studies in philosophy and Jewish culture in memory of Morris Raphael Cohen. 468p $5 Free press

296 Cohen, Morris Raphael. Jews—Civilization. Philosophy, Jewish

"Many of [Cohen's] students at City College of New York join other friends of Cohen to pay him tribute in this memorial volume. . . The essays are divided into three groups, one on Morris R. Cohen himself, his life, his work, and his philosophical principles; another on various matters of concern to philosophy and the social sciences; and a third on Jewish culture." Sat R of Lit

"It is a substantial volume, despite considerable variation in quality of content, and is a worthy tribute to the memory of a many-sided and provocative thinker." G. W. Cunningham

+ Ethics 62:74 O '51 280w

"A volume whose only unity is the piety to the man in whose memory it was published. This is in a way unfortunate, for many of the essays included contain interesting and important thoughts which will probably never be looked for in a book of this kind. People who wish to know more of Cohen will of course consult it and they will be richly rewarded not only in those articles whose purpose is to praise him, but also in one by Bronstein whose purpose is frankly critical." G. B.

+ — J Philos 48:736 N 8 '51 360w

"The thirty pieces represent a cross-section of the ablest thinkers and authors of contemporary America. I acknowledge a personal debt to the authors collectively for putting in a clearer and softer light the memory of an outstanding man who was my colleague toward the end of his life." T. V. Smith

+ N Y Times p4 S 2 '51 400w

"[The essays] achieve a high standard of competence and there is no doubt that Cohen, were he alive to read them, would take a large, if not wholly uncritical, pride in all of them." Robert Bierstedt

+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 S 22 '51 140w

School & Society 74:432 D 29 '51 30w

BARON, STANLEY. End of the line. 371p $3 Knopf

51-11058

"A melodrama about American diplomats, their errant wives, sinister young men on the loose, love, the international situation, and the Communist Party." New Yorker

"An unpalatable story, with little to recommend it."

— Kirkus 19:301 Je 15 '51 160w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel

Manchester Guardian p4 N 2 '51 90w

"Mr. Baron has failed to make a point in this potentially sensational story and so has produced a story lacking in both understanding and excitement."

— N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 S 16 '51 220w

"Emily's character is neither moral nor remarkable, but it is curiously logical, and her punishment fits all her unresolved crimes. Credit Mr. Baron also for his evenly observed portrait of a mother-in-law and his swift, exact limning of cosmopolitan Paris." B. V. Winebaum

+ N Y Times p19 Ag 19 '51 200w

"Mr. Baron writes in a clipped, foreboding style that is by no means new, but he handles it well, and is in firm command of all the touchy turns of his story and of the doomed puppets, American and European, whose fate can almost be foretold on the first page."

New Yorker 27:85 Ag 18 '51 80w

San Francisco Chronicle p16 S 2 '51 180w

"Mr. Baron has mixed equal parts of neurosis, espionage, and Continental atmosphere to concoct a superior kind of spy story. In addition to filling in the customary (and indispensable) background of exotic informers, illicit border crossing, high-powered foreign cars, and political homicide, he gives his book greater plausibility than have most books of its genre by providing its people with some fairly complex motivation." Martin Levin

+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 Ag 25 '51 220w

"The author writes well, but his plot has not the substance to carry it to novel length. What little he has to say could be encompassed in a third of the wordage." D. F. M.

— + Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 70w

Times [London] Lit Sup p761 N 30 '51 90w

BARR, MRS GLADYS H. Monk in armour. 256p $3 Abingdon-Cokesbury

Luther, Martin—Fiction 50-10318

A fictional biography of Martin Luther, from his boyhood to his marriage. The last twenty years of his life are not covered.

Booklist 47:115 N 15 '50

Bookmark 10:32 N '50 20w

Reviewed by R. C. Batchelder

Churchman 165:16 My 1 '51 60w

"Monk in Armor is good reading, but it needs the corrective of a scholarly volume such as Bainton's Here I Stand." R. J. Bean

+ — Crozer Q 28:372 O '51 120w

"There is no sense in pointing out the oversimplifications Miss Barr presents. I suppose oversimplification is the very lifeblood of this sort of 'historical' narrative. Her book is written from a frankly denominational point of view, and most effective for younger readers." Robert Pick

Sat R of Lit 34:42 F 3 '51 150w

BARR, JENE. Surprise for Nancy; a read it yourself story; pictures by Margie Benoit. [32p] $1 Whitman, A.

51-287

"Simple story of an eventful day in the life of a little girl, climaxed with a surprise." Library J

Reviewed by A. L. Shea
Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 F 18 '51 60w

"Pleasant little story."
+ Kirkus 19:61 F 1 '51 50w

"This book will help fill that great need for easy reading material not in textbook style. . . Recommended." Averil Randall
+ Library J 76:415 Mr 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
N Y Times p30 F 18 '51 100w

BARR, JENE. Texas Pete, little cowboy; a read it yourself story; pictures by Chauncey Maltman. [32p] $1 Whitman, A.

51-285

"Peter becomes a cowboy via a cowboy suit which he helps earn. Vocabulary of a beginning reader is compiled from the Rinsland Word List." Library J

Reviewed by A. L. Shea
Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 F 18 '51 60w

Kirkus 19:61 F 1 '51 50w

"Has the style and look of a reader but will help satisfy the little fellows who are as interested as anybody in cowboys but who seldom find anything they can read themselves." F. W. Butler
+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
+ N Y Times p30 F 18 '51 100w

BARRETT, EDWARD L. Tenney committee; legislative investigation of subversive activities in California. 400p $5 Cornell univ. press

335.4 California. Legislature. Fact-finding committee on un-American activities. Communism—California 51-11118

"This is a study by a law professor at the Univerity of California of the Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities of California. . . The book is based almost exclusively upon committee hearings, reports and other public sources of information. It includes a detailed description of its more important investigations: the Japanese hearings, the Sleepy Lagoon case, the educational system, and the committee's examinations of Emmett Lavery, Florence Eldridge and Judge Leon Yankwich." New Repub

Manchester Guardian p4 S 4 '51 90w

"Mr. Barrett's book suffers from diffusiveness; the author has lacked discrimination in selecting his material so as to illustrate and sharpen the issues. In his eagerness to be objective he lays a mass of detailed evidence before the reader with little illuminating comment except for the final Appraisal, an admirable summary of the assumptions, objectives, and standards of evidence of the committee. But even in this conclusion he suggests that 'there are no scales that can tell us accurately whether in the balance the activities of the Tenney committee were of service or disservice to the state.' Yet the conclusions that follow leave little doubt where he thinks the balance lies." Francis Biddle
Nation 173:94 Ag 4 '51 1100w

"Its message has significance for anyone whose conception of civil rights goes beyond substituting one loyalty board for another." L. B. Boudin
New Repub 125:20 S 10 '51 210w

"The story of Tenney's rise and fall, of his excesses and extravagances, is told with meticulous objectivity by Edward L. Barrett Jr., Professor of Law at the University of California. The long excerpts from committee hearings and reports through which the story unfolds make somewhat arid reading. One hearing, however, produced genuine drama and a witness of high courage, dignity and articulateness. Florence Eldridge (Mrs. Frederic March) gave the Tenney Committee a lesson in the fundamentals of Americanism." Alan Barth
N Y Times p6 Ag 26 '51 440w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:284 S '51 230w

BARRETT, WILLIAM B. Home education of a boy; being the true account of a father's experiment in the education of his son in his home, where any boy must learn many of the important lessons of life if he is to learn them at all. 120p $2 Updegraff Press, Ltd. Harwood Bldg, Scarsdale, N.Y.

372.974 Education of children. Parent and child

"Account of an experiment in home education from babyhood to college years. The program presented is one which can be followed by any family to give their sons a sound start in life." Springf'd Republican

School & Society 73:127 F 24 '51 30w
Springf'd Republican p30A D 17 '50 180w

"This reviewer is conscious of certain major blind spots in Mr. Barrett's program; apparently scant attention was paid to moral and spiritual training, and to indoctrination in civic responsibility. Many readers may dispute the author's choice of goals, and squirm at the rather smothering concentration he occasionally brought to his task. Yet his book remains a stimulating volume for those of us, all too numerous, who hand over our children to the schools and say, 'Here, you do it.' " J. T. Beaudouin
+ — Survey 87:184 Ap '51 470w

BARRETT, WILLIAM EDMUND. Left hand of God. 275p $3 Doubleday

51-9052

Jim Carmody, an American flyer in China, found he must act the part of a mission priest for a time. Though his experiences in the war had cost him his faith in his childhood religion, Jim gradually returned to his belief in God. When the Chinese war lord whom he had served caught up with him, Jim was ready for him.

Booklist 47:205 F 1 '51

"Strongly plotted, always reverent story. This is not a great novel, but it is a sound and good one." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 172:390 F '51 220w

Reviewed by A. L. Bader
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Mr 18 '51 400w

Reviewed by M. W. Stoer
Christian Science Monitor p13 F 21 '51 290w

"The author leans too heavily on the sensationalism of Carmody's situation instead of giving us a profound and arresting insight into the tragedy of his soul. . . For my part I think it is a serious book only in certain dangerous implications. . . Graham Greene might have set this down between hard covers, with genuine profundity, high adventure and terror of soul. Yet with all due respect to a good slick writer, one cannot help but wish that Mr. Barrett's yarn had stayed in Redbook where it and he seem to belong." Joe Dever
Commonweal 53:403 Ja 26 '51 1100w

Kirkus 18:681 N 15 '50 140w

"Some of it stretches the imagination but Mr. Barrett has a talent for the implausible, his narrative sets a pace that gives you no pause for close scrutiny of the plot. . . Mr. Barrett finds an ingenious solution for the complicated problem."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ja 28 '51 320w

"The girl seems sometimes a bit too sweetened up; and the priest-pretender seems sometimes a bit too heroic; and her happy resolution seems a bit too arduously managed. From somewhere between the lines there rises a suspicion that the hero really needn't have gone through this perilous and illuminating sequence at all, if he'd merely acted his sensible self. Improbability barges in." Richard Sullivan

BARRETT, W. E.—Continued
N Y Times p4 Ja 21 '51 500w

San Francisco Chronicle p19 Je 17 '51 110w

"Mr. Barrett has persuasively depicted the doubts and gropings of an honest man forced by unusual circumstances to revalue his approach to religion and to his fellow man. . . And he has betrayed an occasional superior attitude toward the Chinese, which does not sit well with his Christian approach. But in general he has ably constructed an inspirational romance which is highly readable and should not offend readers of Catholic or other religious persuasion." E. J. Fitzgerald
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:47 F 10 '51 320w

Springf'd Republican p12B D 31 '50 160w

BARRINGTON, G. W. Wind Runner; the story of an African antelope [Eng title: Nzwala] il. [by the author]. 160p $2.50 Longmans

Antelopes—Legends and stories 51-9728

An account in fiction form of the life of an African antelope from birth to the time three years later when he has become leader of the herd. For grades five to eight.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51

"Authentic, believable, an exciting glimpse of life in the jungle."
+ Kirkus 18:693 D 1 '50 160w

"Realistic story of an Impala antelope of the African plains. . . Will be enjoyed by boys and girls 12-16." E. T. Dobbins
+ Library J 76:1139 Jl '51 70w

"The author is acquainted with Africa, but he does not know how to write in a readable manner for children. Text is bogged down with too many difficult words and phrases, such as, 'floundering in the morass,' 'cascading rain,' and 'piled up masses of creamy white cumulus clouds.' Not recommended." V. K. Fitch
— + Library J 76:1139 Jl '51 70w

"This English author's war experiences, as briefly recorded on the jacket, were so hair-raising that it is not surprising he wanted to write about animals, rather than people, in his first book; nor that he is able so well to give us action and suspense in the wilds of the central African bush country. His illustrations have the same dramatic quality." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 My 13 '51 250w

"In spite of some confusion in the switching of viewpoint, from Fleet to Templeton, 'Wind Runner' is a moving story. Children who love Bambi (and they all do), will love this." Phyllis Fenner
+ N Y Times p18 Jl 15 '51 90w

"In both text and drawings it will be appreciated by older rather than younger children."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 My 12 '51 200w

School & Society 73:127 F 24 '51 30w

Wis Lib Bul 47:123 My '51

BARROW, EDWARD GRANT, and KAHN, JAMES M. My fifty years in baseball. 216p il $3.50 Coward-McCann

B or 92 Baseball 51-10981

"At 83 the former baseball executive conversationally recalls his early days and the big names he helped to develop as 'the man behind the Yankees.' Photographs. Index." Bookmark

Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 30w

Kirkus 19:221 Ap 15 '51 120w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:1340 S 1 '51 30w

"Smoothly and entertainingly organized." John Lardner
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 90w

"There never was any bluster, bombast or braggadocio to Ed Barrow. He was—and is—a powerfully built man who always believed in direct action. If his fists could speak louder than his words, he let his fists do the talking. Yet he never was in the habit of talking about himself, and that's why his autobiography is so revealing a document. It also is a fascinating one because it embraces the entire history of the American League and the major part of professional baseball itself." Arthur Daley
+ N Y Times p6 My 20 '51 600w

BARRY, JOSEPH A. Left Bank, Right Bank: Paris and Parisians. 267p $3 Norton

914.436 Paris—Social life and customs 51-13977

The chief of the Sunday Times's Paris bureau has collected a number of his essays about life in Paris. Some of them were originally prepared for inclusion in the Times, but all of them show that he is practically "in love" with the city.

"Mr. Barry covers a lot of territory, with the brisk knowingness of a competent journalist."
+ Atlantic 189:90 Ja '52 110w

Booklist 48:169 Ja 15 '52

"An informal correlation of information and impression, not for American Express tours but for a widened atmosphere abroad."
+ Kirkus 19:599 O 1 '51 100w

"Highly recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:2117 D 15 '51 70w

"The young American who is determined to take his Paris seriously and put it up in a bottle with a label is like a man trying to liquefy the atmosphere. But Joseph Barry, who has enjoyed his Paris, is wholehearted and knowing, and reading his book is like having a good gossip over drinks." Nancy Lenkeith
+ N Y Times p6 N 18 '51 500w

+ New Yorker 27:158 D 15 '51 140w

"To my mind Mr. Barry has done his best work on the Riviera—'Paris Beach.' . . His satire is devastating. He finds Eden Roc and its pool like the seal house in the Bronx Zoo; and only the Aga Khan remains unchanged since the Twenties. He is still worth his weight in gold. This is a great poke in the ribs at Paris, more particularly the Americans of Paris, (including the Paris Beach). It is also a chronicle, in a way, of Mr. Barry's love affair with Paris, which holds as well for all who have seen the graceful lines of her granite, tree-shaded face."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 N 24 '51 250w

BARRY, PHILIP. Second threshold; with revisions and a preface by Robert E. Sherwood. 132p $2.75 Harper

812 51-10938

"This last play by Philip Barry is the story of a brilliant public servant and his ambitious and intelligent daughter who manage to work out their real relationship to each other in time to avoid the most terrible mistakes of their lives." Publisher's note

Booklist 47:359 Je 15 '51

Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 30w

Kirkus 19:222 Ap 15 '51 60w

Wis Lib Bul 47:162 Je '51

BARRYMORE, LIONEL. We Barrymores; as told to Cameron Shipp. 311p il $3.50 Appleton

B or 92 Barrymore family. Actors and actresses—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10470

This is Lionel Barrymore's autobiography, but it naturally contains a great deal about other Barrymores, past and present, members of a great theatrical family. Index.

"Deliberately unpretentious, slyly cynical about the Barrymore legends, and somewhat prolix."
Booklist 47:285; 309 Ap 15 '51; My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 30w

"To all dyed-in-the-wool Barrymore fans, the very name still spells magic. We Barrymores, barring two or three passages in rather bad taste, is a complete delight and paints a colorful picture of the almost legendary 'Royal Family' of Drews and Barrymores, particularly Ethel, Lionel, and John whose affection and respect for one another through thick and thin is a heart-warming characteristic." B. J. Thompson
+ — Cath World 173:317 Jl '51 350w

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 13 '51 550w

Reviewed by B. R. Crisler
Christian Science Monitor p15 My 10 '51 700w

"He's no hero boy, but a nice guy you'll enjoy knowing."
+ Kirkus 19:176 Mr 15 '51 160w

"Highly recommended for theatre, cinema, and paid circulation collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1030 Je 15 '51 50w

Reviewed by Gerard Fay
Manchester Guardian p4 N 27 '51 130w

Reviewed by Arthur Marshall
New Statesman & Nation 42:499 N 3 '51 160w

"It is a skipping, impromptu story, now and then told in a disturbingly jaunty fashion. It is filled with anecdotes and opinions, and always —often in spite of Mr Shipp's prose—with amazing zest. . . Cantankerous and naive, full of gusto, having his fun, Mr. Barrymore presents Mr. Lionel Barrymore. It is without doubt his best production." Richard Lockridge
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 My 13 '51 900w

"There is no arrogance whatever about this Barrymore. What this Barrymore has, however, is a high good humor as he wanders through the years of his life, liking almost everyone except critics and audiences." Lewis Nichols
+ N Y Times p7 My 13 '51 700w

"An engaging humility and a warm friendliness endear Mr. Barrymore to the reader at the very beginning." Jane Voiles
+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 My 20 '51 550w

"Cameron Shipp has preserved the picturesque flavor of an 'off-the-set' chat. Result: a family portrait of the mercurial Drew—Barrymore clan roughed out in lively chiaroscuro and anecdotic affection in Lionel's sketch book." Russell Rhodes
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 My 12 '51 1000w
Spec 187:868 D 21 '51 270w
Wis Lib Bul 47:119 My '51

BARTH, ALAN. Loyalty of free men; foreword by Zechariah Chafee. 253p $3 Viking
323.44 Loyalty. Liberty. Communism—U.S. 51-9093

"Includes discussions of Communism and how to deal with it; dangers inherent in punishment by publicity, the treason trials and their lesson; practical operation of the loyalty program and its effect on scientific research; loyalty in universities; the limitations of the FBI as an instrument for determining loyalty. Case histories and hitherto unpublished material add drama. Barth, editorial writer of the Washington Post, has been editorial assistant to the Secretary of Treasury, and in the OWI; contributor to many magazines; has received awards for distinguished service to American journalism and for editorial writing." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by McGeorge Bundy
Am Pol Sci R 45:534 Je '51 400w

Reviewed by H. M. Levy
Ann Am Acad 275:177 My '51 420w
Booklist 47:125; 183 D 1 '50; Ja 15 '51
Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 70w

"It is all very revealing of a too prevalent attitude of mind in Washington. It is disquieting to know that Mr. Barth is the spokesman for a large and influential group who help shape government policy." Willard Edwards
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ja 21 '51 360w

Reviewed by Roland Sawyer
Christian Science Monitor p11 F 8 '51 2050w

Reviewed by C. R. Miller
Churchman 165:15 My 1 '51 400w
Cleveland Open Shelf p5 My '51

"Here is a book to renew the courage and conviction of those who have kept faith in the free way of life and confidence in the survival value of American democratic traditions." R. K. Carr
+ Columbia Law R 51:667 My '51 1200w
Foreign Affairs 30:159 O '51 40w

"A thinking book well worth reading."
+ Kirkus 18:673 N 1 '50 200w

"Recommended for general purchase." H. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:181 F 1 '51 140w

Reviewed by Max Beloff
Manchester Guardian p4 O 9 '51 320w

"Alan Barth has written an important book on the dangers and vexations from which all of us have been suffering during the tense years since the culmination in victory of the Second World War and the onset of fear of another." M. R. Werner
+ Nation 172:88 Ja 27 '51 1200w

Reviewed by C. J. Durr
New Repub 124:18 Mr 12 '51 1050w

"Such books as 'The Loyalty of Free Men' throw, at least, a searching light on the situation in which we find ourselves. It is unnecessary to point out that the author, one of the editorial writers of 'The Washington Post,' is no apologist for Communists. He realizes the necessity for loyal men and women in positions of high trust. His point is that the system now in operation for the protection of our nation is not a proper safeguard against disloyalty." H. F. Pringle
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ja 21 '51 1900w

"Mr. Barth writes sanely, almost dispassionately, on a subject that is more often approached in rancor. His point of view is the Jeffersonian one of the illimitable freedom of the human mind; that a democratic society must not only countenance dissension and controversy, it actually thrives upon them. . . This book is an important addition to the expanding literature on both sides of this great question of loyalty and national security." Cabell Phillips
+ N Y Times p21 Ja 28 '51 700w
New Yorker 27:127 My 12 '51 180w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ja 23 '51 1000w

"There are minor blemishes in [this] work of the first importance, one which is indispensable reading for all Americans concerned with their freedom. If we are to preserve at home the freedom for which we fight abroad it is essential that the questions raised by Mr. Barth receive full and candid treatment. All future writers in the field will remain in his debt for his clear, searching, and disinterested discussion. And no one can afford to overlook Professor Zechariah Chafee, Jr.'s characteristically wise and pungent foreword." A. M. Schlesinger, Jr.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 F 3 '51 1450w

"With indubitable sincerity and earnestness of purpose, Mr. Barth makes a persuasive argument in this book for the determined maintenance of freedom of thought and speech in the United States."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:174 Je '51 350w
Wis Lib Bul 47:56 Mr '51

BARTHOLOMEW, JOHN. Advanced atlas of modern geography; new series. (Whittlesey house publication) 108,47p $8.50; college ed $6 McGraw
912 Atlases Map 50-450

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

BARTHOLOMEW, JOHN—Continued

"Bartholomew's Advanced Atlas of Modern Geography is recommended for libraries needing an atlas of this type, but it will not take the place of new atlases compiled along conventional political lines nor the place of those which give the attention to United States and Canada that North American libraries require."
+ — Subscription Bks Bul 22:9 Ap '51 1100w

BARTLETT, ARTHUR CHARLES. Baseball and Mr Spalding; the history and romance of baseball. 295p $3 Farrar, Straus

B or 92 Spalding, Albert Goodwill. Baseball 51-9661

A life of Albert G. Spalding, the man who started as a poor boy, became a baseball player, and finally turned the sport of baseball into a business. No index.

Booklist 47:249 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 30w

"Lovers of baseball will find it easy and rewarding reading, sprinkled with a nostalgia that may well make them wish for some way to turn back the clock." Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 4 '51 250w

Kirkus 19:18 Ja 1 '51 150w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:323 F 15 '51 100w

"Students of the sport will find Mr. Bartlett's book full of quaint and interesting material." Rex Lardner
N Y Times p14 F 25 '51 320w

"This book will be an important addition to a baseball library, but it has little general interest." M. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 Ap 1 '51 150w

BARTLETT, JENNIEBELLE (MRS LANIER BARTLETT). Cry above the winds. 312p $3 Morrow

Sarría, Vicente Francisco—Fiction 51-9063

A novel about Monterey in the 1830's. The chief characters are a young Bostonian, a Spanish aristocrat and his beautiful daughter, a mission priest (Padre Sarría) and an Indian girl whose parentage is a mystery until almost the end of the story.

"Although this is a run-of-the-mill combination of romance, pursuit and escape by horseback, and sage remarks about the passing of Mexican rule and the probable advent of the Stars and Stripes, there are some refreshing differences. The Mission system and its provisions for the Indians are sympathetically and intelligently treated. . . A far cry this from serious work, but there is nothing objectionable in it." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 172:393 F '51 170w

Kirkus 18:661 N 1 '50 120w

"'Cry Above the Winds' is luminous, dramatic and moving. The characters . . . are believable, and the action in which they are involved makes sense as well as good fiction."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Ja 21 '51 150w

"Most readers who love the early California scene forgive stock characters and situations in a novel provided the writer captures the atmosphere. That is what Mrs. Bartlett has done. She transforms the result of her research into an imaginative recreation of the early California scene at one of its most stormy and interesting times." J. V.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 18 '51 380w

"Even the Hollywood studios had better think twice before they purchase the movie rights to this triumph of insipidity." D. K. Bestor
— Sat R of Lit 34:32 F 24 '51 270w

Springf'd Republican p8C F 4 '51 200w

BARTLETT, PHYLLIS BROOKS. Poems in process. 267p $4 Oxford

808.1 Poetry. Creation (literary, artistic, etc.) 51-5278

"A study of how poems get themselves written. . . Are there any 'good' or 'bad' conditions for writing poetry? Can the muse be wooed? What of the old questions about whether drugs and stimulants help or hinder, which crops up with such nauseating regularity in connection with, say, Coleridge and Poe? . . Why do some poets revise their poems after they have published them? And so on. Miss Bartlett avoids dogmatism in her answers to all these questions." Chicago Sunday Tribune

---

Reviewed by Hilda Kirkwood
Canadian Forum 31:238 Ja '52 550w

"A really fascinating study. . . Naturally, her book is crammed with anecdote and incident, which alone would make it fascinating reading even for people who have no special interest in her primary theme." Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 16 '51 360w

"A work of scholarship, complete with index and bibliographical notes: by no means dry going, and modest in its conclusion—'A great writer may write with ease, and so may a lightweight; a great writer may write with difficulty, and so may a fool.'"
+ Nation 173:286 O 6 '51 140w

"At once compact and lucid, this book will certainly become one of the standard and indispensable works of reference in future literary study." Mark Schorer
+ N Y Times p4 D 16 '51 380w

"It could be said there are two ways to approach poetry—from the outside and from the inside. The New Criticism today usually approaches from the outside by textual analysis, by the 'explication de textes,' whereas Miss Bartlett's book starts from the inside, with the poet at work. Though it may be judged guilty of the personal fallacy, of reading the man into his works, this lively and significant study may itself be considered an 'explication' of the poetic process." Lawrence Ferling
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 30 '51 550w

Springf'd Republican p6D Ag 19 '51 450w

BARTOLINI, LUIGI. Bicycle thieves; tr. by C. J. Richards. 149p $2.50 Macmillan 50-10567

The novel based upon the motion picture of the same name. It is a realistic account of life in present-day Italy, with stress upon the black market, thieves, and prostitution.

"Unfortunately, while the novel may be less romantic and in some respects more true to its time and place than the motion picture, the prolonged exposure of its central character finally degenerates into an aridly intellectual and wearisome argument about the soul of modern man." R. L. Weaver
Canadian Forum 31:18 Ap '51 280w

Kirkus 18:483 Ag 15 '50 190w

"Interesting but not recommended for general circulation. Large reference libraries will want it, however." George Freedley
Library J 75:1506 S 15 '50 100w

Reviewed by Alfred Hayes
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 F 25 '51 400w

"To tell the tale we needed a keen, sad and serene Italian—this writer poet-artist who has wrought beauty out of ugliness and despair." D. P.
San Francisco Chronicle p31 D 10 '50 250w

BARTON, HUMPHREY DOUGLAS ELLIOTT. Westward crossing [Eng title: Vertue XXXV]. 209p maps $3.50 Norton

910 Voyages and travels. Vertue XXXV (yacht) 51-1844

The record of the Atlantic crossing of the smallest yacht ever to make the trip from England to New York. The author and one other man brought the Vertue XXXV, a five-ton yacht, over in the spring of 1950. Most of the account was written at sea.

Booklist 47:269 Ap 1 '51

Reviewed by Al Chase
Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 My 27 '51 120w

"Once we have hewn our way through Mr. Barton's dense thicket of technicalities, we have a fine book, a seamanlike narrative in the British manner." William McFee
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 Ap 11 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:85 F 1 '51 150w

"One of the most vivid and authentic stories of small-boat cruising that has ever been set down." A. F. Loomis
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ap 22 '51 650w

"The voyage taught Mr. Barton many lessons, led him to modify his ideas and showed him that he has still much to learn. The value of his book lies in its conclusions. For the benefit of adventurous small-boat skippers he sums up his observations on design, ballast, sails, rigging, gear, deck and interior arrangement and the all-important question of how far one should drive a small craft in ugly weather. Line drawings illustrate the major points." W. B. Hayward
N Y Times p19 Ap 22 '51 320w

"The author gives a good account of the adventure as far as nautical matters are concerned, but he writes without much imagination, even when telling of the hurricane that crippled his little boat permanently and all but sank her. However, it is probable that had he been a man of lively imagination, he would never have set off in the first place."
+ New Yorker 27:142 Ap 14 '51 140w

"This is a matter-of-factly written story of high adventure, as well as a good instruction manual for anyone else who would like to try it." C. W. W.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p26 My 13 '51 220w

BARZUN, JACQUES MARTIN, ed. Pleasures of music; a reader's choice of great writing about music and musicians from Cellini to Bernard Shaw. 624p $5 Viking

780.82 Music 51-14461

"A varied and readable selection of writings about music, which includes not only pieces by Schubert and Wagner but excerpts from Martin Chuzzlewit, from a Chesterton essay, from Barnum's description of Jenny Lind, and from Luther's In praise of music, as well as fiction, criticism, letters, and musical lore by many other professional and incidental writers on music. The editor's tastes are inclusive and his choice is neither too erudite for the average music lover nor too common for the musician." (Booklist) Announced with title: Companion to the Muse.

Booklist 48:41; 119 O 1 '51; D 1 '51
+ Bookmark 11:79 Ja '52 20w

Reviewed by Harold Rogers
Christian Science Monitor p15 D 13 '51 290w

Kirkus 19:557 S 15 '51 180w

"Excellent reading." C. K. Miller
+ Library J 76:2113 D 15 '51 90w

"Jacques Barzun's 'Pleasures of Music' is subtitled 'A Reader's Choice of Great Writing about Music and Musicians from Cellini to Bernard Shaw,' and though few are likely to agree that everything in the generous volume is 'great writing,' the book is the highly diverting and instructive product of an exact, civilized, and inclusive mind." Herbert Weinstock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 D 16 '51 200w

"Had Barzun refrained from writing his introductory essay and dragging in the problem of music criticism, the reader could accept the book for what it is—a delightful nosegay of fine writing inspired by the art of music. But Barzun appears to be making a case, and after a careful consideration of the material he has chosen, I wonder whether his case stands up. The fact is that the great preponderance of the beautiful writing in his book bears only an indirect relation to the art of music. . . What Barzun's anthology seems to prove is that music criticism is at its best as literature when it has as little as possible to do with the art of music." Winthrop Sargeant
+ N Y Times p4 D 9 '51 950w

New Yorker 27:87 Ja 12 '52 70w

Reviewed by Victor Prahl
Springf'd Republican p41A D 9 '51 350w

BASON, FREDERICK T. Diary; ed. and introduced by Nicolas Bentley. 176p $2.25 British bk. centre

B or 92 Booksellers and bookselling [51-9154]

"A selection from the journals of F. T. Bason, a British secondhand bookseller with a cockney background, a London County Council education, and unlimited pluck. His friends include the late Arnold Bennett and James Agate, and Somerset Maugham, whose bibliographer he became in 1931." Library J

Booklist 47:187 Ja 15 '51

"Stimulating reading." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 75:2151 D 15 '50 130w

"Those who enjoy conning the ups & downs of bookselling will find plenty to please them in Fred Bason's Diary, whether his particular experience of what the market admires is a general one or not."
+ Time 57:63 Ja 1 '51 850w

BASS, EDUARD. Umberto's circus. 340p $3 Farrar, Straus

51-5186

Novel based on life in a European circus in the 1860's and later. It is the story of a Czech master mason, Anton Karas, and his son Vasek, who joined Umberto's circus rather than starve, and learned to love the life. In time Vasek married the director's daughter to carry on the circus dynasty.

Booklist 47:353; 381 Je 15 '51; Jl 1 '51

Bookmark 10:231 Jl '51 50w

"A large part of the charm and appeal of the book lies in the fact that the characters respect one another as persons. There are no melodramatics here—no fires, animal stampedes, or sabotaged trapeze bars." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 173:474 S '51 160w

"The book is crammed with wonderful details. Indeed, the virtue of the novel lies not in the general outlines of story but in the moments of dramatic and human incidents along the way." Paul Engle
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Je 24 '51 400w

Reviewed by T. M. Longstreth
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 21 '51 550w

"As a story and a novel this is surpassed by its lore and legend, its personalities and its pleasure in its subject."
+ Kirkus 19:211 Ap 15 '51 240w

"The flavor of nineteenth century European circus is here so palpable that it can ride an Arabian horse at high speed or fling itself from a trapeze without dissipation. The style and structure of this pre-Freudian novel has the solidity of Victorian thinking and the keen interest in character and anecdote of Dickens." M. E. Monroe
+ Library J 76:959 Je 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by M. D. Read
Library J 76:1718 O 15 '51 70w

"It is easy to see why 'Umberto's Circus,' which began to run serially in the Czech newspaper, 'Lidove Noviny,' just before the war, and was published in 1940, became at once a steady best seller in Europe. It is not merely that it is a circus novel but also a family saga,

BASS, EDUARD—Continued
well and warmly told, full of human characters and animal characters, too." Ernestine Evans
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Je 24 '51 1150w

"Eduard Bass probably knew more about the circus than anyone who ever wrote about it. . . The crudities of the book from the standpoint of novel writing are of no importance compared with Bass' portrayal of the performer's desperate daily battle to stay at the top of his form." W. L. Gresham
+ N Y Times p4 Je 24 '51 450w

New Yorker 27:64 Jl 7 '51 80w

Reviewed by Jane Voiles
San Francisco Chronicle p19 Jl 8 '51 700w

"The plot—simple almost to the point of simple-mindedness—demanded a writer of considerable skill in the telling. Eduard Bass measured up. This was a first and only novel, and architecturally it has one egregious fault: a time jump of fifteen years between Parts II and III. For this the reader is quite unprepared. . . One feels also that the [author] was rather bored by Vasek, technically his central character. Vasek did not bore me so much as annoy me; during three-fourths of the book he is an egocentric little monster and in Part III he does not breathe. Helen, his bride, never breathes." T. W. Duncan
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:17 Jl 7 '51 650w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter
Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 850w

"There are no surprises, but the book is nevertheless continuously interesting, even to people who were hardly born when the era of which Mr. Bass is writing—that of the genuine nomadic horse-drawn circus—came to an end. Umberto's Circus is replete with esoteric technicalities and out-of-the-way lore, and is in every way a pleasant piece of reading."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p761 D 1 '50 140w

BASTIAN, EARL L. H. Metalworking lubricants; their selection, application, and maintenance. 357p il $6 McGraw

671 Lubrication and lubricants 51-2366

"This book presents a comprehensive discussion of the many types of lubricants and fluids suitable for use in the working or processing of metals. A somewhat briefer treatment is also accorded fluids used in forming nonmetallic engineering materials, such as plastics, for example. Some space is devoted to the selection and application of machine lubricants, such as bearing and gear oils, greases, and hydraulic fluids. This discussion includes both the theoretical and practical aspects of metalworking lubricants and their use." (Pref) Index

---

Booklist 47:289 Ap 15 '51

"The book is designed for men who will make practical use of it such as machinists, foremen, and engineers in charge of metalworking processes. The author is associated with the Shell Oil Company." R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:874 My 15 '51 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:35 My '51

BATES, HERBERT ERNEST. Scarlet sword. (Atlantic Monthly press bk) 282p $3 Little 50-11401

"Neighboring Hindus as well as the English turned to the Catholic mission for refuge when the battle between the Kashmirs, Parthans and Afridis began. But with the first onslaught, the Mission became the focal point for murder, rape, and pillage. For ten horrifying days the refugees lived with violence. Whether priest, nun, native, or Britisher, they all faced the same peril. But it was the courage of the corpulent Father Simpson who gave them succor and courage in their time of distress. Scene is India 1947." Library J

"A superbly executed tale of savagery and terror, fortitude and piety and love, in the mountain heights of Kashmir."
+ Atlantic 187:90 F '51 110w

Booklist 47:54; 174 O 1 '50; Ja 1 '51

"A disturbing, well-written novel, filled with excitement and violence."
Bookmark 10:85 Ja '51 50w

"The Scarlet Sword is an odd combination of realism and nightmare; though not for the squeamish, it is an engrossing story told with urgency." Riley Hughes
Cath World 172:471 Mr '51 200w

"Here is a novel that brings home with real power the appalling price in blood that India paid for partition in 1947. It is a novel with the quality of a nightmare. But if it has in it rape, pillage, lust, and wanton cruelty, it also has love, devotion, and magnificent courage. Despite its occasional flashes of humor, I doubt that you will enjoy reading 'The Scarlet Sword' —it is too bleak for that. But, on the other hand, I doubt that you will be able to put it down, once you have started it." V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ja 7 '51 450w

Reviewed by M. W. Stoer
Christian Science Monitor p7 F 12 '51 280w

Kirkus 18:661 N 1 '50 180w

"An intensely exciting novel. Recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 100w

"In a favourable sense the characterisation is sophisticated . . . but the worst of that same sophistication is that it does not quite blend with the horrors, which drop sometimes into the rôle of accessories—not, to be sure, that the descriptions are wrapped in euphemism. There is almost too much excitement, and a reader reading for the story will have no complaint of langueurs." Paul Bloomfield
Manchester Guardian p4 N 3 '50 150w

"The scenery alone is real, reminding us that Mr. Bates has written more valuable books than this." Robert Kee
— + New Statesman & Nation 40:566 D 2 '50 100w

"Mr. Bates writes with exceptional beauty and clarity both of the objective world of the mission massacre and of the subtle, varied feelings of the men and women who, surviving it, developed so strong a sense of their common humanity through the experience." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ja 7 '51 750w

"If Mr. Bates had kept to the bare bones of the story he would have made a commendable work of art out of it. Unfortunately, the necessary bones are rarely visible, and the flesh only too often sags. . . These criticisms are not intended to conceal the decorativeness of Mr. Bates' prose. Occasionally, as when he describes the sudden intrusion of a wild Pathan boy who plays, however, no part in the story, or when he paints the landscape of Kashmir or describes the Indian peasants in their toils, he is superb. Yet, he is unable, or unwilling, to depict a small isolated community at the mercy of fear." Robert Payne
— + N Y Times p4 Ja 7 '51 550w

"Mr. Bates writes in a disjointed, thoroughly detached way that makes this story read like a bad dream, in which everyone is afraid and a lot of blood is spilled, but he leaves us unaffected in the long run, because his people are shadowy, and the blood, only make-believe, will disappear as soon as we wake up."
New Yorker 26:82 Ja 13 '51 120w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 Mr 11 '51 360w

"Upon the level of sheer reporting H. E. Bates does a brilliant job. . . Yet I am less impressed with the novel than I would have been if Mr. Bates had furnished somewhere in it some frame of reference for [its] shocking events. . . Any reader will have been aware of the terrible riots that split India upon the threshold of her independence. It would not seem possible to write a novel of just that period without placing it somewhere within the framework of national events. . . It is baffling to find this missing from Mr. Bates's book. Without it, the bloody episode is quite meaningless." N. L. Rothman

— + Sat R of Lit 34:16 Ja 27 '51 600w

"The whole performance falls short of acceptance; one is aware that life has been arranged." Sylva Norman
— Spec 184:630 D 1 '50 270w

Springf'd Republican 16A Ja 28 '51 360w

Time 57:74 Ja 8 '51 280w

"Why is it that The Scarlet Sword, crammed as it is with passionate and pathetic incidents, has so often a flavour of Gilbertian comic opera? Part of the trouble is that in gathering together his random assortment of characters Mr. Bates is using a convention now thoroughly worn out. But the most disturbing weakness of The Scarlet Sword is a neglect of characterization, surprising in a writer of Mr. Bates's calibre: since the puppets . . . have no inner life and very little past history a reader can feel small interest in their fates."
Times [London] Lit Sup p721 N 17 '50 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:88 Ap '51

BATES, JOSEPH D. Streamer fly fishing in fresh and salt water; col. pl. by Ellen Wagstaff: line drawings by Milton J. Weiller [ed. by Eugene V. Connett]. 402p $5 Van Nostrand

799.12 Fly casting 50-11229

"Over 200 patterns of streamer flies, the lure for the larger gamefish. This popular author has made a study of streamer flies, and to his own knowledge he adds the best contributed by some seventy anglers from all parts of the country. Directions for making are included." Cleveland Open Shelf

Cleveland Open Shelf p7 Mr '51

Kirkus 18:549 S 1 '50 160w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:50 Ja 1 '51 50w

"The instructions are detailed and clearly illustrated, many in full color, so that almost anyone with the aid of this book can dress any streamer or bucktail fly correctly." P. F. C.
+ Springf'd Republican p19A Ja 14 '51 170w

BATES, KENNETH FRANCIS. Enameling: principles and practice. 208p il $3.75 World pub.

739.15 Enamel and enameling 51-10773

"A brief history of enameling is followed by careful explanations for amateur or professional craftsman of the methods, materials and designs to be used in enameling on metals. Many photographs, some in color, and illustrative drawings. Glossary, bibliography, index." Bookmark

Booklist 47:358 Je 15 '51

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 40w

Reviewed by A. S. Plaut
Library J 76:1227 Ag '51 10w

Wis Lib Bul 47:211 S '51

BATES, SYLVIA CHATFIELD. Silver yoke. 291p $3.50 McGraw

51-7230

Psychological novel about identical twins, the Wilbur girls, Lilly and Milly. All their lives Milly had been the dominant member of the pair, and the gentler Lilly had followed because there did not seem much else to do. In middle life Lilly finally revolted, but after her twin's death, Lilly was never quite sure which of the twins she was.

Booklist 48:125 D 1 '51

Kirkus 19:451 Ag 15 '51 160w

" 'The Silver Yoke' ably, if somewhat fragmentarily, presents the social milieu of some top drawer families in an old New York State town before, during and immediately after World War I. But into the novel as a whole, for all its grace and precision of style, Miss Bates has not succeeded in breathing the breath of life." F. H. Bullock
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 4 '51 500w

"The first half of the book with its small-town background and pleasant young love story is credible, but the last half is a wild melange of psychoanalysis, illicit love and hints of the supernatural." M. S. Hurst
+ — N Y Times p37 O 14 '51 100w

BATTELLE MEMORIAL INSTITUTE. Economics of fuel gas from coal; John F. Foster and Richard J. Lund, eds; for Bituminous coal research, inc. 289p $5 McGraw

665.7 Gas as fuel. Gas manufacture and works 51-1153

"An analysis of the technical and economic factors which control the commercial feasibility in the United States of manufacturing fuel gas from coal." (Subtitle) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

Booklist 47:247 Mr 15 '51

"The book presents a comprehensive and fair picture of the prospects before the manufactured gas industry. It is written so that it can be comprehended easily by anyone concerned with planning and management in the fuel industries." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:330 F 15 '51 120w

"Technologists and economists interested in the future of gas from coal will find the book timely and comprehensive."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:208 Je '51 170w

BATTISON, JOHN H. Movies for TV. 376p il $4.25 Macmillan

621.38836 Moving pictures. Television broadcasting 51-9145

Discussion of the various aspects of using motion pictures on television. Partial contents: Principles of movies; Principles of TV; Movie-making equipment; Film transmission equipment; Lenses; Lighting; Color; Editing and continuity; Making films for TV; Choosing films for TV; Using films on TV; Newsreels for TV; What makes good commercials; Scenery and props; Copyright and releases. Index.

Booklist 47:200 F 1 '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:331 F 15 '51 150w

"Well illustrated, this book is for the man who works in television (thousands of them now) throughout the country, particularly for the managers and program directors of TV stations. Highly recommended for their libraries as well as for public libraries serving them. College and universities giving TV courses will want this for their collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:866 My 15 '51 50w

BAUDELAIRE, CHARLES PIERRE. My heart laid bare, and other prose writings; ed, with introd. by Peter Quennell; tr. by Norman Cameron. 225p $3.50 Vanguard

844 51-13287

Essays and occasional prose pieces with some of the author's poems translated from the French.

Reviewed by D. L. Coles
Canadian Forum 31:212 D '51 300w

Reviewed by John Randolph
Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 N 4 '51 170w

"Treatment of such subjects as those in [this book], though communicating very well Baudelaire's splenetic yet thirsty attitude towards life, can afford no very comprehensive and well-articulated criticism of art and letters." W. J. Kerrigan
Commonweal 55:182 N 23 '51 400w

BAUDELAIRE, C. P.—Continued
"In presentation and style the Baudelaire is an immense improvement on another version of the intimate journals which appeared last year." Martin Turnell
+ New Statesman & Nation 39:690 Je 17 '50 360w

"My Heart Laid Bare makes a book of dazzling excellence, not the least part of which is the Gallic intellectuality." Harvey Breit
+ N Y Times p46 D 2 '51 270w

"If some of the prose-poems sound trite, it is a misfortune that could hardly have been helped in translation. The form lends itself to triteness. And they are so famous and contain so many typically Baudelairian themes that they could not very well have been omitted. As for the translation itself, most of it tells like the original. Mr. Cameron has an excellent ear."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p422 Jl 7 '50 1100w

BAUER, MRS HELEN. California mission days. 126p il maps $2.50 Doubleday
979.4 Spanish missions of California. Serra, Junipero. California—History 51-11323

A narrative-history of the founding of the California missions during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. The chief figure in the story is Father Junipero Serra whose career is followed from his arrival in California to the founding of his ninth and last mission San Buenaventura. The story is continued thereafter to the founding of San Francisco de Solano in 1823. Photographs are of missions as they are today and of present-day priests and Indians at work in the brick yards or the studies.

Booklist 47:385 Jl 1 '51

"A wealth of information, not too well organized, is crowded into each account." B. M. Gantt
+ Library J 76:1234 Ag '51 80w

"A beautifully made, well-written, and widely useful book. . . The informative text could be read by boys and girls of 10 to 12; the book will interest any one as an introduction to, or a memento of, a trip to California." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 8 '51 70w

Reviewed by G. C. Castor
N Y Times p18 Ag 12 '51 100w

"All in all, Mrs. Bauer has done a nice bit of work here and her book, though meant as a juvenile, is an important Americana item for anyone." S. E. Foster
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Je 10 '51 280w

"Beautiful lithographs of the California missions as they are today and photographs of old prints that show their original construction give this book great value."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:51 N 10 '51 80w

BAUM, VICKI. Danger from deer. 309p $3 Doubleday
51-9418

"The simple story of a possessive woman named Ann Ambros, who grows up in San Francisco, marries a famous Viennese violinist, and is finally pushed off an express train by her angry adopted daughter." New Yorker

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:75 Ap '51 200w

Reviewed by Olive Carruthers
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Je 3 '51 450w

Kirkus 18:730 D 15 '50 120w

Reviewed by Lisle Bell
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 F 4 '51 300w

"Over the years, readers have begun to think of Vicki Baum as a sort of All-American novelist; in 'Danger From Deer' she shows appallingly bad taste from beginning to end." Joyce Geary
— N Y Times p24 F 4 '51 180w

"Miss Baum gives her main characters glamour instead of life, but her writing, though ornate, is never pretentious, and she puts enough fizz in her worn little tale to keep it bubbling very nicely from start to finish."
New Yorker 26:103 F 10 '51 70w

"Vicki Baum catches 60 years of San Francisco time and color in a manner that is comfortable and unforced. The earthquake and fire of 1906 are gracefully fitted into the story. Miss Baum's enjoyment of San Francisco's wind and fog, its bay and its characteristic street scenes, its gusto for living, are all happily translated into the lives of three generations of Ballards." Jane Voiles
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 F 11 '51 650w

Reviewed by Ray Pierre
Sat R of Lit 34:15 F 24 '51 280w

Times [London] Lit Sup p241 Ap 20 '51 110w

BAUMGARDT, CAROLA, ed. and tr. Johannes Kepler, life and letters. See Kepler, J.

BAUMHOFF, RICHARD G. Dammed Missouri valley; one sixth of our nation. 291p il map $3.75 Knopf 333.91 Missouri valley. Flood control. Soil conservation 51-11082

"A book about the ways of life, the present condition, and the huge problems of Missouri, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Montana, and parts of Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, and Minnesota, written by a reporter of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch." Publisher's note

Booklist 48:93 N 15 '51

"The first half of Mr. Baumhoff's book is a thoughtful, remarkable, and knowing portrait of the valley and its people. It is delightful history and geografy. The second half is a detailed study of the valley's flood control and irrigation problems. It is, unquestionably, the most comprehensive thing of its kind yet to be published and if it still remains faintly pro-MVA—well, the people of the area take their dammed valley pretty seriously." V. P. Hass
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 21 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:465 Ag 15 '51 170w

"An informative, non-controversial, and simply written survey of the whole problem of the Missouri Valley; an excellent piece of reporting by a member of the staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch."
+ Nation 173:456 N 24 '51 100w

Reviewed by P. B. Sears
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 6 '52 450w

"Baumhoff is a St. Louis newspaper man who has specialized in the Missouri Valley, but 'The Dammed Missouri Valley' is more than a report of his findings, and a display of his authoritative knowledge. It is a warm and living book written by a man with more than an ordinary regard for the people, their problems and their hopes." J. S. Redding
+ N Y Times p4 O 14 '51 310w

"An able, thought-provoking work."
+ New Yorker 27:189 N 17 '51 160w

BAUR, JOHN IRELAND HOWE. Revolution and tradition in modern American art. (Library of Congress series in American civilization) 170p 199il $6 Harvard univ. press
709.73 Art, American. Art, Modern 51-13174

"Baur begins with a helpful one-chapter summary of the shifting pattern of movements in American painting and sculpture of the last fifty years. He then studies in greater detail two revolutions: in subject, the preoccupation with the American scene, with the machine, and with man's unconscious; in form, the steady growth of expressionism and the three more or less distinct waves of abstraction. Reversing the usual procedure, he then turns from revolution to tradition. . . Three final chapters discuss such general problems as patronage, art criticism, the controversy over non-representational forms, and the troublesome question, 'What is American in American art?'' (N Y Times) Index.

Booklist 48:156 Ja 1 '52

"Mr. Baur shows a most intelligent critical discernment of American art. There is no partisanship in his text. He sees very clearly the objectives of a wide assortment of painters, each deeply convinced that his personal adventure with the paintbrush is the most significant." Dorothy Adlow

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 D 6 '51 230w

Library J 77:50 Ja 1 '52 160w

New Repub 125:19 D 10 '51 100w

"It seems unfortunate that some uniform terminology cannot be agreed on by critics of contemporary American art. Although Mr. Baur's tags for the various movements are generally an improvement over those of his predecessors, it is confusing to have to think of the group, defined by other critics as Cubist-Realists, as Immaculates. . . Actually the best chapters in the book are the last three, in which Mr. Baur with complete detachment and rationality presents the problem of the artist in the modern world, the possible future development of abstract art, and the always unanswerable question of what is American about American art. One feature of the book that can be recommended without qualification is the beauty of the reproductions." Benjamin Rowland

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 D 16 '51 1050w

"The book is neither a chronological survey nor a series of artist biographies; nor does the author provide dramatic oversimplification in these compact and soberly written chapters. He does make a masterly analysis of a period which he finds 'complex but comprehensible.' " O. W. Larkin

+ N Y Times p28 O 21 '51 600w

"Though the author occasionally gets too close to the level of cataloguing for easy reading, his efforts to identify all the individual artists in their relation to the various trends are sound and well considered, and in some respects, as in his study of the relations between abstract art and Expressionism, he offers new and interesting interpretations of contemporary phenomena."

New Yorker 27:179 D 8 '51 120w

"A book which is a model of lucidity, simplicity, and comprehensiveness. . . The [chapter] called Trends and Portents is the clearest, most well-mannered and intelligently reasoned defense of contemporary experiment in art that I have ever had the pleasure of reading. . . If Baur fails anywhere, it is in laying too slight an emphasis on the surrealists and their influence." Alfred Frankenstein

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:43 N 3 '51 850w

BAYM, MAX ISAAC. French education of Henry Adams. 358p $5 Columbia univ. press

B or 92 Adams, Henry. French literature
51-11489

"It is the author's purpose to show how French literature and philosophy influenced Henry Adam's writing and to show the extent of this influence, particularly in his two classics, 'The Education of Henry Adams' and 'Mont Saint Michel,' and 'Chartres.' " (School & Society) Bibliography. Index.

"Dr. Baym's affection for his subject is deep and his research thorough. Indexes and notes cover almost as many pages as this readable study, itself. Consider this well before you decide that the library does not need it!" K. T. Willi[illegible]

+ Library J 76:1224 Ag '51 70w

School & Society 74:318 N 17 '51 40w

BAZIN, GERMAIN, ed. History of painting; tr. from the French by Rosamund Frost [ed. by André Gloeckner]. (Hyperion Press bks) 2v 335; 391p pl col pl $7.95 Macmillan

750.9 Painting—History. Painters
51-5447;51-5448

Contents: v 1, History of classic painting; v2, History of modern painting. "Quick and inclusive reference for many countries, centuries and artists. Bibliographies, biographical notes. Proportions of emphasis at times a bit unusual, especially that on present-day English artists. Color reproductions somewhat muddy here and there; rather many typographical errors. Useful for overall outline information with handy labels for scores of artists." (Library J)

"All too many of the reproductions are gray and dull, and almost without exception the color plates are incredibly poor. It is highly desirable, of course, to have such a wealth of illustrative material, but the result is that the text is so sparse that the average reader will find himself bewildered by this dizzying rush thru the highlights. . . The treatment of American art, especially of the 19th century, is most sympathetic and, all things considered, remarkably full. . . This two volume treatise, despite its faults, will be valuable as a popular book of reference and, having been compiled by critics of a high order, has a good deal of meat concentrated in the text." F. A. Sweet

+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 15 '51 600w

Reviewed by A. S. Plaut

Library J 76:2006 D 1 '51 70w

BAZIN, HERVE. Viper in the fist; tr. from the French by W. J. Strachan [Eng title: Grasping the viper]. 183p il $2.75 Prentice-Hall 51-1497

"Begins with the narrator, at an early age, at grips with an allegorical adder, and evolves into a conflict of wills between the boy and his masterful, ill-meaning mother in a French country-house, where various priests and a deaf-mute servant play their appointed parts." Times [London] Lit Sup

"This first novel, which has won a couple of literary prizes in France, is the story of a fiendish mother's warfare with her three small sons. . . M. Bazin has wrested from this grim subject a curiously exhilarating tale, glowing with ferocious humor and executed with superb artistry."

+ Atlantic 187:87 My '51 70w

Reviewed by J. F. Nims

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 27 '51 430w

"Too burlesqued, too much glum petulance to take seriously."

— Kirkus 19:77 F 1 '51 140w

"Keen, rasping, salty with hatred, it is the vision of a schoolboy expressed with the artistry of an adult. Why so unedifying a subject should be so exhilarating is not easy to say; perhaps because the characters of mother and son both contain great courage; because of the author's ruthless humour, which burns like the coldness of liquid air; and because deep in most readers' hearts is the memory, however much overlaid, of having once been pitted against the grown-up ogre." Elizabeth Jenkins

+ Manchester Guardian p4 N 24 '50 180w

"This extended essay in contempt for humanity is done in the manner of Céline; despite the vast difference in milieu it inevitably echoes Céline's hysteria in 'Death on the Instalment Plan.' One hesitates to recommend 'Viper in the Fist' to American readers, with the exception of those who have not managed to settle accounts with their parents, or those who can read wtih innocent delight of adolescent boys trying to drown Mama in the waters of the ancestral creek. Bazin is a clever and sharp writer, but in this book at least he has defeated himself." Harvey Swados

— Nation 172:401 Ap 28 '51 260w

"Madame Rezeau, or Folcoche, is no less a witch than the one who planned to put Hansel and Gretel in the oven, nor is there more motivation or explanation of her conduct than in the fairy tale. But if you accept the author's postulate of so fiendish a creature, the rest of the characters and their reactions fall into place. Moreover, the sidelights on human behavior, the picture of this way of life in the French provinces, and the Rabelaisian insight of the author, who makes no attempt to confine his observations to those of an adolescent boy, all point to the indisputable fact that Herve Bazin is a born writer from whom much should be heard." Virgilia Peterson

BAZIN, HERVE—Continued

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 29 '51 800w

"This little novel is bitter not sweet, vengeful not balmy, angry not coy. Yet because it is so unrestrainedly angry and vengeful and bitter it exhibits, in reverse, the flaw which mars all sentimental writing—a final lack of persuasion. Its unilateral fury, however, may captivate many readers in exactly the same way that sticky sweetness captivates others." R. S.

N Y Times p23 Ap 8 '51 360w

"'Viper in the Fist' . . . is extremely entertaining as farce, and the temptation is to let it go at that, but it has been festooned with literary awards—the Prix Appollinaire and the Prix des Lecteurs—whose respectability pushes one toward considering it as serious literature. As soon as one does so, however, it becomes apparent that it is concerned with ideas that are untenable and corrupt." Anthony West

— + New Yorker 27:111 My 26 '51 1350w

"This extraordinarily angry little novel has already won two of France's important literary awards, and in spite of the fact that it is an almost unrelieved expression of a grown man's recollection of his hatred for his mother, one can still see why it was given such significant recognition in its own country." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ap 23 '51 600w

"Bazin is sometimes flip and sometimes cute, but his book is impressive. The publishers have given the work a real production, with extraordinary line drawings by Madeleine Chapsal and a stylish translation by W. J. Strachan, but it seems a pity they could not have found a proofreader to go with them." Harry Sylvester

Sat R of Lit 45:54 Ap 14 '51 600w

Reviewed by R. D. Charques

Spec 184:670 D 8 '50 230w

"The book is written with artificial gusto, and gives an overwhelming effect of someone flogging a dead horse. M. Bazin's exclamatory style does not translate easily, though Mr. Strachan has obviously done his best to convey the feverish quality of the original."

Times [London] Lit Sup p781 D 8 '50 120w

BEACH, REX ELLINGWOOD. Woman in ambush. 280p $3 Putnam

51-11401

Dick Banning, son of a prominent Southern doctor, grew tired of being a wonder boy, and while in his middle teens ran away from home. For several years he pursued his way in different lines of endeavor, until he finally returned to his home and a more quiet life.

"'Woman in Ambush,' to put the best face on it, is an only mildly interesting helping of literary corn. Mr. Beach must have been very tired when he wrote anything as slipshod, banal, and slightly silly." V. P. Hass

— Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 15 '51 '51 240w

Kirkus 19:248 My 15 '51 150w

Reviewed by Hoffman Birney

N Y Times p15 Jl 22 '51 100w

"Taken on its individual merits it is certainly not an important novel nor one that is likely to remain alive on the reading lists of future generations. But admirers of the author's brand of escapist fiction will find it an entertaining, well-plotted, and intriguing suspenseful story." J. M. Grant

Sat R of Lit 34:28 Ag 25 '51 290w

BEARE, W. Roman stage; a short history of Latin drama in the time of the Republic. 292p il $4.50 Harvard univ. press

872.09 Latin drama. Theater—Rome [51-5904]

"Professor Beare traces the development of the Roman stage from the earliest rustic farces and the Etruscan predilection for blood sports and public combat down to the fall of the Republic. Amongst the pioneers he pays special tribute to Naevius and perhaps rather less than his due to Ennius, but his attention is mostly devoted to Plautus and Terence. Throughout the book his interest is concentrated less upon literary criticism than upon the details of production and performance and upon the adaptation of Greek New Comedy to Roman conditions." (Times [London] Lit Sup) Bibliography. Index.

School & Society 73:366 Je 9 '51 40w

"Although it is several times implied that actresses took no part in plays but only in pantomime, little is said about the casting and acting of women's parts. And it would have been valuable to have given more attention to the very different tastes of the various classes composing the Roman audience. However, these are small omissions where so much useful research and closely argued conjecture has been carried out. The book, which is most capably illustrated, is certainly an important contribution to a somewhat neglected field of study."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p128 Mr 2 '51 800w

BEATON, CECIL WALTER HARDY. Ballet. 86p il $3.50 Doubleday

792.8 Ballet 51-13698

A book on the ballet composed chiefly of the author's memories of famous dancers and of his own part in the world of the ballet as devotee, designer, photographer.

Booklist 48:96 N 15 '51

"One of the most interestingly personal books about the ballet of the last forty years comes from a man, a distinguished designer, photographer, and, more recently, writer, who commands wide knowledge of the field. Handsomely illustrated, beautifully printed. Recommended for all dance and theatre collections." George Freedley

+ Library J 76:2116 D 15 '51 50w

"Mr. Beaton's memories are not much more interesting than the recollections of any other garrulous balletophil: they are merely more vividly expressed." Richard Johnson

New Statesman & Nation 41:720 Je 23 '51 260w

"It is inclined to be trivial and not very informative. Beaton's memory, indeed, plays him outrageous tricks from time to time and he assigns all sorts of creative endeavors to quite the wrong people." John Martin

N Y Times p57 N 25 '51 280w

"For the balletomane this book does not offer much that is important or new, except some of the pictures. But it is simply and brilliantly written and so pretty a book that it will grace a ballet library handily." Laura Clandon

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:67 N 17 '51 550w

"Books on ballet usually fall into one of two classes—those by the serious historians like Haskell and Beaumont or those designed for to-day's wide circle of indiscriminate balletomanes, which disseminate gossip and consist largely of photographs of public favourites. Mr. Beaton's Ballet comes somewhere between the two, for it is mostly his own reminiscences of the ballet, inevitably more personal than general; and, if the text sometimes seems a little thin, the photographs with which he embellishes it are ample compensation."

Times [London] Lit Sup p304 My 18 '51 430w

BEATON, CECIL WALTER HARDY. Photobiography. 255p il $6 Doubleday

B or 92 Photographers—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-11655

A well-known British photographer traces the course of his work in his chosen field from his first awareness of it at the age of three to his present position. He includes many samples of his photographs of his family and of well-known persons, and describes his encounters with them in prose. No index.

Booklist 48:9 S 1 '51

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 5 '51 200w

" 'Photobiography' contains a good deal that will interest Mr. Beaton's admirers and a certain amount that will engage the attention of serious photographers. It also contains a Shaw anecdote, a guaranteed brightener of any literary work." John Beaufort
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 2 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:205 Ap 1 '51 160w

"Beaton writes as felicitously as he photographs or designs costumes or scenery." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1228 Ag '51 50w

Nation 173:246 S 22 '51 220w

Reviewed by Arthur Michael
New Statesman & Nation 42:160 Ag 11 '51 550w

"Witty and entertaining." Philippe Halsman
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 29 '51 460w

"Beaton is important because what he did and what he does captures the imagination of the few, at first, and ultimately influences the many. He was a cult: now he is a brand. Much of what he has done adds just a little bit of enchantment to the everyday world; makes us dream more richly, more variously. That Beaton's dream is sometimes too private, too much a personal joke and quite indigestible, does not impair the quality of that residue which is sufficiently honest and tasteful to make the world gayer and more civilized." Leo Lerman
N Y Times p7 Jl 22 '51 1250w

New Yorker 27:68 Ag 4 '51 230w

"Many a reader will be fascinated by Mr. Beaton's story of his youth, his strong inclination to the camera even when young and of how he climbed to the top of his profession." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 Jl 19 '51 850w

"This is a curious and revealing book. On the surface it is trashy, the story not of a life but of a life's programme, scrambled together anyhow, repetitive and shapeless. It is as one-sided as a novelette: there is no failure in it, no suffering, no serious obstacles to be overcome; scarcely a cross word is heard throughout. . . Yet though this is a light-weight and trifling book, one gets through it the impression of someone who is not a light-weight or trifling person. It is true that Mr. Beaton sees himself as an engaging small boy whose talent and charm will secure the indulgent interest of grown-ups. But this very fact has ensured his remaining agile in mind and young in outlook." Tom Hopkinson
Spec 187:34 Jl 6 '51 750w

"Beaton's pen portrait of Beaton, like those he makes with his Rolleiflex, shows such a dazzle of limelight about the subject's head that at times he seems not merely Beatonized, but beatified. Nevertheless, his book is a charming tattletale about the semi-private life of a sort of celluloid Cellini; and the tale is adorned with plenty of gossip about the rich and famous people Beaton has photographed."
Time 58:82 Jl 30 '51 550w

"The illustrations are less satisfactory than the book itself because so many of them have been reproduced before, and it is to be hoped that the author is not following the practice of too many writers nowadays of putting old tales into new covers and selling them to the public under deceivingly fresh titles. There must have been hundreds of negatives to choose from and all the pictures should have been new to people who remember The Book of Beauty and early editions of Time Exposure. It would have been of interest to have had included some designs of the more recent stage sets. However, we can look forward to a volume of entirely new photographs."
Times [London] Lit Sup p430 Ag 3 '51 650w

BEATTY, HETTY BURLINGAME. Little Owl Indian; story and pictures [il. by the author]. 32p $2.25 Houghton
51-1376

Story in text and pictures for ages four to seven, about a little Indian boy and his white pony, and how they saved the Indians and the forest creatures from a forest fire.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 20 '51 70w

Christian Science Monitor p10 Ap 14 '51 110w

"Vivid, simple pictures by the author help make this an appealing picture book for the four to seven-year olds." Juanita Walker
+ Library J 76:604 Ap 1 '51 70w

"The big pictures are dramatically clear, printed in strong dark colors that will interest and satisfy younger children. Some seven year olds will be able to read the bold, black type themselves. It is just as appealing as the attractive pre-school picture book, 'Little Wild Horse,' by the same author-artist, but with quite different colors and design." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 8 '51 170w

"The background is a forest and a wide, beautiful river in northern New York. Little children can follow the story through the drawings."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Ap 21 '51 120w

Wis Lib Bul 47:91 Ap '51

BEAULAC, WILLARD LEON. Career ambassador. 262p $3.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Diplomatic memoirs 51-11377

Personal narrative of the author's twenty-seven years in the Foreign Service, most of the time in Latin America, with two years in Madrid during the war.

Am Pol Sci R 45:924 S '51 50w

Reviewed by R. S. Simpson
Ann Am Acad 278:195 N '51 550w

Booklist 48:9 S 1 '51

Reviewed by Gilbert Twiss
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Jl 8 '51 460w

Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

Current Hist 21:95 Ag '51 120w

Kirkus 19:225 Ap 15 '51 150w

"Aspirants to the Service will find an honest, though not penetrating, account of an Officer's daily life and problems at overseas posts. Those seeking insight into Latin-American political relations will be disappointed. With this qualification, recommended." Scott Adams
+ — Library J 76:859 My 15 '51 70w

"A good deal has been written about Spain in World War II. Mr. Beaulac's chief, Ambassador Carlton Hayes; the British Ambassador, Sir Samuel Hoare; Winston Churchill, Sumner Welles, newspaper men galore, have all had their say. Ambassador Beaulac's contribution is a valuable addition to our knowledge, authoritative and persuasive, and it is certainly the most important part of his book. . . It would be wrong to give the impression that this is a study in diplomacy and nothing else. It is a human, pleasant, entertaining book about a man who never lost his sense of humor or his kindly feelings toward his associates." H. L. Matthews
+ N Y Times p6 Jl 1 '51 1000w

BEAULAC, W. L.—Continued

"The author writes with ease and humor, and succeeds in giving a pretty good idea of what life in the Foreign Service is like."
+ New Yorker 27:78 Je 30 '51 200w

"In reviewing the high lights of his service at posts in ten countries, Mr. Beaulac has achieved a felicitously written synthesis of history, biography, and philosophy, besides revealing how a diplomat learns his trade."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:223 S '51 240w

Wis Lib Bul 47:187 Jl '51

BEAVER, JOSEPH. Walt Whitman—poet of science. 178p $2.75 King's Crown press

811 Whitman, Walt. Literature and science 51-288

"In the greater part of Whitman scholarship Whitman's use of scientific concepts and metaphors in his poetry has been minimized, if not questioned and parodied outright. Mr. Beaver attempts to overhaul much of the ossified criticism by documentation which indicates that Whitman's scientific knowledge was soundly acquired and that scientific imagery and thoughts were deliberately and functionally diffused in his poetry." (Sat R of Lit) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by E. D. Rostow
New Eng Q 24:385 S '51 300w

Reviewed by Walter Allen
New Statesman & Nation 41:655 Je 9 '51 1100w

"The whole subject of Whitman's relation to science has needed a critical airing, and Mr. Beaver has made a valuable contribution." Siegfried Mandel
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Ap 28 '51 280w

"The method of the book is mainly descriptive, its style both spirited and persuasive. The most original chapter, devoted to evolution, minimizes Hegelianism in Whitman, and gathers many fresh data to demonstrate the ways in which Whitman's later work dealing with war and evil parallels such a Darwinian idea as the theory of the struggle for existence."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:139 Je '51 230w

BECHDOLT, JOHN ERNEST. Mystery at Hurricane hill. 189p $2.50 Dutton
51-5105

Mystery story for older boys and girls.

"This fast-moving and interestingly told story with its surprise ending will have great appeal to both boys and girls of junior high age. Recommended." M. V. Greene
+ Library J 76:1235 Ag '51 70w

"Except for the lack of murders Jack Bechdolt's latest junior novel has a good many features in common with the country-life school of adult mysteries. . . It's good, light reading." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p18 Ag 12 '51 110w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p4 N 11 '51 70w

BECHDOLT, JOHN ERNEST. On the air; a story of television. 192p $2.50 Dutton 50-14493

Three young people, two boys and the sister of one of them, break into television, in New York. For grades seven to nine.

Booklist 47:206 F 1 '51

"Smart pace and a brisk manner gives this a fresh air seldom found in vocational stories." Eleanor Kidder
+ Library J 75:2019 N 15 '50 80w

"Amusing, honest picture of three young people." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 4 '51 30w

BECK, F. pseud, and GODIN, W., pseud. Russian purge and the extraction of confession; tr. from the original German by Eric Mosbacher and David Porter. 277p $3.50 Viking

351.74 Russia—Politics and government. Political crimes and offenses 51-10441

The authors, writing under pseudonyms, are two Europeans who suffered under the Russian purge of the late 'thirties and now write concerning it from personal knowledge. The book attempts to set forth the facts and explain the reasons for the Russian use of the extorted confession, so mystifying to Western minds.

Am Pol Sci R 45:915 S '51 110w

'The authors' approach is impartial but at the same time human. Their efficient marshalling of fact and their ingenious reasoning make their book invaluable to all who wish for an insight into the Soviet world." Hugh Seton-Watson
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 10 '51 550w

Reviewed by W. B. Walsh
Nation 172:616 Je 30 '51 290w

Reviewed by Kingsley Martin
New Statesman & Nation 42:598 N 24 '51 470w

"The authors write, if not with impersonal detachment at least with an obvious desire not to fall into rhetorical denunciation. They try to observe the objectivity of the pathologist; but they make no attempt to disguise their opinion that they are in fact dealing with a pathological state of society. Their account is quite as damning as that of more excited exiles." Crane Brinton
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 22 '51 1000w

"To those readers who are familiar with the growing literature from the pens of those who have lived in Soviet prisons and camps this book will have interest, but not for the reasons heralded on the jacket. Other books have been more personal and, therefore, credible. This book will find its place because of its analysis of the extent to which Soviet prison techniques cause or do not cause unrest among the masses." J. N. Hazard
+ — N Y Times p21 My 6 '51 900w

San Francisco Chronicle p14 Je 3 '51 600w

"The authors of this study have been in Soviet prisons, and in serene, detached fashion, as if their personal suffering had been no more than an opportunity to study a fearful yet fascinating phenomenon, they have written a treatise on Soviet prisons, concentration camps, purges, and confessions, and offered some thoughtful and seminal conclusions as to what these teach concerning the true nature of the Soviet state. . . One [of the authors] was a Soviet historian, the other a German scientist. Both were sympathetic to the regime that ensnared them in its monstrous net. No cry of anguish, no word of personal suffering escapes their lips." B. D. Wolfe
+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 My 26 '51 800w

Reviewed by Philip Magnus
Spec 187:276 Ag 31 '51 460w

Reviewed by Donald Derby
Springf'd Republican p8C Ag 12 '51 450w

Times [London] Lit Sup p376 Je 15 '51 750w

BECK, NEILL, and BECK, FREDERICK K. Farmers Market cookbook [il. by Ernest Maxwell]. 246p $2.95 Holt

641.5 Cookery 51-2230

"Neill and Fred Beck, famous gastronomes of the West Coast, were two of the originators of the Farmers Market in Hollywood where everything and anything can be bought. In 'The Farmers Market Cookbook' they present recipes from their own kitchen and from those of the proprietors of the various shops and stalls who are noted for some particular dish." N Y Times

Booklist 47:304 My 1 '51

"A gem of a cookbook, for a market that is getting more selective."
+ Kirkus 19:41 Ja 15 '51 200w

"The recipes are informal but easy to follow. There are suggestions of the southwest in many ingredients but the book is not useless in the eastern kitchen." K. T. Willis
Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 60w

"The recipes are annotated with such a good mixture of common sense and humor that the result is a book that is highly readable as well as practical." Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p14 My 13 '51 90w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ag 6 '51 220w

"Keen pen-and-ink drawings by Ernest Maxwell add to the book's engagingness." L. M.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 9 '51 60w

BECK, WARREN. Far whistle, and other stories. 224p $2.50 Antioch press
51-11342

"A collection of . . . short stories, most of them concerned in one way or another with the regret, guilt, or uneasiness of the narrator at having attained a degree of wisdom still withheld from others." New Yorker

---

"The finest virtue in Mr. Beck's collection of short stories is the human accuracy. The emotions of anger, astonishment, fear, devotion, are all valid. They come from men and women who are so presented that the reader believes in their responses completely. In a time when so much fiction asks the reader to accept the essential oddness, if not real eccentricity, of its characters, Mr. Beck's stories ask him to accept the varieties of the normal, the daily, the readily definable." Paul Engle
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 1 '51 380w

"All thirteen stories command respect by deep integrity, forthrightness of style, and compassion for the moderate soul in a nagging universe." Donald Barr
+ N Y Times p14 Jl 15 '51 490w

"Mr. Beck likes to write father-and-son stories, and these fit particularly well into his favorite device, which is to set up a situation and let his narrator comment on what goes on, a device that might be all right if what we heard were less sententious and trite than it is."
New Yorker 27:78 Je 30 '51 80w

San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ag 26 '51 250w

Reviewed by William Peden
Sat R of Lit 34:19 S 1 '51 480w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p10B S 30 '51 130w

BECK, WARREN. Into thin air. 257p $3 Knopf
51-428

Ralph Kempner was an old man slowly dying when they began to pull down the house next door. As he sat by the window day by day watching the house wreckers Ralph went back over his lonely life, reviewing his long friendship with Mrs Johnston, who had once owned the house next door, and had been his great friend altho old enough to be his mother. Bit by bit his story is told and the tragedy of his love for Mrs Johnston's daughter-in-law.

"One may not care for the method Warren Beck has chosen to tell Ralph Kempner's story. One could wish that it were more direct, and that it held more of drama than of muted music. This I feel myself. But it cannot be gainsaid that his story has a fullness and richness which a piling up of circumstance and incident might never have given it, and that what at last emerges from the gradual accretion of details of character is a triumph of narrative skill." Kelsey Guilfoil
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 F 18 '51 550w

Kirkus 18:733 D 15 '50 120w

"Semi-stream-of-consciousness style. Interesting but unimportant." H. S. Taylor
Library J 76:179 F 1 '51 80w

"'Into Thin Air' is a novel of quality; beautifully written, its rhythm beats a tune of sad purpose, and in the end the reader may find himself touched even if he is not moved. Like a chilly twilight seen through the window of a sheltered room, Mr. Beck's world offers a view without a contact." James Hilton
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 F 18 '51 600w

"Distinction of idea gives zest to a conversation, but the purpose of fiction is to communicate that direct experience of life which no amount of talk can recapture. Mr. Beck has strong powers of observation. He lacks the instinct of a storyteller." Nancy Lenkeith
N Y Times p16 F 18 '51 320w

"The writing is soft, rounded, careful, and not very good."
New Yorker 27:98 F 24 '51 80w

"Mr. Beck, a professor of English and author of two previous novels and many short stories, writes with power, and it might be wished for his next novel that it have a subject as vital as the style he uses. While the inner life of his protagonist here had its turbulent times, it is rather lacking in the true individuality that makes the psyche a rich source of fiction." Dorothy Marvin
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p10 Mr 10 '51 600w

Reviewed by John Cournos
Sat R of Lit 34:14 F 24 '51 330w

"Warren Beck is an English teacher at Lawrence College (Wis.). In Into Thin Air he never talks big and never tries for too much, but he shows writing craft good enough for a larger theme. When he finds it, the U.S. may have another novelist to cheer about."
Time 57:104 F 19 '51 550w

Wis Lib Bul 47:88 Ap '51

BECKER, HOWARD. Through values to social interpretation; essays on social contexts, actions, types, and prospects. 341p $4.50 Duke univ. press
301 Sociology 50-9796

"This book brings together six essays by Howard Becker, all of which have appeared elsewhere in full or in abridged form. . . The approach is polemical. Various points of view are attacked, and alternatives are offered. Becker opposes anti-theoretical positions, narrow positivism, idiographic approaches such as are sometimes found in history and cultural anthropology—the desire, that is, to present an historical event or a culture 'as it actually and peculiarly was,' large-scale theories of social change, whether evolutionary or cyclical, and beliefs in the actual or desirable total value-neutrality of the scientist." (Am Soc R) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The style of the book is lively, academically unorthodox, often provocative, and occasionally barbed. Social scientists who are not familiar with the earlier version of these essays are well advised to become acquainted with the present volume." Ernest Manheim
+ Am J Soc 57:198 S '51 500w

"There are, of course, criticisms that can be made of this typology, as well as of other general ideas presented and of various definitions and their implications. . . These criticisms, however, express a hope for further developments along these lines, not a denial of the positive contributions of the book. Those who, like the reviewer, accept Becker's general approach in this book, will find much that is useful, much that is tantalizing because incompletely developed, and much that is interesting and stimulating." D. F. Aberle
+ — Am Soc R 16:271 Ap '51 1000w

"This book, with its intriguing title, unfortunately does not contain a systematic and unified development of a theme. It turns out to be a collection of incidental articles and chapters contributed to symposia which have been published previously. Originally these essays were fragmentary, and they remain so in their present form. This is a pity, in a way,

BECKER, HOWARD—Continued
because at least one of them dealing with the problem of constructive typology in the social sciences is worthy of a concentrated effort on the part of the author and really should have been developed into a book." Theodore Abel
Ann Am Acad 274:245 Mr '51 220w
Foreign Affairs 30:156 O '51 20w
Reviewed by J. E. Fleming
Social Forces 30:110 O '51 450w

BECKER, STEPHEN D. Season of the stranger. 278p $3 Harper
51-2842

Novel presenting a panorama of life in southern China at the present. The hero is Girard, an American professor at a Chinese university; the girl he loves is Chinese, the daughter of a high official. When the city falls and the professor is killed his Chinese sweetheart decides to carry out the beliefs for which Girard has died.

"Profoundly saturated with the atmosphere of China, Becker's sensitive and unusual novel has captured the feverish suspense of days of waiting at a time of historic convulsion."
+ Atlantic 188:88 Jl '51 150w
Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51
Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:393 Ag '51 190w

"'The Season of the Stranger' is a first novel of striking but uneven qualities. The writing shows a sense for style and a laudable striving for subtlety, but the book stands in need of sharper characterization and a more lucid motivation. As a character, Li-ling is realized with a fair amount of completeness and appeal, but Andrew Girard is a somewhat unreal figure whose political opinions are never quite clear altho his integrity and compassion are amply demonstrated." A. L. Bader
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 My 13 '51 250w

"As a first novel, 'The Season of the Stranger' is a finished product. It catches a complex world at a moment in space and time; most of all, it casts a valid and sympathetic light upon our fellow-humans and our friends, the Chinese people." Ruth Chapin
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 24 '51 650w

"The style seems almost like a translation, closer to the Chinese than the English, but this is integral to the authenticity of atmosphere."
+ Kirkus 19:137 Mr 1 '51 180w

"It is ironic that the American emerges as the weakest and least plausible character. A good first effort, but no great find." A. J. Gaines
Library J 76:772 My 1 '51 110w
Reviewed by Harvey Swados
Nation 173:14 Jl 7 '51 320w
Reviewed by Robert Phelps
New Repub 125:21 Jl 23 '51 100w

"This is an able and interesting novel, but for me it didn't, somehow, quite add up: Girard remains a lay-figure, and I found his girl-friend hardly more convincing than himself." Jocelyn Brooke
+ — New Statesman & Nation 42:346 S 29 '51 170w

"History is a little unkind nowadays to any one who writes about China, but the novelist probably suffers less than the reporter. 'The Season of the Stranger' makes a number of things abundantly clear. What it cannot do, of course, is tell what the feeling of the moment is, what the new generation of students, standing in their traditional role of opposition, thinks of its new government; but it certainly suggests that they are not interested in looking back." J. J. Espey
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 My 13 '51 1150w

"An excellent novel of a critical period in Chinese history." M. J. Tweedy
+ N Y Times p16 My 27 '51 320w

"An agreeable first novel that has considerable grace, if no great profundity. The story it tells is big enough (it even flirts with the tragic), but something hard to define in the style pulls it down to the level of drawing room writing. It is the worst side of Henry James' influence filtered through E. M. Forster's quietism." Anthony West
+ — New Yorker 27:106 Je 9 '51 550w

"The author writes remarkably well, his theme is of immediate interest, and he has a fine talent for telling a story. His book reads like a fourth or tenth novel rather than the first it is." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 My 17 '51 750w

"If neither theme nor even plot are new, nevertheless here is a good story, exciting and told with a mounting suspense that holds the reader fast. It can also be said that Stephen Becker writes with unusual smoothness and frequent beauty, and that the portraits of Peiping, of the students there, and of the American are vivid and subtly perceptive. Up to this point there is no bone of contention. . . But though Mr. Becker shows a remarkable knowledge of the country considering his brief time in it, his scene seems less China as it is than an idea about China. There is Chinese grit under the fingernails and there is the smell of tea—and yet it isn't quite real." Preston Schoyer
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 My 12 '51 360w
Reviewed by Marghanita Laski
+ Spec 187:408 S 28 '51 170w
Reviewed by S. M. Neal
+ Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 120w

"The characters are woolly, and their motives do not account for their actions. The book ends with the murder of the hero by the retreating Nationalists, and so contrives to give a one-sided account of the Civil War. The atrocities of the police against left-wing students are told with great indignation, while the Communists hover on the horizon as benevolent deliverers. But it is an entertaining, if occasionally exasperating, story of a great crisis in the modern world, the disappearance of Western supremacy in the Far East."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p545 Ag 31 '51 100w

"Although the story begins slowly, building from small significant episode to episode, it develops the quality and the character of its people with clarity and poignancy, so that the romance depicted becomes at once understandable and moving, and the denouement is convincing. China and the Chinese are portrayed with a detail and an authenticity which can have come only from the author's sympathetic firsthand observation."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:241 S '51 270w
Wis Lib Bul 47:188 Jl '51

BEDOUKIAN, PAUL Z. Perfumery synthetics and isolates. 488p $7 Van Nostrand
668.5 Perfumery 51-9675

"The present volume presents alphabetically arranged examples of about forty-five compounds and related derivatives commonly used in the compounding of floral odors. Included in the number are aliphatic alcohols and aldehydes, cinnamyl alcohol, cinnamic aldehyde and acid, eugenol and isoeugenol, linalool, geraniol, alkyl gamme lactones, vanillin, and the synthetic musks. The topics discussed include a history of each compound, observations on its occurrence in natural products, its chemical and physical properties, methods of synthesis or preparation, and uses. The standard analytical methods used by industry are described in a final section. Common physical constants are tabulated." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Index.

"[The] interrelationship between synthetic perfume chemistry and other branches of chemical research and industry might have been more fully developed. The book is nevertheless indispensable for the technical department of any concern connected with the perfume industry were it only for the 1500 references carefully compiled." E. C. Kimz

+ Chem & Eng N 29:2515 Je 18 '51 360w

"Many contributions to the perfume industry are of value also to synthetic organic chemistry. The present book is of general interest because some of the reactions that ordinarily are applied only in the laboratory must be used on a large scale to prepare chemicals for perfumes."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:208 Je '51 230w

BEEBE, ELSWYTH THANE (RICKER) (MRS WILLIAM BEEBE) (ELSWYTH THANE, pseud). This was tomorrow. 319p $3 Duell
51-10411

"In this latest of her Williamsburg novels, Elswyth Thane brings the fortunes of the Day-Sprague family and its English cousins, down to 1938. She writes of England chiefly and Europe during the pre-Munich days. But the American branch of the family is fully represented—by Jeff Day, foreign correspondent; and by Sylvia and Stephen Sprague, the lighthearted musical comedy team." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Reviewed by Mildred Walker
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 21 '51 320w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Yates
Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 3 '52 320w

+ Kirkus 19:331 Jl 1 '51 180w

"Miss Thane has succeeded in re-creating the atmosphere of those not so distant days, but she has peopled her story with characters who are not deeply realized. And once again one wonders if this family saga is not too weighty a background for what is essentially a series of pleasant stories."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 30 '51 160w

"Against the usual resonant backdrop of history, the usual love affairs are entangled—and selfishness, as always, fights a rear-guard action with good, all-American generosity." Glenn Clairmonte
N Y Times p39 O 7 '51 100w

"'This Was Tomorrow' is a sentimental novel. But it avoids stickiness by its humor, well-contrived plot, and attention to historic detail." Ray Pierre
+ Sat R of Lit 34:44 D 8 '51 380w

BEEBE, LUCIUS MORRIS, and CLEGG, CHARLES M. Cable car carnival; decorations by E. S. Hammack. 130p il map $6 G. Hardy, 2046 E. 14th st, Oakland 6, Calif.

385.66 Street railroads—San Francisco. San Francisco—History 51-3918

A history in prose and picture of San Francisco's cable cars and the city in which they have taken an important part during the last eighty years.

Booklist 47:395 Jl 15 '51

"The work of an accomplished pair of writers, this brief popular history of San Francisco is well-written and unusually well-illustrated." Clarence Gorchels
+ Library J 76:1224 Ag '51 140w

"Not the least interesting feature of the book is its illustrations: some 150 well selected photographs and drawings showing the types of cars and dummies used on the various lines. These were widely different in design but all had one feature in common: invariably the little vehicles were gay with bright paint and so festooned with ornate scrollwork as to give them a holiday aspect that well justifies the authors' title of 'Cable Car Carnival.'" Oscar Lewis
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 22 '51 500w

"With its pictures and all, this is a hard book for an old San Franciscan to put down. Others may be interested, too, for the cable car is a symbol of a spirit not altogether materialistic; it stands for the something added, more than money, more than population, that makes a city great." R. L. Duffus
+ N Y Times p20 Je 10 '51 600w

"This is a warm, amusing, affectionate and colorful story and the authors tell it with enthusiasm. . . The authors get in an astonishing amount of color and lively movement while they tell the story of the cars, and all of it makes good reading for any San Franciscan." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 Je 3 '51 1100w

"This book is something more than a footnote to the history of transportation—it is eloquent and engrossing Americana, put together with skilled and loving craftsmanship."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 D 8 '51 140w

BEELER, NELSON FREDERICK, and BRANLEY, FRANKLYN MANSFIELD. Experiments in optical illusion; il. by Fred H. Lyon. 114p $2 Crowell

612.84374 Optical illusions 51-5642

"Following a description of the mechanism of the eye are pages of experiments and diagrams presenting and explaining optical illusions which are a part of everyday seeing. Fun for the whole family. Grade 6 and up." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51
Bookmark 11:35 N '51

"An excellent addition to our science books." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:423 D '51 60w

"A fascinating little book with lots of tantalizing 'now you see it; now you don't' home experiments."
+ Kirkus 19:298 Je 15 '51 120w

"A book that grown-ups as well as youngsters might become interested in. Recommended." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:1235 Ag '51 70w

BEGIN, MENAHEM. The revolt; story of the Irgun [tr. by Shmuel Katz; ed. by Ivan M. Greenberg]. 386p $4 Schuman

956.9 Irgun zvai leumi [51-35820]

"The commander of the Irgun during Israel's fight for independence presents his organization's side of the struggle, as opposed to versions told by the British and opposition groups of his own people. He describes his experiences in his native Russia, where he was jailed for his participation in the Zionist movement, tells how he went to Palestine and became a member of the Irgun, a group whose members believed that organized resistance was essential to Jewish freedom, explains and defends the Irgun's strategy, and relates the story of his underground existence as a revolutionary with a price on his head." Booklist

Booklist 48:62 O 15 '51

"In many ways, Mr. Begin's is a difficult story. For one thing there is his way of telling it. Even those used to Conrad's shuttling method of weaving a narrative will be confused by Mr. Begin. . . He impedes mental progress. Then there is his vocabulary—or the vocabulary of his translator. . . There is, besides, a welter of moralizing, a kind of theology of precarious logic which is almost casuistry, a kind of talmudic thing designed to persuade and remaining, somehow, unpersuasive. It is a thing, perhaps, which arises out of sensitivity to attack which has been made, and which is being anticipated." Francis Downing
Commonweal 55:196 N 30 '51 2650w

Reviewed by J. M. Scherr
Library J 76:1704 O 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Marie Syrkin
Nation 173:404 N 10 '51 600w

Reviewed by H. S. Crossman
New Statesman & Nation 42:411 O 13 '51 700w

Reviewed by Gerold Frank
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 O 14 '51 650w

BEGIN, MENAHEM—Continued
Reviewed by Edward Hodgkin
Spec 187:448 O 5 '51 500w

"Historically, there is very little that is new in this book, although the author's own account of some episodes, such as the Altalena incident, cannot fail to be of interest. There is a certain amount that is plainly tendentious. He claims, for example, in the face of all the evidence, that the attack on Deir Yassin was not accompanied by massacre. The book is long and formless, by no means planned with the skill which characterized its author's practical operations. Most people who read it are likely to experience a mixture of admiration and distaste, but it will serve as a useful source for some future student of the natural history of twentieth-century terrorism."
— + Times [London] Lit Sup p623 O 5 '51 550w

BEIM, JERROLD. Across the bridge; il. by Thomas Maley. 183p $2.50 Harcourt 51-9575

Jeff, who had to wear glasses and was oversensitive, was delighted when his family moved "across the bridge" to a factory town, because he thought there he might find friends. Watertown was not much better to Jeff, until he forgot his shyness. But when he thought up the playground idea his loneliness was over.

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w

"Excellent picture of family relationships and community spirit. Recommended." H. M. Brogan
+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 80w

"Done without sentiment, and gives the sort of clear development of Jeff's character which would be deeply appreciated by other boys up against the same problems. It would be a good story to urge on children in fourth or fifth grade in schools where the economic levels are very mixed, and where racial problems arise." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 15 '51 170w

"Problems of family finances and human relationships, skillfully woven into the sensible, realistic plot, help make this a worthwhile and a happy story for small boys." E. V. N.
+ N Y Times p30 Ap 29 '51 120w
Wis Lib Bul 47:91 Ap '51

BEIM, JERROLD. Swimming hole; pictures by Louis Darling. [45p] $2 Morrow 51-9337

Story of a group of boys who go swimming together and incidentally teach the new boy a lesson in tolerance. For beginning readers.

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51
Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

"Mr. Jerrold has a high batting average in writing easy-to-read, dramatically developed, real stories for the 4-8 group, and this is one of the best."
+ Kirkus 19:1 Ja 1 '51 200w

"The lesson is put over cleverly, amusingly, and without didacticism. Illustrations by Louis Darling are attractive. Book will be invaluable in 'tension areas.' Recommended for all libraries." Augusta Baker
+ Library J 76:338 F 15 '51 80w

"This book should be used with care with young children. There is grave danger in presenting problems of prejudice to children who have not yet met it in their own lives, the danger of creating an awareness of differences where it has not hitherto existed." E. L. B.
N Y Times p26 Mr 4 '51 180w

"Louis Darling's excellent drawings, printed in full color, accent the theme. If we must have books for younger children that present social problems, this is a good example."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:41 Ap 21 '51 150w
Wis Lib Bul 47:91 Ap '51

BEIM, JERROLD. Tim and the tool chest; il. by Tracy Sugarman. [48p] $2 Morrow 51-4409

Story of a little boy whose father taught him to use hammer, screw driver, and saw correctly, and then gave him a collection of tools for his very own.

Booklist 47:405 Jl 15 '51

"Some fine rules for very young carpenters and the good-looking illustrations by Tracy Sugarman make this a very attractive book indeed."
+ Kirkus 19:293 Je 15 '51 150w

"Though Tim learns incredibly fast, it all sounds very reasonable and sound. Recommended." Mary Strang
+ Library J 76:1232 Ag '51 50w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p32 N 11 '51 90w

Reviewed by Irene Smith
N Y Times p28 S 16 '51 100w

"The clever father will get a copy of this book and make sure that his wife reads it to the children. In time then every member of the family will know how to saw and drive nails and screws and mother will be able to put up her own towel rack and preserve shelves."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 N 11 '51 230w
Springf'd Republican p12C Ag 26 '51 60w
Wis Lib Bul 47:191 Jl '51

BEIM, MRS LORRAINE (LEVEY). Carol's side of the street; il. by Malman. 213p $2.50 Harcourt
51-13195

"Carol, the elder daughter in a delightful Jewish family, encounters some race prejudice when they move into a new neighborhood; but her parents' sensible handling of the situation helps her to make a real friend of the girl who would at first have nothing to do with her." Horn Bk

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

"Boys, girls, and their parents will enjoy this story of good family relations. The care of pets, differences in religious beliefs, and the defects of cliques are ably handled. Malman's not too realistic illustrations are refreshing and add to the attractiveness of the well-designed book." Betty Russell
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 D 16 '51 160w

"Lively boys and girls, a family of adopted kittens, a small white dog and the fun Carol has in planning and furnishing a room all her own add up to a story that is sure to be popular with the nine-to-twelve-year-olds. The handling of the race question is done with a restraint that makes it the more effective." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:326 S '51 110w
Kirkus 19:616 O 15 '51 160w

Reviewed by M. B. Snow
Library J 76:2122 D 15 '51 60w

"As in too many stories dealing with prejudices, the problem seems more important than the story. The book is attractive and readable-looking, with black and white illustrations." Phyllis Fenner
+ — N Y Times p48 N 18 '51 180w
Springf'd Republican p28A N 25 '51 110w

BEIM, MRS LORRAINE (LEVEY). Just plain Maggie; il. by Barbara Cooney. 185p $2.25 Harcourt 50-9617

A realistic story of Maggie's summer at a girls' camp in Maine. For girls of 9 to 12.

"It is a relief to find a camp story that does not record all sorts of impossible adventures but is full of interest because girls and their everyday activities at camp are interesting."

+ Horn Bk 26:470 N '50 70w

"The rather debatable inclusion of specialized family problems may detract from general identification interest, but the camp activities are related in a sprightly fashion."

Kirkus 18:559 S 15 '50 170w

"Recommended." Juanita Walker

+ Library J 75:1834 O 15 '50 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 11 '51 30w

"From the cover drawing by Barbara Cooney, showing pig-tailed Maggie paddling a canoe, to the last page the well-printed book is attractive in its honesty, naturalness and good humor." S. C. Gross

+ N Y Times p26 Ja 21 '51 150w

Wis Lib Bul 47:28 Ja '51

BEINECKE, EDWIN JOHN. Stevenson library; catalogue of a collection of writings by and about Robert Louis Stevenson formed by [the author] comp. by George L. McKay; 3v; v 1, Printed books, pamphlets, broadsides, etc. 387p il $10 Yale univ. lib, 1603a, Yale station, New Haven, Conn.

012 Stevenson, Robert Louis—Bibliography (51-5136)

"This book too modestly describes itself as a catalogue—books, pamphlets, and broadsides of Robert Louis Stevenson gathered by Edward J. Beinecke. This first volume will be followed by a second which will list collected and selected editions, periodical material, books about Stevenson, source works, and books from Stevenson's library. . . This volume enumerates and describes 736 units." Sat R of Lit

Reviewed by J. T. Winterich

Sat R of Lit 34:46 O 13 '51 140w

"Some earlier Stevenson collectors tended to esteem manuscripts of unpublished works more for their value as personal property, that could be worked up and improved by providing new printed material which they could ensure would be rare, than for their value to the study of Stevenson's writing. Mr. Beinecke is emphatically not one of these collectors: his collection and its Catalogue are such as to foster and serve a lively critical interest in Stevenson. For this, others than Yale will bear him gratitude."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p588 S 14 '51 1150w

BEIRNE, FRANCIS F. Amiable Baltimoreans. (Society in America series) 400p il map $5 Dutton

917.526 Baltimore—History. Baltimore—Social life and customs 51-7387

"A volume in the Society in America Series whose aim 'is to portray the individual characteristics, to underscore the idiosyncrasies, and to trace the growth of sectional societies with special emphasis on local traditions and on personalities who embodied them.'" (School & Society)

Booklist 48:122 D 1 '51

Reviewed by D. C. Allen

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 4 '51 360w

Reviewed by M. W. Stoer

Christian Science Monitor p11 N 21 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:476 Ag 15 '51 160w

"Baltimoreans are not conspicuous for reverential attitudes, but there are two varieties of illustrious men before whom they uncover and bow low. These two are a great doctor and a great cook. . . With these Mr. Beirne deals tenderly, adequately and wittily, which Baltimore will strongly approve. He is successful, too, in dealing with a type of which Baltimore has been prolific in the past, the grande dame ladies who would never be guilty of the feats of Betsy and Wallis, but who could 'deal destruction's devastating doom' just as effectively in their own way. Here the amiable Baltimorean becomes downright ribald, and what the genealogical societies will say about him one shudders to think; but the rest of the world will find it gorgeous." G. W. Johnson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 O 28 '51 800w

"Chapters in a social history that is the most comprehensive account of its subject yet printed. But social history, even when generously interlarded with anecdote, needs a graceful and witty style to carry its narrative burden with distinction. Such a style Francis Beirne has, regrettably, not given us—a lack the more striking in that he is the author of a widely-read humor column in The Evening Sun. Still, his tale is competently told and may be read with profit not only by Baltimoreans but even by residents of the Eastern Shore." C. C. Davis

+ — N Y Times p22 N 4 '51 500w

"Mr. Beirne, unfortunately, seems to have the idea that in writing about a city it's not chivalrous to ruffle the sensibilities of anybody who lives there. As a consequence, he hasn't really produced a commentary on Baltimore but has merely written a reverent and thoroughgoing treatise on its history, its topography, its social and economic structure, its monuments, and its oddities."

New Yorker 27:163 N 10 '51 140w

"Most readers, I believe, will find Mr. Beirne —a Virginian by the way—at his best when writing as a reporter rather than an historian. He takes us back to the colonial days, but he doesn't begin to sparkle until he escorts us to the dances and races, the galleries and the seafood houses of his own time. Frank Beirne is an 'eligible' who has met all the notables and oddities who've walked our streets for the past forty years. Thus he brings to this work the intimacy and fondness, always touched with kindly humor, of the Boswellian art." Holmes Alexander

+ Sat R of Lit 34:9 D 29 '51 550w

School & Society 74:271 O 27 '51 40w

BEISHLINE, JOHN ROBERT. Military management for national defense. 289p $5; to schools $3.75 Prentice-Hall

355 Military administration 50-11968

"Industrial management has already adopted some principles of military organization; now comes a book asserting that principles of scientific industrial management should be applied to military management for greater effectiveness and efficiency. Both business and military personnel will be interested in this logical presentation developed around the basic military functions of planning, organizing, command, and control." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 47:302 My 1 '51

"Especially in discussing planning, command and organization, his comments are pertinent and his conclusions authoritative. Less thorough are the discussions of control, productivity and incentives. . . In particular, industry's incentives for the executives, supervisors and workmen are worthy of study. Indeed, it is a serious defect of the Hoover Report that it underemphasizes this device for using the government personnel to improve government management. Despite this unbalance in treatment, the spectacle of a military officer writing a book devoted to applying the tools of industrial management to military use is heartening." J. M. Juran

+ — N Y Times p6 F 11 '51 240w

BELL, MRS CLARE. And then we'll be rich; il. by Dorothy Mackay. 284p $3.50 McGraw

818 Farm life 51-10378

Lively account of the author's struggle to raise three children while trying to make an Ozark apple orchard pay.

Booklist 47:265;307 Ap 1 '51; My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:179 My '51 40w

BELL, CLARE—Continued

"Mrs. Bell sees the poverty-stricken life of the Ozarks, which is her life too, with a fresh and understanding eye. . . [She] presents the Ozarkians, their manners, their philosophy of life, along with the rich lingo of the land that bred them, and makes them the living, lively background of her story of the apple and Clare." F. H. Bullock

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 My 6 '51 390w

"Clare Bell has concocted a dish with the satisfying flavor of Indian pudding, the tart spiciness of Grandmother's bread'n butter pickles and the solid goodness of red-flannel hash. I recommend this handy manual without reservation." H. S. Pearson

+ N Y Times p19 Jl 15 '51 320w

BELL, ENID. Practical wood-carving projects; il. by the author. 144p $1.75 World pub.

736 Wood carving

First published by Harper in 1940 (Book Review Digest 1941). There is no statement of the amount of revision in this reissue.

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by A. S. Plaut

Library J 76:1227 Ag '51 20w

BELL, ERIC TEMPLE (JOHN TAINE, pseud). Mathematics, queen and servant of science. 437p $5 McGraw

510.9 Mathematics 51-9241

This book contains a revision and amplification of two earlier works: The Queen of the Sciences (1931), and The Handmaiden of the Sciences (Book Review Digest 1937).

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

Kirkus 18:742 D 15 '50 130w

"The author has succeeded very well in relating mathematics to the other sciences. Moreover, he has explained such abstruse mathematical concepts as matrices so that they can be grasped by non-mathematical minds. The book will not suit those readers who must be tricked into study by claims that mathematics is extremely simple; but it should be very satisfactory to those who prefer solider reading." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 140w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:57 Jl '51

"Both professional and amateur devotees of the oldest of the sciences will esteem this book highly." Philip Wiener

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 8 '51 700w

San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 18 '51 120w

BELL, ERIC TEMPLE (JOHN TAINE, pseud). Seeds of life; decorations by Ric Binkley. 255p $2.75 Fantasy press

51-5874

Science-fiction.

Reviewed by Fritz Leiber

Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ag 19 '51 150w

Kirkus 19:251 My 15 '51 90w

" 'Seeds of Life' must have seemed astoundingly good in 1931 [when first copyrighted]; even today it's still worth reading, both for its speculation on the theme of mutation-through-radiation and for its quite unusual handling of the standard science fiction figure of The Superman, whose gradual disintegration comes very close to tragedy in the Aristotelian sense." H. H. Holmes

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 S 16 '51 150w

"The science seems somewhat doubtful: the same cause produces diverse effects, and arachnoids the size of Mr. Taine's pets would hardly be viable. But more important is the lack of a single clear narrative line. 'Seeds of Life' appeals only to the nerves." Basil Davenport

N Y Times p33 O 7 '51 150w

"The whole thing lacks the air of probability that distinguishes good science fiction from plain fantasy. Taine has written a number of fine books, but 'Seeds of Life' is not one of his best." Don Fabun

San Francisco Chronicle p17 S 2 '51 130w

BELL, MRS LOUISE PRICE. Parties on a budget. 255p $2.95 Prentice-Hall

793 Entertaining 51-7389

A guide to successful party-giving. Parties are grouped under the following headings: adult parties; bridal showers; stork showers; anniversaries; children's parties; game section.

Booklist 48:156 Ja 1 '52

"Highly stimulating book." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:2007 D 1 '51 40w

"The would-be perfect host and hostess will find it a simple matter to plan parties certain to please the fancy of even the most lackadaisical party goer if this indispensable party guidebook is kept available for ready reference. It contains everything the party planner will need to know." B. F. K.

+ Springf'd Republican p30A D 2 '51 90w

BELL, MARGARET ELIZABETH. Ride out the storm. 256p $2.50 Morrow

51-9824

A story of boarding school life for grades seven to nine. The heroine is thirteen-year-old Lisbeth Craig who does not want to leave her beloved Alaskan home for a fashionable California girls' school. But she is equal to the very difficult experiences she has to meet, including a haughty ill-principled roommate.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51

"Fine new story for older girls." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Mr 25 '51 200w

"A pleasant if not highly original present-day story for girls of Lisbeth's own age." S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:186 My '51 90w

"Tops for a loyal boarding school story audience."

+ Kirkus 19:64 F 1 '51 150w

"Good characterization, family relationships, values. Enriched by the author's ability to describe the beauties of nature without being dull, and with homey, intimate details of life in a girls' school. Recommended." M. K. Walraven

+ Library J 76:714 Ap 15 '51 70w

"Such a tense and deeply spiritual experience as Lisbeth's will find a parallel in the lives of many schoolgirls of twelve and thirteen who may not meet quite such dramatic changes or such heartless girls as she did. They will appreciate its beauty and Lisbeth's character, rooted in her happy family and unusual home." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 My 13 '51 300w

"The story is slight, but Lisbeth makes an appealing young heroine and girls who enjoy books about school life will find this one interesting." E. G.

+ N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '51 160w

"Mrs. Bell gives us enough of Lisbeth's background, her people, her love of the northern home, her innate honesty and courage to make the impact of the experience strong and dramatic. She has drawn a fine character in Lisbeth Craig."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:55 My 12 '51 180w

Springf'd Republican p12C Ap 22 '51 130w

Wis Lib Bul 47:153 Je '51

BELL, SAM HANNA. December bride. 256p $3 Dutton

51-11686

Tale of farm people in northern Ireland, just before the first World war. The central character is Sarah Gomartin whose romances with two brothers, finally end in marriage to one of them, only because she wants to protect her daughter.

"There is no denying that Mr. Bell writes ably; that he has a simplicity and directness of style which are highly commendable; that his avoidance of unnecessary dialect is happy. 'December Bride,' however, while a readable and ably done novel, fails to rise above the average regional novel of its kind." August Derleth
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 12 '51 400w

Kirkus 19:279 Je 1 '51 170w

"Recommended." M. H. Zipprich
+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 20w

Reviewed by Richard Harrity
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 12 '51 360w

"County Down man Sam Hanna Bell has already written enough short stories to fill a first book. His fine first novel carries its little world of peasant cottagers along with the fatalistic certainty of a folk tale, brightening their scene with that gift for earthy simile which readers have come to expect in Irish writers from Dingle Bay to Belfast Lough." Robert Lowry
+ N Y Times p5 Ag 12 '51 370w

"Mr. Bell's turn-of-the-century Ulsterfolk are richly realized characters, his development of psychological atmosphere is masterly, and there is a welcome new poetry to his cycle of Irish farm life as lived to the strict rhythm of the Northern seasons." A. F. Wolfe
+ Sat R of Lit 34:20 S 1 '51 240w

Times [London] Lit Sup p817 D 21 '51 70w

BELLAIRS, GEORGE. Dead march for Penelope Blow. 255p $2.50 Macmillan 51-8140

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:501 S 1 '51 60w

Reviewed by James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 N 4 '51 170w

"Complex, humorous, human and sharply observed, this is probably Bellairs' best novel to date." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p24 N 11 '51 130w

"Mr. Bellairs has a weakness for creating somewhat too picturesque characters, but his plot is sound and his book, on the whole, belongs in the upper rank."
+ New Yorker 27:191 N 17 '51 130w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 D 2 '51 50w

"Detection plodding but effective; characters authentic despite whimsies; humorous touches abundant and agreeable." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:76 N 17 '51 30w

BELLAIRS, GEORGE. Death brings in the New Year [Eng title: Case of the headless Jesuit]. 288p $2.50 Macmillan 51-11315

Detective story.

Booklist 48:14 S 1 '51

"It all adds up to more color than one usually finds in the Inspector Littlejohn mysteries, but he pursues the case at his same leisurely pace. And the murder in the church and two more which follow are solved with a disappointing obviousness."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ag 26 '51 80w

"Addicts of British detection will find this formless; other readers may not get far enough to notice." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p19 Jl 22 '51 40w

"Narration cheerful; humor and characterization of village types painfully obvious." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Je 24 '51 50w

"Packed alluringly with Dickensian constables, vicars, antiquarians, and blackguards; nice picture of history and decay of manorial life. Live pace, sensible detection." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:45 Jl 21 '51 60w

BELLAMANN, KATHERINE (JONES) (MRS HENRY BELLAMANN). The Hayvens of Demaret. 275p $3 Simon & Schuster
51-3177

Jeffrey and Noel Hayven were twins and devoted to each other. But Jeffrey was the one who stayed at home and managed the family plantations, while Noel went soldiering. When Noel returned from Mexico in 1847 his brother's beautiful New Orleans-bred wife fell in love with him. Despite the affinity of the two brothers the difficult situation was only cured by the suicide of Laure Hayven.

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51

"Easy reading—though unimportant."
Kirkus 19:138 Mr 1 '51 180w

"The course of Katherine Bellamann's novel is so precisely foreshadowed and so efficiently executed that it is robbed of emotional impact. Its plantation atmosphere is interesting, but the narrative does not create illusion."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 My 27 '51 120w

"Paper-thin characters and total reliance upon stilted expression and situation make this machine-made novel something less than satisfactory. Mrs. Bellamann sets her own level as early as page four, when a young slave greets his master in minstrel-show dialect. Most of the atmospheric claptrap is similarly embarrassing." Gertrude Buckman
— N Y Times p11 Jl 8 '51 300w

"A great many readers are going to love the Hayvens. Artificial coloring and flavoring is used extensively in today's baking and none except the fussy few who may find it indigestible have cause to complain." J. L.
Sat R of Lit 34:39 Je 23 '51 370w

BELLAMY, FRANCIS RUFUS. Private life of George Washington. 409p $5 Crowell
B or 92 Washington, George 51-13923

A one-volume biography which attempts to portray the real man, his character, the obstacles of personality and position he had to overcome, and his achievements, private as well as public.

Booklist 48:41; 100 O 1 '51; N 15 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p27 N '51

"An excellent one volume biography, written with neither an attempt to gloss over the facts nor debunk."
+ Kirkus 19:518 S 1 '51 160w

"In spite of its title, this is not another example of the W. E. Woodward type of 'debunking' Washington biography. It does lay particular stress on Washington's affection for Sally Fairfax, wife of George William Fairfax, and his troubles with his difficult and often exasperating mother, Mary Ball. . . Recommended." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:1699 O 15 '51 80w

"Were this book not written in such a careless and undignified prose, and so full of unnecessary errors, one might have recommended it to the public as the best introductory life of George Washington. A careful editing could have produced a fine study." Carl Bridenbaugh
N Y Times p16 N 18 '51 310w

BELOT, RAYMOND DE. Struggle for the Mediterranean, 1939-1945; tr. by James A. Field, jr. 287p maps $4 Princeton univ. press
940.545 World war, 1939-1945—Naval operations. World war, 1939-1945—Aerial operations. World war, 1939-1945—Mediterranean Sea 51-12459

"Picture of the Mediterranean theatre of operations based on extensive documentary evidence, both axis and allied, and written by

BELOT, RAYMOND DE—Continued
an expert who has made a lifetime study of Mediterranean strategy. Admiral de Belot's account reviews all the strategic moves to preserve communications lines, contain the enemy in the central Mediterranean and finally effect the invasion of Europe." Current Hist

Reviewed by F. L. Oliver
Christian Science Monitor p7 D 31 '51 460w

"The author of this book, a French rear admiral of superior experience and clear-cut thought, gives not only the story but also a critical evaluation of the fight for control of the Mediterranean Sea and the meaning of the struggle in the framework of power politics." Max Fischer
+ Commonweal 54:555 S 14 '51 550w
+ Current Hist 21:227 O '51 60w

BEMIS, SAMUEL FLAGG. United States as a world power; a diplomatic history, 1900-1950. 491p maps $5 Holt
327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations 50-10460

"A revised adaptation of Professor Bemis' Diplomatic History of the United States, Vol. III [rev ed 1950]. This volume offers both the general reader and the student an immediate background to the present international relations of the United States. Professor Bemis begins by giving the basic principles of American foreign policy as shaped during the first hundred years of our history as a nation. He covers United States foreign relations from our emergence as a world power in 1898 to the cold war, the European Recovery Program and the North Atlantic Treaty." (Current Hist) The author's Diplomatic History of the United States was first published in 1936 (Book Review Digest 1936).

Booklist 47:221 F 15 '51

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 31 '50 150w

"Within the limits he sets himself Mr. Bemis has made an admirable study of American diplomacy in the 20th century. These limits, however, illustrate rather pointedly Toynbee's thesis that one cannot write an intelligible history of a single nation." H. J. S.
+ — Christian Science Monitor p11 Ja 18 '51 550w
Current Hist 20:40 Ja '51 80w
Foreign Affairs 29:495 Ap '51 30w

"It is a scholarly, fact-packed, wide sweeping, moderately embittered book." P. R. L.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 F 3 '51 360w

BENADUM, CLARENCE EDWARD. Bates House. 346p $3 Greenberg
51-9576

A historical novel of Civil war days. The principals are a young Southern girl, and a Northern lawyer.

"'Bates House' is vivid with battle scenes and incidents in army prisons. Clarence Benadum, an attorney, has a knack for realistic, salty dialog and bold use of suspense. At times his narrative art lags a bit behind his lavishness with incidents and details, but he has contrived to make an exciting yarn of material which is always interesting." Warren Abbott
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 8 '51 240w

"The author is a veteran attorney, and his venture into fiction is thorough and extensively documented from speeches, editorials and other sources. 'Bates House' is for readers who enjoy a florid, forensic delivery."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 100w

"This is a rare piece of historical fiction in that it is an unhappy book in every respect. Its plot and characters were unhappily conceived and unhappily executed. Its time, that of the Civil War, is the most unhappy in our history. Even its ending is unhappy—for its principals as well as for its readers. The author, an Indiana attorney, has not made a promising start in his new career." J. M. Grant
— Sat R of Lit 34:30 Mr 17 '51 230w

BENDER, JAMES FREDERICK. Technique of executive leadership. 291p $3.50 McGraw 658.3124 Executive ability. Leadership
50-10320

"Author is founder and director of the National Institute for Human Relations. This is a self-help manual, with 21 quizzes for self-examination, and many checklists to use for inspiration and self-measurement. Chapters on how to analyze yourself, streamline your mind, be a pleasant boss, grow as a speaker, improve your reading habits, master the interview, conduct conferences, be a good psychologist, get the most out of your physique, stay tuned to modern leadership." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by L. B. Pope
Chem Eng 58:249 Ap '51 1000w

"Inspirational and helpful." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 75:2004 N 15 '50 80w
San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 28 '51 '50

BENDICK, MRS JEANNE. All around you; a first look at the world; il. [by the author] foreword by Glenn O. Blough. (Whittlesey house publication) 48p $2 McGraw 500 Science—Juvenile literature 51-10471

Colored illustrations and simple text giving information on the physical world and the plants and animals living in it. For children under nine.

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51
Bookmark 10:185 My '51
Christian Science Monitor p11 Jl 28 '51 90w

"An important addition to the home and elementary school natural science library and for second and third year readers."
+ Kirkus 19:208 Ap 15 '51 180w

Reviewed by E. T. Dobbins
Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 8 '51 150w

"The material is carefully organized, simply phrased, well-illustrated and presented with an understanding of a child's interests and queries. It should make youngsters realize that the universe is exciting and so, like all good informational books, lead them on to further investigation of these matters." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p22 My 27 '51 120w

"It is a book that will answer many half-formed questions that occur to little children as they come into contact with heat and cold, sun and rain, birds and animals and insects, plants and trees and flowers. The drawings are attractive, especially the 'double' title page."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:50 My 12 '51 70w

BENEDICT, AGNES ELIZABETH, and FRANKLIN, ADELE. Your best friends are your children; a guide to enjoying parenthood. 317p $3 Appleton
649.1 Parent and child. Children—Management 51-2879

Describes everyday situations between children and parents, and outlines ways of meeting them, and shows how "the ideal of friendship" between parent and child can be realized. Suggested reading list. Index.

Booklist 47:304 My 1 '51

"Clear and helpful volume."
+ Bookmark 10:179 My '51 30w

"In the midst of so much controversy and anxiety over child training this book shows both an understanding of the recent contributions of research and experimentation and an appreciation of the adult's position. The authors—who collaborated previously on 'The Happy Home'—write from a wealth of first-hand experience with children and parents and their conclusions and suggestions are clear and helpful." M. R. Brown

+ N Y Times p23 Je 17 '51 320w

"The book shows a generally good perspective on the complexity of parenthood today, particularly as it applies to urban, middle-class living. In easy, comfortable language, it deals with children's needs in school and at home, in sharing family planning experiences, and in meeting emergencies and troubles. It tries to elucidate to parents almost every aspect of experience which children ordinarily have as they grow up." Evelyn Adlerblum
+ Survey 87:441 O '51 350w
Wis Lib Bul 47:184 Jl '51

BENEDICT, REGINALD RALPH. Introduction to industrial electronics. 436p il $6.35; to schools $4.75 Prentice-Hall
621.38 Electronics 51-9484

"A compact textbook designed specially for engineering students who are not preparing to specialize in electronics. It is written in engineering terminology and from the engineer's viewpoint, but the mathematics is simple. Discussions of basic principles and descriptions of typical applications share the space about equally. Lists of references of fair length are appended to most of the chapters." N Y New Tech Bks

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 80w

"Graduate engineers whose college work did not include electronics should find the book a more satisfactory survey of the subject than the typical book written for lay readers."
N Y New Tech Bks 36:24 Mr '51

BENET, WILLIAM ROSE. Spirit of the scene. 101p $3 Knopf 811 51-10001

A last volume of poems by the late William Rose Benet. "The collection ranges freely from celebrations of fellow-poets and beloved ancestors to disturbed speculations on man and his fate; from the most casual and genial of light verse to the bitterest indictments of the wrongs Benét saw and hated in the world around him. And, above all, illuminating his work, is a profound religious conviction, an affirmation of his faith in God and man." (N Y Times)

Booklist 47:290 Ap 15 '51
Bookmark 10:179 My '51 30w

"It is probably unfortunate that his keenness of thought is sometimes swaddled in words like 'horripilate,' 'dearling,' 'bassarid,' 'undine,' and 'pantharine,' which are more remote from human speech than the neologisms of Joyce or Cummings. But all in all, this final volume gives us the optimistic message of a warm, indignant, and courageous spirit." J. F. Nims
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ap 15 '51 220w
Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51

"Vigorous, controlled, witty, these poems will please a large audience."
+ Kirkus 19:47 Ja 15 '51 110w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:1029 Je 15 '51 70w

"There is a considerable variety of lyrics in this last collection of new poems; not all are seriously written, nor were the lighter verses intended to be anything but gay. . . Something of the broad learning, the widely spread interest in totally different things (which were a part of Benét's nineteenth century heritage) and his personal charm enter these lines. . . Perhaps the least successful poems in the book are the political poems, for lyrical verse and politics very seldom mix. . . More than all else, Benét was a lyric poet and there are at least four lyrics in this book which in all likelihood will be remembered when much of the poetry published this year will be forgotten." Horace Gregory
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Mr 18 '51 900w

Reviewed by Milton Crane
+ N Y Times p17 Ap 8 '51 300w

Reviewed by David McCord
Sat R of Lit 34:22 Jl 21 '51 1400w
Springf'd Republican p5D Je 3 '51 160w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:243 S '51 230w

BENJAMIN, NORA (GOTTHEIL) (MRS LAWRENCE SCHLESINGER KUBIE). Remember the Valley. 216p $2.50 Harper
51-13578

A novel for older girls. It traces the emotional development of a sixteen-year-old girl thru the upset of her mother's divorce and remarriage, and a love affair of her own, to a more adult view of both affairs.

Booklist 48:69 O 15 '51
Kirkus 19:353 Jl 15 '51 190w

"Recommended." C. A. Hulton
+ Library J 77:69 Ja 1 '52 130w

"The most interesting feature of this absorbing story is the realistic development of a 16-year-old girl. . . The descriptions of Nevada ranch life are impressive and add to the pleasure of the reader." F. N. Chrystie
+ N Y Times p8 N 11 '51 150w
Sat R of Lit 34:62 N 10 '51 160w

BENNETT, KEM. Fabulous wink [Eng title: The wink]. 244p $3 Pelligrini & Cudahy
51-12417

"The Reverend William Anker is on holiday at a seaside village in Normandy and is pursued at that place by Mrs. Biddlesome Hackett: 'any friend of God's' she explains, 'is a friend of mine.' These two are the only witnesses of a miracle performed by a minor Saint. He winks at them. The visitors, albeit Protestant, are convinced of the genuineness of this unorthodox revelation and so are the inhabitants of the village . . . but the local Bishop, unwilling to believe a Saint guilty of such levity, proclaims the wink to have been the work of the Devil. The conflict between these two parties, and the intrigues that spring from it, provide the plot." New Statesman & Nation

Booklist 48:22; 49 S 15 '51; O 1 '51

"For something brightly, genuinely different in amusement, you'll be most assuredly on the right track when you start reading 'The Fabulous Wink.' " J. M. Flynn
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 14 '51 270w
Kirkus 19:364 Jl 15 '51 100w

"An utterly fantastic and fabulous novel with which this young English novelist is introduced to America. Highly recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 130w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel
Manchester Guardian p4 My 11 '51 30w

"The intention of the book is not satirical, Mr. Bennett evidently being less interested in poking fun than in pulling it out. What he extracts from this situation is gay but not very fresh." Michael Ramsbotham
New Statesman & Nation 41:601 My 26 '51 180w

"This is not a novel of conversion. It is a lightly humorous, slightly fantastic examination of faith in general, with soft little digs at materialism as a way of life, with comical asides about ritual and religious dogma. Though there are edges to the story, and a few sharp points, no one of any belief is likely to take strong offense, and certain unconfined readers will be delighted." B. V. Winebaum
N Y Times p26 S 23 '51 200w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 O 4 '51 650w

BENNETT, KEM—Continued
"This is handled by Mr. Bennett with such tact and good humour that it might have been done by the late George Birmingham had he been as much at home with French peasants as he was with Irish ones." Barbara Worsley-Gough
+ Spec 185:664 My 18 '51 200w

BENNETT, MRS MILDRED R. World of Willa Cather. 226p il $3.50 Dodd
B or 92 Cather, Willa Sibert. Red Cloud, Nebraska 51-9633

Describes the world in which Willa Cather grew up and the use which she made of her world and the people in it in her writings. The author, a former teacher, is the wife of a physician in Red Cloud, Nebraska. She has interviewed as many people as possible who knew Miss Cather; has included excerpts from her writings; and illustrated the book with many photographs and snapshots. No index.

Booklist 47:252 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:129 Mr '51 40w

Reviewed by Harry Hansen
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 F 25 '51 850w

Reviewed by Francis Sweeney
Commonweal 54:18 Ap 13 '51 360w

"Mrs. Bennett's book will henceforth be indispensable for every one interested in Willa Cather and her work. She has brought together a mass of information nowhere else available—much of it information which might have been lost forever with the deaths of the neighbors whose memories supplied it. . . It is a fascinating record of a woman of genius. But it is not a well planned book. . . Startling bits of information are mentioned in passing, and never developed at all. . . The book even lacks an index, though because of its disjointedness an index is essential if many dispersed items are to be relocated quickly. But all its defects must be forgiven in light of its contributions to our understanding of Willa Cather." Delancey Ferguson
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 F 25 '51 750w

Reviewed by Charles Poore
N Y Times p4 Mr 4 '51 500w

"Mrs. Bennett . . . has done an excellent job of research, as far as the physical aspects of the town and its pioneering spirit are concerned. In dealing with its inhabitants, however, she rides roughshod over the novelist's own statement that all her characters were 'composites of three or four persons,' and ascribes, very arbitrarily indeed, a role in one or another of the novels to practically everyone Miss Cather so much as nodded to in passing."
New Yorker 27:121 Mr 10 '51 130w

"Just as the material is composed of small-town anecdotes and family reminiscences, its narration has the chatty, irrelevant, repetitious, and delightfully unsyntactical flavor of Ladies-Aid conversation. . . The book as a whole will be of questionable value to critics and scholars. There are few clues to the credibility of factual statements and no evaluation of material. The author's persistent identification of fictional characters and locales with actual persons and places is seldom convincing. . . However, even with all its limitations, 'The World of Willa Cather' is strangely appealing. The large collection of photographs so wisely included is a happy surprise." J. R. Shively
Sat R of Lit 34:18 Mr 17 '51 600w

"A resident of Red Cloud has collected an abundance of fresh material about Miss Cather, her family and friends, and told it with human warmth." Victor Prahl
+ Springf'd Republican p5D Mr 25 '51 480w

"A slender but an honest volume, this work is almost the sole thing in print not by Willa Cather herself which has anything revealing to say about her."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:125 Je '51 260w
Wis Lib Bul 47:164 Je '51

Reviewed by J. W. Beach
Yale R n s 40:749 summer '51 80w

BENNETT, WALLACE FOSTER. Faith and freedom; the pillars of American democracy 154p $2.50 Scribner
323.4 Liberty. U.S.—Politics and government 50-10097

An examination of the American people's conception of liberty and equality as it was set forth by the founding fathers and exemplified in subsequent history. The author also considers what forces in modern life and thinking are endangering these ideals.

Reviewed by Clarence Seidenspinner
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ja 21 '51 230w

"There is a recognizable rightness in this discussion of America's heritage of faith and freedom, written by the chairman of the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers and its former president. . . But while Mr. Bennett quite rightly summons us to look back upon our history, to restudy our heritage, and to support in principle and practice the first government in the world to accept as a premise that 'all men are created equal,' he too often weakens his fine arguments with obvious partisanship." Neil Martin
+ — Christian Science Monitor p12 D 23 '50 330w

BENSON, BENJAMIN. Alibi at dusk. 220p $2.50 Mill 51-9000

Detective story.

"Sparkling, if somewhat lacquered, performance of skilfully tough detecting in briskly fashioned, smartly grooved murder puzzle." Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 F 18 '51 70w
Kirkus 18:667 N 1 '50 60w

"Interesting background and a clever plot recommend what is otherwise a rather routine story."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 F 11 '51 170w
N Y Times p29 Mr 4 '51 130w

Reviewed by Kathleen Sproul
Sat R of Lit 34:44 Mr 17 '51 50w

"You may find yourself a jump or two ahead of Paris in solving the mystery, but keep in mind that the author has not made him one of these wonder-boy private eyes but rather a state detective who is doing his job in better than average fashion." D. F. M.
Springf'd Republican p10C Ja 21 '51 180w

BENSON, BENJAMIN. Beware the pale horse. 215p $2.50 Mill 51-12456

Detective story.

Bookmark 11:60 D '51

"State Police Inspector Wade Paris, who made promising debut in 'Alibi at Dusk' earlier this year, makes strong bid for permanent niche in detective fiction in thoroly absorbing, realistic, swiftly paced undoing of crafty murderer." Drexel Drake
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 O 14 '51 100w

"Good deduction though the motivization and characterization are not wholly convincing."
Kirkus 19:368 Jl 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p31 O 7 '51 90w

"Good though this is, one may hope that Benson will allow himself a little more wordage in his next book to make his characterizations of the investigated as satisfactory as those of the investigators; as is, the police are more interesting than the story itself." Anthony Boucher
+ — N Y Times p21 S 23 '51 130w

"Detection is logical, manner of story-telling is pleasantly hard and definite, and Paris is becoming one of our better police sleuths." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 S 30 '51 60w

Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 100w

BENSON, THEODORA. Man from the tunnel, and other stories. 271p $3 Appleton [51-16235]

Collection of short stories. "Among the nineteen items in the book are an old Javanese legend with a sardonically modern twist, a not especially humorous piece featuring Shakespeare, a story dealing with the appearance of Jack the Ripper in New York, and an overlong account of the doings of pseudo-intellectuals in present-day London." (New Yorker)

Booklist 48:31 S 15 '51

"Miss Benson writes intelligently, with sympathy and penetrating understanding, unmarred by sentimentality. Her stories are subtle, whether she explores character or writes an adventure story." August Derleth

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 S 2 '51 200w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Jenkins
Manchester Guardian p4 Mr 31 '50 90w

Reviewed by Robert Payne
New Repub 125:20 D 3 '51 350w

Reviewed by Louis Simpson
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 S 2 '51 350w

"I am convinced that good short-story writers are born and not made. Miss Benson, the daughter of one of Lincoln's most gifted biographers, Lord Charnwood, is to the craft born and reveals herself an expert in this book." H. F. West

+ N Y Times p5 S 2 '51 330w

"Short stories notable chiefly for the absence of any material that could be considered even remotely routine... Miss Benson is strongly attached to the Orient, to judge by a group of stories that point out, with rueful elegance, that it's a whale of a confusing place for an Occidental to find himself. When she turns her hand to a straight horror story and omits the frills—as in 'A Nice Fright,' for example—she does an extremely competent job."

+ New Yorker 27:69 S 1 '51 130w

"Wit, imagination and originality—Miss Benson most assuredly possesses all three, but the discipline and skill to bring each into play appropriately is missing. It is a lack which has turned a dozen or so good short stories into a dozen or so hopeless conglomerations of excellent writing and imprudent, though often well done, trivia." J. D. L.

— + San Francisco Chronicle p26 O 28 '51 440w

"One of the stories in this expert collection contains a character who 'knew twenty-seven languages and dialects and had very little to say in any of them.' Miss Benson herself knows a variety of languages—humor, fantasy, legend, terror, adventure, drama. In most of them she says something pointed and arresting." Walter Havighurst

+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 S 29 '51 400w

"Miss Theodora Benson's stories are told in a straightforward manner... Miss Benson has plenty of facility—possibly, in a way, too much facility—but she does not always succeed in conveying a sense of strongly felt emotion, even when this conviction is required by the situation she has posed."

Times [London] Lit Sup p225 Ap 14 '50 90w

BENTLEY, ELIZABETH. Out of bondage; the story of Elizabeth Bentley. 311p $3.50 Devin-Adair

329.8 Communism—U.S. Spies. Communist party of America 51-12873

Describes the steps by which an American college girl entered the Communist party, took a part in the secret underground for ten years, and later collaborated with the Federal bureau of investigation after she left the party.

"In spite of the schoolgirlish tone and a compositional device which breeds mistrust—half the book is in dialogue, and it is inconceivable that Miss Bentley can have remembered, word for word, hundreds of conversations ranging from 1934 onward—Out of Bondage is an interesting and instructive picture of the life of a Communist secret agent and of the workings of the Communist underground in the United States." C. J. Rolo

+ — Atlantic 188:91 N '51 600w

Booklist 48:79 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Willard Edwards
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 O 14 '51 470w

Reviewed by R. E. Donlon
Christian Science Monitor p11 O 4 '51 220w

"This is a book written in the prose of True Confessions, with the Communist Party in the role of the fascinating villain who receives his comeuppance after many a titillating scene and passage with the pretty heroine. It is a book that exudes a smell of phoniness from its title page, which does not tell you who did the actual writing, to its macabre conclusion." Joseph Alsop

— Commonweal 55:120 N 9 '51 2050w

Kirkus 19:380 Jl 15 '51 190w

New Repub 125:21 N 26 '51 110w

"This is an illuminating book. Certainly it makes vivid the despair and spiritual loneliness which drove so many of the 'young professionals' of the depression years into Communism and the far worse degradations which drove them forth again." H. W. Baehr

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 23 '51 1300w

"Miss Bentley has recounted her adventures so frequently and made her accusations so lavishly that there apparently is not a great deal more for her to say. Certainly this book, which is the personal story of her life from her secret entrance into the Communist party to the public revelation that she was working as an informant with the F.B.I., does not tell much of real importance that is new. Whether one likes what Miss Bentley has to say—and whether one believes it—she cannot be ignored." John Oakes

N Y Times p6 S 23 '51 950w

New Yorker 27:150 O 20 '51 220w

"On the whole, the author tells her story in a temperate, matter of fact tone. . . Regardless of the skepticism with which one can approach explanations for betrayal, Miss Bentley's story illustrates the need for working for civil rights and social legislation as a powerful weapon against Communism, and preventing Communists from taking over movements and causes working to strengthen democracy and equal opportunity." I. B.

San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 25 '51 180w

Reviewed by Oliver Pilat
Sat R of Lit 34:58 D 1 '51 600w

BENTLEY, ERIC RUSSELL, ed. The play; a critical anthology. 774p $3.65; to schools $2.75 Prentice-Hall

808.82 Dramas—Collections 51-9662

"Nine plays ancient and modern . . . accompanied by notes intended to call the attention of the reader to one feature after another of dramatic art. It ends with some interesting criticisms [by] English and American critics of 'The Death of a Salesman,' by Arthur Miller." (School & Society) Contents: Cyrano de Bergerac, by Edmond Rostand; The importance of being earnest, by Oscar Wilde; The miser, by Molière; Twelfth night, by William Shakespeare; Othello, by William Shakespeare; Antigone, by Sophocles; Ghosts, by Henrik Ibsen; The ghost sonata, by August Strindberg; Death of a salesman, by Arthur Miller. Appendix.

Booklist 47:325 My 15 '51

BENTLEY, E. R.—Continued

"Of value to the university student and for large reference libraries." George Freedley
Library J 76:706 Ap 15 '51 70w

"What makes this an especially commendable anthology is the fact that Mr. Bentley, who is one of our most readable and constructive drama critics, has written stimulating introductions to the plays which should whet the appetite of the uninitiate for more playreading."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 My 19 '51 250w
School & Society 73:127 F 24 '51 60w

"Instead of the usual textbook commentary at the end of each play, Mr. Bentley modestly suggests points of approach which have interested him personally. While one may question the relative importance of discussing the use of comic devices in Molière's 'The Miser,' it is none the less the kind of critical exercise which should make for better readers and listeners. And generally Mr. Bentley succeeds in bringing fresh insights." Nona Balakian
Theatre Arts 35:4 Ap '51 650w

BENTLEY, NICOLAS. Floating Dutchman. 256p $2.50 Duell 51-9610

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51
Kirkus 19:167 Mr 15 '51 60w

Reviewed by Ralph Partridge
New Statesman & Nation 40:682 D 30 '50 650w

"Mr. Bentley is a newcomer, but he spins out this light thriller with practiced skill."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 17 '51 120w

Reviewed by K. S. Cole
N Y Times p12 Je 17 '51 110w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p13 My 27 '51 50w

"Almost Grade-A-plus." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Jl 7 '51 50w

"Mr. Nicolas Bentley's new thriller is not quite up to his standard, but I could not put that down either." Barbara Worsley-Gough
+ — Spec 184:710 D 15 '50 50w

BENTLEY, PHYLLIS ELEANOR. Quorum. 309p $3 Macmillan
51-9157

"Eight people attend the second meeting of the Ashworth Textile Pageant Committee, seven members and a representative of the local Youth Groups. . . The eight people at the meeting mainly discuss where the pageant is to be held, but it is enough—enough to bring to light things about the personalities of some of them that decide one or two of the others on matters of urgent importance to them." Manchester Guardian

---

Booklist 47:149; 188 D 15 '50; Ja 15 '51
Bookmark 10:109 F '51 60w

"This is a beautifully disciplined piece of writing, even the business minutes show the richness of which English prose is capable. There is humor and wry comment without bitterness about the new way of things in England today, with its detractors and defenders both heard from. And most of all there is a sense of human values (which does not, true, rise above humanism) which is most enheartening." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 172:470 Mr '51 300w

"If you want to read a sound, well written novel, which faces up to modern life, and yet leaves you with a good taste in your mouth, because the author quite unsentimentally loves humanity, and believes human beings worth bothering about, then 'Quorum' is your book." Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ja 28 '51 450w

"While in this as in her previous books, [the characters] are 'true to life' as regards appearance, speech, circumstances, and ideas, the reader accepts the report and quickly forgets them. . . Paradoxical as it may sound they are too 'realistic' to be convincing. On the whole, however, the book achieves its excellent purpose and will no doubt be widely and appreciatively read." Pearl Strachan
+ — Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 25 '51 450w
Kirkus 18:681 N 15 '50 190w

"A well-written regional novel of northeast England." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 75:2074 D 1 '50 130w

Reviewed by Paul Bloomfield
Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 21 '50 450w

"The book has no real shape: it ploughs through the various life histories of the Ashford Textile Pageant Committee until they are all accounted for, and then solves their problems with a breath-taking disregard for probability or the finer artistic niceties. Nevertheless, it would be a mistake to treat Quorum as mere hack-work. For all her faults, Miss Bentley has the quality of a born story-teller." Frank Hauser
+ — New Statesman & Nation 40:236 Ag 26 '50 200w

"Another excellent Phyllis Bentley novel of the textile area of the West Riding. Interesting from start to finish, it offers the bonus value of a timely report on how life under the Labor Government affects various classes and kinds of people in an English industrial city." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ja 21 '51 800w

"Skillfully and methodically, Miss Bentley takes us into the homes and hearts of her committee members. . . The author's perception gives her story an advantage in depth. On the surface she possesses a fluent and deceptively straightforward style, admirably adapted to the people and places she describes. Yet, if you look a little closer at her simple sentences, you will note how adept she is at pinning down the anguish hidden in committee minutes or the torment lurking behind a factory bench. It is only when the reader has finished her story that he realizes how sharply she has prodded her genteel finger into the sore places of middle-class life. 'Quorum' is Phyllis Bently's best book in years." John Barkham
+ N Y Times p5 Ja 21 '51 310w
New Yorker 26:94 Ja 20 '51 80w

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst
Sat R of Lit 34:14 F 24 '51 470w

"Good intentions like Miss Bentley's, unhappily, still leave room for something more. Honest, conscientious, sensible, workmanlike, Quorum follows rather too closely the homespun convention Miss Bentley has herself helped to establish to engage one's interest very deeply. It teases curiosity but does not excite." R. D. Charques
Spec 184:158 Ag 4 '50 200w
Time 57:102 Ja 22 '51 470w
Wis Lib Bul 47:23 Ja '51

BERDIAEV, NIKOLAI ALEKSANDROVICH. Dream and reality; an essay in autobiography; [tr. from the Russian by Katharine Lampert]. 332p $4.50 Macmillan
B or 92 51-1608

"The autobiography of this Russian philosopher was written during and immediately after the trials and ordeals of the Second World War and was not intended by the author for publication until after his death. It is the record of an eventful life both in the sphere of ideas and of historical incident." (Publisher's note) Index.

"A book of passionate extremes, paradoxical, often one-sided, it is nonetheless rich, searching and deeply provocative. It is the work of a genuinely creative spirit." E. T. Ramsdell
+ — Christian Century 68:432 Ap 4 '51 1400w

Reviewed by T. K. Thompson
Churchman 165:16 Je '51 220w

Reviewed by Helen Iswolsky
+ Commonweal 54:44 Ap 20 '51 1100w

Reviewed by Daniel Williams
Crozer Q 29:78 Ja '52 700w

"It is marred, for me, by a fundamental defect, obscurity. Try as one may, all too often one simply doesn't know what Berdyaev is driving at. Even when one believes oneself to have divined his meaning, it turns out to be one that could have been expressed more simply. . . The book is translated from the Russian and allowance must, no doubt, be made for the limitations of translation; yet even so, one is left to wonder whether the thought is so deep that its expression must needs be so difficult. . . It has been highly praised by Christian apologists, and I do not doubt that they will find much of spiritual value in this book. For my part, I have found it exhausting as well as exalting and pervaded by a feeling of superiority to ordinary, stupid bourgeois persons which may be natural but is not Christian." C. E. M. Joad
— New Statesman & Nation 40:439 N 11 '50 900w

Reviewed by Gerald Heard
N Y Times p6 F 18 '51 850w

"His book is the record of a quest for the Absolute, which took him through Marxism, Christianity, and Existentialism, and ended with his discovery of faith, if not truth. After reading his life story, one feels that his tragedy was also Russia's, for if men of Berdyaev's humanity, honesty, and intellectual size had been permitted to stay on Russian soil and teach, they might have tempered the brutality of the ruling powers and saved their country from the spiritual depths in which it now lies."
New Yorker 27:113 F 17 '51 280w

"The work was written during the days of Nazi ascendancy in Europe. But even in occupied Paris, the exiled philosopher lost neither his courage nor his optimism. Both illumine the pages of this autobiography." R. G. C.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 18 '51 260w

"It may be that Berdyaev wrote too much, but this volume could not be dispensed with; it contains the essence of what he was trying to say in twenty books. We must be grateful for it, and for the excellent English into which it has been translated." W. R. Matthews
+ Spec 184:570 N 24 '50 750w

Springf'd Republican p8C F 11 '51 360w

"The reader who turns from the anger of headlines and the solipsisms of political debate to read [Berdyaev's] last, and posthumously published, volume is likely to feel he has met a peregrine falcon. Berdyaev possessed a breadth of vision on world history which few to-day could approach. Dream and Reality—although described as 'an essay in autobiography'—thus possesses a far wider significance than any recital of personal events and impressions. . . A final word must be said in praise of an excellent translation by Miss Katharine Lampert."
Times [London] Lit Sup p746 N 24 '50 2050w

BERDYAEV, NICOLAS. See Berdi͡aev, N. A.

BERENSTAIN, STANLEY, and BERENSTAIN, JANICE GRANT. Baby book. 92p il $2 Macmillan

649.1 Infants—Care and hygiene 51-13925

Diverting chapters on the business of bringing up children. The authors, who are responsible for the "Sister" cartoons in Colliers, have had practical experiences with their own offspring.

Booklist 48:97 N 15 '51

"Young parents are likely to get more practical hints in these pages than in those of scholarly psychologists." F. D. Heron
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 18 '51 120w

Kirkus 19:472 Ag 15 '51 130w

"If you know parents who don't take their young offspring too-too seriously—well, try it on them. If there's a smile left in them, this will bring it out." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 N 24 '51 450w

BERGER, MEYER. Story of the New York times, 1851-1951. 589p il $5 Simon & Schuster

071.47 New York times 51-6775

A history of the first hundred years of the New York Times. The author has written news and feature stories for The Times for more than twenty years, and is a Pulitzer prize winner for distinguished reporting. Index.

Reviewed by Edward Weeks
Atlantic 188:86 D '51 1950w

Booklist 48:59 O 15 '51

Bookmark 11:55 D '51 20w

Reviewed by David Marshall
+ Cath World 174:318 Ja '52 450w

Reviewed by Harold Hutchings
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 30 '51 500w

"There are, it seems to me, three elements revealed in Meyer Berger's exceedingly competent and readable account, which show how the Times became great, and how it stays that way. The first element is great newspaper skill. The second is great publishing leadership. And the third is a great ideal or concept of newspaper responsibility." E. D. Canham
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 S 20 '51 800w

Reviewed by Donald McDonald
Commonweal 55:281 D 21 '51 1200w

"An intramural, institutional biography in which one of its finest reporters contributes a direct enthusiasm and vitality and respect for a great tradition."
+ Kirkus 19:375 Jl 15 '51 220w

"Better than any history of the period, it tells the story of both the time and The Times with the calm objectivity that even Adolph Ochs himself might have approved. Recommended." M. S. Byam
+ Library J 76:1804 N 1 '51 110w

Reviewed by H. F. Pringle
New Repub 125:20 N 12 '51 300w

"All these stories could have been told, except for some changes in detail, under any of a dozen other headlines. Why 'The Times' is uniquely 'The Times,' and not, say, 'The Springfield Republican,' or 'The St. Louis Post-Dispatch,' magnified by some diameters, is made none too clear in these pages. . . But this must not be held to discount Mr. Berger's achievement. He has, in Shakespearean phrase, called spirits from the vasty deep and they did answer him." G. W. Johnson
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 S 23 '51 600w

"In this admirable history of The New York Times, Meyer Berger does far more than write an 'official' biography of a newspaper's first century. He describes and analyzes, and what he has written will be of value now and for years to come to all who are interested in the preservation of a free press." E. D. Canham
+ N Y Times p1 S 23 '51 1250w

New Yorker 27:148 O 13 '51 430w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 O 28 '51 850w

"This is a splendid book. It is good history. But better than that, I think, it amounts to the finest reporting on a difficult assignment." Jonathan Daniels
+ Sat R of Lit 34:24 O 6 '51 750w

Springf'd Republican p5C S 23 '51 90w

BERGGRAV, EIVIND JOSEPH, bp. Man and state; tr. from the Norwegian by George Aus. 320p $4 Muhlenberg press

320.15 State, The 51-11106

"Written by Eivind Berggrav, Bishop of Oslo, while in solitary confinement under Norway's Quisling government, 'Man and State' appears in English translation seven years after the manuscript was smuggled from his isolated cottage. Certain aspects of the book are inevitably dated, but the problem of the nature of power in the structure of the state is even more relevant today than when the pages were written. . . The author's concern is a change in orientation that might stem the pervasive use of power. . . Berggrav is convinced that faith in a transcendent God (not to be confused with a religious state which the author also rejects) would bring a basic reorientation. Yet he does not press it, precisely because an affirmation of faith would lose its genuine character if it were reduced to a technique. The author does point to the power of such faith as it manifested itself in Luther, who placed God above every other obedience." N Y Times

BERGGRAV, E. J.—Continued

"This is a mature volume, well worth careful reading—not alone because of its dramatic prison background but also because of its intrinsic merits, based upon practical experience and upon long reflection." C. E. Merriam
+ Ann Am Acad 278:247 N '51 450w

"Occasionally a reviewer hits the jackpot—a truly magnificent book. This is one such. In the first place, it was written while the author was under arrest. The spiritual head of Norway symbolizes the modern Christian defiance of tyranny. Here is truly existential Christian thinking. In the second place, the author is a profound human being. . . In the third place, Bishop Berggrav is a profound thinker who deals with depth and clarity with the concrete issues in terms of basic principles. Here we have a master thinker at work." N. F. S. Ferré
+ Christian Century 68:894 Ag 1 '51 600w

Reviewed by R. M. Bartlett
+ Christian Century 68:1158 O 10 '51 1300w

Reviewed by John Dillenberger
+ N Y Times p6 Ag 26 '51 450w

BERGMANN, MRS LEOLA (NELSON). Americans from Norway. (Peoples of America ser) 324p $3.50 Lippincott

325.2481 Norwegians in the U.S. 50-10589

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"The author, a grandchild of a Norwegian immigrant to South Dakota, has already written an interesting life of F. Melius Christiansen, the choirmaster of St. Olaf's College. This volume gives her wider scope and the opportunity for impersonality in treatment, and she has measured up to her opportunity. She is a true Norwegian in that she blows no trumpets and waves no flags, but she does not give an inch when she has a claim to make or an opinion to express." G. S. F.
+ Am Hist R 56:669 Ap '51 450w
Booklist 47:199 F 1 '51
Bookmark 10:81 Ja '51 30w

"Mrs. Bergmann writes with candor as well as understanding." Walter Havighurst
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ja 21 '51 400w

"The book is documented with bibliography and notes, and presents an imposing record of the contribution of Norwegians to this country." J. W. H.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 F 4 '51 100w

"A calm and objective piece of writing, this book is generally reliable for its accuracy of detail and its fairness in interpretation."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:49 Mr '51 300w

"An interesting and authentic record."
+ Wis Lib Bul 46:31 D '50

BERGSTEN, GOTE. Pastoral psychology; a study in the care of souls. 227p $3.50 Macmillan

258 Psychology, Pastoral 51-10759

"Pastoral theology at its best—enlightened by the author's experiences as chaplain of a mental institution and as superintendent for the Institute for Psychology and Spiritual Counsel of the St. Luke's Foundation in Stockholm. . . The first chapter gives a review of the history of the Christian concern for the care of souls which is a significant contribution in itself. . . Part II concentrates on the confessional and should be a helpful interpretation for the parish minister. . . Part III concerns itself with the psychology of unbelief and is rather surprising in its lack of the usual effort to justify a religious 'instinct' or 'sense.'" Christian Century

"Most ministers will read this with a feeling of confidence, for here is a guide who speaks their language and leads them step by step into unfamiliar territory in such a way that they do not lose their orientation. . . This is not simply a rehash of psychotherapeutic theory watered down for the minister, but a definite reinterpretation in the light of Christian doctrine and tradition. . . Bergsten has made a significant contribution to the literature in the field but it is far from being definitive." W. E. Gregory
Christian Century 68:1282 N 7 '51 750w

"This book strikes me as remarkably sane and balanced. All pastors, no matter how they describe the work, do hear confessions and all should get help from this book."
+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 21 '51 70w

"It is evident from Pastor Bergsten's book that he realizes the importance of leaving the actual treatment of neurotic symptoms to the qualified psychiatrist. With this point in mind, readers of Pastoral Psychology will find much erudition, and much to assist to a further and deeper appreciation of what pastoral work as a whole entails."
Times [London] Lit Sup p505 Ag 10 '51 210w

BERKE, JACQUELINE, and WILSON, VIVIAN. Watch out for the weather; with drawings by Lombard C. Jones. 226p $2.95 Viking

614.42 Weather—Mental and physiological effects. Climatology, Medical 51-2851

Presents a study of meteorobiology—the study of the effects of the weather on animal life, especially on man—for the layman. Partial contents: Climate and disease; The common cold; Following the sun; Weather and your home; The polluted air; Weather and business; Man-made weather; Weather lore and superstition; Modern weather men; Is our climate changing? Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:229; 304 Mr 1 '51; My 1 '51

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Jl 22 '51 270w

"Interesting and fully substantiated by clinical and laboratory findings, this should prove provocative."
+ Kirkus 19:149 Mr 1 '51 160w

"As the first general book on this subject, it is also practical, entertainingly illustrated, anecdotal, and authenticated with scientific data. It leaves reader with impression of having experienced an around-the-world-trip of fascinating adventure. Highly recommended." J. M. Scherr
+ Library J 76:771 My 1 '51 130w

"The writers have put in some serious study. There may be debate as to how well they have selected their authorities, but they have authority for every factual statement, and the average reader will find in their work some things that are astonishing as well as much that is interesting and entertaining." G. W. Johnson
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 My 6 '51 500w

Reviewed by Lewis Nichols
N Y Times p18 Je 3 '51 220w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 10 '51 550w

"The book closes with a workable bibliography and index, making 'Watch Out for the Weather' valuable as a reference work." S. M. Neal
+ Springf'd Republican p11D Je 10 '51 270w

BERKLEY, ETHEL S., pseud. See Berkowitz, E. S.

BERKMAN, SYLVIA LEAH. Katherine Mansfield, a critical study; published for Wellesley college. 246p il $3.75 Yale univ. press

B or 92 Mansfield, Katherine 51-3206

A study of Katherine Mansfield which combines biography with criticism of her literary works. The author is assistant professor of English at Wellesley college. Bibliography. Index.

"It is the fullest, the most inclusive, and the most carefully considered study of K. M. that has yet appeared. It brings us new knowledge both of K. M. and of K. M.'s art. All her lovers will be grateful for it, however they may differ in matters of detail." Edward Wagenknecht

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 20 '51 420w

"This Wellesley College publication sets out to trace the interacting relationship between Katherine Mansfield's personal experience of life and her artistic use of it, an integration which has not before been undertaken. It tends to slide over into a formal examination of her short story techniques and a somewhat academic appraisal of the value of her work. Nevertheless it deserves to be recognized as the best single book that has yet appeared on the most famous of New Zealand's daughters." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Jl 1 '51 600w

"A selective, rather than a full-dress, biography, aimed at coördinating the salient events in Katherine Mansfield's life with the development of her talent. This admirable project isn't completely realized, since Miss Berkman seems to be a good deal more engrossed in her subject's literary technique than in her personal hardships or her emotional vicissitudes."

New Yorker 27:117 Je 9 '51 190w

"Miss Berkman's book is not an exciting one —but there has been too much of that, anyway. It will not please everybody, for Katherine Mansfield was a writer and a personality about whom feelings run high. It is notably successful, though, in its admirable indication of the proper direction away from the rites and ecstasies of the cultists, toward real understanding of this extraordinarily complex and interesting figure." Paul Dinkins

+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 My 19 '51 650w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:236 S '51 230w

BERKOWITZ, ETHEL STRACHSTEIN (ETHEL S. BERKLEY, pseud). Size of it; a first book about sizes; il. by Kathleen Elgin. [23p] $1 Scott, W.R.

50-12060

Pictures and brief text attempt to explain size to children of five to seven.

Booklist 47:102 N 1 '50

"A very successful experiment."

+ Kirkus 18:509 S 1 '50 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 N 12 '50 50w

"There is no false sense of size values. Nothing is insignificant because it is smaller or narrower than something else. This book is an excellent basis for future understanding of work in arithmetic." Lois Palmer

+ N Y Times p42 O 22 '50 150w

Wis Lib Bul 46:38 D '50

BERKOWITZ, ETHEL STRACHSTEIN (ETHEL S. BERKLEY, pseud). Ups and downs; a first book about space; il. by Kathleen Elgin. [23p] $1 Scott, W.R.

51-11789

"What is up? A ball in the air, a rabbit's ears, the way a bird flies. What is down? The way a dog's tail hangs when you scold him, where you are sometimes when you skate, bending to touch your toes. What is high? What is low? What is bottom? What is top? You'll find it all here." Library J

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

"A sense of fresh discovery which children of this age are eager to share aids in putting over some essentially abstract concepts."

+ Kirkus 19:390 Ag 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by Phyllis Fenner

Library J 76:1341 S 1 '51 50w

"This is exactly how small children like to have their thinking connected and led onward. Try it." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 16 '51 160w

"Kathleen Elgin's drawings add greatly to the pleasure which children and adults will have in using this book together. They will stimulate children to give examples of their own." Lois Palmer

+ N Y Times p28 S 16 '51 130w

BERL, WALTER GEORGE, ed. Physical methods in chemical analysis. v2 640p il $13.50 Academic press

544 Chemistry, Analytic. Physical measurements (50-6873)

"Presents descriptions of modern instrumental techniques used in physicochemical research and analysis. . . 'The subject matter,' states the Preface, 'has been divided in such a way that all methods dealing with the interaction of radiation with matter (in addition to mass spectrometry) appear together in Volume I. Electrical, magnetic, and miscellaneous techniques and the methods of separation appear in Volume II.' " (U S Quarterly Bk R) For volume I see Book Review Digest 1950.

"Any investigator or teacher who is concerned with analytical problems can not afford to be without Dr. Berl's valuable compendium." F. C. Nachod

+ Chem Eng 58:300 My '51 170w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:34 My '51

"Comprehensive and authoritative."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:315 S '51 400w (Review of v1 & 2)

BERLE, ADOLF AUGUSTUS. Natural selection of political forces. 103p $2 Univ. of Kan. press

320.1 Political science 51-9048

"Presents the hypothesis that laws of natural selectivity, comparable to those in natural history, can be formulated to account for or predict the life-span of a government." (Booklist) The author was formerly assistant secretary of state (1938-1944). Index.

Booklist 47:167 Ja 1 '51

"The former Assistant Secretary of State is a confident man. One only wishes that he had waited a little longer and organized his thoughts a little better, before launching his undoubted brilliance in this particular direction. So far, his published fame still rests on his collaboration with Gardiner Means in writing that educational volume, 'The Modern Corporation and Private Property.' " R. D. McCann

Christian Science Monitor p3 Ja 9 '51 600w

Foreign Affairs 29:665 Jl '51 20w

"Mr. Berle's essay is at once a tract for the times and a stimulating set of ideas about human relations, ideas which need the careful scrutiny of research. The latter function is in the long run more useful." Crane Brinton

+ N Y Times p3 D 24 '50 800w

"Still the essayist in this new, little, urbane book, he is as always cogent and even more stimulating, for he delves among the helter-skelter materials of politics and history in search of 'guiding principles . . . capable of general application.' " P. R. Levin

+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 Je 16 '51 380w

Springf'd Republican p6D F 25 '51 310w

BERNANOS, GEORGES. Tradition of freedom. 165p $3 Roy pubs.

901 Liberty. Civilization—Philosophy [51-1467]

"In angry and anxious argument, Bernanos opposes the Fatherland to the State. The former is the sum of individual, family, provincial and religious liberties; the latter a usurper, which has suppressed liberty. Men, he admits, love liberty, but are always ready to prefer a servitude they despise. For servitude is a vice that goes as deep into man's nature as lust. With servitude Bernanos contrasts service. Only through service is man free, for it is the freely chosen homage of love. A machine cannot serve, it can only be used." N Y Times

"Some of the opinions of Bernanos are not easy to understand. . . The tone of the book is one of scorn and vituperation. 'Fools! fools!' is reiterated from beginning to end. But this is not the way to deal with the most difficult and terrible problems which humanity has ever had to solve. The Erewhonian diatribes against the machine age are very one-sided." W. R. Inge

— Hibbert J 49:198 Ja '51 850w

Reviewed by A. D. L. Lindsay of Birker
Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 23 '51 210w

Reviewed by Gouverneur Paulding
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ag 19 '51 450w

Reviewed by Anne Fremantle
N Y Times p15 Je 17 '51 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p488 Ag 3 '51 600w

BERNER, ELSA R. Germany; il by Rafaello Busoni. (Lands and peoples ser) 24p maps $1.75; bds $1.25 Holiday

914.3 Germany—Juvenile literature

"Brief but useful introduction which treats concisely of the geography, history, industrial growth, cultural aspects, and Germany's part in the two world wars and the effect upon the nation. Grades 5-8." Booklist

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

+ Kirkus 19:484 S 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by Virginia Haviland
Library J 76:1815 N 1 '51 60w

Wis Lib Bul 47:258 N '51

BERNERI, MARIE LOUISE. Journey through utopia. 339p $3.75 Beacon press

321.07 Utopias 51-872

"In this volume are sketched and discussed the layout, law, spirit and administration of various chosen utopias from Plato's Republic to that 'fair and great and fruitful World-State' which was the sustaining hope of H. G. Wells's life. It is documented by extracts from the various works cited." Times [London] Lit Sup

"Miss Berneri must have been a very remarkable girl. Italian born, she became a political exile with her family while still a small child in the early days of Fascism and spent the rest of her short life in France and England, where she died at 31 in 1949. . . Her coverage of the utopian thinkers is remarkably complete." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 68:1378 N 28 '51 210w

"This is stimulating writing in the extreme." Theodore Enslin

+ Crozer Q 29:90 Ja '52 300w

Kirkus 19:460 Ag 15 '51 160w

"So far as it goes, Miss Berneri's comment is stimulating. But I should have liked to see her develop at greater length her anarchist critique of the utopian tradition, for it is true, as she says, that the 'assumption that laws are the best guardians of freedom, is at the basis of nearly all utopias,' and that the Road to Utopia to-day looks remarkably like the Road to 1984." Norman MacKenzie

New Statesman & Nation 41:192 F 17 '51 250w

"Several items in this most comprehensive and penetrating study are translated into English for the first time." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 11 '51 50w

Times [London] Lit Sup p153 Mr 9 '51 650w

BERNSTEIN, MARTIN. Introduction to music. 2d ed 446p il $5.65; to schools $4.25 Prentice-Hall

780.1 Music—Analysis, interpretation, appreciation 51-10955

New edition of a work first published in 1937 (Book Review Digest 1937). "With the increase of musical knowledge brought about by the phonograph and radio, 'it has seemed necessary to include discussion of additional types of music—hence the expansion of the chapter on contemporary music, the addition of material on Gregorian chant, on polyphonic music of the late Renaissance, and on the Baroque era.'—Preface. Discussions of some compositions have been expanded; almost all compositions mentioned are available in phonograph records." Booklist

Booklist 47:364 Je 15 '51

"Clearly written. Many musical examples arranged for piano." C. K. Miller

+ Library J 76:1227 Ag '51 70w

School & Society 73:318 My 19 '51 40w

BERNSTEIN, PERETZ FRIEDRICH. Jew-hate as a sociological problem; tr. by David Saraph. 300p $3.75 Philosophical lib.

296 Jews—Political and social conditions 51-1110

"Dr. Bernstein, president, General Zionist Organization in Israel, explains in an introduction written in 1949 that his book was published in German in 1926, and written in 1923—a period before the rise of Nazism and the extermination of six million Jews and before the establishment of Israel. . . Various aspects of anti-Semitism—religious, economic, political, social, cultural, 'racial' and Jewish anti-Semitism—are discussed." San Francisco Chronicle

"Although this book has in its title 'A Sociological Problem,' I feel that the work is a literary essay rather than a scientific sociological study. There are many good insights in the book; it is interesting reading for some one who is intensely interested in the problem, and even in the translation it sounds very well written. This alone sets it in a somewhat enviable position among translations from German scientific prose. . . Certainly our understanding of the problem of anti-Semitism has increased greatly since this book was written. The book is an interesting, rather literary type of essay, which can certainly do a great deal to enlighten the stupidly prejudiced. Its central theme is good, but now rather well known, and is far from complete." J. F. Brown

+ Ann Am Acad 275:205 My '51 750w

Reviewed by S. V. McCasland
Crozer Q 28:257 Jl '51 650w

"Many people would take issue with the author's definition of the Jews as an 'ethnical-historical national community,' and his over-simplified view that except for realizing Zionist aspirations 'there is no other possible way to make an end of anti-Semitism.' The establishment of Israel has by no means ended anti-Semitism in the world, and much of the book applies to Europe rather than this country." I. B.

San Francisco Chronicle p25 Mr 18 '51 260w

School & Society 73:79 F 3 '51 30w

Reviewed by B. R. Epstein
Survey 87:365 Ag '51 330w

BERNSTEIN, PHILIP SIDNEY. What the Jews believe; il. by Fritz Eichenberg. 100p $1.25 Farrar, Straus

296 Jews—Religion 51-2404

A short book on the history and meaning of the Jewish holy days, written by a reform rabbi. The book is an expansion of a series of articles on Judaism which appeared some months ago in Life Magazine.

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 30w

"Rabbi Bernstein deserves a good deal of credit for putting into clear, simple language what might otherwise have been a forbidding theological study. His book is readable, interesting and informative. The subject is treated in a somewhat idealized fashion but that is something which can easily be forgiven." A. Andras

+ Canadian Forum 31:143 S '51 140w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51

"In an easy style, somewhat resembling the sermon, [the author] gently explains without attempting to persuade by selecting appropriate examples from his broad background to help clarify his ideas. Recommended for all libraries." H. L. Roth

+ Library J 76:510 Mr 15 '51 100w

"This book is a little masterpiece of exposition." J. H. Holmes

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ag 19 '51 360w

"The author has succeeded in portraying a vivid, honest, yet simple picture of the main outlines of Judaism and Jewish life." D. D. Pool

+ N Y Times p12 Ap 15 '51 360w

"Rabbi Bernstein has accomplished what he set out to do. He has put forth in simple and direct language the story of the faith, symbols, and festivals of his people. And he has done more—he has written this book with love. Only the most insensitive of readers could fail to be moved by it. If sometimes one hears the echo of the preacher in the author this only serves to bring us closer to the man." Frank Kingdon

+ Sat R Lit 34:27 Ap 21 '51 650w

Reviewed by Philip Goodman

Survey 87:443 O '51 390w

BERRALL, JULIA S. Flowers and table settings; photography by Roche. 96p $5 Crowell

642.7 Table. Floral decoration 51-10472

Advice and suggestions on the dining room and its furnishings, chinaware, silverware, linens and lighting, as well as material on creating effective centerpieces of flowers, fruits and vegetables for various settings and purposes.

Booklist 47:304 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 30w

Cleveland Open Shelf p28 N '51

BERRILL, JACQUELYN. Wonders of the seashore; il. by the author. 69p $2.50 Dodd

591.92 Marine fauna—Juvenile literature 51-12437

In simple, nontechnical style but with considerable detail the author describes the many living things children can find on the seashore, by peering into the water, among the sea weed, by turning over a shovelful of sand at low tide. Partial contents: Starfish; Sea urchin; Jellyfish; Corals; Limpet; Clams; Oysters; Crabs; Lobster; Sea horse; Butterfish.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51

"Recommended." A. B. McCreary

+ Library J 76:1942 N 15 '51 70w

"A good introductory book to marine zoology. It is all clearly factual, an interesting guide, with many fine pictures for boys and girls from about eight to fourteen." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 9 '51 40w

BERRILL, NORMAN JOHN. Living tide. 256p il $4 Dodd

574.92 Marine biology 51-10427

A study of the life in the tidal waters of the Atlantic coast, mainly from the Dry Tortugas to Maine. The author is professor of marine zoology at McGill university. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

Booklist 47:323 My 15 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 20w

"Once in a while a book appears that can open a new world to a reader, and do so both intelligibly and authoritatively. 'The Living Tide' is such a book. . . Few members of the public, surely, are qualified to judge with independent expertness the thoroness and accuracy of 'The Living Tide.' But a reasonable interest in this world and the wonderful creatures in it and an ability to enjoy good writing are all the qualifications one needs to rejoice in this book and praise it heartily." A. C. Ames

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 6 '51 200w

"Mr. Berrill's pleasant book should cause a great many heretofore casual seaside visitors to look, to see what they have never seen before, and so to have the rich experience of discovering a new world." R. L. Carson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Jl 8 '51 600w

"The author uses jaw-breaking scientific words with discretion, and one quickly gets on easy terms with his creatures." W. B. Hayward

+ N Y Times p21 Je 3 '51 200w

"Dr. Berrill is always entertaining—whether he writes about rockpools, anemones, sea urchins, or Oliver, the neurotic octopus who was saved by brain surgery. He also indicates how these observations fit into the broad picture of modern biology, perhaps the most rapidly advancing of all the sciences. 'The Living Tide' is a delightful blend of fact and fine story-telling." John Pfeiffer

+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 Jl 7 '51 300w

Wis Lib Bul 47:183 Jl '51

BERRY, BREWTON. Race relations; the interaction of ethnic and racial groups [under the editorship of William F. Ogburn]. 487p il maps $4.75 Houghton

323.1 Race problems 51-11119

"[The] general plan is to begin with groups or peoples of different cultural or racial origin and then to chart the course of their contact and interactions in terms of 'standard' sociological concepts such as conflict, assimilation, segregation, stratification, etc. The author treats each topic with copious examples drawn from Africa, India, Latin America, Hawaii, Indonesia, Australia, and the continent of Europe as well as from the United States. The book is truly international in scope and thus avoids the insularity of a purely 'American' approach." Am Soc R

"Professor Berry has written a text that sets high standards of excellence in comprehensiveness, readability, and scientific accuracy." R. A. Schermerhorn

+ Am Soc R 16:579 Ag '51 650w

"Some of the vitality is squeezed out of this fascinating subject. . . Yet the college textbook is certainly one way to attack the widespread ignorance of the subject and this compilation has the virtue of being comprehensive and accurate—and filled with striking photographs." H. A. Jack

+ Christian Century 68:799 Jl 4 '51 160w

School & Society 74:383 D 15 '51 20w

"A book such as this serves as a challenge to serious-minded students that they need more fruitful working theories and hypotheses which can be readily brought to empirical researches. And, what we need in the field of race relations is more of analytical interpretation and less of description." Jitsuichi Masuoka

+ Social Forces 30:244 D '51 550w

BERRYMAN, JOHN. Stephen Crane. (American men of letters ser) 347p $3.75 Sloane

B or 92 Crane, Stephen 50-10964

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

Booklist 47:187 Ja 15 '51

BERRYMAN, JOHN—Continued

Bookmark 10:81 Ja '51 30w

"Berryman's style is vivid, interesting, but in some ways a weird blend of cumbersomeness and over-condensation, and the interpretation of his hero is sullied o'er with a Freudian cast. . . But despite these definite handicaps, the history of literature is well served in this biography." Clorinda Clarke

+ — Cath World 173:158 My '51 230w

"For years there has been need for a faithful, accurate, and penetrating book on Stephen Crane. Mr. Berryman has put many readers in his debt." Walter Havighurst

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 F 4 '51 230w

"Hitherto Stephen Crane as man and artist was inadequately known from Thomas Beer's brief biography, which is full of gaps, and not wholly accurate. Mr. Berryman's is a critical biography in the full sense of the term; it is thorough, it is vivid as well as factual; though it seems the author has followed the wrong path, especially in the last chapter, in evoking the unhappy ghost of Freud in the attempt to solve the riddle of Crane's personality." John Cournos

+ Commonweal 53:356 Ja 12 '51 460w

"The symbolic import of Crane's tales is sometimes rather desperately overshot. A share of Crane's work is misvalued, and the estimate of his verse seems to me basically unsound. . . The effect of this is to delay rather than advance the justice by which Crane's real share of genius will be recognized. But that share is indisputable, and Mr. Berryman, whatever his excess of enthusiasm, deserves gratitude for the sensitive scholarship and critical acumen with which he illuminates it." M. D. Zabel

+ — Nation 172:187 F 24 '51 1200w

"One wishes one could recommend this new critical biography of Crane, but it is as unsatisfactory in its own way as Thomas Beer's. Mr. Berryman has tried to be more accurate about his facts, but his self-conscious tortured prose is unable to convey accuracy. Simple statements are so twisted that sometimes they remain completely incomprehensible." Graham Greene

— + New Statesman & Nation 41:627 Je 2 '51 600w

"Mr. Berryman's book is an important one, and not merely because at the moment it happens to stand alone. Though many of the facts of Crane's life are here for the first time assembled, so much is still but half understood that one hopes it may someday be possible for somebody to write a biography that will for fullness be as far beyond Berryman as Berryman is beyond Beer. . . But we are not likely soon to get anything better on the critical and psychological sides. The book has some faults of style. . . But Mr. Berryman clears up as he goes along. Though his phrases are not always clean-cut, his writing has a density that compresses much matter, and there is always thought behind it." Edmund Wilson

+ — New Yorker 26:77 Ja 6 '51 1950w

"Mr. Berryman is always able, even when treating the early Sullivan County Sketches, to seize upon the phrase, the brief and pungent detail, that demonstrates Crane's distinction as a writer. By comparison, most literary biographers seem limping and inept men of dulled and mechanic sensibilities. Mr. Berryman, of course, has his faults. Throughout his book we bump our noses against the sweeping statement, the dogmatic exaggeration. Characteristically, he has trouble talking in terms of 'fairly good' or 'fairly bad.' The mild and restrained statement seems foreign to his whole emotional cast." Morgan Blum

+ — Poetry 78:298 Ag '51 4200w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p18 D 20 '50 950w

"The choice of the young American poet John Berryman to write a critical biography of the master has produced a sensitive, enthusiatic, and much needed reappraisal, even though Mr. Berryman has somewhat confused his own discovery of Crane with a supposed but unfounded previous neglect by the critical world at large. His bibliography is conspicuous for its neglect of the literary historians, although he is correct in pointing out that up to now the impressionistic method of criticism has not been applied to this pioneer in American impressionistic fiction." R. E. Spiller

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:11 Ja 27 '51 750w

Reviewed by Ralph Abercrombie

Spec 185:870 Je 29 '51 600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p356 Je 8 '51 3000w

"Crammed with known or probable details of the author's life, accurate in summarizing his work, sensitive in anaysis of both man and literary art, this is in many respects a fine biography of Stephen Crane. . . Unfortunately, Mr. Berryman's sympathetic and to a large extent admirable book is marred at many points by a staccato style and ambiguous grammar which postpone the reader's comprehension even when they do not make for final incomprehensibility."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:140 Je '51 220w

"The curious facts of Crane's life and character Mr. Berryman examines thoroughly, critically, and without suspicion of bias, moralistic or other. But his really extraordinary contribution to our knowledge comes with his diligent search for a clue to Crane's mystery—which involves, among other things, Crane's peculiar unconcern with the length of his own life. . . One does not know what professional psychologists will make of his findings. But to the lay reader it seems that we have here the most plausible and the subtlest application of the professional methods of analysis that is yet to be found in 'literary' criticism." J. W. Beach

+ Yale R n s 40:742 summer '51 1350w

BERTO, GIUSEPPE. The brigand; tr. by Angus Davidson. 224p $2.75 New Directions

51-12418

A story of Italy in post-war days. The hero is a returned soldier, a man of mystery, who tries to right the wrongs of the peasants but achieves little except a martyr's end. The story is told in the first person by the boy Nino, his one friend in the village.

Kirkus 19:540 S 15 '51 180w

"The story as told through the eyes of Nino has depth and simplicity. . . Recommended." W. K. Harrison

+ Library J 76:1703 O 15 '51 60w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Jenkins

Manchester Guardian p4 Je 1 '51 40w

"Until agrarian reform is in effect and not a campaign promise, the frustration of the most elementary social justice throughout the south is inevitable. Berto has brought the problem vividly before us and has cloaked it in convincing story form. The translation, by the way, could not be improved upon. It carries over the delicacy and subtle shading of Berto's descriptive passages into English and makes the conversations believable, full of the impact of urgent speech." Frances Keene

+ Nation 173:482 D 1 '51 490w

Reviewed by H. C. Webster

New Repub 125:26 D 10 '51 210w

"As tracts go, this is a good one, in so far as it is well executed; only one wishes that Signor Berto and many other Italian writers as well as painters would apply their undeniable gifts to ends beyond a party line." John Richardson

New Statesman & Nation 41:686 Je 16 '51 360w

"Berto's novel, admirably translated by Angus Davidson, is anything but trite. Since the author is a true artist his brigand is an authentic individual, 'typical' but more than a 'type.' And Berto has treated the old story from an original angle." T. G. Bergin

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 D 9 '51 350w

"To tell his story Berto employs the device of a boy narrator, who invests the story he tells with an adventurous, even fabulous quality. Unfortunately Berto does not stick to this method of narration, and this change vitiates some of the book's force. Still, this is a minor fault and it does not rob 'The Brigand' of its interest, nor diminish the reader's assurance that from this novel Berto will go on to something even richer." W. F. Weaver

+ — N Y Times p28 D 9 '51 300w

Reviewed by William Hogan
San Francisco Chronicle p11 D 9 '51 180w

Reviewed by Serge Hughes
Sat R of Lit 34:37 D 1 '51 480w

Reviewed by R. D. Charques
Spec 185:730 Je 1 '51 300w

Time 58:116 N 26 '51 430w

"This sad little story, ending in violence and waste, is told with great calmness and sympathy. The characters are types, but since the book is intended primarily as an unbiased statement of a typical situation this is all to the good."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p337 Je 1 '51 250w

BERTRANDE, SISTER. See Meyers, Sister Bertrande.

BEST, HARRY. The Soviet state, and its inception. 448p $6 Philosophical lib.
947 Russia 51-10386

"Kentucky University sociologist in the first and shorter part of book sketches the background by depicting Russia before revolution, with specific chapters on its geography, history, religion, industries, etc. Second part shows various aspects of Soviet state and society and brings out such features as similarity to Nazi state and changes within Soviet Russia away from Marxism." (Library J) Bibliography. Index

Reviewed by Dinko Tomasic
Am Soc R 16:888 D '51 500w

Christian Century 68:1077 S 19 '51 50w

Reviewed by A. W. Taylor
Churchman 165:17 O 15 '51 240w

"While reading this book, the reviewer's thoughts, it must be admitted, wandered off continuously to the puzzling question in what language the book could be translated from, in what language the translator might be at home, and in what language the publisher might converse with his editor. This puzzle, however, seemed the only point of interest in the book which does not contain one fact, idea or insight which has not been presented very frequently before, though probably never in such a sloppy form." Norbert Muhlen
— Commonweal 54:147 My 18 '51 800w

"While most of the material is not original, book is thoughtful, well balanced, popular presentation of Soviet state and society. Although readability somewhat impaired by mannerisms of style, recommended for public and school libraries." H. H. Bernt
+ Library J 76:594 Ap 1 '51 110w

"Dr. Best has given a much-needed sober and objective primer on Russia to the lay reader who believes in a thorough briefing on facts before forming an opinion." A. B. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Je 10 '51 500w

School & Society 73:254 Ap 21 '51 50w

BEST, HERBERT. Not without danger; a story of the colony of Jamaica in Revolutionary days; il. by Erick Berry. 286p $2.50 Viking 51-14074

Jamaica in the years just prior to the American Revolution is the scene of this adventure story for older boys. The hero is a seventeen-year-old Connecticut boy who became involved with pirates, arrived in Jamaica and got a job on a sugar plantation, where he ran into further dangers.

Booklist 48:160 Ja 1 '52

Bookmark 11:61 D '51 10w

Kirkus 19:446 Ag 15 '51 120w

Reviewed by R. W. DeAngelo
Library J 76:1649 O 15 '51 50w

"High adventure for the teen-age boy, told with flavor and gusto. This book could sit pridefully beside John Buchan on any reader's shelf." S. J. Johnson
+ Library J 77:69 Ja 1 '52 60w

"Well written thriller." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ja 6 '52 190w

"A thrilling adventure story." N. B. Baker
+ N Y Times p52 N 25 '51 140w

"This is an unusually good adventure story."
+ Sat R of Lit 35:36 Ja 12 '52 290w

BEST, HERBERT. Watergate; a story of the Irish on the Erie canal; il. by Erick Berry. (Land of the free ser) 240p $2.50 Winston 51-10428

"Story of the early days of canalling on the Erie Canal and of the Irish who came to dig and stayed to settle. Sean is a driver for a spick-and-span boat named 'Annekje' and Judy is the daughter of an Irish squatter whose ideas exceed his inclination to work." Library J

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"Rich in period detail, overflowing with spicy language and lively people, this story . . . is colorful reading."
+ Kirkus 19:128 Mr 1 '51 130w

"Mr. Best's style is more mannered than most of those who write for young people, but his story is lively and engrossing." R. M. McEvoy
Library J 76:715 Ap 15 '51 80w

"The Irish idiom in text and dialogue is a little tiring, but boys who demand a scrappy hero will find plenty of excitement in Sean's mishaps and triumphs." N. B. Baker
+ — N Y Times p24 Je 17 '51 130w

Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 110w

BEST science fiction stories: 1951; ed. by E. F. Bleiler and T. E. Dikty. (Fell's science fiction lib) 351p $2.95 Fell
Short stories—Collections (49-10461)

An anthology of eighteen science-fiction stories.

Bookmark 11:60 D '51

"Certainly a few stories have slipped in this time that are below the 'Best's' previous standards of literacy and originality; but at least half the volume—particularly stories by Bester, Bretnor, Bill Brown, Knight, Leiber and Matheson—can confidently challenge the best of any year." H. H. Holmes
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 11 '51 140w

"An always excellent series. . . This is certainly one of the best of the current collections." Basil Davenport
+ N Y Times p30 D 9 '51 130w

Reviewed by Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p24 N 18 '51 50w

Wis Lib Bul 47:254 N '51

BETHERS, RAY. How paintings happen; with diagrams by the author [and photographs]. 150p $4.50 Norton
751 Nature (esthetics). Composition (art). Paintings, American 51-1933

The author, an artist himself, demonstrates a method intended to help the layman to comprehend paintings. He presents each painting on one page, with a photograph of the actual scene on the facing page. "Mr. Bethers presents four basic premises: Art is not a copy of nature; art conveys emotion rather than information; painting is a medium of expression in its own right and cannot be translated into words; painting is made possible

BETHERS, RAY—Continued
partly through its limitations of space and time. With some useful, elementary diagrams, Mr. Bethers explains basic principles in the execution of a picture; abstraction, art in relation to nature, problems of space, movement, pattern, and color." (Christian Science Monitor)

Booklist 47:269 Ap 1 '51

Reviewed by Dorothy Adlow
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 3 '51 220w

School Arts 51:adv D '51 80w

"Although its value as a textbook in composition is negligible, this volume will be very useful as a simple text in elementary art appreciation. The photographs and comments by the artists themselves will be of great interest to the historian of contemporary American art. Since the book provides a thoroughgoing demonstration of how carefully wrought paintings really are, its title makes no sense whatever."
+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:137 Je '51 290w

BETHERS, RAY. Perhaps I'll be a railroad man. [46p] $1.75; lib ed $2.25 Aladdin

625 Railroads—Juvenile literature 51-3305

Discusses all phases of railroading for boys of junior high school age. Includes many illustrations.

Booklist 47:369 Je 15 '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:259 Jl '51 70w

"Recommended for 8-12-year-olds." Anne Izard
+ Library J 76:1234 Ag '51 50w

"With books about being a farmer and a sailor, Mr. Bethers began a new sort of vocational series for boys of twelve up. This new title is ever so good, a brief survey of a great industry." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 My 13 '51 150w

"This book will be a popular addition to the library vocational shelf." Marjorie Burger
+ N Y Times p16 Jl 22 '51 140w

Wis Lib Bul 47:193 Jl '51

BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS (periodical). Garden book; a year-round guide to practical home gardening. 480p il loose-leaf $3.95 Meredith

635.9 Gardening Agr51-518

"This book is just what it sets itself up to be, a year-round guide to practical home gardening. Its 20 chapters cover a wide variety of subjects, including fruits, vegetables, trees, shrubs, flowers, landscaping, pest controls, and indoor gardening. . . The Garden Book goes beyond the usual planting information. Packed in its pages are hundreds of tips on such problems as how best to utilize the ground area around the house, how to make and maintain a lawn, how to select shrubs for various purposes, how to build and plant garden pools, how to improve soil." Chicago Sunday Tribune

"It does a good job of answering most of the basic questions the gardener might ask. And it's written in everyday language." Richard Orr
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ap 29 '51 310w

"It can scarcely be called a restful book, or one that imparts a sense of continuity or even of the peacefulness which real gardens reflect. But, of its type and for its potential market, it is impressive and probably will be well received." R. S. Lemmon
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ap 15 '51 130w

"Any one who doesn't want to be a gardener had better not risk even glancing through the book's handsome and fascinating pages. Without minimizing either the number or the urgency of the gardener's problems, one can predict that they will all be greatly reduced by the exhaustive and intelligible discussion they receive in the text, as well as by the simplified line drawings that explain, step by step, a great variety of garden practices."
+ New Yorker 27:130 My 12 '51 130w

"An excellent, beautifully illustrated, ring-bound volume, but the information it gives might be a little misleading for gardeners in Northern California. For instance the editors assume that planting and growing conditions are the same for all California; for them no North and South exists." C. E. Miller
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Mr 26 '51 50w

BETTS, REGINALD ROBERTS, ed. Central and south east Europe, 1945-1948. 227p maps $3.50 Royal inst. of int. affairs

940.55 Central Europe—Politics. Central Europe—Economic conditions 51-2238

Chapters on the course of events in central and south east Europe from 1945 to 1948. Contents: Roumania, by E. D. Tappe; Bulgaria, by P. Auty; Yugoslavia, by P. Auty; Hungary, by E. Wiskemann; Poland, by B. Ireland; Czechoslovakia, by R. R. Betts; The revolution in central and south-eastern Europe, by R. R. Betts.

"All in all, the volume is not one of the best of those sponsored by the Royal Institute of International Affairs. Among its glaring weaknesses are poor bibliographical references which ignore numerous studies of this area written during and after 1948. . . At best, it is a reference book to be added to the growing number of studies published recently on the problems of the 'Iron Curtain' countries." J. S. Roucek
Ann Am Acad 277:269 S '51 270w

"The multiplicity of points of view tends to obscure the all-important feature of Soviet influence, despite the editor's effort in a concluding chapter to see 'whether any pattern of cause and event is discernible.' "
Foreign Affairs 29:501 Ap '51 60w

"While it may be true as he says, that there have been no revolutionary changes in policy since, there have certainly been changes in emphasis of which an historian writing to-day would be bound to take account. Given these limitations the five contributors have made a useful factual record of the first three years of the satellites."
Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 16 '51 70w

New Statesman & Nation 41:690 Je 16 '51 270w

"It is a careful and conscientious affair, though verging here and there on the pedestrian. The too solid flesh of fact offers itself unsullied to the eye, and although the volume will come handy to the student it will leave the general reader in serious danger of indigestion."
Times [London] Lit Sup p144 Mr 9 '51 450w

BEUF, CARLO MARIA LUIGI. Innocence of Pastor Müller; il. by the author; with an introd. by J. Donald Adams. 156p $2.50 Duell 51-9615

Kuno Schiller, an Austrian photographer who had invented the N-ray, a process which showed up guilty secrets of the subjects photographed, became convinced that his wife had been unfaithful. He stalked his suspect for two years before he was able to get revenge. The story is told as it affected Pastor Muller, a former classmate of Schiller. The scene is Berlin before the war.

Booklist 47:337;362 Je 1 '51; Je 15 '51

Reviewed by Roland Sawyer
Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 23 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:193 Ap 1 '51 170w

"Agreeably ironic entertainment." Gouverneur Paulding
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 8 '51 440w

N Y Times p17 Je 17 '51 200w

"The story has a slight moral, which is labored to death in a highly unnecessary introduction, but which is not serious enough to detract from the pleasure of Mr. Beuf's direct and unaffected style."

+ — New Yorker 27:113 Je 9 '51 60w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p14 Je 27 '51 850w

Time 57:119 Je 11 '51 650w

BEVAN-BROWN, CHARLES MAURICE. Sources of love and fear; with contributions by members of the Christchurch psychological society; incl. R. S. Allan and Enid F. Cook. 153p $2.50 Vanguard

618.92 Mothers. Infants—Nutrition
50-10736

A Freudian study of the meaning of the mother-child relationship; its thesis being "that health of personality is dependent on the individual's having had a satisfying breast-feeding experience." (Survey) Dr Bevan-Brown has had experience as a psychiatrist in England and in New Zealand.

San Francisco Chronicle p25 D 3 '50 40w

Reviewed by H. L. Witmer
Survey 87:134 Mr '51 200w

BEVERIDGE, WILLIAM IAN BEARDMORE. Art of scientific investigation. 171p il $3 Norton

507 Scientific research [51-20664]

"There is no satisfactory book which systematises the knowledge available on the practice and mental skills—the art—of scientific investigation. This lack has prompted me to write a book to serve as an introduction to research. . . Since my own experience of research has been acquired in the study of infectious diseases, I have written primarily for the student of that field. But nearly all the book is equally applicable to any other branch of experimental biology and much of it to any branch of science." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by W. R. Whitney
+ Chem & Eng N 29:3742 S 10 '51 200w

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 24 '50 50w

"Prof. Beveridge is director of the Institute of Animal Pathology, University of Cambridge. His book is fascinating. For young people preparing for careers in scientific research, it should be invaluable." Clyde Miller
+ Churchman 165:17 O 1 '51 230w

"Professor Beveridge quotes all sorts of ways in which discoveries have been made, ranging from intense concentration on the subject to complete relaxation. The fact that his branch of science is one of the least mathematical helps greatly in making this book readable by the general public." Anthony Standen
+ Commonweal 53:309 D 29 '50 450w

"Not to be recommended. It attempts to analyse how scientific research is done, and (probably Professor Beveridge would be the first to admit this) the analysis, though accurate and sincere, fails to illuminate the subject. In spite of this inevitable shortcoming, the book is well worth reading, for it has a wealth of neo-Boswellian anecdotes about the way distinguished scientists achieve their results and some entertaining comments upon the attributes required for research." E. A.
— + Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 12 '51 300w

"Illustrated with sixteen portraits of outstanding scientists, this well-written book deserves a wide audience. It is flavored with numerous anecdotes of how discoveries have been made and by quotations from great discoverers. Many of the author's statements deserve to be quoted in every treatise on the psychology and practice of research." Hermann Vollmer
+ N Y Times p14 Ja 28 '51 450w

Reviewed by Myron Weiss
Sat R of Lit 34:33 Je 9 '51 290w

"Professor Beveridge's volume has its limitations. It is in some respects a valuable introduction to a difficult art; but it does not integrate that art with the art of life in all its fullness. For such an integration we shall have to wait the arrival of a scientist who is also a man of letters and a philosopher, and such a man does not often appear."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p654 O 20 '50 800w

BEVERLEY-GIDDINGS, ARTHUR RAYMOND, ed. Frank Forester on upland shooting. See Herbert, H. W. On upland shooting.

BEYLE, MARIE HENRI (DE STENDHAL, pseud). Lucien Leuwen; bk. 2, The telegraph; tr. by Louis Varèse. 415p $3.50 New directions

This is part two of Lucien Leuwen, of which The Green Huntsman (Book Review Digest 1950) was the first. The present volume moves from the provinces to Paris, and describes Lucien's experiences as a politician. It presents a satirical picture of political and social life among the members of the ruling class in France of the 1830's. The book was left incomplete by the author.

"The book has all the brilliance one expects from this great French analyzer of the miseries and grandeurs of men and women. . . It must be said that the novel moves jerkily, with such abrupt transitions at times that the reader feels shaken as if by an unexpected turn in a bus. There is also a certain amount of history which is helpful to a full understanding." Paul Engle
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Ja 14 '51 200w

Reviewed by George Miles
+ Commonweal 53:550 Mr 9 '51 650w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel
Manchester Guardian p4 N 30 '51 280w

"His urbane technique was unequal to so large a task. Also, since he lacked the athletic cynicism of Maupassant, he could not find the success-story conclusion that sufficed the latter for a not unrelated character in the consummately finished 'Bel Ami.' His novel therefore remains a delightful might-have-been, a spirited and ingenious gripe, a window opening on its author's brain, which is of more interest to the littérateur than to the common reader and reveals a sneaking admiration for the diabolism it attacks." Gerald Sykes
Nation 172:185 F 24 '51 1150w

New Statesman & Nation 42:603 N 24 '51 210w

"In the unrevised, truncated state in which Stendhal left it, 'The Telegraph' is a novel with more faults than I have the energy to shake a stick at. Yet, strangely enough, once begun it will hold a civilized reader's attention to where it breaks off—for it does not possess even the merit of ending. The secret of Stendhal's fascination, which every critic may find to be something different, is less important to state than to experience." Marvin Lowenthal
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 D 17 '50 850w

"Viewing Frenchmen of the nineteenth century without either hate or love, and solely as the tools wielded by the possessor of the Budget—Lucien never quite succeeds in attaining this state of mind, but his creator sustains it with all the unflagging Stendhalian vivacity. Stendhal's tone could be aptly described by his description of the weather: 'pleasantly cold with still a little sunshine.' Those who look to fiction for an intellectual rather than emotional treat will not be put off by this sunny coldness." Harry Levin
N Y Times p5 D 10 '50 900w

"The translation is faithful and usually excellent, though the style has a certain literary primness. It is amusing to read of the hard-bitten politicians calling each other jackanapeses, chatterboxes, and rapscallions." Morris Bishop
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Ja 27 '51 650w

BEYLE, M. H.—Continued
"Unfinished as it is, Lucien Leuwen is a true coin of Stendhal's genius; only the edges want milling. It ranks almost with The Red and the Black and The Charterhouse of Parma, the great novels which Stendhal wrote before and after it; and it marks the mid-point in his development from a powerful psychologist who couldn't help laughing at the people he created, to a deadly satirist who couldn't stop creating the people he laughed at."
+ Time 56:58 D 25 '50 650w

BIALK, ELISA (MRS L. MARTIN KRAUTTER). Wild horse island; il. by Paul Brown. 201p $2 Houghton 51-9242

Jim was the ten-year-old son of a Chicago football coach. When his father was told to take it easy for a year the family went to an island ranch in a large Montana lake. The story describes Jim's happy year and his successful capture of a wild horse.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51

"How Jim hunted and hoped and finally found and won his wild filly is handled with intelligence and sympathy and puts just the right happy finish on a book all young horse enthusiasts are sure to love." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ap 1 '51 250w

Kirkus 19:25 Ja 15 '51 160w

"Recommended for grades 4-5." J. E. Tompkins
+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 8 '51 50w

Wis Lib Bul 47:123 My '51

BIANCO, MARGERY (WILLIAMS). Writing and criticism. See Moore, A. C., and Miller, B. M., eds.

BIANCO, PAMELA (MRS ROBERT SCHLICK). Little houses far away. 87p il $2.25 Oxford 51-13193

A fantasy in which two children on a long train journey go adventuring in a world of dolls and teddy bears. For ages six to ten.

Booklist 48:174 Ja 15 '52

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 N 11 '51 120w

"Little girls who enjoy doll stories and imaginative tales will treasure this book." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:324 S '51 120w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
Horn Bk 27:400 D '51 80w

Kirkus 19:614 O 15 '51 160w

Reviewed by M. C. Skinner
Library J 76:2009 D 1 '51 70w

"Where are the little girls of about five to eight, who still love to 'pretend' about dolls? Here they have a particular treasure: a doll book that is not a doll-house book, a fairy story that combines the dreams of two small children. . . Beautifully written, such a story of favorite toys is a happy book to read aloud. The pictures are jewel-like, very clear for all their miniature details, extraordinary in their imagination and design." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 11 '51 160w

"Sensitive children will treasure this unusual book. They will find imagination and taste in a fantasy which they will accept unquestioningly because it is written without a trace of patronage." L. R. Davis
+ N Y Times p39 N 11 '51 120w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:181 D 1 '51 50w

"Unlike her previous stories for children this story is a fantasy, charmingly written and illustrated. . . The drawings are as original and as satisfying as the story. It is a book that little girls will love to have as a Christmas present."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:71 N 10 '51 230w

BIANCOLLI, LOUIS LEOPOLD, ed. Analytical concert guide. 722p $7.50 Doubleday
785.1 Music—Analysis, interpretation, appreciation 51-14391

Selection of program notes on European music for concert-goers and music students. Index.

Bookmark 11:55 D '51 40w

Chicago Sunday Tribune p42 D 2 '51 30w

"It is a book remarkably generous with space: the essay on Mahler's 'Song of the Earth,' for example, is 10 pages long and includes the complete text in German and English. But dates of composition and first performance are curiously lacking. . . American composers are entirely omitted for the express reason that the editor is preparing a subsequent volume devoted to their works. If it is as fine a job as the present issue, it will have been worth waiting for." K. G. Roy
+ — Christian Science Monitor p15 D 13 '51 110w

BIBLE. WHOLE. SELECTIONS. Shorter Oxford Bible; abr. and ed. by G. W. Briggs [and others]. 476p maps $1.85 Oxford 220.52 [51-3309]

"Abridged and edited by G. W. Briggs, canon of Worcester, G. B. Caird, of McGill University, and N. Micklem, principal of Mansfield College, Oxford. [It] consists of selections from the Bible, skillfully arranged under subject headings, for consecutive reading or convenient reference, with brief introductory notes designed to throw light on the contents of each section." Sat R of Lit

"As compared with other 'shorter Bibles,' this one shows a more extensive editing and rearrangement of the materials, a definite purpose to present a program for the teaching and reading of the Bible in schools (or for supervised use by children in families). . . It seems extraneous to a book that professes to be simply a 'shorter Bible' and does not, on the face of it, claim to be a textbook for a course of study in religion. As a matter of fact, it is such a textbook, and for the most part a very good one. But primarily it presents 400 pages of Scripture (including a few selections from the Apocrypha) in a form that invites reading." W. E. G.
+ Christian Century 68:741 Je 20 '51 170w

Reviewed by J. F. Davidson
Churchman 165:16 S '51 150w

"The book should prove really helpful alike to the school teacher and to the general reader not brought up on the Bible."
+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 21 '51 120w

"Though useful for general reading, the book is designed primarily for teaching." G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Jl 22 '51 70w

Reviewed by B. R. Redman
Sat R of Lit 34:23 Jl 7 '51 100w

BIDDLE, FRANCIS BEVERLEY. Fear of freedom; a discussion of the contemporary obsession of anxiety and fear in the United States; its historical background and present expression; and its effect on national security and on free American institutions; introd. by H. L. Ickes. 263p $3.50 Doubleday
323.4 Civil rights. Liberty 51-14392

"Francis Biddle, Attorney General of the United States from 1944-'45, has given us here a careful analysis of the deep concern with 'security' and 'loyalty' that has seized upon the American mind in the last decade. He addresses himself, against the historical background and with historical analogies, to the actual operation of the 'loyalty' campaign on national, state and local levels in government and in education, and to the impact of the whole thing on the civil service, on schools, on science, on our liberties and our security. The moral of the book is given by Franklin in a quotation which Mr. Biddle has placed on page one: 'They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety.'" (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R) No index.

Booklist 48:138 D 15 '51

Reviewed by Willard Edwards
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Ja 6 '52 350w

Reviewed by S. R. Davis
Christian Science Monitor p9 D 12 '51 600w

Reviewed by Emmet Lavery
Commonweal 55:308 D 28 '51 750w

Kirkus 19:549 S 15 '51 160w

"An important and timely book." A. J. Gaines
+ Library J 76:1699 O 15 '51 120w

"Mr Biddle challenges in toto the value as well as the propriety of the loyalty program. He points out that it has been going on for five years, now, and has produced no useful results. . . No less sobering is Mr. Biddle's review of state and local interference in schools and colleges, and particularly valuable is the laboratory case study of the Broyles Commission in Illinois." H. S. Commager
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 D 9 '51 1500w

"Mr. Biddle writes soberly though not without passion; his style is easy and non-technical. Indeed, far from being too legalistic, the book rather strangely neglects the judicial aspect of its narrative. The President's various stands and retreats on the front of First Amendment freedoms are recounted here and there, and dealt with gently; the Supreme Court's almost complete rout in the same battle is scarcely mentioned at all. . . The best thing about this fine book is the attitude it engenders. It will furnish the starch that many backbones seem to need these days." E. N. Cahn
+ N Y Times p18 D 2 '51 700w

"As befits a former judge, Mr. Biddle writes with restraint and control, but he is patently concerned about the means being employed (he does not quarrel with the end) to insure security in the event of war. . . His recommendations as to what should be done to help the country grow up are thoughtful and constructive."
+ New Yorker 27:78 D 22 '51 210w
School & Society 74:366 D 8 '51 50w

BIG meeting day, and other festival tales; il. by Billie Nielsen. 243p $2.50 Aladdin

Festivals—Juvenile literature 50-12561

Collection of stories about fifteen local and national festivities celebrated in the United States. Partial contents: Big meeting day (Tennessee), by May Justus; A camellia for John McDonogh (New Orleans), by Carl Carmer; Johanna goes to the fair (Minnesota), by E. L. Brock; The missing E (New Hampshire), by Elizabeth Yates; A lantern for liberty (Lexington, Massachusetts), by Edna Boutwell; A shelter in the back yard (Brooklyn, New York), by Katherine Shippen; Harvest home (Pennsylvania), by Betty Peckham; Con Og and his donkey (St Patrick's Day), by M. R. Walsh. For grades 4-7.

Booklist 47:140 D 1 '50

"A highly successful collection of stories by well-known authors."
+ Kirkus 18:642 O 15 '50 110w

"This readable-looking book, just the right size, with nice spacing and large type, will intrigue children. . . Will be read by children not as a festival book but just as a good collection of stories, and it will be used in schools when material is needed about special sections of the country." Phyllis Fenner
+ Library J 75:2157 D 15 '50 80w
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 N 12 '50 50w

BILLINGS, HENRY. Construction ahead. 158p il $3 Viking

625.7 Roads—U.S. 51-12400

A detailed history of road making in the United States using New York route 199 as an example. From the days of deer and Indian trails down to the present with its asphalt, steel bridges, and culverts, the course is traced for ages twelve or older.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Reviewed by E. C. Ince
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 13 '51 90w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
Horn Bk 27:401 D '51 30w

"Will hold the keen interest of almost any boy over ten or twelve." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:424 D '51 80w

"Illuminating side-excursions into methods and machines and good looking drawings by the author make this a necessary staple for the library shelf and a saleable item for special interests."
+ Kirkus 19:398 Ag 1 '51 120w

"Though occasionally draggy and tedious for the age intended, it will nevertheless, be read with pleasure by the travel and engineer enthusiasts. Should be considered for reference value." L. T. Bulman
Library J 76:1947 N 15 '51 90w

"The section on construction is about a real road, which Mr. Billings watched being built near his home on the Hudson. But the book applies to all modern roadmaking and will interest any one over twelve who goes anywhere in a car." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 16 '51 160w

"Youngsters over 12, and their dads, too, will read this book with the excitement of discovery." H. B. Lent
+ N Y Times p12 N 11 '51 120w

"It is a beautiful and well-printed book that gives a stunning picture of the growth of America through one of its many important highways."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:72 N 10 '51 150w

BINDER, RAYMOND CHARLES. Advanced fluid dynamics and fluid machinery. 426p il $8; to schools $6 Prentice-Hall

532.5 Hydromechanics 51-4423

"An engineering college textbook designed to take the student further in his comprehension of fluid mechanics than the topics included in the author's Fluid Mechanics [Book Review Digest 1943] and other first-course, books. The first of three parts is devoted to steady one-dimensional compressible flow, boundary-layer flow, turbulence, etc. The second part contains treatments of the principles of such machines as axial-flow compressors, centrifugal pumps, fluid torque converters, jet pumps, and turbines. The third part covers more difficult conditions such as unsteady flow, steady two-dimensional compressible flow and viscous flow. Literature references are included." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by C. E. Lapple
Chem & Eng N 29:5183 D 3 '51 230w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1230 Ag '51 80w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:70 S '51
School & Society 73:415 Je 30 '51 30w

BIOCHEMISTRY of B vitamins [by] Roger J. Williams [and others]. 741p $12 Reinhold

574.194 Biological chemistry. Vitamins 50-9544

"A comprehensive technical treatise on the family of B vitamins. . . Both physiological and pharmacological aspects are covered. The book is of primary interest to professional biochemists and physiologists and of secondary interest to pharmaceutical manufacturers and medical practitioners. It is an essential addition to active collections on biochemistry." (Library J) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

BIOCHEMISTRY—Continued

"This book will form a very useful addition to the library of those working in the field. Certain sections, especially that on 'Catalytic Functions of the B Vitamins' are must reading for the student of biochemistry. The book considered in its entirety, fills a place not occupied by any other at the present time." E. L. R. Stokstad

+ Am Chem Soc J 73:2979 Je '51 550w

Bookmark 10:88 Ja '51 40w

"This book is a valuable addition to the biochemical literature and will be of interest to specialists and students in general." D. V. Frost

+ Chem & Eng N 28:4392 D 11 '50 370w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 75:1833 O 15 '50 130w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:98 Mr '51 190w

BIRD, GEORGE LLOYD, and MERWIN, FREDERIC EATON, eds. Press and society; a book of readings. rev ed 655p $6.65; to schools $5 Prentice-Hall

070.1 Press—U.S. 51-11016

"This has been arranged into chapters on public opinion, propaganda, and freedom of the press; a compilation of material on how news takes shape; and how the press views major contemporary problems, its own function, and its physical appearance." (School & Society) First published in 1942 with title: Newspaper and Society (Book Review Digest 1942).

"Bird and Merwin have done a good job in compiling The Press and Society. The book is a revised edition of their Newspaper and Society, and it includes significant postwar criticism and studies of the American press, embracing newspapers and radio. . . It is probably too much to expect that the majority of the working press, the editors and publishers will either welcome this collection of essays or allow themselves to be governed by some of its criticism. In that judgment I hope I will be proved wrong." Donald McDonald

+ Commonweal 54:336 Jl 13 '51 1700w

School & Society 73:335 My 26 '51 40w

BIRDSEYE, CLARENCE, and BIRDSEYE, MRS ELEANOR (GANNETT). Growing woodland plants [drawings by Walter L. Graham]. 223p $4 Oxford

635.9 Flowers. Gardening 51-10779

"Detailed descriptive and cultural directions for more than 200 kinds of desirable wildflowers and ferns. Illustrative drawings. Soil reaction requirements, glossary, bibliography, index." Bookmark

Booklist 47:357 Je 15 '51

Bookmark 10:203 Je '51 40w

"The first third of this handbook on a woodland garden is stimulating and challenging, and should prove enormously helpful to anyone who has a bit of woodland area of which a garden could be made. . . The last two thirds of the book, in which some 250 woodland plants are described, had a great deal that the interested observer would want to know, but the arrangement I found difficult and impractical. Probably the naturalist would immediately see the reason for the order."

+ — Kirkus 19:256 My 15 '51 170w

BISBEE, ELEANOR. The new Turks; pioneers of the Republic, 1920-1950. 298p il $5 Univ. of Pa. press

956 Turkey—Politics and government. Turkey—Social conditions 51-10780

"This narrative is not only the story of the changing of an ancient civilization from a decadent empire into a modern republic, but the story of the adjustment of a people to the modern world. In twenty-five years the Turks have adapted themselves to radical changes in personal and national life. . . It is also the story of their great leader Atatürk." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:360 Je 15 '51

"Miss Bisbee is, probably, too fond of her subject to do full justice to Turkish failures, especially in her account of Turkish nationalism and minorities. Where she ventures beyond recent history, her judgments are sometimes questionable and her facts inaccurate. But 'The New Turks' does communicate warmly and vividly the qualities of an interesting people." M. A. Fitzimons

+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 1 '51 500w

Reviewed by J. G. Harrison

Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 26 '51 600w

"This is an informative, though highly apologetic survey of the three decades of the new Turkish national state. . . The Turks will be very pleased with this amiable book that makes easy reading. Almost everything is seen through rosy glasses." Max Fischer

+ Commonweal 54:342 Jl 13 '51 120w

Reviewed by N. D. Palmer

Current Hist 21:34 Jl '51 300w

"A former teacher in American colleges in Turkey, whose first-hand knowledge of that enigmatic but slowly rising nation dates from 1936 to 1942, has written a comprehensive, scholarly and fluent study of the country until recently dubbed the 'sick man of Europe.'"

+ Kirkus 19:244 My 1 '51 150w

Reviewed by Fitzhugh Turner

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ag 26 '51 450w

"It is not only difficult to believe but it is also factually untrue to say that the Ottoman Empire was utterly and completely bad or even that it was solely responsible for the tragic circumstances of its later years. After all, the new Turks are the sons and daughters of the old. Turkish history is a continuum which should not be arbitrarily broken at the date of the founding of the Republic; furthermore, neither the old Turks nor the new need be ashamed of it. . . However, once these points are made, nothing should stop us from congratulating Miss Bisbee for having accomplished an admittedly difficult task with thoroughness and grace, and on the whole with an understanding of modern Turkey which comes as a pleasant surprise." Hasan Ozbekkan

+ — N Y Times p3 My 20 '51 750w

"The 1930's were the halcyon days of the pioneer age of the Turkish Republic. . . In describing this era Miss Bisbee is at her best. One of the more interesting and revealing chapters is entitled Fun, on the accurate assumption that the way a people have fun is a key to 'their own way of life.' . . Dr. Bisbee is a real friend of the New Turks, though no apologist for their errors." S. N. Fisher

+ Sat R of Lit 34:31 Je 16 '51 1000w

"Not conventional history, nor a journalistic account of the startling rejuvenation of the Turkish body politic, Dr. Bisbee's book neatly combines academic insight with journalistic competence to produce an interesting and precise picture of the life and attitudes of the present day Turks."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:267 S '51 180w

BISCHOF, GEORGE P. Atoms at work; a preview of science; drawings by Jere Donovan. 130p $2.25 Harcourt

541.2 Atoms—Juvenile literature. Atomic energy—Juvenile literature 51-10007

Explains the basic principles of atomic activity in terms understandable to pupils of grades six to nine. Contains diagrams.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:256 Jl '51 70w

"If you are looking for a book about atoms and their behavior for 12-14-year-olds, this is it. Authoritative, simply written, it answers many children's questions. . . Recommended for juvenile science collections." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:715 Ap 15 '51 80w

"It is a fine book written as we hope many science teachers do talk to their classes." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 My 13 '51 180w

Reviewed by G. O. Blough
N Y Times p18 Jl 15 '51 30w

"If you must consider the atomic bomb at Christmastime, this introduciton to the discovery and nature of atomic activity is remarkably readable, well organized, and easy to comprehend." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:190 D 1 '51 90w

"It would be hard to find a better book than this for an understanding of the actions of molecules and atoms and their effect upon the science of atomic development and use. . . Perhaps because the book grew out of questions asked by the writer's son it is so uncomplicated and clear. If it was intended for the younger generation, it has a definite value for unscientifically minded adults."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:72 N 10 '51 100w
Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 70w

"The clarity of the text, the suggested experiments, and the calm philosophical approach to the subject will make the book valuable to teachers and pupils alike."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:245 S '51 70w
Wis Lib Bul 47:153 Je '51

BISHOP, MRS CLAIRE (HUCHET). All things common. 274p il $3 Harper
335.944 Communistic settlements 50-10448

"Here is a report on the Communitarian Movement as Mrs. Bishop has seen it in France, Italy and Switzerland. These 'Communities of Work,' a new social and economic phenomenon, are primarily spontaneously developed small groups, based on common enterprise for both work and living a full life. A factory, a farm, a school may be the work center; the social center is the group, formulating its own ethical standards." (Library J) No index.

Booklist 47:167 Ja 1 '51
Cath World 173:399 Ag '51 80w

"An interesting and well-documented description of the now quite numerous experiments by worker groups in France, Switzerland, and elsewhere in western Europe in building a commutarian society." Neil Martin
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 F 7 '51 370w

"Fascinating for economist and sociologist. Eminently readable." M. E. Monroe
+ Library J 75:2075 D 1 '50 130w

"Those who have studied the rise and decline of Brook Farm, Oneida, Fruitlands, and similar communities will read this eulogy of their present-day descendants with nostalgic and somewhat skeptical interest."
Nation 171:661 D 16 '50 300w

"Mrs. Bishop has described the Work Communities with human sympathy, with a cool head and a keen eye." Stringfellow Barr
+ New Repub 124:19 Je 11 '51 750w

Reviewed by H. W. Laidler
Survey 87:301 Je '51 400w

"Recommended."
+ Wis Lib Bul 46:31 D '50

BISHOP, MORRIS GILBERT. Life and adventures of La Rochefoucauld. 282p $3.75 Cornell univ. press
B or 92 La Rochefoucauld, François, duc de 51-14141

Francois VI, duc de La Rochefoucauld, the seventeenth century French nobleman was famous as soldier, politician, and author of a book of reflections, Les Maximes. The author of this biography is professor of romance languages at Cornell. Index.

"It is hardly necessary to add that Mr. Bishop's taste, as always, is sure, and that this book is a labor of love." Wayne Andrews
+ Commonweal 55:307 D 28 '51 600w

"Book fills real gap, since there is no definitive biography of La Rochefoucauld available. Should find enthusiastic readers, not only among scholars, but also in the educated general public. Recommended for college and public libraries." F. E. Hirsch
+ Library J 76:1558 O 1 '51 120w

"La Rochefoucauld is so brilliant a subject and Bishop presents him in such engaging detail that we remain convinced of the general worth of the book even when we dissent from some of its main conclusions." F. W. Dupee
+ N Y Times p5 N 4 '51 750w

"Mr. Bishop has written this book in a most felicitous manner, incorporating in his text many of La Rochefoucauld's witty and cynical reflections, so that it often seems that the old roué himself is recounting his adventures."
+ New Yorker 27:157 D 15 '51 220w

BIXLER, JULIUS SEELYE. Faith that fulfills. 122p $2 Harper
234.2 Christianity 51-10835

"The president of Colby College contributes to the reconciliation of intelligence with religion, which is the object of perpetual quest by the intelligent who are not too self-sufficient and the religious who cannot forget that it was God who gave men their power to reason. Dr. Bixler's is by nature and habit a critical mind, but one that is sensitive also to the nonrational factors of human life and aspiration." (Christian Century) Index.

Christian Century 68:1345 N 21 '51 60w

"Dr. Bixler writes as president of Colby College. It was his distinction in other years to have been sensitively sympathetic with students in his classrooms. It is reassuring to find that his present duties as an administrator have matured rather than dulled that quality of his mind and heart. . . By far the most interesting, suggestive, and important chapter in the book is that on 'The Ministry of Pain.' " W. L. Sperry
+ Crozer Q 28:347 O '51 1050w
Kirkus 19:270 Je 1 '51 140w

BLACK, ARTHUR. Landscape sketching. 109p il $4.50 McGraw 741.42 Drawing 50-9407

The fundamentals of pencil sketching of landscape details, with copious illustrations and diagrams. The author is director of the Central Park School of Art.

"Can be used for self-study or as a classroom guide."
Bookmark 10:36 N '50 10w
Cleveland Open Shelf p2 Ja '51

"An excellent 'how to do it' handbook by an art teacher of many years experience who believes that any one who can hold and control a pencil can learn to draw landscapes. Well and thoroughly illustrated." C. W. W.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p27 D 3 '50 80w
School Arts 50:7a Ja '51 100w

BLACK, JOHN DONALD. Rural economy of New England; a regional study. 796p maps $7.50; text ed $5.75 Harvard univ. press
338.1 Agriculture—New England. New England—Industries and resources. Land utilization 50-9844

"With its 155 charts and 123 tables, this book presents more data on New England agriculture and farm management, 1880-1945, than are available in any other single volume. The first 200 pages give information about the economic and institutional setting, topography, climate, soils, and other natural resources, population trends, trade, transportation, and location of industries. The bulk of the book deals in great detail with farm management problems and practices, particularly those in dairy farming and milk marketing. In two final chapters, the author cautiously forecasts some probable trends and makes a strong plea for a regional development program." (U S Quarterly Bkl) Index.

BLACK, J. D.—Continued

"As a whole The Rural Economy of New England should provide an extremely valuable foundation for research programs in New England, not alone in agricultural economics but in many other lines as well. In addition, it provides a pilot study in the way of a new approach to regional studies that will undoubtedly be read with interest by many students in other regions." M. R. Benedict
+ Am Econ R 41:739 S '51 700w

Reviewed by Eugene Wilkening
Am J Soc 56:618 My '51 600w
Am Pol Sci R 45:242 Mr '51 40w

"A regional narrative told with authority." W. C. McKain
+ Am Soc R 15:817 D '50 800w

"This is the sort of book for which agricultural economists have been waiting for at least one generation, namely a thorough synoptic analysis of the rural economy of the United States. At long last Professor John D. Black of Harvard University has presented the professional community and the general public with such a book." Karl Brandt
+ Ann Am Acad 274:234 Mr '51 550w

Reviewed by H. G. Halcrow
J Pol Econ 59:267 Je '51 850w

"The adjustments in the rural economy begun in the last war will be speeded up by the rearmament program. If the changes are to be well directed, Dr. Black's book will be invaluable to all concerned. His ability to translate 'ponderous volumes filled with nothing much but tables' into understandable English narrative makes his book usuable by everyone. In its range from geological history to an analysis of farm income and family living, the specialist may quarrel with the presentation of some detail of his specialty. But even the specialist will learn much from the over-all picture. It will make him want to get things done." J. L. Carten
+ New Eng Q 24:410 S '51 800w

"Nearly 800 pages have been lavished here on a monumental analysis of New England agriculture, yet the author, a Professor of Economics at Harvard, has failed to bring the subject into sharp focus. It is not news that New England is no farmers' Arcadia. However, when Mr. Black offers a program of 'adjustment,' he does not make it clear at what the adjustment is aimed." Palmer Harman
N Y Times p41 O 22 '50 160w

"Professor Black's book is particularly impressive because of the use he has made of the very large volume of research publications of the six New England agricultural experiment stations and of the federal agencies coöperating with them. The analysis of New England's rural economy is aided immeasurably by 155 charts and maps and 123 tables. These alone make it an indispensable reference work for anyone interested in contemporary New England." E. C. Rozwenc
+ Pol Sci Q 66:151 Mr '51 180w

"Although the general reader will be baffled by the book's mass of statistical data, relative scarcity of illuminating generalizations, and its difficult style, agricultural experts, officers of cooperatives, and editors of country newspapers will find it a mine of useful information. They owe a great debt to Professor Black for his painstaking assembling of data from the work of experiment stations, of research agencies, and the like, as well as for his valuable comparative studies and his shrewd comments."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:479 D '50 260w

BLACK, MARY MARTIN. Summerfield farm; il. by Wesley Dennis. 143p $2.50 Viking 51-10170

True stories about the animals on a real farm in Virginia, illustrated by black and white drawings. The stories are told by a grandmother who is sometimes the heroine. For ages seven to ten.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

"The book is based on facts, and the lovely illustrations by Mr. Dennis, who is a neighbor of Mrs. Black, are as delightful as the stories." A. L. Shea
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 Ap 22 '51 180w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '51

"Author and artist live on neighboring farms in Virginia and together have created a beautiful book. Fine for reading aloud to children from six to eleven." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:181 My '51 160w

"The wholesome appeal of this book will encourage interest in livestock, caring for pets, and pride in rural life. Clever black-and-white drawings by Wesley Dennis, with inviting green-and-yellow cover. Recommended." M. M. Gantt
+ Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 60w

"Adults will enjoy reading this unusual book aloud, for Granny's style is delightful. The famous artist lives next door, so he has exactly portrayed the lovely place and all its pets; in fact, he persuaded Granny to do the book. This reader specially recommends the stories about dogs and horses and the calf Starlet and can vouch for the way Granny brought up her pigs and banties and guinea fowl. At the end we find that through these stories the farm was saved for a fourth generation." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 My 13 '51 250w

"Vivid and convincing. . . The reader gets the impression of an affectionate family, each member of which has his own important part to play in the drama of successful farm life." E. H.
+ N Y Times p30 Ap 22 '51 140w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:175 D 1 '51 30w
Sat R of Lit 34:46 Je 9 '51 180w
Wis Lib Bul 47:152 Je '51

BLACK, MAX, ed. Philosophical analysis; a collection of essays. 429p $5 Cornell univ. press
104 Philosophy 50-9938

"The seventeen essays presented here are by a group, mostly of younger men, representative of the 'analytic' school of Anglo-American philosophical thought. The topics discussed are: the certainty of statements descriptive of sense experience; the certainty of empirical statements; the concept of probability; the justification of induction and of first principles generally; phenomenalism; the theory of 'appearing'; the concept of 'substratum'; difficulties in the meaningfulness of statements about the past; the analogy between ethical and ceremonial language; the dependence of obligation upon capacity to fulfill it; the expressive theory of art; the interpretation of works of art; the alleged inadequacies of natural language; the meaning of some logical terms; entailment and necessity; and problems connected with introspection." U S Quarterly Bkl

---

"In this valuable book Mr. Black has collected a number of previously unpublished essays by some of the ablest philosophers on both sides of the Atlantic. The contributors, we are told, were asked to provide examples of philosophical analysis and not argument about analysis. The contributions cover a wide field, chiefly in logic and epistemology; the unity of the book derives from the fact that these various problems are tackled in a roughly similar way." C. K. Grant + Ethics 61:154 Ja '51 1800w

"Of high quality and well written, some of the essays would be intelligible and interesting to the general reader."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:419 D '50 240w

BLACKWOOD, CAROLYN (PHILIPS) (MRS ANDREW WATTERSON BLACKWOOD). Pastor's wife; introd. by Andrew W. Blackwood. 187p $2.50 Westminster press

253 Clergymen's wives 51-9792

"A pastor's wife gives her opinion of desirable personal qualities for the woman following this vocation. Reinforced by answers to a questionnaire, which she addressed to lay women and wives of ministers, the author suggests solutions to typical problems. Friendly, practical advice with good, brief bibliographies for further reading." Booklist

Booklist 47:287 Ap 15 '51

"Everyone connected with a Protestant Church in a small city or town must be fully aware of the important role of the minister's wife. There is certainly need in the seminary for preparatory courses for future ministers' wives. This book is admirably suited for such a purpose, and if one has a friend who is planning to marry a minister this would be a good book to recommend."

+ Kirkus 19:56 F 1 '51 160w

"The author has a sincere purpose and deeply religious approach which should appeal particularly to many young women trying to find their way through the maze of small town religious procedure. Useful bibliographies are included at the end of each chapter. Recommended for a limited group." R. P. Tubby

+ Library J 76:510 Mr 15 '51 90w

BLADES, WILLIAM F. Fishing flies and fly tying; American insects and their imitations; il. by the author. 234p $7.50 Stackpole & Heck

799.12 Flies, Artificial 51-9825

Illustrations and text on fly tying and fishing flies, written by an experienced sportsman, for the beginner. "Approximately 775 flies have been photographed, nearly 200 of them in full color, plus 203 drawings by the author, who is an exceptional artist." (Springf'd Republican) Index.

"Style simple and to the point. A perfect combination for an excellent book. . . Recommended for beginner and expert." R. W. Henderson

+ Library J 76:779 My 1 '51 50w

San Francisco Chronicle p20 Jl 15 '51 100w

"Simple and easy to follow. Instructions are clear and Blades has made no mystery of tying lures that resemble American insects." Leo Marceau

+ Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 270w

BLAIR, CORNELIA. Nora Drake story. 251p $2.75 Duell

50-10604

"The starched and valiant lady who has captured the heart-throbs of so many radio listeners throughout America has now been backhanded into a novel that deals with her years as a probationer in a great city hospital, her dedication to the profession of nursing—and, of course, her first starcrossed love affair." N Y Times

Kirkus 18:646 O 15 '50 100w

"Nora's doubts and dilemmas, and her eventual triumph, are poured into an all-too-familiar mold. And yet, the wealth of hospital detail will be of interest to every novel-reader—even to the reader who has never tuned in on this program." Wilbur Watson

N Y Times p25 D 10 '50 100w

"After an apparently successful and protracted career in a five-a-week CBS network program Nora Drake now seeks more permanent embodiment between book covers. She might better have remained where she obviously belongs. For this novel is unadulterated soap opera—a banal story, dripping with sentiment." R. P.

— Sat R of Lit 34:37 Ja 20 '51 270w

Springf'd Republican p8B Ja 7 '51 130w

BLANKSTEN, GEORGE I. Ecuador: constitutions and caudillos. 196p $3; pa $2 Univ. of Calif. press

342.86 Ecuador—Constitutional history. Ecuador—Politics and government A51-9332

"Case study of political problems in Ecuador. . . [The author] points out that Ecuadorians say theirs is the 'classic' country in which to study revolution. No one of its numerous constitutions has been able to give Ecuador a stable government. Only 10 per cent of its presidents have been able to fill out their four-year terms. The author has carefully examined the many factors which have led to this instability." Current Hist

Reviewed by L. T. Heron

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 30 '51 40w

Current Hist 21:167 S '51 130w

BLANSHARD, PAUL. Communism, democracy and Catholic power. 340p $3.50 Beacon press

947.084 Communism—Russia. Roman Catholic church—Doctrinal and controversial works—Protestant authors 51-10843

"The author begins this discussion by saying, 'Probably no aspect of world affairs is more carefully avoided by American writers today than the fundamental resemblance between the Vatican and the Kremlin.' He then proceeds to see what one man can do to remedy that situation. He believes that the U.S.S.R. and the Church of Rome—mortal enemies since 1917—are equally grave threats to the philosophy and practice of democracy, which he defines as 'a system of free choices and a gospel of free minds.' In a series of parallel chapters, he points out similarities between the two institutions in, for instance, 'thought control,' 'the management of truth,' 'structure of power,' and in 'strategy of penetration.'" (New Yorker) Index.

Reviewed by Philip Selznick

Am Pol Sci R 45:1202 D '51 1250w

Reviewed by B. E. Nelson

Ann Am Acad 278:230 N '51 700w

Reviewed by S. E. Johnson

Atlantic 188:74 Ag '51 2200w

Booklist 47:360 Je 15 '51

"The author here proposes to discuss topics which—to repeat an old phrase—have great need of light; but unfortunately he contributes only heat. . . It seems nothing less than calamitous that an author whose writings are so widely distributed as Mr. Blanshard's should adopt the tone of a prosecutor bent on obtaining conviction at any cost, and should at times behave like a professional agitator eager only to foment confusion."

Cath World 173:478 S '51 190w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison

Christian Century 68:965 Ag 22 '51 1100w

"The book is destined, of course, to raise lively controversy, especially if the Roman Catholic hierarchy attempts to meet it in the field of open discussion. There may be a few small points at which Mr. Blanshard overstates his indictment, but if so, they are mountainously overshadowed by the mass of painstaking, dispassionate, credit-giving research and analysis." Tully Nettleton

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 My 21 '51 700w

Reviewed by J. P. Jones

Churchman 165:11 Jl '51 750w

"Mr. Blanshard touches on almost every facet of Catholic life. One could not rightfully object if he conscientiously challenged the Church's theological claims, her dogmas and moral system, her discipline and prayer life; in a word, if the book were a decent counter-apologetical work. Then the Catholic would be forced to justify his religion and its claims, as the great apologists have done. . . Whatever his motives, Mr. Blanshard, like Father Coughlin and Gerald L. K. Smith before him,

BLANSHARD, PAUL—Continued
sows suspicion and hatred and disunity in American life. I should not like to be carrying his burden." John Cogley
Commonweal 54:144 My 18 '51 2700w

Reviewed by M. S. Enslin
+ Crozer Q 28:348 O '51 900w

"Though better organized, better written than the earlier book, it inevitably faces the same challenge as a contribution to awareness of democracy's battles on many fronts."
Kirkus 19:219 Ap 15 '51 360w

Reviewed by A. D. Osborn
Library J 76:1224 Ag '51 140w

"Obviously, this will not succeed in pleasing everyone; but Mr. Blanshard is not trying to please everyone; and even those who may be displeased that such a book should have been written at all will have to admit (if they read it) that it is extremely well done and not at all easily answered." W. H.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Je 22 '51 200w

"I think he has been more successful in this book than in his first in avoiding even the suspicion of a superficial support of nationalism against a religion which seeks universality." Norman Thomas
+ Nation 172:590 Je 23 '51 650w

Reviewed by M. R. Werner
New Repub 125:18 Jl 2 '51 850w

"While his book may plead that it is a tract for the times, it displays only a rudimentary sense of the vast historical forces that were expressed in the structure and creed of the Church. In these respects, Mr. Blanshard's book is often shrill, not to say strident. Even so, his main contention stands: the rooted philosophy of the medieval church perforce was, and today still is, radically opposed to that of modern democracy, and therefore the motives from which the Church at this moment cajoles American aspirations are difficult to trust." Perry Miller
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Je 10 '51 1400w

Reviewed by J. M. O'Neill
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Je 10 '51 1700w

"His portrayal and relentless exposure of communism would make a valuable tract in itself. Yet what he says about the Kremlin is already accepted American doctrine. His main undertaking is to draw a deadly parallel between the Kremlin and the Vatican as centers of power. In attempting to do this he brings forward characteristics of both that are, in the first instance, not political at all." F. E. Johnson
N Y Times p7 My 20 '51 1700w

New Yorker 27:120 My 26 '51 140w

"This book ought to be read thoughtfully by every American. Unfortunately, it is likely to be read emotionally. The prospective reader will tend to approach it with relish or with hostility, depending on where he stood two years ago on Paul Blanshard's 'American Freedom and Catholic Power.' . . It is good that we are still free enough to have such a book published. After all, this country is dedicated to the freedom, of the human mind." Herbert Brucker
Sat R of Lit 34:26 Je 23 '51 900w

School & Society 74:335 N 24 '51 10w

Reviewed by M. J. Williams
Social Forces 30:243 D '51 320w

"Blanshard spends a good deal of his book methodically proving that Communism is an evil thing. It is a sound and lucid indictment. . . What worries Author Blanshard is 'the Roman Catholic church-state, a unique blend of personal faith, human compassion, clerical exploitation, and submissive ignorance.' He is not likely to convince anybody not already convinced. His claim that the church, in its long history, has often stood with undemocratic factions throughout the world is something too well documented for Catholics to deny. But Catholics can also remind Author Blanshard that Catholicism is to them a religion and not a political system; in all good conscience, they can be as good democrats as he is."
+ — Time 57:126 My 21 '51 370w

Wis Lib Bul 47:158 Je '51

BLANTON, CATHERINE. Trouble on Old Smoky; il. by Anne Merriman Peck. (Whittlesey house publication) 142p $2.25 McGraw 51-13296

Story of a family of Southern mountaineers whose land has been taken over by the government for a wild animal reserve altho they are allowed to stay on the farm. The younger boy, Sunny, can not go to school, the older boy has disappeared, the mother is ailing, but eventually all comes out right.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51

"It isn't a gory story, but very thrilling and exciting. The slight dialect adds to the flavor but not to reading difficulty. Realistic illustrations, together with very legible type, make a well designed book." Betty Russell
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 N 25 '51 110w

"The author has written a heart-warming story with good characterization, a convincing plot and a real feel of the mountain country in the midst of the Great Smokies." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:408 D '51 100w

"Warm, melodic backwoods dialect when tastefully utilized has always 'pleasured' us, and this gentle, appealing little story set in the Great Smokies has an absorbing charm."
+ Kirkus 19:319 Jl 1 '51 150w

"Recommended." Averil Randall
+ Library J 77:65 Ja 1 '52 80w

"An interesting and 'different' story for boys around twelve." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 14 '51 60w

"Miss Blanton has drawn here a moving portrait of a boy standing halfway between the traditions of his people and a new world. She shows the independence of the mountain people and their fierce love for that rugged, beautiful country. Yet Sunny and his parents are individuals, not types, and one follows their story to its happy outcome with sympathy and rising suspense." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p36 S 23 '51 160w

"Its strength lies in the true picture that it gives of the mountain people, especially of Sunny and his mother. It is well illustrated with black and white drawings." M. G. Davis
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 O 20 '51 190w

BLEEKER, SONIA (MRS HERBERT SPENCER ZIM). Apache Indians; raiders of the Southwest; il. by Althea Karr. 157p $2 Morrow

970.3 Apache Indians—Juvenile literature
51-1614

Second book in a series about the Indian tribes of North America of which Indians of the Longhouse (Book Review Digest 1950) was the first. This describes the life and customs of the Apache Indians of the Southwest.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51

Kirkus 19:62 F 1 '51 90w

"Recommended for all libraries." Harriet Morrison
Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 70w

"The author's method is purely informative, but in aiming at a younger audience she cleverly turns her descriptions into living incident. Many sketches offer authentic details." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 My 13 '51 120w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p22 My 6 '51 120w

"This colorful story will allow most children who read it to feel that they know intimately the Apache Indians. . . The numerous illustrations have a tremendous appeal to young readers and add to their understanding." M. R. Brown
+ Sat R of Lit 34:50 My 12 '51 300w

Springf'd Republican p12C Ap 22 '51 200w

Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

BLEEKER, SONIA (MRS HERBERT SPENCER ZIM). Sea hunters; Indians of the northwest coast; il. by Althea Karr. 159p $2 Morrow

970.3 Indians of North America—Juvenile literature 51-11586

"This is the third of Sonia Bleeker's books about the North American Indians. Like the other two it is an authentic record told with intimate details, a sense of family life and of the balance between work and play. The Coast Indians had no fields or gardens. They lived entirely by what they wrested from the sea." Sat R of Lit

Booklist 48:15 S 1 '51

"A fresh, entertaining addition to the series about our Indian-Americans."
Kirkus 19:350 Jl 15 '51 150w

"This is as well done as the author-anthropologist's first two books: Indians of the Longhouse and The Apache Indians." M. B. Snow
+ Library J 76:1711 O 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 O 21 '51 140w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p48 N 18 '51 80w

"Children from the fifth grade on will find Miss Bleeker's presentation interesting and full of information."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 N 11 '51 270w

"The chapter on salmon fishing is fascinating as we compare it with modern methods. Black-and-white drawings that show the primitive equipment as well as the people add to the value of an informing and interesting book."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:45 S 22 '51 60w
Wis Lib Bul 47:219 S '51

BLIZARD, MARIE. Watch sinister. 246p $2.50 Mill 51-5972

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:309 Je 15 '51 70w

"There's an overinvolved plot to this one which makes it heavy going at first, but the final solution is clever."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 9 '51 90w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p30 S 16 '51 30w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 9 '51 50w

"On the lurid side." Sergeant Cuff
Sat R of Lit 34:42 S 22 '51 40w
Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 90w

BLOCHMAN, LAWRENCE GOLDTREE. Rather cool for mayhem. 208p $2.50 Lippincott 50-11099

Detective story.

Booklist 47:255 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

"Competent, compact and convincing."
+ Kirkus 18:666 N 1 '50 70w

"A soundly worked out mystery—technically accurate and at the same time extremely readable."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 F 4 '51 200w

"Lawrence G. Blochman is an expert whodunit craftsman. His plot, in this case, is no great shakes, but it doesn't matter because he is good enough as an entertainer. The pace is lively, the people are likable and the dialogue is as smooth and well mixed as the cocktails." H. M.
+ N Y Times p27 F 25 '51 140w

"The Blochman specialties of smooth plot, believable characters and ease of style show up here to their best advantage." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 21 '51 180w
Sat R of Lit 34:34 Ja 20 '51 60w

BLOND, GEORGES. The plunderers; tr. by Frances Frenaye. 243p $3.50 Macmillan 51-13407

"Here is a tale of the sea and of seals, of men and their curious likeness to their amphibious brothers. . . The setting is the Aleutians, those cold, gloomy islands between Siberia and Alaska. . . The principal characters are two, Ogloph the bull seal, and Shayffrin, the Russian explorer. The time, although the tale is really timeless, is 1774 and 1775. The main scene is Goddess Island, whose volcanic creation is described in the first chapter." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

"Many an episode or character may be symbolic in this novel tangibly rooted in history and geografy. . . Let no one, however literal minded, take fright. The surface of this book will sustain the seeker of adventurous action all the way. But 'The Plunderers' also can move one to thought on human destiny and purpose and quality." A. C. Ames
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 14 '51 270w
Kirkus 19:411 Ag 1 '51 230w

"This is not a 'nature book.' It is a work of art. It is not technically orthodox. Mr. Blond thinks nothing of stepping out of the role of narrator and giving the reader a bit of geological or piscatorial education. (So did Melville in Moby Dick.) He may stop dead in his narrative and comment, referring to events that took place 150 years after his characters had died. M. Blond has written a profound, original book, the sort of book in which we suspect, new meanings can be found with each rereading." E. L. Acken
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 O 14 '51 550w

Reviewed by William McFee
N Y Times p36 O 14 '51 480w

"A very strange, painful, and moving story."
+ New Yorker 27:156 D 15 '51 140w

BLOOMQUIST, WALTER CARL, and others. Capacitors for industry; their selection, application, and economics for power-factor improvement of industrial plants. 246p il $4.50 Wiley

621.315 Condensers (electricity) 50-10535

"A practical discussion for plant electrical engineers, electricians, and others who are concerned with the electric power installations in factories and other industrial establishments. The economic and engineering aspects of capacitors in such systems are discussed compactly and authoritatively. Problems such as occur in designing a power system with capacitors, or installing capacitors in an established system are worked out in step-by-step detail. . . There is a useful annotated bibliography. Three of the authors are associated with the General Electric Company." N Y New Tech Bks

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 75:2007 N 15 '50 100w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:22 Mr '51

BLUCK, RICHARD STANLEY HAROLD. Plato's life and thought; with a tr. of the Seventh letter. 200p $2.50 Beacon press

184.1 Plato

"The aim of the author was to compile a readable concise life of Plato and to discuss the salient points of interest in most of his works. The book, which contains a translation of 'The Seventh Letter,' is intended not only for students but also for those who having no knowledge of Greek, are interested in Greek philosophy." School & Society

"The non-specialist seeking an initial acquaintance with Plato need seek no more. This is his book." R. B.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:31 S 15 '51 160w
School & Society 74:271 O 27 '51 50w

BLUM, DANIEL C. Pictorial history of the American theatre, 1900-1950. 276p $7.50 Greenberg

792 Theatre—U.S.—Pictorial works 51-9155

A collection of photographs of actors and actresses and scenes from the plays in which they played, arranged chronologically, telling the story of the American stage from 1900 to 1950. Index.

Booklist 47:184 Ja 15 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '51

"The editor of Theatre World has done a magnificent job. Highly recommended to theatre, music, and picture collections regardless of size of university or public library." George Freedley

+ Library J 76:114 Ja 15 '51 50w

New Yorker 27:115 F 17 '51 130w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 D 26 '50 850w

"I do not mean to be too harsh on Mr. Blum's book. Its major defect is that it could and should be much better. It has the virtue of being close to Broadway in its tone, quality, and feeling. Yet what it fails to supply is the dignity, heat, joy, or importance of the theatre which on one unpredictable night after another manages in mysterious ways to come to life—in spite of Broadway. This is the theatre which, after all, creates memories and haunts our minds. It is this same theatre which Mr. Blum must have hoped to record, even if it has eluded him." J. M. Brown

Sat R of Lit 34:28 F 17 '51 1900w

BLUM, HAROLD FRANCIS. Time's arrow and evolution. 222p il $4 Princeton univ. press

575 Evolution. Thermodynamics 51-11726

"The main thesis of this book is that the course of biological evolution has been determined by physical and chemical laws. 'Time's arrow' refers to the second law of thermodynamics and the book might be described as a treatise on the thermodynamics of mutation and other processes of evolution." Library J

Booklist 48:1; 25 S 1 '51; S 15 '51

"It is correct to say that this book can be understood by the serious lay reader interested in a new approach to the central problem. However, 'serious' and 'interested' should be emphasized." B. C. Hendricks

Christian Century 68:1409 D 5 '51 480w

"It is written in rather technical language and is more within the reach of readers educated in physical science than lay readers. For readers with the requisite background, it should be a thought-provoking book." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1230 Ag '51 70w

BLUM, JOHN MORTON. Joe Tumulty and the Wilson era. 337p $4 Houghton

B or 92 Tumulty, Joseph Patrick. Wilson, Woodrow. U.S.—Politics and government—20th century 51-5295

"This biography of Wilson's political mentor and White House Secretary accents the building and maintenance of the Democratic machine behind Wilson's election and administration. A fully documented account of the era's party politics makes this a necessary sourcebook for any library with a reference collection in American history." Library J

"This book is written in an easy style with apparent thorough scholarship. It is, in essence, a tragic story. Wilson did not usually appreciate loyalty." D. D. McKean

+ Am Pol Sci R 45:1211 D '51 380w

Booklist 48:9 S 1 '51

Reviewed by A. R. Pinci

Cath World 174:78 O '51 250w

Reviewed by A. S. Henning

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 22 '51 650w

"The tendency to make a hero of his subject works against Professor Blum's otherwise impressive marshaling of evidence in answer to the charges which more than anything else made Tumulty so controversial a figure: that his religious loyalties colored his acts and counsel in a highly sensitive and influential post at the elbow of the Chief Executive of the nation. These, however, are but debits well overbalanced by the credits. The book is undoubtedly a valuable addition to the literature of American history." E. B. Orr

+ — Christian Science Monitor p9 Jl 31 '51 550w

"John Morton Blum has written sympathetically, sometimes admiringly, always competently of Tumulty and his role in the Wilson era." Donald McDonald

+ Commonweal 54:460 Ag 17 '51 700w

Current Hist 21:167 S '51 90w

Kirkus 19:242 My 1 '51 330w

"Recommended." Scott Adams

+ Library J 76:958 Je 1 '51 70w

"Written with grace and spirit and with genuine insight into the workings of practical politics, this book is an excellent example of the newer political history now being written. By making a meaningful connection between political maneuvers and live social issues, Mr. Blum has helped redeem a once barren field." W. V. Shannon

+ New Repub 125:20 S 3 '51 550w

"It appears in a single volume and not an unusually thick one, but Mr. Blum's work is in fact three books—first, a factual account of a remarkable and attractive personality; second, a study in loyalty, and, third, a handbook of practical politics. . . Mr. Blum has not wasted his labor. His sympathetic, always lucid and sometimes sparkling account of Joe Tumulty is a valuable document added to the history of our times." G. W. Johnson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Jl 15 '51 850w

"This is both a learned and an interesting book. The learning appears in the elaborate documentation; the interest derives in part from whatever light is thrown on the mysterious Woodrow Wilson." H. S. Commager

+ — N Y Times p1 Jl 29 '51 1550w

New Yorker 27:67 Ag 4 '51 340w

Reviewed by D. H. Sheehan

Pol Sci Q 66:635 D '51 450w

"Here is a warm, sympathetic biography of one of the most fascinating characters in recent American politics." A. S. Link

+ Sat R of Lit 34:20 Jl 14 '51 800w

Reviewed by Donald Derby

Springf'd Republican p8C Ag 12 '51 600w

Wis Lib Bul 47:213 S '51

BLUME, LOUIS FREDERICK, and others. Transformer engineering; a treatise on the theory, operation, and application of transformers. 2d ed 500p $7.50 Wiley

621.3143 Electric transformers 51-850

"A treatise designed for electrical engineers and other technically trained men whose work involves the specification, selection, or operation of transformers. The various aspects of the subject named in the chapter titles are discussed from the engineer's viewpoint and in engineering terminology. However, the emphasis is on basic matters rather than descriptive data. The authors are all associated with the Transformer Engineering Division of the General Electric Company. Although most of the text of the present edition has been carried over from the first edition [Book Review Digest 1938] important changes have been made, particularly in the discussion of thermal characteristics and insulation." N Y New Tech Bks

---

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 100w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:23 Mr '51

BLUNT, WILFRID. Art of botanical illustration; with the assistance of William T. Stearn [photographic ed: Eric Hosking]. 304p pl $5 Scribner

580.84 Flower painting. Botany—Pictorial works [51-143]

A history of flower painting from the oldest known, an Egyptian bas-relief of the 15th century B.C., to the 20th century. Illustrated with more than a hundred plates, many in color. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:6 S 1 '51

"To the many art-librarians who like flowers and flower-images this book will be a real delight. . . Recommended." A. S. Plaut
+ Library J 76:964 Je 1 '51 100w

"Mr. Blunt writes charmingly about a subject which requires great erudition and considerable taste to write about at all, and he draws his examples from all over the world and from the entire span of history." E. A.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 18 '50 140w

"Mr. Blunt's book's only defect, almost, is that he gives two pages and a plate to the chocolate-box triviality of Henry Moon and never so much as mentions that Farrer painted flowers—let alone that he was probably the best botanical artist of this century. . . Meantime, in Mr. Blunt's long perspective, such a criticism is of no great importance. He has written a fascinating and a learned history." Geoffrey Taylor
+ — New Statesman & Nation 40:74 Jl 15 '50 600w

"The text is as interesting and lively as the illustrations, and one compact mass of information. In fact it is comparable to one of those old-fashioned bull's-eye peppermints the joy of which was that they were so long a time in consuming. To many, indeed to most, readers it will be a new world of beauty." Sacheverell Sitwell
+ Spec 184:894 Je 30 '50 1300w

"Mr. Blunt's main concern is with the order and importance of an artist's contribution to our knowledge of flowers; and, although he demands botanical accuracy, artistic excellence and originality are equally important in his eyes. Shortcomings in any of these particulars he unerringly observes; and his praise is completely unstinted for only a very few. Flamboyance, extravagant size, derivativeness or amateurishness are invariably denigrated. The result is to give the reader a remarkably ready reference to the standing and importance of almost everyone in the Western Hemisphere who has made any recognized contribution to flower illustration."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p435 Jl 14 '50 500w

BLYTHE, LE GETTE. Tear for Judas. 338p $3 Bobbs

Judas Iscariot—Fiction 51-10171

A novel of the time of Christ, presenting a full-length picture of Judas, advancing the thesis that Judas was mislead by his hatred of the Romans into attempting to force Jesus to assert his powers and become a real king of the Jews.

Reviewed by Warren Beck
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 13 '51 300w

Christian Century 68:1311 N 14 '51 330w

"'A Tear for Judas' is a good historical novel, and makes full use of the overtones and rich connotations inevitably present in the minds and memories of those for whom the New Testament scripture is a loved and significant part of our Christian culture." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 My 6 '51 500w

"There are times when the paraphrasing of biblical dialogue sounds almost disastrously artificial. However, the strength of the book lies in the realistic and convincing manner in which the contemporary life of the period is presented." H. C.
N Y Times p17 Je 24 '51 260w

Reviewed by M. L. Mueller
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 230w

"The book's title is not inappropriate. To find fault with its partly pedestrian, partly purple writing would mean to criticize the whole genre of present-day popular religious fiction. To readers desirous of having the sublime story retold once again in 'modern' terms and with a new facet added 'A Tear for Judas' will be no disappointment." Robert Pick
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:30 Je 2 '51 330w

BLYTON, ENID. Five go adventuring again; il. by Vera Neville. 207p $2.50 Crowell 51-1165

The setting of this mystery story for grades four to six is an isolated English country house. Four children and their dog have some exciting times when they are snowed in during the Christmas holidays.

Christian Science Monitor p10 Ap 14 '51 150w

Kirkus 19:25 Ja 15 '51 130w

"Nice family relationships and good suspense, although the plot is obviously made to order. Recommended." M. F. Cox
+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 70w

"There is no real mental contribution, in guessing the criminal or otherwise, in such stories, but our excitement-ridden youngsters do like them, and they are at least preferable to the adult crime stories on radio and television." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 1 '51 180w

BOARDMAN, MRS ANNIE CAWLEY. Such love is seldom; a biography of Mother Mary Walsh. 236p pl $3 Harper

B or 92 Walsh, Mother Mary. Dominican sisters of the sick poor 50-10800

The life story of Mother Mary Walsh, foundress of the Dominican Sisters of the sick poor. No index.

"Written with competence, sympathy and good judgment." W. S. Merrill
+ Cath World 172:478 Mr '51 270w

Kirkus 18:698 D 1 '50 130w

Reviewed by A. F. Wolfe
Sat R of Lit 34:45 Ap 21 '51 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:187 Jl '51

BODDE, DERK. Peking diary; a year of revolution. 292p il $3.75 Schuman

951.156 Peking, China. Communism—China 50-10426

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"The book is well written, with great feeling for the sights and sounds of Peking life. While for the specialist it is a careful memoir, the general reader will find a complicated and dynamic political situation described simply and understandably through the experience of an American family." M. C. Wright
+ Am Hist R 56:663 Ap '51 420w

Reviewed by Shu-Ching Lee
Am J Soc 56:504 Mr '51 1650w

"Bodde's Chinese diary is based on esteem, and not on hate. He tells what he sees, and he has some convictions, to which (after all these years) he is entitled." Roger Shaw
+ Churchman 165:16 Ja 15 '51 240w

Current Hist 20:105 F '51 80w

Foreign Affairs 29:505 Ap '51 30w

Reviewed by D. E. Pilley
New Statesman & Nation 42:465 O 27 '51 900w

"[The journal] reveals, for all its warm and sympathetic feeling, a curious insulation from living reality. Mr. Bodde is not politically naive but neither does he appear too aware of the harshness of Communist politics and of the facts of the power struggle. For all his sympathetic earnestness and his knowledge of the language, moreover, he seemed largely unable to take the kind of soundings that a more acute and better-trained observer would certainly have taken in Bodde's unique circumstances." H. R. Isaacs

BODDE, DERK—Continued

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 F 25 '51 700w

"Dr. Bodde's diary begins in the summer of 1948, when he arrived in Peking as a Fulbright scholar, and ends a year later, when he returned to the United States. Though the book is in diary form and makes very easy reading, it is interspersed with comments and analysis which entitle it to be regarded as a serious study." M. F. M. Lindsay

+ Pacific Affairs 24:195 Je '51 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p623 O 5 '51 500w

"Closing with an ill-considered exhortation to American readers to refrain from opposing communism in China and to correct some of the deficiencies of Western democracy, an otherwise valuable notebook of personal observation is marred by a dubious moral lesson."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:125 Je '51 250w

"Within the limits of the period described, 'Peking Diary' is a sensitive, careful, and important document. It is to be lamented that Bodde added an epilogue nine months after he left Peking. On the basis of his final impression of Communist rule in China he offers 'A Plea and a Warning.' In this reviewer's opinion it is invalid to make policy recommendations on the basis of experiences limited to the honeymoon period." R. L. Walker

+ — Yale R n s 40:539 spring '51 500w

BOGAN, LOUISE. Achievement in American poetry, 1900-1950. (Twentieth-century literature in America) 157p $2.50 Regnery

811.09 American poetry—History and criticism 51-8384

A brief account of American poetry during the first half of the twentieth century. Includes a short anthology. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:157 Ja 1 '52

"Miss Louise Bogan's [book] is a delight. Like all Miss Bogan's criticism, this book is full of acute, spirited, and authoritative judgments of writers and works, expressed with grace and wit." Milton Crane

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 4 '51 150w

Kirkus 19:595 O 1 '51 240w

Reviewed by Ruth Lechlitner

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 D 16 '51 600w

"Louise Bogan not only manages to compress a formidable amount of factual information into her small compass but also contrives to do a great deal of satisfactory talking about her facts." Dudley Fitts

+ N Y Times p28 N 25 '51 300w

BOGARDUS, EMORY STEPHEN. Making of public opinion. 265p $4 Assn. press

301.154 Public opinion 51-9984

"Defines public opinion as the generalized judgment of a number of people on a particular aspect of social life, and pays particular attention to democratic processes of forming opinion, especially discussion groups. Discusses the role public opinion plays in human society; analyzes the processes and sequences involved in the making of public opinion; its limitations and distortions; examines attempts at measurement and case studies; formulates tentative laws of opinion making. Appendixes suggest questions to be considered and give reading lists." Booklist

Reviewed by S. Z. Mann

Am J Soc 57:412 Ja '52 750w

Booklist 47:302 My 1 '51

"Mr. Bogardus, Professor of Sociology at the University of Southern California, summarizes his own studies of twenty or thirty years, and marshals an impressive bibliography, with abundant quotations. The style is clear enough, the language nontechnical. The book might be a useful elementary text to the student who wants a general summary." E. D. Canham

+ N Y Times p3 Ap 29 '51 850w

"The book is well-organized, and the general reader as well as the student of communications will find much of interest in it." I. B.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Je 17 '51 140w

"Professor Bogardus repeats the usual pattern of the social scientists, notably Leonard W. Doob (who, incidentally, is referred to as Lawrence Doob all the way through the book). One exception to this however, is the special emphasis put on the value of the discussion group in forming public opinion. As a potential, this medium is significant; in practice, it is definitely limited in effectiveness." Hillier Krieghbaum

Survey 87:233 My '51 360w

Wis Lib Bul 47:182 Jl '51

BOGUE, JESSE PARKER. Community college. 390p maps $4 McGraw

378 Junior colleges 50-8962

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

Booklist 47:168 Ja 1 '51

"In writing The Community College, Bogue has rendered a genuine service in evaluating sympathetically and critically the progress of the movement to date. His interpretations of the history and educational philosophy back of the movement give direction to its future trends, and his illustrations of current practices acquaint one with its present status." J. M. McCallister

+ School R 59:57 Ja '51 700w

"Based upon its author's practical experience and extensive study, this book offers the most comprehensive view of community college education thus far published. . . His informed book will be of interest particularly to civic-minded persons who desire to extend educational opportunities beyond the twelfth grade."

+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:438 D '50 280w

BOHM, DAVID. Quantum theory. 646p $10; to schools $7.50 Prentice-Hall

530.1 Quantum theory 51-1683

"A rather full introduction designed as a textbook for graduate students of physics. The author has taken pains to relate the quantum theory to classical physics and also to the experimental bases upon which the quantum theory is based. . . The author is a member of the faculty of Princeton University." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1031 Je 15 '51 100w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:41 My '51

BOKSER, BEN ZION. Legacy of Maimonides. 128p $3.75 Philosophical lib.

181.3 Maimonides, properly Moses ben Maimon ben Joseph. Jews—Religion. Philosophy and religion 50-9896

An interpretative essay on this medieval Jewish philosopher (1135-1205). "The study here presented is an attempt to portray the inner system of ideas which informs the varied writings of Maimonides. It is based primarily on his discussions in the Guide to the Perplexed, but his other works were consulted as well. . . The biographical sketch with which this study begins is intended only as an introduction, to place Maimonides in the context of the times in which he lived and did his work." (Pref) Index.

Christian Century 68:563 My 2 '51 330w

"The numerous omissions in the treatment of the teachings of Maimonides are accountable by the popular nature of the work. Still the student of religious thought is entitled to a fuller presentation of the master's ideas regarding the articles of Jewish belief, his psychology and eschatology. While the work does not add to the story of available knowledge of Maimonides, it furnishes a clear and in places an attractive summary of the religious philosophy of one of the great thinkers of all time." S. S. Cohon

+ — Crozer Q 28:274 Jl '51 750w

"Mr. Bokser has succeeded in presenting an authentic and readable summary of the teachings of a great master and in pointing out their relevance for our time." S. W. Baron

+ N Y Times p25 F 18 '51 340w

School & Society 72:206 S 23 '50 30w

"Dr. Bokser writes learnedly but not obscurely, and his treatise on one of the world's truly great thinkers is a pleasure to read as well as being illuminating." R. F. H.

+ Springf'd Republican p6D F 25 '51 220w

BOLITHO, HECTOR. A century of British monarchy; decorated by Philip Gough. 274p $6 Longmans

923.1 Great Britain—Kings and rulers 51-12471

A series of character sketches of the leading members of the royal family of Great Britain from the opening of the Great Exhibition in 1851 to the present. Illustrated with many photographs. No index.

"Attractive and well illustrated volume." Leila Flower

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 S 19 '51 550w

New Yorker 27:118 S 22 '51 200w

Time 58:114 S 17 '51 250w

"Mr. Bolitho's book is a felicitous account of the English sovereigns from Queen Victoria to King George VI, and with some admirably chosen illustrations it makes a worthy publication for Festival Year."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p575 S 14 '51 240w

BOLLES, EDMUND BLAIR. Tyrant from Illinois; Uncle Joe Cannon's experiment with personal power. 248p $4.50 Norton

B or 92 Cannon, Joseph Gurney. U.S.—Politics and government 51-1677

Political biography of "Uncle Joe" Cannon which begins with the year 1906 when Cannon was seventy, and had become almost a legend. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:181; 252 Ja 15 '51; Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by A. S. Henning

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ap 8 '51 950w

Kirkus 18:743 D 15 '50 160w

Nation 172:333 Ap 7 '51 90w

"Bolles may not have written a book for the ages, but the inherent drama of the events he records produces an exciting story." V. O. Key

+ — New Repub 124:18 Je 4 '51 650w

"Mr. Bolles' book is not in fact a biography, it is a monograph, a study of one facet of a many-faceted personality. Within its self-imposed limitations it is very good indeed, but it does leave the reader with the feeling that he has missed a great deal. . . The book is loaded with admirable thumbnail sketches of figures that once loomed terrifically upon the national horizon, but that are almost forgotten today." G. W. Johnson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Mr 18 '51 1150w

"Mr. Bolles' crisp book fills a gap. We have had no systematic life of Cannon, and this volume ably presents both the man and his career." Allan Nevins

+ N Y Times p6 Jl 1 '51 800w

"Mr. Bolles has written a sprightly book, filled with delightful sketches of Cannon's contemporaries. . . However, there will be historians who will not go along with him in his insistence upon setting up Fighting Bob La Follette as the 'prophet' of the Welfare State or who will not agree that Cannon, for all his power as Speaker, was the sole pillar of reactionary strength. He was important but not all-important, and his little reign as tyrant and Congressional manipulator was, in the flux of America at the time, doomed to failure from the start. But he is great fun to read about after all these years." Karl Schriftgiesser

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 Ap 21 '51 850w

Reviewed by Donald Derby

Springf'd Republican p6D Ap 8 '51 550w

Reviewed by H. W. Hintz

Survey 87:232 My '51 270w

Time 57:114 Mr 19 '51 650w

Wis Lib Bul 47:87 Ap '51

BOLSHAKOFF, SERGE. Russian nonconformity [the story of unofficial religion in Russia]. 192p $3 Westminster press

274.7 Russia—Religion 50-10296

"This small book consists of a compilation of facts, and a straightforward account of the development and fate of the various Russian churches and sects, up to and including the present day. No attempt is made to explain the political, social and economic causes of origin and survival of the many nonconformist movements." (Library J) Bibliography. No index.

Bookmark 10:168 Ap '51

"The book is good reading for those who are already familiar with the Russian religious scene. Those who are not will immediately be lost in the maze formed by the various movements. Even these, however, would notice this striking fact—various types of nonconformism have easily found their way to the very summit of Russian society, including the court of the Russian monarchs." N. S. Timasheff

Commonweal 53:284 D 22 '50 650w

"This book must be read with great caution. There is some relevant information in it, but it is organized on a false pattern." George Florovsky

— + J Religion 31:285 O '51 470w

"This book is 'a must' for all who want to know about the state of religion in Russia."

+ Kirkus 18:603 O 1 '50 240w

"Suitable for larger public and educational libraries." H. H. Bernt

Library J 75:1653 O 1 '50 100w

BONAVIA-HUNT, DOROTHY ALICE. See Hunt, D. A. B-.

BOND, RAYMOND TOSTEVIN, ed. Handbook for poisoners; a collection of famous poison stories; selected, with an introduction on poisons. 311p $3.50 Rinehart

Short stories—Collections 51-14407

A collection of twelve stories of murder by poison, prefaced with a long study on poisons and poisoners by the editor.

Booklist 48:125 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 9 '51 220w

Kirkus 19:589 O 1 '51 80w

"Recommended, along with Mr. Bond's previous anthology of cryptographic stories." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:1804 N 1 '51 140w

"This appears, surprisingly enough, to be the first collection of tales devoted solely to poisoning, and it would be welcome on that score even if it did not have the lively, long, informative preface with which Mr. Bond has equipped it." James Sandoe

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p36 D 2 '51 320w

BOND, R. T.—Continued

"Occasionally an anthologist can combine good taste with an original pattern to make even largely familiar stories into a freshly creative collection—which is precisely what Raymond T. Bond has done." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p12 D 16 '51 170w

"In some ways an immoral book, but certainly a fascinating one."
New Yorker 27:75 Ja 5 '52 200w

"If you're a murder fan, (provided you're not one of those who will read true crime only), then you shouldn't miss this collection. And let me say [that] Mr. Bond's introduction alone is worth your while if you're an enthusiast on the subject." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 N 22 '51 700w

"Admirable." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 D 22 '51 30w

BONDI, ARNOLD AARON. Physical chemistry of lubricating oils. 380p $10 Reinhold
621.89 Lubrication and lubricants
51-12023

"An authoritative survey of the present status of the physical chemistry of the hydrocarbons used chiefly for lubrication. The main emphasis is on the relation between chemical structure and physical properties and on the means for measuring these properties. . . The text is supplemented by much tabulated data, and each chapter is accompanied by a fairly extensive bibliography that includes patents as well as books and articles. The author is associated with the Shell Development Company." N Y New Tech Bks

---

"The book assumes a considerable familiarity on the part of the reader with the subject matter. It covers some of the recent literature which appeared since the publication of standard treatises like those of Barr on viscometry, Hersey or Norton on lubrication, or Sachanen on chemical composition of petroleum." V. A. Kalichevsky
+ Chem Eng 58:360 N '51 500w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:72 S '51

BONHAM, MARGARET. House across the river. 222p $2.50 Macmillan 51-9237

A psychological novel, the scenes of which are Dorset, England, and Wales.

Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:76 Ap '51 100w
Kirkus 19:36 Ja 15 '51 90w

"What distinguishes the book as the work of a new writer is an unusual faculty for describing the visual scene. Miss Bonham's evocations . . . are brilliant. One would point out particularly the scene in chapter one of the hotel bar, and of the Welsh boarding-house in chapters five and six." Elizabeth Jenkins
+ Manchester Guardian p4 My 26 '50 120w

Reviewed by Margaret Lane
New Statesman & Nation 39:614 My 27 '50 220w

"A story distinguished by vivid and sensitive writing."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 F 25 '51 180w

"Miss Bonham handles her material with all the baleful finesse of Graham Greene. The result is a rarity among novels of this genre—a suspense story that is worth re-reading for the overtones alone." Patricia Highsmith
+ N Y Times p24 F 4 '51 320w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 11 '51 90w
Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 3 '51 90w

"Her first novel is very promising indeed. Her opening is rather clumsily handled, but her plot and the mechanism of its unfolding are excellent. . . Psychology and dialogue most competently handled make The House Across the River an extremely enjoyable thriller. I feel convinced that Miss Bonham's next novel, with a more practised smoothness in handling temporal transitions, will be very well worth reading." Marghanita Laski
+ — Spec 184:626 My 5 '50 180w

"Mrs. Bonham may one day join the select company of women detective-story writers but she will have to do something about her style. Her sentences are knotted together with semicolons like a piece of Heath Robinson string."
Times [London] Lit Sup p305 My 19 '50 190w

BONN, JOHN LOUIS. Gates of Dannemora. 276p $3 Doubleday
B or 92 Hyland, Ambrose R. Clinton prison, Dannemora, New York
51-14075

"On Aug. 28, 1941, the first church to be dedicated in this country to St. Dismas, 'The Good Thief' who died with Christ on Calvary, was opened in up-state New York. Appropriately enough, it was located in Clinton Prison at Dannemora, often called the Siberia of New York jails. Natural, too, was the fact that it was inspired by a prison chaplain and built by the labor of several hundred convicts. The chaplain, Father Ambrose R. Hyland, is still at Dannemora. So too are some of the convicts who worked with him. Others are dead or free men. 'Gates of Dannemora' is the story of Father Hyland and of these prisoners." N Y Times

---

"The author has written well. Perhaps the flashbacks, where he tells the stories of various men and women who found themselves, is a little confusing, as he goes back and forth in the telling. But that is a minor thing in so fine and sensitive a book. To read it is a spiritual adventure." C. J. Dutton
+ Commonweal 55:261 D 14 '51 410w
Kirkus 19:544 S 15 '51 250w

"This volume has the argot but not the sordidness of modern prison genre of writing. Recommended for inspiration and information." R. J. Hurley
+ Library J 76:1930 N 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by Frances Witherspoon
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 13 '52 320w

Reviewed by Emanuel Perlmutter
N Y Times p61 D 2 '51 180w
Springf'd Republican p41A D 9 '51 150w

BONNAMY, FRANCIS, pseud. See Walz, A.

BONNER, JAMES. Plant biochemistry. 537p il $6.80 Academic press
581.19 Biological chemistry 50-12514

"In this textbook, designed for advanced undergraduate and graduate students, Dr. Bonner presents an over-all summary of the information available on the biochemistry of plant constituents. . . The thirty chapters are grouped under six parts: Carbohydrates and Carbohydrate Metabolism; The Cell Wall and Cell Wall Metabolism, Plant Acids and Plant Respiration, Metabolism of Nitrogenous Compounds, Secondary Plant Products, Certain Aspects of Plant Growth. Most of the topics are summarized either by means of tables or figures which are useful as reference sources." U S Quarterly Bk R

"Despite the industry and ability of its author this book lacks balance. It would have accomplished more if it had attempted less. When it leans too heavily upon animal biochemistry or fails to be critical enough of some of the concepts and evidence that it documents, it reflects, but does little to counteract, prevalent deficiencies in the important field of plant biochemistry." F. C. Steward
Am Chem Soc J 73:3551 Jl '51 800w

"Since it is intended for study by upperclass and graduate students in organic chemistry, a knowledge of fundamental organic chemistry has been assumed. Most of the chapters are short and are obviously intended only to introduce the reader to the topic under discussion. On the other hand a reference list of source material is appended to each chapter."

+ N Y New Tech Bks 35:83 N '50

"Such an organized review of the subject is important at this time because of the recent advances made, stimulated in part by research in other areas of biochemistry."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:84 Mr '51 170w

BONNER, MARY GRAHAM. Base stealer; il. by Bob Meyers. 173p $2.50 Knopf 51-9809

A western boy with a great love of baseball has to spend a summer vacation in New York. His loneliness is cured when he joins a team sponsored by the Police Athletic League, and once more he puts his famous base-stealing to good account.

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 27 '51 50w

Kirkus 19:127 Mr 1 '51 100w

"All baseball fans should thrill to this story which appears to give a true picture of the PAL. Recommended for boys of 10-12 and older." Nelle McCalla
+ Library J 76:781 My 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 My 6 '51 60w

Reviewed by R. A. Brown
N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '51 30w

"This is more than a baseball story because it explains the purpose and activities of the truly great PAL. There under expert supervision thousands of boys and girls are being instructed in all branches of athletics, handicraft, music, and other worthwhile amusements that not only keep them off the streets but teach them to choose and follow useful careers. This is the book's chief value, for the story is slight though well told in a natural style. The format and illustrations are good." M. P. A.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:54 My 12 '51 180w

"Good baseball yarn for fourth to sixth graders."
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:91 Ap '51

BONTEMPS, ARNA WENDELL. Chariot in the sky; a story of the Jubilee singers; il. by Cyrus Leroy Baldridge. (Land of the free ser) 234p $2.50 Winston 51-10429

"Fisk University in Nashville was established soon after the Civil War to bring education to freed men and it was through the singing of its students that Fisk University paid its way. In this story of Caleb Williams, born a slave and later a Fisk student, Arna Bontemps shows how the Negro spirituals grew out of slavery and how the Fisk Jubilee Singers made those songs known to the whole world." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51
Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"An exceptionally good story." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:333 S '51 90w

Kirkus 19:129 Mr 1 '51 170w

"He gives a well-rounded, accurate picture that reflects a great deal of research and yet the book is a very good story with adventure and even with a romantic interest." Augusta Baker
+ Library J 76:970 Je 1 '51 140w

"In a highly effective manner, the book combines stirring qualities of fiction with the authenticity of historical research." E. P. Burke
+ Music Lib Assn Notes 8:717 S '51 340w

"Latest in Winston's series which shows the gifts of various peoples to America, this narrative offers fresh material, but seems to lack the zest and vitality of some of the other titles." M. C. S.
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 13 '51 110w

"A thoughtful enlightening book." N. B. Baker
+ N Y Times p24 Je 17 '51 160w

"From beginning to end it is Caleb's personal story and, like him, has a simplicity and strength that appeal to the reader. The illustrations are excellent." M. P. A.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 Jl 21 '51 280w

"Absorbing tale and, while designed primarily for youthful readers, should be read with pleasure by many adults also." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 110w

BONTEMPS, ARNA WENDELL, and CONROY, JACK. Sam Patch, the high, wide and handsome jumper; il. by Paul Brown. 39p $2 Houghton 51-247

A retelling of the Sam Patch legend for ages seven to eleven. It shows Sam Patch growing up, learning to take bigger and better jumps, until he defeated Hurricane Harry, the Kaskaskia Snapping Turtle, who boasted he was the best jumper of all time.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

"A fine bit of modern folk-lore." Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 F 25 '51 140w

"This is a particularly good 'tall tale' in the folk style of Paul Bunyan and the like, with rollicking, attractive, and charming illustrations in period style."
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 2 '51 110w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:100 Mr '51 80w

Kirkus 19:24 Ja 15 '51 160w

Reviewed by M. B. Snow
Library J 76:415 Mr 1 '51 80w

"It is all very funny, and ever so well written, as Mr. Bontemps' name would guarantee. Sam's mother, with her good advice, ties the magic to earth and home; she is timeless, and might be any washerwoman you know, just as Sam and Harry might almost be seen at any country carnival today." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 My 13 '51 200w

"The prose doesn't quite keep pace with the action, but the exaggeration and the deadpan humor will tickle many a young funnybone." E. L. B.
N Y Times p30 F 25 '51 180w

"The many drawings set into the text, half in color and half in black-and-white, are vigorous and amusing. There is action and humor in every line of them. The story, a well-told American yarn, will appeal to the older boys and girls as much as it will to the little ones."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Ap 21 '51 230w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:245 S '51 100w
Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

BOOKMAN'S glossary. 3d ed rev & enl 198p $2.50 Bowker

655.03 Bibliography—Dictionaries. Printing—Dictionaries
51-9227

"This handy manual is an alphabetical list, with definitions, of terms and abbreviations in common usage in book stores, publishers' offices and libraries. Appended are classical names of towns, foreign book trade terms, private book clubs, proof readers marks, and a reading list. No statement of the amount of revision." Booklist

---

Booklist 47:330 My 15 '51

"A highly useful manual. The new format is compact and attractive." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:517 Mr 15 '51 120w

BOOKSTABER, PHILIP DAVID. Idea of development of the soul in medieval Jewish philosophy. 104p $2 M. Jacobs, inc. 224 N. 15th st, Philadelphia 2

181.3 Philosophy, Jewish. Soul 50-10850

"Dr. Bookstaber strictly limits this scientific survey of medieval Jewish philosophy to a study of development of the soul 'as a dynamic factor in positive thinking and living upon this earth. Such collateral questions as pre-existence, origin, and substance or survival of soul after death are only incidently treated. Eight philosophers are presented in abstract to describe this dynamism in soul progress within the individual, namely, Isaac Ben Solomon Israeli, Saadia Ben Joseph Al-Fayyumi, Bachya Ben Joseph Ibn Pakuda, Solomon Ibn Gabirol, Joseph Ibn Zaddik, Judah Halevi, Abraham Ibn Daud, and Moses Maimonides.'" J Religion

Reviewed by Ephraim Fischoff
Ann Am Acad 275:210 My '51 600w

"Bookstaber has done excellently in describing Ma'ase Bereshit and Ma'ase Merkabah, matter and form principle, substance and accidence, 'theory of ideas' and their continuous treatment throughout Jewish medieval philosophy. . . The excerpted illustrations in the footnotes are particularly valuable. It is to be regretted that the style of the work is stilted and, possibly because of the frequency of translation, couched in cumbrous English." S. S. Tedesche
+ — J Religion 31:227 Jl '51 420w

"Furnished with many explanatory and bibliographical notes, this volume is likely to find its way into the reference libraries of all universities and theological seminaries. It will be helpful to philosophers, theologians, and laymen, grappling with problems, not only of the Atomic Age, but of all times." Alfred Werner
+ Social Studies 42:133 Mr '51 900w

BOR-KOMOROWSKI, TADEUZ. See Komorowski, T.

BORGERHOFF, ELBERT BENTON OP'T EYNDE. Freedom of French classicism. 266p $4 Princeton univ. press

840.9 Classicism. French literature 50-8586

"Professor Borgerhoff's first intention was to investigate the meaning of the 'je ne sais quai,' an expression widely used by seventeenth-century French critics to indicate something indefinable or unexplainable, a hidden beauty essential to literary art. From this study in the history of ideas he was led on to a re-examination of various classical authors, probing their aesthetic sensibility not only as guardians of a secret or mysterious technique but also as independent craftsmen who, while accepting certain general standards, insisted on their right to self-expression and refused to let rules stand in their way." Mod Philol

"The many weaknesses and disconcerting tangents of this book are redeemed by the author's incisive and colorful style, by his deft handling of ideas, and by his flashes of critical insight. It must be his own capacity for logical thought and for deep feeling which led him to his subject and enabled him to discern so sensitively the tensions of thought and feeling in the literature of seventeenth-century France." P. A. Wadsworth
+ Mod Philol 49:67 Ag '51 1000w

"Although scarcely a book for the general reader, examination candidates who are still interrogated on the unities and other aspects of seventeenth-century critical theory will find it helpful and its anthology of quotations from contemporary critics invaluable."
Times [London] Lit Sup p526 Ag 24 '51 320w

"Breathing fresh air into the classics by their own testimony, Mr. Borgerhoff's excellent little book should help the American reader and student to find new significance in the great French literature of the seventeenth century."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:409 D '50 260w

BORLAND, HARRIET. Soviet literary theory and practice during the first five-year plan, 1928-32. 256p $3.50 King's Crown press

891.709 Russian literature 50-8804

"A study, written at Columbia University, of literary propaganda during the period of the Russian Association of Proletarian Writers." (Am Pol Sci R) Bibliography. Index.

Am Pol Sci R 44:1052 D '50 20w

"Supporters and antagonists alike, know frequently too little of Soviet literature and their conclusions are based on the few works available in translation. Outside Russia, acquaintance with contemporary Russian literature is apt to be sketchy in the extreme. Under these circumstances, Harriet Borland's study is of considerable interest. . . It would have gained in significance had more attention been paid to reviewing specific literary works of distinction." Vera Alexandrova
Christian Science Monitor p8 S 30 '50 600w

"The documentation, notes and bibliography of this book are extensive and thorough, and Miss Borland must be credited with contributing a highly important pioneer study in a field which has been little investigated in America." E. J. Simmons
+ New Repub 124:19 Ja 1 '51 1300w
U S Quarterly Bkl 6:409 D '50 240w

BORNSTEIN, JOSEPH. Politics of murder. 295p il $4 Sloane

364.38 Assassination 51-9132

An account of a series of murders which, in recent years, have changed world history. Contents: Politics by murder; Giacomo Matteotti's last fight; The vanishing generals—Alexander Koutiepov and Eugen Miller; German St. Bartholomew's Day—Ernst Roehm; Summer festival in Austria—Engelbert Dollfuss; Prelude in Marseilles—King Alexander and Louis Barthou; Liquidation of a GPU agent—Ignace Reiss; Death in Mexico—Leon Trotsky; The death of Lenin.

Booklist 47:214 F 15 '51

Reviewed by Russell MacFall
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 4 '51 550w

Reviewed by J. G. Harrison
Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '51 600w

"With a prosecutor's thoroughness, Mr. Bornstein has ransacked official and unofficial files to ferret out every available shred of evidence. The result is a series of fascinating stories that rival the murder masterpieces of fiction writers who have to depend on their own meager imaginations. But as a contribution to political understanding . . . the book comes out little better than a draw." C. H. Weiss
— + Commonweal 53:452 F 9 '51 1050w
Foreign Affairs 29:490 Ap '51 30w
Kirkus 18:715 D 1 '50 160w

Reviewed by Martin Greenberg
Nation 172:426 My 5 '51 1100w

"To this reader, Mr. Bornstein's illuminating study of Hitler's mass slaughter centering around Ernst Roehm is the best chapter in the book. . . The weakest chapter in the book, one feels, is the final one about the death of Lenin." Marcus Duffield
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ja 21 '51 1100w

"We need a good book on the practice and theory of assassination; political science has become a dull subject indeed for lack of it. . . Mr. Bornstein was ill-advised to build up such big expectations in his readers on such a slight foundation of research. He does know how to tell a story when he has all the facts. His guesswork is distinctly below par when he does not." Asher Byrnes
— + N Y Times p10 Ja 28 '51 750w
New Yorker 26:95 Ja 20 '51 210w

"This is excellently done. Mr. Bornstein writes with broad knowledge of background, and he has a nice knack at setting out his facts and organizing material. The Trotsky story, in particular, has still enough loose ends so that it remains from many angles mysterious." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 Ja 16 '51 900w

Reviewed by Quincy Howe
Sat R of Lit 34:13 F 3 '51 600w

BOROME, JOSEPH ALFRED. Charles Coffin Jewett. (American library pioneers) 188p $3.50 A.L.A.

B or 92 Jewett, Charles Coffin 51-10999

"Biography of an outstanding American librarian of the mid-nineteenth century, who contributed many valuable ideas to the profession on problems relating to bibliography, cataloging, exchanges, the circulation of books, and cooperative efforts among librarians." Booklist

Booklist 47:344 Je 1 '51

"This is the seventh in the fine series of biographies of 'American Library Pioneers,' produced under the sponsorship of the ALA. With such a subject a dull book would be impossible, but it is, therefore, to the even greater credit of Dr. Borome, of the City College of New York, that he has made the most of that fascinating character who got there 'fustest' with so many of the ideas which, coming to slow and sometimes posthumous fruition, still prevail." D. C. Mearns
+ Library J 76:1206 Ag '51 600w

BORTON, HUGH, ed. Japan. 320p $4 Cornell univ. press

952 Japan—Civilization 51-12514

A collection of articles first published in the 1951 edition of the Encyclopedia Americana. "This study of Japan, compiled by twenty experts in all phases of Japan's history and culture, brings together in one volume the basic facts that the layman, student, or teacher interested in understanding the background of world affairs will want to know." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Highly recommended." H. P. Linton
+ Library J 76:1326 S 1 '51 70w

"Many persons have been feeling the need of a good general reference book on Japan. . . The editors of the Encyclopedia Americana decided last year that their sections on Japan should be entirely rewritten. A battery of distinguished specialists did the job under twenty-three headings. With the permission of the encyclopedia that material has been edited by Hugh Borton, acting director of the East Asian Institute at Columbia University, and issued in attractive book form. The result is outstanding." R. A. Smith
+ N Y Times p39 O 14 '51 280w

"The work certainly fulfills its object, as do all good encyclopedia articles, of giving the casual reader, or the student specializing in other fields, a clear statement of the fundamental facts which everyone should have before pursuing more deeply the study of any one of the numerous topics covered here." C. W. W.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p27 O 28 '51 320w

BOSSARD, JAMES HERBERT SIWARD, and BOLL, MRS ELEANOR S. Ritual in family living; a contemporary study. 228p $3.50 Univ. of Pa. press

392.3 Family. U.S.—Social conditions 50-10690

"This study of family rituals is based on interviews, reminiscences, and autobiographies and shows the importance of rituals in the child's life—even the silliest, least important ones add zest and enjoyment to family living. It covers social, racial, and religious backgrounds, class differentials, three-generational family rituals, the influence of family rituals on family integration." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by M. P. Redfield
Am J Soc 56:604 My '51 1050w

"Because they are sociologists, Bossard and Boll have been primarily interested in the social consequences of ritual upon family relationship. . . It is probable, also, that they claim too much as rituals, since some of the practices which they cite seem to be merely individual and family habits, without the something added needed to make them rituals. This is, despite these limitations, a valuable preliminary study of rituals, and Bossard and Boll have enhanced their reputation as foremost students of family culture by it." John Sirjamaki
+ Am Soc R 16:417 Je '51 350w

"The study is one of the most unique and valuable now available in the field of family sociology. In addition its hypotheses, methods, and conclusions are basic to the whole field of study of character, personality, and social control. It represents a most important contribution to basic analyses of the unconscious mind." C. C. Zimmerman
+ Ann Am Acad 273:250 Ja '51 430w

"Recommended." Anne Whitmore
+ Library J 75:2075 D 1 '50 130w

Reviewed by R. O. Blood
Social Forces 29:338 Mr '51 350w

BOSWORTH, RICHARD CHARLES LESLIE. Physics in chemical industry; with foreword by E. K. Rideal. 928p il $12.75 Macmillan

530 Physics. Chemistry, Physical and theoretical 51-5792

"A substantial presentation of physical principles and methods that are of interest in chemical engineering and industrial chemistry. The level of treatment is intermediate; that is to say, it is above that of the typical undergraduate course in physics but is not so advanced as texts intended for graduate students in physics. Though intended for students who will make practical use of the knowledge, it is not a compilation of practical information; rather, the emphasis is on thorough understanding of basic principles." N Y New Tech Bks

"Each subject is presented as concisely as clarity warrants, and, although technical, is definitely readable. A multitude of carefully prepared figures; a list of symbols used, with meanings, definitions, and chapter references; numerous references and suggestions for further reading at the end of each chapter; and an excellent index increase the value of the book." C. T. Chase
+ Chem & Eng N 29:3190 Ag 6 '51 260w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:28 Mr '51

BOTHWELL, JEAN. Onions without tears; a collection of intriguing recipes; with il. by Margaret Ayer. 166p $2.75 Hastings house

641.5 Cookery (onions) 50-8517

A cookbook devoted entirely to onion recipes of all kinds. Partial contents: Fundamentals of onion cooking; In soups; With bread and pastry; Onions buffet—salads, sandwiches and hors d'oeuvre; With poultry, meats and miscellany; Garlic; Leeks; Chives. Index.

"Practical and exceedingly good. Fascinating index also has flavor." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 75:2152 D 15 '50 30w

"Dishes that sound so attractive that one is tempted to run into the kitchen and try them one and all." Ethel Dexter
+ Springf'd Republican p9B Ag 20 '50 150w

BOTHWELL, JEAN. Sword of a warrior; il. by Margaret Ayer. 228p $2.50 Harcourt

51-13445

Jai, an orphan boy of northern India, is apprenticed to a Lucknow silversmith. There is a mystery about himself which Jai cannot solve for some time, as he becomes involved in the life and customs of a large household. Grades five to seven.

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

BOTHWELL, JEAN—Continued
"The author has first-hand acquaintance with India, and in her story, Jai and his friends seem as real as our own families." Helen Boyd

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 11 '51 140w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '51

"A fine new story by an author who has established herself as one of the foremost storytellers within the framework of Indian setting."

+ Kirkus 19:616 O 15 '51 200w

Reviewed by Alice Fedder

Library J 76:1639 O 15 '51 50w

Reviewed by Virginia Haviland

Library J 77:65 Ja 1 '52 80w

"This is one of the best of Miss Bothwell's many Indian books, in its combination of fact and fiction." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 4 '51 200w

"Even better than the exciting story is the warm, friendly feeling it leaves behind. There is nothing strange and alien about this writer's India. We see it as a land whose people have difficulties and dreams very like our own. Such books contribute to world fellowship." N. B. Baker

+ N Y Times p42 D 9 '51 150w

"An unusual mystery story—it is richly set in the backgroud of modern India and has a diverse lot of characters." K. T. Kinkead

+ New Yorker 27:177 D 1 '51 80w

Springf'd Republican p8C D 16 '51 120w

BOTKIN, BENJAMIN ALBERT, ed. Treasury of Western folklore; foreword by Bernard DeVoto. 806p $4 Crown

398 Folklore—West. Folklore, American 51-12013

"Mr. Botkin scans his West both geographically and chronologically. His thousands of stories, selections from books, tales collected by heresay—all of it relates to one West or another, in place or time. The range West? There's a whole section on it here. The gold-mining West—California, Colorado, the Black Hills, or whatever else? Mr. Botkin's got it covered. The bad-man West, complete with bandits, killers and, of course, Marshals and Sheriffs? That's here, too, as is the 'vigilante' West." (San Francisco Chronicle) Index.

Booklist 48:154 Ja 1 '52

Reviewed by Al Chase

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 16 '51 280w

Kirkus 19:602 O 1 '51 160w

"The book contains amusing and salty reading in copious measure. Moreover, its value as a reference tool is enormously enhanced by two excellent indexes, one of Authors, Titles and First Lines of Songs, the other listing Subjects, Names and Places." Oscar Lewis

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 D 16 '51 750w

"This is an interesting and valuable collection. Mr. Botkin's definition of folklore, now as before, is broad enough to include any expression of the people which travels and sticks. The Negro and his valuable contribution are not here, but almost everybody else is. . . Here, in song and story, is the big, violent pageant of the settling of the West." Horace Reynolds

+ N Y Times p28 D 2 '51 450w

"I have a feeling that this is a book that will solve many a knotty Christmas problem this year. It's certainly one that a lot of people will want." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 23 '51 850w

BOTTUME, CARL HUNTINGTON. Sailor's choice. 211p $3 Little

51-4763

"The price of sea turtles is down, the 'choice' is near starvation or 'easy money', running a shipment of guns to British Honduras. Danger, double-dealing, a damsel and death bring intense action." Library J

Booklist 48:11 S 1 '51

"Carl Bottume obviously knows sailing, turtling, and the West Indies. That is not enough. What he has stretched to 60,000 words might possibly have made a fair to middling short story in more skilful hands." A. F. Otis

Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 5 '51 380w

Kirkus 19:278 Je 1 '51 130w

"Reasonably good entertainment with a good background of sea life and small ships." H. A. Wooster

Library J 76:1219 Ag '51 40w

"Mr. Bottume tells his story so smoothly, and with so little resort to the usual exaggerations of adventure novels that one reaches the end with surprise and no little regret." E. L. Acken

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 2 '51 240w

"A fast-moving story, laced with rum, sailor-talk and love-making." Walter Hayward

N Y Times p12 Ag 5 '51 200w

"The refreshing lack of artificial toughness on the part of the characters perhaps signals a trend away from such excesses which have been a sort of blister rust on much of our contemporary fiction. The story is credible and the author knows his sailing and his Caribbean. All in all, it's a book that you feel was too short when you have to put it down, completed." R. H. D.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 S 2 '51 180w

"'Sailor's Choice' is recommended not only to readers in America but to critics abroad who have been asking whether our writers are producing any worthwhile and decent fiction." J. M. Grant

+ Sat R of Lit 34:35 S 22 '51 240w

BOUCHER, MAURICE. Political concepts of Richard Wagner; tr. from the French by Marcel Honoré. (M & H publication) 222p $4 Exposition

B or 92 Wagner, Richard 51-579

"Another book on Wagner the thinker (not the musician) revealing most clearly his penchant for handling words as if they were no more than art materials, his childlike lack of responsibility, and his overweening conceit. This time it is a well-translated discussion by a French expert in Germanic literature. The argument, which includes an account of how the Nazis used and distorted Wagner's ideas, is ornamented by Gallic penetration and clarity." Library J

Reviewed by C. K. Miller

Library J 76:1808 N 1 '51 50w

"All the vague, dreamy, heteroclite quality of Wagner's thought is clearly revealed in this examination of the man." J. C. Cairns

Sat R of Lit 35:29 Ja 5 '52 230w

"A brilliant and impartial view of the political philosophy of the great opera composer."

+ Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 190w

BOULDING, KENNETH EWART. Reconstruction of economics. 311p $4.50 Wiley

330.1 Economics 50-12108

"An attempt to reorient economic theory, to integrate it with other social, and indeed general scientific disciplines. Specifically the author wishes: 1) to correct the existing theory of the firm as purely an income account, and to introduce the balance sheet and asset preferences as the central analytical concept; 2) to revise some weaknesses in the Keynesian system by recognizing a distinction between the exchange process and the production-consumption process, and by providing a theory of distribution commensurate with the theory of employment." Library J

"Here certainly we have a new departure, or even several new departures in economic analysis. It is perhaps too soon to tell how far they will represent the attainment of new milestones on the main path of economic thinking, and how far they are really bypaths. But even as bypaths, they represent interesting and invigorating mental exercise, and may even be suggestive of new ways by which progress can be made along the main road. Certainly no one interested in the frontiers of economic analysis and theory can afford to ignore this book." William Vickrey

+ Am Econ R 41:671 S '51 2650w

"The future teacher and student of economic doctrines will find this book of interest as an attempt to refine a major current doctrine." F. M. Jones

+ Ann Am Acad 274:229 Mr '51 470w

"I found some useful insights in this book and some which were not. Mostly, however, one gets the effect of meeting a lot of old friends in rather flashy new clothes." D. M. Wright

J Pol Econ 59:74 F '51 1300w

"Theoretical treatise at an advanced level but interestingly and not too technically written. . . Important." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 75:2004 N 15 '50 110w

"The author has much to say that is constructive and original in modifying economic theory at a number of points. Readers untutored in the intricacies of the theories examined, however, had best look elsewhere for a picture of the defects of economics today. On the other hand, those who have plodded through some study in the field and are able to handle rather complex graphic notation will find the book most rewarding. Incidentally, they would do well to scan first the author's preface—an illuminating two-page summary." Harvey Levin

+ Nation 172:65 Ja 20 '51 420w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:42 Mr '51 250w

BOULESTIN, XAVIER MARCEL. Best of Boulestin; edited by Elvia and Maurice Firuski. 332p $5 Greenberg

641.5 Cookery, French 51-14408

"M. Marcel Boulestin was born in Poitiers, France in 1875 and grew up in comfortable bourgeois atmosphere where wonderful meals were ordinary events of the day. After World War I, forced by lack of funds to earn his living, he opened a restaurant which soon became the meeting place of gourmets and society figures. Elvia and Marcel Firuski have gleaned M. Boulestin's best bits of culinary philosophy as well as his prime recipes for this book." N Y Times

"An excellent first book for the young cook who loves the French idea of fewer desserts and more entrees!" K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:2007 D 1 '51 50w

"Entertaining and informative book."

+ N Y Times p54 D 2 '51 100w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 N 19 '51 400w

BOURNE, PETER, pseud. See Jeffries, G. M.

BOURQUARDEZ, VIRGINIA, and HEILMAN, CHARLES. Sports equipment; selection, care and repair. 358p il $5 Barnes, A.S.

796 Sports 51-9313

"This book contains descriptions of the construction, materials, standards, amounts needed, expected life and proper care of both clothing and equipment for archery, baseball and softball, basketball, bowling, boxing and wrestling, fencing, field hockey, football, golf, [etc] . . . lacrosse, tennis, badminton and squash, skiing, soccer, volleyball, handball, and track and field events. . . In addition there are detailed analyses of the types, properties and care of leathers, plastics, rubber, wood, light metals and textiles. The appendices provide material on test methods and procedures, lists of details to be checked in the purchase of properly functional sportswear, styling for action and fit, and good garment construction." Publisher's note

Booklist 47:202 F 1 '51

Reviewed by Robert Cromie

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 20 '51 180w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:413 Mr 1 '51 40w

"Essential for all larger libraries."

+ Wis Lib Bul 47:59 Mr '51

BOUTCHER, ESTHER PENNY. Manowen. 338p $3 Duell

51-10407

"Fourteen-year-old orphaned Owen Gwynedd, son of the tutor at Squire Merriweather's Tidewater, Virginia plantation, came north soon after the Civil War to live with his Uncle Pel on Manocc Island off the coast of Long Island. His strange feudal existence at Manowen, with the half-breed Montauk Indian boy and the little girl Ysel for loving comrades was interrupted by his schooling at the Sag Harbor Academy, and his whaling cruise with Captain Penny of the 'Alive-O.'" Library J

Kirkus 19:305 Je 15 '51 170w

"Lots going on in this baroque novel that might please readers of Anya Seton. Recommended for small library purchase." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 100w

"'Manowen' is sprawling and clutered, but it has many scenes of lively narrative and coastal tang."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 S 9 '51 80w

"A good, forthright American romance."

+ New Yorker 27:69 S 1 '51 100w

"A curious mish-mash of a book. Part romantic novel, part antiquarian grab bag, and wholly disorganized, the volume is not without its moments of charm. . . Miss Boutcher's generous and frenetic plot is, however, but the framework on which she hangs a whole treasury of Long Island history and folklore." E. J. Fitzgerald

Sat R of Lit 34:20 S 1 '51 300w

BOWDEN, FRANK PHILIP, and TABOR, DAVID. Friction and lubrication of solids. 337p il $7 Oxford

621.89 Friction. Lubrication and lubricants [50-10159]

"A wealth of information is covered on the area of contact of solids, the surface temperatures and plastic flow of sliding metals and nonmetal solids, the influence of metallic films, oxides, and organic coating on friction and wear, the mechanism involved in the behavior of bearing alloys, the frictional behavior of metals and nonmetals against ice and snow, the friction of textile fibers, the mode of action of extreme pressure lubricants, and the chemical reaction produced by friction and impact with indications of their relation to the impact decomposition of explosives. That the material presented is up to date is indicated by the fact that a group of publications on the friction of nonmetals published in technical journals in the past two years are included in the text." Chem & Eng N

"This book is a valuable contribution to fundamental science and will prove interesting to chemists, physicists, engineers and others concerned with the remarkable properties of solid surfaces in rubbing contact. It is centered around the well-known papers of Bowden, Tabor and their colleagues in the Cambridge and Melbourne schools of tribophysics, and retains the clarity of presentation which has characterized their many publications during the past fifteen years. The style is in fact exceptional in the field of modern scientific writing, being remarkably clear, penetrating and sometimes rather delightful." R. H. Savage

+ Am Chem Soc J 73:5519 N '51 470w

"For those engaged in research and development of lubricants, bearings, and the lubricating systems, this book is a must. For others, at least a third of the material deserves attention because it represents important contributions to the subject of surface physics and chemistry." W. A. Zisman

+ Chem & Eng N 29:603 F 12 '51 400w

BOWEN, ELIZABETH (MRS ALAN CHARLES CAMERON). Early stories. 364p $3 Knopf 50-58028

Twenty-five short stories written between twenty-six and thirty years ago, and published in two volumes Encounters, and Ann Lee's, both now out of print. They have been brought together here and introduced with a preface by the author.

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

"Taken alone, at face value, the stories show remarkable flashes of insight and felicities of expression, together with a tendency to be fashionably noncommittal and carefully casual. Taken in the context supplied by the preface and by the author's name, it is impossible not to see in them the promise which To the North and The Death of the Heart later fulfilled." D. M. S.

+ Canadian Forum 31:143 S '51 210w

"The writing is detached, witty, delicately sensuous, every instant alive. Most readers will feel, with the author, glad that these stories were written. Most readers will take pleasure and satisfaction in many more of them than the few to which the author gives reserved approval. And at least this one reader feels definitely, in response to the author's own question, that this early work is mighty sound stuff, important in its own right and not merely as the first stage in a writer's development." Richard Sullivan

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ja 7 '51 350w

"Of the influences that moulded her style, Miss Bowen herself pays tribute to Katherine Mansfield and E. M. Forster, and in these Early Stories both are still somewhat undigested. . . By the time Elizabeth Bowen began The Hotel, she was already master of her own style; she had come through her influences and had integrated them. Thereafter her style, like amber, holds in lasting suspension the 'only now,' which is the moment of literature, as of art." Anne Fremantle

+ Commonweal 53:593 Mr 23 '51 1650w

"For her definite, dedicated following, here is again the evidence of a style which is reticent in approach, fragile in texture."

Kirkus 18:680 N 15 '50 180w

"The preface is such a masterpiece of self-criticism that it precludes all that a reviewer might say. Miss Bowen analyzes her feelings at the time she was writing these immature thoughts and she has no illusions. She guessed much more than she experienced. This is an indispensable book in the history of the short story—or novel." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 75:2149 D 15 '50 130w

Reviewed by Ernest Jones

Nation 172:158 F 17 '51 450w

"What strikes the reader most forcibly in this book is the astonishingly high standard of writing; there is barely a page that would cause a blush to appear on any mature writer's cheek." James Stern

+ New Repub 124:20 F 5 '51 700w

"A mature, highly accomplished novelist, famous for her delicate perception of the psychic filaments that make up human relationships, might be supposed to risk something by republishing her apprentice work. Yet a reading of Elizabeth Bowen's 'Early Stories' brings only the shock of recognition that here a born artist in fiction is discovering her proper medium." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 Mr 4 '51 450w

"Notwithstanding minor incidents of naïveté, precociousness, and what Miss Bowen calls 'little-girl smarty unkindness,' these 'Early Stories' speak less as immature examples of a now matured talent than they speak for themselves, on their own account, as engrossing, provocative stories. At least seven ('Daffodils,' 'Mrs. Windermere,' 'Coming Home,' 'Anne Lee's,' 'The Parrot,' 'The Visitors' and 'Human Habitation') can hold their own with anything Miss Bowen has written. And the voice that speaks through all of them is unmistakably that of the Elizabeth Bowen the reading public knows today." Alice Morris

+ N Y Times p5 Ja 7 '51 700w

"Her writing—rich, perfectly assured, and almost immoderately fastidious—seems baffled quite often by the slightness of the material on which it spends itself. If the stories, which never rend the heart, are a trifle neat, it is the natural and appealing neatness of a very young, kind person who is so pleased at having been granted a glimpse of the world and at having the ability to record what she has seen that she is a bit ruthless in her haste to declare the encounter at an end."

New Yorker 26:85 Ja 6 '51 160w

San Francisco Chronicle p18 Mr 11 '51 430w

Reviewed by William Peden

Sat R of Lit 34:15 F 3 '51 800w

BOWEN, ELIZABETH (MRS ALAN CHARLES CAMERON). Shelbourne hotel. 240p il $4 Knopf

647.94 Shelbourne hotel, Dublin 51-11096

This portrait of Dublin's famous landmark, the Shelbourne Hotel, is also a historical study of Ireland during the long existence of the hotel—from 1824 to the present. No index.

Booklist 48:139 D 15 '51

Bookmark 11:55 D '51 30w

"The bright, close-textured style of her fiction seems quite remote from the matter-of-fact way in which she exposes these historical bones. But, with the help of judicious quotation from Thackeray, Scott, and other Dublin visitors, she does make the hotel a living thing." Rod Nordell

Christian Science Monitor p11 N 1 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:550 S 15 '51 160w

"It is for all who read Seven Winters and Bowen Court, for all Americans who have stayed at the Shelbourne and certainly for all travellers who expect to be in Dublin, come spring! The decorum, gaiety, grace, and elegance that permeate the spot have been quietly and completely transferred into this book." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:1805 N 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by John Bryson

New Statesman & Nation 42:737 D 22 '51 800w

"A very pleasing and richly illustrated volume." James Hilton

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 11 '51 850w

"Elizabeth Bowen loves people. What is a hotel but people? That 'The Shelbourne Hotel' is not as successful a literary endeavor as her best novels is of less importance than that a novelist of her caliber has attempted, as a labor of love, to write a non-fictional document which manages to twine itself into the heart of the reader." Leo Lerman

N Y Times p4 O 28 '51 750w

"Miss Bowen has done a remarkably thorough archeological job of reconstructing the details, both tangible and intangible, of the hotel's development. The furniture alone, she remarks, 'is in itself a document, a museum of styles,' and her famous prose fits this type of documentation like an especially fine kid glove. She is less successful, however, in interpreting recent Irish history in terms of the hotel."

+ — New Yorker 27:153 N 3 '51 160w

"Miss Bowen's choice of the principal hotel in Dublin as the subject for a history, or perhaps the hotel's choice of Miss Bowen as historian, is not happy. The story might, one guesses, have been made interesting by a writer with more feeling for other people's recorded experiences, and perhaps with a sharper sense of ridicule. But, as it is, it is sadly flat and laboured."

— Spec 187:868 D 21 '51 240w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn

Springf'd Republican p30A D 2 '51 270w

BOWEN, ROBERT O. Weight of the cross. 369p $3.50 Knopf
51-2386

"The agonizing and deeply moving story of a man's spiritual regeneration amid the brutalities of war. Set on the island of Luzon in the Philippines and spanning the years between Pearl Harbor and the liberation of Manila, the book illuminates the period of Japanese victory and occupation, and it takes us into the innermost heart and mind of Tom Daley, an American sailor, who is made a prisoner of war. It is through the grinding cruelty of his years as a Japanese prisoner that Daley comes to his personal redemption." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51

"The Weight of the Cross is no book for the squeamish. Its realism is at times outspoken; its events—forced marches, quick and ugly death, the dry rot of imprisonment, inhumanity and torture—are not pleasant to experience. There is occasional clumsiness in the telling, too. But through it all shine nobility and spiritual insight. An exciting and memorable achievement." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 173:472 S '51 350w

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 6 '51 320w

"This first novel is a brilliant book." William Pfaff
+ Commonweal 54:122 My 11 '51 1100w

"Although this contains many good narrative elements—suspense, adventure, and character development—the handling is heavy."
Kirkus 19:134 Mr 1 '51 150w

"This is a powerful and harrowing novel of a man's guilt and salvation." W. K. Harrison
Library J 76:704 Ap 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Harvey Swados
New Repub 124:30 My 7 '51 230w

"An ambitious book, powerfully written. It is certainly among the most interesting novels to come out of World War II. Its scenes of human misery and desperation are sometimes terrifying in their emotional nakedness. Mr. Bowen spent three years as a Japanese prisoner of war on Luzon, and his descriptions carry internal conviction, often a real sense of horror." Gene Baro
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ap 29 '51 900w

"As narrative, it has a certainty to it. As description, it has integrity, making us see without reminding us that here, here and here a young writer has met a great challenge to his descriptive powers. The style has none of that false poetry of laconic prose affected by some writers who want credit for being both real G. I.'s and sensitive young men at the same time. The characterization (always harder for a novelist who thinks that men have souls than for one who thinks they only have psychologies) achieves authority." Donald Barr
+ N Y Times p4 Ap 29 '51 500w

"Mr. Bowen writes with strength and directness and has created a completely realized and unforgettable portrait of a man who is a born outsider."
+ New Yorker 27:122 My 12 '51 100w

"A powerful, balanced, only occasionally uneven first novel. . . The story itself, tender and bitter and deep, is from the single human plot of man against the wilderness of his exile, against the darkness which hides his identity. In a framework of reportorial realism this primary dilemma of self-consciousness is handled with artistry, a style that promises much and an understanding already mature." Thomas Sugrue
+ Sat R of Lit 34:11 Ap 28 '51 850w

BOWEN, TRUE (MRS LEE RICHARD HAYMAN). And the stars shall fall. 377p $3.50 Wyn

Alexandra, consort of Nicholas II, emperor of Russia—Fiction 51-10745

A novel about the life of Alix of Hess, the last Empress of Russia.

Reviewed by V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 9 '51 350w

"An adequate retelling but not inspired."
Kirkus 19:190 Ap 1 '51 190w

"Anyone who attacks this subject today has at his disposal all the material a writer needs. In this book, however, historical dates and thin dialogues are offered in place of suspense. Compared to this patchwork novel, the driest item in a modern historical reference book sounds like exciting fiction." Rene Fueloep-Miller
— N Y Times p11 Jl 29 '51 150w

"Miss Bowen gives herself free rein concerning the life and motives of the Tsaritsa, and her interpretation may meet with disagreement among those less inclined to condone. With considerable narrative skill, however, she elicits attention and sympathy for this woman whom, whatever her shortcomings, fate treated none too kindly." M. L. Mueller
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 160w

"Miss Bowen has her facts correct, and no one will blame her for seeing history as she does. . . [The characters] make all their proper entries and exits, drop the right cues, and are about as true to life as their effigies would be, or were, at Madame Tussaud's. The trouble with them only starts when these figures are made to talk or think." R. P.
Sat R of Lit 34:32 Je 2 '51 250w

BOWER, WARREN, ed. How to write for pleasure and profit. 713p $4.95 Lippincott

808 Authorship 51-9094

"A collection of articles on the art and business of writing, each written by a specialist in the field he covers—short story, play, television script, to name a few. It is more useful than many books designed to help the would-be author, because it has a great deal of practical information about agents, publishing houses and preparing manuscripts, and does not try too hard to create geniuses by mass production." Library J

Booklist 47:198 F 1 '51

"The weakness in the book's scheme is that the various divisions, altho written with economy and concentration, are, in some instances, too brief to give more than a few hints of how to proceed. . . Nevertheless the book contains much that is good and some that is excellent in the way of advice." Kelsey Guilfoil
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Mr 25 '51 300w

Reviewed by Frederick Wilson
Churchman 165:17 Je '51 110w

"Long anticipated, this was worth waiting for, as the most comprehensive coverage of the subject we have seen."
+ Kirkus 18:671 N 1 '50 180w

"Well indexed and encyclopaedic. Recommended." Shirley Barker
+ Library J 76:327 F 15 '51 80w

"Budding authors would do well to snap up this unusually comprehensive and up-to-date volume in the 'how to write' category. There are no magic formulas, plot charts or other hokus pokus, but there is a wealth of sound advice from people who make writing their business." R. H. D.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 F 25 '51 270w

BOWERS, CLAUDE GERNADE. Pierre Vergniaud; voice of the French revolution. 535p il $6.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Vergniaud, Pierre. France—History —Revolution 50-11553

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"Mr. Bowers either does not know or refuses to believe the literature in defense of the Revolutionary government. His judgments seem not to have examined the alternatives. On the other hand the material on which the criticism of the Revolutionary government is based is often taken uncritically from royalist sources or Girondin memoirs. When Mr. Bowers writes about Robespierre, he is thinking of Vergniaud's head in the basket. It was a good head, and Mr. Bowers' sympathy is understandable because he is emotionally aligned with Vergniaud. In the tradition of good biographers Mr. Bowers has uncovered new papers and handles his material skillfully." R. M. Brace

BOWERS, C. G.—Continued

+ — Am Hist R 56:560 Ap '51 750w

Booklist 47:218 F 15 '51

Bookmark 10:166 Ap '51

Current Hist 20:105 F '51 90w

"I was born a Girondin, and The Nation is a citadel of unrepentant Girondinism. So I cannot voice too strongly my sympathy with Claude Bowers's attitude. But as history his work suffers from the fault of most biographies; by overemphasizing one personality, the general picture is thrown out of perspective and focus." Albert Guerard

+ — Nation 172:15 Ja 6 '51 1050w

"This book is perhaps the richest and most satisfying of all Mr. Bowers' historical works—the product of an enormous amount of research, and a true tragedy, in the Aristotelian sense."

+ New Yorker 26:85 Ja 13 '51 120w

"Since Mr. Bowers has equipped it with an adequate bibliography as well as with documentation, his book has value for the student."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:1 Mr '51 360w

BOWIE, WALTER RUSSELL. Bible story for boys and girls: New Testament [with black and white drawings by Edward and Stephani Godwin]. 160p col pl $2.50 Abingdon-Cokesbury

232 Jesus Christ—Juvenile literature 51-9920

The story of Jesus and his followers retold in a continuous narrative from the birth of Jesus to John's vision of the Holy City. For ages nine to thirteen.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

"Told with reverence and a keen awareness of what will most interest young readers, this is a book which should find its way onto the shelf of every home with young children." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 Mr 18 '51 70w

"Recommended." M. M. Gantt

+ Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 90w

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 80w

Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

BOXER, CHARLES RALPH. Christian century in Japan, 1549-1650. 535p il maps $7.50 Univ. of Calif. press

275.2 Roman Catholic church in Japan. Japan—Church history 51-11017

"Japan's Christian century, comprising the second half of the sixteenth and the first half of the seventeenth centuries, has historic significance vital even to the present day. . . Major Boxer, who has lived in Japan and who was a military prisoner in Hong Kong, is especially competent in exploring a period of unique Far East significance in which the Portuguese played the leading, probably the decisive role. He is Camões professor of Portuguese at King's College, University of London, and in going over ground already partly explored he had the special advantage of consulting original Jesuit secret and confidential papers of the Marsden collection in the British Museum, as well as the Ajuda library at Lisbon." Christian Science Monitor

"Professor Boxer has read much of the literature and source materials printed in both Western languages and Japanese. He writes in thoroughly readable style and with as much objectivity as is given to most of us to observe. The book is the best comprehensive account which we have." K. S. Latourette

+ Ann Am Acad 278:248 N '51 350w

"Scholarly, enriched with quotations as well as references, backed by fourteen appendices, fifty pages of notes, and a full bibliography, this 500 page book is saved from becoming ponderous by its author's style, simple, clear, even colloquial at times. He displays his admirable objectivity in many passages." Joseph McSorley

+ Cath World 174:77 O '51 350w

Reviewed by Randall Gould

Christian Science Monitor p11 Jl 3 '51 800w

"The author combines all the qualifications needed to produce a scholarly account of one of the most interesting periods in the history of the Missions. . . The very obvious anti-Catholic bias of the first chapters becomes less and less noticeable as the story of the martyrdom of the Church in Japan is being developed: it almost looks as if the heroic fortitude of the cloud of witnesses triumphed over the native prejudices of their latest historian, malgré lui." H. C. E. Zacharias

+ — Commonweal 54:316 Jl 6 '51 370w

Manchester Guardian p4 N 2 '51 250w

"This is a beautiful book. It is a handsome volume in its physical appearance and the author combines superb scholarship with a naturalness and humor in his writing." R. H. D.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p13 S 16 '51 470w

Times [London] Lit Sup p585 S 14 '51 550w

BOYDEN, FREDERICK. The hospital. 310p $3 Farrar, Straus

51-3690

Novel of the post-war lives of three badly disfigured United States airmen, all of whom require plastic surgery. The scene is mainly the new hospital dedicated to just such cases as those of Karl, Ray, and Walter. Their expeditions into civilian life are described, but the main scene is the hospital, its routine, the operations, and the effects on the men.

"Tracing three characters and introducing many others, the novel is unavoidably episodic, but many of the episodes come off vividly—for instance, the reaction of hospitalized veterans to a fatuous man-in-the-street V-J day radio broadcast." Warren Beck

Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 My 20 '51 480w

"The book is about hopelessness. It is fundamentally well written and well conceived. It is marred by a determined concern with detail—not just significant detail, all detail. A novel is supposed to have a certain kind of life. The Hospital is like a photograph. . . But as a novelist, Mr. Boyden must give more than a photo." William Pfaff

— + Commonweal 54:338 Jl 13 '51 550w

"A first novel which does not shirk the physical horror of disfigurement but which exercises a certain restraint."

Kirkus 19:234 My 1 '51 160w

"A blunt, unsparing, harrowingly honest and notably successful first novel." Richard Match

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Je 3 '51 700w

Reviewed by F. G. Slaughter

N Y Times p4 My 20 '51 200w

"Mr. Boyden's writing—chill, indifferent, exact, and strengthened by deep reserves of feeling and observation—is so arresting that it is impossible not to pay attention to what he has to say."

New Yorker 27:114 My 26 '51 60w

Reviewed by Don Pitt

San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 170w

"Mr. Boyden has produced a warm and moving novel. His hospital detail has a quiet authenticity, and, though he shirks no unpleasantness here, his matter-of-fact handling gives dignity to his material." E. J. Fitzgerald

+ Sat R of Lit 34:44 Je 9 '51 320w

BOYLE, GEORGE. Poor man's prayer; the story of credit union beginnings. 207p $2.50 Harper

Desjardins, Alphonse—Fiction 51-9131

The story of Alphonse Desjardins, who some fifty years ago founded the first credit union in North America. It was in the Province of Quebec, and was called the Caisse Populaire; from it has grown the North American Credit union. No index.

"Mr. Boyle's book makes pleasant reading. Written with warm sympathy, it recreates for the reader the enthusiasm, the energy and the sense of dedication which characterized Desjardins." H. C. Jennings

+ Ann Am Acad 275:195 My '51 310w

Reviewed by Neil Martin

Christian Science Monitor p7 F 7 '51 190w

"This is not great art perhaps but, except for one or two theoretical discussions, the author, in his fervor and admiration, has made it all seem real." E. S. Skillin

Commonweal 53:430 F 2 '51 850w

"A praise-worthy story, to which the handling is not always equal."

+ — Kirkus 18:671 N 1 '50 120w

Reviewed by D. K. Oko

Library J 76:603 Ap 1 '51 90w

"Boyle gives life to his characters, he is philosophical without being sentimental, he is realistic without being sordid, he has captured the spirit of the simple people." C. M.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 F 25 '51 160w

Social Forces 29:467 My '51 170w

Springf'd Republican p8C F 11 '51 400w

Reviewed by L. N. Robinson

Survey 87:243 My '51 180w

Wis Lib Bul 47:60 Mr '51

BOYLE, KAY. Smoking mountain; stories of postwar Germany. 273p $3.50 McGraw

51-10197

A mixture of fact and fiction about postwar Germany. "Several of the stories are merely reports or anecdotal sketches, and the longest piece in the book is a penetrating factual history of the trial of Heinrich Baab, a Gestapo sadist." (N Y Times)

Booklist 47:285; 310 Ap 15 '51; My 1 '51

Reviewed by Mildred Walker

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 29 '51 410w

"Whenever Miss Boyle writes of children, whether the lost children of Europe, the warped children of Germany, or the cowboy-bedecked children of the occupying Americans, her touch is sure, her impact certain. Nor does she deal too badly with the American personnel, though fully and obviously aware of its limitations and the grotesque contrast between German and American ways as well as means. But on the whole, these stories of postwar Germany are a blend of dispassion and dislike." Virgilia Peterson

+ —N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ap 22 '51 800w

"The six or seven genuine short stories, like the documentary items, reveal skillful observation and an expert's careful prose; they have the added virtues of dramatic presentation and that fusion of theme, symbol and character which enables fiction to be a powerful agent for revealing truths." H. T. Moore

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 22 '51 650w

"Such is the lyricism and power of Kay Boyle's sentences that they overwhelm her subject unless her subject has as much depth and substance as the words that describe it. In 'The Smoking Mountain,' her most recent collection of stories, she has a subject worthy of her art, one that presents a challenge not only to all modern writers but to all modern men, whatever their occupation." Carolyn Stull

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 22 '51 600w

"In this collection of eleven short stories and one long essay the stories vary considerably in quality but they and the essay are beads strung on the cord of just one thought: the dreadfulness of war's aftermath; implicit in this is the waste and futility of war itself. With compassion and dexterity the writer portrays the beaten." L. F. Cooper

Sat R of Lit 34:17 Ap 21 '51 700w

"'The Smoking Mountain' is a clever book, the work of a skilled craftsman, a readable book, but not a particularly memorable one." L. S. Munn

+ — Springf'd Republican p11D Je 24 '51 250w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:241 S '51 250w

BOYNTON, RICHARD WILSON. Beyond mythology; a challenge to dogmatism in religion. 257p $3 Doubleday

201 Religion. Humanism 51-9244

"Admittedly controversial, this discussion following along the lines of naturalistic philosophy is addressed to those laymen who are unable to reconcile Christian doctrines with the knowledge present-day scientific reasoning has provided about the nature of man and the universe. Asserts that religious dogmas formulated centuries ago to account for what was considered unknowable, are fossilized and meaningless; values, by which man measures his needs and aspirations, are the legitimate business of religion; the religious man is one who sees his values clearly and lives accordingly." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 47:214 F 15 '51

"This book, written for laymen who have left the churches because of dissatisfaction, ought also to be read by theologians and preachers, who can play a large part in improving the quality of the educational process if they choose to do so. The churches are badly in need of some shock therapy, and Dr. Boynton's book provides it." F. H. Ross

+ Christian Century 68:431 Ap 4 '51 900w

Reviewed by R. C. Miller

Churchman 165:16 My 1 '51 120w

"In his eagerness to exalt secular values and to combat the numbing effects of some religious myths and beliefs, he overstates his case, for there are certainly legitimate connections between such values and some myths and beliefs which he has not explored. What is desperately needed is some criterion of the dramatic or poetic validity of a myth that is reconcilable with the criteria of proof by scientific method, for which Professor Boynton has so much praise." H. A. Larrabee

J Philos 49:21 Ja 3 '52 300w

"This is a trenchantly written book. . . Orthodox Christians will find themselves in furious disagreement with the author. . . Intellectuals outside the church and seeking some place in their lives for religion might find some stimulus here to find a truly religious way of life."

Kirkus 18:697 D 1 '50 280w

"This is a forthright and honest book." J. H. Holmes

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 F 25 '51 370w

Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 240w

BOZORTH, RICHARD MILTON. Ferromagnetism. 968p il $17.50 Van Nostrand

538 Magnetism 51-10138

"A substantial treatise covering the modern knowledge of magnetic phenomena and magnetic materials and addressed to graduate physicists and engineers. The bibliography alone runs to seventy-two pages. The author is a member of the technical staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc." N Y New Tech Bks

---

N Y New Tech Bks 36:37 My '51

"Remarkably fine volume. . . The book is addressed primarily to research workers, engineers, and students, but should be a valuable addition to the library of anyone interested in the general subject of ferromagnetism."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:207 Je '51 200w

BRABY, ION. Flower in the gutter. 352p $3.50 Dutton

51-7228

"[A novel which] deals not with Hitler and the Nazi hierarchy in the chancellory shelters

BRABY, ION—Continued
but with a cross-section of lower and middle class Germans inhabiting a cellar. There are bad people and good people in his little group. There are Nazi party members and others who had been against Hitler but had been afraid to say so. All are concerned in this era of agony with saving their lives from the conquerors. The thread of the narrative is held together by the personality of Veronika Rathke, a young German woman whose husband has been killed in the war." Chicago Sunday Tribune

"Braby's pen does not produce the gaudy, but his straight text—almost reportorial at times—should attract readers." Seymour Korman
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 N 11 '51 500w
Kirkus 19:497 S 1 '51 160w
Reviewed by Hugh McGovern
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 D 16 '51 300w

"Ion Braby, a young Englishman, has a curious and deadly knack for flattening out his characters until they become one-dimensional. As a documentary of the last days of the old Berlin, of the first somewhat unreal weeks of Russian administration, his report is acceptable, in spots even convincing. Yet he gives neither his heroine nor his other characters any depth." Richard Plant
N Y Times p29 D 9 '51 320w

"[The author's] long, impressive study of the cave dwellers' existence in Berlin during its siege and early occupation by the Russians is tragic in detail though perhaps rather ironically hopeful in implication. . . These dreadful events are perhaps too near at hand to be satisfactory material for imaginative literature, but Mr. Braby has written a documentary novel of considerable power."
Times [London] Lit Sup p689 N 2 '51 350w

BRACHET, JEAN. Chemical embryology; tr. from the French by Lester G. Barth. 533p 124il $8 Interscience
611.013 Embryology. Biological chemistry 50-10160

"The author states that the book is primarily designed to attract biologists to the study of chemical embryology; its influence on chemists shoud be equally compelling. The chapters are arranged mainly according to the progression of embryonic development. Each chapter begins with a concise description of the biological process under consideration, leads into a detailed consideration of the chemical findings, and ends with some penetrating suggestions for future research." Chem & Eng N

"Two chapters, namely X and XII, are well worth the time of any chemist who professes to have an interest in the relation of chemical structure to biological activity since these two chapters contain a lucid account of what is implied in the all too vague term, biological activity. The principal objection that can be raised in respect to Brachet's treatment of his subject is the striking contrast between the admirable objectivity attained in the discussion of the purely biological aspects of the work and the absence of such an attitude in respect to the biochemical phases." Carl Niemann
+ — Am Chem Soc J 73:4504 S '51 450w

"The book is well printed, clearly illustrated, and the text has lost nothing in the excellent translation by Lester G. Barth." F. R. N. Gurd
+ Chem & Eng N 29:2222 My 28 '51 220w

BRADBURY, RAY. Illustrated man. 251p $2.75 Doubleday
51-1140

"Scientific fiction enclosed in a frame, wanderer meets a tattooed man whose images foretell the future, leaving a space to preview the destiny of the viewer. Here is an open circuit on ideas, which range from religion, to racial questions, to the atom bomb, rocket travel (of course), literature, escape to the past, dreams and hypnotism, children and their selfish and impersonal acceptance of immediate concepts, robots, etc." Kirkus

Booklist 47:255 Mr 15 '51

"Like all his short stories, these latest ones by Bradbury are masterpieces of mood, plot and characterization in the science fiction field." M. C. Scoggin
+ Horn Bk 27:197 My '51 90w
Kirkus 18:740 D 15 '50 130w

"As almost every science fiction fan knows, there is no writer quite like Ray Bradbury. Deftly plotted, beautifully written, characterized by protagonists who are intensely real, this book of eighteen stories makes for very good news to SF aficionados." Villiers Gerson
+ N Y Times p16 F 4 '51 100w
Reviewed by Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Mr 25 '51 600w

"When Bradbury is in top form he is one of the very best science fiction writers, but some of these tales prove that even the topnotchers have their bad days." R. F. H.
Springf'd Republican p30A Mr 18 '51 90w

BRADFORD, ERNEST SMITH. Marketing research; how to analyze products, markets and methods of distribution. 379p maps $5 McGraw 658.8 Market research 51-2082

"A good introductory course, avoiding over-elaboration, stressing principles and basic techniques in the acquisition and effective presentation of marketing data. Much attention paid to sources of data." Library J

Booklist 47:376 Jl 1 '51
Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:869 My 15 '51 60w
Reviewed by Wroe Alderson
Management R 40:715 N '51 900w

BRADLEY, MRS MARY (HASTINGS). Murder in the family. 221p $2.50 Longmans 51-12511

Mystery story.

Booklist 48:144 D 15 '51
Kirkus 19:309 Je 15 '51 60w

"This is quite synthetic and made of familiar stuffs. But Mrs. Bradley's management is deft and she avoids or minimizes most of the more egregious emotional cliches." James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 S 30 '51 120w
Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p29 S 30 '51 30w
Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p12 S 16 '51 80w

"Worth an evening." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 S 29 '51 50w
Springf'd Republican p5C S 23 '51 100w

BRADLEY, MURIEL. Death for my neighbor. 187p $2.50 Doubleday 51-11421

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:237 My 1 '51 70w

"A chatty, feminine and rather loosely written mystery."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 80w

"A very wordy and repetitious girl, our Jean (which makes a novelette-sized plot long enough for book publication); but her prototypes among library customers may enjoy her narrative." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p13 Jl 29 '51 90w
Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Jl 8 '51 100w

"Nice average going." Kathleen Sproul
Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 11 '51 50w

BRADLEY, MURIEL. Murder in Montana. 220p $2.50 Doubleday
50-12234

Detective story.

Kirkus 18:491 Ag 15 '50 80w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p27 N 19 '50 130w

"The picture of the mining city of Helena is more interesting than the plot—its hills and shafts form an effective background. The reader meets a number of lean characters adept at courting, gambling and the darker arts. However, when the author faces the fact that one of these copper-city charmers has to be the murderer the switch is too abrupt and leaves the reader incredulous." M. H. O.

N Y Times p13 D 24 '50 180w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p23 D 3 '50 70w

BRADLEY, OMAR NELSON. Soldier's story. 618p il maps $5 Holt

940.542 World war, 1939-1945—Campaigns and battles. World war, 1939-1945—Personal narratives, American 51-11294

"The book begins with the General's arrival in Africa prior to von Arnim's defeat in Tunisia, continues with the Sicilian campaign, the massive Allied buildup in England, the Normandy invasion, Battle of the Bulge, crossing the Rhine, and ends with the ultimate German surrender. Through Bradley's pages march the great generals: Eisenhower, Collins, Alexander, Hodges, Montgomery, Ridgway, Rommel, and the flamboyant Patton." (Library J) Glossary. Index.

Reviewed by R. E. Danielson

Atlantic 188:78 Jl '51 1550w

Booklist 47:285; 360 Ap 15 '51; Je 15 '51

Bookmark 10:227 Jl '51 40w

Reviewed by F. H. Soward

Canadian Hist R 32:265 S '51 190w

Reviewed by J. F. Waldie

Cath World 173:395 Ag '51 400w

Reviewed by J. H. Thompson

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Je 17 '51 800w

"In sum, this book gives as clear a picture of America's military ability, of the men who run its fighting machine as any yet printed. On the whole, it is an encouraging picture." J. G. Harrison

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 21 '51 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p27 N '51

Current Hist 21:166 S '51 60w

Foreign Affairs 30:157 O '51 40w

"In final analysis, this seems a wise and winning book, portraying a great man and a great soldier whose modesty subordinates his own contribution to victory, his own relations with the officers and men who served under him."

+ Kirkus 19:218 Ap 15 '51 320w

"The General's characterizations of his fellow officers are charitable but always frank, and the overall picture of the war as seen from higher echelon makes this a valuable contribution to the history of the European campaign." W. K. Harrison

+ Library J 76:859 My 15 '51 120w

"This is an extraordinarily interesting book—perhaps the best of the military memoirs to come out of the last war."

+ Nation 173:18 Jl 7 '51 120w

"This account by General Bradley of his problems and leadership in World War II will rank high among the torrent of books being written by the statesmen, generals and admirals. Parts of it are too technical for the non-expert; parts are too detailed. The innumerable maps are mainly bad. . . But, as might be expected of a volume which bears the name of Omar Bradley, A Soldier's Story is an honest book." H. F. Pringle

+ New Repub 124:26 Je 25 '51 1250w

"[The book has] a vividness, a frankness, a clarity of strategic exposition and a shrewdness in evaluating and depicting the complex human factors in high command that make this remarkable among all the high-level war memoirs." Walter Millis

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Je 17 '51 1850w

"The chief value of this book is that it frankly faces personalities, it evaluates them—British and American—against the ever-present wartime background of Anglo-American rivalry and differences. General Bradley calls the roll of the characteristics that make good division commanders; he describes the strengths and weaknesses of his contemporaries frankly but without rancor. . . But as a whole much of this book is 'old hat' and it is too subjective and too full of chit-chat to rank as a comprehensive military record." H. W. Baldwin

+ — N Y Times p1 Je 17 '51 2400w

"Written from the point of view of the field commander, midway between the statesmen's conferences, with their illusions of omniscience, and the foxholes, with theirs of futility, 'A Soldier's Story' tells, better than any other book of its kind to date, how the war in the European theatre was fought and why it was fought that way." A. J. Liebling

+ New Yorker 27:60 Jl 7 '51 2250w

Reviewed by Dick Friendlich

San Francisco Chronicle p18 Je 17 '51 1050w

"'A Soldier's Story' is worthy of the GI's General. Like him, it is forthright, plain-talking, and highly capable; and it is outstandingly the best memoir so far published by a top battle commander of World War II. It is superb history and literature. In readability, organization of material, range, and authoritativeness of contents, in frankness and, above all, honesty this after-action report is in a class by itself." R. S. Allen

+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Je 23 '51 1900w

Reviewed by Donald Derby

Springf'd Republican p5D Je 17 '51 650w

Time 57:110 Je 18 '51 700w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:223 S '51 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:163 Je '51

"Though General Bradley enjoyed the assistance of Lieutenant Colonel Chester B. Hansen in the preparation of this book, the style and language are distinctly his own. Bradley set out to write a 'readable book' in a field where some very gifted writers had already staked out impressive claims. That he succeeded in doing so is clear on nearly every page." H. A. DeWeerd

+ Yale R n s 41:117 autumn '51 1150w

BRADY, CYRUS TOWNSEND. Commerce and conquest in East Africa; with particular reference to the Salem trade with Zanzibar. 245p $3.50 Essex inst, 132-134 Essex St, Salem, Mass.

967.8 Africa, East—History

The author says he is "retelling the story for the 'curious,' the 'tourists,' and 'those who have commercial dealings'; students, he says, can find the details in the works of Sir Reginald Coupland and other scholars. In a bibliographical note he lists miscellaneous travel books, documents, consular reports, and secondary works which, he acknowledges, 'are the major sources from which the present book borrows so unblushingly that it might well be termed an anthology.' . . He highlights, often with colorful quotations, the main facts concerning early Arab and Indian penetration of East Africa, the rise and fall of Portuguese influences in the area, the Salem trade with Zanzibar, and the establishment of the Congo Free State. The author's account of the Salem trade with Zanzibar is an interesting reminder of the importance of American merchant shipping in the heyday of the sailing vessel." (Am Hist R)

"Discursive but entertaining history of East Africa." Vernon McKay

+ Am Hist R 56:939 Jl '51 360w

BRADY, C. T.—Continued
Reviewed by A. W. Smith
New Eng Q 24:272 Je '51 600w
School & Society 73:79 F 3 '51 60w

BRADY, ROBERT ALEXANDER. Crisis in Britain; plans and achievements of the Labour government. 730p maps $5 Univ. of Calif. press

330.942 Socialism in Great Britain. Great Britain—Economic policy. Labor party (Great Britain) 50-8468

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

Reviewed by P. S. Florence
Am Econ R 40:925 D '50 750w

"The turning of all this expert, if sympathetic, attention on Labour's record ought to be valuable. If it is on balance unfavorable, that is not because of prejudice; it is because the necessities of a hard world have not been met and are not likely to be met by the present measures. Something more is needed, something fundamental in the way of reorganization and revitalization." R. G. Tugwell
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:210 Mr '51 800w

"The author's point of view is predominantly sympathetic but by no means uncritical. . . There will be those who disagree with the tendency of the conclusions. Few, however, will be inclined to deny that this is a work of considerable merit: intelligent, scholarly, thorough, and richly informative." Herbert McClosky
+ Ann Am Acad 273:270 Ja '51 470w

"Dr. Brady has covered a vast territory in this book, taking in as it does problems of government, economics, industrial and commercial organization. He has accumulated a tremendous body of useful information and has discussed the many facets of Socialist Britain with many of the best informed people in Britain in a real effort to discover what measure of success or failure had been achieved by 1949." J. S. Morgan
+ Canadian Forum 30:258 F '51 1050w

"One will not seek or find in de Jouvenet's work a comprehensive, scientific analysis of Britain's present position. But it is a book worth reading for its observations and reflections. The tedious though essential details are set out for us by Mr. Brady." T. P. Peardon
Pol Sci Q 66:123 Mr '51 450w

Reviewed by J. L. Godfrey
Social Forces 30:114 O '51 1000w

BRAMELD, THEODORE BURGHARD HURT. Patterns of educational philosophy; a democratic interpretation. 824p $4.75 World bk.

370.1 Education—Philosophy

"Analyzes and evaluates the philosophic foundations and educational theories of four viewpoints—progressivism, essentialism, perennialism, and reconstructionism. The last-named philosophy, the author's own, receives the major share of attention and space." School & Society

"Mr. Brameld's contribution to the cause of human freedom is noteworthy. In the field of educational philosophy few books have been published which can be so useful." F. E. Ellis
+ Ann Am Acad 276:164 Jl '51 1000w

"In his ardent devotion to a world-wide democratic order, without invidious distinction of race, nation, or class, Brameld is just a bit prone to overlook the dangers of centralization and to underemphasize the intimate local community, where men learn the ways of fellowship. It is interesting to compare his book with Baker Brownell's The Human Community: each invaluably supplements the other—the one emphasizing the great community and the other the small. But it is heartening to find in Brameld's book no mere academic textbook but a living alternative to totalitarianism, to defeatism, and to pseudo-liberal timidity—a basis for the reconstruction alike of education and society." Melvin Rader
J Philos 48:482 Jl 19 '51 650w

"There is a wealth of stimulating ideas in Mr. Brameld's book which makes it superior to most of what we have today in our educational literature." Robert Ulich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 S 8 '51 550w

Reviewed by W. W. Brickman
School & Society 72:277 O 28 '50 700w

BRANLEY, FRANKLYN MANSFIELD. Lodestar; rocket ship to Mars; the record of the first operation sponsored by the Federal commission for interplanetary exploration, June 1, 1971. 248p $2.50 Crowell 51-764

A science fiction story for boys about the trip to Mars made by the hero, eighteen year old Jack Strong, as the youngest of a three-man crew on the rocket ship Lodestar.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Je 17 '51 190w

"The story has the suspense of a good convincing adventure tale and also the scientific detail which will fascinate many boys and girls of twelve and older." S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:186 My '51 110w

"Top-flight science fiction."
+ Kirkus 19:2 Ja 1 '51 190w

"This is science fiction at its best." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:340 F 15 '51 90w

"Neither a novel nor exactly a pretend record, it is a good science-fiction item, on the junior high level, the first fiction written by a high school science teacher well known for several titles on science experiments." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Mr 11 '51 270w

"Although the dramatic and literary possibilities of the story have not been fully realized and the characters are stiff, the scientific aspects are quite engrossing and there is plenty of fantastic adventure." F. C. Smith
+ — N Y Times p26 Mr 11 '51 180w

"The time of the story is 1970. Younger boys know so much nowadays about rockets and space-ships that they will probably claim this as their book. There is a good deal in it, however, that will interest their older brothers."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:54 My 12 '51 160w

BRASSET, EDMUND ALFRED. A doctor's pilgrimage. 256p $3.50 Lippincott

B or 92 Physicians—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-11186

The pilgrimage began in a bleak mining town in Nova Scotia, proceeded to medical school, then thru several years of struggle in small communities while the doctor was trying to make ends meet for his growing family. Finally he gave up his desire to continue his studies to become a brain specialist and settled down to be a general practitioner.

Booklist 48:1; 48 S 1 '51; O 1 '51
Bookmark 11:29 N '51 20w
Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"A record of service which has warmth and humor."
+ Kirkus 19:377 Jl 15 '51 170w

"Has the warmly human appeal that stems from funny, pathetic and dramatic episodes such as frequently enter into medical experience and autobiographies." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 S 23 '51 650w

"A warm, sincere book." Edmund Fuller
+ Sat R of Lit 34:59 D 1 '51 240w

BRAUDE, ERNEST A., tr. See Karrer, P., and Jucker, E. Carotenoids

BRAUN, KURT. Right to organize and its limits; a comparison of policies in the United States and selected European countries. 331p $3 Brookings

331.87 Trade unions 50-9148

"A comparative study of the rights and duties of organized labor in the United States and other countries. The author analyzes the position taken by the various governments with respect to the right to form, join and operate organized groups. Particular attention is paid to the attempts of the various governments to establish limits within which these rights may be exercised." Current Hist

"This comparative study makes available much material not easily accessible elsewhere. . . Since this discussion treats union, management and government policies separately, there is considerable repetition and some lack of clarity in the treatment of topics. There is a tendency, also, to present arguments and generalizations without sufficient identification by country, so that one asks who? how many? where?" E. C. Brown

+ — Am Pol Sci R 45:565 Je '51 420w

"While much pertinent material is presented, the reader unfamiliar with the subject matter will sometimes be confused by a certain vagueness of statement about the actions of 'a large number of governments,' 'many governments,' or 'many legislatures,' with these generalizations separated by many pages from the specific examples which give them meaning." C. F. Brand

Ann Am Acad 273:242 Ja '51 410w

Reviewed by J. L. Harrington

Canadian Forum 31:136 S '51 420w

Reviewed by Winifred Baum

Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 My 6 '51 60w

Current Hist 19:232 O '50 50w

"The book—for this reviewer at least—is not easy reading, and the general thread of the discussion is not always apparent. Specifically, the treatment of the right of governmental employees to organize might better perhaps have been placed at the end, rather than sandwiched between discussions relating to non-governmental employees. But, in spite of certain difficulties of organization and exposition, The Right to Organize contributes to the reader's perspective and should be a stimulus to his further reflection on important questions of public policy." D. V. Brown

+ — Harvard Law R 64:515 Ja '51 1150w

Reviewed by Philip Taft

J Pol Econ 59:177 Ap '51 400w

Reviewed by D. K. Oko

Library J 76:47 Ja 1 '51 160w

"The material dealt with in this study is presented by issues, not separately by countries. The presentation is descriptive and factual, with a minimum of criticism and evaluation. The author has no axe to grind and advocates no public policy. This is a study in the best traditions of the Brookings Institution—a scholarly and reliable treatise, not a propaganda document." E. E. Witte

+ Management R 39:733 D '50 550w

"Altogether it is an important and valuable book about a vitally important community problem." Mark Starr

+ Social Educ 15:139 Mr '51 500w

"This is a technical book for the student or industrial relations worker." H. E.

Springf'd Republican p8D O 1 '50 110w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:76 Mr '51 250w

BREAZEALE, WILLIAM MCSWAIN, and QUARLES, LAWRENCE REGINALD. Lines, networks and filters. 293p $6.50 Int. textbook

621.319 Electric lines. Electric filters. Electric circuits 51-1106

"A description of the functioning of transmission lines, filters, matching networks, and equalizers. Requires an introductory knowledge of alternating-current circuits and college mathematics." Wis Lib Bul

N Y New Tech Bks 36:35 My '51

Wis Lib Bul 47:57 Mr '51

BREBNER, WINSTON. Second circle. 275p $3 Viking

51-13927

"The hero is Pio Gentile, American soldier from Boston, son of Italian parents. During an impromptu fiesta of peace in a lakeshore town in Northern Italy, Pio meets Francesca. . . Fate overhangs a gracious idyll of ill-starred love, with earth, sky, a sky-blue mountain lake and the two lovers seeming—for a brief while—all the world." N Y Times

Booklist 48:22; 101 S 15 '51; N 15 '51

"Not a violent book nor yet a war book, this has a directness and sustained atmosphere that is effective."

+ Kirkus 19:498 S 1 '51 160w

"A beautiful piece of contained writing that deftly mixes the pastoral with realism. A first novel. Highly recommended." W. K. Harrison

+ Library J 76:1332 S 1 '51 60w

Reviewed by James Hilton

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 O 28 '51 550w

"In 'The Second Circle' Winston Brebner tells a good story, framed by the loveliness of earth and with deep concern for the grace of man's soul. He is not one of those angry young men with a mouthful of four-letter words. His soldier-characters are more real and moving for being presented with insight as human spirits." Robert Raynolds

+ N Y Times p4 O 21 '51 220w

"In his first novel the author displays a mature understanding of idealistic young love confronted by painful reality. Even the melodramatic pursuit toward the end, when Pio races in a stolen jeep to the stricken Francesca, does not result in spoiling an essentially fine novel." Ray Pierre

+ Sat R of Lit 34:70 N 17 '51 230w

Springf'd Republican p12C N 18 '51 90w

BRENAN, GERALD. Face of Spain. 310p $3.75 Pellegrini & Cudahy

914.6 Spain—Description and travel 51-13175

"A day-to-day account of the author's return to his Andalusian house and village after an absence of thirteen years, and of his travels from Madrid to Cordova, through Granada, La Mancha, Toledo." Publisher's note

Booklist 48:83 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Agatha Cavallo

Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 O 14 '51 350w

"A notable chapter in Brenan's book is the one which tells of his search for the grave of the poet Lorca at Granada, a victim of the senseless fury of the Falange in the early days of the war. . . These gruesome features, as well as pictures of poverty and hopelessness, are inevitable in any completely honest book about Spain, but they are not the whole panorama. Part of the beauty of Brenan's book is in the way it is written, for he is a consumate artist with words; but part of it also is in the people and land of Spain." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 68:1513 D 26 '51 370w

"Interspersed with disheartening views are enchanting pictures of the beauty and charm of the Spanish countryside and of those aspects of Spanish thinking and culture which lend Spain such fascination. The various regions emerge as clear and concise as the snowy peaks of the Sierra Nevada on a cloudless winter day. This is a book which will make new friends for Spain, but not for the present government." J. G. Harrison

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 N 17 '51 600w

Reviewed by Anne Fremantle

Commonweal 55:100 N 2 '51 1450w

Kirkus 19:426 Ag 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by Joseph Borome

Library J 76:1700 O 15 '51 100w

"There is something for every class of reader, from the Lorca devotee to the ordinary tourist. Fine descriptive passages, of men and women, of landscape and flora, of jewels of art and architecture, alternate with trivia on political attitudes, which he could not escape." W. H. C.

BRENAN, GERALD—Continued
Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 9 '51 240w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Brereton
New Statesman & Nation 41:16 Ja 6 '51 700w

Reviewed by Hubert Herring
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 D 9 '51 900w

"For the armchair traveler this book both stimulates curiosity and satisfies it, so that he wishes he could go, and knows what he would find if he did." Mildred Adams
+ N Y Times p42 N 25 '51 410w

"Mr. Brenan is an accomplished writer and a knowledgeable traveller; he is able in a few words to convey the mood of a town or a landscape, catch the characteristic nuances of a foreign culture, or describe how people look and act."
+ New Yorker 27:150 O 13 '51 200w

"This is a first-rate piece of work, timely, penetrating, exceptionally well-written, and memorable for the amount of pure truth it contains. And over it all is the note of elegiac sadness that never leaves the hearts and minds of true Hispanophiles." Herschel Brickell
+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 O 27 '51 650w

Reviewed by Rose Macaulay
Spec 185:20 Ja 5 '51 750w

"Another travel book, beckoning, as so often in the past, to the Andalusian scene? At first glance The Face of Spain might be mistaken for such; the chapter-headings have a familiar look. But those who know Mr Gerald Brenan's earlier book, The Spanish Labyrinth, will expect more distinguished fare. They will not be disappointed. Travel book this is, but hardly of the sort that speeds one to the tourist agency or booking office."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p31 Ja 19 '51 900w

BRENAN, GERALD. Literature of the Spanish people; from Roman times to the present day. 496p $7.50 Cambridge
860.9 Spanish literature—History and criticism [51-13510]

"The author has not aimed to do for all the literature of Spain what George Ticknor did in the nineteenth century, but to examine the labors of leading poets, dramatists, and prose masters. His history begins with Roman times and ends with the generation of Ortega y Gasset, Unamuno, and Valle-Inclán. (But does not include Garcia Lorca and the contemporary school of poetry.) Much attention is given to medieval literature, particularly the origins of Spanish lyric poetry; Cervantes and 'Lope de Vega and the New Comedy' are treated in individual chapters. Bibliography. Index." Library J

"Recommended for large public, college and university libraries." Joseph Borome
+ Library J 76:2004 D 1 '51 150w
Manchester Guardian p3 O 16 '51 240w

Reviewed by Waldo Frank
New Repub 125:19 D 31 '51 900w

"Mr. Brenan reduces to manageable proportions that tangle of lyricism, sadism, punctilio and imbroglio, the Spanish drama. He is excellent on the Celestina, Cervantes and Quevedo. His only overpraise, one feels, goes to the nineteenth-century novelists. . . On such points this is a challenging book, but it is the better for it. Few histories of literature so successfully avoid both dogma and neutralism." Geoffrey Brereton
+ — New Statesman & Nation 42:536 N 10 '51 750w

"As exposition it is interesting and useful, aside from an occasional unimportant error. . . Further observations could be made concerning accuracy of detail or the wealth of secondary data, but the most ambitious students of Cambridge will be able to refer to Menéndez Pelayo, Guillén de Castro or Menéndez Pidal, if it is necessary. Especially noteworthy is the part referring to Roman Spain and to the Arabic period, so neglected by other authors. It is with the interpretative part—which, judging from the preface, the author seems to consider of greater importance—that I do not always agree." Ramon Sender
+ — N Y Times p36 D 9 '51 750w

"The best thing to be said in praise of Mr. Brenan is that he is a good scholar who wears his learning lightly and gracefully. Among the histories of Spanish literature his book ranks high up among the most readable and most useful." Herschel Brickell
+ Sat R of Lit 35:15 Ja 5 '52 460w

"In the main Mr. Brenan will stimulate his readers less to disagreement than to enjoyment and appreciation. . . Besides encouraging us to sample his authors, Mr. Brenan provides a wealth of verse extracts in the original Spanish, with literal translations designed no doubt to show just how easy Spanish is in its early stages." E. A. Peers
+ Spec 187:609 N 9 '51 750w

BRENNEN, ED. Advertising media. 410p il $6 McGraw
659.1 Advertising 51-5095

"Written for buyers and sellers of advertising, this book gives a very full and clear picture of advertising as a commodity. The varying media of presentation and transmission of the advertisement, as, newspaper, magazine, radio, television, etc., their characteristics and techniques; rate-setting, audience measurement; sales promotion, analyzing and formulation of the media plan." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 48:44 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Winifred Baum
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 S 30 '51 40w

"An attractive, comprehensive, useful work." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 76:1338 S 1 '51 60w

BRETTELL, N. H. Bronze frieze: poems mostly Rhodesian. 77p $1.50 Oxford 821 [50-9779]

"Long residence in Rhodesia has given N. H. Brettell a sensitive eye for the deep colors and massive permanence of its landscape. It is not surprising that his first volume of verse bears the subtitle, 'Poems Mostly Rhodesian,' and that the most striking work appears in the first 'African' section." N Y Times

---

"It appears to be difficult for Mr. Brettell to grow beyond the awareness that he is writing 'poetic' thoughts, and he rarely has the determination to rid his verse of commonplaces in order to develop his particular vision." Roger Shattuck
N Y Times p37 O 22 '50 360w

"The shorter lyrics are well wrought, especially the 'Autumn Song' to the bird which makes a song from 'two cracked notes.' The 'Wind at the Funeral' contains excellent and unstrained figures. . . Brettell uses rhyme with skill and pleasing variation, but is not quite as successful in short unrhymed lines, which invite too much rhetorical decoration." A. M. Sullivan
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:19 F 10 '51 400w

"The poetry which has come from South Africa since Thomas Pringle showed the way has been more copious and eloquent than is usually noticed, and it is advancing still. Mr. Brettell's first volume both adds to its pleasures and promises future achievement."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p595 S 22 '50 340w

BREUER, GUSTAV. The spell. 246p $2.50 Houghton
50-11620

The heroine of this novel of post-war Austria, is Leni, Baroness von Wertheimstein, whose Austrian-Jewish husband had been killed fighting with the Americans in France. Leni, after several years in New York, returns to Austria with her small son. There she becomes involved, innocently, with leaders of the German underground, and it becomes necessary for an American friend and her old mother-in-law, to come to her rescue.

Kirkus 18:663 N 1 '50 160w

"Not always plausible, but recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ — Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 110w

"Mr. Breuer, formerly a Viennese actor, spent some time in postwar Germany as a United States Military Government officer. His political portrait of Central Europe, when he gets around to it between masques and daggers, is astute enough to give us something to ponder over. In addition, we have here a new writer whose competence in his adopted tongue is both brisk and promising." Frederic Morton
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ja 28 '51 950w

"The opening situation of this novel promises much. . . Unfortunately, from this point on, Mr. Breuer deserts emotional nuances for straight melodrama—and the novel, which began on so poignant a note, becomes a breathless romance, filled with spies and heady intrigue." Andrea Parke
+ — N Y Times p18 Ja 28 '51 160w

"This is a theme worth writing about, and Mr. Breuer's knowledge of Austria and its people lends it the authenticity which makes one consider once more the great issues at stake. . . Because of the theme's inherent worth one wishes that the characters were more vitally alive and the whole theme treated less superficially. Yet, for those who prefer a fast moving, well-plotted, and suspenseful story 'The Spell' will be satisfying." Martha Albrand
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:16 F 3 '51 550w

BREWSTER, BENJAMIN, pseud. See Elting, M.

BREWTON, MRS SARA WESTBROOK, and BREWTON, JOHN EDMUND, eds. Christmas bells are ringing; a treasury of Christmas poetry; il. by Decie Merwin. 114p $2.50 Macmillan

821.08 Christmas poetry 51-12401

A collection of poems for children, celebrating various aspects of Christmas and the Christmas season. Among the authors are: Dorothy Aldis, Elizabeth Coatsworth, Mary Mapes Dodge, Eleanor Farjeon, Frances Frost, Elizabeth Goudge, Christina G. Rossetti, John Greenleaf Whittier.

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 D 16 '51 60w

"Good for personal ownership and a valuable addition to school and public libraries." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:414 D '51 50w
+ Kirkus 19:347 Jl 15 '51 90w

"Full of the spirit of Christmas, from the delights of trimming the tree to the solemn joys of retelling the birth of Christ, this anthology brings together the old and the new, the gay and the serious poetry of Christmas. . . Recommended." Elizabeth Hodges
+ Library J 76:1815 N 1 '51 80w

"Will be useful only if you already have no similar book on your Christmas shelf." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p35 N 11 '51 50w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p48 D 2 '51 70w
Sat R of Lit 34:47 D 15 '51 70w

BRICK, JOHN. The raid. 308p $3 Farrar, Straus 51-9985

"Captured by Desmond of Butler's Rangers during an Indian raid, beautiful Jessica Currie experiences hardship and peril before she is rescued by her handsome, able young husband in a vivid, authentic tale of frontier life in the Hudson River Valley during the Revolution." Bookmark

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51
Bookmark 10:183 My '51 50w

Reviewed by L. J. Rogers
Canadian Forum 31:120 Ag '51 100w

"The action is taken from history, from the actual Battle of Minisink. . . To that episode Mr. Brick has brought a lively sense of frontier incident and color and a warm feeling for the southern Catskill country. If history contained no frontier wife as beautiful as Jessica Bellnap and no farmer-scout as accomplished and invincible as Tom Currie, this is still a story that illuminates the peril and hardship that were a common lot of frontier Americans in the years of the Revolution." Walter Havighurst
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ap 29 '51 390w
Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '51
Kirkus 19:74 F 1 '51 240w

"Recommended—especially for men readers." Shirley Barker
+ Library J 76:513 Mr 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by M. D. Read
Library J 76:1036 Je 15 '51 70w

"The author is at his best in scenes of conflict; at other times some of the minor characters are more garrulous than necessary and less humorous than they fancy themselves."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Je 3 '51 200w

"The brilliancy of the book derives from the vivid manner in which the characters come alive. . . The Mohawk chieftain, Joseph Brant, Capt. William Desmond, suave villain of the piece, and a whole array of other characters implement, with lifelike ease, this deeply moving tale of simple people in the midst of stress." Henry Cavendish
+ N Y Times p29 Ap 1 '51 250w

"Although Currie, his young wife, Jessica, and their neighbors fail to prove as interesting or credible as the Mohawk chief nicknamed 'Brant the Monster,' the reader is carried along on a high tide of suspense." J. M. Grant
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 My 19 '51 230w

BRICKELL, HERSCHEL, ed. See O. Henry memorial award. Prize stories of 1951.

BRIDENBAUGH, CARL. Seat of empire; the political role of eighteenth-century Williamsburg. (Williamsburg in America ser) 85p il $1.75 Colonial Williamsburg

975.5425 Williamsburg, Virginia. Virginia—Politics and government

"The first of the Williamsburg in America series, which will study various aspects of eighteenth-century life in Virginia. This small volume examines the part played by the plantation, the church, and the courts in shaping Virginians of the Williamsburg area into a ruling class. End-paper map." Booklist

"An almost incredible amount of research has gone into the seventy-eight textual pages of this book, but that fact is concealed by the agreeable absence of footnotes and the flowing narrative. One may easily believe that the average historical writer, after doing so much in preparation, would have produced a volume five times as long and one fifth as good." Irving Brant
+ Am Hist R 56:678 Ap '51 220w
Booklist 47:172 Ja 1 '51

"A clear and unbiased study of an important historical and social phase in colonial development this should find a a place on High School and college reading lists."
+ Kirkus 18:573 S 15 '50 130w

"This well-presented, well-illustrated little book is the first in the Williamsburg in America Series. . . The series is off to an excellent start." J. T. Winterich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 Ja 20 '51 220w
Social Studies 42:144 Mr '51 20w

BRIGGS, LOUTREL W. Charleston gardens; photographs by R. Adamson Brown and others. 156p il maps $7.50 Univ. of S.C. press

712 Gardens Agr51-70

"The author of this book is sensitive to the magic of the Carolina low country. Also, he is aware of the fact that gardening, despite the vast amount of scientific knowledge which its successful practice on a large scale requires, is primarily an esthetic undertaking and as such is designed to delight rather than to instruct. Therefore the book becomes something more than a coldly factual recitation of the history of the gardens of the Charleston area and a description of those which now exist." Chicago Sunday Tribune

---

"Where there is sufficient interest and budgets permit, libraries may want this handsome volume."

Booklist 47:358 Je 15 '51

"The writer's enthusiasm for his subject shines thru much of his text. His feeling for the stately gardens which once lined the Ashley and Cooper rivers, and for the smaller ones which now as in the past give Charleston proper so much of its charm, is strongly communicated to the reader." Edward Barry

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 16 '51 200w

"This charming and competent treatise will prove an admirable vade-mecum to the Charleston visitor and a source of pleasure and profit to either the armchair or the dirty-thumb gardener, whether his (or her) interest is bounded by a border of perennials or a hundred-acre show-place." J. T. W.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:49 N 3 '51 170w

BRIGHAM, CLARENCE SAUNDERS. Journals and journeymen; a contribution to the history of early American newspapers. (Rosenbach fellowship in bibliography publications) 114p $2.50 Univ. of Pa. press

071 Newspapers—U.S. 50-10321

Based on the author's 1948 Rosenbach Fellowship lectures, the book is an outgrowth of his lifelong research for his "History and Bibliography of American Newspapers, 1690-1820," published in 1947. In this small book he discusses such matters as editorial scurrility, news time lag, advertisements, and women newspaper publishers.

"This reviewer would have welcomed more material from the Revolutionary years, on editorial scurrility, for example. Yet to ask for more is not to criticize. These essays are scholarly, unusual, and intriguing. They add significantly to our knowledge and appreciation of early newspaper history." R. A. Brown

+ Am Hist R 56:667 Ap '51 380w

Bookmark 10:168 Ap '51 20w

"Compact, meaty, and most enjoyable as well as most informative reading. Mr. Brigham has raised a fine crop of flowers in a tiny plot of garden." J. T. Winterich

+ Sat R of Lit 33:57 D 2 '50 270w

BRIGHT, ROBERT. Me and the bears [il. by the author]. [30p] $1.25 Doubleday

51-12472

Picture story book for ages three to five. About a little girl who was so fascinated by the baby bears in the zoo that she wished they would come to play with her. One night they did.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51

"Pure delight—for the little girl in the book who loves bears and for all little girls everywhere who love them, too." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 O 14 '51 70w

"A gentle little book with very appealing pictures." E. C. I.

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 S 6 '51 40w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

"Will go straight to the heart of any lover of the zoo who has longed to play with the baby bears. Excellent drawings and true feeling for childhood." A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk 27:400 D '51 20w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:402 D '51 60w

"Light-as-a-feather bit of fanciful gaiety which appeals to the teddy bear cuddlers."

+ Kirkus 19:527 S 15 '51 110w

"Recommended for picture book corners." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 76:1815 N 1 '51 70w

"The idea and the style are refreshing, and we find ourselves wishing it were not all so short." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 60w

"They are charming bears with shaggy brown coats and slightly tipsy looks of wide-eyed innocence and they deserve a better text than the rather ineffectual attempt at verse form which is provided for them." C. E. Van Norman

N Y Times p50 O 21 '51 50w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead

New Yorker 27:170 D 1 '51 50w

BRIGHTMAN, EDGAR SHEFFIELD. Introduction to philosophy. rev ed 349p $3.60 Holt

100 Philosophy 51-11379

"This is a revision of a book that first appeared about 25 years ago [Book Review Digest 1925]. That the revision is extensive is clear from Dr. Brightman's statement that 'values have been treated more thoroughly and systematically than in the first edition, and philosophical method has been developed in much greater detail.' . . The book 'presupposes no prior acquaintance with the subject and is intended either for the student or the general reader.' " Christian Century

---

"The author has been eminently successful in bringing his earlier work up to date. Many will be grateful for his cogent criticism of naturalism, positivism and dialectical materialism. His book should be welcomed by all who seek a comprehensive introduction to the problems of philosophy." J. B. Alexander

+ Christian Century 68:1130 O 3 '51 380w

"The original edition of this book was probably primarily intended for undergraduates taking a first course in philosophy (mostly of course sophomores), and it has been excellent for this purpose. The new edition, approximately of the same length, covers many more details in a more condensed and technical manner. It seems likely to make its principal appeal to somewhat more mature readers, although it does not presuppose any previous acquaintance with philosophy." W. K. Wright

Crozer Q 28:367 O '51 480w

"Since the introductory purpose sets the method of presentation and the level of subtlety of the book, both the questions and the proposed answers are made to seem artificial, and the author's own position fails to emerge as intelligible. The tidbits of genuine philosophy which occur (whether owing to the author or to the traditional figures mentioned incidentally) are so shorn from the systematic development which gives them meaning and basis that they seem ridiculous." William Sacksteder

— Ethics 61:338 Jl '51 160w

BRINDZE, RUTH (MRS ALBERT W. FRIBOURG). Story of the totem pole; il. by Yeffe Kimball. 64p $2.50 Vanguard

970.6572 Totems. Indians of North America 51-8370

"It is only lately that we have come to regard the totem pole as a work of art rather than a mere curiosity. Miss Brindze explains its significance in Indian life, its relation to mythology and to tribal and personal histories. She tells how totem poles were carved and how to understand the meaning of the primitive artists' highly conventionalized designs. A pole-raising and potlatch are described as actually seen by a Yankee sea captain of the late eighteenth century." N Y Times

Booklist 48:148 D 15 '51

Reviewed by Claire Nolte
Library J 76:2012 D 1 '51 80w

"The artist, an authority on Indian art, herself of Oklahoma Indian origin, has done a superb job. She copies the striking primitive designs with fitting strength and, since the book is large and well laid out, they are large enough to make a deep impress on us." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 11 '51 400w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p48 N 18 '51 100w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:188 D 1 '51 60w

"A good deal of research must have gone into this book and the art work is outstanding. It is a valuable record of early Indian art and literature."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:68 N 10 '51 200w

BRINK, MRS CAROL (RYRIE). Stopover. 245p $3 Macmillan

51-10008

Ten years before the story opens Naomi Murdoch, bored with life in the small Minnesota town, had walked out and left her school teacher husband to bring up their three young children. Now, in 1910, she was returning to see her younger daughter graduate from High School—but she bought a round trip ticket. Five days after her return Naomi left home again—her visit had solved a number of problems.

Booklist 47:230; 273 Mr 1 '51; Ap 1 '51

"A preposterous book." Riley Hughes
— Cath World 173:312 Jl '51 170w

"Situations like this, for having been done so often before, require the utmost in restraint. Curiously enough, Mrs. Brink, tho not exactly restrained, is successful with her worn theme. Her story comes off because her writing has warmth, her characters are multi-dimensional, her incidents credible and all too human." August Derleth
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 15 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:9 Ja 1 '51 180w

"A good story, well told, well worth purchasing." F. A. Boyle
+ Library J 76:179 F 1 '51 80w

"'Stopover' is an entertaining, well-integrated bit of propaganda for order versus confusion and for the acceptance of social responsibility." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Mr 18 '51 600w

"Carol Brink writes gracefully and well, and her book moves along at a good pace. Yet, her portrait of Naomi, sometimes amusing, sometimes amoral, is superficial. Though she has made an interesting selection of characters, she has sacrificed them to a highly implausible plot." Joyce Geary
+ N Y Times p17 My 6 '51 230w

New Yorker 27:138 Ap 14 '51 130w

Reviewed by Frances Gaither
Sat R of Lit 34:15 Mr 10 '51 400w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p10D Ap 15 '51 120w

BRINK, WELLINGTON. Big Hugh; the father of soil conservation; with a pref. by Louis Bromfield. 167p $2.75 Macmillan

B or 92 Bennett, Hugh Hammond. Soil conservation 51-256

"The author's great admiration and enthusiasm for Hugh Bennett and his work dominate this short biography. Pegged to the energetic life of Bennett, the book outlines the development of the American soil conservation program." (Library J) Bibliography. No index.

Booklist 47:252 Mr 15 '51

Kirkus 18:673 N 1 '50 130w

"The writer uses a popular, journalistic style which makes both of his topics—Bennett and soil conservation—seem very dramatic." Clarence Gorchels
+ Library J 75:2072 D 1 '50 90w

"When Wellington Brink was a free-lance writer operating in Texas, William Allen White of Kansas spoke sympathetically of his 'continuous snort of joy.' Fifteen years in Washington as editor of the official magazine of the Soil Conservation service has in no way dimmed Brink's style and gusto. . . He wrote [this] book swiftly, proudly and well. In times like these it refreshes the mind and heart to know Hugh Bennett, a heroic builder of land and life." Russell Lord
+ N Y Times p19 Mr 4 '51 260w

Wis Lib Bul 47:119 My '51

BRINNIN, JOHN MALCOLM. Sorrows of cold stone, poems 1940-1950 [with collaborative wash drawings by Theodoros Stamos]. 109p $3 Dodd

811 51-11018

"Consists of five parts: 'The Wind Is Ill,' chiefly philosophical and religious lyrics; 'The Worm in the Whirling Cross,' a spiritual manifesto; 'The Sorrows of Cold Stone,' acrostic-poems to a number of Mr. Brinnin's friends . . . 'The Abhorred Affections,' poems of love, regret, mourning and other affections; and 'Local Instances,' brief, witty, occasionally satirical accounts of people and places." N Y Times

"Earlier books of poems by John Malcolm Brinnin showed a forceful and original temperament recording its observations with enthusiasm or disgust, but never without passion. The very titles . . . suggested the violence of emotion with which Mr. Brinnin responded to the experiences recorded in his poems. The violence is not lacking in his fourth volume . . . but its characteristic expression is now as obscure as it is passionate. The ten poems which Mr. Brinnin has chosen to reprint from his 1942 and 1945 volumes contrast oddly, in their sharpness of outline and freshness of tone, with the tortured diction and strained images of Mr. Brinnin's newer manner." Milton Crane
N Y Times p12 Jl 22 '51 400w

"This collaboration of artist and poet has resulted in a truly beautiful volume." Lawrence Ferling
+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Jl 22 '51 100w

"There are many beautiful poems in this book, both grave and light, which make it plain that Mr. Brinnin, whatever he wishes or does not wish to say, has an ear and a voice which rank him high among American poets." Raymond Holden
+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 D 29 '51 340w

BRITTAIN, VERA MARY (MRS GEORGE GORDON CATLIN). Valiant pilgrim; the story of John Bunyan and Puritan England; with 55 il. by Cyril Hargreaves and others [Eng title: In the steps of John Bunyan]. 440p $4 Macmillan

B or 92 Bunyan, John 50-9620

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"In preparing to write this biography Miss Brittain immersed herself in the history of the age of Charles II. She reveals also an intimate knowledge of local history. Her hikes around Bedford, Elstow and Harrowden have enabled her to describe the topography in detail. Best of all, she has caught the spirit of 17th century religious thought and life. Her book utilizes the most recent research on Bunyan, and she draws a sympathetic picture of Bunyan the man. . . However, like many other biographers, Miss Brittain claims too much for her subject." L. H. Carlson
+ — Christian Century 68:1131 O 3 '51 500w

BRITTAIN, V. M.—Continued

"We may hazard that this 'conscientious objector against state-imposed orthodoxy' will live the more securely because of Vera Brittain's vivid, sympathetic and painstaking essay." J. F. Davidson

+ Churchman 165:17 Ja 1 '51 280w

"Though the bibliography is inadequate, the book gives evidence not only of great energy and of delight in the subject but also of a vast amount of research. The many excellent photographs with which the book is illustrated add much to the reader's knowledge of places important in Bunyan's life. The author's excessive eagerness to make Bunyan both real and great, however, leads her into many bad practices. The work is cluttered with very long and minute descriptions of buildings, bridges, rivers, and streets. . . The wings of Mrs. Brittain's enthusiasm are not strong enough to carry her readers to the height of her rapture." D. A. Roberts

+ Nation 172:330 Ap 7 '51 700w

"Vera Brittain is a professional writer and lecturer, informed about what is happening in the world today and able to make her comparisons with the past meaningful and to the point. She says in her foreword that she found the writing of this book a rich and rewarding experience. Many thoughtful readers will share that experience." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 18 '51 330w

"The great virtue of Vera Brittain's life of John Bunyan is an ardent sympathy not only with the great author in almost all his activities but also with the Puritan movement in England, which flowered during the tyranny of Oliver Cromwell. I call this sympathy a virtue because having it Miss Brittain has been able to write a livelier, more provocative, and occasionally a more preposterous story than she could have done otherwise." R. E. Roberts

+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 F 10 '51 800w

BROCK, EMMA LILLIAN. Too many turtles; il. by [the author]. 89p $2.50 Knopf

51-11073

Story of two small boys who decided to get rich one summer so they could buy a bicycle for each of them. Part of their plan was to go into the turtle business. How the boys and their parents managed the situation makes the story.

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 O 14 '51 120w

Kirkus 19:392 Ag 1 '51 100w

"Recommended for ages 7-9." Juanita Walker

+ Library J 76:1711 O 15 '51 60w

"A most amusing book." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p32 N 11 '51 110w

"The unexpected assembly of turtles is amusing, but the plot is slight and since the characters are lacking in personality the story leaves no durable impression. The author's illustrations are also below par." Irene Smith

N Y Times p52 N 25 '51 90w

Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

BROD, MAX. The Master [tr. by Heinz Norden]. 426p $4.75 Philosophical lib.

Jesus Christ—Fiction

51-13644

"In this novel of Palestine during the ministry of Jesus, Max Brod, friend and contemporary of the late Franz Kafka and himself a prolific creative writer, has endeavored to dramatize the birth of Christianity in terms of the philosophical and religious ideas dominant in the Mediterranean world during the reign of Tiberius Caesar. . . He presents the figure of Jesus by reflection, showing Him as a series of images in the minds of those who followed Him, those who watched Him with curiosity from a distance, and those who regarded Him as a political nuisance." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

"It is a book that neither Catholic nor Protestant would find offensive, but it is doubtful if it will attract many readers."

Kirkus 19:611 O 1 '51 160w

"The characterizations of both men and women are excellent." R. P. Breaden

+ Library J 76:1332 S 1 '51 130w

"As the climax of the ministry approaches, the tightness of Mr. Brod's plot is sharply revealed. . . There is charm and beauty and penetration in the book." Thomas Sugrue

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p26 D 2 '51 950w

"A heavy, brooding, carefully orchestrated historical novel." Richard Sullivan

N Y Times p5 N 11 '51 600w

"Originally written in German, the English translation is splendidly done, and places this book in the front rank of worthwhile historical novels available to American readers." H. H.

+ Springf'd Republican p3D D 23 '51 260w

BRODA, ENGELBERT. Advances in radiochemistry, and in the methods of producing radioelements by neutron irradiation. 152p $2.75 Cambridge

541.38 Radioactivity 50-10948

"Devoted primarily to the chemistry of radioactive substances which exist in such minute quantities or for so short a time that the only practical method of detection is by means of their radioactivity. Differentiation among various isotopes of the same element is part of the field as marked out by the author. The use of radioactive substances as tracers or indicators in chemical or biological research is not covered." Library J

"The stated purpose of this monograph is the treatment of advances in the field of radiochemistry since the publication of Paneth's 'Radioelements as Indicators' (1928) and Hahn's 'Applied Radiochemistry' (1936). However, by eliminating all discussion of the uses of radionuclides in chemistry, the author takes his work out of this class and his uncritical treatment of the residue makes it difficult to justify the publication of this book." J. W. Irvine

— Chem & Eng N 29:1774 Ap 30 '51 200w

"The presentation is so compact that the work is essentially a guide to the recent literature of the subject. Physicists and chemists who have been using Hahn's Applied Radiochemistry (1936) will find this work a useful summary of advances from 1936 to the end of 1949." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:115 Ja 15 '51 130w

BROME, VINCENT. H. G. Wells; a biography. 255p $3.75 Longmans

B or 92 Wells, Herbert George 51-10774

This biography of H. G. Wells "presents as full an account of his remarkable career as novelist, journalist, futurist and amorist as present circumstances permit." (Times [London] Lit Sup) Bibliography. Index.

"For better or for worse [mostly the latter, as we see it], Wells was one of the leading architects of the Modern mind. And the chief virtue of Mr. Brome's book resides in the skillful, fast paced thoroness with which he brings home this undeniable truth to the reader. He tries to see Wells as he actually was, to understand the nature and extent of Wells' impact upon our world, and to assess the value, both functional and intrinsic, of his works, so numerous and wide-ranging." J. A. Clark

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 17 '51 460w

Reviewed by E. F. Walbridge

Library J 76:962 Je 1 '51 140w

"This book has little to do with serious scholarship, research, or literary criticism. It is a lively impressionistic sketch, built mostly on other people's impressions. . . Mr Brome has not come through unscathed, but he is unlikely to hang his head for long. His book, by way of consolation, will probably sell very well." N. S.

Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 6 '51 170w

"Brome's biography accounts both for Wells's tremendous success and for his partial failure. Irony and pity are properly blended, without any suspicion of superciliousness. The closing chapter is melancholy but not despairing." Albert Guerard
+ Nation 172:496 My 26 '51 500w

"Mr. Vincent Brome's lively journalistic ragbag sets up to be 'the first full-length biography of Wells since his death.' In any serious sense, it is not. Bright, slipshod, second-hand and ingenuous, it is a hurried and sometimes atrociously written book, the work of an enthusiast who has jumped in too quick. There ought to have been a longer pause if we were to avoid going over the well-known ground again. . . The solidity of the portrait dissolves into a flood of impressions, some of them taken from fiction, and in this indiscriminate collection of opinions, the figure we have a right to expect from a 'first full-length biography' disappears." V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman & Nation 41:220 F 24 '51 2150w

Reviewed by Delancey Ferguson
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 1 '51 800w

"This is the best biography of Wells so far written. Vincent Brome has approached his subject with an admirable sense of balance, a steady common sense and with evident liking and sympathy. No admirer or student of Wells can afford to be without this stimulating book." H. F. West
+ N Y Times p19 My 27 '51 750w

"This biography deals fully, and in a reasonably judicious fashion, with all facets of Mr. Wells' personality, appraises his work with considerable acumen, and from time to time appends some likely-sounding psychoanalytical comment on his more noteworthy antics. Mr. Brome, however, in the process of soaking himself thoroughly in Wellsiana, seems to have absorbed a good deal of his subject's superexuberance, which has seeped out into his prose."
+ New Yorker 27:118 My 26 '51 120w

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Sat R of Lit 34:10 Ag 18 '51 750w

"Unfortunately, Mr. Brome, who is only too eager to pass judgement on Wells . . . has no new material whatsoever to offer; his chief sources appear to be a more or less thorough reading of Wells's works (though even these do not receive the critical analysis they deserve) and the kind of gossip, rumour and personal recollection which, being unsubstantiated and undocumented, merely dull the edge of curiosity. . . All this is unfortunate because Mr. Brome may well have discouraged someone else from writing a book that would be well worth writing." Goronwy Rees
Spec 185:252 F 23 '51 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p116 F 23 '51 1650w

Wis Lib Bul 47:164 Je '51

BROMFIELD, LOUIS. Mr. Smith. 278p $3 Harper
51-12204

Major Wolcott Ferris, stationed on a tiny island in the Pacific with a very small group of soldiers, starts to write the story of his life out of sheer boredom. He recalls his American upbringing, his business career, his disappointing marriage, and his unsatisfactory children. After his death at the hands of a stupid sentry the manuscript of his life story supposedly evolved into this book.

Booklist 47:353; 48:11 Je 15 '51; S 1 '51

"There is no indication anywhere that Mr. Bromfield is aware that his complaints and suggested remedies never transcend the materialism he deplores. His protagonist's frustration and suffering are spiritual, but the author's anemic, conservative parody of materialism keeps him from knowing it." Riley Hughes
— Cath World 174:153 N '51 280w

Reviewed by Paul Engle
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ag 26 '51 320w

"Where are the fine women, the strong men, the compassion and courage and deeds of kindness? Life of a small fraction of our upper middle class is as Mr. Bromfield describes it with so much detail and vividness. But to restrict the story to that leaves the novel open to the charge of being empty, visionless, and disappointing." T. M. Longstreth
— Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 28 '51 480w

"This is good Bromfield, in the tradition of his earlier work, The Green Bay Tree, Possession, etc. It probably wont have the popular appeal of his later work; but it will help reinstate him in the critical judgment of those who once looked to him as outstanding among American writers."
+ Kirkus 19:299 Je 15 '51 310w

"Mr. Bromfield has ladled out a big dose—rather an overdose, I should say—of spirits of ammonia, neat. We can take it, with the tears streaming down our faces and our breaths caught sharp. But sooner or later we are likely to feel that so extravagant a dose is the prescription of a doctor who would rather see his patient writhe a bit than to effect a cure." F. H. Bullock
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 S 2 '51 1000w

"In limiting Ferris' intellectual range, Bromfield is true to the character he has conceived, but he leaves the book high and dry. So much of it is in the hortatory vein that it has only moderate interest as fiction, and yet as denunciation and prophecy it is too narrow and too biased to serve a useful purpose." Wilbur Watson
— + N Y Times p5 Ag 26 '51 360w

"Stylistically, Smith is an uncommonly depressing novelist, addicted to a great many of the clichés current in the late twenties, which makes his jeremiad even more dismal than it might otherwise have been."
— New Yorker 27:69 S 1 '51 100w

"No, for all the truth in the passages in which our present materialist civilization is indicted, 'Mr. Smith' is a long way, in its impact, from being a present-day 'Babbitt,' which the reader, in the early portions is rather led to expect. For that matter, it doesn't seem to me to be anything like top-quality Bromfield, which, considering how much truth there is distributed through its pages, one could wish it had been." J. H. Jackson
— + San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 30 '51 700w

"As it stands, 'Mr. Smith' is not only highly readable, but a trenchant comment on our times and on the prevailing mood of despair and introspection to which we have become accustomed since the end of the war. There will be many Mr. Smiths who will, at least while they are reading this novel, identify their own lives and lost hopes with the despair of Wolcott Ferris, and others who may look toward another war as their only chance of escape." Harrison Smith
Sat R of Lit 34:12 Ag 25 '51 900w

"As a slash at American middle-class life, Mr. Smith rarely cuts more than cuticle-deep. But for Author Louis Bromfield, who has tackled only Jello-weight themes for years, it marks an abrupt change of mental pace. Dunked in soggy prose and soupy characters, Mr. Smith still claims a kissing kinship with Babbitt and Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman."
Time 58:110 Ag 27 '51 650w

BRONSON, LYNN, pseud. See Lampman, E. S.

BRONSTEIN, LEO. El Greco. See Theotocopuli, D.

BROOK, DONALD. International gallery of conductors. 233p il $3.50 Macmillan 781.6325 Musicians 51-4217

Photographs and short critical reviews of the careers of 36 British, American, and European conductors. Among them are: The Master: Arturo Toscanini; Sir John Barbirolli; Sir

BROOK, DONALD—Continued
Thomas Beecham; Sir Adrian Boult; Wilhelm Furtwängler; Eugene Goossens; Otto Klemperer; Serge Koussevitzky; Dimitri Mitropoulos; Boyd Neel; Artur Rodzinski; Victor de Sabata; Sir Malcolm Sargent; Fabien Sevitzky; Leopold Stokowski; Bruno Walter.

Booklist 48:45 O 1 '51

"Mr Brook does not attempt any subtle psychological analysis of mind or motive. His account is gossipy, but it avoids trivialities, and as a popular work of reference it can be commended for the accuracy of its information. The many photographs are excellent." G. A. H.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 My 25 '51 90w

BROOKE, JOCELYN. Image of a drawn sword. 242p $2.75 Knopf 51-9200

A psychological thriller. The hero is a young bank clerk, an ex-army man, who is induced to drill in a mysterious territorial unit which appears and then disappears, but manages to keep him in the end.

Booklist 47:197; 219 F 1 '51; F 15 '51

"Mr. Brooke's novel, besides being a technically brilliant job, is an impressive projection of the disorder of our times in terms of nightmare. . . Beyond the gothic terror is the book's real horror: the assumption that chaos will henceforth prevail." Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:393 Ag '51 160w

Reviewed by August Derleth
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 F 25 '51 330w

Kirkus 18:705 D 1 '50 220w

Reviewed by E. F. Walbridge
Library J 76:111 Ja 15 '51 110w

"The power of the spell Mr. Brooke's writing exerts on the reader is extraordinary; one actually suffers the nightmarish oppression of fear, bewilderment, misery, and mental sickness." Elizabeth Jenkins
Manchester Guardian p4 Ap 28 '50 210w

Reviewed by Robert Phelps
Nation 172:284 Mr 24 '51 300w

"Mr. Brooke produces a wonderful atmosphere of claustrophobia and cross-purpose by his ironic realism. He gives the reader the sense of being imprisoned in a world at once normal and insane; an asylum which could be almost cosy once one had learnt a few ritual gestures of mopping and mowing. Yet at the very end he creates the impression of having lost control of his symbolic story and having been suddenly engulfed in his own dream. Nevertheless he is a refreshingly original writer." Antonia White
New Statesman & Nation 39:461 Ap 22 '50 550w

"There are several reasons why Mr. Brooke has written so readable a book. In the first place he is an excellent story-teller. With admirable economy, he evokes, in the first twelve pages, the mood and atmosphere that is to prevail throughout the book and begins an incident which has just enough of the bizarre about it to insinuate that we are embarking on a rather extraordinary adventure. Then, without apparently realizing that he is performing an exceptional feat, Mr. Brooke proceeds to make good on all the excitement he has hinted at, plus a great deal more." J. J. Maloney
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 F 4 '51 1100w

"'The Image of a Drawn Sword' is an absorbing story, its writing is vivid, its characterization sharp." Nancy Lenkeith
+ N Y Times p5 F 4 '51 360w

"Mr. Brooke has provided veils much too thick for the thin little wraiths who wear them, and one puts down the book feeling that a handful of simple declarative sentences would have cleared the air in no time."
New Yorker 27:108 F 17 '51 100w

Reviewed by R. H. Dillon
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Mr 5 '51 750w

"The British writer Jocelyn Brooke is certainly not the only veteran of the recent war who views apprehensively the prospect of being recalled into military service, but so far as this reviewer knows he is the first to have written a book about the nightmare. He has made out of it a thriller which is also on the whole a lucid and provocative comment on the current situation of man." John Brooks
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 F 3 '51 550w

"It is possible to say that Jocelyn Brooke's story is well-written in clear descriptive prose, that he admirably conveys the fog of noncomprehension that prevents his hero's perfect communication with the unreal world, and that the putrefaction and decay of the real world left behind is compelling and impressive. But with verisimilitude no criterion, how is it possible to criticise the symbolism of a nightmare?" Marghanita Laski
Spec 184:514 Ap 14 '50 330w

Time 57:106 F 19 '51 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p213 Ap 7 '50 550w

BROOKS, AUBREY LEE. Southern lawyer; fifty years at the bar. 214p $3.50 Univ. of N.C. press

B or 92 Lawyers—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 50-10879

Autobiography of a North Carolina lawyer and politician, in which chapters are devoted to his boyhood, his family, and his travels as well as to his political life and legal battles.

"While this book is marred by a roughness of style and an abundance of cliché, its subject matter is delightful." Covington Hardee
+ — Christian Science Monitor p20 D 6 '50 280w

"Mr. Brooks calls spades spades; he has no use for the forgive-everybody watering-down which dilutes much autobiography. He is an unreconstructed New Dealer and proud of it. He has lived a good life and tells a good story." J. T. Winterich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 Ag 25 '51 170w

BROOKS, BENJAMIN TALBOTT. Chemistry of the nonbenzenoid hydrocarbons. 2d ed rev & enl 615p $12 Reinhold

547.2 Hydrocarbons 50-11012

"Since the first edition of Dr. Brooks' excellent treatise appeared in 1922 [Book Review Digest 1922] the field of alicyclic and acyclic chemistry has expanded tremendously. . . In revising his original book, Dr. Brooks was forced to make a choice of subjects to be emphasized. . . The present volume gives complete and up-to-date coverage of such specialized subjects as thermal cracking, polymerization, alkylation, oxidation, and the manufacture of synthetic organic chemicals. The usefulness of the book is increased by numerous tables of properties, and by discussions of occurrence and physiological properties, where known." Chem Eng

---

"This book can be recommended to organic chemists and all technical people in the petroleum and petro-chemical industries who wish a lucid and comprehensive treatment of the synthesis and important reactions of aliphatic hydrocarbons." N. C. Robertson
+ Am Chem Soc J 73:4060 Ag '51 750w

"This book is recommended for both reference and detailed study. . . The present edition covers very well many of the outstanding practical and theoretical developments in petroleum chemistry since the first 1922 edition. It is a valuable handbook to those in the refining and petrochemical fields. The author, who has devoted many years to these subjects, is to be congratulated in his choice of subjects, the method of presentation, and the balance in emphasis between the theoretical and the practical." M. R. Fenske
+ Chem & Eng N 29:1446 Ap 9 '51 350w

"The typography, chapter layout and indexing are excellent. The book should prove immensely useful not only to chemists immediately engaged in alicyclic and acyclic research or production, but also to organic chemists in general." R. O. Clinton

+ Chem Eng 58:292 My '51 280w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:9 Ja '51

BROOKS, CHARLES ERNEST PELHAM. Climate in everyday life. 314p $4.75 Philosophical lib.

551.5 Man—Influence of environment. Climatology 51-3756

"Discusses the economics of climate, the main climatic characteristics of different parts of the world and the control of climate. Maps, figures, tables. Appendixes, references, index." Bookmark

Booklist 47:397 Jl 15 '51

Bookmark 10:205 Je '51 20w

"It is addressed to educated lay readers and to scientists. Though primarily sound and solid science, it contains a generous sprinkling of extraordinary and curious facts as well." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:1031 Je 15 '51 70w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:53 Jl '51

Spec 185:536 Ap 20 '51 280w

BROOKS, JOSEPH W. Salt water fly fishing. 200p il $3.50 Putnam

799.12 Fishing. Fly casting 51-601

"First book on the subject. Describes equipment in detail, lures and methods of catching black bass, shad, hickory shad, striped bass, bonefish, tarpon, barracuda, etc. Illustrated." Library J

"This 200 page, illustrated handbook is a necessary piece of equipment for the fresh water fly rod fisherman who wants to take salt water fish on a fly." Bob Becker

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 4 '51 230w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:50 Ja 1 '51 30w

"Salt water fly fishing, writes Mr. Brooks, is 'the world's most satisfactory sport.' Bridge-hopping aside, he supports his claim admirably." Nate Aleskovsky

+ N Y Times p32 F 18 '51 220w

BROOKS, MRS JUANITA. Mountain Meadows massacre. 243p $5 Stanford univ. press

979.2 Mormons and Mormonism. Mountain Meadows massacre, 1857 50-11100

"On Sept. 11, 1857, an emigrant company on its way from Missouri to California was massacred in obscure circumstances at Mountain Meadows in southern Utah. The company numbered more than one hundred twenty persons. The only survivors were seventeen small children. . . The charge was freely made that the Mormons were responsible for the killing." (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R) This is a study of all available documentary evidence, by a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in an attempt to give an unbiased account of the blame for the massacre. Bibliography. Index.

"This monograph is an important one for several reasons. It throws much light on a hitherto obscure incident in American history. It is a good example of how an unpleasant episode in the history of one's own religious group can be treated with fairness and honesty. It is an important case study in social psychology, illustrating both how individuals under mob pressure can do deeds normally unthinkable and how a social group can protect itself against an unpleasant incident in its own history by suppression of the real truth and by the selection of a victim to bear the guilt. The author has done a real service both to her own church and to all interested in American religious and social history." R. T. Handy

+ J Religion 31:285 O '51 420w

"Despite the necessary inclusion of much documentary material both in the text and in elaborate appendices, the narrative has dramatic power; and the sifting of the evidence provides a keen intellectual interest." H. N. Smith

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Mr 11 '51 1050w

"In sum this book is not only an historical record of fascinating interest, but, as the author wishes it to be, a classic study in mob psychology or war hysteria. On both counts it is of the greatest interest to any student of Western history." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 D 4 '50 700w

BROOKS, WALTER ROLLIN. Freddy rides again; il. by Kurt Wiese. 240p $2.50 Knopf 51-11086

Freddy, Mr. Bean's favorite pig, rides to hounds and teaches a wealthy fox hunter a needed lesson.

Kirkus 19:392 Ag 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by M. F. Cox

Library J 76:2012 D 1 '51 70w

"Mr. Wiese's pictures still are superb. Yes, Mr. Brooks has kept caught up with the favorite subjects of radio and TV, and many children of a new era twenty years after 'To and Again,' may prefer it to that most amusing minor masterpiece." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 11 '51 120w

"New England flavor seasons this highly entertaining though soundly instructive tale of onerousness revamped, of strength in union, of the power of laughter." S. C. Gross

+ N Y Times p26 N 11 '51 120w

BROOKS, WALTER ROLLIN. Freddy the cowboy; il. by Kurt Wiese. 233p $2.50 Knopf 50-10283

Freddy, the highly intelligent pig who has figured in so many of this author's stories, turns cowboy in this one. With the help of some of the other animals on the Bean farm he succeeds in thwarting a man who planned to rob the First National Bank.

Kirkus 18:643 O 15 '50 140w

Reviewed by Margaret Miller

Library J 76:185 F 1 '51 70w

"How many 'Freddy' books can your young ones take? For this reviewer, the seventeenth was rather hard to face. Yet, she admits, Mr. Brooks's invention does not flag, and his racy, modern conversations still strike a note not paralleled in any other animal-nonsense stories." L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 12 '50 130w

+ N Y Times p24 N 12 '50 140w

BROSTROM, ETHEL, and MARINSKY, HARRY. How to make draperies and slipcovers; including bedspreads, curtains, lampshades, and their use in home decoration. 182p il $2.75 Crown

645.4 Drapery. House decoration 51-10663

"'A book on decorating your home with fabric'—Introduction. Since this is intended for the beginner, it includes elementary information on fabrics, equipment, and measuring; gives sewing instructions and basic directions for making slipcovers, draperies, headboards, pillows and cushions, dressing tables, and lampshades. The necessity for consulting widely separated sections of the book for all the information needed on making any one article is an annoyance, but the instructions themselves are simple, and the designs planned for easy sewing and laundering." Booklist

Booklist 47:340 Je 1 '51

Wis Lib Bul 47:184 Jl '51

BROUGHTON, JAMES RICHARD. Musical chairs; a songbook for anxious children. 83p il $3.50 Centaur press (Calif)

811 50-10707

"By way of celebrating its second anniversary, the [Centaur] Press has just issued 'Musical Chairs,' a collection of poems relating to children illustrated with drawings by the Oklahoma painter, Lee Mullican." San Francisco Chronicle

"As neat an array of feats as you please, a high-class, high-spirited, juggling, acrobatic, song-and-dance act. It is true that occasionally Mr. Broughton drops one of his colored Indian clubs with a dull thump, or falls flat on his face or the seat of his pants, but that only adds to the delight of the turn." Rolfe Humphries

Nation 171:535 D 9 '50 350w

"At its best, 'Musical Chairs' offers mildly piquant surprises in conception and diction; at its worst, it is indefatigably cute. And even the better poems tend to neutralize one another." Milton Crane

N Y Times p24 O 14 '51 100w

"There is success here, and of a rather uncommon kind: the various influences have been so blended as to produce almost a new type of poem, comparable to soap bubbles sparkling in sunlight, reflecting as much. For though we may find little force of meaning we do find in these pieces an authentic aspect of reality; a reality never transcended but mirrored with such deft distortion and in such unfamiliar collocation that the effect cannnot but be delightful. And there is roundness, a kind of microcosmic completion far from frequent in contemporary poetry; and toughness, for the soapy film on which these lively images are printed sustains both them and the reader's attention throughout the act." Francis Golffing

+ Poetry 77:359 Mr '51 420w

"His verse had better be ignored by those who prefer to cherish the standards of the 'little angel' concept. But for the reader with some idea of today's poetry, what it tries to say and how it attempts to say it, Broughton is both stimulating and provocative. . . Maybe you don't like to be reminded of a child's—once your own?—night fears. But Mr Broughton chooses to remind you, which is his privilege as a creative writer. As for his relatively more obscure verse, and there is some here, the reader who is willing to think about what he reads . . . will not find them too difficult." J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p12 D 2 '50 550w

BROUGHTON, JOSEPHINE DELVES-. See Delves-Broughton, J.

BROWN, ANTHONY WILLIAM ALDRIDGE. Insect control by chemicals. 817p il $12.50 Wiley

632.951 Insecticides 51-12132

"A comprehensive reference book on present-day insecticides; equipment and methods for their application; and toxicity to man, domestic animals and plants. . . Treatment is compact and chapters are accompanied by bibliographies running to hundreds of citations." Library J

Booklist 48:25 S 15 '51

"The author of this book has consulted an immense number of articles on insecticides and has skillfully condensed the information found therein into a very useful and readable work. . . Prof. Brown, a zoologist, is strong in his presentation of insect physiology and toxicology, but is often weak in his discussion of the chemistry of insecticides. The chemist reading this book will be disappointed to find no reference to any of the hundrdeds of foreign and domestic patents describing the manufacture and formulation of the new insecticides. . . The book will be of value chiefly to the insect physiologist and entomologist rather than to the chemist." R. C. Roark

+ — Chem & Eng N 29:4536 O 22 '51 210w

+ Chem Eng 58:337 D '51 300w

"The work is suitable for professional workers such as entomologists and specialists in insecticide chemistry." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1428 S 15 '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:72 S '51

BROWN, CONRAD. Skiing for beginners; a complete and simple method for children and their parents; phot. by Nancy Graham. 63p $2 Scribner

796.93 Skis and ski running 51-9236

"Photographs illustrate the standard series of steps in the Arlberg Technique as well as the right kind of skis, poles and clothing." Bookmark

Booklist 47:224 F 15 '51

Bookmark 10:105 F '51 30w

"The young ski enthusiast, or the older beginner for that matter, who doesn't know much about this sport except that he'd like to enjoy it, will find this detailed book of instruction very helpful." A. L. Shea

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 Mr 4 '51 110w

"Expect top specialty sales for this, for we know of no other book for young skiers comparable to this."

+ Kirkus 19:63 F 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:463 Mr 1 '51 20w

"The pictures are so many and so clear, that an amateur can learn much from studying them. . . But the text is grand too." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 4 '51 250w

Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

BROWN, MRS CORA LOVISA (BRACKETT), and others. Wine cook book; being a selection of incomparable recipes from France, from the Far East, from the South and elsewhere, all of which owe their final excellence to the skillful use of wine in their preparation. 2d rev ed 462p $3.50 Little

641.5 Cookery (wine) 51-10845

"This is the second edition, revised [For first edition see Book Review Digest 1934]. There is an index of foods and one of drinks. Twenty pages of menus give a fair start to the pages of recipes with dry white wine, dry red wine, sweet wines etc, etc. Hot desserts and cold desserts follow." Library J

"These southern authors have a flair for the right food and drink and no one book covers the field with more efficiency than this one." K. T. Willis

Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 70w

"As far as the recipes are concerned, it's a mixed bag—some all right enough, some better than just all right, a few valuable and first-rate. So they were in 1934, before the 'revision,' whatever that means in this case. . . I'd give it as my general opinion that very little 'revision,' if any, has been done here. . . I suppose one shouldn't pick on misspellings and the like. But in this case, the authors purport to be talking knowledgeably about wines and about those in California who produce them. It's a little disconcerting, then, to find, for instance 'Riesling' spelled 'Reisling'; to find the Mont La Salle people referred to as 'Mont Salle.' To me at least, this suggests that the authors don't really know their subject." J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ag 6 '51 550w

"This book has recipes galore that are good." L. M.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 9 '51 130w

BROWN, ERNEST FRANCIS. Raymond of the Times. 345p il $5 Norton

B or 92 Raymond, Henry Jarvis. New York Times 51-5183

"The New York Times—then the Daily Times—first appeared on Sept. 18, 1851. It was founded by Henry Jarvis Raymond (1820-1869) . . . a farmer's son and an honor graduate of the University of Vermont. Besides being a brilliant journalist he was a politician, (friend of Lincoln and member of Congress) but handicapped by a fatal facility for seeing both sides of a question at once. This centennial biography is a just and full account of both aspects of the man, written by the present editor of The Times Book Review after patient research in newspaper files, libraries, and the rather scanty private papers." (Library J) Index.

"In Raymond of the Times Francis Brown has done a superlative job in converting the letters, documents, speeches, news reports, and events of the period into a lively, informative book, and the result is more than a biography of Raymond: it is a portrait of an era." Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic 188:86 N '51 170w

Booklist 47:393; 48:9 Jl 15 '51; S 1 '51

Reviewed by Harold Hutchings

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ag 12 '51 550w

"This biography—exhaustive, complete, and thorough—bespeaks a dignity that no doubt reflects Raymond himself. Its immense detail may circumscribe its interest to the general reader, but it will have special interest to newspapermen." Roland Sawyer

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ag 21 '51 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"Brown's success in this sound and expertly wrought biography is not in presenting new material, but in giving a different and richer perspective to a momentous era in our national existence. His own detachment and careful avoidance of attributing motives may make Raymond less of a warm, living individual than the psychoanalytic biographies make of their subjects, but in the end this book seems more trustworthy than many of that kind." P. V. Farrell

+ Commonweal 54:461 Ag 17 '51 650w

Kirkus 19:341 Jl 1 '51 150w

"Recommended." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:1212 Ag '51 140w

Nation 173:138 Ag 18 '51 170w

Reviewed by H. F. Pringle

New Repub 125:20 N 12 '51 300w

"A work that is close-textured, smoothly written and objective. The infinite labor involved in fitting together the scattered, personal records, the all too copious journalistic material, that bore on Raymond's activities, will not be apparent to the reader unless he seeks between the lines of Mr. Brown's bibliographical notes." H. W. Baehr

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Ag 12 '51 1200w

"Scholarly and fascinating biography, which throws a white light on many unfamiliar phases of those tragic days." C. G. Bowers

+ N Y Times p1 Ag 12 '51 1700w

New Yorker 27:85 Ag 25 '51 200w

"[This] book is no hurry-up job. Mr. Brown has soaked up the full story, together with the atmosphere of the times, social and (since Raymond was a significant figure on the national scene), political as well. The result is a portrait of a man, of his newspaper and of the period in which he and his paper became institutions of importance in the young United States." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ag 14 '51 800w

Reviewed by R. S. Harper

Sat R of Lit 34:18 Ag 25 '51 750w

Springf'd Republican p8C Ag 12 '51 150w

Time 58:71 Ag 13 '51 1050w

BROWN, FREDRIC. Death has many doors. 215p $2.50 Dutton

51-2676

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake

Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Jl 15 '51 50w

Kirkus 19:81 F 1 '51 60w

"The solutions Mr. Brown advances for both murders are perhaps a little arbitrary but the action is spirited and the characters are all either beautiful, tough, or interestingly deranged."

+ — New Yorker 27:123 Ap 28 '51 90w

"Chicago heat and an 11-year-old prodigy have their importance in this yarn, the motivation of which you may guess rather early. It's neatly worked out and easy to read, but somehow the author's heart does not seem to be in it." L. G. Offord

+ — San Francisco Chronicle p26 Ap 29 '51 70w

BROWN, FREDRIC. Night of the jabberwock. 220p $2.50 Dutton

50-10851

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w

Reviewed by Drexel Drake

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ja 7 '51 60w

Kirkus 18:619 O 1 '50 70w

"Eventful and highly satisfactory mystery."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ja 21 '51 180w

"A zany yarn that's sheer delight." M. H. Oakes

+ N Y Times p17 D 31 '50 180w

"Brown's virtuosity will probably dazzle you so you can't see the few weak spots in the plot, and the story is certainly readable." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ja 7 '51 120w

BROWN, GEORGE GRANGER, and others. Unit operations. 611p il $7.50 Wiley

660.28 Chemical engineering 50-9846

"A college textbook in chemical engineering. Twelve authors, all members of the faculty of Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering in the University of Michigan, have collaborated in writing it. Each of the chapters is a briefly written exposition of a specific topic. There is much emphasis on mathematical calculation in the solution of practical problems in chemical engineering, and the similarity of the basic principles of many processes is constantly stressed. The exposition is supplemented by numerous illustrations of present-day chemical apparatus and substantial bibliographies." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

"This new book on chemical engineering presents a refreshing and different approach to the teaching of unit operations. The plan of going from the simpler to the more complex appears to offer many advantages." W. E. Lobo

+ Chem & Eng N 29:77 Ja 1 '51 280w

Chem Eng 57:247 O '50 900w

"This book will be welcomed by all engineers who appreciate well-written authoritative statements of the principles of unit operations, with suggested practices all neatly tied together with graphs, charts, tables, and illustrative problems." G. H. Montillon

+ J Phys & Colloid Chem 55:614 Ap '51 1200w

N Y New Tech Bks 35:83 N '50

BROWN, GUY BURNISTON. Science: its method and its philosophy. 189p il $3.50 Norton

501.8 Science—Methodology [51-1020]

"G. Burniston Brown, a physicist at the University of London, has organized and written this book with the layman in mind. His first chapter describes instinct, habit, and intelligence in animals and traces the first signs of 'scientific' curiosity at the upper end of the evolutionary scale. Chapter two deals with fundamentals, defining a proposition as a sentence which asserts or denies something. . . The author then analyzes contributions of Aristotle (who was often misled by words), Bacon, and Newton to the growth of modern research. A final chapter—written in the form of a Socratic dialogue—presents an articulate scientist's attitude toward religion, esthetics, and ethics." Sat R of Lit

BROWN, G. B.—Continued

---

Booklist 47:358 Je 15 '51

"Reader interest is maintained by the use of much biographic material. At times one almost loses the main theme by reason of excessive attention to the personalities involved. It is also soon evident that English contributors are definitely first in the author's thinking. American readers will miss the name of John Dewey, along with others, among those cited for their philosophy of science. . . Even so, it is well that the psychological approach to the philosophy of the scientific method should be supplemented by this well considered account of its historical growth." B. C. Hendricks
+ — Christian Century 68:1015 S 5 '51 450w

Reviewed by H. S. Thayer
J Philos 48:757 N 22 '51 1350w

"This book is a brilliant introduction to the philosophy of science. It is recommended as an antidote to current tales about colliding worlds, engrams, and flying saucers."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 Jl 7 '51 260w

"While many of his colleagues in the world of science would disagree with some of the things that Dr. Brown has to say, there are few who would dispute his right to express his opinion on these debatable matters. There is, however, one lamentable lack in the volume: it has no bibliography. . . True, the author says that any attempt to make a complete summary of his indebtedness to other writers would be almost impossible; but in a book of this comprehensiveness a brief list of the more important authorities might, surely, have been provided."
Times [London] Lit Sup p601 S 22 '50 550w

BROWN, HELEN EVANS. Chafing dish book. 141p $3.50 Anderson & Ritchie

641.5 Cookery 51-9030

"First, there is a history of chafing dishes, and this is followed by directions on using this instrument of gourmet cookery. The balance of the book is made up of 140 recipes all easy to prepare. The chapters are divided into appetizers, entrees, vegetables and desserts." Chicago Sunday Tribune

---

"One of the finest cookbooks I have ever seen." Morrison Wood
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 31 '50 140w

"Since the chafing dish is clearly in fashion again, this is a good time to note a new little book on the subject of chafing-dish cookery. There are several new ones, as a matter of fact, but this particular one is so well done, from the viewpoint of the material in it and as a matter of design and printing, that it ought to be an ideal Christmas gift." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 N 25 '50 600w

BROWN, HILTON. Asylum island. 255p $3 Macmillan

51-9466

The island of Lassou, supposedly located in the Caribbean, is the scene of this fantastic tale of two political murders and their aftermath.

Reviewed by Henry Cavendish
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 11 '51 550w
Kirkus 18:682 N 15 '50 160w

Reviewed by E. F. Walbridge
Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 110w

"Much of the charm of 'Asylum Island' inheres in the author's own obvious delight in the pseudo-realistic absurdities and the sensible nonsense of his tale." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 F 4 '51 700w

"A confusing study of confused loyalties—and a mild satire which depends for most of its watery humor on the charming corruptibility of the islanders." Richard Match
N Y Times p20 F 11 '51 280w

"A novel meant to be hectic but actually only slapdash."
— New Yorker 27:98 F 24 '51 30w

"It's all very lively, very pleasantly done, very much in the vein of what the publisher correctly describes as 'enlightened amusement.' Mr. Brown has a fine and relaxed talent for invention, and he makes the most of it, conducting even the more outrageous portions of his yarn with a smooth urbanity that constantly makes more of it than it really is. He has a lot of quiet fun with his story, though, and so will many a reader." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 2 '51 500w

"Hilton Brown's novel about Lassou is reasonably amusing and occasionally exciting. . . Its chief merits are deft writing, a good pace, and a genuine feeling for the beauties and terrors of Caribbean life. Its defects are not-so-deft plotting, a lack of wit in the dialogue, and the failure to establish much of a bond of sympathy between reader and hero." Vance Bourjaily
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:31 Mr 3 '51 270w

"A quite lively, semi-fantastic entertainment. . . It is written with a fair amount of zest, but the story-telling is somewhat clumsy."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p369 Je 16 '50 180w

BROWN, IVOR JOHN CARNEGIE. No idle words; and, Having the last word; with an introd. to the American edition by J. Donald Adams. 130, 134p $3 Dutton

422 English language—Words 51-10511

"The third of Mr. Brown's double-volume excursions into word culture. . . The author has a witty way with words; he likes to poke into their genealogies and is delighted when he can turn up a bar sinister. From 'alien' to 'yoicks,' he discusses all manner of words—common, recherché, and slang." (New Yorker) Material was published in two volumes in London in 1948 and 1950.

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 8 '51 50w

"His admirers will regret Mr. Brown's unequivocal announcement that this is his last wordbook. He plays the New English Dictionary like an accordion. Under his deft manipulation, the droll, the curious, the whimsical, and the merely euphonic come tumbling out in pleasurable disorder." Carlos Baker
+ N Y Times p6 My 6 '51 600w
New Yorker 27:130 My 12 '51 170w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 2 '51 450w

"It is to be hoped that when this volume has had the large sale it deserves the publishers will issue an omnibus of all six of Mr. Brown's word books. They would be excellent for college students in composition, and they would help to nurture that fit audience, though few, to which literature will return when television has fulfilled its promise of rescuing the masses from the uncongenial and only-recently-acquired task of reading." Bergen Evans
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 S 1 '51 500w

"This volume is certain to delight professional word collectors, as well as amateurs, not to mention those who want to follow the thoughts of a true humorist and scholar in the classical tradition." A. N. R.
+ Springf'd Republican p5D Je 3 '51 210w

BROWN, LILIAN MACLAUGHLIN (MRS BARNUM BROWN). Cleopatra slept here; il. by the Strimbans. 248p $3 Dodd

914.994 Samos 51-6900

The author of I Married a Dinosaur (Book Review Digest 1950) describes another expedition in this volume. This time her paleontologist husband was looking for the bones of an extinct antelope-like creature called a samotherium. While he searched for fossils Mrs Brown presided over the tent colony on the island of Samos in the Aegean, where the workers lived while the search was on.

Booklist 48:83 N 1 '51

Bookmark 11:79 Ja '52 60w

"Lilian Brown reveals a real happiness in this gay account of her adventuresome life. The book is good fun, with delightfully fitting line illustrations by the Strimbans. Find time for this one!" Betty Swords

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 14 '51 280w

"Mrs. Brown's method of combining fact and fiction, history and mythology—much of it interesting in itself—is often jumpy and confusing. She also has an unfortunate tendency to be cute, and sometimes this becomes, as in the Anthony and Cleopatra sequence, positively embarrassing."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 28 '51 290w

Reviewed by Harry Gilroy

N Y Times p34 O 7 '51 270w

BROWN, LOUIS MORRIS, and RUBIN, EDWARD. Manual of preventive law [text ed with title: Preventive law]. 346p $5; text ed $4.25 Prentice-Hall

347.7 Commercial law [50-4955]

"Written in laymen's language, this book is designed to help the business man to keep out of legal difficulties. Explains what his rights are in various types of business transactions, what legal remedies he has in case of default, and how to protect his interests at all times. It will also be of value to home owners and family heads for its special sections on landlord-tenant relations, on insurance, and its discussion of the many everyday situations which involve the law." Management R

Reviewed by Winifred Baum

Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 Ja 7 '51 50w

"What has long been needed is a book which will give assistance in the analysis of the legal consequences of common transactions and situations, which will tell how to avoid or minimize legal risks and how to recognize when expert advice is desirable. This is admirably done by 'Manual of Preventive Law,' which is written in clear, nontechnical language, easily understandable by persons who have not had legal training." C. H.

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '51 150w

Management R 34:687 N '50 90w

BROWN, MARCIA. Skipper John's cook. col il $2 Scribner

51-12874

Si was only eight, but he could certainly fry fish. When the skipper of the Liberty Belle needed a cook Si got the job. What happened next is told in this book for ages six to nine.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 11 '51 60w

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 11 '51 60w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

Reviewed by A. C. Moore

Horn Bk 27:400 D '51 50w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:402 D '51 90w

Kirkus 19:579 O 1 '51 90w

"Recommended." Mary Strang

+ Library J 76:2009 D 1 '51 40w

"What did Si cook? The answer will make children laugh at about six to eight. They will be pleased with the amusing realism that ends the short tale when Si and the dog George lose their job. The book is well worth the price for the pictures. Very well printed." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 190w

"Marcia Brown has added another delightful book to her list of successes. The colors here are not as varied or as brilliant as in 'Henry Fisherman,' but the story is just as original and realistic as her earlier endeavors." Elena Baker

+ N Y Times p42 N 11 '51 130w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 N 25 '51 50w

"Marcia Brown's drawings of Si and George, of Skipper John and the crew are so robust and so funny that small boys are going to love them. Her humor lies, too, behind every word of the story. . . This book will strengthen the rapidly growing reputation of the young author and artist."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:51 N 10 '51 220w

Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

BROWN, MARGARET WISE. Summer noisy book; pictures by Leonard Weisgard. unp $1.75; lib ed $2.25 Harper

51-8509

Muffin, the little dog of the early "noisy" books, listens to noises and investigates them, and the book explains them in text and picture for children under nine.

Bookmark 11:61 D '51

Kirkus 19:631 N 1 '51 110w

"Recommended for wide purchase." M. E. Martignoni

+ Library J 76:2019 D 1 '51 40w

"Guessing with Muffin has been popular with the nursery age for years. The bright colors and boldly patterned pages are just right for their eyes and gaily stimulating to their thoughts." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p34 N 11 '51 60w

N Y Times p42 D 9 '51 140w

BROWN, MRS MARGERY FINN. Over a bamboo fence; an American looks at Japan. 239p $3.50 Morrow

915.2 Japan—Description and travel

51-13978

An American woman, the wife of a West Point colonel, describes her life in Japan during the twenty-one months she and her four daughters lived there during the American occupation.

Booklist 48:122 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:79 Ja '52 30w

Reviewed by Takashi Oka

Christian Science Monitor p9 D 8 '51 430w

"A lively, informative and warm hearted book."

+ Kirkus 19:525 S 1 '51 130w

"Good taste, discernment, high personal integrity and the ability to learn made many real friends for her. These qualities, plus an excellent narrative style and swift humor, are brightly reflected in her writing. Highly recommended for general purchase." H. S. Taylor

+ Library J 76:1700 O 15 '51 130w

"Mrs. Brown neither romanticizes nor caricatures the Japanese. This is a rare thing in books about Japan. She has the good sense to see that the Japanese are neither dolls nor demons, but people whose customs differ from ours but whose nature and emotions are in most respects the same. Any book which in these times gets that point across about an alien culture is valuable." Bradford Smith

BROWN, M. F.—Continued
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 18 '51 650w

"A delightful and informative book. . . Mrs. Brown devotes considerable space to such matters as religion and the enormous sense of mutual obligation which pervades Japanese society and underlies so many Japanese characteristics. But the great attraction of her book is the people who come to life in it." Trudi Osborne
+ N Y Times p10 N 18 '51 450w
New Yorker 27:85 Ja 12 '52 180w

BROWN, MRS MARION LEA. Southern cook book. 371p $4.50 Univ. of N.C. press
641.5 Cookery, Southern 51-13929

"A collection of over 1000 recipes from Southern homes, plantations and famous restaurants, prepared for modern use. They run all the way from Williamsburg, Virginia, in 1753 down to Antoine's in New Orleans, from corncakes as made in Richmond to Chicken a la Barbara as they give it to you in the Neiman-Marcus Tea Room in Dallas." San Francisco Chronicle

Booklist 48:116 D 1 '51

"All of the pleasantly remembered recipes are here. Every library should buy this book for its completeness and clearness, and its delight." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 76:2007 D 1 '51 50w

"This book is a glorification of the personal-contribution cook-book so popular today in money-raising ventures, where ladies give their best family recipes for publication. Mrs. Brown shows in her selection from over 30,000 such recipes the happy mixture of English, Continental and Mexican cooking with true South richness and downright goodness that makes for famous food." Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p26 N 25 '51 110w

"The volume is excellently organized and the index really works." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 N 3 '51 100w
Springf'd Republican p14A S 2 '51 60w

BROWN, MRS MARION MARSH. Swamp Fox [il. by Carl Kidwell]. 185p $2.50 Westminster press
Marion, Francis—Juvenile literature 50-10322

A fictionized biography of Francis Marion, the general in the Revolutionary war who led a band of ragged troops against the British in the South. For grades five to eight.

Booklist 47:224 F 15 '51

"Excellent supplementary reading for history."
+ Kirkus 18:522 S 1 '50 120w

"Admirable contribution to the understanding of the Revolutionary period." Elizabeth Burr
+ Library J 75:1673 O 1 '50 100w

"The style is frequently sentimental, but the tale is full of action and will make Marion's campaign real for those boys of about eleven and twelve who can't get enough books on American history. There are more of these readers than some people think." L. S. Bechtel
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 21 '51 50w
Wis Lib Bul 46:26 O '50

BROWN, NELSON COURTLANDT. Forest products. 399p il $5 Wiley
634.98 Forest products Agr50-465

"The harvesting, processing, and marketing of materials other than lumber, including the principal derivatives, extractives, and incidental products in the United States and Canada." (Subtitle) "This book, which succeeds 'Timber Products and Industries' [Book Review Digest 1938], by the same author, is designed to serve as an introductory text on the harvesting, processing and marketing of forest products other than lumber for forestry students." (Chem & Eng N) Glossary. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Lenthall Wyman
Chem & Eng N 29:1055 Mr 12 '51 200w

"The book is both a fundamental reference book and a good general review for persons interested in forestry, the wood industry, or the conservation of natural resources. It has been thoroughly revised and later economic data have been added as well as information on new wood products." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 75:1829 O 15 '50 160w

"A readable and useful reference book."
+ N Y New Tech Bks 35:89 N '50

BROWN, PAUL. Pony school [il. in pencil by the author]. [93p] $2 Scribner 50-9847

This sequel to Pony Farm (Book Review Digest 1948) tells the story of life on a Shetland pony farm. For ages seven to ten.

Booklist 47:140 D 1 '50
Kirkus 18:514 S 1 '50 90w

Reviewed by J. M. Smith
Library J 75:1909 N 1 '50 80w

"Paul Brown's 'Pony School,' beautifully illustrated by his own pencil, is delightful." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 11 '51 180w

BROWN, RODERICK LANGMERE HAIG HAIG-. See Haig-Brown, R. L. H.

BROWN, SAM, ed. How to paint with brush and spray. See Popular mechanics magazine

BROWN, VINSON. Black treasure; drawings by Lester Peterson. 214p $2.50 Little 51-9319

"Set in the jungles of Panama, this novel deals largely with native characters, though there are several white men who are essential to the development of the plot. Action centers around the search for and discovery of a mythical treasure cached years ago by the Doraske Indians." Library J

Booklist 47:275 Ap 1 '51

"The author shows intimate knowledge of the jungle, as evidenced by his descriptions of plant and animal life. The whole story has, however, an amateurish tinge, which detracts somewhat from the overall effect; nevertheless interesting reading." L. R. Etzkorn
Library J 76:325 F 15 '51 90w

"Men who were in Panama during the war will be interested in it, as will all boys over twelve who are curious about a jungle not too far away, and who like tales of hidden treasure." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 29 '51 140w

Reviewed by Clarence Howell
N Y Times p24 Je 3 '51 140w

BROWN, WENZELL. Dark drums. 371p $3 Appleton
50-10323

Character study of Kate Donley, who went to Jamaica as a bound girl in 1794, and by 1805 had become its most powerful figure. Her rise to power was thru a mixture of ruthless acts, including murder and robbery, and her hold on the Negroes which was strengthened by her knowledge of voodoo and obeah. Her end was tragedy when the Negroes turned against her.

"An exciting sometimes fearsome novel of voodoo and intrigue in Jamaica when a handful of English kept a precarious grip on that seething island." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 O 29 '50 290w

"Authentic, detailed background of the late 18th, early 19th century Jamaica, but a story that stretches the credulity too far, and offends the sensibilities."
Kirkus 18:616 O 1 '50 110w

" 'Dark Drums' gives a vivid picture of both the period and the place, and Kate Donley is, to say the least, an interesting character. There are times, however, when Mr. Brown has seemed impelled to jazz his story up and thereby weaken the story with soft spots of florid writing."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 O 29 '50 270w

"Mr. Brown's command of regional and period data is admirable. But his heroine is an insane monster who, forfeiting our sympathies, fails even to hold our clinical interest. This is true of his other characters as well; none holds our interest for the reason that each is a part of a grotesque piece of mechanical make-believe. It moves but it doesn't live." Charles Lee
Sat R of Lit 34:33 F 24 '51 280w

"An exciting story about the kind of woman who provides legends, who held the love of a man even while she destroyed him. Mr. Brown has spun a tale of violence, intrigue and strange cults in this novel of colonial Jamaica." J. F. S.
Springf'd Republican p30A D 17 '50 190w

BROWN, WENZELL. They called her Charity. 296p $3 Appleton
51-14143

A historical novel of St Thomas in the Virgin islands in the seventeenth century, when that island, under Danish rule, had become a lawless refuge for the pirates who were being driven from the seas by the English.

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 N 18 '51 130w

"The fictional fillip to history, this has tropical color, violent battle, hot-headed argument and passion in its pursuit of the picaresque."
Kirkus 19:586 O 1 '51 160w

"Amateur students of the history of the Spanish Main will find many familiar names here—and a wealth of local color as well. But such real-life figures as Anne Bonney are completely realized: the book is far more than a historical romance of blood and thunder. Cruelty is raised to a tragic level and the action becomes symbolic of an indecisive character groping blindly for the truth." Henry Cavendish
+ N Y Times p53 D 2 '51 360w

BROWN, WILLIAM NORMAN, ed. India, Pakistan, Ceylon. 234p $3 Cornell univ. press
915.4 India—Civilization 51-2746

"The purpose of this book is, partly, to give the background of the political changes [in the Indian peninsula]. It is, still more, to describe the wider context of civilization in the area where these three newly liberated nations now exist. The book deals with geography and material resources, and the use that man has made of them in developing the arts of civilization. It restates, in brief form, what we know of prehistory and of recorded history. It describes achievements in thought, literature, the arts. It characterizes social structure, economic life, and law. The separate chapters were written as a series of articles for the Encyclopedia Americana and promote no ideology. Within the limitations of available space they aim to present the pertinent facts." (Foreword) Chapter bibliographies.

Foreign Affairs 30:167 O '51 10w

"One would, of course, like to see more information given on certain subjects. Education and the status of medicine, for instance, might have been more adequately treated. But on the whole Professor Brown and his colleagues are to be congratulated upon an excellent job. One can only wish that similar handbooks were available for other parts of Asia." G. V. Bobrinskoy
+ — Nation 173:115 Ag 11 '51 600w

"A book remarkably accurate and detailed in each individual chapter, but as a whole unbalanced and, in its more modern periods, unperceptive and lacking in sound judgment." Charles Spielberger
— + N Y Times p24 My 20 '51 290w

"The condensed, encyclopedic style has resulted in the concentration of a tremendous amount of information in a very small compass, but it does not make for easy reading. Moreover, in one respect the book makes even greater demands upon the reader than does the average encyclopedia. It provides him with no visual aids. . . As is to be expected in a symposium the treatment of the various subjects is more adequate in some cases than in others. . . The most valuable chapters in the book are those dealing with the events leading up to Indian independence and the emergence of India and Pakistan as separate nations." Ralph Linton
Sat R of Lit 34:29 Je 16 '51 700w

"Unfortunately, its abbreviated method of presentation makes it suitable chiefly as a supplement to texts for teaching purposes. Even so, the interested reader will find rewarding the contribution of Professor W. Norman Brown, the editor, and his eight collaborators. Useful bibliographies furnished at the end of each chapter provide ample further reading should curiosity be stimulated."
+ — Yale R n s 41:131 autumn '51 90w

BROWN, MRS ZENITH (JONES) (LESLIE FORD, pseud). Murder is the pay-off. 172p $2.50 Scribner 50-11033

Detective story.

Booklist 47:255 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:86 Ja '51 10w

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Mr 4 '51 70w

Reviewed by Hillis Mills
N Y Times p34 Ap 1 '51 160w

New Yorker 26:92 Ja 27 '51 100w

"Mrs. Ford has whipped this one up with admirable clarity and in her usual slick style." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p19 Ja 28 '51 100w

"Pleasant enough."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 F 10 '51 50w

BROWNELL, BAKER. The human community; its philosophy and practice for a time of crisis. 305p $4 Harper
323.35 Community life 50-9899

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"One can agree with Brownell about the desirability or undesirability of many things and still be stumped by the manipulative problem. . . Underneath all the discussion of the development of a better life at the grass roots lies the ancient Malthusian dilemma—to which the author seems strangely ambivalent. . . While no complete blueprint as indicated above, his study makes as impressive a dent in the difficult manipulative problem as any this reviewer has encountered. Moreover, there is a literary style to the work, which reminds one of some of the best English academic writing—all too seldom emulated in America." P. P. Van Riper
+ — Am Pol Sci R 45:568 Je '51 600w

"Social scientists who may be attracted by the title of this volume are bound to be disappointed, for it adds virtually nothing to an objective understanding of the human community. Despite implications on the dust jacket to the contrary, it consists essentially of the author's own philosophy of primary group life; and while one cannot question his sincerity nor deny that many may find his views interesting, the result is not science." J. K. Myers

BROWNELL, BAKER—Continued
— + Am Soc R 16:432 Je '51 220w

Reviewed by Hans Blumenfeld
Ann Am Acad 274:244 Mr '51 500w

"If the Brownell philosofy and technique can help to rescue the small community, and strengthen it as the sound foundation of our individualistic society, then this rates as one of the important books of the year. The case reports are completely affirmative. University scholars undoubtedly will read this book. It is to be hoped that government officials, community leaders, and members of service clubs, already doing good work in the field, will be added to this number." Lloyd Wendt
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ja 7 '51 470w

Reviewed by D. F. Pielstick
Christian Century 68:796 Jl 4 '51 1150w

Reviewed by B. H. Bode
New Repub 125:20 Jl 23 '51 400w

"Few men on our contemporary culture have either the gift of vision or the insight of spirit to create a monumental work such as Baker Brownell's 'The Human Community'. . . Professor Brownell now brings us the climax of his outstanding career. Here we have the full union of poetry and science fused in all the humble beauty of literary style that can be captured by a master artisan. It is as rare as it is profound." R. W. Poston
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 Mr 3 '51 700w

"Baker Brownell writes with felicity. There is here at once a certain downrightness and hard hitting quality along with the prose of a poet. Though the author is a philosopher this is not the work of a man aloof from life. His belief that all men can and should live in a fashion which will satisfy and develop their true nature animates all his thinking, which as here recorded constitutes, perhaps, the summing up of a life's experience." P. A. Waring
+ Survey 87:42 Ja '51 550w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:185 Je '51 350w

BROWNING, ROBERT. Dearest Isa; letters to Isabella Blagden; ed. and with an introd. by Edward C. McAleer. 402p il $5 Univ. of Tex.
B or 92 Blagden, Isabella 51-4323

After the death of his wife, Robert Browning went back to England to educate their son, after making a pact with their friend Isabella Blagden that they should exchange monthly letters. The 154 letters which Browning wrote to Miss Blagden are here reprinted with comment by the editor. Index.

"Browning's wide interest in human personality often degenerates into very small gossip. But he is always alert and vigorous, and phases of the Victorian scene move before us in lifelike fashion as we read."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p32 D 2 '51 280w

"In scattered areas, and in one form or another, all or nearly all [of the letters] have been previously published. By bringing them together in a more accurate text and a more dependable sequence, Mr. McAleer has provided future scholars with a valuable working instrument. For the present volume, with its copious explanatory notes and judicious introduction, is the best source of biographical material on Browning during the period 1861-72." Carlos Baker
+ N Y Times p11 Ag 5 '51 300w

"A first-class piece of scholarship that only Robert Browning himself could fail to appreciate."
+ New Yorker 27:78 Je 30 '51 150w

"In Dr. McAleer the letters have found a scholar whose thoroughness and care will make this, in all likelihood, the definitive edition." Frances Winwar
+ Sat R of Lit 34:12 Ag 18 '51 550w

BRUBACHER, JOHN SEILER. Modern philosophies of education. 2d ed 349p $4 McGraw
370.1 Education—Philosophy 50-14228

"A second and thoroughly revised edition of his first book of the same name, [Book Review Digest 1939]. . . The twelve chapters of the second edition which are revisions of materials appearing in the first edition have been rewritten; sections have been reorganized, expanded, and restated; and three new chapters have been added. Their titles are 'The Nature of Human Nature', 'Professional Ethics', and 'Consensus among Philosophies of Education'." El School J

"Students who accept the conditions imposed by this book—systematic study of philosophy as a prerequisite and willingness to face problems philosophically—will find it most repaying." C. F. Arrowood
+ El School J 51:235 D '50 800w

Reviewed by W. W. Brickman
School & Society 72:277 O 28 '50 360w

"An excellent study."
+ Social Studies 42:48 Ja '51 10w

BRUCE, MIRIAM. Linden road. 280p $3 Harper
51-360

Character study of Hagar Tobias, reared in a wealthy New York suburb, who tried for many years to live down her Jewish heritage. By finally rejecting an anti-Semitic Jewish lover and accepting her heritage, Hagar found peace.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

"Delicately written, the thesis is that denial of race brings loss of personal integrity." W. K. R.
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 25 '51 130w
Kirkus 18:683 N 15 '50 160w

Reviewed by C. J. Roth
Library J 76:181 F 1 '51 80w

"Miriam Bruce has undertaken a difficult job in this first novel. She has taken for a heroine a girl poisoned by her own snobbishness and has managed to retain the reader's sympathy for her throughout the book. Her treatment of her theme is intellectual rather than emotional, gentle rather than outraged." Joanna Spencer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 F 4 '51 400w

"A fine and poignant first novel which clearly enunciates a theme so often relegated to a mumble." Nancy Ladd
+ N Y Times p16 F 18 '51 290w

"Miss Bruce writes with sensitivity and intelligence and with a fine compassion for her characters. She describes the terrible baldness of Jewish inferiority with gentleness. She gives warmth and dimension to the simpler characters, the prototypes, the signposts in Hagar's jungle. If Hagar herself grows parched and immobile it is because an orderly network of adult problems does not appear to grow out of her childhood symptoms." Madelon Shapiro
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:30 Mr 17 '51 410w
Springf'd Republican p5D Mr 25 '51 150w

"Although Miss Bruce does not completely develop her challenging material, she approaches her theme wth insight, compassion, and a total lack of sentimentality. The writing is spare and direct, illumined by flashes of wit."
+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:145 Je '51 260w
Wis Lib Bul 47:88 Ap '51

BRUNINI, JOHN GILLAND. Days of a hireling. 256p $3 Lippincott
51-11187

Character sketch of a sensitive, intellectual Catholic, business manager of a Catholic weekly. After his wife left him his life became a constant struggle to maintain his integrity as a man and as a Christian. In his friendship with an understanding priest he finds a partial answer to his troubles.

"Adds another perceptive volume to the rapidly growing shelf of fiction delineating contemporary Catholic America. Days of a Hireling is especially interesting for what it reveals of our intellectual history of the past few decades." Riley Hughes

+ Cath World 174:153 N '51 200w

"In Hilary Debevoise the author does show something more important than any earthly satisfaction. It is the reward of the spiritual man who can keep alight in his heart and mind the spirit that gives point and purpose to the days of a hireling. Hilary Debevoise in that respect is a clear figure, placed against the cluttered and uninspired environment that Mr. Brunini describes." N. M. Corcoran

Commonweal 55:77 O 26 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:362 Jl 15 '51 110w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ja 13 '52 140w

N Y Times p17 D 16 '51 100w

"Mr. Brunini tells the story well on the whole, though at times his prose becomes a little turgid." John Cournos

Sat R of Lit 34:21 O 20 '51 370w

BRUNNER, HEINRICH EMIL. Scandal of Christianity. 116p $2 Westminster press

230 Christianity 51-12829

"As St. Paul told the Corinthians, the gospel cannot but be a scandal, a stumbling-block, to the natural man. Professor Brunner examines five scandals, or five aspects of the scandal, of Christianity. . . With all these themes Professor Brunner deals briefly but incisively." Times [London] Lit Sup

"I read Dr Brunner with delight. In every chapter there are passages, often of only a few lines, which I should like to have printed and offered to young students of theology as postulates."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 N 19 '51 240w

Times [London] Lit Sup p649 O 12 '51 700w

BRUNS, FRANKLIN RICHARD. Fell's profitable stamp guide. 128p il $1.50 Fell

383 Postage stamps

"A comprehensive guide for the neophyte in stamp collecting. . . [The author] includes chapters not only on starting a collection but also on selling and production of stamps." Wis Lib Bul

Booklist 48:43 O 1 '51

"Recommended."

+ Wis Lib Bul 47:183 Jl '51

BRYANT, ARTHUR. Age of elegance, 1812-1822. 450p maps $4.50 Harper

942.073 Great Britain—History—19th century. England—Social life and customs 51-10846

The third volume in the author's trilogy on Britain's struggle during the French revolution and the Napoleonic wars, of which The Years of Endurance, and The Years of Victory (Book Review Digest 1942 and 1945) were the first two. The present volume is a history of England during the years 1812 to 1822. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:378 Jl 1 '51

Reviewed by Russell MacFall

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Je 24 '51 360w

"With sound wisdom and the adroitest wit, Arthur Bryant courageously points his moral and adorns his tale in 'The Age of Elegance.'" Leila Flower

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 24 '51 650w

Current Hist 21:93 Ag '51 80w

Manchester Guardian p4 N 24 '50 240w

"While admiring the virtuosity of Mr. Bryant's picture of Waterloo, one should add a note of warning about all battlescapes painted by historians; their love of military music is liable to carry them away. . . As the title, however, indicates the main subject of the book is not military, but a description of the state of England towards the end of the Regency. In this Mr. Bryant's brilliant gifts of exposition and penetrating analysis are fully tested, for the period was one of the utmost complexity." Ralph Partridge

+ — New Statesman & Nation 40:430 N 11 '50 1450w

"History presented in this glittering fashion will always have its readers. The rush of images, the flashing style, the epigrams and intrigues, the moments of hot heroic action have the similitude of a living pageant. Even the partiality and prejudice add to the illusion of life. For no one caught in an apocalyptic drama can see it steadily or see it whole. This book tells how Wellington's soldiers viewed the Spanish landscape, how they felt in victory and retreat, how the charging French regiments appeared from the ridge of Waterloo. No recent historian has excelled Mr. Bryant at re-creating the horror and hysteria of a stricken field, the awesome interplay of chance and calculation when two armies mesh in battle. The more peaceful scenes, though less electrifying, are invested with the same immediacy." Geoffrey Brunn

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 My 27 '51 1000w

Reviewed by Delancey Ferguson

N Y Times p16 Je 10 '51 650w

"He brings it all to life in terms of its extravagant and picturesque personalities, and with an abundance of absorbing detail. This is history as it should be written."

+ New Yorker 27:85 Je 23 '51 240w

Reviewed by C. W. Weinberger

San Francisco Chronicle p2 Jl 1 '51 450w

Reviewed by F. B. Artz

Sat R of Lit 34:9 Jl 28 '51 750w

"I believe, as another critic has pointed out, that [the author] should have stressed the influence of the Evangelicals more, for it seems hard to take any other view than that these people saved England from internal disaster. In the middle section of the book I think he gets the character of Talleyrand as wrong as he gets that of Metternich right. . . My third point of disagreement is on the subject of male clothes, an ever-present one in this epoch. Dr. Bryant puts forward a very patriotic view, namely that during the Napoleonic years, England developed modern civilian fashions which France copied later. I am sure this was not the case. . . If these points can be maintained against him, as I believe they can, they are trifling blemishes in a magnificent panorama, and I am left finally with a sense of unreserved admiration for the finish, capaciousness, efficiency, and the pleasant design of Dr. Bryant's high-powered Time Machine." Christopher Sykes

+ — Spec 184:566 N 24 '50 900w

Time 57:116 Je 11 '51 850w

Times [London] Lit Sup p726 N 17 '50 2900w

Wis Lib Bul 47:214 S '51

"Mr. Bryant writes in a spirit of sober though unashamed patriotism. But the great story he so splendidly tells is one that in its nature and its significance belongs to the entire free world." C. H. Driver

+ Yale R n s 41:159 autumn '51 550w

BRYANT, CHESTER. Lost kingdom; il. by Margaret Ayer. 184p $2.75 Messner

51-12795

A story of India today and of the boy, Rodmika, who loved and understood the jungle animals. For grades seven to nine.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Horn Bk 27:419 D '51 60w

Kirkus 19:485 S 1 '51 180w

Reviewed by Alice Fedder

Library J 76:1639 O 15 '51 40w

BRYANT, CHESTER—Continued

"His story is well told, with an interesting plot. . . Rodmika's long jungle journey, his adventures, above all, his contacts, friendly or dangerous or exciting, with so many jungle creatures, will delight many readers of ten to thirteen. They will get an unforgettable portrait of an Indian boy of today. . . This manuscript won the Julia Ellsworth Ford Foundation award for last year, and well deserved it." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 4 '51 250w

"The author's understanding of jungle life and first-hand acquaintance with the scene make this book memorable for feeling and authenticity. The illustrations by Margaret Ayer are wholly in keeping with the text." Eugenia Garson

+ N Y Times p28 N 11 '51 150w

Wis Lib Bul 47:220 S '51

BUBER, MARGARET E. Under two dictators; tr. by Edward Fitzgerald. 331p $4 Dodd

365.36 Concentration camps

In 1935 the author and her husband, Heinz Neumann, deposed leader of the German communist party, went to Moscow to translate for the Comintern. In 1937 her husband was arrested and she never saw him again. She herself was arrested the next year. Her book is the account of her sufferings in the Soviet slave camp of Karaganda, and in the Nazi concentration camp at Ravensbruck, where she spent five years. In 1945 she was liberated by the American army. Index.

"Many books have been written by former victims of Hitler, many by former victims of Stalin. This deserves a very high rating in both categories." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 25 '51 600w

Reviewed by W. B. Walsh

Nation 172:616 Je 30 '51 290w

"Not a political book—one still does not know what the author, at the beginning a German Communist, feels about Communism as a world economic system—this is a human document of extraordinary interest and power." Frances Witherspoon

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ja 21 '51 1100w

"This book can destroy the last outposts of the Soviet apologists in the West. It should be read by all the fellow-travelers, the Stalinoids, the double-standard 'liberals' and the phony 'progressives' who have acted as Stalin's stooges when humanity needed every decent man and woman to defend itself against the onslaughts of those who thirst for concentrated power. . . No one can shrug off this book. It may be possible to rationalize about large issues—because the very breadth of their scope may give international affairs an almost abstract quality. Yet it is not possible to shrug off human suffering when it is described in terms of one human being." Peter Blake

+ N Y Times p3 Ja 7 '51 750w

San Francisco Chronicle p20 F 18 '51 350w

"Her account is perfectly readable and all that, but it is strictly a surface performance. There are few psychological or political insights; she might just as well have spent seven years in any two brutal prisons in any other parts of the world. Had Fräulein Buber given us a deeper understanding of the Communist, the ex-Communist, and the Nazi mentalities her personal history might have had a distinction which in its present form it sorely lacks." Julian Bach

Sat R of Lit 34:21 F 17 '51 650w

Time 57:83 Ja 15 '51 1050w

BUCHANAN, LAMONT. Story of tennis; in text and pictures. 124p $3.50 Vanguard

796.34 Tennis 51-12672

"A pictorial history of tennis: a series of photographs, mostly action, of famous players, with brief connecting text." Library J

Booklist 48:80 N 1 '51

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:1812 N 1 '51 20w

"The book is strictly for tennis lovers." M. S.

San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 11 '51 70w

Springf'd Republican p14A S 2 '51 40w

BUCHANAN, LAMONT. World series and highlights of baseball, in text and over 250 pictures. 256p $3.95 Dutton

796.357 Baseball—Pictorial works 51-11428

Pictures and brief text cover the whole history of baseball, emphasizing highlights and star performers in world series games from 1903 to 1950.

Booklist 48:26 S 15 '51

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:1340 S 1 '51 20w

Reviewed by John Lardner

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 80w

"An informative, entertaining and not overly puerile text accompanies this fine collection of over 250 baseball pictures that need only a glance to bestir great desire in any fan and considerable doubt in the determinedly unenchanted scoffer." C. X. L.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 S 23 '51 170w

BUCHSBAUM, WALTER H. Television servicing: theory and practice. 340p il $5.35 Prentice-Hall

621.388 Television receivers 50-10435

"Designed to introduce experienced radio servicemen to the theory, installation and servicing of television receivers. It is competently written and it has the advantage over books published in previous years, of being based on television receivers placed on the market as late as the spring of 1950. This advantage is considerable as circuits are constantly being refined and improved." Library J

Booklist 47:129 D 1 '50

Bookmark 10:105 F '51 30w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 70w

"The section on troubleshooting is especially well arranged and easy to understand. The book is suitable for use both in home study and as a text in organized courses."

+ N Y New Tech Bks 36:15 Ja '51

BUCK, PEARL (SYDENSTRICKER) (MRS R. J. WALSH). God's men. 375p $3.50 Day 51-1694

"Out of their childhood background as sons of missionaries to China two men derive opposite beliefs in man's needs. Kindly, poor, uneducated Clem spends his life providing cheap food for everyone, believing that it will cure their ills. William, arrogant, college bred scorns the masses whom he thinks are sheep, providing them with mental pablum through his chain of tabloid newspapers. Their lives are linked through marriages; their viewpoints never meet." Library J

Atlantic 187:87 My '51 60w

Booklist 47:86; 253 N 1 '50; Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:184 My '51 40w

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ap 8 '51 600w

Reviewed by J. F. Davidson

Churchman 165:16 Je '51 170w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '51

Kirkus 19:77 F 1 '51 300w

"An absorbing story with appeal for men and women." H. R. Forbes
+ Library J 76:513 Mr 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Paul Bloomfield
Manchester Guardian p4 O 19 '51 200w

"If 'God's Men' lacks some of the rich and living warmth with which Mrs. Buck has endowed her previous novels, it is because in it she seems more concerned here with ideas than with people—but the ideas are vital." F. H. Bullock
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Ap 8 '51 1100w

"Miss Buck is on the side of the angels. That is not, unfortunately, the same thing as saying that Miss Buck has written a good novel. The early childhood scenes in Peking have about them a flavor characteristic of her writing at its best; but the American passages are weak and suffer from her artificial insistence on William's love of luxury and Clem's folksy speech." J. J. Espey
— + N Y Times p4 Ap 8 '51 700w

New Yorker 27:118 Ap 7 '51 120w

"Pearl Buck is not chiefly concerned with the form or composition of her novel. What she tries to do is to open the minds of readers of popular fiction to certain ideas of living and thinking. A part of the novel is moving because it is written with passion, the rest is in her customary didactic vein." Jane Voiles
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ap 15 '51 600w

"'God's Men' has the detached, impersonal quality of a conventionalized Chinese landscape with figures yet, paradoxically, embodies, as no other novel does, the spiritual hunger that both separates and unites the peoples of the world. The reader may quarrel with Miss Buck's ideas, but he will be moved to answer the questions she asks." A. F. Wolfe
+ Sat R of Lit 34:23 Ap 7 '51 800w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 500w

Time 57:120 Ap 23 '51 330w

Wis Lib Bul 47:120 My '51

BUCKLEY, HAROLD EUGENE. Crystal growth. 571p il $9 Wiley

548 Crystallography 51-9338

"The growing of crystals in the laboratory (or in industry) is of considerable interest in both chemistry and physics, and in recent years several industrial applications have been found, including the production of synthetic gems and of quartz crystals for piezoelectric uses. This book is a comprehensive presentation of the current theoretical and practical knowledge of the subject. It deals not only with large crystals but with crystal growth in general. . . Literature references accompany each chapter. The book is of interest primarily to scientists concerned with research either in college laboratories or in industry." Library J

"Mr. Buckley is a learned and experienced scholar in this field which gives the reader confidence in the review, which is more than merely a literature survey. It is a good blend of theory and practice given in enough detail to enable the reader to obtain practical aid in many problems." William Parrish
+ Chem & Eng N 29:3562 Ag 27 '51 450w

"For anyone seriously concerned with the crystallization of substances, 'Crystal Growth' offers a wealth of fundamental information. It is an ambitious work covering both theory and practice and is well executed with a satisfactory balance between the two phases." R. L. Clarke
+ Chem Eng 58:331 O '51 230w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 110w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:21 Mr '51

BUCKLEY, ISABELLE P. Guide to a child's world. 115p $2 Holt

372.241 Child study 51-2002

"The founder of the Buckley Schools for children of nursery, kindergarten and elementary grades tells with examples how parent and teacher can develop together 'a sane and practical approach to education.'" Bookmark

---

Bookmark 10:179 My '51 30w

"There is a blend of new and old in this report of the principles on which the Buckley Schools of California operate in the lives and education of little children. Its approach is sane and practical." M. L. Becker
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Je 17 '51 450w

"It is a refreshing book, with lots of common sense for parents who should learn by heart her 'Do's and Don'ts.'" L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Je 24 '51 50w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 90w

Springf'd Republican p30A Mr 18 '51 150w

BUCKLEY, JEROME HAMILTON. Victorian temper; a study in literary culture. 282p il $4.50 Harvard univ. press

820.9 English literature—History and criticism 51-12074

"An investigation of the attitudes which conditioned Victorian taste and the impulses and forces which produced what the author demonstrates to have been a multi-faceted literature. The study does not analyze major writers so much as a few key figures—Carlyle, Ruskin, Tennyson, Kingsley, Wilde—and the schools, coteries and movements which were the ground-swell of Victorianism." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 48:46 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Henry Sowerby
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 13 '51 700w

"A remarkable knowledge and appreciation of the period is shown, but the study is so crowded with arguments, quotations and allusions that it is difficult to read and is for the avid littérateur or social historian only. . . For university and large public libraries." R. B. Robertson
Library J 76:1326 S 1 '51 100w

"In his charting of the violent fluctuations of the Victorian temperature, Buckley remains as serene and humorous as a good doctor should. His diagnosis of the Victorian temper is one of the wisest and sanest available in the field of cultural evaluation." Carlos Baker
+ N Y Times p4 S 9 '51 500w

"An intelligent work of social and literary history, diverting in places but without any high degree of cogency."
+ New Yorker 27:118 S 22 '51 140w

"An acquaintance with the recent writings of John Betjman, Sir Kenneth Clark, and John Summerson might have mitigated the contempt for Victorian Gothic into which Mr. Buckley is led by his devotion to functionalism. . . Though it is necessary to enter these caveats, it should be reiterated that 'The Victorian Temper' is an ambitious book that does not fail." G. N. Ray
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:38 O 13 '51 700w

"The book should be interesting and valuable to all students of 19th-century literature and social history." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 170w

BUCKLEY, WILLIAM FRANK. God and man at Yale; the superstitions of academic freedom; introd. by John Chamberlain. 240p $3.50 Regnery

378 Yale university. Teaching, Freedom of 51-13645

"A recent Yale graduate (1950) examines and criticises religion and economics in the Yale

BUCKLEY, W. F.—Continued
curriculum. In the first instance, he finds the general temper of the university anti-religious. In the second instance, he finds the teaching supporting collectivism. He bases his criticism on his own experience, an examination of the textbooks used in the basic courses, and other sources." Library J

"As a believer in God, a Republican, and a Yale graduate, I find that the book is dishonest in its use of facts, false in its theory, and a discredit to its author and the writer of its introduction." McGeorge Bundy
— Atlantic 188:50 N '51 2900w

Discussion by the author and McGeorge Bundy
Atlantic 188:78 D '51 3550w

"John Chamberlain—a sympathetic observer with a good right to speak—fears the author is waging a losing fight; and Mr. Buckley himself seems to think that this may well be true. But he has set out to do his best for his faith, his fellow Americans and his university; and his best turns out to be so good that if the apathetic rest of us resembled him, the fight would not be lost. So do not merely pay attention to professional educators denouncing Mr. Buckley. Read his book."
+ Cath World 174:237 D '51 270w

"The book is important because it represents a fair sample of what has been going on in many campuses thruout the country. It is important because it is the work of an unusually brilliant student who observed the leftist propaganda from inside the ivied walls. The author stripped aside the facade of 'academic freedom,' behind which the radical professors always retreat when criticized, and laid the facts bare as he found them first hand." William Fulton
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 O 28 '51 900w

Christian Science Monitor p10 D 8 '51 190w

Reviewed by David Poling
Churchman 166:11 Ja 1 '52 1000w

Reviewed by C. H. Moehlman
— Crozer Q 29:62 Ja '52 1400w

"Buckley is fond of sweeping generalities, refuting some by citing others; he is also susceptible to personal rather than objective vindictiveness; and while he declares himself to be dedicated to this 'cause', his material as well as his mission may be suspect to many."
Kirkus 19:428 Ag 1 '51 140w

"While this argument is primarily of interest to the Yale community, the book has a clear relation to our present general examination of academic freedom in the American educational system, and as such is recommended for inclusion in collections where such material is needed." R. E. Kingery
Library J 76:1700 O 15 '51 140w

"In actual fact, a good part of Buckley's book is devoted to excoriating the views (and the professors of those views) that he dislikes, but since he is neither a theologian nor an economist, his position is of no great general interest. . . It is astonishing, on the assumption that Buckley is well-meaning, that he has not realized that the methods he proposes for his alma mater are precisely those employed in Italy, Germany and Russia. An elite shall establish the truth by ukase and no basic disagreement shall be tolerated." Robert Hatch
— New Repub 125:19 D 3 '51 550w

"The university today may properly insist that those who claim the privilege of freedom must, in the phrase of the late James Rowland Angell, 'justify the claim not only by a decent respect for the opinions of mankind but by sobriety of utterance on acutely controversial issues.' It is a pity that Mr. Buckley should not have been led to explore this approach, wherein he might have found the answer to many of his fears and doubts—an answer not fatally incongruous with the concept of a free university." August Heckscher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 4 '51 750w

"As gadfly against the smug Comrade Blimpse of the left, this important, symptomatic, and widely hailed book is a necessary counterbalance. However, its outworn Old Guard antithesis to the outworn Marxist thesis is not the liberty security synthesis the future cries for. Some day, being intelligent and earnest, Buckley may give us the hard-won wisdom of synthesis. For that, he will first need to add, to his existing virtues, three new ones: sensitivity, compassion, and an inkling of the tragic paradoxes of la condition humaine." Peter Viereck
N Y Times p39 N 4 '51 800w

"It is a very thorough book, a very thoughtful book, a very sincere book. . . Mechanically Mr. Buckley presents us with a most workmanlike job. . . Buckley, as head of the Yale Daily News, was hailed by many as, among other things, a 'brilliant journalist' and denounced by many as 'the most dangerous undergraduate Yale has seen in years.' That he was most assuredly one or the other or both, was seldom questioned. That his book will receive equally strong treatment is a certainty." J. D. L.
San Francisco Chronicle p28 N 4 '51 420w

Reviewed by Selden Rodman
Sat R of Lit 34:18 D 15 '51 950w

Reviewed by F. D. Ashburn
Sat R of Lit 34:44 D 15 '51 1300w

School & Society 74:366 D 8 '51 20w

BUDD, MRS LILLIAN. April snow. 317p $3 Lippincott
51-3029

A story of a peasant woman's life in Sweden in the later years of the nineteenth century. Sigrid, married early to a fanatic, domineering, selfish man, bears a child every year, works incessantly but faces life courageously and even joyously. Tragedy enters her life with one or two of her children but finally the tale ends happily for Sigrid and those she loved best.

Booklist 47:301; 310 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:207 Je '51 30w

"'April Snow,' despite its privations, its bitterness, its cruelties of man and nature, is actually an idyll. It is a reliving of a legendary past. As Wordsworth said of poetry, 'It takes its origin from emotion recollected in tranquility.'" Fanny Butcher
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 20 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:162 Mr 15 '51 120w

"In a contemporary setting, Sigrid might seem too good to be true, Peter too bad. As master and mistress of this lonely nineteenth-century farm, they are convincing. Mrs Budd sets down the details of the family's life with loving care. In addition to work, it held, thanks largely to Sigrid, much that had grace and joy." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 My 20 '51 500w

"Often the descriptions seem almost reward enough for the reader, who will certainly come away from this book with a deeper understanding of Sweden and its ways. The author can suggest the essence of a place: she has a reporter's eye for events—and she knows how to relate them vividly. It's truly a pity that she lacks the sine qua non of the novelist—an ability to dramatize, to convey the reactions of her characters to the teeming life about them." Lily van Ameringen
+ N Y Times p16 Je 24 '51 240w

"Appearances to the contrary, Mrs. Budd's novel is not simply the sentimental account of a Swedish soap opera heroine. There is compassion in the characters, tenderness in the narrative and a reminiscent touch of Sigrid Undset in the setting." M. L. Mueller
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Jl 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by Josephine Lawrence
Sat R of Lit 34:36 Je 23 '51 300w

BUFANO, REMO. Book of puppetry; ed. and comp. by Arthur Richmond; drawings by [the author]. 232p $3 Macmillan

791.5 Marionettes. Puppet plays 50-10721

"Here are complete and specific directions for figure making, costume designing, furniture stage settings, curtains, and lighting. Diagrams and patterns are numerous, and practical suggestions warn the young puppeteer against possible pitfalls. A most valuable part of the book is the history of this ancient art form and its development and adaptation in different countries. Sample plays of varying lengths from one scene to three acts are included." Chicago Sunday Tribune

Booklist 47:193 Ja 15 '51

Bookmark 10:105 F '51 30w

"This is an excellent book for the boy or girl old enough to make his own puppets or marionettes and stage his own plays. . . It is a book which will be useful for amateur entertainers of any age." A. L. Shea

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 Ja 7 '51 100w

Kirkus 18:563 S 15 '50 120w

"Mr. Richmond informs us in his preface that since Be a Puppet Showman and other books for the marionette theatre by Bufano are out of print, the publishers are making 'available again all the material contained in those helpful volumes' in one. Unfortunately, this does not cover quite all, but since a good deal of it is here with Bufano's own diagrams and clarity of direction, his enthusiasm and knowledge of the art and its traditions, we can welcome it heartily." Mary Strang

+ Library J 76:57 Ja 1 '51 80w

"Both beginning puppeteers and veteran marionette impresarios will find this a most valuable work. It contains a fascinating history of the art of puppetry." F. J.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ja 21 '51 140w

Sat R of Lit 34:48 F 17 '51 130w

BUFF, MRS MARY (MARSH), and BUFF, CONRAD. The apple and the arrow. 74p il $3 Houghton

51-11816

A retelling of the story of William Tell and the origin of the Swiss republic. For grades four to six.

Booklist 48:15 S 1 '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 N 11 '51 140w

Christian Science Monitor p11 S 6 '51 70w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '51

"Although set in 1291, the moving story of the Swiss struggle for freedom is a timely one for boys and girls today and an important contribution to children's book collections in homes, schools and libraries." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:326 S 51 80w

+ Kirkus 19:387 Ag 1 '51 120w

"Highly recommended for all public and school libraries." M. E. Martignoni

+ Library J 76:1342 S 1 '51 80w

"In a time when even children hear tales of a terrible, modern tyranny and know that national freedom has been violated, it may cheer them to read of the simple courage of William Tell and to think of the founding of that extraordinary free country, Switzerland." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ag 19 '51 240w

"It was a happy idea to portray William Tell as seen through the eyes of his son Walter, who played his own steadfast part in the legend. This device helps the young reader to grasp the implications of this old story of revolt against tyranny in his own terms. . . Conrad Buff's half-tone illustrations are more imaginative than those in color, but even these lack the vigor which the subject demands." E. L. B.

+ — N Y Times p12 S 2 '51 160w

Wis Lib Bul 47:191 Jl '51

BUKOFZER, MANFRED F. Studies in medieval and renaissance music. 324p il $6 Norton

780.9 Music, Medieval. Music, Renaissance 50-10081

"Centering attention for the most part in fifteenth-century English music, all seven of the essays in this collection are concerned with music of the period from about 1300 to 1500. . . After dealing with early English music and demonstrating the importance of its influence in the first four papers, Mr. Bukofzer considers, in the last three, various aspects of Renaissance music, the emergence of choral polyphony, dance music, and problems posed by the cyclic Mass." (U S Quarterly Bkl) List of manuscripts. Index.

"Essential to research, large public, and college and university libraries." C. K. Miller

+ Library J 75:1827 O 15 '50 90w

Reviewed by Otto Kinkeldey

+ Music Lib Assn Notes 8:518 Je '51 1700w

"Musicologists, students and anyone else interested in a detailed examination of 500-year-old music should be impressed by this book. The author writes carefully and the book reads well, although it requires familiarity with technical terms." Carter Harman

+ N Y Times p28 O 21 '51 160w

"We take exception to none of Dr. Bukofzer's major points. But some side issues lead to debatable ground. For example, he states that the contents of certain Renaissance monophonic collections are actually tenor melodies extracted from polyphonic pieces, but this is not true in all the collections he names. No small reservations, however, can obscure the fact that this is a major contribution by one of the greatest living authorities on medieval and Renaissance music." Gustave Reese

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:33 Mr 31 '51 500w

"Highly technical in terminology and subject, the studies all utilize new sources; thus, together, they offer a large quantity of hitherto unpublished and unknown material. Publication of the volume is, accordingly, an event of prime importance to music historians."

+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:406 D '50 320w

BULEY, ROSCOE CARLYLE. The Old Northwest; pioneer period, 1815-1840. 2v il maps $12 Towers, inc, 142 N. Madison av, La Grange, Ill.

977 Northwest, Old 51-236

"A comprehensive history of the Old Northwest (Ohio to Wisconsin) covering the period of 1815 to 1840. The emphasis is on social history, and no phase of human activity is neglected; politics, religion, literature, education, agriculture, habits of courtship, songs, and even slang expressions of the time are included." Library J

"All in all, this is one of the few important books on the American frontier to appear within the past decade. The profession owes a debt of gratitude to Professor Buley for his staggering labors to the Indiana Historical Society for a handsome job of printing and illustrating and to the Lilly Endowment, Incorporated, for the financial support that made its publication possible." R. A. Billington

+ Am Hist R 56:907 Jl '51 1000w

Reviewed by Paul Engle

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 11 '51 350w

"The book is packed with information, yet the well-selected details, the excellent writing, and the subject matter itself easily assure constant reader interest. Highly recommended." Clarence Gorchels

+ Library J 76:112 Ja 15 '51 140w

"These two large and handsomely printed volumes, which won the 1951 Pulitzer Prize for American history, are packed with information gathered patiently and systematically through decades of immersion in the primary sources of Middle-Western history. . . Forty-seven illustrations from contemporary sources help appreciably toward filling in for the reader the exact image of life in the Old Northwest which Professor Buley attempts to convey. Some are more or less familiar, but many others are not. The watercolors of scenery along the Upper Ohio by the English artist Lefevre J. Cranstone, made in 1859, are especially vivid and charming." H. N. Smith

BULEY, R. C.—Continued
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 My 20 '51 600w

"The rise of the American West in the quarter-century before 1840 has often been told, but the treatment by Mr. Buley is so different—by reason of its uncommon fullness, competence, wealth of source material and authentic flavor—that it may be considered unique." J. G. Randall
+ N Y Times p7 Ja 28 '51 850w
Sat R of Lit 34:40 My 5 '51 300w

BULIARD, ROGER P. Inuk. 322p map $3.50 Farrar, Straus
917.12 Roman Catholic church—Missions. Eskimos 51-3752

Personal narrative of a Roman Catholic priest who has spent fifteen years in northern Canada teaching and working with the Eskimos.

Booklist 47:361 Je 15 '51

Reviewed by John Nicol
Canadian Forum 31:205 D '51 210w

"There is no patronizing in Father Buliard. . . His writing is colorful, concrete, witty." Clorinda Clarke
+ Cath World 173:397 Ag '51 270w

Reviewed by Gilbert Twiss
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Je 10 '51 550w

"Father Buliard's station is the most northern settlement on the earth, where life is really harsh and wholly without comforts. It is hard to imagine how the Church could be better represented than by the priest who wrote this book." John Cogley
+ Commonweal 54:246 Je 15 '51 220w

"This is decisively for Catholics, but in its wider sociological and adventurous reaches there should be no denominational barrier."
+ Kirkus 19:201 Ap 1 '51 240w

"This social study of the Eskimo concerns itself with all the facts of their lives from fratricidal crime to tending a stone lamp. Pleasantly told, it should be useful to present a new aspect of Arctic life." H. L. Roth
+ Library J 76:859 My 15 '51 130w

"It is an absorbing and authentic document vividly, feelingly, and not at all stuffily told." Richard Finnie
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Jl 1 '51 650w
N Y Times p14 Jl 29 '51 650w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Je 14 '51 600w

"Here is the record, inspiring and inspiriting, of a truly noble character, the stuff of which literature is made. Here, too, is the record of a keenly observant mind, the stuff of which science at its best is made." Raymond Holden
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 Je 23 '51 800w

"A superb account that blends the impersonal acuteness of an anthropologist with the loving warmth of a truly religious man."
+ Time 57:114 My 28 '51 500w
Wis Lib Bul 47:163 Je '51

BULLA, CLYDE ROBERT. Ranch for Danny; il. by Grace Paull. 84p $2.50 Crowell 51-6441

Easy-to-read story of Danny's adventures learning to ride and how his good riding at the rodeo won a ranch for the family.

Reviewed by M. F. Kieran
Atlantic 188:102 D '51 60w
Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

"Lots going on, of an authentic Western flavor, but paced just right for this age group. Jolly illustrations. . . Third year reading."
+ Kirkus 19:481 S 1 '51 100w

"Simplicity of plot and vocabulary, two cowboy songs with music, vivid black-and-white illustrations by Grace Paull and the well-bound, attractive format make this a title to recommend to libraries needing western adventure stories for ages 7-10." M. M. Gantt
+ Library J 76:1711 D 15 '51 70w

BULLARD, SIR READER. Britain and the Middle East from the earliest times to 1950. 195p $2; text ed $1.60 Longmans
327.42 Great Britain—Foreign relations—East (Near East). East (Near East)—Foreign relations—Great Britain 51-5574

"The purpose of this book is to set forth briefly the relations which the people and the government of these islands have had with the Middle East from the earliest times of such relations until the present day. The term 'Middle East' is used in the wider sense which it has acquired in recent years, and covers Turkey, Persia, Egypt and the Persian Gulf, and the Arab territories that lie between them." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by N. D. Palmer
Current Hist 21:33 Jl '51 250w

"Sir Reader Bullard has managed to combine compression with liveliness and good writing to an extent which will surprise only those who are unacquainted with his official writings. But by reason of its brevity it cannot be a full and adequate account of a story, much of which, indeed, still awaits investigation. But it is very much the best thing of its kind so far."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p285 My 11 '51 4000w

BUNIN, IVAN ALEKSEEVICH. Memories and portraits; tr. by Vera Traill and Robin Chancellor. 217p il $3 Doubleday
B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-11520

"Outstanding Russian writer, Nobel prize winner who left Russia after revolution, at present living in U.S., gives us now, as octogenarian, some autobiographical notes. We catch glimpses of Tolstoy, Chekov, Chaliapin, Gorki." Library J

"For the American reader Bunin is famous only because of his short novel The Gentleman from San Francisco. Memories and Portraits turns out to be a happy reintroduction. In it the author recalls some of the great and talented and untalented but famous people he has known." Harvey Breit
+ Atlantic 188:83 Ag '51 400w
Booklist 48:29 S 15 '51
Bookmark 11:55 D '51 30w

Reviewed by L. J. Rogers
Canadian Forum 31:115 Ag '51 150w

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 5 '51 410w

"'Memories and Portraits' is a fascinating book that gives too-brief glimpses of an era that has become all but impossible to associate with any of our contemporaries." Francis Russell
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 26 '51 650w

"These glimpses of Russian authors and artists are often as revealing as they are entertaining. But many of the men and their works are unfamiliar to most American readers. Recollections about Kuprin, Voloshin, and Ertel do not have the zest for us that sidelights on the literary theories and drinking habits of Hemingway and Faulkner might have." C. H. Weiss
+ — Commonweal 54:506 Ag 31 '51 450w

"Slight in size and scope, these little sketches are hazed by time and sentiment, and can only be considered as character footnotes to some of Russia's famed."
Kirkus 19:254 My 15 '51 130w

"Recommended only for collections specializing in Russian literature." H. H. Bernt
Library J 76:1124 Jl '51 80w

Reviewed by G. L. Arnold
Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 3 '51 370w

"When a literary man paints a series of portraits, the figure in the foreground, providing ideological unity, is often himself. This thirteen-chapter book opens and ends and is interspersed with autobiography. None of the portraits are full-length; none have an objective candor. . . Nevertheless, three pre-revolutionary sketches—those of Leo Tolstoy, Ertel, and Chekhov—are valuable in themselves. . . Unfortunately, the other chapters in the book reach no such high level and cannot be judged by literary standards." Anita Marburg
+ — Nation 173:429 N 17 '51 750w

Reviewed by Leon Stilman
New Repub 125:18 N 12 '51 800w

"Pedestrian in manner and approach and unilluminating in its criticism, but it is a solidly informative book and contains things that will be new to the English reader." V. S. Pritchett
+ — New Statesman & Nation 41:308 Mr 17 '51 550w

"There is much to commend in 'Memories and Portraits.' It is more than literary history, revealing, as it does, many aspects of social, political, and individual crises in the twentieth century. Bunin has given us a document in human values, self-revelatory, partisan, analytical, and passionate—the sensitive record of a lifetime." Gene Baro
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Jl 22 '51 950w

"Bunin writes with detachment; his warmest admirations are tempered with the critical spirit. When the occasion demands, moved by indignation, he can be caustic and merciless as in the case of Maxim Gorky. . . Bunin is relatively kind to Alexey Tolstoy. . . Some of Bunin's most absorbing pages are about this 'the third' Tolstoy (distantly related to Count Leo) as well as about Alexander Kuprin, another picturesque character who might have stepped out of the pages of a novel. There are some delightful glimpses of Leo Tolstoy and some entertaining ones about his foolish disciples." John Cournos
+ N Y Times p10 Jl 22 '51 600w

"In spite of blemishes, one obtains deep pleasure from this evocation of a whole period of Russian letters and art by a writer who was by no means the least of a brilliant group." E. J. Simmons
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:11 Ag 11 '51 2100w

Reviewed by J. M. Cohen
Spec 185:388 Mr 23 '51 650w
Time 58:84 Ag 6 '51 700w

"There are vivid little sketches, pieced together from meetings over many years, of Chaliapin, Kuprin, the poet Voloshin and others; an unkind—and surely prejudiced—portrait of Gorky, in whom Mr. Bunin detected a broad streak of theatricalism and a consuming thirst for admiration; and a biting, sardonic but persuasive enough portrait of Alexei Tolstoy."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p208 Ap 6 '51 550w

BUNN, JOHN WILLIAM, and others. Art of officiating sports. 388p il $5; to schools $3.75 Prentice-Hall

796 Sports officiating 50-14539

"Compiled by experts in coaching and officiating, planned primarily for use in courses in officiating, gives complete information on every major sport, layout of grounds, rules and their application." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 47:112 N 15 '50
Cleveland Open Shelf p7 Mr '51

"A valuable book of authoritative data. The 'philosophy' it offers is disappointing, merely negative. Well illustrated with photos and diagrams." R. W. Henderson
+ — Library J 76:413 Mr 1 '51 40w

BURCH, GEORGE BOSWORTH. Early medieval philosophy. 142p $2.25 King's Crown press

189.4 Philosophy, Medieval. Philosophers 51-9213

"Five philosophers, dating from the ninth to the twelfth centuries, are treated in this volume: John Scotus Erigena, Anselm of Canterbury, Peter Abélard, Bernard of Clairvaux, and Isaac of Stella. The treatment is mainly by way of summary and paraphrase of their leading writings." Ethics

"In the business of learning and teaching good handbooks or summaries are useful indeed, both for orientation and review. The history of philosophy and Christian doctrine between Augustine and St. Thomas, for all its importance, is neglected by students and teachers alike because of the intricacies of firsthand research in the period and also because there are so few concise and reliable surveys. Professor Burch's . . . Early Medieval Philosophy, is therefore doubly welcome. . . One wonders if Professor Burch might not be persuaded to do a full-dress history of thought in this neglected period. This little book demonstrates that he has the gifts and apparatus with which to do it." A. C. Outler
+ Crozer Q 28:281 Jl '51 290w

"Should prove useful to those who cannot handle the original texts, although some of the works dealt with, in the case of the first four philosophers, may be found translated in Volume I of McKeon's Selections from Medieval Philosophers and elsewhere. . . On the other hand, if we consider the paucity of discussions of philosophers of this period in English, we may be grateful to the author for his contribution to the tilling of what is still too little cultivated ground." Alan Gewirth
+ Ethics 61:246 Ap '51 190w

"This little book is distinguished for its fidelity to the texts studied, for its charm and remarkable lucidity of expression, and for the author's sympathetic appreciation of his subject. It may be strongly recommended as reading for students in history of philosophy courses, as well as for lay readers who wish to gain brief but accurate insight into the content and spirit of early medieval philosophy in its metaphysical and epistemological enterprise." E. A. M.
+ J Philos 48:505 Ag 2 '51 700w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:148 Je '51 180w

BURGESS, PERRY. Born of those years, an autobiography. 307p il $4 Holt

B or 92 Leprosy 51-14409

By the author of the factual novel Who Walk Alone (Book Review Digest 1940) this is the autobiography of a man who for many years has fought in the battle against leprosy.

Booklist 48:41; 123 O 1 '51; D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:55 D '51 20w

"'Born of Those Years' is a deeply moving, profound story of the struggle to bring comfort and rehabilitation to millions who otherwise would be abandoned to a cruel fate. Those who read 'Who Walk Alone' [first published in 1940 and now in its 32d printing] will find inspiration and reward in Mr. Burgess' new book." R. L. Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 D 9 '51 190w

"Mr. Burgess's chronicle is not a dismal one in spite of its theme. It contains interesting episodes of travel, anecdotes, and portraits of fine people. Indeed, it is warm, inspiring, adventurous, and it arouses admiration." John Cournos
+ Commonweal 55:262 D 14 '51 350w
Kirkus 19:555 S 15 '51 160w

BURGESS, PERRY—Continued
"Highly recommended." J. M. Scherr
+ Library J 76:1558 O 1 '51 140w

"His book is not so much an autobiography as a portrait gallery of strangely magnificent workers in a tragically neglected field. He makes us see the lepers, singly, and by the hundreds. He arouses horror and amazement. . . But no book can be a sad book that has so many stories of courage. . . There is not much that is very personal in this autobiography, but out of it a life emerges, that America can be proud of." Lorine Pruette
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 D 9 '51 700w

Reviewed by T. H. Maren
N Y Times p14 Ja 6 '52 450w

BURGOYNE, LEON E. State champs; il. by Joseph Bolden. 210p $2.50 Winston 51-9707

Story of high school basketball for ages twelve to sixteen. It tells the story of a team that had many upsets, including the injury of a star player, but finally won thru.

+ Kirkus 18:726 D 15 '50 120w

"Through it all, Bob remains likeable, the story believable though hackneyed in spots, and the basketball action good." Lillian Morrison
+ Library J 76:416 Mr 1 '51 80w

"The narration is not unusual, though well done. The technical side of the story is what makes it good." M. P. A.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:53 My 12 '51 130w
Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 60w

BURK, ROBERT EMMETT, and GRUMMITT, OLIVER JOSEPH, eds. Frontiers in colloid chemistry. (Frontiers in chemistry, v8) 167p il $4 Interscience
541.3452 Colloids 50-5714

"The eighth, and final, volume of this well known series contains a selection of articles on subjects of current interest in colloid chemistry. It begins with an outstanding discussion by Taylor of adsorption, which, after reviewing the theories of uniform surfaces, emphasizes the effects of heterogeneity of the surface. There follow in order discussions of chromatographic analysis, ion exchange, sedimentation methods, and two articles on colloidal electrolytes." Chem & Eng N

"Although its title is 'Frontiers in Colloid Chemistry,' the chapters, save one, are more or less related to the subject of adsorption. General readers will find the texts informative and well written; those with a deeper interest in the several subjects will discover that with one very notable exception the discussions are not very well documented with data and generally representative bibliographies, as compared to prior volumes." J. W. Williams
Am Chem Soc J 72:4846 O '50 500w

"This volume is a collection of excellent reviews of selected fields of colloid chemistry. The reader desiring an introduction to one of these fields will find the articles worthy of careful study, provided that he does not expect them to contain the last word on their subjects." H. C. Thacher
+ Chem & Eng N 28:4208 N 27 '50 230w

"The booklet can be recommended for both the teacher and the industrial worker who wishes to acquaint himself with developments in thinking in colloid chemistry but who does not expect comprehensive coverage." F. C. Nachod
+ Chem Eng 57:308 Ap '50 220w

BURKE, MARJORIE L. Origin of history as metaphysic. 61p $2.75 Philosophical lib.
110 Historiography. Metaphysics 50-11231

"A critical examination of the notion that 'history is progress,' and moreover, an examination of the notion of 'history' itself. History is discussed as a particular bias of thought whose premises have come to be taken for granted because of the pressure of cultural sanctions. This special metaphysic, which was operative as long ago as the Council of Nicaea, is traced back still further to a political-philosophical concept counter to the classic world of form." (Publisher's note) Index.

"This reviewer has himself looked a little into history and metaphysics, but he finds this treatise too much for his perspicacity." T. F. Opie
— Churchman 165:17 Ja 1 '51 200w

"This book is erudite, but more provocative than convincing." W. K. Wright
Crozer Q 28:96 Ja '51 210w
School & Society 72:253 O 14 '50 20w

BURMAN, BEN LUCIEN. Children of Noah; glimpses of unknown America; drawings by Alice Caddy. 232p $3.50 Messner
917.7 Mississippi river. Mississippi valley
51-12087

"Mr. Burman has been on another of his prospecting journeys into the region he knows best—the Mississippi valley—and he has come back bearing a pack stuffed with gleaming nuggets. In it are narrative essays of his personal adventures among Mississippi fishermen, steamboaters, shanty-boat dwellers, and show-boat thespians all written in the lucid, easy, intimate prose that readers have come to recognize as peculiarly his own." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:46 O 1 '51
Bookmark 11:29 N '51 20w

"Burman is a first class story teller and obviously makes the reader feel that storytelling is important. And to his abilities as yarn-spinner Burman brings his ear for music and his poetry. He reveals the simple river folk in their native settings, depicting their natural gentleness and humor. Like Clemens, there is the humor but it is subdued, the chuckle rather than the laugh, and touched with melancholy." F. J. Meine
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 O 7 '51 450w

"One way to whet your appetite for this strange and happy book is by studying Alice Caddy's pencil portraits. Their humor and wistfulness prepare you skillfully for Mr. Burman's explorations in humanity." T. M. Longstreth
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 4 '51 430w
+ Kirkus 19:423 Ag 1 '51 140w

"It's the mixture as before but this will be good news to Burman admirers and to all interested in American folklore or plain good storytelling. Recommended." R. B. Robertson
+ Library J 76:1212 Ag '51 110w

"I speak of these works-of-art as narrative essays because, without making his labors perceptible, Mr. Burman not only manages to present a factual and fascinating report of his experiences, but also to intimate important philosophical conclusions. In this respect I believe 'Children of Noah' to be Mr. Burman's most important work to date and I wish to add that his publishers have produced it fittingly in the dignified and beautiful setting of an extraordinarily well designed volume." Carl Carmer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 S 30 '51 450w

"Ben Lucien Burman has a nice ear for the talk of these people and a folksy style that flows along as smooth as the Mississippi on a moonlight night. He mixes up humorous anecdote and descriptive scenes of the river country into an aromatic mulligan that is very palatable indeed." Richard Bissell
+ N Y Times p20 O 14 '51 440w

"In one sense the volume is a grab basket; there's all kinds and conditions of Mississippi material in it, as I've said. But in another sense, all the articles, ballads, stories and whatnot come together. They all reflect Burman's attitude—warmly understanding, interpretive, gently humorous and mildly philosophical—toward the great River of America which has been also the great factor in Burman's life and career." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 S 24 '51 700w

Reviewed by J. T. Winterich

Sat R of Lit 34:23 D 29 '51 390w

Springf'd Republican p5C S 23 '51 100w

Wis Lib Bul 47:251 N '51

BURN, WILLIAM LAURENCE. British West Indies. 196p $2; text ed $1.60 Longmans

972.9 West Indies, British . [A51-9815]

"The object of this study is primarily to show how the West Indies were affected by the changing colonial policy and social concepts of Britain." School & Society

Manchester Guardian p4 Mr 13 '51 110w

School & Society 73:366 Je 9 '51 20w

Times [London] Lit Sup p223 Ap 13 '51 900w

BURNETT, HALLIE SOUTHGATE (MRS WHIT BURNETT). Woman in possession. 252p $3 Dutton

51-9826

"After five years of marriage to Phil, a young Tremont College instructor, Judith Moore's ambition and fastidiousness turned her into a 'Craig's Wife'. Naturally Phil became prey to any predatory female, until he met Betty Williamson, a young war widow with a three-year-old daughter. At Betty's recently inherited charming yellow cottage in the Thousand Islands, Judith, Phil and Betty, with the help of fog, motor boat and accident, resorted their lives." Library J

Kirkus 19:11 Ja 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by F. A. Boyle

Library J 76:325 F 15 '51 80w

"Mrs. Burnett's story moves along rapidly, but there is little of the subtlety of characterization which might make her people convincing or involve the reader in their lives. Phil never quite seems worth the pother about him. Judith compounded of possessiveness without love, catches the interest as a symbol of that amalgam and the evil in it, but remains more a symbol than a person." Coleman Rosenberger

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Mr 11 '51 300w

"The style is an adroit combination of clipped and glossily slick prose, the pace fast and the plot sure-fire. Mrs. Burnett is adept at portraying—and dissecting—her women, but her male characters come off second best." Anne Richards

+ — N Y Times p22 Mr 11 '51 260w

"Mrs. Burnett's dialogue is easy although her adjectives are somewhat fluffy at times. Her characters are entirely credible and she is able to make clear to the reader why they act as they do. Her novel is planned and composed with precision. Her dissection of the principal character, Judith, is subtle, her presentation authentic." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p26 My 6 '51 400w

"Mrs. Burnett understands the anatomy of love. She painstakingly dissects an ailing marriage in a deft and polished prose, but all the same her novel remains a much-told tale, signifying little." Ray Pierre

Sat R of Lit 34:13 My 5 '51 370w

BURNETT, IVY COMPTON-. See Compton-Burnett, I.

BURNETT, WILLIAM RILEY. Little men, big world. 308p $3 Knopf

51-3027

Novel of thugs, racketeers, and organized crime in a mid-western city.

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51

"As W. R. Burnett novels go, 'Little Men, Big World' is pretty pallid stuff. His publishers suggest that it is in 'the tradition of "The Asphalt Jungle" and "Little Caesar,"' but the truth is it lacks the authority of either by a wide margin. I found it labored, execrably padded and fuzzy in the few dramatic moments when it should have been crystal clear. 'The Asphalt Jungle' was a novel I could not put down. It is no chore to put this one down." V. P. Hass

— Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Je 3 '51 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '51

Kirkus 19:161 Mr 15 '51 150w

"Not another Asphalt Jungle, but as near good enough as makes little matter." E. F. Walbridge

Library 76:860 My 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Nelson Algren

N Y Times p19 My 20 '51 320w

"A cocky but rather weary story of a big crime organization in an American city, which is not identified and which, for all Mr. Burnett's efforts, remains small and desultory, instead of large and powerful, as he obviously intended."

New Yorker 27:114 My 26 '51 70w

"You may be sure that the Kefauver Committee's recent probes into 'invisible government' won't hurt Mr. Burnett's novel at all. So close is his fiction to what the investigations have shown to be the actual fact that you'll find yourself wondering as you read this story whether a great deal of it isn't the soberest fact." J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 28 '51 950w

Reviewed by David Dressler

Sat R of Lit 34:12 Je 2 '51 550w

"Little Men, Big World moves fast, beats with excitement. [The author] knows the under-world jungle and has a keen ear for its talk. In his study of Arky's misplaced loyalty, he even tries to find some human motive behind the squalor of his story. In the search, he overdoes the idea that most of Arky's hoodlum ways can be explained by a poverty-stricken boyhood. Otherwise, the book is almost as unsentimental as Frank Costello on television."

Time 57:122 My 21 '51 350w

BURNEY, JAMES. History of the buccaneers of America; reprinted from the edition of 1816; with a new introd. by Malcolm Barnes. 382p $3.75 Norton

910.4 Buccaneers

"Another old chronicle of maritime adventure, this one reprinted from the original edition, of 1816. James Burney was a member of the famous Burney family of England (Fanny was his sister) and made his name as a sea dog; he went on Captain Cook's second and third voyages to the Pacific, and took the Discovery home from the Sandwich Islands after Cook had been murdered there. This book, one of several he wrote after his retirement, covers the activities of the buccaneers and 'libustiers' who began their depredations around 1630 and kept them up until they were suppressed, at least officially, by international action in 1697." New Yorker

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Ap 15 '51 150w

"Burney, through his experiences at sea, was in a position to know what he was writing about, and his book, which is factual and a little bit dry, is about as authentic as anything on the subject could be."

+ — New Yorker 27:113 Mr 3 '51 160w

BURR, PAMELA. My Turkish adventure. 219p $3 Norton

915.6 Turkey—Description and travel. Turkey—Social life and customs 51-12512

An American schoolteacher, who went to Istanbul in 1945 to teach English in the American Girls' College, describes her experiences on shipboard and later on land. During her year's stay in Turkey she learned much about the life and customs from her pupils and their families.

BURR, PAMELA—Continued

Booklist 48:1; 29 S 1 '51; S 15 '51
Bookmark 11:30 N '51 20w

"Despite its unassuming title, 'My Turkish Adventure' is a provocative as well as a wholly delightful book." Takasha Oka
+ Christian Science Monitor p9 O 6 '51 360w

"Beyond a general audience, this would be excellent for school and libraries."
+ Kirkus 19:422 Ag 1 '51 190w

"An interesting panorama of the newer generations in a country which we need to understand better. Ruthlessly honest, tense, interracial in background, deeply emotional and religious, Miss Burr feels that the Turks clearly foresee the Russian menace. Day-to-day adventures with many different kinds of people in wide areas and extensive experience with young Turks whom she found intellectually alert, give this book its validity." H. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:1564 O 1 '51 70w

"Miss Burr writes with brisk gaiety, and neat characterization. . . and her book moves along with changes of scene and character very much like a good variety show." Ernestine Evans
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 O 14 '51 1000w

"A book less about Turkey than about Miss Burr among Turks, but charmingly written and thoroughly enjoyable." Hasan Ozbekkan
+ N Y Times p16 S 30 '51 270w
New Yorker 27:121 S 29 '51 140w

"A pleasant little book, wise and gay, telling a story of present-day Turkey." Rosemary Taylor
+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 D 8 '51 300w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter
Springf'd Republican p28A N 25 '51 220w

BURROUGHS, JOHN. John Burroughs' America; selections from the writings of the Hudson River naturalist; ed. with an introd. by Farida A. Wiley; foreword by Julian Burroughs; il. by F. L. Jaques. 304p $5 Devin-Adair

574 Natural history—U.S. 51-13897

"Farida A. Wiley, botanist and ornithologist and a director of the John Burroughs Association, has culled out and arranged under headings about a hundred passages, all on themes of nature. . . His early books, well represented, are full of sensibility, while the extracts from 'Locusts and Wild Honey,' 'Signs and Seasons,' and 'Ways of Nature,' show his powers of accurate observation combined with poetic expression. Virtually every page reflects or impinges on Burroughs' philosophy of life, and if his writing is not always of the highest order, it is nevertheless the real thing; charming, deeply joyful, truly simple." (N Y Times) Index.

Booklist 48:95 N 15 '51
Bookmark 11:79 Ja '52 40w

Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p25 N 11 '51 380w

"In its present format 'John Burroughs' America' presents him once more in modern dress to a new generation of readers and to their profit and delight. For he is in the great tradition of White of Selborne, an equal of W. H. Hudson and ranking only a little bit below Thoreau. I cannot speak too highly of Francis Lee Jaques's spendidly appropriate woodcut illustrations." Francis Russell
+ Christian Science Monitor p14 N 29 '51 390w

"Miss Wiley is unusually qualified for the work she has undertaken. Her editing throughout is pleasantly unobtrusive and her long biographical introduction, together with a foreword by Burroughs' son, Julian, give the reader the right amount of background material. Of course, no book of 294 pages can hold the cream of twenty-five volumes. But much of the best is here." E. W. Teale
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 25 '51 750w

"It is good to have John Burroughs (1837-1921) back in print for he is, perhaps, after Thoreau, our finest writer of nature journals and essays." W. M. Teller
+ N Y Times p4 O 14 '51 410w
San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 25 '51 360w

"Farida A. Wiley is exceptionally competent to do the job of getting the best of Burroughs into one volume. She knew him at 'Slabsides,' has shown a great devotion to his memory, and is a naturalist herself. . . A generation after his cult has passed, John Burroughs has at last had justice done him, and it is surprising to find the best of him as contemporary as the drawings and, indeed, as the fields and woods that are their subject." L. J. Halle
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 N 3 '51 650w

BURROWS, RAYMOND MURDOCK, and REDMOND, MRS BESSIE (CARROLL), comps. Concerto themes. 334p $4 Simon & Schuster

785.6 Concerto 51-10594

"The main body of this volume lists the chief themes of the concerto repertory (about 1200 from 144 works) ranging from Addinsell (Warsaw) to Wieniawski (no. 2). In effect, their selection acts as an aid to formal analysis for those who read music. Note that the term concerto is broadly used, for such solo works with orchestra as Chausson's Poème and Bloch's Schelomo are included. There are useful indexes by distinctive title, key, and solo instrument; and a bibliography of references to scores, analyses in other books, and program notes." Library J

Reviewed by C. K. Miller
Library J 76:1029 Je 15 '51 70w

"The collection represents a good reference work and an even better teaser."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Ag 12 '51 120w
Springf'd Republican p6D Jl 8 '51 200w

BURT, MRS OLIVE (WOOLLEY). Jedediah Smith, fur trapper of the old West; il. by Robert Doremus. 187p $2.75 Messner

Smith, Jedediah Strong—Juvenile literature 51-13099

A story-biography for older boys about the adventures of Jedediah Smith, a pioneer leader in the opening of the American west.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51
Kirkus 19:486 S 1 '51 90w

"Teen-age boys will welcome this highly adventurous account, full of authentic details of Indian encounters and perilous trail-blazing." Virginia Haviland
+ Library J 76:1817 N 1 '51 80w

"It is well done, and exciting reading for boys of twelve up. It gives a fine feeling of the rough types of men who were successful at this dangerous trade, and handles the Indian fights with vigor." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 N 11 '51 320w

BURTON, JACK. Blue book of Tin Pan Alley; a human interest anthology of American popular music. 520p il $7.50 Century house

784 Musicians, American. Music, Popular 50-10828

"Short success stories of individual composers and/or tunesmiths (e.g. Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, Richard Rodgers, Billy Rose) followed by lists of their works. These cover published music and recordings of 'stage musicals' and 'film musicals' as well as separate songs." Library J

Booklist 47:269 Ap 1 '51

"Any library that makes any pretense of handling popular music will need a non-circulating copy." C. K. Miller
+ Library J 75:1827 O 15 '50 70w

"The sketches will interest all who have a special reason for liking American popular songs, but the greatest value lies in the listing of the songs each man composed. Mr. Burton's labors here must have been incredible, for getting together and checking the publication dates of the songs is in itself a tremendous task, and the additional information about recordings of the songs must have more than doubled that already huge job." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p8 Je 23 '51 400w

BUSH, CHRISTOPHER. Case of the frightened mannequin [Eng title: Case of the happy warrior]. 240p $2.50 Macmillan 51-11317

Detective story.

"As always, Mr. Bush's novel is civilized but somewhat overburdened with petty detail."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 2 '51 70w

"Ludovic Travers occupies an honored place in the second rank of British amateur detectives and his latest exploit . . . is one of his better jobs." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p19 Jl 22 '51 80w

New Yorker 27:80 Je 30 '51 80w

"The solution may stretch your belief; the narration progresses at a slow walk. C minus." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Jl 8 '51 50w

"Polite and possible cross-word puzzle of English manners." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:45 Jl 21 '51 50w

BUSH, CHRISTOPHER. Case of the purloined picture. 222p $2.50 Macmillan 51-9024

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51
Kirkus 19:12 Ja 1 '51 60w

"Mr. Bush writes the sort of mystery which the publishers describe as 'chess puzzles.' One reads them slowly but they are likable because they pose a good mental problem. This one, however, is more intricate than ingenious and not quite up to Bush's usual standard."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ja 28 '51 180w

"Travers combines his talents in a mixture of about six parts of brilliant analysis and one part inspiration, and comes up with as brilliant a solution to a devious alibi-breaking puzzle as we are likely to see for some time. However, readers for whom the serial reporting of each infinitesimal fragment of a forward move has no charms will slowly fall by the wayside as the maze progresses." Elizabeth Bullock
+ — N Y Times p27 Ja 21 '51 150w

"A superior puzzle, but a little unfair, perhaps, in that the reader couldn't possibly solve it himself."
New Yorker 26:96 Ja 20 '51 110w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 21 '51 100w

"Fuddy-duddy, but O.K."
Sat R of Lit 34:38 Ja 27 '51 50w

BUSH, CHRISTOPHER (MICHAEL HOME, pseud). Grain of the wood. 262p $3 Macmillan 51-9737

The background is the Breckland district of Norfolk, England. It is the quiet story of Ted Burling who launched himself fearfully into the antique business and made a success of it, helped by his gentle Jenny. Their son was not so successful. But in the end, after disaster had hit them, Ted thought his son might be "twin-grained, the sort one could cut thru with a saw, discarding the showy and doing a good job with the rest."

Booklist 47:213; 237 F 15 '51; Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:154 My '51 180w

"Firmly grounded in time and background and without excessive involvement in the intricacies of antiques, this has much of the flavor of an Arnold Bennett or Dickens."
+ Kirkus 18:734 D 15 '50 180w

"Good prose and plot, real characters, and the thrill of antique collecting make a book that can be heartily recommended." Katharine Shorey
+ Library J 76:111 Ja 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Lisle Bell
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Mr 25 '51 600w

"Spinning a quietly eventful tale, Michael Home achieves a bare simplicity without recourse to stripped prose, depth-bomb analyses or any of the fashionable equipment for exposing the bleached bones of poor old Truth. The author is frankly in love with his bit of English countryside. He is fond of his characters, and generally at home with the minds and motives of country people. This gives his book a solid integrity from which its sturdy values seem to grow naturally and inevitably." Isabelle Mallet
+ N Y Times p20 F 25 '51 410w

San Francisco Chronicle p19 Je 17 '51 200w

Sat R of Lit 34:30 Mr 3 '51 230w

BUSHAKRA, MARY WINIFRED. I married an Arab. (Asia bk) 246p $3 Day
915.69 Lebanon—Social life and customs
51-9320

The author met her Arab husband when they were both students at the University of Seville. She was a Swarthmore graduate of Quaker extraction, born with a love of adventure. Her story begins with 1937 when she and her husband returned to Lebanon, the land of his birth, and began their hilltop home, 4000 feet above sea level.

Booklist 47:197; 218 F 1 '51; F 15 '51

Reviewed by J. A. Clark
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 8 '51 410w

"Any book which helps to bridge the distance between Eastern and Western outlooks is today a real contribution. Mary Winifred Bushakra . . . has performed this service with skill and understanding, never soft-pedaling uncomfortable features of her life among the Lebanese mountaineers, nor allowing the clash of opposite standards to quench her affection and humor." C. B. Burnett
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 F 21 '51 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Horn Bk 27:242 Jl '51 50w

"Very highly recommended as vividly written, first hand information about a way of life unlike any other within most readers' conception." H. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:323 F 15 '51 100w

"Students of the East doubtless will find much of interest in Mrs. Bushakra's unassuming account of her life in the little republic, smaller than Connecticut, among a people with ancient and proud traditions. Possibly even greater will be the interest among American colleagues in what the author calls her present profession, housewife. What to do when fifty people drop in for a meal is only part of the tale. Mrs. Bushakra has a highly unusual story to tell and she tells it simply and effectively." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 F 25 '51 600w

"It is a pity that Mrs. Bushakra should have chosen to relate her incident-packed tale in such a flat and chatty style without ever in-

BUSHAKRA, M. W.—Continued
dicating an answer to the question which the reader cannot help asking, 'Does she like it there, or doesn't she?' " Hasan Ozbekkan
N Y Times p32 F 25 '51 450w
New Yorker 27:112 Mr 3 '51 140w

"Her book has the engaging qualities of a bright, even-paced novel." J. V.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Mr 25 '51 300w

Reviewed by Ray Pierre
Sat R of Lit 34:29 Ap 14 '51 450w

BUSHNELL, ADELYN (MRS MARSHALL BRADFORD). Strange gift. 309p $3 Coward-McCann

51-10939

Nancy Morse had the strange gift of foreseeing the future. In the Maine village where her father had lived Nancy settled after her mother's death. There she became a professional psychic, in order to make ends meet. In most cases her psychic powers brought good luck, but when her warning in one case was not heeded, a murder was done. The solving of this murder thru Nancy's "strange gift" ends the novel.

"Miss Bushnell's writing is often maddeningly inept, but the strength of her belief in clairvoyance and her violent plot make 'Strange Gift' a fairly entertaining novel." Jane Cobb
+ — N Y Times p17 Je 24 '51 110w
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Jl 22 '51 180w
Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 150w

BUSINESS executives of America [1950]. (v2) 754p $15 Inst. for res. in biography, inc.

650.58 Corporations—Directories. U.S.—Biography

"The first edition, published as Business Executives and Corporation Encyclopedia (1944) was reviewed in Subscription Books Bulletin of January 1945. It included a list of some 15,000 business executives, with biographical sketches of 8,000, some photographs, and an encyclopedia of American corporations. The second edition omits this latter feature and is not illustrated. It presents only the alphabetically arranged biographies of 'approximately 10,000 living executives of the largest American and Canadian corporations. . . All sketches were brought down to date'—Preface. . . The general pattern of information in the biographical sketches provides for the subject's name, occupation, place and date of birth, parentage, education, the name of spouse, marriage date, children, outline of business career, directorial positions held, organization memberships, war service, home and office addresses." Subscription Bks Bul

"Despite apparently inconsistent coverage and the editorial faults noted here, Business Executives of America, second edition, supplies information not otherwise readily available on many executives of public interest and is, therefore, recommended to libraries which have frequent requests in this field."
+ — Subscription Bks Bul 22:44 Jl '51 850w

BUSONI, RAFAELLO. Italy. (Lands & peoples volumes) 23p il $1.75; bds $1.25 Holiday

914.5 Italy—Juvenile literature 50-10212

Short background study on Italy for grades 6-8. Touches on history, and the economical, cultural, and political problems of the country.

Booklist 47:102 N 1 '50

"Although this book is most attractive with delightful illustrations, it does not come up to the others in the series. The patronizing attitude and the many generalities destroy its usefulness. Not recommended for small collections." C. W. Field
— + Library J 75:2157 D 15 '50 40w
Wis Lib Bul 47:67 Mr '51

BUSWELL, JAMES OLIVER. Philosophies of F. R. Tennant and John Dewey. 516p $6 Philosophical lib.

191.9 Tennant, Frederick Robert. Dewey, John. Knowledge, Theory of 51-9245

"This is a critical analysis of British Empiricism and American Pragmatism from the standpoint of Christian mysticism." San Francisco Chronicle

"Buswell's book is, for all its defects, an informing and vigorous statement of his point of view. It is wholesome diet for neoörthodox, Deweyites, and personalists (for that matter), if they can rein in their odium theologicum. Buswell's criticisms are well stated and should be faced. His own point of view, however, needs another book for its clarification." E. S. Brightman
+ — Crozer Q 28:249 Jl '51 1150w

"The absolutist nature of the thinking of the author contributes little towards a clarification of the problems raised by contemporary philosophy. The argument is entombed in reams of technical language and the work will be of interest primarily to specialists in the field." R. G. C.
San Francisco Chronicle p25 F 18 '51 70w
School & Society 73:47 Ja 20 '51 40w

BUTLER, BASIL CHRISTOPHER. Originality of St Matthew; a critique of the two-document hypothesis. 178p $3.75 Cambridge

226.2 Bible. New Testament—St Matthew [51-13171]

"The Two-Document Hypothesis—that Matthew and Luke derive from Mark plus a conjectural source (called Q)—had come to be widely accepted by the end of the first quarter of this century. Abbot Butler here questions the validity of the argument upon which this hypothesis rests and points to a fundamental unsoundness in the deduction." Publisher's note

Reviewed by F. C. Grant
Churchman 165:16 N 1 '51 160w
Times [London] Lit Sup p737 N 16 '51 1140w

BUTLER, CHARLES EDWARD. Follow me ever. 160p $2.50 Pantheon bks.

51-9404

"The miracle of the stigmata is one that has bemused many writers. Charles E. Butler, a poet of quality has here essayed a modern parable centering around the reactions of a group of American soldiers stationed in Ireland to the occurrence of this miracle in their midst." Sat R of Lit

Booklist 47:236 Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:153 My '51 280w

"The vagueness of Ellis and the circumstances surrounding his affliction seem to reflect the vagueness of the author with regard to the stigmata and its holy, traditional meaning. Without deeper insight in Ellis and his background, without a more detailed analysis of the effect of such spiritual phenomena on the Catholic priest involved, one is inclined to conclude that the stigmata of Sergeant Ellis is more contrivance than mystery." Joe Dever
Commonweal 53:548 Mr 9 '51 700w
Kirkus 19:69 F 1 '51 130w

"While the novel is not entirely successful and its appeal will be limited, it is nevertheless highly recommended. Author is a librarian." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:406 Mr 1 '51 90w

"We have in this novel a symbol of modern man languidly, delicately fashioned. We have also an experiment, of Proustian and Bergsonian overtones, with the anatomy of time. And since Mr. Butler is a poet he has aimed at combining the two into a lyrical portrait of the human mystery as we experience it today.

At times he succeeds; at others his style clouds into pale preciosity." Frederic Morton
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Mr 18 '51 500w

"The reader may find himself lost in the rhythmic, almost somnolent quality of the prose which creates a dreamlike atmosphere, rare in these times. However, the book will prove moving to those who like the unusual description which is poetic and lovely, and thoughts which lie, sometimes, too deep for tears." Herbert West
+ — N Y Times p28 Ap 1 '51 290w

New Yorker 27:111 Mr 3 '51 60w

"This is the kind of simple parable that depends upon simplicity in telling to achieve its effects. Mr. Butler has not that simplicity. His structure is irritating and confusing. His prose is over-elaborate and loaded with such 'poetic' adjectives as 'strange,' 'terrible,' 'mysterious,' 'fragrant,' and 'beautiful,' evasions which obscure rather than illuminate his intent." E. J. Fitzgerald
Sat R of Lit 34:29 Mr 3 '51 280w

BUTLER, GERALD ALFRED. Blow hot, blow cold. 249p $2.75 Rinehart
51-11602

"Story of a young English expatriate on the Riviera, the French girl he loves, and the wealthy, spoiled American girl he works for. . . Peter Lawson wants to earn enough money to take Odette back to England. He knows it will be dangerous to captain Janet Beeton's yacht, but he is desperate enough to risk that emotional entanglement. What he had not counted on was the illicit trade Janet was engaged in, and the violence which would follow on that." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Reviewed by Henry Cavendish
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ag 5 '51 320w

Kirkus 19:279 Je 1 '51 150w

"A strong story in its elements but told with a lack of authenticity which weakens it."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ag 19 '51 100w

"Whenever the name Gerald Butler appears on the cover of a thriller you may look for clear, three-dimensional characterization, vividly depicted background, mounting suspense which is atmospheric and psychological rather than crudely physical, and a denouement as logical as it is inevitable. This new novel is no exception." Sugden Tilley
+ N Y Times p5 Ag 5 '51 170w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ag 12 '51 70w

Reviewed by Kathleen Sproul
— Sat R of Lit 34:29 Ag 25 '51 40w

BUTLER, JOHN ALFRED VALENTINE. Man is a microcosm. 162p il $3 Macmillan 577.2 Biological chemistry. Life (biology)
51-2999

"This little book discusses nothing less than the very substance of human life; that is, the chemical organization of Man, and his biological relationship with the rest of the universe." San Francisco Chronicle

"Despite the slightly stuffy title, this is a substantial piece of science popularization, compact, thoughtful, free of the deKruif type of hysteria that is characteristic of so much of the so called science literature for the layman."
+ Kirkus 19:45 Ja 15 '51 170w

"The reader will find in Dr. Butler's discussions not only a clearly written account of what is happening in his own body, but also a provocative inquiry into the spiritual core of existence." A. B. T.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 Je 10 '51 70w

"[This gives a] systematic, clear description of the whole hierarchy of natural structures and concludes with a debatable teleological assumption of human goals." Myron Weiss
Sat R of Lit 34:29 Jl 7 '51 340w

BUTLER, SAMUEL. Notebooks; selections ed. by Geoffrey Keynes and Brian Hill. 327p $3.75 Dutton
828 51-12782

"Selections from the notebooks have appeared previously, in 1912 (The Notebooks) and again in 1934 (Further Extracts). The new volume, edited by Geoffrey Keynes and Brian Hill, consists of a selection from the two earlier books as well as some hitherto unpublished notes and still others picked up from various Butleriana. The author of 'Erewhon' and 'The Way of All Flesh' reveals himself to be the possessor of a remarkably sec style, an effortless economy of thought, a speculative faculty that is just right (exercised as it is alongside the bare phenomena he recorded), a wit and detachment that are contradicted only by a whisper of crankiness." N Y Times

"This carefully edited book is a selection from published materials which are no longer easily available; there are also a few hitherto unpublished gleanings. The editors have taken those notes which, they think, 'give the best picture of the range of Butler's mind and the diversity of his interests.' The result is by turns entertaining, boring, and—I use the word with care—shocking." Ernest Jones
Nation 173:311 O 13 '51 950w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman & Nation 41:537 My 12 '51 2300w

"In several respects the selections from 'Samuel Butler's Notebooks' represent an improvement on previous workings of the same vast mine. Here for the first time extracts chosen from the whole body of notes are placed in chronological order and printed without editorial changes. . . Along with much that is trivial or fantastic the 'Notebooks' contain the seeds of attitudes now widely flourishing." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 11 '51 270w

Reviewed by Harvey Breit
N Y Times p43 O 7 '51 350w

"Altogether, the book is a delight."
+ New Yorker 27:169 N 24 '51 190w

"A new edition which contains a fair amount of fresh material."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p350 Je 8 '51 700w

BUTTERFIELD, HERBERT. Whig interpretation of history. 132p $1.50 Scribner
907 Historiography 51-5205

"This whig version of the course of history is associated with certain methods of historical organization and inference—certain fallacies to which all history is liable, unless it be historical research. The examination of these raises problems concerning the relations between historical research and what is known as general history; concerning the nature of a historical transition and of what might be called the historical process; and also concerning the limits of history as a study, and particularly the attempt of the whig writers to gain from it a finality that it cannot give. The subject is treated not as a problem in the philosophy of history, but rather as an aspect of the psychology of historians." (Pref) First published in England in 1931.

Reviewed by J. M. S. Careless
Canadian Forum 31:139 S '51 350w

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 1 '51 90w

"This book, terse and tidy, of which a new issue now appears, contains a lively, and often illuminating, discussion of the underlying assumption of the historian, of the historical process itself, of judgments of value and moral judgments in history, and of the art of the historian." H. W. Stephenson
+ Hibbert J 49:199 Ja '51 850w

"It is nearly twenty years since Professor Butterfield won his reputation by criticising the Whig interpretation of history; his adventurous essay is now republished unchanged. This is a pity: it would have worn better if it had been accompanied with the later essay on the Englishman and his History, in which Professor Butterfield answered his own earlier attack."

BUTTERFIELD, HERBERT—Continued
New Statesman & Nation 40:523 N 25 '50 170w

BUTTERS, MRS DOROTHY GILMAN. Ragamuffin alley. 206p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.
51-13078

This junior novel tells how a group of people living in a boarding house in Philadelphia work together to establish a puppet theater. The leading characters are the landlady's teen-age daughter, two young artists, and a fashion model.

Booklist 48:127 D 1 '51

Reviewed by Lucille Pannell
Chicago Sunday Tribune p19 N 11 '51 170w

Kirkus 19:399 Ag 1 '51 150w

"Delightful light romance, with a sidelight on puppetry, suitable for eighth grade through high school. Recommended for young people's collections." G. E. Cartmell
+ Library J 76:2015 D 1 '51 40w

"Readers of 'Enchanted Caravan' and 'Carnival Gypsy' know that Mrs. Butters has a knack of putting an oddly assorted cast of characters into an improbable situation and making it all seem plausible as well as diverting. . . To the skeptical the reformation of the gold-digging model will be breath-taking—as is the success of the cooperative venture. Yet Mrs. Butters writes so genially of her odd crew that most girls will enter right into the mood of this gay novel." E. L. Buell
+ — N Y Times p42 D 9 '51 180w

BUTTERS, JOHN KEITH, and others. Effects of taxation: corporate mergers. 364p $4.25 Harvard univ. Division of res.
338.8 Taxation—U.S. Corporations—Taxation 51-10387

"In this study of the effects of taxation on corporate mergers . . . [the authors] have combined a description of the relevant aspects of tax law with an analysis of their effects. Taxation may be significant in the absorption of one company by another from two standpoints: it may be a major factor in inducing the sellers to sell or the buyers to buy, and it may greatly influence the form of a transaction once a decision in favor of a merger has been reached. Though the second of these subjects has been widely discussed as an operating problem in business, the first and more fundamental one has not heretofore been analyzed systematically." (Foreword) Index.

"This study represents a collection of case materials which will prove useful and suggestive to students of our antitrust policy. Within the limits which the authors have set for themselves, it throws an informative light upon the more important considerations which affect the survival of small-scale enterprise in the present competitive environment." Victor Abramson
+ Am Econ R 41:718 S '51 1000w

Reviewed by E. G. Keith
Ann Am Acad 277:247 S '51 350w

"Will prove valuable to students of both public and corporation finance." R. C. Hon
+ J Pol Econ 59:549 D '51 490w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:869 My 15 '51 50w
Management R 40:724 N '51 100w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:256 S '51 250w

BUTTRICK, GEORGE ARTHUR. So we believe, so we pray. 256p $2.75 Abingdon-Cokesbury
230 Christianity. Lord's prayer 51-9467

"The pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, emphasizing the interrelationship of faith and prayer, freshly interprets the main avowals of Christian faith and the separate petitions of the Lord's Prayer. References, index." Bookmark

Booklist 47:321 My 15 '51
Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 30w
Christian Century 68:1048 S 12 '51 80w
Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"This most recent of Dr. Buttrick's books is. . . of great value to all who appreciate clarity of thought and pungency of expression on great matters of Christian faith and prayer." S. L. Blanton
+ Crozer Q 29:95 Ja '52 50w

"His book demands close attention, for, while his pulpit style is arresting, his literary style is confused. But his reputation will create a demand."
Kirkus 19:179 Mr 15 '51 140w

Reviewed by Paul Ramsey
+ N Y Times p18 Jl 22 '51 110w

BUTTRICK, GEORGE ARTHUR, ed. See Interpreter's Bible.

BYE, RAYMOND TAYLOR. Social economy and the price system; an essay in welfare economics. 356p $3.50 Macmillan
338.5 Prices. Economics 50-10513

"Professor Bye presents this essay as a 'combination of theoretical, institutional, and welfare economics, aimed at appraising the possibilities of pricing as a device for guiding the economic process in welfare directions.' The operations of the price system are analyzed critically with reference to 'sound social economy' over the entire range of economic problems: organization and allocation of resources, the level and stability of employment, capital investment, and income distribution." J Pol Econ

"The fundamental defect of Social Economy and the Price System is its lack of political 'savvy.' . . One cannot conclude Professor Bye's book without admiring and respecting its author. He is so patently a serious, sincere, and unselfish reformer. He is honest with his readers and mentions points that gainsay his thesis when they occur to him. He is not for or against workers, farmers, businessmen, blocs, or parties. He is opposed to poverty, special privilege, and greed. And he is very much in favor of Utopia." Stephen Enke
+ — Am Econ R 41:699 S '51 900w

Bookmark 10:168 Ap '51

"On close inspection of this essay in welfare economics, particularly of its chapter xi ('Pricing in Collectivism') the collectivist 'program for the systematic reorganization of the whole economic process' turns out to be only advice to the central planners to be wise and just. Despite Bye's intention, announced in the Preface, to provide an institutional economics, his analysis of the collectivist economic organization and of its superiority over capitalism does not get beyond the level of asserting that social ownership of industry and central planning provide the ideal 'institutional setting' for wisdom and justice." H. G. Lewis
Ethics 61:325 Jl '51 550w

"Bye is to be complimented for essaying this job. For its whole spirit of fearless consideration of alternatives one can only have the greatest admiration. Although economists cannot merely pass the prescriptions on to their students, they should find the book an excellent one to use in intermediate courses for a critically conducted survey of the difficulties of using theory in policy formation." J. S. Earley
+ — J Pol Econ 59:273 Je '51 600w

BYNNER, WITTER. Journey with genius; recollections and reflections concerning the D. H. Lawrences. 361p il $4 Day
B or 92 Lawrence, David Herbert. Lawrence, Frieda (von Richthofen) 51-11710

In 1922 when D. H. Lawrence and his wife came to the United States they spent their first night in an American home at the author's house in New Mexico. The following spring Bynner and a companion joined the Lawrences on a trip to Mexico. This book is a detailed account of that trip, with further recollections of D. H. Lawrence, and of his wife since Lawrence's death. Index.

Booklist 48:48 O 1 '51

"The greatest tribute that can be paid 'Journey with Genius' as it appraises Lawrence's strange personality, his brilliant works, his plans for colonizing Mexico with artists, his associations with writers all over the world, is that the words sound as tho Bynner himself were speaking them. As a raconteur this tall, good looking, dark eyed man has no peer. The same may be said of his recollections and reflections concerning the D. H. Lawrences." Kenneth Horan

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 29 '51 750w

"Witter Bynner can't make up his mind whether this is a grudge book or a love book. There is, however, a good deal of objective thinking about Lawrence's life and work in the book, expressed in stretches of admirable discernment and insight. So perhaps the work might better be typified as a very human book about a very human writer who at times appears both superhuman and subhuman." Joe Dever

+ Commonweal 54:507 Ag 31 '51 490w

"A disturbing, exciting portrait of genius by a poet who recaptures the flavor of the ancient culture within which Lawrence hoped to find his lost gods. A thrilling addition to the Lawrence studies."

+ Kirkus 19:225 Ap 15 '51 240w

"Recommended." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:1335 S 1 '51 150w

Nation 173:216 S 15 '51 200w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan

New Repub 125:27 O 29 '51 270w

"There have been a number of bad books about Lawrence and a few good ones. This is one of the best. It is thoroughly informed and well balanced. It leaves the reader with an unforgettable impression of a great man and a great woman, both the unstable genius and his magnificently unshakeable and loyal wife. And it may be read with constant delight for the good humor, wit, lively anecdote, perfection of phrase and moving eloquence that the author has put into it." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ag 5 '51 850w

"A work so drenched in malice that we may be sure that this year will not see another such book, no, not this decade. One finishes it with two emotions: the first, of absolute conviction that Lawrence's shade is now at last utterly imperturbable, his reputation safe and substantial; the second, something of that same deep weariness that Lawrence felt in the presence of the niggling, self-corrosive triviality of social man." Mark Schorer

— N Y Times p3 Jl 29 '51 1550w

New Yorker 27:70 S 1 '51 170w

"Since no modern writer has been more fully documented than D. H. Lawrence, readers may take notice of this new book about him and cry, 'Not another!' But let them at once be advised that this is the most persuasive, penetrating, and literate of them all. It is so absorbing that the reader goes from one to another of its forty-nine brief chapters asking, 'What happened next?' " Paul Horgan

+ Sat R of Lit 34:9 Ag 18 '51 800w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 390w

BYRNES, ROBERT FRANCIS. Antisemitism in modern France; 3v; v 1, Prologue to the Dreyfus affair. 358p $5 Rutgers univ. press

296 Dreyfus, Alfred. Jews in France. Jews—Political and social conditions. (50-10738)

"Author, Harvard-trained historian, now assistant professor at Rutgers University, has started out on monumental three-volume history of antisemitism in France which will be equally helpful to historian, sociologist and student of world affairs. First volume traces with circumspection and thoroughness the origins of antisemitic movement in Third Republic up to 1894." Library J

Reviewed by K. S. Pinson

Ann Am Acad 275:222 My '51 600w

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley

Cath World 174:157 N '51 350w

Reviewed by F. A. Levy

Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Mr 4 '51 180w

"Unusually well-written monograph should have fairly wide appeal, especially since modern French history has not been adequately represented in recent American writing. Recommended for larger public and college libraries." F. E. Hirsch

+ Library J 75:2077 D 1 '50 160w

"When completed this history of anti-Semitism in France promises to be the clearest and most readable treatment in the English language. . . A book so timely and significant should run to a second printing and this will facilitate the correction of some minor errors." Geoffrey Bruun

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 D 24 '50 1200w

"The book is needlessly long. Its first chapter is a recapitulation of European and French history in the second half of the nineteenth century, which throws little light on the Jewish question. The following chapters are too detailed and anecdotic, and probably too faithful to the confusion which afflicted French politics in the Third Republic. Still, the work is important. It rests on a huge mass of solid documentation. . . It offers an intelligent interpretation of the many and conflicting factors that favored anti-Semitism in France. It is written with clarity and with a refreshing freedom both from pedantry and from pretentiousness." Henri Peyre

+ — N Y Times p19 Jl 1 '51 650w

"Professor Byrnes, of Rutgers University, is much to be commended for setting out to write the history of anti-semitism in France during the Third Republic; and his first volume is both scholarly and eminently readable."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p553 Ag 31 '51 950w

"Although a well-written and well-balanced work, still this book is not entirely satisfying. One has the feeling that important questions remain, which can only be answered when the archives are exhausted."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:162 Je '51 230w

Reviewed by H. R. Rudin

Yale R n s 41:122 autumn '51 400w

C

CADELL, MRS ELIZABETH. Enter Mrs Belchamber. 247p $3 Morrow

51-12171

A young Englishman traveling on a French train, accompanied by his three much younger cousins, meets the grim, determined Mrs Belchamber. All are on their way to England and before long Mrs Belchamber has joined the party uninvited. When one of the children gets the measles as soon as they land in England, the despised Mrs Belchamber proves very useful, even welcome.

Booklist 47:394; 48:11 Jl 15 '51; S 1 '51

"There are a couple of pleasant love matches in the book, some very funny scenes, and a general atmosphere of simple human good will which is even more contagious than the Earl's measles." Riley Hughes

+ Cath World 174:235 D '51 200w

"Elizabeth Cadell serves up Angela Thirkell's English county characters with a French sauce piquante, and if her portraits are more on the surface they are none the less recognizable and wittily sketched. Mrs. Belchamber and the three French children are the best in the book.

CADELL, ELIZABETH—Continued
Mrs. Cadell's humor is unforced, her style agreeably clear." Kathleen Cannell

+ Christian Science Monitor p5 Ag 30 '51 360w

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51

Kirkus 19:307 Je 15 '51 120w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
+ Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 70w

"A Cadell fan finds 'Enter Mrs. Belchamber' not quite so good as the earlier novels. It lacks the extremely funny comedy of 'Gay Pursuit.' The situations are somewhat contrived, where formerly they have been almost uniformly plausible. . . But these are minor criticisms. There is still plenty of Mrs. Cadell's special genius here." Joanna Spencer
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 S 2 '51 550w

"Not exactly a sensational novel, but it won't send an adult to sleep." Jane Cobb
N Y Times p20 S 16 '51 360w

New Yorker 27:69 S 1 '51 150w

Springf'd Republican p10D O 7 '51 90w

CAEN, HERBERT EUGENE. Baghdad; 1951. 120p $1.75 Doubleday

917.9461 San Francisco—Description
50-10869

A continuation of the author's Baghdad By-the-Bay (Book Review Digest 1949). Like its predecessor it is "a potpourri of names, mood-bits, gossip and general odds and ends concerning San Francisco." (San Francisco Chronicle)

"Mr. Caen's book is like a large, benevolent eye focused on San Francisco. . . [It] will make any one who has ever been to San Francisco homesick for that always fascinating city."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Ja 7 '51 180w

"Some call it corny, but it's nevertheless probably A Good Thing. More communities and more newspapers could, in these crass days, do with scriveners who can discern the humans behind the brick and mortar and highlight so deftly the minutiae of which a city's day is made." Gladwin Hill
N Y Times p12 F 18 '51 380w

San Francisco Chronicle p18 N 19 '50 400w

Sat R of Lit 34:34 F 10 '51 110w

CAIRNS, CICELY. Murder goes to press. 172p $2.50 Macmillan 51-9883

Detective story.

Booklist 47:312 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

Kirkus 18:739 D 15 '50 70w

"The style is vivid and accomplished; the plot fresh and exciting; the characters of the journalists hum with life. Only the ease of spotting the criminal stamps the beginner." Ralph Partridge
+ New Statesman & Nation 40:523 N 25 '50 110w

"A pleasant, chatty book, with an informative background and not too unlikely a plot."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Ap 8 '51 180w

"The murder of a sadistic coordinating editor introduces a plot of technically admirable adroitness, beautifully calculated to develop fully rounded pictures of all the assorted journalist characters." A. B.
+ N Y Times p18 My 6 '51 110w

New Yorker 27:132 Mr 17 '51 120w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 25 '51 90w

"One of the best."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 3 '51 90w

"The late Miss Cairns has contrived a closely-knit plot, a love-story which interests without getting in the way, and a background of life in a newspaper office which carries the note of authenticity." John Garrett
+ Spec 185:92 Ja 19 '51 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p673 O 27 '50 120w

CAIRNS, FRED I. Progress is unorthodox; with a foreword by M. C. Otto [il. by Ronald Murray]. 185p $2.50 Beacon press

270 Reformers. Liberalism (religion)
50-10949

Popular account of those who were willing to take risks because of their beliefs. "In a series of successive chapters the author tells of the banishment of Arius because he believed 'what appeared to be reasonable,' of Luther's break with the Roman Church, and of John Calvin's burning of Servetus, of how some time later Dr. Priestley's church, his home, and his personal belongings were burned in Birmingham, England, and eventually of how the Unitarian Church was founded in America." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

"The treatment is provocative and challenging. Many will feel that the author makes many rash assertions. . . Again the book would have been vastly improved had the author included a few dates for each of the incidents sketched. . . This is a book which religious believers would do well to read and ponder but not necessarily accept." Jerome Davis
Ann Am Acad 274:256 Mr '51 480w

"The great advances in religious knowledge and in the liberty to seek new knowledge have all been made against bitter and often bloody opposition. . . Mr. Cairns' story of this long-drawn-out process of dogmatic standardization on the one hand and non-conformity on the other is told with admirable vim, vigor and vivacity but also in a slapdash manner which is regrettable not because it lacks the traditional reverence for some of the great names in history but because it will prevent the constructive part of what he says from being taken as seriously as it should be."
+ — Christian Century 68:563 My 2 '51 430w

Reviewed by Neil Martin
Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 6 '51 700w

Reviewed by W. L. Caswell
Churchman 165:17 Ag '51 140w

CALDWELL, CHARLES W. Modern single wing football. 283p il $5 Lippincott

796.33 Football 51-11181

Princeton's football coach describes his own career in his chosen field briefly, and explains his system of single wing attack fully. Includes photographs and diagrams. Glossary.

Booklist 48:80 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 O 14 '51 80w

"It is a great inside story of a great coach's analysis of his own procedure, too technical for the fan who is not himself an ex-football player or coach, but meat for the informed audience, as a study of the modern strategy and modern techniques of a formation old as the game itself, but new in the developments of today."
+ Kirkus 19:341 Jl 1 '51 160w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:1812 N 1 '51 60w

"A wondrous and detailed work for advanced students of the game. . . A textbook no genuine football man—or nut—would want to miss." Arthur Daley
+ N Y Times p16 O 7 '51 90w

Reviewed by C. K. Larrabee
San Francisco Chronicle p19 D 2 '51 170w

"In this book Princeton's renowned football mentor has produced the most complete and authoritative book ever written about the technique of modern football offense."
+ School & Society 74:128 Ag 25 '51 20w

CALDWELL, ERSKINE. Call it experience; the years of learning how to write. 239p $3.50 Duell

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10412

"Literary autobiography of one of America's best known contemporary authors devoted almost exclusively to the trials and tribulations of a man determined to make a living by his pen and who endured and persevered until that aim was attained. Coupled with this desire was the urge to travel. . . Contains sidelights on personalities in the book world and gives forthright advice to all those interested in becoming writers." Library J

Booklist 48:1; 30 S 1 '51; S 15 '51

Reviewed by Harry Hansen
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 23 '51 450w

Kirkus 19:379 Jl 15 '51 220w

"Recommended." H. G. Kelley
+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 70w

"One's interest in this smoothly written, smoothly readable book will be determined by one's interest in Mr. Caldwell's almost innumerable novels and short stories. Incipient writers, who might hope to pick up a hint or two from Mr. Caldwell's success, will get very little advice here except to work hard—which is perhaps all there is to learn, at that." Herbert Kupferberg
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 23 '51 460w

"Erskine Caldwell has told honestly, simply and in complete seriousness how he became one of the best-selling authors of all time. . . As a candid document of how he attained this goal, his book is both interesting and useful, but it should not be mistaken for a universal guide." Herschel Brickell
+ — N Y Times p12 S 23 '51 280w

New Yorker 27:116 S 22 '51 140w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p16 O 3 '51 800w

"It is partly autobiographical, partly hortatory, partly instructive. At times it sounds like a literary pep-talk; at other times its burden will all but crush the youthful aspirant. . . There's a gossipy quality to the restless ranging of the book. Strange characters like the mysterious Marianna wander in and out of Caldwell's recall; Alexander Wollcott makes an obese and obnoxious appearance; Hollywood, Moscow, and Maine are but three of a score of settings; and, as if to pull things together, the author adds an excellent epilogue in which he answers directly a couple of dozen questions relating to his craft. Caldwell's little acre is peculiarly farmed." Charles Lee
Sat R of Lit 34:19 D 22 '51 260w

CALDWELL, ERSKINE. Humorous side of Erskine Caldwell; an anthology; ed. with an introduction by Robert Cantwell. 253p $3.50 Duell

51-9609

A collection of Caldwell's short stories and excerpts from some of his novels, chosen to illustrate the author's brand of humor.

Kirkus 19:193 Ap 1 '51 130w

"The introduction straightens out some biographical details but fails to justify the reason for such a specialized compilation when any of Mr. Caldwell's collected fiction will illustrate the same point." H. G. Kelley
Library J 76:960 Je 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Je 24 '51 60w

"Twenty-five million purchasers of paper-covered books can't be wrong—at least about what they like. What they like, one surmises, is raw sex and raw violence. These Mr. Caldwell gives them. If 'The Humorous Side' is intended to prove that there is more to Mr. Caldwell than the rawness, it is not a success." Granville Hicks
N Y Times p8 Je 10 '51 600w

San Francisco Chronicle p19 S 9 '51 130w

CALDWELL, JANET TAYLOR (MRS MARCUS REBACK). Balance wheel. 496p $3.50 Scribner 51-9053

A family chronicle concerned with the lives of four brothers, sons of a German immigrant who had founded a prosperous precision tools factory in Pennsylvania. The time is from 1913 to 1939. Charles, the oldest of the brothers is the "balance wheel" of the title, and his story is most fully told.

Booklist 47:125; 188 D 1 '50; Ja 15 '51

"The only really skillful part of the book, and this is, it should be admitted, extremely well handled, concerns the relations between Charles and his brothers. There is suspense in the way Charles plays off one brother against another; he is, unfortunately, a smugly righteous fellow." Riley Hughes
— + Cath World 172:470 Mr '51 240w

"Her book both is stirring and has an exciting plot, which involves both love and hatred in family relationships, and two very charming romances." Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ja 14 '51 600w

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 25 '51 230w

Cleveland Open Shelf p4 Ja '51

"Probably her most mature novel (with many of the qualities of Dynasty of Death) but not as popular in its component parts."
Kirkus 18:658 N 1 '50 250w

"An absorbing narrative with an important message. Recommended for public libraries." H. R. Forbes
+ Library J 76:111 Ja 15 '51 80w

"This is a long, earnest novel during most of which the author is concerned with goals that are an accepted part of the American tradition: individual freedom and integrity, tolerance, individual opportunity and peace in which to work out a better world. Without question, these goals have been and are endangered, but this picture of the danger hardly adds to our insight into the reasons for it or ways to meet it." Mary Ross
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 7 '51 1050w

Reviewed by William Du Bois
N Y Times p4 Ja 7 '51 270w

"One cannot help but admire the perseverance that allows Miss Caldwell to assemble so many words, page after page, chapter after chapter, but it is difficult not to be taken aback by her total lack of grace, of spirit, and of humor. The thought occurs, and recurs, that she simply has no talent for writing."
— New Yorker 26:84 Ja 13 '51 40w

"The story of the Wittmans is a cumbersome affair written in wingless and unimaginative prose." A. C.
— San Francisco Chronicle p21 Mr 11 '51 280w

"There is a deep undercurrent of bitterness in this long and well-written story, but bitterness is an honest emotion not difficult to understand. Indeed, in this novel—Miss Caldwell's thirteenth book—it warms the characters of the four brothers, who otherwise might have a tendency to suggest chessmen moved about by a clever player, into piognant life." Josephine Lawrence
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 Ja 6 '51 680w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p8C F 11 '51 480w

Time 57:77 Ja 8 '51 350w

CALDWELL, TAYLOR. See Caldwell, J. T.

CALDWELL, WALLACE EVERETT, and MERRILL, EDWARD HACKETT. New popular history of the world; maps by Erwin Raisz; with an introd. by Lowell Thomas. 870p $5.95 Greystone

909 History, Universal 50-10627

A textbook on world history for high school and college students, which covers from "earliest times to the present day." (Subtitle) Cover title: Popular History of the World. First published in 1949 under title: World History. Contains: A reading list of historical novels.

"This work suffers from omission, oversimplification and generalization, but, these shortcomings aside, it is a handsome and serviceable reference book. . . The book is printed on good paper, it is textbookish in style, and there are summaries at the end of each chapter. The index is only fair and there are practically no suggested collateral readings. The maps by Erwin Raisz are excellent cartography and serve as valuable props to the text in the clarification of history. It is the illustration of the book, however, which really is first class; almost every page boasts a drawing or a photograph." R. H. D.

+ — San Francisco Chronicle p19 F 18 '51 200w

"This book is a worthy example of the better type of world history text used in senior high schools. The contents, divided into eleven parts and thirty-eight chapters, are well-balanced but so highly compressed that the reader finds little more than a clipped statement of facts."

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:37 Mr 17 '51 230w

Springf'd Republican p8C F 4 '51 330w

CALISHER, HORTENSE. In the absence of angels. 243p $3 Little

51-14079

Collection of short stories, a number of them previously published in The New Yorker, some in other magazines. Contents: In Greenwich there are many gravelled walks; Point of departure; One of the chosen; The woman who was everybody; Heartburn; A wreath for Miss Totten; Letitia, emeritus; Night riders of Northville; In the absence of angels; A box of ginger; The watchers; The sound of waiting; The pool of narcissus; Old stock; The middle drawer.

Booklist 48:171 Ja 15 '52

Reviewed by Warren Beck

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 16 '51 380w

Kirkus 19:454 Ag 15 '51 110w

"They are deceivingly simple stories, not tricky or stylized, their setting, for the most part, contemporary New York, the work of a fine storyteller and a perceptive psychologist. Heartily recommended for any circulating collection." Shirley Barker

+ Library J 76:1804 N 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by James Hilton

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 18 '51 750w

"It is always gratifying to make the acquaintance of a writer of intelligence and feeling; it is these qualities which most clearly mark the work of Hortense Calisher, whose stories in the last few years have made their quiet, cogent bids for our attention. Miss Calisher is an eminently sober writer; without affectations or flashiness. . . It is a pity that this long view does not take in lighter-hearted areas. Miss Calisher seems quite undisposed toward humor, except of a rather grim sort." Gertrude Buckman

+ — N Y Times p46 N 18 '51 550w

"With this unusually fine first book of short stories, Miss Calisher immediately takes her place among the best American short-story writers of our time." Charles Lee

+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 D 1 '51 410w

Time 58:115 D 10 '51 300w

CALLAGHAN, MORLEY. Loved and the lost. 234p $3 Macmillan

51-9921

"Jim, a young historian-journalist in Montreal, attracts publisher's daughter, Catherine, but loves Peggy. Peggy, disturbed over racial prejudices, indifferent to malicious gossip, frequents Negro night club, offers friendship to Negroes, but unwittingly provokes 'jealousy, suspicions, lust and old racial hatreds,' with disastrous results. Final tragedy [comes] when Jim's faith in Peggy momentarily wavers." Library J

Reviewed by A. E. Malloch

Canadian Forum 31:70 Je '51 320w

"The Loved and the Lost is an uneasy alliance between an extreme realism and a frantic symbolism, with the latter increasingly taking over until both are distorted." Riley Hughes

Cath World 173:234 Je '51 200w

"This is an unconvincing and faintly embarrassing story about race relations. It is unconvincing because the hero, a brilliant journalist, is portrayed as a fatuous numbskull. It is embarrassing because the heroine is an odd stick and a tramp in the bargain." V. P. Hass

— Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 My 13 '51 400w

Reviewed by Joe Dever

Commonweal 54:42 Ap 20 '51 750w

Kirkus 19:9 Ja 1 '51 160w

"Powerful, dramatic story; realistic descriptions of sensuality and coarseness of drink-sodden cafe society, Negro and white. Racial treatment sympathetic, but characters and situations scarcely credible." R. W. Henderson

+ — Library J 76:325 F 15 '51 110w

"'The Loved and the Lost' is done in soft focus, like those portraits of pretty girls which photographers place in their front windows. Aiming, like the photographers, for tenderness, Mr. Callaghan rarely succeeds in being more than sentimental. There is in addition a mingling of the provincial and the old-fashioned in his latest novel, for all its neon lights, juke boxes, and drunken brawls, which makes one marvel at its remoteness from our own world." Harvey Swados

— Nation 172:352 Ap 14 '51 180w

"Mr. Callaghan's restraint and perceptiveness make 'The Loved and the Lost' a distinguished and memorable novel. Whatever your judgment of the girl—and much of the strength of the book lies in the fact that there is room for difference of opinion—you will think about her." Mary Ross

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Mr 18 '51 800w

"If the story is romantic, implausible, and almost snobbishly liberal, the writing is deft and the description of Montreal's byways authentic. Yet this is strange fruit, indeed, for the snowbound Canadian metropolis." Stuart Keate

— + N Y Times p18 My 20 '51 290w

"A story that is pitiful, irritating, often maudlin, and in all ways inconclusive."

New Yorker 27:129 Mr 17 '51 60w

"Callaghan has come back and has enhanced with this book his already considerable fame as one of the best of the North American writers." W. B. Ready

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 19 '51 600w

CAMBRIDGE history of Poland, from the origins to Sobieski (to 1696) ed. by W. F. Reddaway [and others]. 607p pl maps $8.50 Cambridge

943.8 Poland—History (A41-4089)

This is the second published volume of a projected three volume work covering the history of Poland from "origins" to 1935. Volume two, "from Augustus II to Pilsudski, 1697-1935," was published in 1941 (Book Review Digest 1941). Volume III, Bibliography, has not yet been published.

"As a reference book, the present volume will perform a service, and certain chapters, like Professor Halecki's dealing with the Jagiellonian Idea and that of Professor Nowak on the period of Batory, will be turned to often, as shedding light from the past on the present. But on the whole the volume is disappointing, and nowhere more so than in its total disregard of any single system of spelling." M. M. Coleman
Ann Am Acad 274:265 Mr '51 700w

Booklist 47:154 D 15 '50

"This important book is, at last at hand, and it brings ample and reliable material about the past of Poland. The present (the first) volume seems more balanced than the preceding one, and in spite of the even greater number of contributors (26) it seems more homogeneous. A great part of the 25 chapters were written with a perfect mastery of the vast subject and of the Polish authorities by Professor A. Bruce Boswell; several others by Professor O. Halecki, one of the most distinguished Polish historians, and by Professor F. T. Nowak, an American of Polish extraction, also remarkably well. Among other contributions those of Professor Pierre David (France), Dr. W. Pociecha, Professor J. Uminski, the late Professor J. Siemienski, the late Professor J. Rutkowski, and the late A. Brückner (who was over eighty when he wrote it) deserve the special attention of students of history because of the fine scholarship they display." M. K.
+ Manchester Guardian p2 D 29 '50 450w

"Detailed and scholarly, in the tradition of Cambridge historical studies, this work is a must for every library and every student of European history." R. H. D.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 F 18 '51 280w

"Even now, when both volumes are in the hands of the reader, the work remains incomplete as the bibliographies have had to be consigned to a separate volume not yet in print. The appalling conditions under which the work was compiled have left their mark upon it. Complete uniformity has not been achieved in terminology and nomenclature. . . The translations are mostly good, but in some cases the meaning has been altered or is obscure. . . These were unavoidable shortcomings, and they cannot detract from the merit of the editors in completing the work. In fact, the present volume seems the more mature and homogeneous of the two."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p50 Ja 26 '51 1800w

CAMMANN, SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELAER. Land of the camel; tents and temples of Inner Mongolia. 200p il $5 Ronald 915.174 Mongolia—Description and travel 51-485

Toward the end of the war the author was sent to a United States meteorological outpost in Inner Mongolia. During the weeks he was there he made many short trips in all directions from the base camp. In this book he describes his observations on the land and the people. Index.

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '51

Current Hist 20:230 Ap '51 120w

San Francisco Chronicle p24 Ap 1 '51 550w

School & Society 73:63 Ja 27 '51 70w

"Schuyler Cammann travels in the tradition of the scholar-adventurer, and his book cleaves to the best in its tradition (truthfulness, a sense of moral involvement, good humor) while shunning the worst (bad writing, political or sectarian tirade, excessive footnotarianism)."
+ Time 57:104 F 19 '51 290w

CAMMANN, SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELAER. Trade through the Himalayas; the early British attempts to open Tibet. 186p il maps $3.50 Princeton univ. press
951.5 Tibet—Commerce. Tibet—History 51-10847

"After 1750, various factors closed Tibet to access from India. This monograph recounts the attempts of the British to revive the flagging economy of Bengal, depressed by the famine of 1770, by extending the trade of the East India Company into Tibet and West China." U S Quarterly Bk R

Booklist 47:360 Je 15 '51

"A book for students of British imperialism, this work is a model of clear presentation and sound scholarship."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:268 S '51 260w

CAMOES, LUIZ DE. Lusiads; tr. by Leonard Bacon with an introd. and notes. 435p maps $4.50 Hispanic Society of America, 155th St & Broadway, N.Y. 32
869.1 50-14282

"A new translation of the great national epic of Portugal, 'The Lusiads' of Luis de Camoes." N Y Times

---

"The problem of making a sixteenth-century Portuguese poem credible in modern English is a formidable one, complicated moreover by the fact that the poem itself, for all its singing beauty, is largely rhetorical adaptation of the rhetoric of Virgil, Lucan and Claudian. That Mr. Bacon has handled so well the many nagging details of this problem is reason enough for the admiration and gratitude of all who are interested in the obscured great poetry of the past, and one cannot say too much in tribute to his skill as a translator and his taste as a poet." Dudley Fitts
+ N Y Times p9 D 24 '50 600w

"The introduction and notes are delightful. Their substance is informative and illuminating, for Mr. Bacon with the true persistence of a scholar has ransacked all the authorities and called on all living experts in the field (always with due and gracious acknowledgment), but even more appealing is the style in which this supplementary material is presented, easy and urbane without condescension, witty without pretentiousness. . . I dislike to conclude on a note of complaint but I can't help wishing the book had an index of proper names." T. G. Bergin
+ Sat R of Lit 33:31 S 23 '50 850w

Times [London] Lit Sup p168 Mr 16 '51 650w

CAMPBELL, CHARLES GRIMSHAW. Tales from the Arab tribes; a collection of the stories told by the Arab tribes of the lower Euphrates; tr. and set down by [the author] and il. by John Buckland-Wright. 252p $1.75 Macmillan
398.21 Folklore, Arabic [50-3074]

"The author crossing the desert of southern Iraq in 1942, came to know members of the Shia tribe camped near Ur. To the throbbing of irrigation pumps and radio music he set down 16 tales in the familiar flowery style in which they were told." Chicago Sunday Tribune

---

"All 'Arabian Nights' fans should welcome this book as a valuable and highly entertaining addition to the 264 stories comprising the original collection." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ja 28 '51 450w

"These Moslem popular stories from South Iraq have all the qualities of irresponsible fancy, frankness, and earthy humor that characterize the 'Arabian Nights.' They have been put into English by a wicked and delightful pen." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 Mr 4 '51 90w

"Story-telling is dying out, so treasure these." D. P.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 25 '51 270w

Times [London] Lit Sup p13 Ja 6 '50 550w

CAMPBELL, CHARLES SOUTTER. Special business interests and the open door policy. 88p $3 Yale univ. press

337.92 U.S.—Commerce—China. U.S.—Foreign relations—China. China—Commerce—U.S. China—Foreign relations—U.S. 51-2591

"Charles Campbell shows how business interests influenced the adoption of the Open Door Policy in China. These interests wanted access to the Chinese market. Their fear that United States production would outstrip home consumption made them look to the vast population of China as potential purchasers of our surplus goods. The pressures exerted by the interests are examined. This study is an important contribution to the understanding of United States China policy." (Current Hist) Bibliographical note. Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:596 Je '51 30w

Current Hist 21:167 S '51 50w

"The author is to be congratulated on the succinctness with which he has presented his well-written and interesting contribution."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:268 S '51 180w

CAMPBELL, HARRY MODEAN, and FOSTER, RUEL E. William Faulkner; a critical appraisal. 183p $3 Univ. of Okla. press

813 Faulkner, William 51-12064

"[The authors] have approached Faulkner's work as a whole, attempting to evolve from it the basic structural and ideological phases which give it permanent literary value. Their close analyses of Faulkner's most important writings deal with his imagery, symbolism, humor, primitivism, and the careful structure of his work." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:27 S 15 '51

"The renewed interest in Faulkner would seem to make this the optimum moment for a critical study which the general reader might use as a kind of guide to the interpretation of his admittedly difficult books. It may be doubted, however, that the work in hand, fine tho it is, will achieve this end." Edward Wagenknecht

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ag 26 '51 360w

Christian Century 69:45 Ja 9 '52 110w

"This is not a very satisfactory book on Faulkner because the authors let Kafka, Burke, Freud, Jung, Sartre, Tate, Warren, and suchlike get in between them and Faulkner and his work." Horace Reynolds

Christian Science Monitor p5 Ag 30 '51 1250w

"Scholarly but general in approach and of appeal to students and the alert reader."

+ Kirkus 19:430 Ag 1 '51 180w

"It is an interesting and useful volume which makes no claim to being 'definitive,' its authors taking pains to point out that it has 'exhausted neither all the aspects of Faulkner's work that might profitably be considered nor all the possibilities in the aspects that have been considered.'" Carvel Collins

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 S 2 '51 480w

"That the first book about Faulkner should flop so dismally to earth is particularly unfortunate. Faulkner is a puzzling and uneven as well as a great writer and needs introduction. . . But this book is not, alas, what we have been looking for. The essential fault seems to be an unstated, perhaps unconscious, conviction that a 'philosophical' paraphrase or an analysis according to the 'coordinates' of some 'frame of reference' contains the true value of Faulkner's work." Arthur Mizener

N Y Times p5 Ag 19 '51 900w

CAMPBELL, MURRAY, and HATTON, HARRISON. Herbert H. Dow: pioneer in creative chemistry. 168p il $3.50 Appleton

B or 92 Dow, Herbert Henry. Dow chemical company 51-12222

Biography of Herbert Henry Dow, founder of the Dow Chemical company, and, in the words of the authors, "one of the creators of the modern American chemical industry."

"This book presents an inspiring portrait of a great man at work and of a great company growing out of his efforts." D. H. Killeffer

+ Chem & Eng N 29:4523 O 22 '51 250w

Reviewed by S. D. Kirkpatrick

Chem Eng 58:324 O '51 400w

"Herbert Dow was undoubtedly an extraordinarily able man and the reader is constantly wondering what the other industrial chemists were doing at the time, what was the interplay and relation of Dow's bit to the whole. But nowhere is there a detailed analysis replete with facts and figures and taking advantage of historical hindsight, nor is there a bibliography to which one may turn. Yet, in spite of these shortcomings, an interested reader will soon become aware, from the facts presented, that he is being introduced to a member of that unselfish order whose talents and energies have been effectively devoted to the betterment of mankind." R. C. Cowen

+ — Christian Science Monitor p9 S 22 '51 360w

"A success story of a free enterpriser, chiefly of industrial interest."

Kirkus 19:422 Ag 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1937 N 15 '51 70w

CAMPION, SIR GILBERT FRANCIS MONTRIOU, and others. British government since 1918; with an introd. by Sir John Anderson. 232p $3.75 Macmillan

354.42 Great Britain—Politics and government [51-111]

"A symposium on the changes which have taken place in the structure and operation of the British government since 1918. The six contributors have examined: 1—Parliamentary changes, both of character and function; 2—the development of the Cabinet; 3—the growth of central administration; 4—administrative law; 5—the public corporation and quasi-government boards; and 6—local government. These studies give a comprehensive picture of how the functions of the government have grown." (Current Hist) Index.

"It does not contain a systematic history of government in Great Britain during the last thirty years; but some of the essays are useful and suggestive." C. L. Mowat

+ Am Hist R 56:956 Jl '51 340w

"The book is good on administration, a fact which is not surprising since it was issued under the auspices of the Institute of Public Administration. However, on the political side, it leaves much to be desired." R. H. Wells

Ann Am Acad 276:168 Jl '51 330w

Current Hist 20:293 My '51 70w

"It would have been premature to have attempted a full history of British government since 1918; and, as it is, we have something to be very grateful for—a symposium that is stimulating and informative because the authors range where they will and concentrate mainly on interpretation and on bringing the less familiar rather than the commonplace to notice. What they jointly produce in consequence is as lively and full an account as has yet appeared of some of the leading problems of our time." W. H.

+ Manchester Guardian p4 D 1 '50 320w

Reviewed by A. M. Potter

Pol Sci Q 66:310 Je '51 450w

"The essays are not even, and the distribution of space will not please everyone. But the total effect is as enlightening as could be imagined for the American no less than for the Englishman." J. C. Cairns

Sat R of Lit 34:12 Jl 21 '51 260w

CANADAY, JOHN EDWIN (MATTHEW HEAD, pseud). Congo Venus. 207p $2.50 Simon & Schuster

50-12059

Detective story.

Reviewed by E. Fowke

Canadian Forum 31:164 O '51 60w

+ Kirkus 18:572 S 15 '50 80w

"Interesting for its picture of Africa and the mores of its dominating colonial society."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Ja 7 '51 190w

"The setting is exotic and well drawn. No less colorful are the characters, including a drunken doctor, a spinster with delusions of grandeur, and a woman who is too beautiful to avoid gossip. It is a pity that Matthew Head, a witty and observant writer, chooses to tell a large part of his yarn in flashbacks, a literary device that is often more effective in movies than in novels. He overcomes the minor handicap with infectious good humor and abundant bounce." H. M.
+ — N Y Times p59 D 3 '50 180w

"A well-written story of violence and intrigue."
+ New Yorker 26:160 N 25 '50 80w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p33 D 10 '50 90w

CANBY, HENRY SEIDEL. Turn west, turn east; Mark Twain and Henry James. 318p il $3.50 Houghton

928.1 Clemens, Samuel Langhorne. James, Henry. American literature—History and criticism 51-14000

"In this urbane reverie Henry Seidel Canby plays Plutarch to Mark Twain and Henry James. After the manner of his ancient predecessor he has written their parallel lives, showing us the two streams, one eastward and one westward, which in the last century floated Henry James to his cultivated career as a novelist of morals and manners and carried Mark Twain to world renown, the authentic and robust voice of the American frontier and the then relatively new democracy." (N Y Times) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:123 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:80 Ja '52 20w

"A valuable, sensible, spirited book, highly original in its approach, loaded with knowledge, and designed for the general reader, who will surely respond with pleasure and gratitude." Richard Sullivan
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 N 25 '51 270w

Reviewed by Ruth Chapin
Christian Science Monitor p15 N 29 '51 450w

"No one can be expected to agree with all of the author's conclusions, and this reviewer finds it hard to believe that James was quite the observer Dr. Canby makes out. Was not Mrs. Wharton a far keener reporter of the superficialities which stamp the observer than the admittedly more profound creator of the Princess Casamissima? But this is a trifling objection to bring against a truly delightful book." Wayne Andrews
+ — Commonweal 55:285 D 21 '51 900w

Kirkus 19:550 S 15 '51 180w

"Recommended for any library as a perceptive criticism of American literature in the nineteenth century and as a basic interpretation of American character." R. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:1558 O 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by Howard Doughty
Nation 173:505 D 8 '51 300w

"At times Mr. Canby is betrayed into laboring a trivial point. . . But in general the Plutarchian method of comparative biography is employed with good effect to point significant likenesses and divergencies between the two writers." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 D 2 '51 500w

"Like Plutarch, Canby seeks to render impartial judgment in the painting of his ethical portraits, but his sympathy with the genial Mark creeps out in spite of himself. This leads him, I suspect, to overlook a number of important sides of James' life which might have heightened his parallels. . . And there are moments when he quite simply deprives Henry James of his due. . . These are perhaps the blemishes of too-casual scholarship; they are all the more regrettable in a work ingenious in conception and fertile in ideas, and blessed, moreover, with the charm of an informal, conversational prose as warm as it is lucid, as mellow as it is wordly wise." Leon Edel
+ — N Y Times p8 N 11 '51 800w

New Yorker 27:66 D 29 '51 130w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p12 D 26 '51 1000w

"It seems to me that Dr. Canby has never been in company more sympathetic to his own gifts as interpreter. On other occasions one has noted in him a kind of strained amiability as he has undertaken to cope with large, unruly talents. Here he has achieved that spontaneous identification with his material which, in criticism as in creative work, is the ally of moving and revealing analysis." James Gray
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 D 1 '51 470w

CANE, MRS FLORENCE. Artist in each of us. 370p 166il 23 col il $6.50 Pantheon bks.

707 Art—Study and teaching [51-14666]

"A careful step-by-step account is given in this book of the author's teaching methods, in a general survey, followed by case histories of what was achieved with different pupils over a period of years." School & Society

Reviewed by Paul Engle
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 D 23 '51 240w

Kirkus 19:507 S 1 '51 120w

"Case histories are fascinating reading. One does wonder whether the book in the hands of instructors who are only amateur psychologists and psychiatrists might not create confusion in teaching and in the application of the author's ideas. Good and plentiful illustrations." A. S. Plaut
Library J 76:2006 D 1 '51 110w

"Her respect for the honest expression of each person is implied throughout. I wish all teachers had the sympathy and acceptance of the individual one feels in Mrs. Cane's writing. If her purpose here were only to tell the story of a lifetime's teaching and her approach to the newer ideas of art education, one could certainly say that she has achieved it with vitality and warmth." J. C. Bland
+ N Y Times p34 N 4 '51 600w

Reviewed by B. W. Shaffer
Sat R of Lit 34:68 N 10 '51 220w

"Mrs. Cane writes in a vivid and dramatic style that is persuasive." Ralph Wickiser
+ Sat R of Lit 35:36 Ja 5 '52 650w

School & Society 74:255 O 20 '51 30w

CANHAM, ERWIN DAIN, and others. Awakening; the world at mid-century. 209p $2.75 Longmans

901 Civilization, Modern. Twentieth century 51-14309

"This book began as a group of articles published in The Christian Science Monitor at the turn of the years of 1950-51. Mr Canham wrote six of the articles, which were based largely on the working of the leaven of enlightenment in various areas of human thought. Other members of the staff of The Christian Science Monitor, with the addition of one or two special contributors, wrote the chapters relating to specific subject matter." (Acknowledgment) Partial contents: The twilight of materialism; The rise of womanpower; Natural science finds new frontiers; Free collectivism; The age of ideologies; The leaven in medicine; Education in ferment; Spiritual hunger and the crisis in theology; Awakening: a summary and a program of individual action.

Bookmark 11:55 D '51 20w

Kirkus 19:547 S 15 '51 120w

"A clear, rather colorless, but high-minded and optimistic survey of the 50-year past and immediate future. . . 'The Leaven in Medicine'

CANHAM, E. D.—Continued
deals approvingly with psychosomatic medicine. This chapter and one on 'Spiritual Hunger' are well laced with propaganda, and Science and Health is also quoted to bolster a 'revolutionary thesis' in astronomy. The book is perhaps better fitted for Christian Science reading rooms than those of public libraries." E. F. Walbridge
Library J 76:1700 O 15 '51 130w

"The writers are genuine liberals, imbued with a deep sense of the value of freedom, and with a healthy optimism. From various viewpoints, they describe the world we live in and the changes that have taken place since the turn of the century. As is always the case in collections of this sort, the quality is uneven, but it is generally high. . . With all due respect, it is a weakness of the book that Canham and most of his associates end their accounts and arguments with an appeal to religion as the solution of the problems that they have not been able to solve through logic or reason." H. L. Matthews
+ — N Y Times p22 N 18 '51 750w

Springf'd Republican p41A D 9 '51 120w

Reviewed by T. V. Smith
Survey 87:545 D '51 470w

CANNING, VICTOR. Bird of prey. 247p $3 Mill 51-9246

Mystery story.

Kirkus 18:683 N 15 '50 160w

"Mr. Canning writes with easy authority, and takes time to paint in his background with firm strokes. Recommended." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 80w

"Excellent both for flavor and for suspense."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 Mr 11 '51 170w

"The Venetian setting, with its sights, sounds and smells of richness and decay, is excellently drawn. The suspense is well sustained, and the shabby hero gradually takes on moral stature. In spite of some unnecessarily purple passages of description, 'Bird of Prey' is a superior thriller." Hillis Mills
+ N Y Times p27 F 25 '51 110w

"There are some excellent escape sequences, a wonderful sense of background, and style that makes a fairly stereotyped plot seem realistic and more serious than most espionage items." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 F 18 '51 110w

"By a master—don't miss!"
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 24 '51 50w

Springf'd Republican p5D Mr 25 '51 80w

CANNON, JAMES J. Nobody asked me. 339p $3 Dial press

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. Sports 51-10245

Selections from the author's columns in the New York Post. Besides his eye-witness reports on the war in Korea, there are stories about sports, Broadway figures, gamblers and racketeers, and politicians.

Booklist 47:326 My 15 '51

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Je 17 '51 200w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 29 '51 110w

"One section is devoted to Cannon's coverage of the first phase of the Korean war. . . He leaves units larger than companies and platoons to the rear echelon men, and his writing has the ring of truth. The sports writing in the book is of such a quality that when you agree with Cannon's thesis you marvel at the easy cogency with which he states pure truth. When you disagree with him you get mad. Yet you have to have an opinion. If you approach Cannon with an open mind, you are dead." Don Mankiewicz
N Y Times p14 My 20 '51 400w

"Cannon's daily production is uneven compared to that of Red Smith. . . But when Cannon picks three hundred and thirty-nine pages of what he considers his best stuff and packs it into a book he reads better between boards than any other writer in his line since the late Ring Lardner, including the ingratiating Mr. Smith." A. J. Liebling
+ New Yorker 27:108 My 3 '51 1900w

CANNON, LEGRAND. Come home at even. 283p $3 Holt
51-9708

A historical novel the scene of which is a small village in England, and Salem, Massachusetts, in the seventeenth century. Roger Williams is one of the characters of the book, which is the story of a God fearing man and his wife who come to America for freedom, but eventually return to England because of the wife's homesickness.

Booklist 47:165; 253 Ja 1 '51; Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:157 Ap '51 60w

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:153 My '51 220w

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Mr 11 '51 440w

"The background of Salem, with its rude new houses, its great surrounding forests, sometimes sheltering savages, its bitter cold, its unfriendliness of climate, its icy-blue waters, is convincing. It is pleasant, too, suddenly to find the minister, Roger Williams, strolling in. . . The book does not take hold of one—somehow does not rouse a warm response in the reader. Out of trouble and turbulence in England it shifts to trouble and turbulence in New England. But it does show vividly the challenge to those new inhabitants of a new land." Margaret Williamson
+ — Christian Science Monitor p13 Mr 21 '51 470w

Kirkus 19:35 Ja 15 '51 370w

"The quietness will surprise the historical novel readers yet Mr. Cannon achieves much the same effects as the more garish writer without veneering each action with suggestion. Recommended." H. L. Roth
+ Library J 76:406 Mr 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by Ferris Greenslet
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Mr 11 '51 1200w

"Roger Williams figures prominently in the story; in him the author manages to achieve a minor masterpiece of portraiture, which gains from deliberate understatement. . . The climax is a fitting conclusion to a well-planned, well-executed story." John Cournos
+ N Y Times p22 Mr 11 '51 270w

San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ap 8 '51 200w

"This is a beautiful book—beautiful as perfectly wrought ironwork or frost scrolls on the windowpane—and about as warm. Le Grand Cannon, as he proved in his earlier novel 'Look to the Mountain,' can achieve exactly the literary effects he wants, and perhaps that is all that we should ask of an artist—that he do for us what he sets out to do." Shirley Barker
Sat R of Lit 34:20 Mr 31 '51 500w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter
Springf'd Republican p5D Mr 25 '51 250w

CANNON, WILLIAM RAGSDALE. The Redeemer; the work and person of Jesus Christ. 224p $2.75 Abingdon-Cokesbury

232 Jesus Christ—Person and offices
51-10442

Dr Cannon is professor of church history and historical theology at Emory University. In this study of the person and offices of Christ he "interprets the incarnation, the miracles, the Cross, the Resurrection, and takes the position that those views of Christ which make Him less than the incarnation of the Word of God and the Divine Redeemer are inadequate." (Kirkus) Index.

Booklist 48:43 O 1 '51

"The reviewer agrees with the author that a correct picture of the historic Jesus is fundamental to the proper evaluation of his person. This, however, the author fails to give. . . His condescending summary of the work of generations of devoted New Testament scholars is ungenerous and unjust. . . This book is satisfied with offering stale answers to some questions that urgently need reëxamining. The Redeemer is only one book among a legion of its type." P. H. Igarashi
— Crozer Q 28:283 Jl '51 360w

"In what is virtually an expanded essay on Christology, [the author] has given thoughtful Christians a book to help those who are puzzled as to how they should think of Christ. For scholars, there is the added value that the book is based on sound scholarship."
+ Kirkus 19:267 Je 1 '51 120w

CANTOR, NATHANIEL FREEMAN. Learning through discussion. 111p $3 Human relations for ind, 443 Delaware av, Buffalo 2, N.Y.
374.24 Education—Aims and objectives. Discussion. Leadership 52-311

"Written for leaders of discussion groups of a particular sort, which may be characterized as follows: The leader is essentially an 'outside' consultant whose job is to come into the organization and help groups of employees (or subordinates) develop such insights as will result in improved practices in areas of concern to the management (school or industry). This book presents a rationale for the leader and then illustrates good and poor behavior in a variety of incidents." Am J Soc

"It is provocative, vigorous, and forthright, easy to read, and should be stimulating to all, whether or not one agrees with its basic assumptions." H. A. Thelen
+ Am J Soc 57:201 S '51 600w

"For those who have had experience in leading conferences, this book is a 'must.' A good leader must understand modern psychological concepts and, more important, must understand himself. Personality defects in the leader are projected into the conference and magnified. Learning Through Discussion can be of great assistance to those leaders who want to understand themselves better and thus improve their leadership technique." S. G. Dulsky
+ Management R 40:313 My '51 550w

CANTRIL, HADLEY. Why of man's experience. 198p pl $2.75 Macmillan
150 Psychology. Man. Experience 50-10739

"In this book I am trying to outline an approach which may help pose problems from a fresh point of view and thereby increase our understanding. It is an approach based on what seems to me the convergence of evidence from psychology, biology, and investigations of man's social behavior. The approach must, of course, be finally tested against experimental results." (Author's Pref) Index.

Reviewed by Tamotsu Shibutani
Am J Soc 57:192 S '51 850w

Reviewed by P. R. Farnsworth
Ann Am Acad 277:251 S '51 320w

"The principles stand up fairly well; Cantril does not avoid, however, some of the faults which are characteristic of American scholarship in the social sciences: in utilizing the work of other inquirers he prefers the recent to the best and thus reinforces the provinciality of his work." Walter Watson
Ethics 61:242 Ap '51 800w

"The author of this book, a distinguished social psychologist who teaches at Princeton, appears to have no fear of the 'why' and no scruples about including it in a somewhat awkward title. His book is anything but awkward. It is a highly satisfactory account of experience as viewed by a man who can bring the whole of current psychological literature to bear upon the problem."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 S 22 '51 230w
School & Society 73:301 My 12 '51 50w

"One finds the central thesis worthily argued —namely, 'that man needs above all to cultivate the capacity to cope with emerging situations.' In all earnestness, it may be concluded that if Professor Cantril had addressed his writing specifically to college undergraduates and had his manuscript read and criticized by a few of these, he surely would have gained the advantage of a wider audience for his many wise and helpful insights." Ordway Tead
Survey 87:139 Mr '51 600w

CAPOTE, TRUMAN. Grass harp. 181p $2.75 Random house
51-13101

"Story of two sisters, Dolly and Verena, and their growing-up cousin Collin. Verena is the stronger doer and when she moves in on Dolly's pin-money dropsy-cure business, Dolly and Collin move in protest from Verena's home to a tree. Here, along with a retired judge, the village young man-about-town, and a child evangelist (and his family), they do battle with Verena and the other forces of law and order." Library J

"Within its own terms, The Grass Harp comes pretty close, I should say, to being a complete success. It charms you into sharing the author's feeling that there is a special poetry—a spontaneity and wonder and delight—in lives untarnished by conformity and common sense." C. J. Rolo
+ Atlantic 188:89 N '51 480w
Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

"It's an amusing book, full of Mr. Capote's ingenious insights and his sudden sharpness of observation about people. It is full, too, of his richness of prose and his imaginativeness of imagery. The fact of the judge's conduct being quite beyond belief is a small reservation in a diverting and occasionally hilarious novel." Paul Engle
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 O 14 '51 320w

"There is pleasure in reporting how very fine Truman Capote's second novel is, how admirably and even brilliantly accomplished—instinct with vitality and humor and a tenderness which never curdles into sentimentality. One's pleasure in this case has little to do with literary actualities: it rises, rather, from satistfaction at the confirmation of a talent." Richard Hayes
+ Commonweal 55:73 O 26 '51 500w

"An appealing modern folktale which is full of humor, tenderness and his particular type of antenna-awareness."
+ Kirkus 19:407 Ag 1 '51 220w

"Wonderful, but special brew. Recommended for collections which aim to cover current fiction of distinction." R. E. Kingery
Library J 76:1563 O 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by H. P. Lazarus
Nation 173:482 D 1 '51 600w

" 'The Grass Harp' is most remarkable for its humor. Dealing with essentially serious themes, Truman Capote nevertheless has been able to infuse them with a tender laughter. A charming human warmth pervades these pages, a feeling for the positive quality of life, despite life's abiding sadness. This is the book of a growing writer, and it offers us more than a fair measure of delight and wisdom." Gene Baro
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 S 30 '51 850w

"This second novel is not so overwhelming an achievement as 'Other Voices' was in its particular way, but it is more satisfying. It is, as Capote's books probably always will be, a book of the grotesque, but the grotesques are created out of love and pity." Granville Hicks
N Y Times p4 S 30 '51 420w
New Yorker 27:138 O 27 '51 160w

" 'The Grass Harp' makes it plain that Mr. Capote's talent is no flash in the pan. More simply written than his first, this tale of a handful of innocents trying to solve their dilemma is less heavily weighted with symbols, far more directly written. And if it is a fantasy in some degree, well then Mr. Capote

CAPOTE, TRUMAN—Continued
prefers to write that way. Since he does it enormously well, his reader must take him as he is." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 6 '51 600w

"Mr. Capote's second novel, 'The Grass Harp,' remains within the extreme limits of what we call Gothic, but it is a sunlit Gothic, an aberrant form with a personality, and agreeable personality, entirely its own." Oliver La Farge
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 O 20 '51 550w

CARCOPINO, JEROME. Cicero; the secrets of his correspondence [tr. by E. O. Lorimer]. 2v 275;279-596p $7.50 Yale univ. press
B or 92 Cicero, Marcus Tullius A51-8288

"In the present instance M. Carcopino has attempted to bring off a double coup; for his two volumes are virtually two separate books, each directed towards a different class of reader. The second volume aims at convincing scholars that the four surviving collections of Cicero's correspondence, usually believed to have lain unpublished for a century after his death, were all published some 10 years after it, and that the motive of their publication was political. Octavian, according to this view, saw in these letters a document so damaging to Cicero that by authorizing their publication he could save his own face before a public disposed to resent his share in the proscription of the great orator; and in Atticus he found a publisher treacherous enough to collaborate in blackening the memory of his best friend. It is on this pretext that the first volume is devoted to demonstrating that Cicero can be seen in his letters as a scoundrel of the deepest dye." Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"It has all the excitement of a detective story, and whether M. Carcopino's conclusions are accepted or not the book is a magnificent commentary on the character of Cicero and his leading contemporaries."
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 6 '51 60w

"No high-school junior who has been bored by the four orations against Catiline . . . but will take, as Professor Carcopino seems to, some malicious pleasure in this exposé of Cicero as a greedy and unscrupulous counselor, a magistrate on the make, an evildoer by proxy . . . a doctrinaire with out a doctrine, chronically blind, morbidly vain, an impenitent trimmer, a boaster, coward, malicious, deceitful, double-dealer, blasphemer; and all this proved by the things he said himself. Yet—yet, how wonderful the letters are, and how little difference all this makes." Rolfe Humphries
Nation 173:285 O 6 '51 330w

"Most readers of Cicero have found fault with him from time to time. Jerome Carcopino is unique in not allowing him even a shred of one virtue, and in attributing to him almost every vice. . . Throughout two volumes this Roman statesman is harried with all the slings and arrows which scholarship can devise and hatred employ. The effect is, to my mind, unconvincing, much as one may admire the sheer vigour of the attack." Rex Warner
New Statesman & Nation 41:431 Ap 14 '51 460w

"Ever since the year 1345, when Petrarch found at Verona a manuscript of Cicero's Letters to Atticus, the orator's correspondence has been one of the great open books of European literature. . . There is, then, a staggering presumption in the very title of M. Carcopino's book, published four years ago in France and now rendered into English. For the secrets to which it refers are not those that have so long been common property: they are new secrets which the author claims to have discovered for himself. It takes a bold pioneer to think he can break fresh ground in so well-trodden a field. . . M. Carcopino's French style, tortuously periodic and elaborately colloquial, makes rough going even for specialists, and Mr. Lorimer laudably striving to smooth and straighten out the path for English readers, has all too frequently missed his own footing. . . The translator's mistakes are least readily forgiven when he has gone out of his way to commit them."
Times [London] Lit Sup p568 S 7 '51 2350w

CAREY, BERNICE. Beautiful stranger. 192p $2.50 Doubleday 51-11761

Mystery story.

"Mill town life richly and convincingly depicted in neatly original tale of puzzling death." Drexel Drake
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 S 9 '51 50w
Kirkus 19:281 Je 1 '51 130w

"Bernice Carey's new book is more novel than mystery and not enough of either, so it fails somewhat in its general purpose. Yet, it deserves credit as an interesting study in character."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ag 26 '51 110w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p20 Ag 19 '51 100w

"The mystery isn't important. What really matters is its impact on people." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 19 '51 80w

"Should hold interest." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:52 S 8 '51 40w
Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 90w

CARGOE, RICHARD, pseud. See Payne, P. S. R.

CARHART, ARTHUR HAWTHORNE. Water—or your life; foreword by Jay N. Darling. 312p $3.50 Lippincott
333.91 Water supply 51-10199

A popular summary of the part water plays in the average American's daily life, of how we get our water, of why there are shortages, and of some of the proposed solutions of the problem.

Booklist 47:265; 288 Ap 1; Ap 15 '51
Bookmark 10:231 Jl '51 30w

Reviewed by Bob Becker
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ag 26 '51 250w

Reviewed by Kimmis Hendrick
Christian Science Monitor p9 Jl 21 '51 650w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51
Eng N 147:44 Ag 16 '51 180w

"Recommended." J. E. Brown
+ Library J 76:594 Ap 1 '51 150w

"As much as any feature of his vigorous and excellent book, we should be grateful for its insistence that not all the benefits of water can be valued in the same coin. This applies particularly to such intangibles as wilderness, recreation, fish, and wildlife as against power and irrigation. The next generation will have cause to be bitter if we do not provide, in more than generous measure, for its escape from asphalt and mechanized indoor entertainment." P. B. Sears
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Je 3 '51 1150w

"The presentation is startling, informative and vital on every page." R. L.
+ N Y Times p14 Jl 29 '51 400w

Reviewed by J. W. Hedgepeth
San Francisco Chronicle p19 Ap 15 '51 850w

"Here is a timely book with a somewhat startling title. Making no claim to literary style, it presents the water problems of this country clearly and concisely, with much corrobative data." Paul Bestor
+ Survey 87:364 Ag '51 550w
Wis Lib Bul 47:117 My '51

CARLQUIST, FRU MAJA AUGUSTA CAROLINE (DAHLBERG), and AMYLONG, TORA. Balance and rhythm in exercise; tr. from the Swedish by Madeleine Hamilton; il. by George Lagerstedt. 144p $3.50 Viking

796.41 Physical education and training 51-10896

"An instructor's manual explaining the modern Swedish program of physical education by which children in the first year of school are taught the technique and habit pattern of relaxation. . . Drawings illustrating the exercises accompany the text, and diagrams follow showing how the children should be grouped for each activity." Booklist

Booklist 47:377 Jl 1 '51

Kirkus 19:265 Je 1 '51 110w

Reviewed by Lillian Morrison
+ Library J 76:1234 Ag '51 60w

"A fascinating pictorial presentation of a modern Swedish method of gymnastic training for younger children." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 8 '51 40w

CARLSEN, MRS RUTH CHRISTOFFER. Mr Pudgins; pictures by Margaret Bradfield. 163p $2 Houghton

51-6

A series of stories about the adventures of John and his younger brother and sister, when their mother, "a very particular woman," has to go out, and gets Mr Pudgins to "baby-sit."

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

"Straight-faced under-playing and very real children turn the trick. Pert, appropriate sketches by Margaret Bradfield make it all very convincing."
+ Kirkus 19:25 Ja 15 '51 150w

"Slightly reminiscent of Mary Poppins, this story will delight the heart of many a child. . . Each chapter is a story in itself and, it seems to this reviewer, should be read as such. Taken all at one sitting, there seem to be too many floating episodes. However, this is delightful nonsense. Recommended for ages 6-8." E. T. Dobbins
+ — Library J 76:415 Mr 1 '51 80w

Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

CARLSON, JOHN ROY, pseud. See Derounian, A.

CARLYLE, CELESTE. Individually yours; a guide to your personal beauty and charm. 212p $2.95 Lippincott

646 Clothing and dress. Beauty, Personal 51-1702

Advice on ways of making the most of face, figure, and clothes. Partial contents: Take what you have! If you could only sew! Tears won't help! Individualize yourself! It's more than your clothes! To the woman who eats alone! Why fade at fifty? No index.

"Rather coy and effusive, with little to offer that is really new, but the subject is of perennial interest, and the author's television programs will probably create an additional demand."

Booklist 47:323 My 15 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 10w

"This differs from the usual run-of-the-mill first aid to beauty in its acceptance of the limitations of time and money and the determination to get around them. The advice therefore is keyed to possibilities within reach of all."
+ Kirkus 18:721 D 1 '50 210w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter
Springf'd Republican p8C Ap 29 '51 110w

CARNAC, CAROL, pseud. See Rivett, E. C.

CARNAP, RUDOLF. Logical foundations of probability. 607p $8.50 Univ. of Chicago press

164 Probabilities 50-9246

"An elaboration of a series of articles, this very technical book is the first of a projected two-volume inquiry into the theory of probability and inductive reasoning. Mr. Carnap's aim is to resolve controversies about statements concerning probability, and in order to do so he recognizes two distinct meanings of the term 'probable,' the one qualitative, the other quantitative. The meaning explored in this work is the first, expressing the degree of confirmation achieved by a hypothesis or conclusion through the supporting evidence of other statements or premises." U S Quarterly Bkl

"Whether or not Carnap's theory of induction is the correct one, there can be no doubt that this book is a landmark in the history of its subject." A. W. Burks
+ J Philos 48:524 Ag 16 '51 4450w

"Mr. Carnap's is an original contribution and will undoubtedly have considerable influence."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 64:419 D '50 250w

CARNEY, MRS AUBREY (TOULMIN). No odds, no victory. 278p $3 Scribner

51-1292

This philosophical novel tells the story of the questionings and searchings of a young G.I. student in a large university. Already discontented and uncertain, John Gordon's thinking is sharpened by the suicide of a fellow student and his attempts to discover why the other man took his own life.

Kirkus 19:72 F 1 '51 120w

"A novel of very substantial achievement. . . It is a tribute to the author's narrative skill that Gordon's progress holds the reader's interest to the end. His extended bout of drinking and his gunshot wound at the hands of Myra are two very effective episodes. And along the way the author presents a picture of post-war university life, its special odds and victories, which one suspects will bring many a flash of recognition." Coleman Rosenberger
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Mr 18 '51 700w

"The book indicates that Mrs. Carney's purposes are serious and her talent considerable. She is obviously a young woman of intelligence and perception. Her theme is interesting, most of her characters are three-dimensional and she has a knack for tough and vivid dialogue. However, she has not woven the threads of her narrative into a satisfying whole." Jane Cobb
+ — N Y Times p16 Je 3 '51 180w

"Once in a great while there is a novel that really makes one think—deeply and searchingly. When this is also the author's first book, its significance is startling. Aubrey Carney's 'No Odds, No Victory' is quietly philosophical and emotionally stirring." L. A. Potts
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Mr 27 '51 850w

"Stylistically 'No Odds, No Victory' has definite weaknesses: a tendency to slightly overwritten description and to needless shifts in point of view from John's mind to that of an omniscient author. But it is nonetheless an impressive first novel." D. K. Bestor
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:34 My 26 '51 310w

CAROE, SIR OLAF KIRKPATRICK. Wells of power; the oilfields of south-western Asia; a regional and global study; with a foreword by Lionel Curtis. 240p maps $3 Macmillan

338.476655 Petroleum—Persia, Gulf of [51-10200]

"A timely study advancing the British viewpoint on the oil situation in the Near East. The author sees a close tie-up between oil, aviation, and balance of power, and feels that it is to the mutual advantage of Great Britain, the U.S. and the nations bordering on the Persian Gulf to arrive at an arrangement which will keep oil lands out of the hands of the Russians." Booklist

Booklist 47:356 Je 15 '51

CAROE, O. K.—Continued
Reviewed by F. H. Soward
Canadian Hist R 32:269 S '51 270w

"Caroe's brilliant geopolitical analysis is an excellent supplement to Bullard's compact survey of British interests in the Middle East. The focus of both books is the Persian Gulf, and both, quite naturally, do full justice to British policy in that area." N. D. Palmer
+ Current Hist 21:33 Jl '51 250w

"Sir Olaf Caroe, formerly Secretary of the External Affairs Department in India, has packed tightly into a small book on the Persian Gulf an unusual amount of information, and has made it very readable. . . Three chapters on oil contain a mass of facts nowhere else so compactly brought together." G. W.
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 20 '51 130w

"An English product, this little book is the best introduction to the Middle East I have seen since E. A. Speiser's [United States and the Near East, Book Review Digest 1947]." Farnsworth Fowle
+ N Y Times p3 Ag 19 '51 400w

"This is a book which cannot be overlooked." Edward Hodgkin
Spec 185:188 F 9 '51 600w

"There is much in the book that was worth saying—much indeed that is worthy of more adequate expression than it here receives. . . The book is at its best when the author is drawing directly upon his own experience, and at its worst when he indulges in generalization."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p167 Mr 16 '51 600w

CARR, EDWARD HALLETT. German-Soviet relations between the two World wars, 1919-1939. 141p $3 Johns Hopkins press

327.43 Russia—Foreign relations—Germany. Germany—Foreign relations—Russia 51-12783

"Author, former member of British diplomatic service and long-time Woodrow Wilson Professor of International Politics at University of Wales, is outstanding English expert on twentieth century Russia. . . Present book embraces six Albert Shaw lectures on Diplomatic History, which Carr gave at Johns Hopkins University earlier this year." (Library J)

"This is a lucid, well organized, compressed account. . . Mr. Carr's work is too short to permit detailed analysis of all the nuances in German-soviet relations. In the main his facts seem accurate and his interpretations plausible and he possesses the gift, not shared by all scholars, of a vigorous, incisive, readable style." W. H. Chamberlin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 30 '51 340w

Current Hist 21:355 D '51 90w

"Book makes absorbing reading. Recommended for college and larger public libraries." F. E. Hirsch
+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 130w

Reviewed by P. E. Mosely
N Y Times p26 O 7 '51 650w

School & Society 74:335 N 24 '51 20w

CARR, EDWARD HALLETT. History of Soviet Russia; v 1, The Bolshevik revolution, 1917-1923. 430p $5 Macmillan

947.084 Russia—History—Revolution, 1917. Communism—Russia (51-1610)

In his Preface the author says: "My ambition has been to write the history not of the events of the revolution, but of the political, social and economic order which emerged from it. Having this purpose in mind, I imagined a long introductory chapter in which I should have analysed the structure of Soviet society as it was established before Lenin's final withdrawal from the scene in the spring of 1923—a moment which approximately coincided with the foundation of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. But this framework proved on examination almost ludicrously inadequate to the magnitude of Lenin's achievement and of its influence on the future. The chapter was quickly replanned as a volume, and grew in process of writing into a major work under the title The Bolshevik Revolution, 1917-1923, to be completed in three volumes, of which the first contains Parts I to III. The second volume containing Part IV ('The Economic Order') and the third volume containing Part V ('Soviet Russia and the World') are far advanced and should be ready for publication next year. The second instalment of the whole project will be entitled The Struggle for Power, 1923-1928."

"The author's style leaves something to be desired; it evidences a defect familiar to many students of Russia, who find on going over their own work in first draft that it reads like a translation from Russian. This and other stylistic and typographical imperfections indicate an overhasty publication effort, inappropriate for a book which, according to the jacket, is 'destined to become a classic.' This book, thought useful in many matters of detail, is a disappointment insofar as it attempts a new integration of Soviet history. The monumental work of synthesis remains to be undertaken." R. V. Daniels
Am Hist R 56:891 Jl '51 750w

"This book, the first of three volumes on the history of Soviet Russia, marks a return to the grand manner. Many-volumed history provides adequate scope for the analysis of historical complexity, and here the analysis is of a very high order indeed. The space is deserved and well used. Carr writes in a civilized manner, yet tightly and with a logical organization that makes the most of his opportunities. This deserves the greater praise, in that the author in his preface candidly reveals that he has been puzzled over the definition of his task." Barrington Moore
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:885 S '51 800w

"All in all, this is the best historical treatment of the first years of the Russian Revolution that this reviewer has seen. It should be widely used in every college where students want to learn historical fact rather than current propaganda." Jerome Davis
+ Ann Am Acad 277:267 S '51 450w

Booklist 47:291 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by George Bennett
Canadian Forum 31:21 Ap '51 500w

"Few scholars are as well qualified as E. H. Carr to write a history of the Bolshevik movement. . . Yet this volume is not objective. Mr. Carr has dug so deeply into Communist documents on his subject that he has invested himself not only with a deep personal admiration for Lenin but also with his viewpoint. . . His book is a potentially dangerous one for young students of history especially in view of the fact that it appears to be so impartial, objective, and well-documented." J. B. Sheerin
— + Cath World 173:156 My '51 360w

Reviewed by H. J. Morgenthau
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 11 '51 450w

Current Hist 20:229 Ap '51 100w

Foreign Affairs 29:676 Jl '51 80w

"Not easy reading, but important in its field."
Kirkus 18:742 D 15 '50 170w

"Outstanding work for those readers interested in origin and beginning of Soviet Russia." H. H. Bernt
+ Library J 76:515 Mr 15 '51 140w

Reviewed by Aron Dubitsky
Nation 173:116 Ag 11 '51 600w

Reviewed by A. J. P. Taylor
New Statesman & Nation 40:628 D 16 '50 850w

"What we now have is only a part ('the introductory stage,' Mr. Carr calls it) of a major undertaking. But it has a unity and an interest of its own. . . In reading the book, one has an uneasy feeling that time and again Mr. Carr is passing judgment on historical events and forces on the basis of Lenin's major premises which he has made his own without subjecting them (at least in the present volume) to a critical examination." Michael Karpovich

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 F 4 '51 1350w

Reviewed by G. F. Hudson
N Y Times p7 F 4 '51 1000w
New Yorker 27:106 Mr 24 '51 160w

"Volume I of The Bolshevik Revolution is nothing short of a tour de force—a book which is both vastly informative and profoundly misleading. Three elements in Professor Carr's approach would seem to be responsible for the peculiarities of his interpretation of the Bolshevik Revolution: worshipful admiration for Lenin; manifest reluctance to rely on any but Soviet sources; and, as a corollary, a tendency to attach unwarranted importance to the pronouncements of Soviet leaders and the provisions of ephemeral decrees." M. T. Florinsky + — Pol Sci Q 66:286 Je '51 1500w

Reviewed by C. W. Weinberger
San Francisco Chronicle p14 Mr 11 '51 650w

"Impressive and valuable work... As usual Professor Carr handles his material with deceptively easy grace, and for the most part his tone is one of calm detachment. As a piece of research this is a distinguished performance. It is not, of course, easy reading... In this reviewer's opinion the principal defect of this remarkable volume is its preoccupation with Marxist doctrines and their embodiment in Soviet institutions." F. C. Barghoorn
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:21 Mr 17 '51 700w
School & Society 73:173 Mr 17 '51 20w

"The first volume of Mr. E. H. Carr's projected History of Soviet Russia has long been eagerly awaited, and the expectations formed of it will not be disappointed. . . Even those whose view of the Russian Revolution is (like the present reviewer's) far removed from Mr. Carr's own, who are oppressed, as he is not, with the essential tragedy for Russia and for the world implicit in the transformation of a movement for liberation into the construction of a newer, more far-reaching and more cruel tyranny than the one it replaced; even those who feel that no book that omits this aspect of the matter can ever be wholly satisfactory, cannot but acknowledge the intellectual magnitude of Mr. Carr's achievement." Max Beloff
+ — Spec 184:518 N 17 '50 1050w

"It is impossible within the limits of a review to document fully the overtones and undertones of Mr. Carr's work. So skilful and subtle has his presentation been, so tightly have his reconceptions been woven into the fabric of his sentences and his paragraphs, so carefully have his quotations been chosen, that a completely effective demonstration of this bias would require a dissection, an argument and a restatement of the facts on at least the scale he has chosen for his own work. Doubts arise from the very start."
Times [London] Lit Sup p102 F 16 '51 3600w

CARR, JOHN DICKSON (CARTER DICKSON, pseud). Devil in velvet. 335p $3 Harper 51-10388

"Concerns a professor of history at Cambridge in 1925, who had become obsessed with an incident of the year 1675 when a young wife died of poison. The victim's murderer was never discovered, and the professor had spent years in research on the antique mystery, and become so expert in the customs and manners of the period that he felt that he would return to it and be at home. Finally, he did just that." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51
Bookmark 10:207 Je '51 40w

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:393 Ag '51 250w

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 My 13 '51 370w

"In telling his story, Mr. Carr gives evidence of being a careful student of the Seventeenth Century, but as the plot shows, he has not let research hamper his imagination. He is skillful at recreating the atmosphere of restoration days and at sustaining the reader's interest in Professor Fenton's adventures." E. L. Acken
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 29 '51 260w

"Those who read Mr. Carr's first historical novel, 'The Bride of Newgate,' will be braced now for the breathless pace and ingenious plotting of the second. Yet nobody can fail to be staggered by his casual familiarity with the reign of Charles II. This is more than research. This is addiction, like Professor Fenton's." Richard Match
+ N Y Times p4 Ap 22 '51 450w

"If some of the fantasy details bewilder realistic readers, the murder and the historical action shouldn't, and they're all inter-dependent—and wonderful." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 My 20 '51 70w

"Few students of the gentle art of murder are going to be held by the feeble mystery. The scanty sprinkling of readers who enjoy fantasy will find here no whetstone to appetite. And that great shoal of book buyers who swim avidly toward the historical romance will be repelled by both the above elements as well as the dreary claptrap of the standard cloak-and-sworder." R. E. Roberts
— Sat R of Lit 34:31 Jl 7 '51 240w
Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 160w
Times [London] Lit Sup p725 N 16 '51 110w
Wis Lib Bul 47:165 Je '51

CARR, LOWELL JUILLIARD. Delinquency control. rev ed 591p maps il $4.50 Harper
364.36 Juvenile delinquency 50-9900

"Since the publication of the last edition of this book [Book Review Digest 1941] there has been widespread recognition and state planning to meet the problem of juvenile delinquency and 'World War II not only dramatized juvenile delinquency to many American communities but eventually forced a lot of folks to raise their sights on the whole problem.'—Preface." Booklist

"The author recognized and now attempts to correct some omissions on social action characteristic of his first edition. He also introduces an evaluation of the impact of the recent war on juvenile delinquency, and offers a critique of the relationship between research and delinquency control. . . One weakness which persists is the author's reluctance to devote as much effort to an analysis of the etiology of delinquency as he does to other aspects of the problem." M. L. Barron
+ — Am Soc R 15:834 D '50 250w
Booklist 47:117 N 15 '50

CARR, ROBERT SPENCER. Beyond infinity. 236p $2.75 Fantasy press
51-5971

A group of three novelettes and a short story of the science-fiction variety.

"There's very little in the way of scientific thinking (or even plausibility) in this collection . . . but there's a lot of fun and readability." H. H. Holmes
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 S 16 '51 80w

"A comparatively new writer of science fiction, Robert Carr is a welcome one. Except for his over-precious title story, a tale of the discovery of time travel, the four stories in this volume evidence his humor, his absorption with human values, and his writing skill." V. G.
+ — N Y Times p33 O 7 '51 90w

"You could squeeze the corn from this book and sell it for two bucks a jug any place south of the Mason-Dixon line. Some of the stories are good, though, particularly one called 'The

CARR, R. S.—Continued
Men from Mars,' which deals with a Martian visitor on the White House lawn." Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 5 '51 110w

CARRIER, BLANCHE. Free to grow. 241p $3 Harper
258 Psychology, Pastoral. Psychotherapy 51-11275

"Discusses the need for a church program that contributes to the development of integrated personalities and fosters the individual's spiritual growth. . . Bibliography, index." Bookmark

Bookmark 10:231 Jl '51 20w

"All in all, this book is very much worth reading by anyone who is interested in a 'down to earth' treatment of the program of the church in the light of the more recent findings on personality and character formation. It presents steps in worship that are excellent. Its analysis of what is wrong with the educational program of the church is good. The discussion of ways of learning is fine. It is a book that will prove of great help to persons looking for leads toward revitalizing the program of the church." M. T. Hopper
+ Christian Century 68:1127 O 3 '51 600w

"Its subject matter is both comprehensive and succinct, intelligently presented and stimulating in its reasoned conclusion." A. D. Whitney
+ Crozer Q 28:375 O '51 220w

"A most valuable book for Protestant ministers and other church leaders who are anxious to use the Techniques and points of view of psychotherapy for spiritual ends."
+ Kirkus 19:561 S 15 '51 180w

CARRINGTON, CHARLES EDMUND. British overseas; exploits of a nation of shopkeepers. 1092p il maps $9 Cambridge
942 Great Britain—Colonies, dominions, etc. Voyages and travels [50-9409]
For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"The volume is marred for serious students by an almost complete absence of footnote references where they are needed to answer the reader's queries. Nor is there a bibliography apart from a general acknowledgement, in the preface, of the Cambridge History of the British Empire. It is hardly sufficient to recommend it 'to those who wish to check my references.' Despite these strictures, it is an interesting and comprehensive account of British activity overseas." Howard Robinson
+ — Am Hist R 56:555 Ap '51 850w

"Here is a book to which the student can be referred with safety, and from which the scholar may gleam an occasional fact. It is not likely to conduce to scientific thinking; but it may help Americans to understand at least one of the many traditions that flourish in those countries of the Commonwealth that lie in the temperate zones." W. H. Wickwar
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:1221 D '51 110w

"This is the biggest and best volume setting forth the history of the British Empire and Commonwealth that has yet appeared. There is a grand sweep to it; for it begins with the earliest English voyages in the Middle Ages and comes down to the present day, it is interpretative as well as factual, and it is written in a felicitous style with many apt allusions and quotations. On the whole it is very reliable, and it is remarkable for its understanding." A. L. Burt
+ Ann Am Acad 273:275 Ja '51 420w

Reviewed by A. J. Coleman
Canadian Forum 30:235 Ja '51 750w
Current Hist 20:40 Ja '51 50w
Foreign Affairs 29:679 Jl '51 50w

"In almost eleven hundred well-organized and well-written pages the author has distilled the latest scholarship. The specialist will not always be satisfied with Carrington's treatment of his specialty, but in the main the results are outstanding." S. C. McCulloch
+ J Pol Econ 59:172 Ap '51 850w

Reviewed by R. L. Schuyler
Pol Sci Q 66:614 D '51 600w

CARROLL, MRS RUTH (ROBINSON) and CARROLL, LATROBE. Peanut. 45p col il $1.75 Oxford 51-6939

Picture story book for grades two to four about a very tiny puppy named Peanut, the little boy Donald, and the Great Dane who befriended Peanut when he got lost.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51

"All ages will appreciate the expressive pictures that make the animals so real and loveable." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 28 '51 60w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:406 D '51 70w

"The pictures of the tiny puppy, Peanut, are nothing less than adorable, and the story is a winning one too, although dog-lovers may feel a bit queasy about the size of Peanut, who could sit comfortably on a spool of thread."
+ Kirkus 19:530 S 15 '51 110w

Reviewed by D. M. Blasco
Library J 76:1709 O 15 '51 40w

"In text and pictures the Carrolls make Peanut not only creditable but funny and endearing." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p42 O 7 '51 90w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:172 D 1 '51 80w
Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

CARSE, ROBERT. From the sea and the jungle. 294p $3 Scribner
51-2441

John Michaels, after a career as a rum-runner and gun-smuggler, settled down in a West Indian republic to go straight as a hotel man. When the Germans began sinking American tankers off the coast, Michaels was naturally suspected. The novel shows his efforts to prove his innocence, and the outcome.

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 8 '51 300w
Kirkus 19:158 Mr 15 '51 160w

"Intrigue, Carribbean politics, voodoo, and native customs make this an exciting adventure story. Recommended." W. K. Harrison
+ Library J 76:597 Ap 1 '51 70w

"Mr. Carse has an excellent sense of place and custom which makes his setting, despite its exoticism, completely believable, so that the violence of the action seems natural." E. L. Acken
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 6 '51 300w

"The plot is cluttered with a motley horde of major and minor characters and the style is frequently obscure. The author's effort to create a sort of detective-story suspense by inference rather than direct statement more often clouds than clarifies the narrative. The book is saved, however, by the superb manner in which Mr. Carse succeeds in re-creating the atmosphere of the Caribbean." Henry Cavendish
N Y Times p21 Ap 29 '51 180w

"Anyone looking for a good action story written far better than most such stories will find this novel exactly that." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Je 1 '51 750w

"There is a flavor of Conrad's romanticism and his introspection in Robert Carse's new novel. He has a dramatic story to tell and he is gifted with sufficient imagination to invent plausible characters and the lush background of an historically violent Caribbean is land which might or might not be Haiti." Harrison Smith

+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 My 5 '51 700w

CARSON, RACHEL LOUISE. The sea around us; drawings by Katherine L. Howe. 230p $3.50 Oxford

551.46 Ocean 51-10430

Based on geological evidence this book is a study of the processes that formed the earth, the moon, and the oceans. The part played by the wind, sun, and the rotation of the earth on the making of the tides and their importance in regulating climate is also described. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Harvey Breit
Atlantic 188:84 Ag '51 360w

Booklist 47:301; 323 My 1 '51; My 15 '51

+ Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 40w

"This enthralling and informative story ends with a list of suggestions for further reading, which many readers will find themselves impelled to use in what is surely the ultimate tribute to any writer. The Sea Around Us is a pleasure to read and recommend without reserve." John Nicol

+ Canadian Forum 31:211 D '51 300w

Reviewed by Fritz Leiber
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 1 '51 300w

"Rachel Carson has achieved that rare, all but unique, phenomenon—a literary work about the sea that is comparable with the best, yet offends neither the natural scientist nor the poet." H. B. Ellis

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 5 '51 950w

Reviewed by O. D. Hormel
Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 3 '52 700w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Reviewed by Philip Burnham
+ Commonweal 54:387 Jl 27 950w

"A wonderfully effective little volume about the world's last frontier of mystery and darkness, the great oceans, in which the author proves herself both scientist and stylist."

+ Kirkus 19:285 Je 1 '51 160w

"The authoritative and skillful treatment of the subject should attract many readers. . . Miss Carson has avoided both the textbook style and the tendency to stress the strange and dramatic. Particularly noteworthy is her description of how the earth acquired its oceans, as based on modern geological theories." J. E. Brown

+ Library J 76:958 Je 1 '51 140w

"Scientifically, 'The Sea Around Us' has its shortcomings, but it would be hard to find a style, a sensitivity, a balancing of detail more perfectly suited for the evoking of the sea." Charles Spielberger

+ — Nation 173:96 Ag 4 '51 550w

"The book is not as attractive to look at as it is to read; there are hardly any illustrations, the representation on the cover is quite without meaning and the typography of the list of contents is so freakish as to make this page not only ugly but the most difficult to read in the whole volume. These physical blemishes are far outweighed, however, by an admirable list of reading materials and an excellent index." J. S. Colman

+ — New Repub 125:20 Ag 20 '51 220w

"The story of the sea with its islands and mountains and depths and of man's attempts to solve its mystery and exploit its treasures has been told before and often. But Rachel Carson has made of it one of the most beautiful books of our time. Her skill and the basic certainty of her knowledge has made it possible for her to write with simplicity, rhythm and sweeping force." Francesca La Monte

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Jl 15 '51 900w

"It is written with precision more than sufficient for its purpose, and its style and imagination make it a joy to read. . . The product of Miss Carson's learning is a book packed with information expressed in charming language." J. N. Leonard

+ N Y Times p1 Jl 1 '51 950w

"Miss Carson happens to be one of those very rare scientists who can also write magnificently, and what she knows and tells her readers about the world of the oceans is some of the most fascinating material any scientist ever put into layman's language." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Jl 3 '51 100w

"Rare indeed is the individual who can present a comprehensive and well-balanced picture of such a complex entity as the sea in an easy and fluent style and in terms anyone can understand. Rachel Carson is such an individual. Many books have been written on the sea, most of them by scholars with a very detailed knowledge of some aspect of oceanography but with a limited knowledge of popular presentation. Miss Carson's book is different." A. H. Clark

+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 Jl 7 '51 800w

Springf'd Republican p6D Jl 8 '51 90w

Time 58:97 Jl 16 '51 500w

Wis Lib Bul 47:183 Jl '51

Reviewed by Daniel Merriman
Yale R n s 41:119 autumn '51 430w

CARTER, ERNEST FRANK. Model railway encyclopedia. 496p il $3.95 Anglobooks, 475 5th Av, N.Y. 17

625 Railroads—Models

"Covers practically all aspects of this subject such as station layout, track making, tunnel building, signaling and operating. The author was formerly the editor of The Model Railway Constructor. He is a Britisher, and most of the models illustrated represent British railway stock. Also the terminology is British. These will hardly be obstacles to the earnest American model railroader." Library J

Booklist 47:377 Jl 1 '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1132 Jl '51 80w

CARTER, HODDING, and RAGUSIN, ANTHONY. Gulf Coast country. (Am folkways) 247p $3.50 Duell

917.6 South—Description and travel. South —History 51-10125

This volume in the American folkways series deals with the history and the manners and customs of the inhabitants of the Gulf Coast, a region that "extends about one hundred fifty miles from east to west and penetrates no more than five miles inland from the sea. . . It can be bounded on the east and on the west by rivers. One is the Pearl River which descends from the Mississippi uplands to enter the sound above the marshes of Lake Borgne, which is part of the eastern boundary of Louisiana and Mississippi. The other is the Perdido which separates Alabama from Florida and marks near its mouth the place where the darker waters of the western Gulf become a clear aquamarine." (p.5)

Booklist 47:271 Ap 1 '51

Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 30w

"Every one of the chapters is terse but pithy. And each, a bright piece, fits into the picturesque, informative whole; so that, by the time one reaches the last paragraf, one has a feeling of knowing the gulf coast, background, and forefacts, soul and body, as well as—perhaps better than—a native habitat." E. F. Murphy

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ap 1 '51 500w

"This is an honest, plain-speaking book, well indexed, full of lure and information for those contemplating riding down the Spanish Trail.

CARTER, HODDING—Continued
It is a serious oversight that a detailed map of Gulf Coast Country could not have been substituted for the vague, unimportant end papers." T. M. Longstreth

+ — Christian Science Monitor p9 Ap 7 '51 330w

"A contagious quality pervades it all in one of the best of the regional books."

+ Kirkus 19:43 Ja 15 '51 240w

"The authors chosen for the twenty-third title of the American Folkways series know their subject and are enthusiastic about it. The approach is atmospheric rather than guide-bookish; the reader must look elsewhere for directions on which road to take and who built the big houses and when. . . All the kinds of readers who want the feel of the country, present and past, need look no further." E. H. Smith

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 My 6 '51 750w

Reviewed by Frances Gaither

N Y Times p6 Je 3 '51 500w

CARTER, ROSS S. Those devils in baggy pants [ed. by Boyd G. Carter]. 299p $3 Appleton

940.548173 U.S. Army. 82d airborne division. 504th parachute infantry. World war, 1939-1945—Personal narratives, American 51-12278

Personal narrative of an American soldier who served with the 82nd Airborne Division and came out of the war one of three survivors of the original platoon, only to die of cancer two years later. The manuscript has been edited and prepared for publication by his brother.

"Those Devils in Baggy Pants is the racy, rough-and-tumble, idiomatic story of one battalion of the 504th Parachute Infantry." Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic 188:74 O '51 450w

Booklist 48:46 O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:30 N '51 30w

Reviewed by C. W. E. Morris

Christian Science Monitor p9 N 7 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:420 Ag 1 '51 180w

"Although most of the original company failed to survive the war, the author has through the amalgam of devotion and sincerity brought them back to life for the reader. A truly fitting memorial to a fighting group, by an author who did his research first hand (holder of the silver and bronze stars). Recommended." A. J. Gaines

+ Library J 76:1416 S 15 '51 110w

Reviewed by Marcus Duffield

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 S 23 '51 550w

"This is not intended to be a sentimentalized or humorous yarn (although there is sentiment and humor in it), and no artificial coloring is given to the lusty cast of characters. There isn't a Brooklyn accent in the lot and even Carlton, the big Texas cowboy, goes through his lines without a drawl." R. D. Goldburgh

+ N Y Times p16 O 14 '51 350w

"I don't know whether or not this is one of the 'great books to come out of any war.' That's a pretty large order. But it is a hard-hitting book, an honest book and, above all, an utterly convincing one." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 25 '51 800w

Reviewed by E. J. Fitzgerald

Sat R of Lit 34:46 N 24 '51 240w

Springf'd Republican p12C N 18 '51 150w

CARTWRIGHT, WILLIAM. Plays and poems; ed. with introductions and notes by G. Blakemore Evans. 861p il $13.50 Univ. of Wis. press

822 51-62074

William Cartwright was an English writer of comedies and tragic-comedies who lived from 1611 to 1643. This book consists of his little-known poems, and four of his plays: The lady-errant; The royal slave; The ordinary; The siege. The editor has written a biographical and critical introduction. Bibliography. Index.

"G. Blackmore Evans in his seventy-five page introduction, his prefaces to separate works, his seventy pages of textual notes and detailed analytical index, produces Cartwright with both scholarly accuracy and critical overtones. . . After the seventeenth century, Cartwright was read sporadically. Coleridge knew him; Swinburne pilloried him as 'that typical Oxonicule.' However, Evans' book preserves a figure both tendentious and interesting for itself and its age." E. C. Dunn

+ N Y Times p14 Je 10 '51 350w

"In editing Cartwright Mr. Evans indicates that historical and bibliographical problems are his essential concern. That is just as well, since a critical and interpretive study of Cartwright would dwarf his importance out of all proportion to the labor which would go into the compilation." S. M.

Sat R of Lit 34:61 Je 16 '51 350w

"Professor Evans has provided in this large volume a sound edition of the works of Cartwright, and much more information than has been hitherto available about his career. He has collected a deal of material about the conception and production of Cartwright's four plays, has set up a careful text, and has annotated the works adequately. The volume ought to find a place in all collections of minor literary figures of the seventeenth century."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:236 S '51 140w

CARY, JOYCE. Mister Johnson. 261p $3 Harper 51-12810

The central character of this novel of Africa is "Mister Johnson" a gangling Negro clerk. He is deeply attached to all things English without realizing their real significance. Childishly confident of his own abilities he goes gaily on until he has lost his job, his wife, and finally his life.

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic 189:85 Ja '52 480w

Booklist 48:65 O 15 '51

Bookmark 11:33 N '51 20w

"'Mister Johnson,' for all its richness of comic and satiric invention, is not up to Mr. Cary's best work. The clerk is perhaps too simple a character to keep the book's energy from flagging. At all events, one has to know Johnson only briefly to lose interest in him." Milton Crane

Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 O 14 '51 450w

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 3 '52 450w

"Cary is successful in making this irrepressible child of the bush an altogether human and consistent personality. Considering the material with which he works, it is a real achievement to put his hero down the middle between the noble savage of the sentimentalists and the servile clown of the Kipling school, with only an occasional slip in either direction . . . This breathless whirl through jungle society and the outposts of an empire gives Cary a chance to display most of the gifts that make him one of our most vigorous and creative novelists." P. V. Farrell

+ Commonweal 55:45 O 19 '51 440w

"Exquisitely written, salted with irony and sardonic humor, this is for the Cary followers who delight in telling off-beats."

+ Kirkus 19:408 Ag 1 '51 260w

"While the book is unquestionably a worthy piece of writing, it does not compare in this reader's opinion with such later works as To Be A Pilgrim and The Horse's Mouth." C. J. Roth

Library J 76:1563 O 1 '51 140w

"'Mister Johnson' is slight in scale, and Mr. Cary has not achieved his later competence; but the perceptiveness, the humor, and the compassion of his later books are all present in this early one." Margaret Marshall

+ Nation 173:355 O 27 '51 750w

Reviewed by A. L. Goodman
New Repub 125:21 D 24 '51 460w

"It is rare that a novel about a poet really makes one believe that he ever wrote poems. But 'Mister Johnson' does, partly because many are quoted, but chiefly because Johnson himself is so blithe a spirit." James Hilton
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 O 14 '51 900w

"This is a more old-fashioned art than James', a charming art as practiced by Joyce Cary, a refreshingly relaxed one. And it returns to fiction that kind of immediacy of experience that the most distinguished novelists of the twentieth century have more and more come to regard as of secondary importance. Mr. Cary's work makes us wonder, as it makes us live." Mark Schorer
+ N Y Times p1 O 7 '51 450w

New Yorker 27:123 O 6 '51 150w

"Joyce Cary's 'Mister Johnson,' first published in England in 1939 and just issued here, is the best and the most profound of his earlier novels which emerged from his experiences as a British Colonial official stationed in a remote station in West Africa after the First World War. . . The book is beautifully written, and it has a subtlety, an ironic humor that do not appear in Mr. Cary's later books." Harrison Smith
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 O 13 '51 750w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p28A N 25 '51 290w

"Cary knows what he is writing about. During World War I he fought through the Cameroons campaign as an officer in a Nigerian regiment, later became magistrate of a district deep in the bush. Of the four novels that have come out of his African experience, Mister Johnson is the best, at once humorous and sympathetic, fresh and exuberant as Negro gossip."
+ Time 58:118 O 8 '51 700w

Wis Lib Bul 47:254 N '51

CASAMASSA, JACK V., ed. Jet aircraft power systems; principles and maintenance. 338p il $5.50; text ed $4.25 McGraw

629.13435 Jet propulsion 51-126

"An introductory textbook designed for men who are preparing for employment as mechanics on jet aircraft engines. Descriptions of the types of such engines and of their component parts comprise about two-thirds of the book. Only about one-third is devoted to inspection, maintenance and overhaul operations, probably because the working mechanic will have to become familiar also with the manufacturers' engine manuals. There are numerous special features of value to the beginner, including numerous illustrations, study questions, references to other reading, and a glossary of jet terms." N Y New Tech Bks

Booklist 47:215 F 15 '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:1 Ja '51

CASE, WILLIAM RICHARD. Bright, bright water. 304p $3 Appleton
51-12024

"Against a background of social decay, boredom, and heat Mr. Case sets the love story of Robert Mayo, a disenchanted writer turned hotel manager, and Trent Snowden who has lost all her illusions but one powerful one which binds her to the neurotic dipsomaniac, Hank Stephenson. Robert and Trent are relatively uncontaminated and observant members of the American colony [on the Caribbean island of St Lô]." Sat R of Lit

"Mr. Case is a competent writer with a good sense of dialog and you'll probably be hearing from him again and to more effect." Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 O 7 '51 180w

Kirkus 19:359 Jl 15 '51 180w

"The style is inept, the metaphors strained, and in general The Bright, Bright Water is a great, great bore." E. F. Walbridge
— Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 60w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 N 11 '51 230w

Reviewed by E. W. Kenworthy
N Y Times p10 S 2 '51 200w

"William Case has collected together in this first novel a group of varied characters, some convincing and some less so. One cannot in conscience recommend the book as a good novel, but the author can be commended for handling the locale with conviction." R. T.
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p27 O 28 '51 200w

"In his first novel the author paints a tropical scene with deft, bold strokes and sustains the reader's interest with the mounting tensions and conflicts of his characters. . . Unhappily, Mr. Case lets the reader down toward the end." Ray Pierre
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:52 S 8 '51 350w

CASEY, ROBERT JOSEPH, and DOUGLAS, WILLIAM ARCHER SHOLTO. Lackawanna story. 223p il $4 McGraw

385 Delaware, Lackawanna and western railroad company 51-2345

Covers the first hundred years of the Delaware, Lackawanna and western railroad. Includes some historical material about some of the towns thru which the railroad passes. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

Reviewed by Merritt Williams
Churchman 165:16 N 15 '51 100w

Kirkus 19:17 Ja 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by W. A. Howe
N Y Times p10 My 27 '51 180w

Reviewed by Ruth Teiser
San Francisco Chronicle p19 Je 17 '51 550w

CASEY, ROBERT SABERT, and PERRY, JAMES WHITNEY, eds. Punched cards; their applications to science and industry. 506p il $10 Reinhold

651.26 Punched card systems 51-12441

"An outgrowth, though not the product, of the ACS Punched Card Committee, this compilation of almost 30 papers on the various methods and applications of both notched cards and punched cards is the most exhaustive treatment of these subjects to date." Chem & Eng N

"This book should serve as a useful reference tool for the serious student of the use of mechanical devices for the organization of knowledge." R. R. Shaw
+ Chem & Eng N 29:5076 N 26 '51 250w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 77:60 Ja 1 '52 140w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:76 S '51

CASS, MARION T. Speech habilitation in cerebral palsy. 212p $3 Columbia univ. press

616.83 Speech. Paralysis, Cerebral 51-10595

"This textbook opens with a brief review of the literature on cerebral palsy, and turns next, in a chapter titled Fundamentals, to a brief definition of cerebral palsy and a discussion of its etiology. The remaining chapters deal with therapeutic techniques recommended by the author." U S Quarterly Bk R

School and Society 73:286 My 5 '51 40w

"As a whole, the book presents a worthwhile summary of problems in cerebral palsy and a guide to further inquiry into an area which, as the author points out, justly deserves attention."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:304 S '51 250w

CASSERLEY, JULIAN VICTOR LANGMEAD. The Christian in philosophy. 266p $2.75 Scribner

109 Philosophy—History. Philosophy and religion. Christianity—Philosophy 51-10002

"This is an . . . analysis of philosophy as it relates, or does not relate, to Christian faith. The first portion is a re-interpretation of the history of philosophy from the standpoint of Kierkegaardian existentialism. . . Part II deals with the present opportunity of the Christian in philosophy. There can be such a project as Christian philosophy as distinguished from theology and apologetics." (Churchman) Index.

Reviewed by V. C. Aldrich
Christian Century 68:1408 D 5 '51 390w

"This book will awaken liberal and neo-orthodox alike to the place which philosophy must hold in the minds of all Christian thinkers." R. C. Miller
+ Churchman 165:15 Jl '51 230w

"Mr. Casserley's stimulating book should be in every theological library."
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ag 25 '49 210w

"Casserley's own synthesis will be found equally unacceptable to either Barthians or pure rationalists, but it will certainly prove illuminating to everyone else." Reinhold Niebuhr
N Y Times p7 My 20 '51 650w

"The book is in parts obscure as well as full of interest . . . but even if we disagree with it, it is a book with which it is well worth disagreeing and well worth discovering as exactly as possible why we disagree."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p7 Je 17 '49 700w

CATER, MRS RUTH COOLEY. Tree trails and hobbies. 324p il $3.50 Doubleday

582.16 Trees—U.S. 50-11688

Studies and observations on trees, including characteristics, habitat, appearance, fruits, etc. Useful for nature study classes. The author considers herself a "tree hobbyist" and her observations will be of interest to others like-minded. Glossary. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:129 D 1 '50

"This is a hand lens work bringing everything close up, consequently it lacks the sweep and forest grandeur of Peattie's 'Natural History of Trees.' . . Its flat prose, folksy conversations, and the habit of calling everything a trail—seed trails, bud trails, name trails—detract from enjoyment. But the work itself is immensely worth while. Anyone with the slightest interest in trees will profit by reading this book." T. M. L.
+ — Christian Science Monitor p9 D 23 '50 360w

"An excellent out of doors hobby book."
+ Kirkus 18:545 S 1 '50 110w

San Francisco Chronicle p11 Ja 14 '51 170w

CATLIN, GEORGE EDWARD GORDON. In the path of Mahatma Gandhi. 332p $3.50 Regnery

B or 92 Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand 50-10741

"This book is a quest to find an answer to something which concerns all of us: By what rule should a man in these years best live his life? It is a piece of autobiography, a travel diary, a record of this quest in India. It is the estimate by one traveller concerning how far Mahatma Gandhi gives an answer to the searcher. As such it necessarily becomes in part a life-review and biography of the Mahatma himself." (Foreword) Index.

"Every reader mindful of the problems involved will follow this discussion with rapt attention; that many will be helped by it is more doubtful. Mr. Catlin gives the impression of being too much troubled by doubts to convince other people. The most powerful advocates do not bring a divided mind into court." Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p39 D 3 '50 270w

Current Hist 20:105 F '51 70w

Foreign Affairs 29:503 Ap '51 20w

"Catlin's book is a treasure of insight and a joy to read. Maybe it commends itself because it articulates one's own criticism of the ethos of the Letters, while appropriating their very salutary truth." Alexander Miller
+ J Religion 31:223 Jl '51 350w

"The author lucidly interprets the effects of Gandhi's policies on occidental cultures. His concluding estimate is well propounded: that Gandhi, despite his political and legalistic experiences, was essentially a theologian." H. E. Wedeck
+ N Y Times p19 D 17 '50 210w

Reviewed by Holden Furber
Sat R of Lit 34:45 Ag 4 '51 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p4 Ja 1 '49 180w

CATTELL, JAQUES, ed. See American men of science

CATTON, BRUCE. Mr. Lincoln's army. 372p maps $3.75 Doubleday

973.7 U.S.—History—Civil war. McClellan, George Brinton 51-9468

"This is the story of Lincoln's famous Army of the Potomac during the early years of the Civil War, when it was under the command of General George B. McClellan. . . It is an account, gathered from diaries and letters and published reports, of the ordinary foot soldiers." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 40w

Reviewed by Walter Trohan
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 F 18 '51 650w

Kirkus 18:744 D 15 '50 120w

"Lucidly written and competently put together, this is a splendid example of popular interpretative history and deserves a wide audience." Oscar Handlin
+ Nation 172:255 Mr 17 '51 900w

"It would be misleading to suggest that this lively and dramatic book is merely a rehash of the hackneyed McClellan controversy. What Mr. Catton thinks of McClellan emerges clearly enough before he is through with him, but it emerges as a by-product of the story of the Army of the Potomac. . . Mr. Catton's book is so good it may seem carping to call attention to some minor defects. The organization is confusing, and it is to be hoped that in future volumes Mr. Catton will prefer chronology to drama. Even though Mr. Catton's interests are in narrative rather than analysis, it would be well to exploit, far more than he has done, the immense body of monographic literature. . . The system of annotation—if it can be called that—is faulty." H. S. Commager
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 F 11 '51 2350w

"Mr. Catton tells the story in journalistic order, beginning with Pope's fiasco at Second Bull Run, then going back to pick up the narrative of McClellan's rise, which may be confusing to those not familiar with the story, especially since he is parsimonious with dates. Otherwise, Mr. Catton writes history as it should be written for Americans of today. He has the rare gift of doing enormous research and then presenting it in what is almost a motion picture in color of march, camp and field, with brief, vivid closeups of generals. Yet all is kept within a structure of sound analysis of the causes and meaning of events." A. F. Harlow
+ N Y Times p23 F 25 '51 500w

"Mr. Catton takes the reader right into the Army of the Potomac, tells him what bivouac life was like, describes the soldiers' feelings toward the war and notes what they ate, how their weapons worked, what their jokes were, and what they said when they swore. An admirably realized piece of work."

+ New Yorker 26:105 F 10 '51 200w

Reviewed by J. G. Randall
Sat R of Lit 34:11 F 10 '51 750w

Springf'd Republican p6D Ap 8 '51 440w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:162 Je '51 220w

CAUDILL, REBECCA (MRS JAMES STERLING AYARS). Up and down the river; pictures by Decie Merwin. 115p $2 Winston 51-10371

Two little girls, aged six and eight, spend a happy summer trying to get rich, in their Kentucky mountain home. The time is some forty years ago. Companion story to Happy Little Family, and Schoolhouse in the Woods (Book Review Digest 1948 and 1949).

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51

"Little girls will plead to have this story of Bonnie and her pets read over and over by a mother—or grandmother—sure to be equally charmed by its warmth and gayety, while beginner readers will find it just their size." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 20 '51 160w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:246 Jl '51 100w

"Simple, well written, and wholesome story. . . Recommended." L. E. Cathon
+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 70w

"The charming sketches exactly suit the story. The type is rather small, which probably hints at reading it aloud to children Bonnie's age. If they like it, go back to Bonnie's other books, 'Happy Little Family' and 'Schoolhouse in the Woods,' which have the gentleness and happy realism about a simpler country life that we find our over-excited youngsters often love." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Je 10 '51 200w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
N Y Times p12 Jl 8 '51 110w

Sat R of Lit 34:37 Ag 18 '51 90w

CAVANNA, BETTY. See Headley, E. C.

CAVE, SYDNEY. The Christian way; a study of the New Testament ethics in relation to present problems. 280p $3.75 Philosophical lib.
171.1 Christian ethics. Bible. New Testament—Ethics 51-10173

"The book falls into three parts. The first, after a brief introductory chapter of diagnosis, treats of the ideal of behaviour portrayed in the New Testament. . . The second part of the book is concerned with the vexed questions of the relation of Christian ethics to ethics in general and of the motives and sanctions of Christian ethics. . . Finally, in the third part Dr. Cave discusses some of the urgent and perplexing problems that confront the modern world, the problems that arise whenever the Christian concept of unselfish love as the bond of all true community comes into conflict with the violently self-regarding biological urges which are an essential part of the make-up of the natural man." (Times [London] Lit Sup) Index

"A significant feature of Principal Cave's book is its severe strictures on the theories of Barth and Brunner at several points; but he has kept the chief point of weakness in their positions, namely, the isolation of Christian ethics from philosophical ethics. What he offers is really a halfway house toward a method that holds high promise of bringing us out of the moral and spiritual chaos of our times." R. E. Gilmore
Christian Century 68:1279 N 7 '51 1200w

"This is a theological approach to Christian ethics, and it is a noteworthy addition to the literature of the subject." F. J. Moore
+ Churchman 165:16 Ag '51 280w

"It is one of the more hopeful signs of the times that thinking men and women who see how far adrift the world is morally are beginning to ask themselves whether the root of the whole trouble is not the lack of religion. To all such Dr. Cave's book will give welcome help and guidance." T. W. M.
+ Manchester Guardian p5 D 28 '49 650w

"All in all, it is a courageous and encouraging treatment of a perplexing and difficult set of problems; and the secret of its success is that the author never loses sight of his central convictions."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p3 Ap 7 '50 750w

CEDER, GEORGIANA DORCAS (ANA DOR, pseud). Ann of Bethany; il. by Helen Torrey. 95p $2 Abingdon-Cokesbury
51-9908

About a little girl of Bethany, at the time of the birth of Christ. Ann sees the three wise men, encounters King Herod's spies, and warns Joseph and Mary of their danger, in this story for grades three to six.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

"Tender story, told with beautiful simplicity, by the author of 'Ethan, the Shepherd Boy' [Book Review Digest 1948]. Understandingly she writes of the way the simple people of that day lived and, with appealing characters, makes the time and setting vivid for young readers. The lovely pictures add to the book's appeal." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 Mr 18 '51 240w

"The serene beauty in text and illustrations is appropriate for this charming story." M. M. Gantt
+ Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Mr 18 '51 30w

"The simplicity and dignity of Hebrew village life, the hospitality of the people, and the respect given older members of a family are shown skilfully and without too much emphasis. It is an exceptionally good book to read aloud."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 Je 9 '51 150w

Wis Lib Bul 47:191 Jl '51

CERAM, C. W., pseud. See Marek, K. W.

CERMINARA, GINA. Many mansions. 304p $3.75 Sloane
129.4 Cayce, Edgar. Reincarnation 50-11101

"Miss Cerminara has studied the meticulously kept records of the late Edgar Cayce, considered by some to be the 'greatest American psychic of our time.' (He figured also in Thomas Sugrue's biography, 'There Is a River'). Cayce's forte was the diagnosing of puzzling and incurable ailments, often at great distance from the patient. He also gave thousands of 'life readings,' through which, purportedly, the nature and purpose of reincarnation were revealed." San Francisco Chronicle

Reviewed by Lorine Pruette
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Mr 11 '51 600w

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ja 21 '51 240w

CERVANTES SAAVEDRA, MIGUEL DE. Portable Cervantes; tr. and ed. with an introd. and notes by Samuel Putnam. 854p $2.50 Viking 863.32 51-7568

Contains a "reading version" of Don Quixote condensed by the editor from his own translation of the novel; two "Exemplary novels"

CERVANTES—Continued
complete; Cervantes' farewell to life called Foot in the Stirrup; and an introduction by the editor.

Booklist 48:103 N 15 '51

Kirkus 19:410 Ag 1 '51 80w

"Mr. Putnam, who died shortly after the book was finished, has provided an interesting critical introduction, recapitulating the long literary history of 'Don Quixote' and attempting a modern evaluation of that controversial and much misunderstood masterpiece."

+ New Yorker 27:151 O 13 '51 90w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 25 '51 210w

Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 170w

CHALLIS, GEORGE, pseud. See Faust, F.

CHALMERS, ALLAN KNIGHT. They shall be free [introd. by Walter White]. 255p $3 Doubleday

343 Scottsboro case 51-10010

The head of the Scottsboro Defense committee tells the inside of the case, including letters and documents in his account. Index.

Booklist 47:303 My 1 '51

Kirkus 19:89 F 1 '51 150w

"The real value of this enthralling narrative lies in its explicit and implicit interpretation of Alabama society from 1931 to 1950 and in its analysis of the forces within and without this society that achieved the ultimate victory for justice." R. W. Logan

+ Nation 173:175 S 1 '51 800w

"Now that the last of the 'Scottsboro Boys' is free and the committee's file complete, Dr. Chalmers brings its contents into the light. The result is this book, a case history which bears upon the generic struggle of man to realize himself and his brotherhood. It might also serve as a handbook of tactics and deportment in these matters." Tarleton Collier

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R Ap 1 '51 1100w

"A sober yet moving recital."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:185 Je '51 330w

CHALMERS, BRUCE. Structure and mechanical properties of metals. 132p il $3.50 Wiley

620.17 Metals 51-5798

"Explanation of the physical structure of metals and the consequent behavior of metals when subjected to heat treatment and forces that tend to deform the metal. No mathematics is used other than a few graphs, but some familiarity with physical and chemical concepts and terminology has been assumed." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 48:44 O 1 '51

"The work is an excellent first book for reading at home by persons not trained in metallurgy but whose work requires some understanding of why metals behave as they do." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:1707 O 15 '51 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:74 S '51

CHAMBERLAIN, KATHERINE MCFARLANE. Introduction to the science of photography. 292p il col pl $6.50; college ed $4.75 Macmillan

770 Photography 51-530

"Although this book will undoubtedly find some use as a college textbook, it is primarily a nontechnical explanation of photography for mature amateurs. The reader is introduced both to the physics and the chemistry of the subject, but he is not expected to have had preliminary education in either physics or chemistry. The principles, types, advantages and disadvantages of the chief photographic instruments, such as cameras and exposure meters, are explained. In the case of cameras, the author has supplied a useful question-and-answer guide to the selection of a personal camera. There are four chapters on color photography." Library J

Booklist 47:290 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Robert Cromie

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ap 8 '51 120w

Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"The book can be recommended to anyone—except professional specialists in photography—who wishes to understand photographic methods and their basic principles." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:521 Mr 15 '51 140w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:28 Mr '51

CHAMBERLAIN, NEIL WOLVERTON. Collective bargaining. 534p $6 McGraw

331.116 Collective bargaining 51-2201

"The author, associate professor of economics and assistant director of the Labor Management Center at Yale, has brought together in one well organized volume the 'results of some of the more important works on the subject.' He has presented collective bargaining from a developmental or historical angle. Wherever he has had occasion to deal with theories of the labor movement, he has skilfully summarized the best thinking on the subject." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Robert Dubin

Am Soc R 16:581 Ag '51 320w

"A useful and important addition to the literature on collective bargaining, for use by students and technicians, but not for the general reader, the union member or the representative of management. . . Valuable footnotes and the examples of a grievance procedure and a collective bargaining agreement add to the excellence of this well-balanced, unbiased text and reference book." D. K. Oko

+ Library J 76:872 My 15 '51 180w

"Mr. Chamberlain, who can write clearly, easily, and pungently—to judge from his other work and his background (he is an ex-newspaperman)—has chosen to write Collective Bargaining in a heavy 'textbooky' style. Unless the reader has been weaned on professorial writing, he will have to put more than average effort into Mr. Chamberlain's studied presentation. But that effort will be well worth while." Lawrence Stessin

+ — Management R 40:376 Je '51 850w

CHAMBERLAIN, SAMUEL. Salem interiors; two centuries of New England taste and decoration; il. by [the author]. 176p $6 Hastings house

747.88 Furniture. Architecture, American. Salem, Massachusetts—Historic houses, etc. 50-10950

Interior views of some fifty-two Salem, Massachusetts, houses, dating between 1651 and 1847. Brief descriptive text for each picture. "Mr. Chamberlain gives two sound reasons for his choice of Salem homes to exemplify two centuries of New England taste and decoration. The first is that many Salem houses 'retain intact' the furniture purchased by their original builders. The second, that Salem was not only the home of America's greatest architectural woodcarver, Samuel McIntire, but it has an almost complete monopoly of his work." (San Francisco Chronicle) Index.

Bookmark 10:166 Ap '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51

"This is a book for the homemaker as well as the professional decorator." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 Mr 4 '51 190w

"Mr. Chamberlain with the assistance of his wife photographed fifty-two Salem houses and buildings as well as their interiors and has produced a remarkable little guide to Salem architecture and decoration." R. L. Howell

+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 Je 2 '51 400w

"In his new book Samuel Chamberlain, so well known for his excellent photography, pictures not only the exteriors of these lovely old houses but the interiors and furnishings so well photographed that details of carving, draperies, wall papers, and the beauties of heirloom china and glass are clearly discernible." Ethel Dexter

+ Springf'd Republican p8C F 18 '51 420w

CHAMBERLIN, WILLIAM HENRY. America's second crusade. 372p $3.75 Regnery

940.532 World war, 1939-1945—Diplomatic history. World war, 1939-1945—U.S. 50-10082

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"Those who see almost nothing good in American foreign policy during the last two decades will welcome this work by a seasoned observer of the international scene as a brilliant contribution to historical revisionism. Those who feel that responsibility for the tragic turn of world affairs lies mainly outside of Washington will classify Chamberlin with Beard, Morgenstern, Barnes, and other spokesmen of the new disillusionment. The charges which fill Mr. Chamberlin's pages are indeed formidable ones, and should be seriously considered, however extreme they may appear." N. D. Palmer

Am Pol Sci R 45:265 Mr '51 460w

Reviewed by F. L. Schuman

Ann Am Acad 273:205 Ja '51 420w

"The author's enumeration of our War President's costly blunders and duplicities forms a valuable contribution to the knowledge and understanding of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomacy and will probably do more to damage his reputation than any number of vituperative attacks."

Cath World 172:319 Ja '51 100w

"Mr. Chamberlin writes, it seems to me, with so little prejudice that it may be fairly said that he has none. He seldom makes a derogatory statement concerning anyone without documenting its factual content from an entirely objective source or from the writings of someone whose prejudices, if any, would be in the other direction." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 68:242 F 21 '51 1200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p5 Mr '51

Foreign Affairs 29:321 Ja '51 60w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:50 Mr '51 300w

CHAMBERS'S encyclopaedia [1950; managing ed, Mrs M. D. Law]. 15v il pl maps $195 Oxford

032 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 50-9185

"This is a completely new edition of a famous old encyclopedia, first published in parts between 1859 and 1868. The last previous edition of Chambers's appeared in 1935 and is now out of print. The new Chambers's was 'planned, produced, and printed in Great Britain.' . . 'The new Chambers's . . . comprises a limited number of long main articles, a substantial number of shorter articles describing in greater detail the principal points of the main articles and a large number of brief descriptive entries. The whole work is made immediately accessible by a full index, a high degree of sub-division of articles and ample cross-references'—Preface. A classified list of most of these articles appears in the index volume, showing the contents of the work under subjects. . . Plates are clear. A generous number (56) are in color, and there are 'more than 550 half-tone plates.' There are said to be 3,500 drawings." Subscription Bks Bul

"Not only are all the chief contributions initialled but the writers are listed, volume by volume, giving the quickest reference to the authority from whom the advice sought is being obtained. Another well-thought-out feature is the standardisation of certain classes of article in which different types of fact are dealt with in a recognisable order, as an aid to easy comparison. A well-indexed world atlas is included, and the 5,000 illustrations are as much to be admired for their relevance to the matter in hand as for the handsome manner of their reproduction." H. D. N.

+ Manchester Guardian p5 Ap 20 '50 600w

"The encyclopaedia is easy to find one's way about in; the articles on the main subjects are satisfyingly long and, where one can judge, at least adequate and often much more; the illustrations are very good indeed; only the binding is horrid. The real test of course will come with day-to-day use. Meanwhile, one can perceive, behind the whole conception of the work, the figure, potent still even if a fiction, of the ideal educated layman; and one can say, to descend to an altogether lower level, that it is an enchanting series of volumes to browse in, for acquiring perfectly useless but all the same pleasing information." Walter Allen

+ New Statesman & Nation 39:547 My 13 '50 2100w

"While I am above finding fault with these esteemed but improvable tools of research, I may add that I should also like to see in the preface of all such works a terminal date indicating when the copy closed. It would help in dates. For example, Chambers give no death date for Charles Evans Hughes, who died two years before the publication of the work. I know publishers like to lengthen the span of their products by dimming its origin in time, but as regards encyclopedias the user comes first and is (I hope) always right." Jacques Barzun

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 2 '51 800w

"An enormous amount of planning must have gone into its preparation, and great praise is due to those responsible for its conception and accomplishment in the exceptionally difficult conditions of post-war publishing. The length and eminence of the contributors' names show that a search has been made not simply for scholars, but for scholars who have an established reputation for the graceful and lucid presentation of their knowledge." Edward Hodgkin

+ Spec 184:584 Ap 28 '50 800w

"Chambers's Encyclopaedia, new edition, will be of primary usefulness to British libraries and readers. Although it is neither as detailed nor as comprehensive as its editors intended and lacks coverage in some subjects, it is in reality a new work and is generally free of obsolete material. It is recommended for those libraries wanting the latest major British encyclopedia and for libraries that can afford an additional encyclopedia after providing those that are more useful to American readers. It is not recommended for high school libraries or home use in the United States."

— + Subscription Bks Bul 22:13 Ap '51 3250w

"Although here and there, perhaps, 'the intelligent layman' may feel that a little less condensation might have been better, something must be allowed for editorial difficulties in this period of rapid advance and revolutionary change. All in all, the scientific articles reflect the greatest credit on all concerned and they can be well recommended to those who consult this work. And not the scientific articles only. For although it may be a valid criticism that the editorial board is somewhat exclusively insular, there can be no doubt that the need for an up-to-date British encyclopaedia, exhaustive in content and generous in design, has on balance been well met."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p486 Ag 4 '50 3150w

CHANDLER, LESTER VERNON. Inflation in the United States, 1940-1948. 402p $6; text ed $4.50 Harper

332.414 Inflation (finance). U.S.—Economic policy 51-2921

"This is a comprehensive study of inflation in the pre-war, war and post-war periods. It examines the chief public and private policies which were responsible for the inflation in these periods. Particular attention is payed to monetary and fiscal policies but wage policies and income distribution are also scrutinized. There are excellent graphs." (Current Hist) Bibliography. Index.

CHANDLER, L. V.—Continued

"The author set out to prepare a clear and readable review of the monetary and financial aspects of the war and postwar period. He has succeeded admirably in producing a book which deserves to be read widely. It should prove most useful in helping us as a society to arrive at better decisions on how to combat the current inflationary threat." J. A. Kershaw
+ Am Econ R 41:708 S '51 700w

Booklist 47:375 Jl 1 '51

Current Hist 20:292 My '51 50w

"Despite the great scholarship of this book, the reader may be disappointed that it affords no greater guidance to proper public policy at the present or under various future conditions. . . The other disappointing aspect of the book is its failure to evaluate the social and economic significance of inflation. Possibly this criticism is simply an example of the old reviewer's trick of objecting that the author did not write a different book.'" Homer Jones
J Pol Econ 59:552 D '51 500w

Management R 40:720 N '51 110w

"Obviously, no one is adequately qualified to discuss intelligently the problem of inflation as it currently presents itself who is not conversant with the causes and characteristics of inflation in its World War II manifestations, with the policies adopted for dealing with it on that occasion, and with the consequences, positive and negative, of those policies. Mr. Chandler's study comes nearer than any other single volume to providing within two covers most of this currently important informational background." E. H. Collins
+ N Y Times p3 Je 17 '51 600w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:256 S '51 200w

CHAPIRO, JOSE. Erasmus and our struggle for peace. 196p $2.50 Beacon press

172.4 Peace. Erasmus, Desiderius 50-10709

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"Although perhaps too panegyric in tone, Chapiro's introduction draws a vivid and clear picture of the position of a true humanist at the beginning of the modern era. Chapiro is especially successful in contrasting Erasmus' consistent fight for tolerance and individual freedom with Luther's violent authoritarianism." Herbert Marcuse
+ Ann Am Acad 276:168 Jl '51 240w

Booklist 47:231 Mr 1 '51

"This little book dealing with one facet of the wide humanism of Erasmus of Rotterdam is a happy foretaste of what we may expect when Mr. Chapiro has completed his life of the great Dutch savant and theologian, now in preparation." Neil Martin
+ Christian Science Monitor p5 Ja 13 '51 800w

"There may be fallacies in Erasmus' analysis of the causes of war, but his appeal to the church to stand for peace is strongly compelling in this day as in his own." R. C. Miller
+ Churchman 165:17 F 1 '51 90w

"Mr. Chapiro prefaces his translation with a 120-page introduction on the career and significance of Erasmus about whom he is preparing a biography. He knows his sources and appreciates the classical and humanistic traditions. . . The preface ends with a lengthy contrast between the urbane and tolerant Erasmus and the gross, unbridled, and contentious Luther, 'the greatest religious agitator since Mohammed.' This disquisition may not be historically or philosophically objective, nor is it Erasmian in tone. Yet Protestants, Catholics, and all others may well turn to this compact and timely volume, for the spirit and teachings of Erasmus were never more needed than today." Earl Cranston
+ Crozer Q 28:159 Ap '51 600w

Reviewed by Albert Salomon
J Philos 48:423 Je 21 '51 240w

"To his translation Mr. Chapiro has added an excellent study of Erasmus as an advocate of peace. He has called this essay hopefully 'Erasmus: Herald of a United World.' In it the reader coming fresh to Erasmus will find a good guide to the whole life and activity of the master." Crane Brinton
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 7 '51 300w

CHAPMAN, HESTER WOLFERSTAN. King's rhapsody. 304p $3 Houghton

51-6720

This novel, based on a play by Ivor Novello, tells in first person narrative the story of a Norseland princess who marries the king of a Graustarkian country.

Kirkus 19:331 Jl 1 '51 160w

"Not up to the quality of author's I Will Be Good." K. A. Story
Library J 76:1332 S 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by Arthur Marshall
+ New Statesman & Nation 40:522 N 2 '50 550w

"Graustarkian romance with Mayerling overtones is how this one sums up in brief."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p42 D 2 '51 120w

"Trite in content and form, the novel is an old-fashioned melodramatic tale. The only modern or interesting development is Nicky's Freudian hatred of his mother, the dowager Queen and its effect on his development." Saul Colin
N Y Times p22 Ja 6 '52 120w

Wis Lib Bul 47:254 N '51

CHAPMAN, JANE A. Child's book of sewing; diagrams, Walter Chapman; decorations, Jeva Cralick. 88p $2.50; bds $2 Greenberg

646.21 Sewing—Juvenile literature 51-11522

A book for Nancy, 7 years old, which gives step by step instructions for making a book mark, a small purse, and a sewing kit using the basic stitches, running, basting, back, and blanket.

Reviewed by M. F. Kieran
Atlantic 188:102 D '51 90w

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

"Perfect material for very young girls who want to learn to sew. Explanations are clear and make sewing fun. Filled with helpful suggestions and good ideas and at the same time leaving plenty of room for imagination and creative ability." H. M. Brogan
+ Library J 76:1232 Ag '51 50w

"It is to help the beginner through early stages that this book is written and illustrated. Simple but skillful ways of handling needles, pins, patterns and other sewing equipment are explained in easily understood words and drawings. Possible pitfalls are discussed and guides as to how to avoid them suggested. . . The whole feeling of the book is one of encouragement." L. P.
+ N Y Times p32 N 11 '51 150w

CHAPMAN, JOHN ARTHUR, ed. Best plays of 1950-51; and the Year book of the drama in America. (V34) 429p il $4 Dodd

808.82 Dramas—Collections

Contents: Guys and dolls, by Damon Runyon; Darkness at noon, by Sidney Kingsley; Billy Budd, by L. O. Coxe and Robert Chapman; The autumn garden, by Lillian Hellman; Bell, book and candle, by John van Druten; The country girl, by Clifford Odets; The rose tattoo, by Tennessee Williams; Season in the sun, by Wolcott Gibbs; Affairs of state, by Louis Verneuil; Second threshold, by Philip Barry. Contains also reviews of the season in New York; Boston; Philadelphia; Chicago and San Francisco; and a statistical summary. Index of authors; of plays and casts; and of producers, directors, and designers.

Booklist 48:97 N 15 '51

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 N 4 '51 500w

Reviewed by John Beaufort
Christian Science Monitor p15 D 6 '51 100w

"Highly recommended to all libraries regardless of size." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1809 N 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by J. P. Shanley
N Y Times p32 N 4 '51 180w

CHAPMAN, JOHN ARTHUR, ed. Burns Mantle best plays of 1949-1950; and the Year book of the drama in America. (V33) 437p il $4 Dodd

808.82 Dramas—Collections

Contents: The cocktail party, by T. S. Eliot; The member of the wedding, by Carson McCullers; The innocents, by William Archibald; Lost in the stars, by Maxwell Anderson and Kurt Weill; Come back, little Sheba, by William Inge; The happy time, by Samuel Taylor; The wisteria trees, by Joshua Logan; I know my love, by S. N. Behrman; The enchanted, by Jean Giraudoux; Clutterbuck, by B. W. Levy.

Booklist 47:153 D 15 '50

"Highly recommended for all desk reference and Theatre collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 75:2154 D 15 '50 70w

"If for no other reason than that it is one of the few certainties in a most uncertain world, the annual edition of 'The Burns Mantle Best Plays' would be welcome enough. That it is considerably more—a most valuable handbook to the events of the season past—makes its appearance doubly welcome." Lewis Funke
+ N Y Times p9 D 31 '50 400w

"A valuable work of reference." Henry Popkin
+ Theatre Arts 35:9 Mr '51 290w

CHAPPELL, WILLIAM. Fonteyn: impressions of a ballerina; with 40 studies by Cecil Beaton. 136p $4.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Fonteyn, Margot [51-5860]

A study of the art of Margot Fonteyn by a one-time dancer, who has known the English ballerina much of her professional life. Copiously illustrated with photographs by Cecil Beaton and drawings by the author.

Booklist 48:30 S 15 '51

"Mr. Chappell . . . is singularly well equipped to give a critical appreciation of her talents. Though his short text contains almost as many observations about the author himself (his career and his aspirations) as about the great dancer who is its intended subject, yet it does include a number of almost casually vivid passages of description which may help later generations to understand the distinct but elusive quality of the finest West European dancer of this decade." J. H. M.
+ — Manchester Guardian p4 Je 12 '51 150w

"The huge heavily scented bouquets under which Chappell buries [Fonteyn] are [an] elaborate and pietistical offering. Even her most fervent admirers may find it exaggerated, which is regrettable because few other dancers write as ably about the ballet as Mr. Chappell." Richard Johnson
New Statesman & Nation 41:722 Je 23 '51 170w

Reviewed by John Martin
N Y Times p14 S 23 '51 130w

"Mr. Chappell's book is unadulterated eulogy. As a former ballet dancer, sometime partner of Fonteyn, and performer with Ida Rubinstein's and the Sadler's Wells companies, he exhibits sound critical judgment when discussing the dance, even though he frequently fails in clear English compositional expression. Nevertheless, out of a forest of purple prose and verbose phraseology, Fonteyn shines as a prima ballerina." Russell Rhodes
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:66 N 17 '51 190w

CHARLOT, JEAN. Art-making from Mexico to China. 308p il $3 Sheed

704 Art. Art, Mexican 50-10504

A miscellaneous collection of the author's writings "on such subjects as the Mexican Renaissance, liturgical arts, cults of the abstract, American prints, ink-painting by the Chinese and the general state of painting today. His role of cultural mediator is perhaps best served by the essays on Mexican topics, which embrace a good half of the book." (N Y Times)

Booklist 47:216 F 15 '51

Reviewed by Jerome Mellquist
+ Commonweal 53:549 Mr 9 '51 850w

Reviewed by A. S. Plaut
Library J 76:43 Ja 1 '51 80w

"Charlot, a gifted muralist, precursor of the Mexican school of the twenties, is one of the best art critics writing in English. He has a French analytical clarity and realism, empirical knowledge of technique, with a catholic taste (in both senses)." Lincoln Kirstein
+ New Repub 123:23 D 11 '50 130w

"It is characteristic of Charlot that his art criticism is always a by-product of his painting and that his 'essays' are no more than unedited book reviews or fugitive notes. That is their limitation: repetition can hardly be avoided and theoretical development cannot be expected. It is also their strength: the wisdom of experience tested on the scaffold replacing the dogmas of the ivory palette. . . The line-cuts illustrating the text are very beautiful and are placed on the page with enough imagination to round out an ideal gift book." Selden Rodman
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 D 17 '50 1200w

"Whether painting murals, lecturing, or merely writing articles, he has practiced the courtesy of the understatement. He does not chide or rant, but he does study, and that habit of mind makes him the steady communicator of goodwill. Now again, after a lapse of ten years, he reflects these becoming attributes in a book." Jerome Mellquist
+ N Y Times p7 N 19 '50 400w

CHARLOT, JEAN. Dance of death; 50 drawings and captions by [the author]. $2.50 Sheed

741.5 Death—Pictorial works 51-12426

A collection of cartoons concerning the manner in which Death appears to various people: the optimist, the pessimist, the housewife, the businessman, the astronomer, the child, etc.

"Either you'll like Charlot's 44 drawings and captions on the theme of death coming for various types of persons or they will repel you strongly. . . If you're buying it for a gift, pick the recipient with care." Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 S 30 '51 120w

Reviewed by Ed Willock
Commonweal 54:556 S 14 '51 900w

CHARTERIS, LESLIE. Second Saint omnibus; pub. for the Crime club. 336p $3.50 Doubleday 51-13646

"For this volume, Leslie Charteris has picked three novelettes and seven short stories from those hazardous diversions of the Saint which have been recorded since the publication of the first such collection in 1941, and he introduces each with colorfully appropriate comments." Publisher's note

Kirkus 19:543 S 15 '51 50w

"Leslie Charteris' early and embarrassing affection for Simon Templar has given way to satire of itself. And as he can turn a short story very neatly indeed (and then turn it again as in 'The Star Producers' or 'The Wicked Cousin') this is all a more diverting coagulate than you might have anticipated." James Sandoe
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 11 '51 200w

CHARTERIS, LESLIE—Continued

"Consists of material previously published in book form; all that's new is several thousand words of delightfully frank and witty Charteris commentary. To my own taste, that alone is worth the price of the volume." Anthony Boucher

+ N Y Times p24 N 11 '51 180w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p20 D 2 '51 80w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal

Springf'd Republican p12C N 18 '51 110w

CHASE, ALICE ELIZABETH. Famous paintings; an introduction to art for young people. 102p 172il 48 col il $3.50 Platt & Munk Company, Inc, 200 5th Av, N.Y. 10

759 Paintings 51-12875

Collection of reproductions in color of 48 famous paintings with descriptive text and smaller pictures in black and white. Arranged by subject. For grades six to nine.

"The book is delightful. It has been put together with a thoughtful consideration for child-appeal." M. F. Kieran

+ Atlantic 188:104 D '51 150w

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 D 30 '51 200w

"A book of unusual beauty, in which the subject of art is presented with rare thoughtfulness and understanding for young readers." E. C. Ince

+ Christian Science Monitor p13 S 27 '51 120w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

"A book every home, school and library should own; a book which will enrich the child's pleasure in art and visual experiences."

+ Kirkus 19:484 S 1 '51 170w

Reviewed by M. M. Gantt

Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51 110w

"This is a beautiful book, and well worth the price as a family possession. It is a far pleasanter book for them to share than some of the huge volumes recently offered to adults, and its color work more successful. However, we wonder about it as 'an introduction to art.' It is fine for that mere 'looking,' if the looking must be at a reproduction. We feel that the text in Katherine Gibson's 'Pictures to Grow Up With' and its companion volume was better handled, and the subjects better chosen for the interests of growing children." L. S. Bechtel

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 11 '51 340w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead

New Yorker 27:187 D 1 '51 100w

"What more acceptable gift could one give a thoughtful young person than an international art gallery? That is precisely what this book contains within its pages—one hundred and seventy-two illustrations of paintings, drawings, and sculptures produced during the last five thousand years. . . This book should attract not only the young people for whom it is intended, but their elders as well." B. W. S.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:68 N 10 '51 210w

"The pages of this book come to life with rich and colorful works of masters, old and new."

+ School Arts 51:adv O '51 350w

"It is an absorbing book with an unpretentious commentary and some instructive comparisons." D. H.

+ Spec 187:786 D 7 '51 190w

CHASE, EUGENE PARKER. United nations in action. 464p $4.50 McGraw

341.13 United nations (organization) 50-58314

A review of the history of first five years of the United Nations organization. It describes the international aspects and puts emphasis on the idea that the United Nations "is a political arena, where political battles are fought with political weapons—and that, if all were peace and concord, the United Nations would have a far less important role to play." (Survey) Index.

"While the volume consists essentially of a factual description of how the UN had evolved down to the end of 1949—the book went to press on the eve of Korea—the author does not hesitate to express personal judgments when the spirit moves him to do so. Most of these interpretative observations reveal real insight into the problem of world organization in a disunited world. This reviewer noted a number of minor inaccuracies which, however, are quite excusable in the light of the difficulties of keeping au courant of the enormous documentary output of a dozen secretariats." W. R. Sharp

+ Am Pol Sci R 45:592 Je '51 380w

Reviewed by J. E. Harley

Ann Am Acad 276:138 Jl '51 300w

Booklist 47:183 Ja 15 '51

Current Hist 20:347 Je '51 80w

Foreign Affairs 30:154 O '51 10w

"The reader is indebted to Professor Chase for a valuable and comprehensive research job, clearly presented, without beating of drums or slinging of slogans. The book gives much material for the speaker and the serious student, but it will not convince the isolationist or the apathetic—nor is it intended to." Julie d'Estournelles

+ Survey 87:241 My '51 460w

"The treatment is most interesting where Professor Chase deals with his personal experience, as in the chapters on the San Francisco Conference and on the dependent areas. The compression of the account of the work of the specialized agencies into one chapter is almost too great. A feeling for the large economic and social forces which animate this enormous structure of organizations seems also to be somewhat lacking. Taken as a whole, however, this is probably the most useful general book on the United Nations."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:174 Je '51 200w

CHASE, ILKA. New York 22. 308p $3 Doubleday

51-1835

A story of life among the sophisticated set in New York and Paris in 1950. It concerns chiefly the breakup of the marriage of a middle-aged publisher, and his middle-aged but still charming wife. Georgiana falls in love with a younger man and when she goes off to Paris to be nearer him Allen consoles himself with a young friend of his daughter's.

"For all its bright talk and smart clothes and sunny, chic optimism—perhaps chiefly because of them—this is a thing of filth." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 173:236 Je '51 200w

"'New York 22' is a profound, tragic tale of a marriage on the rocks, but it has the same warmth and slickness that made Ilka Chase's 'In Bed We Cry' and 'Past Imperfect' top flight reading." Richard Blakesley

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 18 '51 300w

Kirkus 19:31 Ja 15 '51 190w

"As a reporter of the New York and Parisian scene circa 1950 Miss Chase is proficient to the point of glibness. But she understands the characters she portrays in 'New York 22' and her between-the-lines comment upon them is both knowing and constructive." F. H. Bullock

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Mr 11 '51 600w

"Here is a society soap opera costumed by Dior—with New York 22 and Europe for its glittering backdrop." Andrea Parke

N Y Times p5 Mr 11 '51 230w

New Yorker 27:119 Mr 10 '51 90w

"Miss Chase writes with a waxed finish that results in a high gloss. That she successfully mirrors a segment of the city's life is unquestionably true, but there is also more than a suggestion that she has squandered her polish." Josephine Lawrence

Sat R of Lit 34:15 Mr 24 '51 550w

Reviewed by Tangye Lean
Spec 187:832 D 14 '51 80w

CHASE, JAMES HADLEY, pseud. See Raymond, R.

CHASE, JOSEPH CUMMINGS. My friends look better than ever. 300p il $5 Longmans

B or 92 Artists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 50-10901

A second volume of anecdotes and reminiscences by the American portrait painter, who wrote "My Friends Look Good to Me" nearly a score of years ago (Book Review Digest 1934). Among the "friends" celebrated here are actors and actresses, writers, and soldiers, from F. P. Adams and Ethel Barrymore to Marshall, MacArthur and Eisenhower.

Kirkus 18:626 O 1 '50 130w

"The book is readable straight through and is recommended for popular use." A. S. Plaut
+ Library J 76:599 Ap 1 '51 90w

"Some of the anecdotes are familiar and cherished by the group of elders who are sharers in Joe's memories. . . Yet there are many that are new and enrich the store. And all are interwoven with tributes of admiration, affection and understanding." H. I. Brock
+ N Y Times p18 Ja 21 '51 430w

CHASE, RICHARD. Wicked John and the devil; pictures by Joshua Tolford. 39p $2 Houghton 51-6293

A retelling of the old Czech folktale about the blacksmith and the devil. The locale here is supposedly the United States southern highlands.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Kirkus 19:480 S 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by O. R. Way
Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51

"We doubt that the picture-book age would find it amusing, and feel that the story, which has its point if you find these devils funny, might well have been left part of a larger collection, for the pictures are not very good. Mr. Chase's style is as funny as ever, his familiar clever adaptation of the talk of southern mountain folk. It would be fine for an adult to have in mind for use in an after-dinner speech." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p30 O 7 '51 100w

"The tale is told in the crisp, homely wording of the mountain country that Dick Chase records so well. There is nothing in the story of Wicked John that would shock or frighten boys and girls. . . One of the old folktales that never lose their power and their humor, this is very well told and illustrated."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:58 N 10 '51 230w

"A delightful tale for reading aloud."
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:218 S '51

CHASE, STUART, and TYLER, MARIAN (MRS STUART CHASE). Roads to agreement; successful methods in the science of human relations. 250p $3.50; college ed $2.75 Harper

301 Psychology, Applied 51-3307

"Called a 'journey of exploration,' this practical handbook on group dynamics describes successful methods of arriving at group decisions. It shows the lessons to be learned from the Anglo-Saxon jury, Quaker business meeting, semantics, TVA, professional conciliators, and new advances in conference leadership. It reports to the layman on research in the science of human relations and indicates techniques, developed through recent experimentation, to bring harmony in areas of human conflict." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by A. W. Gouldner
Am Soc R 16:882 D '51 750w

Booklist 47:338 Je 1 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 30w

Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 8 '51 350w

Reviewed by R. R. Bruun
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 7 '51 800w

Reviewed by Ed Wellock
Commonweal 54:360 Jl 20 '51 1100w

"A rewarding book, by a man who knows how to bring the field of social theory to the level of thinking men everywhere."
+ Kirkus 19:200 Ap 1 '51 250w

"Chase's book will help the local committee member, the group leader, spokesmen for labor and management, and delegates to international assemblies. It provides information and optimism on a subject too often associated with the absence of these two qualities." G. D. McDonald
+ Library J 76:771 My 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by A. Winn
Management R 40:379 Je '51 450w

Reviewed by Reuel Denney
Nation 173:34 Jl 14 '51 1350w

"There is a nice flavor about this book. It is well-intentioned, mellow, open-minded." Adrienne Koch
+ New Repub 124:28 Je 25 '51 700w

"In this book, Stuart Chase is again the inimitable reporter and interpreter. He confesses he is not an expert in all the sciences he is reporting; but he has the rare gift not only of understanding but of communicating. His book, therefore, is both exciting and illuminating. It is, I think, as helpful a contribution to the science and art of living intelligently together as any that has appeared." H. A. Overstreet
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 My 13 '51 900w

"No one can now question either the value or the originality of Mr. Chase's contributions to the social sciences. In this book . . . he shows his talent—I should almost say his genius—for knowing about and summarizing the wide amount of research, past and in progress. Yet he also brings to this study . . . the results of a good deal of original experience and study." J. K. Galbraith
+ N Y Times p3 My 13 '51 900w

New Yorker 27:115 Je 9 '51 180w

"It is a step-by-step affair, closely reasoned, detailed in its advice, careful in its argument." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 My 31 '51 800w

Reviewed by H. W. Odum
Sat R of Lit 34:9 My 12 '51 1100w

Wis Lib Bul 47:159 Je '51

CHASE, STUART, and others. Social responsibility of management. 83p $2 N.Y. univ. School of commerce, accounts & finance, Washington sq, N.Y. 3

658.04 Industrial management 51-9940

Four lectures on the social obligations of management, delivered in April and May 1950 at New York university. The speakers were Stuart Chase, social engineer, Stanley H. Ruttenberg, representative of labor's point of view, Edwin G. Nourse, economist, and William B. Given, jr, representative of management's point of view.

Reviewed by H. S. Person
Ann Am Acad 277:246 S '51 500w

Booklist 47:267 Ap 1 '51

Reviewed by D. K. Oko
Library J 76:603 Ap 1 '51 150w

"An attractive, interesting little book." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 76:869 My 15 '51 70w

CHASE, STUART—Continued

"It is healthy to have people think both critically and constructively, and that is just what these writers do. An especially good augury for the future of our free institutions is the fact that such constructive criticism should be sponsored by a great college of commerce and by a man whose name is so intimately linked with the public relations of American industrial enterprise." J. M. Pfiffner

+ Management R 40:312 My '51 470w

Springf'd Republican p6D Ap 8 '51 190w

CHASTAIN, MADYE LEE. Steamboat south: il by [the author]. 233p $2.50 Harcourt

51-11720

Life on a Mississippi steamboat just before the Civil war began is the background of this book for ages eight to twelve. It is the story of Amy Travis who traveled from Ohio to New Orleans and then on to Texas, mainly by steamboat.

"The story moves along with better characterizations than have most juveniles and with a thread of quiet humor that Amy, a rather sweetly precocious youngster, distills. There is an air of unhurried elegance in the tale, and I think little girls will enjoy Steamboat South and feel greatly relieved when Amy finds a home at last." M. F. Kieran

+ Atlantic 188:102 D '51 180w

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 11 '51 130w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:326 S '51 50w

"A story of kind friends and gentle people and ladylike excitement with a realistic glimpse of the days just preceding the Civil War. Unusually charming illustrations."

+ Kirkus 19:391 Ag 1 '51 160w

"Recommended." Mary Strang

+ Library J 76:1342 S 1 '51 40w

"It may take a rather sophisticated girl of under twelve to enjoy such a story, but for her the book will have great charm. The matter of Amy's wondering whether her relatives in Texas will really want her is very well handled at the happy end." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 O 28 '51 120w

"Captures the glitter of one of America's most picturesque memories, the river steamboat in its heyday." E. L. B.

+ N Y Times p36 S 23 '51 110w

"Madye Lee Chastain's sense of humor, her unfailing ability to create odd and interesting characters, her artist's power to fill in the details of background and atmosphere make Amy's trip a constant delight."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:45 S 22 '51 180w

Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 100w

Wis Lib Bul 47:219 S '51

CHATURVEDI, BENARSIDAS, and SYKES, MARJORIE. Charles Freer Andrews; a narrative; with a foreword by M. K. Gandhi. 334p il $3.75 Harper

B or 92 Andrews, Charles Freer 50-10298

"The life of Charles Freer Andrews, a minister of the Church of England, who went to India [as] a young man to teach in St. Stephens College, the Cambridge Mission, at Delhi, and remained in India all of his life with time away for voyages to Fiji, South Africa, China, New Zealand, Kenya, and the Americas, in the interest of Indian minorities and eventual Indian self-determination." (Christian Science Monitor) Index.

Booklist 47:155 D 15 '50

"Here is a biography of one of those great men whose lives remind us that we, too, 'can make our lives sublime.' It is the story, told by two of his faithful friends, of the man who, next to Mahatma Gandhi, may be credited with securing for the Indian people freedom from British rule as well as from some of their own inherited cruelties of caste." N. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 6 '51 650w

Churchman 165:17 S '51 120w

"This is the first time a rounded biography of the man has been attempted. While it is impossible to examine all documents scattered in the many parts of the world visited by Andrews, the material presented does give a true and satisfying cross section of his unique life and influence. Several excellent photographs add to the interest of the book." C. H. Hamilton

+ Crozer Q 28:188 Ap '51 200w

"This is a book which many who have been in touch with the world mission of the church will wish to possess and which others who are interested in world problems will find absorbing."

+ Kirkus 18:698 D 1 '50 200w

CHAUDHURI, NIRAD C. Autobiography of an unknown Indian. 506p $6 Macmillan

B or 92 India—Social life and customs

51-13933

"The personal story of an exceptional Indian, the second son of a Hindu lawyer in a small Bengal town. His descriptions of his boyhood, his parents, their families, and their ancestral homes reveal the extent of these influences upon his life. He received his advanced education in Calcutta, knew English as competently as Bengali and became thoroughly grounded in both European and Asiatic history. His adult life is not recounted in detail, for the purpose of the autobiographical data is mainly to provide a basis for his startling and provocative comments on the nationalist movement, Ghandism, and the future of the present government of India." Library J

Booklist 48:157 Ja 1 '52

"At times many of the long, detailed biographical passages are tough sledding, but the whole is reminiscent of a work like Vincent Sheean's Personal History and does contain some pithy material. Limited audience."

Kirkus 19:629 O 15 '51 190w

"An extraordinarily penetrating and analytical—though somewhat academic—study of the complex of social, political, racial, and religious stresses of modern India." J. W. Rogers

+ Library J 76:1558 O 1 '51 150w

Manchester Guardian p5 O 26 '51 480w

"His book is well written and presents a cultivated, sensitive modern Indian personality rarely available for Occidentals to meet." W. N. Brown

+ Nation 173:529 D 15 '51 140w

"Chaudhuri scorns as 'superannuated folly' the notion that Hindu civilization can be revived and believes that if India is to become more than an 'archeological site' it will have to set about creating 'an Indian version of European civilization in our own interest, for our private use and in order to keep ourselves within the pale of civilized life.' These views and the sweeping indictments which precede them will probably obscure for most readers many of the harsh truths that fill this work of confession and self-flagellation. They make Chaudhuri as hard to take as some of his counterparts whose excesses run to narcissism and sentimental self-deception. But for the serious reader they should open lines of questioning and inquiry we will do well to explore." H. R. Isaacs

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 N 25 '51 800w

"One may admire Mr. Chaudhuri's courage in denouncing evil tendencies that he sees in India. One may hope that his Indian readers will not be disgusted by his petulance, and that they will not dismiss all his criticism because it is often indiscriminate. But this is not a book to recommend to Western readers who want to know whether India is proving fit for freedom. They cannot learn that here." Horace Alexander

Spec 187:658 N 16 '51 650w

CHERNER, NORMAN. Make your own modern furniture; drawings by [the author] and Frank Stork; photographs by Thomas Yee. 140p $4 McGraw

684 Furniture. House decoration 51-12173

"Working plans and room designs for more comfortable and convenient living." (Subtitle) Author is a member of the Fine and Industrial arts department at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Booklist 48:44 O 1 '51
Kirkus 19:340 Jl 1 '51 140w
Bookmark 11:80 Ja '52 20w
Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1707 O 15 '51 60w

CHESTERTON, GILBERT KEITH. Father Brown omnibus. new & rev ed 993p $3.50 Dodd

51-11019

"Contains every story that G. K. Chesterton ever wrote about the vague little priest whose face was 'as round and dull as a Norfolk dumpling,' whose 'eyes were as empty as the North Sea,' whose brown paper parcels were always in a state of uncontrollable disorder, and whose large shabby umbrella had a perverse habit of getting out of hand." Sat R of Lit

Booklist 47:364 Je 15 '51
Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 O 14 '51 50w

"It is hard to pick out the best specimens among so many good ones, but probably most readers will remember and love the ones called 'The Flying Stars,' 'The Hammer of God,' 'The Invisible Man,' and 'The Worst Crime in the World.' "
+ New Yorker 27:108 Je 2 '51 160w

"A book to own, indeed."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Je 30 '51 40w
Reviewed by B. R. Redman
+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 S 1 '51 240w

CHESTNUT, HAROLD, and MAYER, ROBERT W. Servomechanisms and regulating system design. 2v v 1 505p il $7.75 Wiley

621.8 Servomechanisms (51-10512)

"The first volume of a substantial two-volume treatise designed for graduate engineers who are beginning to work in the design and application of servomechanisms and controlling systems. . . Complex numbers, linear differential equations, and LaPlace transforms are used in the exposition and are explained in the early chapters. The general characteristics of control based on feedback are explored, and means are indicated for making simplified preliminary analyses of complex problems in order to test the suitability of projected design." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:874 My 15 '51 120w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:61 Jl '51

CHEYNEY, PETER. Dark Bahama. 248p $2.50 Dodd

51-9129

Detective story.

San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 21 '51 110w
Reviewed by Margery Oakes
N Y Times p29 Ap 22 '51 100w

"The constant shift in point of view calls for repetition, and the adventures sound almost too calm and easy." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 21 '51 100w

"A smoothie."
Sat R of Lit 34:24 F 3 '51 60w

"As will be deduced from the title, Mr. Cheyney's latest thriller is set in the Bahamas; apart from this change of scene, and the introduction of a half-shaven corpse, there is nothing in the book that will be unfamiliar to this author's large public."
Times [London] Lit Sup p673 O 27 '50 180w

CHEYNEY, PETER. Ladies won't wait. 248p $2.50 Dodd

51-11324

Tale of international intrigue in England and on the continent.

"An espionage story told at a good, lively pace."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ag 12 '51 110w

"If you haven't sampled Cheyney yet, you'll find this an interesting specimen." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p15 Ag 12 '51 70w

"This British author's attempt at the hard-boiled style results only in dulling the edge of the adventures. C minus." L. G. Offord
— San Francisco Chronicle p23 Jl 1 '51 60w

"Not top grade." Kathleen Sproul
— Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 11 '51 50w

CHIANG, YEE. Silent traveller in Edinburgh; il. by the author. 196p $6 Day

914.1445 Edinburgh—Description [51-12325]

Records in prose and pictures a visit to Edinburgh in 1943. The author is a former Chinese civil servant, now a resident of London.

Booklist 47:393; 48:8 Jl 15 '51; S 1 '51
Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ag 19 '51 370w

"Mr. Chiang's portrait of Edinburgh has reminded this reviewer that his native city is not always the staid lady who, having passed the age of frivolity, frowns upon it in others. With Chiang Yee one discovers humor and gaiety, although the emphasis is always upon dignity." Charles Marwick
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Ag 16 '51 400w

"Perhaps not of such intimate appeal as the earlier book, this nonetheless has the freshness and individuality of its predecessor."
Kirkus 19:315 Je 15 '51 170w
Reviewed by M. L. Becker
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p28 D 2 '51 600w

"The casual, conversational text forms a pleasing frame for the pictures and emphasizes their delicacy and their power. . . This book is a boon to a driven world, for it is pictorial art at its happiest, work done in tranquillity by a man for whom 'wisdom is a butterfly and not a gloomy bird of prey.' " Roger Pippett
+ N Y Times p7 Ag 19 '51 330w

"Although his comments are occasionally on the discursive side, they're also shrewd and amusing; the Chinese mind and the Scottish one certainly seem to work in much the same way as far as humor is concerned. This basic compatibility is also reflected in the many illustrations, done in a Chinese medium that, Mr. Chiang reports, his detractors have called 'hybrid' but that is admirably suited to his subject matter."
+ New Yorker 27:86 Ag 25 '51 120w

"A full-packed book. The author's own quiet charm has to come to you through his own pages. But if you enjoy this quiet, reflective kind of writing about a city, and if you can 'pace yourself down,' so to speak, to the gentle, mild, always pleasant and often sharply shrewd kind of humor with which the author writes, then this may be your book. I'd at least have a look at it if I were you." J. H. Jackson

CHIANG, YEE—Continued
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ag 10 '51 500w

"A delightful study in words and pictures."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:50 O 13 '51 160w

CHIANG, YEE. Silent traveller in New York; il. by [the author] with a pref. by Van Wyck Brooks. 281p $5 Day

917.471 New York (city)—Description [50-11083]

An unassuming narrative of the author's visit to New York in 1948, illustrated with many small drawings in the text, and seventeen colour plates. The colour plates show a sudden rainstorm in Times Square, two cats strolling in Wall Street at twilight, sunset over Washington Square, etc.

Booklist 47:186 Ja 15 '51

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 24 '50 450w

"Eager for something to delight the eye or the mind the artist shares his strangely beautiful yet familiar impressions in color of the city in snowstorm and mist, in sunshine and moonlight. He also makes many amusing interpretive drawings in black and white. He meets real people on his travels and enlivens his shrewd comment with quick perception of the relation of their personalities to their pursuits." A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 27:92 Mr '51 280w

"Humor, subtle understanding and kindness make this book readable. Comparisons with things Chinese and English add interest. Similar to other books in this series. Recommended." Anne Whitmore
+ Library J 76:41 Ja 1 '51 90w

"Here, in book form, with eighteen enchanting reproductions in color and over a hundred impressions in line drawing, the Chinese artist, Chiang Yee, once a magistrate and district governor in his native city of Kiukiang on the Yangtze river, has turned his six months sojourn by the Hudson into a permanent gift of fresh beholding of familiar scenes. . . He uses Chinese inks and brushes and palette, for the most part; and this gives his colored pictures piquancy. His sketches are precise and delicate journalism. His text is without brilliance as writing but there is an amusing kind of loquacity in his comments." Ernestine Evans
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 D 10 '50 550w

Reviewed by Christopher Morley
N Y Times p7 D 17 '50 750w

"A mildly quizzical survey of this city by a Chinese author and artist whose description of himself in the title is intended to convey his delight at his retirement from civil service in China, apparently an overconversational profession. Some of the verbosity that Mr. Chiang once frowned on has, however, crept into this record."
New Yorker 26:85 Ja 13 '51 120w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p22 D 15 '50 650w

Sat R of Lit 34:37 Mr 24 '51 240w

"It is unnecessary for me to speak of the delicacy and beauty which are shown in Mr. Chiang Yee's translation of western scenes into modified oriental water-colours. They are well known. The use of offset as the medium for reproducing these pictures is, on the whole, justified. The book is not an outstanding example of production, but its delightful contents will make it welcome in every civilised home." C. E. Vulliamy
+ Spec 184:704 D 15 '50 750w

"Mr. Yee is an exhausting, although never apparently an exhausted, sightseer, so that hardly a corner of New York seems to have escaped his astute investigation. . . Mr. Yee's book is not easy to assess: there are a myriad details, yet no picture emerges. It will appeal to those who prefer facts served with a delicate touch, and shrewdness disguised as wideeyed simplicity."
Times [London] Lit Sup p23 Ja 12 '51 360w

CHICAGO. UNIVERSITY. COLLEGE. Idea and practice of general education. 333p $3.50 Univ. of Chicago press

378 Chicago. University. College. Colleges and universities—Curricula 50-12496

"[This volume] contains a detailed account of the genesis and operation of the general-education program at the College of the University of Chicago, together with the the rationale of its operation. The authors illustrate with clear detail what is meant by the general objective of developing 'wisdom' in the student." School R

"This is a volume for the record. It is important that the most significant experiment in general education of the last half-century should be fully and enthusiastically set forth by those who have participated in both planning and achievement. Building on the earlier study, The Chicago College Plan, by Boucher and Brumbaugh, Idea and Practice brings the record up to date." K. I. Brown
+ Christian Century 68:685 Je 6 '51 1050w

Reviewed by W. A. Orton
Commonweal 53:620 Mr 30 '51 1800w

Reviewed by H. M. Jones
Sat R of Lit 34:17 S 8 '51 600w

"In attempting to assay the total impression which the volume makes, it is likely that some readers will be annoyed by the tone of self-righteousness which pervades many of the chapters. The authors concertedly reject theories of general education other than those adopted by the faculty of the College as unworthy of consideration. . . The volume is in large part a compilation or adaptation of materials previously published in various books or periodicals, as Dean Ward notes in the Foreword. . . In spite of the disparate origins of its parts, The Idea and Practice of General Education presents a unified and well-integrated impression which is a tribute to the skill of its editor." H. T. Morse
+ School R 59:120 F '51 1650w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:47 Mr '51 250w

CHICAGO. UNIVERSITY. GRADUATE LIBRARY SCHOOL. LIBRARY INSTITUTE. Bibliographic organizations; papers presented before the fifteenth annual conference, July 24-29, 1950; ed. by Jesse H. Shera and Margaret E. Egan. 275p $5 Univ. of Chicago press

010 Bibliography 51-9884

"The Fifteenth Annual Conference of the Graduate Library School rendered a great service to the world of learning by assembling a group of specialists to discuss the vexing and critical problems of bibliographic organization. The papers presented before this conference now constitute, in this ably edited volume, one of the most distinguished contributions to American library literature. There are four main sections: 'Introduction,' 'Functional Approach,' 'Subject Approach,' and 'Management Approach.'" Library Q

Booklist 47:287 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Rudolph Gjelsness
+ Library J 76:936 Je 1 '51 850w

"The book is so charged with information and stimulative ideas that it merits careful and prolonged examination and discussion." Reuben Peiss
+ Library Q 21:229 Jl '51 700w
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:215 Je '51 270w

CHILD, MALCOLM, ed. How to play big league baseball; complete playing instructions for every position, by Harry Brecheen [and others] phot. by the editor; line drawings by Marilyn Fisher. 182p $2.50 Harcourt

796.357 Baseball 51-10548

Nine big league players give their advice in their own words on how to play the nine positions they hold. They are Harry Brecheen, Roy Campanella, Eddie Waitkus, Joe Gordon, George Kell, Phil Rizzuto, Dom Dimaggio, Andy Pafko, Enos Slaughter, Eddie Sawyer. Includes photographs. For older boys and girls.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:185 My '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 27 '51 20w

Kirkus 19:129 Mr 1 '51 80w

"Aside from the fact that the players all have a similar writing style, the information is presented in such a way as to be understood by a ten-year-old and yet not resented by older boys. Attractive photos and drawings." Lillian Morrison
+ Library J 76:880 My 15 '51 70w

"There have been few more sensible and effective textbooks on diamond technique than 'How to Play Big League Baseball.'" John Lardner
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 80w

N Y Times p26 Je 10 '51 40w

Wis Lib Bul 47:154 Je '51

CHILD'S world [ed-in-chief: Wilma K. McFarland]. 6v il col il $37.50 Child's world, inc, 308 W. Washington st, Chicago 6

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries—Juvenile literature

"The publishers declare that The Child's World is based on no other set and that 'the primary object of this work is to meet the needs of the pre-school and the pre-encyclopedia age child in school . . . to cover his interests during the first ten years.'—Foreword, volume 1. A letter to the Committee from the publishers states that the set was prepared especially to fill a need in the home for an organized library for young children and at the same time to provide the young mother with a reasonable amount of practical guidance material. . . Volume 1, Stories of Childhood, c1947, presents 36 brief Mother Goose rhymes, 38 poems for young children by standard authors, and 30 stories. . . Volume 2, People and Great Deeds, c1948. One to thirteen-page biographical sketches of twenty-two famous people in the fields of history, religion, literature, the arts, and sciences are included. . . Volume 3, Plant and Animal Ways, c1949. . . Forty articles about birds, animals, insects, and reptiles, and seventeen articles on plants and flowers. . . Volume 4, The World and Its Wonders, c1949. . . Brief information on various topics relating to Earth and Sky, Earth's Surface, Weather, Everyday Wonders, Commerce and Industry, and Other Interesting Wonders. . . Volume 5, Countries and Their Children, c1948. . . Brief glimpses of parts of Canada, Alaska, Scandinavia, the British Isles, the Netherlands, Switzerland, the Mediterranean countries, Africa, China, South America, Mexico. About half the book is in story form and half is factual material. . . Volume 6, is the Mother's Guide and Index, c1950. . . About 29 brief articles on problems in child care and guidance, such as discipline, jealousy, sex education, and manners." Subscription Bks Bul

"As this set in itself does not contain enough suitable material to give the school, public, or home library a fully rounded collection of literature and information for the child under ten years, and since much of the material in volumes 2 to 5 is too advanced for children from pre-school to ten years of age, The Child's World is not recommended for first purchase and even its supplementary use is limited."
— + Subscription Bks Bul 21:49 O '50 1800w

CHIPPENDALE, HARRY ALLEN. Sails and whales; with an introd. by Henry Beetle Hough. 232p map $3 Houghton

639.2 Whaling. Seafaring life 51-11491

"A retired captain's reminiscences of his boyhood in St. Helena—in the 1880-'90's, a rendezvous of the old sailing-whalers—mostly of his experiences as a deck hand on whaling vessels, and of Bedford, their home port, with a note on the decline of the industry, and finally of his experiences on war-time convoys." Library J

Booklist 47:400 Jl 15 '51

"A salty, forthright well written and vivid picture of one of America's most romantic and important maritime activities of a past era. Much of it reads like a blue water fiction thriller, with a full gale of action and excitement blowing thru its pages. It's a significant addition to both nautical Americana and the world literature of a famous vocation." Al Chase
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Jl 15 '51 300w

Reviewed by H. B. Ellis
Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 28 '51 370w

Kirkus 19:285 Je 1 '51 280w

"A good yarn, of general interest, but also a valuable source for authentic information." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1026 Je 15 '51 110w

"The later stages of Captain Chippendale's life—with the curious mixture of compounding prescriptions and taking large ships through the war zones—has its own interest. But most readers will probably relish 'Sails and Whales' because it provides another and a very lively picture of whaling days before the floating factories took over. Captain Chippendale spins a good yarn, unpretentious but with a color and verve that is genuine." H. W. Baehr
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Jl 1 '51 600w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 390w

Time 58:88 Jl 23 '51 400w

Wis Lib Bul 47:184 Jl '51

CHIPPERFIELD, JOSEPH EUGENE. Windruff of Links Tor; il by Helen Torrey. 305p $3 Longmans

Dogs—Legends and stories 51-11603

"This story of a shepherd dog is told against a background of the moors and the great wild . . . Dartmoor tors of western England." School & Society

Booklist 48:36 S 15 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

"Beautifully designed and illustrated, the book will be best liked by naturalists to whom odd words or expressions are not a hindrance in reading and who delight in atmosphere as well as action." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:333 S '51 80w

"Thrilling action, lovely setting and the towering sentiment dog lovers demand. Mr. Chipperfield makes the death of a dog the death of a king. Sure dog-fan fare."
+ Kirkus 19:296 Je 15 '51 100w

"Will appeal to the more sensitive reader of junior high age." M. V. Greene
Library J 76:1342 S 1 '51 70w

"For a second time, this English author gives us a distinguished nature story, focusing on a dog born as a pet, but diverted to live in the wilderness, and finally to return to the humble hearths of man. . . The handsome bookmaking and many striking Torrey pictures make it an unusual gift book." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p30 N 11 '51 110w

"The author has a deep feeling for the beauty of the Dartmoor hills. His descriptions of the birds and animals, of the changing winds, and particularly of the shifting play of light and shadow on the tors, have pace and vitality. . . The style is adult, with many colloquial expressions. As a result, the story is not likely to appeal to a mind atrophied by the ready-made entertainment of movies, television or comic books. However, readers with a feeling for words and a love of the outdoors may well find this book an enthralling experience." Lavinia Davis

CHIPPERFIELD, J. E.—Continued
+ N Y Times p12 S 2 '51 180w
Sat R of Lit 34:64 N 10 '51 190w
School & Society 74:111 Ag 18 '51 30w
Wis Lib Bul 47:194 Jl '51

CHISHOLM, HUGH JOSEPH. Atlantic City cantata. 126p $3 Farrar, Straus 811 51-12052

A so-called cantata made up of duets, choruses, refrains, etc., using Atlantic City as a symbol and starting point for a picture of modern life in rhyme.

"Visceral, disturbing, exciting."
Kirkus 19:252 My 15 '51 110w

"Has its moments of high and low spirits, quite funny in spots, rather depressing in others. . . Like many a less secular cantata, this one is also much too long and repetitious, so much so that some of the light-hearted nonsense, at which Mr. Chisholm is very good, breaks down into boring inanity." Rolfe Humphries
— + Nation 173:312 O 13 '51 90w

Reviewed by John Holmes
N Y Times p19 S 9 '51 30w

Reviewed by Lawrence Ferling
San Francisco Chronicle p19 N 18 '51 90w

"The verse patter would do quite well in a Broadway revue, but the cantata lacks the liveness and imagination of Kreymborg's verse plays and Lindsay's improvisations, for instance. Mr. Chisholm means to shock, and shock he does by coarseness and vulgarization. . . Despite the resolution in hope 'Atlantic City Cantata' adds nothing to Mr. Chisholm's reputation as a poet." I. L. Salomon
— Sat R of Lit 34:13 D 29 '51 650w

CHITTENDEN, FRANK. Strange welcome. 184p $2.50 Coward-McCann 51-9322

Detective story.

"A conventional English mystery, solidly written but lacking some of the elements of pace and suspense."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Mr 18 '51 140w

Reviewed by Nancie Matthews
N Y Times p29 Mr 4 '51 110w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p17 Mr 4 '51 160w

"Engrossing."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 7 '51 50w

CHRISTENSEN, HAAKEN. Little Bruin and Per; pictures and story; tr. from the Norwegian by Siri Andrews. [22p] $1.25 Abingdon-Cokesbury
51-12169

Little Bruin and Per get stuck in the mud at the bottom of a pool, Mother Bruin comes to help them and she gets stuck. Finally Michael Fox comes along and helps them out and they all enjoy a picnic at a fire left by the wood-cutters. For ages four to seven.

Booklist 48:37 S 15 '51
Kirkus 19:431 Ag 15 '51 60w

"Gentle, slight tale. . . It will seem amusing to the kindergarten age for a boy like themselves to have a happy adventure with bears. They will like the clear, real, brown and black drawings." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 70w

Reviewed by C. E. Van Norman
N Y Times p50 O 21 '51 90w
Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR. Awakening. See Canham, E. D., and others.

CHRISTIE, AGATHA (MILLER) (MRS M. E. L. MALLOWAN). They came to Baghdad. 218p $2.50 Dodd 51-10011

A tale of mystery and international intrigue, the scene of which is Baghdad.

Booklist 47:312 My 1 '51
Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"A rapidly paced, delightful story of adventure."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 Ap 22 '51 200w

"All in all, the most satisfactory novel in some years from one of the most satisfying of novelists." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p19 Je 3 '51 190w

"The action is rapid and profuse; the characters are astonishingly real, considering the preposterous nature of their activities; and the author's style remains far more lucid and persuasive than that employed by the vast majority of her colleagues. Altogether, one of the year's most agreeable contributions to the spy-and-counterspy division."
+ New Yorker 27:144 Ap 14 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 22 '51 70w

"Prize of the year!"
+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 My 5 '51 60w

Reviewed by Esther Howard
Spec 185:459 Ap 6 '51 100w

"There are several satisfactory suspects; an excellent intelligence chief, done in the modern manner; a delightful hôtelier, and a very human heroine, whose powers of invention, like those of her creator, never fail her."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p241 Ap 20 '51 150w

CHRISTIE, AGATHA (MILLER) (MRS M. E. L. MALLOWAN). The under dog, and other stories. 248p $2.50 Dodd 51-12402

A novelette and eight short stories of mystery and detection.

Reviewed by James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 S 23 '51 140w

"The stories' interest is, it must be admitted, much more historical than intrinsic. All feature Hercule Poirot (on his own in the title novelette, Boswelled by the faithful Captain Hastings in the eight short stories), and all are routine puzzles, strongly influenced by the form if not the spirit of the Sherlock Holmes stories and evincing nothing of the novelistic skill or technical mystery brilliance which Christie was later to display. Their chief fascination, indeed, is as evidence of how far Christie has come from these beginnings." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p32 O 14 '51 270w

"The title novelette . . . is fully up to the author's present standards (it would take a remarkably alert reader to single out the murderer before the last page in each story), the style is brisk and ladylike, and nearly all the people involved, with the exception of M. Poirot, a few servants, and two or three persons connected with the police, are prominent members of a vanished society. Reading Miss Christie is likely to remind you of the hammocks of long-ago summers, but that may not be so bad, all things considered."
+ New Yorker 27:120 S 8 '51 120w

"The title novelette has more substance than the shorter pieces; most are only foreshadowings of today's brilliance. C plus." L. G. Offord
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 23 '51 80w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R of Lit 34:32 O 20 '51 40w

CHRYSTIE, FRANCES NICHOLSON. First book of jokes and funny things; pictures [by] Ida Scheib. [39p] $1.75 Watts, F.

793 Jokes. Amusements 51-9879

A first book of jokes, riddles, tongue twisters, and funny things to make and do. For grades four to seven.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51
Kirkus 19:152 Mr 15 '51 40w
Reviewed by E. T. Dobbins
Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 70w
Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 15 '51 50w

"The jokes are simple, the kind children love to tell over and over. There are old and new rhymes and a section on stunts, tricks and games which ought to help a party off to a good start." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p26 Mr 11 '51 80w

CHU, JU CHIN, and others. Distillation equilibrium data. 304p $6 Reinhold

660.284 Distillation. Phase rule and equilibrium 50-11102

"A compilation of vapor liquid equilibrium data which probably includes all of the data published through December, 1949. Altogether 176 systems are covered, and full references are given to the sources of the data. The book will be especially useful to chemical engineers." N Y New Tech Bks

"The reviewer feels that the space occupied by 18 systems taken from International Critical Tables would be better used for other systems not so conveniently collected, and that more care should have been taken with the spelling of authors' names. But the collection is, nevertheless, a time-saver for the average technical man." John Griswold
Chem & Eng N 29:1680 Ap 23 '51 190w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:6 Ja '51

CHURCH, RICHARD. Five boys in a cave [Eng title: The cave]. 180p $2.50 Day

51-10431

Five English boys go to explore a cave, the entrance to which had been discovered by accident. Two of the boys are stranded beside an underground river, but the other three manage a rescue. For grades six to eight.

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51

"The author, who is also a poet, brings a sense of both beauty and terror to his setting and his situations and a warm understanding to his five very different types of adventurers, in their fear and their courage."
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 24 '51 150w
Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '51

"I couldn't put it down, once I had begun it. The effect that danger and fear have on the characters of the boys—bringing out both good and bad traits—is well depicted. An outstanding book by an English poet and novelist for readers of twelve and over." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:249 Jl '51 80w

"A British import crammed with highly effective suspense adventure. . . Adult thrills and chills with some psychological upsets as the boys change leaders. The supposition here, that a group must have a strong leader, is perhaps somewhat too military, but this is superior suspense."
+ — Kirkus 19:154 Mr 15 '51 110w

"A realistic English adventure story which may stress too much the psychology of the boys and the way danger and fear show up their characters." E. W. Turpin
Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 80w

"Each boy turns out differently from what the others expected, except John. It is an exciting, unforgettable book." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Je 10 '51 180w

"These dangerous adventures are told with masterly suspense and tension; Mr. Church, who is a poet, has used all his senses to give the beautiful and terrifying details of the story. In a formal, almost old-fashioned way, he shows the characters of the five boys and their changing relations under the press of circumstance. This is a first-rate adventure story, informed with wit and human warmth and understanding: a distinguished book for parents as well as their children." Marjorie Fischer
+ N Y Times p22 My 27 '51 150w
Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:176 D 1 '51 40w
Reviewed by Hilton Brown
Spec 184:662 D 8 '50 100w
Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 70w

CHURCHILL, WINSTON LEONARD SPENCER. Second World war; v5: Closing the ring. 749p maps $6 Houghton

940.53 World war, 1939-1945. World war, 1939-1945—Great Britain (48-2880)

Volume five of Mr Churchill's history of the war extends from the invasion of Sicily to D Day. For volume IV see Book Review Digest 1950.

"The most enthralling non-fiction reading of the year. Each volume brings home to me, with a fresh sense of revelation, the stunning assemblage of qualities which make Churchill, as Isaiah Berlin said in his memorable Atlantic portrait, 'the largest human being of our time.' " C. J. Rolo
+ Atlantic 188:92 D '51 700w
Booklist 48:121 D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:56 D '51 20w
Reviewed by J. H. Thompson
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 9 '51 440w
Reviewed by J. G. Harrison
Christian Science Monitor p15 N 29 '51 550w
Cleveland Open Shelf p25 N '51
Reviewed by Donald Wasson
Library J 76:2112 D 15 '51 140w
Reviewed by J. B. Brebner
Nation 173:479 D 1 '51 850w
Reviewed by J. R. Newman
New Repub 125:18 D 24 '51 1300w

"An absorbing study in statesmanship—one of those books that will have to go on the basic shelves, along, say, with Machiavelli or Clausewitz—though a book illuminated by a humor, a frequently impish insight, a grandeur of phrase and a directly personal knowledge denied to earlier authors on the subject." Walter Millis
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 N 25 '51 2000w

"I confess that I found the fifth volume, 'Closing the Ring,' in some respects less interesting, more contentious and much more self-defensive than its predecessors; but it is all Winston Churchill and it could therefore be nothing less than great." R. E. Sherwood
+ N Y Times p 1 N 25 '51 2500w

"The book is less tense and dramatic than its predecessors, but it is no less magnificent in breadth and style."
New Yorker 27:173 D 8 '51 190w

"This is the raw stuff of history, refined, worked and molded into imperishable form by a master craftsman who is also one of the greatest participants in the scene he has so brilliantly reproduced." C. W. Weinberger
+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 D 2 '51 850w
Reviewed by Crane Brinton
Sat R of Lit 34:12 N 24 '51 850w
Reviewed by Donald Derby
Springf'd Republican p12A Ja 6 '52 350w
Time 58:114 N 26 '51 650w

CHUTE, GEORGE M. Electronic motor and welder controls. 348p il $6.50 McGraw

621.38 Electronic control. Electric welding 51-11276

"A practical detailed book suitable for shop electricians, plant engineers and others whose work includes the selection, installation or maintenance of electronic controls for resistance welders and motor-operated machines. The general principles of such controls are discussed briefly, but most of the book is devoted to specific descriptions of the mechanisms, circuits, and operation of standard commercial controls." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

"Though the book does not exactly supersede the author's Electronic Control of Resistance Welding and Electronics in Industry, it will appeal to essentially the same audience. It is not, however, a revision of those books." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1132 Jl '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:55 Jl '51

CHUTE, MARCHETTE GAYLORD. Introduction to Shakespeare. 123p $2.25 Dutton

822.33 Shakespeare, William—Criticism and interpretation 51-10201

Study of Shakespeare's world and the theater of his day, written for high school age. Includes material on some of Shakespeare's fellow actors, and tells how the plays were written, costumed, and rehearsed. Index.

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Jl 22 '51 160w

"This little volume is an answer to many an English teacher's dream. It is a highly readable excursion into the world in which Shakespeare lived. . . The work does a real service to English literature, and to young people who need to be taught to discover some of its greatest treasures." M. J. T.

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Ap 28 '51 230w

"High school students and their teachers will find the book invaluable." S. M. A.

+ Horn Bk 27:338 S '51 80w

"This book should be in the hands of every high-school student."

+ Kirkus 19:186 Ap 1 '51 250w

"By choosing facts most likely to appeal to boys and girls and weaving them into an entertaining narrative, the author brings Shakespeare to life and gives a vivid picture of sixteenth-century London." Elizabeth Hodges

+ Library J 76:970 Je 1 '51 80w

Nation 172:593 Je 23 '51 40w

"Although so brief, this is a splendid opening of windows into Shakespeare. It is full of the fascinating documentary details that made 'Shakespeare of London' surprising to many readers. The only illustrations are two drawings of the Globe and its stage done by Irwin Smith who collaborated on the famous model now in the Folger Library in Washington. This book should prove invaluable in the thousands of schools where boys and girls of about twelve begin to read their first plays, often with no knowledge of Elizabethan ways." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 22 '51 300w

"For young people first meeting Shakespeare, the book is a sound and revealing guide (if perhaps more what their teachers will think they ought to read than what they themselves will enjoy reading). For adults who are also beginners, and want a simple account of Shakespeare as a man and a writer, it is especially happy and suitable." F. E. Hill

+ N Y Times p22 My 27 '51 140w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead

New Yorker 27:187 D 1 '51 40w

"The same charm of manner that invested Miss Chute's 'Shakespeare of London' is found in this book." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Je 10 '51 140w

Reviewed by W. H. Beyer

School & Society 74:120 Ag 25 '51 180w

"A fine, useful book, it will be welcome in junior and senior high school English classes."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 80w

CLAPHAM, JOHN. Elizabeth of England; certain observations concerning the life and reign of Queen Elizabeth; ed. by Evelyn Plummer Read and Conyers Read. 125p $2.50 Univ. of Pa. press

B or 92 Elizabeth, queen of England

A hitherto unpublished essay on the life and reign of Queen Elizabeth, written by a contemporary scholar who was a member of Lord Burghley's household. In addition to a somewhat modernized version of this work, the volume contains an account of the author's own life and works and a history of the manuscript.

Reviewed by Leila Flower

Christian Science Monitor p9 Je 6 '51 200w

"The manuscript history, entitled 'Certain Observations Concerning the Life and Reign of Queen Elizabeth,' together with a variant copy, has long been known to scholars. . . This first complete publication of Clapham's 'Observations' adds little to what was already known of Tudor history and Tudor personages. Compared with Naunton's 'Fragmenta Regalia,' it is rather tame. Its chief value lies in the sketch of Burghley and the account of Elizabeth's end, though Clapham, whose style is almost uniformly pedestrian, occasionally achieves great beauty with spare or gnomic utterances." Charles Norman

N Y Times p21 Ag 19 '51 220w

"An account of events from anyone as well placed to observe them as Clapham was is worth having in any form. Even so, his observations are somewhat disappointing, for they add little to the picture of his age as others have drawn it. . . The best part of his narrative consists in his careful character-studies of the Queen and Burghley, with briefer characters of Leicester, Hatton, Raleigh and Essex. Clapham's narrative, nevertheless, was well worth introducing to a wider circle than that which has access to the two extant manuscripts of the 'Observations' in the British Museum."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p551 Ag 31 '51 400w

CLARE, CHARLES. J. M. W. Turner; his life and work. (British painters ser; Chanticleer ed) 128p il $4 Crown

759.2 Turner, Joseph Mallord William 51-13555

A biography and critical essay on the works of this English painter. The book contains nearly forty monochrome and four color plates. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:103 N 15 '51

"This is not the assessment one would like for Turner's centenary. It is not the assessment which is much required. Some facts are here and some fancies; a fair number of plates not too ill-printed nor too well selected. The whole book, text and plates, is too much within the naive conventions of the English art book."

— Times [London] Lit Sup p656 O 19 '51 900w

CLARE, JOHN. Selected poems; ed. with an introd. by Geoffrey Grigson. (Muses' lib. ser) 246p $2.10 Harvard univ. press

821 A51-9880

Selections from the poems of John Clare, the English "peasant poet," who lived from 1793 to 1864. In the earlier part of his life he was lionized for his writings, but his later years were spent in an insane asylum. The book is divided into Poems written between 1809 and 1835, and Poems written in madness. Glossary. Indexes.

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

"Geoffrey Grigson's introduction is the most interesting I have so far seen in the admirable Muses' Library series. To be sure, Mr. Grigson has to take a couple of swipes at his King Charles's head, the ideas of Mr. Eliot, but his interpretation of Clare is illuminating and his admiration eloquent." Rolfe Humphries
+ Nation 172:257 Mr 17 '51 40w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Ap 29 '51 90w

Reviewed by Harvey Breit
N Y Times p32 Ap 1 '51 170w

New Yorker 27:152 O 20 '51 70w

Spec 185:504 Ap 13 '51 270w

Times [London] Lit Sup p782 D 8 '50 420w

CLARK, ALFRED ALEXANDER GORDON (CYRIL HARE, pseud). An English murder. 206p $2.50 Little 51-11286

Detective story.

Booklist 48:14 S 1 '51

Kirkus 19:216 Ap 15 '51 60w

"The style of the book is genial, fluent and free from all pretentiousness. Indeed, An English Murder is just what it should be, a pattern of gentlemanly detection." Ralph Partridge
+ New Statesman & Nation 41:716 Je 23 '51 150w

"A well named mystery and a most ingenious one. The crime could not have been committed anywhere but in England. To say more would be giving the plot away."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 8 '51 140w

"Well written and adroit, if somewhat conventional."
+ New Yorker 27:90 Je 23 '51 100w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Je 24 '51 70w

"Thoroughly engrossing puzzler peopled with interesting characters; writing impeccable, humor twinkling, solution satisfying." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Jl 7 '51 40w

"There is some wit and some nice crisp writing in An English Murder, but it is never quite possible to believe in the moribund Lord Warbeck or in his cousin Sir Julius, the Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer, against whom there is such a tortuous plot, while the central European historian, Dr. Bottwink, through whose eyes we follow much of the action, is frankly a bore. There remains the butler Briggs, who steals what is left of the picture. The verdict has to be: a commendable try."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p369 Je 15 '51 220w

CLARK, BARRETT HARPER. Intimate portraits. 232p $2.50 Dramatists
928.2 Gorky, Maxim. Galsworthy, John. Sheldon, Edward Brewster. Moore, George. Dramatists 51-4075

Biographical sketches of playwrights whom the author admired. Among them are: Maxim Gorky, John Galsworthy, Edward Sheldon, George Moore, Carl B. Clinton, Sidney Howard.

Booklist 47:380 Jl 1 '51

"Highly recommended for theatre and literature collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:866 My 15 '51 40w

CLARK, BARRETT HARPER, and DAVENPORT, WILLIAM HENRY, eds. Nine modern American plays. 432p $2.40 Appleton
812.08 American drama—Collections 51-9988

"The editor has set the tone of this anthology with a brief essay indicating the value to the student of the plays selected. Included are The Hairy Ape, Street Scene, Green Grow the Lilacs, High Tor, Stage Door, You can't Take it With You, Abe Lincoln in Illinois, The Glass Menagerie and Command Decision." Library J

"Could well represent America in two seasons of a college repertory. Recommended for that purpose." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:706 Ap 15 '51 70w

"The collection is more important, more interesting and stimulating than just an exhibit of colorful and entertaining stage pieces."
+ School & Society 73:190 Mr 24 '51 50w

CLARK, GAREL, pseud. of ETHEL MCCULLOUGH SCOTT and MAY GARELICK. Let's start cooking; with pictures by Kathleen Elgin. 67p spir bds $1.50 Scott, W.R.
641.5 Cookery—Juvenile literature 51-6531

Cook book for the small beginner with simple explicit directions illustrated with outline drawings for every utensil, ingredient and method used. Book is in three sections: (1) Cooking without a stove (soda drinks, cheese and fruit salads, ice-box desserts); (2) Cooking on the front burner (devilled eggs, cocoa, bacon, hamburgers); (3) Cooking in the stove (cheese dreams, ready-mix cakes).

Booklist 48:37 S 15 '51

"With diagrams, and step-by-step directions, couldn't be simpler."
+ Kirkus 19:389 Ag 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by Lois Palmer
N Y Times p32 N 11 '51 110w

CLARK, GRENVILLE. Plan for peace. 83p $1 Harper
341.67 Peace. Disarmament 50-12659

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

Am Pol Sci R 45:923 S '51 20w

"Mr. Clark's Plan for Peace is probably not realizable under existing circumstances. Nevertheless it opens the way for further constructive thinking along lines leading to a possible ultimate solution to this knotty problem." F. A. Cave
+ Ann Am Acad 274:210 Mr '51 650w

Booklist 47:231 Mr 1 '51

Current Hist 20:39 Ja '51 80w

"Clark has written a book that is an admirably thoughtful addition to the small but growing body of expert testimony being written by Americans who do not see bigger and better atom bombs as the solution for all our woes." A. H. Uhl
+ New Repub 124:20 Mr 19 '51 650w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ja 8 '51 950w

CLARK, SIR KENNETH. Piero della Francesco. See Franceschi, P. di B. dei

CLARK, SYDNEY AYLMER. All the best in Switzerland. 248p il $4 Dodd
914.94 Switzerland—Description and travel 51-9741

Contains chapters of general information as well as specific advice on what to see and where to go in Switzerland. Style is enthusiastic, chatty and informal. Index.

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51

Sat R of Lit 34:39 F 24 '51 220w

Wis Lib Bul 47:163 Je '51

CLARK, THOMAS CURTIS, ed. Today is mine; a manual of devotion. 374p $1.50 Harper 242 Devotional exercises 50-9516

For each day of the year this book gives a meditation, a Bible passage, a stanza or two of poetry, and a prayer. The quotations include material from the works of both ancient and modern writers.

CLARK, T. C.—Continued

+ Christian Century 68:145 Ja 31 '51 480w

"A good addition to the daily reading type of book." J. F. Davidson + Churchman 164:16 D 1 '50 120w

"Today Is Mine is a well-compiled and edited book of devotions." J. H. Ivey
+ Crozer Q 28:94 Ja '51 150w

"The editor and compiler is one of our best known religious poets and his choice of material shows his wide reading of contemporary religious literature and an unusual sensitivity both to truth and to beauty."
+ Kirkus 18:595 O 1 '50 80w

CLARK, WALTER HOUSTON. Oxford group; its history and significance. 268p $3.50 Bookman associates, inc.

248 Oxford group 51-1841

"The activity of the 'Oxford' or 'Buchman' movement through 30 years affords ample material for such a historical and evaluative study as this. Part of the data was obtained by a questionnaire. Dr. Clark's approach is that of a psychologist (Ph.D. in education, Harvard)." Christian Century

"As an historian of the movement, Dr. Clark writes authoritatively and well. He is especially well informed about the earlier phases of the movement. . . The basic weakness in this study as a contribution to sociology is that the author is less interested in problems of the general type of movement and group than he is to evaluate it in terms of its presumed effects on the social order, and especially on the personalities and attitudes of participants in it." A. W. Eister
+ — Am Soc R 16:435 Je '51 300w

"While it is extremely difficult to assess the significance of a current religious movement, Dr. Clark, associate professor of psychology and education at Middlebury College, has turned in a successful performance in measuring the velocity of the Oxford Group Movement. Here is a revised form of a doctoral dissertation at Harvard with little of the pedestrianism native to most dissertations, written with much of the acumen of an experienced educational observer." L. W. Norris
+ Ann Am Acad 278:229 N '51 700w

Christian Century 68:466 Ap 11 '51 50w

Reviewed by R. L. Hightower
Crozer Q 29:88 Ja '52 400w

"Although Dr. Clark's analysis of the reasons why the Oxford Group appeals to certain elements of the upper classes is quite convincing, he somehow fails to see that revivalism—even upper-class revivalism—has succeeded most spectacularly when there was strong reason for stressing individual 'sin' rather than social action. . . All the same, here is a fascinating study of one of the most interesting modern cults—a study worth reading for its inherent interest as well as for the light it sheds on important theoretical issues." Carey McWilliams
+ — Nation 172:428 My 5 '51 550w

"Dr. Clark has presented an impartial study of Buchmanism in which calm scholarship replaces the emotion that is usually connected with any discussion of the controversial Oxford Group." A. B. T.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 Ap 22 '51 160w

"A vivid and well-written account." G. A. Panichas
+ Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 150w

CLARKE, ARTHUR CHARLES. Interplanetary flight; an introduction to astronautics. 164p il $2.50 Harper

629.1388 Rockets (aeronautics). Interplanetary voyages 51-10746

"Into this . . . introduction to astronautics the assistant secretary of the British Interplanetary Society (analogue of the American Rocket Society) has compacted the main facts and suppositions which make astronautics reasonable and perhaps possible." Sat R of Lit

Booklist 47:358 Je 15 '51

"At whatever level it is read—whether as a short summary of the technical problems of astral navigation—or as a clear and accurate account of what is now known about interplanetary flight, Mr. Clarke's book is equally enjoyable and informative." D. F.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 S 30 '51 550w

"Extraordinarily concise and lucid."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:29 Jl 7 '51 230w

"For so small a book, this is remarkably comprehensive. It contains just enough mathematics and formulae to satisfy the stickler. The reader who has no stomach for such will lose nothing of the book's excitement and persuasiveness if he skips them."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p376 Je 16 '50 750w

CLARKE, CHARLES FREDERICK ORME. Britain today [Eng title: Experiment in freedom]. (Lowell inst. Lectures, 1950) 248p $3 Harvard univ. press

914.2 Great Britain—Politics and government. Great Britain—Social conditions

"A review of current political and social trends" (Subtitle) in which an Englishman interprets his country to the United States. No index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:1218 D '51
Booklist 48:47 O 1 '51

"This is a very fine picture of a nation and one that most Englishmen would like the world to believe. They would even like to believe it themselves. . . When the author does cite some facts they bear little resemblance to reality." Arthur Veysey
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 9 '51 320w

"The lecturer, who is English, likes the English, in the last analysis, and wants the Americans to like them, too. There is a great deal of practical information tucked away in the little tome, and it can and does tell the Yankees much, but somehow this is not a book for the very serious minded, the analytic, or the skeptical." Roger Shaw
Churchman 165:16 N 15 '51 160w

Reviewed by Roger Pippett
N Y Times p22 O 14 '51 180w

"The difficulties of transposing a series of lectures into book form notwithstanding, Mr. Clarke has succeeded in presenting certain of the aspects of the evolution of British democracy in an understandable and highly readable fashion." W. L. Rofes
+ Pol Sci Q 66:628 D '51 500w

"As Mr. Clarke kept to broad generalities, the lapse of a year has done little harm. Since the lectures, the economic situation has worsened very seriously. . . The only development which affects Mr. Clarke's conclusions is the new economic crisis. Such is the reward for sticking to A.B.C.'s, which Mr. Clarke has done with intelligence and charm. The lectures come in pleasant doses which would do Americans good to take at any time but which now become a treat on the eve of the general elections." H. L. Matthews
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 O 13 '51 750w

School & Society 74:351 D 1 '51 20w

CLARKE, DONALD HENDERSON. Man of the world; recollections of an irreverent reporter. 304p $3 Vanguard

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10053

Autobiographical reminiscences, centering in the author's life as a newspaper reporter in New York in the 1920s.

"It is a rollicking volume, for the author, as he frequently emphasizes, found newspapering a joyous pursuit." Leander Danley
Churchman 165:15 My 15 '51 100w

Kirkus 19:89 F 1 '51 140w

"To one who knew many of the men he recalls, the book is nostalgic—even though Clarke omits the staider and more reputable side of newspaper work." Russell Owen

N Y Times p16 Ap 1 '51 470w

Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 480w

CLARKE, EDITH. Circuit analysis of A-C power systems, v 2. (General electric ser) 396p il $8.50 Wiley

621.3133 Electric currents, Alternating. Electric circuits (43-12957)

"The second volume of a work of interest to upperclass and graduate students of electrical engineering and to electrical engineers in industry who are beginning to work in the analysis of a-c power systems. . . In the present volume, such components of power systems as transformers, induction machines, synchronous machines, and the effects of protective devices, especially relays, are considered. Miss Clarke was for many years with the central engineering department of the General Electric Company and is now professor of electrical engineering in the University of Texas." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:331 F 15 '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:23 Mr '51

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:321 S '51 300w

CLARKE, HENRY HARRISON. Application of measurement to health and physical education. 2d ed 493p il $6; to schools $4.50 Prentice-Hall

371.73 Physical education and training 50-13005

"Textbook to be used in physical education courses. First [edition was] published in March, 1945. In the new edition the work has been brought completely up to date and has been altered slightly in format to present a more comprehensive and smooth-flowing continuity." Springf'd Republican

School & Society 72:190 S 16 '50 20w

"A separate part of the text is devoted to each of the objectives of physical education, so that the importance of each objective, the educational and administrative procedures for its realization and the various types of tests appropriate to it may be found together." J. F. S.

Springf'd Republican p10C D 10 '50 360w

CLAWSON, MARION. Uncle Sam's acres. 414p il maps $5 Dodd

333.1 U.S.—Public lands 51-10247

"Over a billion acres, 71 per cent, of the original public domain have been sold by the federal government or granted to states and to railroads; 42,000,000 acres remain in its possession, plus 56,000,000 acres of Indian lands for which it is trustee—a total of 24 per cent of the area of the United States. . . This book by the director of the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of the Interior tells how our public lands have been acquired and disposed of, and how they are at present used and administered." (Nation) Bibliography. Index.

"While Clawson gives an impeccable critique for the composition and use of advisory boards in federal administration, he gives no adequate indication of the unhealthy influence of these bodies over the Grazing Service during the first twelve years under the Taylor Grazing Act. . . As the operating head of an agency subject to vigorous pressure-group activity and the consequent congressional criticism, Clawson shows both courage and insight in his discussion of these phenomena and of the manner in which the federal administrator should deal with them as he seeks to give expression to the 'public interest.'" Charles McKinley

Am Pol Sci R 45:1194 D '51 700w

Booklist 47:375 Jl 1 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51

"A clear and comprehensive report."

+ Nation 172:525 Je 2 '51 100w

"This is an excellent reference for the student of economics, history, and land-policies (or politics). The over-all implications are vital information for every voter-owner." R. W. Howard

+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 Jl 14 '51 270w

Reviewed by R. L. Neuberger

Survey 87:293 Je '51 450w

CLEARY, BEVERLY. Ellen Tebbits; il. by Louis Darling. 160p $2 Morrow

51-11430

Ellen was thin and had bands on her teeth, but in most respects she was like any other third grader. The story is about her dancing class and school experiences, and her efforts to find a best friend.

Booklist 47:405 Jl 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p20 O 21 '51 230w

Christian Science Monitor p11 S 6 '51 50w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:408 D '51 50w

Kirkus 19:319 Jl 1 '51 180w

"Written with that humor and genuineness of character that appeal to girls in grades 3-4. Delightful illustrations. . . Recommended." Averil Randall

+ Library J 76:1433 S 15 '51 100w

"The creator of that riotously funny boy, 'Henry Huggins,' now brightens the lives of third grade girls. In 'Ellen Tebbits,' Ellen and her troubles are both funny to the young and touching to older readers." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 14 '51 170w

"Mrs. Cleary writes from a sure knowledge of the third-grader's world. Her humor isn't always so uproarious as it is in 'Henry Huggins,' but there is plenty of it." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p36 S 23 '51 120w

San Francisco Chronicle p11 N 11 '51 80w

'Beverly Cleary has a special gift for making the children in her stories funny and pathetic at the same time. . . Through all Ellen's joys and sorrows there runs a thread of humor that makes the reader chuckle even when he is sympathizing with her. Louis Darling's drawings of Ellen and Austine and their friends and enemies are so good that they add greatly to the story."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:60 N 10 '51 130w

Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 50w

Wis Lib Bul 47:191 Jl '51

CLEGG, HELEN, and LAROM, MARY. Jewelry making for fun and profit; introd. by Lawrence L. Jarvie, drawings by Mary Larom; phot. by Bernard M. Acosta. 162p $3 McKay

739.27 Jewelry 51-11325

Describes easy methods of making wire jewelry. Contains photographs and drawings. Appendix gives sources of equipment and glossary.

Booklist 48:45 O 1 '51

Bookmark 10:228 Jl '51 20w

"Their designs are sound, with a few exceptions such as rings, and in a limited medium they have been clever enough to create a great variety of satisfying designs. Anyone with a desire to create could from his first lesson here make an acceptable and wearable piece of jewelry, and could go on to more intricate and original pieces." Russell MacFall

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 22 '51 120w

CLEGG, HELEN—Continued
"The directions are clear, step-by-step affairs, the drawings supplement the written instructions, and the photographs show the finished results. The authors include a list of places where the simple tools and other materials may be purchased if they are not available in local stores." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:423 D '51 70w
Wis Lib Bul 47:185 Jl '51

CLEMEN, WOLFGANG H. Development of Shakespeare's imagery; with a pref. by J. Dover Wilson. 236p $3.25 Harvard univ. press
822.33 Shakespeare, William—Style. Figures of speech A51-9877
"Dr. Wolfgang H. Clemen, who first published the substance of the present volume in German as 'Shakespeare's Bilder' (1936), is decidedly more modest and cautious than those critics who seem to find little but image and symbol in Shakespeare's plays. 'It is obvious,' he says, '. . . that an interpretation of Shakespeare based solely on this approach is apt to lose sight of the "dramatic reality" of his plays and to neglect such important aspects as dramatic technique, plot, stage conditions, etc.' Precisely. And so Dr. Clemen undertakes to give us a study of Shakespeare's imagery that will redress the balance and will consider this admittedly significant element in proper relation to the other 'important aspects' of the plays." Sat R of Lit

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 O 7 '51 400w
"An essential tool for any sizeable Shakespeare or theatre collection." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1706 O 15 '51 40w
"One of the virtues of such a satisfying and stimulating book as Mr Clemen's is that it excites a reader to register the few points at which it provokes dissent, or qualification rather than dissent. . . But on all counts Clemen's is a grand book." H. B. Charlton
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 21 '51 750w
"Professor Clemen's is a thoroughly well-balanced approach. . . Shakespeare's 'power to associate the imagery with the very fabric of the play' has as one important department of its operation the ability to use imagery for establishing and exposing character. The examination of Othello in this light is one of the best things in a most important book." J. I. M. Stewart
+ New Statesman & Nation 42:319 S 22 '51 600w
Reviewed by Milton Crane
Sat R of Lit 34:12 O 20 '51 900w
"If Dr. Clemen has bitten off more than he can chew, plenty remains on the bill of fare to feed the hungry and tempt the surfeited. But his book, pace Dover Wilson, is useful rather than lovely, thoughtful rather than sensitive, more synthetic than penetrating." George Rylands
Times [London] Lit Sup p566 S 7 '51 2000w
+ — Spec 187:191 Ag 10 '51 750w

CLEVELAND, REGINALD MCINTOSH, and WILLIAMSON, SAMUEL THURSTON. The road is yours; the story of the automobile and the men behind it. 304p il $3.75 Greystone
629.209 Automobiles 51-11790
Popularly written history of the development of the automobile industry in America.

"It is a great story, well illustrated, and told with vigor and skill. It is the saga of a few brave men who had the courage and determination to overcome frustration and disaster making jobs for millions and comfort for all of us." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ag 5 '51 190w
Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 77:60 Ja 1 '52 130w
Reviewed by Peter Blake
N Y Times p7 S 9 '51 350w
New Yorker 27:128 O 6 '51 130w
Reviewed by E. M. Tainton
San Francisco Chronicle p11 S 16 '51 380w
"It is crammed with anecdotes and ana that are linked together to form a neat assembly-line history, and the result is an admirable small-compass survey covering every phase of motordom."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:49 D 8 '51 120w
"One of the best of the numerous books published in recent years about the origin and growth of the automobile industry is 'The Road Is Yours.' "
+ Springf'd Republican p8C Ag 12 '51 150w

CLIFTON, ALLAN STEPHEN. Time of fallen blossoms; il. by Yoshinori Kinoshita. 239p $3 Knopf
915.2 Japan—History—Allied occupation, 1945-. Japan—Description and travel. National characteristics, Japanese 51-9538
"An appraisal of Japan and its people, by a member of the Australian occupation force who was stationed near Hiroshima during 1946 and who acted as interpreter for John Hersey. Mr. Clifton's initial skepticism about the Japanese, engendered by his war experiences, vanished almost immediately after he established close personal contact with them in his role of interpreter and informal errand boy for non-Japanese-speaking occupation officers." New Yorker

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 40w
"Well written, sensitive account of the early days of the allied occupation of Japan." Edith Weigle
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Mr 18 '51 420w
Reviewed by Brian Roberts
Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 12 '51 460w
Kirkus 18:746 D 15 '50 90w
" 'Time of Fallen Blossoms,' must be considered not only a charming introduction to post-war Japan but a challenge to the conscience of any Westerner." S. R. Rau
+ Nation 172:208 Mr 3 '51 1300w
" 'Many people come to praise the cherry trees in bloom, but they are truly kind who visit them after the blossoms are fallen.' This Japanese poem set at the beginning of the book is a good description of what Mr. Clifton has done for post-war Japan. Now that Japan is on the way to becoming our ally, 'Time of Fallen Blossoms' merits reading not only as literature but as a help to understanding." Bradford Smith
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 F 25 '51 800w
"Allen S. Clifton had the unique advantage of speaking the language fluently, while looking with fresh eyes at a land he had never seen before. Sympathetic but always realistic he penetrated beneath the surface of Japanese life in a way few Occidentals have ever done and, despite all the sordidness of life among the poor in Japan, especially in the early post-war years, he found a simple dignity and serenity that is hard to match." E. O. Reischauer
+ N Y Times p26 F 18 '51 600w
New Yorker 27:100 F 24 '51 200w
Reviewed by Jane Voiles
San Francisco Chronicle p21 F 25 '51 700w
"This is neither a sentimental nor an unthinking estimate of the Japanese. Like his brilliant fellow colonial William Plomer, he gives us a fascinating and understanding picture." Pamela Taylor
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 Je 2 '51 650w
Times [London] Lit Sup p144 Mr 9 '51 600w
Wis Lib Bul 47:163 Je '51

CLOSE, ROBERT SHAW. Love me sailor. 286p $3 Fell 50-10466

A novel of the sea. A windjammer on a voyage from Chile to San Francisco, with one woman passenger, is the scene. The novel pictures the wild upheavals caused by the presence of the woman, and its effects on the captain and crew.

"Mr. Close has used the old device of the group of characters who cannot escape from each other quite effectively and the battle with the storm is most exciting. The style is a little lush, but there is enough authentic suspense to make this an excellent adventure novel."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 N 26 '50 270w

"For the benefit of those who have sufficient strength of purpose to wade through the verbal erotica, it must be said that the ending has a certain power." Jane Cobb
— + N Y Times p13 D 31 '50 100w

"The author achieves some dignity in describing life on a ship, a storm at sea, and all that, but fails dismally when he attempts the emotional phase. His amorous images indeed have an unintended comic aspect. . . It would have made a better story if the author had piped down a little." John Cournos
— + Sat R of Lit 33:32 D 23 '50 270w

CLOSTERMANN, PIERRE. Big show; some experiences of a French fighter pilot in the R. A. F; tr. by Oliver Berthoud; with a foreword by Sir John Slessor. 242p $3 Random house

940.544 World war, 1939-1945—Personal narratives, French. World war, 1939-1945—Aerial operations 51-12745

Personal narrative, partly in diary form, relating the experiences of a young French pilot who served with the Royal Air Force during the second World war.

Booklist 48:28 S 15 '51

Reviewed by John Nicol
Canadian Forum 31:188 N '51 270w

Reviewed by V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 9 '51 300w

"Interesting, informative and a valuable addition to World War II combat literature."
+ Kirkus 19:340 Jl 1 '51 160w

"In reality a diary, these day by day impressions catch the terrors and joys, fears and hopes of the single airman without false glamor and bravado. A desperate lonely book, worthy to be placed beside those of his countryman, Antoine de St. Exupéry. Recommended as good reading for any library." R. S. Taylor
+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 80w

"The Big Show has been described by some critics as a work of genuine literature. That it is not; indeed, in his preface M. Clostermann himself denies any such claim. But his book represents a piece of first-class reportage." T. R. Fyvel
+ New Statesman & Nation 41:688 Je 16 '51 800w

Reviewed by Louis Falstein
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Ag 26 '51 300w

"'The Big Show' is something more than reporting, something less than great writing. In the tournament of literature, he is still overshadowed by Antoine de St. Exupéry." Walter Mehring
N Y Times p11 Ag 26 '51 450w

"There is some first-rate writing, and since the author is French and has no traditional restraint about recounting his exploits as well as his failures, there is much interesting and emotional material about the lot of an air fighter."
+ New Yorker 27:116 S 8 '51 170w

Reviewed by Jack Aldridge
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Ag 26 '51 700w

"If this story does not have the unique quality of the recent books relating the famous prison-camp escapes of Allied airmen, it is nonetheless part of the record. Whether popular attention favors it just now or not, it will stand in the record with the simple eloquence and honest reporting of this valiant Frenchman." Edmund Fuller
Sat R of Lit 35:12 Ja 12 '52 500w

"A well-knit, well-written book that I found absorbingly interesting." P. B. Joubert
+ Spec 185:624 My 11 '51 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p323 My 25 '51 800w

CLOUGH, SHEPARD BANCROFT. The rise and fall of civilization. 291p maps $4.50 McGraw

901 Civilization—History. Economic conditions 51-12730

"An inquiry into the relationship between economic development and civilization." (Subtitle) "Attention [is] focused primarily upon the cultures of Sumer, Egypt, Babylon, the Aegean, Greece, Rome, and Western Europe. . . [The purpose has been] to see how various factors of economic progress developed, to judge whether or not certain forces resulted in an increase in the production of goods and services per capita, and to suggest the relationship between economic progress and the achievement of higher levels of civilization." (p.21) Index.

Reviewed by M. T. Hodgen
Am Soc R 16:880 D '51 600w

Booklist 48:82 N 1 '51

Current Hist 21:354 D '51 110w

"An excellent work in its field but with obvious limitations for general sales."
Kirkus 19:419 Ag 1 '51 130w

"A brilliant, stimulating survey." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 90w

"The complex story is told in such a way as to convey a sense of its complexity without any sacrifice of the fruits of the author's fine simplification. The moral which emerges is neither unctuous, as in Toynbee's loose jointed but prolix effort; nor is it pessimistic as in Spengler's morose meanderings; nor yet both unctuous and morose, as in Sorokin's lucubrations. This treatise is modest, succinct, hopeful, realistic. Here at last is an American philosophy of history offered at the noonday of America's rendezvous with destiny." T. V. Smith
+ N Y Times p22 S 23 '51 320w

COATSWORTH, ELIZABETH JANE (MRS HENRY BESTON). Dollar for luck; il. by George and Doris Hauman. 154p $2.25 Macmillan
51-10202

A "store boat" making trips along the Maine coast during the latter part of the nineteenth century provides the background for this story for ages 10 to 12. Emily, the orphaned "help" on the boat, changes place with Ken, who longed to go to sea, to the satisfaction of everybody.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

"The characters are as salty and vigorous as the air along that beautiful coast. The adventures are spiced with a mystery which introduces an interesting treatment of a pair of human misfits. Ken and Emily make a lovable team in a well written story." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 12 '51 150w

"The characters are convincing and the author's knowledge and love of Maine place this high on the list of good regional stories." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:181 My '51 100w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
Horn Bk 27:238 Jl '51 80w

COATSWORTH, E. J.—Continued

"The books of Elizabeth Coatsworth are remarkable for their evocative period and regional sense as well as immediacy of action, and this story of a boy and girl and a trading ship off Maine, shares in these elements. However, as has happened once or twice before, the author is inclined to tangent on an interpretation of personality often too sophisticated for her readers."

+ — Kirkus 19:63 F 1 '51 220w

"Recommended." Virginia Russell

+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 80w

"It all rings true to Maine ways. Its moral attitude is as bracing as is the air it brings from that dramatic coast the author knows so well. Like her 'Door to the North,' one of the best books of last year for older readers, it proves again her ability to tell a good story in a fine style, integrating plot and people and setting." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 My 13 '51 270w

"This is an exceptionally well told story, with thoroughly convincing characters whose 'Down East' background has been drawn with knowledge and understanding." Eugenia Garson

+ N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '51 130w

+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 Je 9 '51 230w

Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 100w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 60w

COATSWORTH, ELIZABETH JANE (MRS HENRY BESTON). The Enchanted; an incredible tale. 157p il $2.50 Pantheon bks.

51-10514

A fantasy about a young Maine farmer, living on the edge of a wood called The Enchanted. Altho he is warned about his jolly neighbors, the Perdry family, Dave marries Molly Perdry, and almost lives to regret it.

Booklist 47:381 Jl 1 '51

Bookmark 10:231 Jl '51 30w

Reviewed by Mildred Walker

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 22 '51 400w

"Elizabeth Coatsworth's story is a happy fantasy for the discerning reader, reminiscent of certain favorite fairy tales of childhood. It can be fittingly placed on the shelf beside this author's 'The Cat Who Went to Heaven,' which has become a classic of its kind. The decorations by Robert Winthrop White add greatly to the charm of the book." O. D. H.

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 My 10 '51 450w

"There is an ineradicable magic that defies criticism and analysis and it is this rare quality that gives to The Enchanted an atmosphere of pure joy in living, at sixteen or at five times sixteen. I rejoice that the publishers have given it a format which might have been designed in the forest. It is such a book as I would like to send to countries which have no conception that country life in America can still hold romance and reality on terms of equality." A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk 27:316 S '51 350w

"A pleasant reading experience if you are addicted to Maine ways and fairy tale surprises."

+ Kirkus 19:233 My 1 '51 130w

"Beautiful descriptions of farm and woods life, of gentle, simple people, and a subtly unfolding plot will appeal to discriminating and imaginative readers, especially those who recognize the theme of Undine at its heart." Siri Andrews

+ Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 70w

"The book is beautifully wrought, with the sense of something growing, as organic as a tree. Miss Coatsworth's gifts of poetry and of writing for children both help to crystallize the scrupulous magic of her adult prose. There are specific virtues which could be listed; she sifts out time between her easy fingers as a natural cook sifts salt. She has a canny, or uncanny, feeling for the nature of all creatures, and she blends the natural and the supernatural into one mystery, shining and knowable. In her hands the enigma of the living world suddenly turns up the level facet of simplicity." L. T. Nicholl

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 My 20 '51 480w

"In less skillful hands, this might have become a half-baked fairy story sloshed with overwriting. Mrs. Coatsworth knows what she is about—and her book has discipline of form as well as loveliness of style. She drugs the reader into her own acceptance of the strangeness of all nature, and after a few chapters one feels that 'The Enchanted' is not only a beautiful book, but one which is essentially believable." Jane Cobb

+ N Y Times p14 Jl 1 '51 270w

New Yorker 27:136 My 26 '51 40w

Reviewed by S. H. Hay

Sat R of Lit 34:27 Je 30 '51 400w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal

Springf'd Republican p5D Je 3 '51 150w

COATSWORTH, ELIZABETH JANE (MRS HENRY BESTON). Night and the cat; with il. by Foujita. 55p $3 Macmillan

811 50-10240

Short poems all about cats. The illustrations are black and white drawings.

Booklist 47:132 D 1 '50

"This little volume falls below the highest level of cat-poetry, but it is not to be utterly disdained. Twelve drawings by the famous Japanese artist, Foujita, serve as illustrations. For cat lovers and collectors of cat-strophes. But not for the most intensely discriminating."

+ — Kirkus 18:498 Ag 15 '50 60w

"Miss Coatsworth writes with delicacy of cats, her verse having often the gentle grace of a kitten; less frequently the sheathed violence of the roving tom. . . It may be, however, that the cat comes off a little better in Foujita's delightful drawings than in Miss Coatsworth's skillful, pretty poems." Richard Lockridge

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 D 24 '50 270w

"It would be difficult, I think, even for people who don't like cats to resist the appeal of this book. Mrs. Coatsworth has captured the many-faceted charm of her subject in poetry which has wit and grace and a wholly appropriate dignity. She writes with humor and a beautiful simplicity, and there is nothing here of the sentimental or mawkish." S. H. Hay

+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 Jl 21 '51 650w

COATSWORTH, ELIZABETH JANE (MRS HENRY BESTON). Wishing pear; il. by Ralph Ray. 64p $2 Macmillan

51-13514

The pear tree was planted the day Betsy was born in New Amsterdam long ago. This story of a little Dutch girl and her English friend closes on the day when Peter Stuyvesant did not fire on the British ships. And Betsy was sure it was all because the very first pear on her tree, the wishing pear, was given to the governor at the right moment.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 N 11 '51 90w

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

Christian Science Monitor p8 O 18 '51 50w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:323 S '51 60w

"A charming tale, this fills a need for good historical stories for this age group. Second year reading."

+ Kirkus 19:317 Jl 1 '51 160w

Reviewed by Mary Strang

Library J 76:2009 D 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 18 '51 60w

"The story seems a little forced and is less substantial than 'First Adventure,' the first book in the series. It does, however, portray the easy tolerant life of the little city." E. L. B.
N Y Times p34 O 28 '51 140w

COBB, IVO GEIKIE-. Guide to medicine; with special articles by various contributors. 416p $5 Duell

610.3 Medicine—Dictionaries and encyclopedias 51-2564

Medical encyclopedia "for those who wish to know the meaning of medical terms." Does not contain detailed accounts of treatment of important subjects. Index.

"The volume is commendably up to date on such matters as ACTH and cortisone, aureomycin and chloromycetin. The volume can be a very useful asset to those for whose use it is intended." R. M. Atwater
+ Am J Pub Health 41:866 Jl '51 180w

"Authoritative, alphabetically arranged dictionary."
+ Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 40w

COBURN, KATHLEEN, ed. See Coleridge, S. T. Inquiring spirit

COE, CHARLES FRANCIS. Pressure. 186p $2.75 Random house
51-12025

A novel about an unsuccessful lawyer who is roped in by a band of criminals. The lawyer himself is the narrator of this story of fear, death by violence, and of a beautiful woman whom nobody dared to kill.

"As crime novels go, it isn't a bad effort. Mr. Coe's flare for heady action is as much in evidence as ever, but, curiously enough, his fictional picture of organized political corruption lacked, for me at least, the impact you will find on almost any page of Estes Kefauver's 'Crime in America.' " V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ag 26 '51 320w
Kirkus 19:328 Jl 1 '51 90w

"Mr. Coe, who is a lawyer, tells a lawyer's story—precise, well worked out and dry. In spite of a somewhat old-fashioned style, it is a story as modern as today's Kefauver hearings."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 9 '51 200w

"Purportedly a Kefauver-type study of criminal gang-domination in America, it's simply lurid hack melodrama couched in bad prose." Anthony Boucher
— N Y Times p20 Ag 26 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 2 '51 50w

COE, FREDERICK L. Knight of the cross; a story of the Crusades; il. by Robin King. 245p $2.75 Sloane 51-11488

This story of the part played by a Viking youth in the Crusades is for ages twelve to sixteen. It follows Olaf's trip south from Norway to the Balearic Isles, Byzantium, and Damascus, and ends with the fall of Jerusalem.

"Refreshingly relieved of the familiar ponderous heroics and nomenclature, this dashing romance is told with vigor and skill."
+ Kirkus 19:324 Jl 1 '51 120w

"Vivid portrayal of a noble knight which older boys and girls will enjoy. . . Recommended." L. E. Cathon
+ Library J 76:2018 D 1 '51 80w

"Characters are wooden, and the period never becomes alive. Not recommended." C. W. Field
— Library J 76:2018 D 1 '51 80w

"The story is full of exciting action and surprising information about the period, especially its ways of battle." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 23 '51 220w

"The story is touched with the magic that even a thousand years later clings to the drama of those who sought to drive the infidel from Jerusalem. It is filled with accounts of all types of ancient warfare, from personal combat to the clash of great armies. The detailed descriptions, the fast, often tense action, and the magnificent illustrations will win an enthusiastic reception among young readers." R. A. Brown
+ N Y Times p36 S 23 '51 200w

"This is an outstanding book. . . [It] is splendidly written, packed full of information about the warfare of the time." M. P. A.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:60 N 10 '51 330w

COFFIN, ROBERT PETER TRISTRAM. Apples by ocean [il. by the author]. 128p $2.75 Macmillan

811 * 50-10425

Poems about the state of Maine, its coastline, its farmers, and the things its inhabitants hold dear.

Booklist 47:270 Ap 1 '51
Kirkus 18:411 Jl 15 '50 100w

"Mr. Coffin has written so many books that he wears somewhat thin and repetitious at times, but not in this latest collection of lyrics, several of which are truly lovely." Shirley Barker
+ Library J 76:48 Ja 1 '51 80w

"Mr. Coffin's popularity has been earned by genuine gusto, and by his enthusiasm, somewhat unedited, for the state of Maine in all its aspects, for small boys, especially himself as a small boy, 'characters,' animals, the seasonal changes on inland and coastal landscape. All these elements are amply represented in 'Apples by Ocean.' When he is at his best, he overrides by sheer exuberance the dismay caused by his failure to take even finite pains." Robert Hillyer
+ N Y Times p9 D 24 '50 230w
Springf'd Republican p12B D 31 '50 100w

COFFIN, ROBERT PETER TRISTRAM. On the green carpet. 277p il $3 Bobbs

808.1 Country life. Poetry 51-11021

Lectures on the making of poetry, first delivered at the University of Cincinnati. In them the author celebrates the delights of country life, especially in Maine, and illustrates some of his points with lines from his own poems. No index.

Booklist 47:399 Jl 15 '51

"A rich and rewarding book. It includes a great many lines of Coffin's poetry, most of which is charming, filled with the sound and feel of the country, enriched by the poet's appreciation of his native land; it includes also some drawings by the poet, but Mr. Coffin is not an artist." August Derleth
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 10 '51 450w

Reviewed by R. E. Donlon
Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 28 '51 500w

"Farms are largely involved with such unlyrical matters as death and dung and he who incautiously espouses nature finds himself mated with a cannibalistic and disorderly person, maintaining a code that mankind has advanced only by vehemently opposing it. This petty demurrer, however, does not detract from the fact that Mr. Coffin has written another vital and beautiful book." F. F. Van de Water
+ — N Y Times p7 Jl 1 '51 350w

COFFIN, TRISTRAM P. British traditional ballad in North America. (Bibliographical ser) 188p $4.50 Am. folk-lore soc.

784.4 Ballads 51-1318

"Two distinct matters of interest to the student of the ballad are treated in this book. The first problem to come under Professor Coffin's scrutiny is that of 'variation in the ballad texts.' There are presented several wholly reasonable theories to account for the numerous changes rung on the more pristine British originals. . . The second and lengthier portion of the book consists of a guide to the chief published sources dealing with American variants of the English ballads originally collected by Francis James Child. As part of this section, Professor Coffin points out the story variations found in North America within each ballad, and in addition, traces borrowing from one ballad to another. The book contains also a general bibliography relating to the field of American folk song, and an index to the ballads discussed." U S Quarterly Bk R

New Yorker 27:122 Ap 28 '51 100w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:182 Je '51 220w

COFFMAN, STANLEY K. Imagism; a chapter for the history of modern poetry. 235p $3 Univ. of Okla. press

811.09 American poetry—History and criticism. Poetry 51-9592

A study of modern poetic forms, which opens with a chronology of the Imagist movement. It presents material on the courses of modern poetic form, and sketches of persons associated with Imagism in the 1900's in England and America. Index.

Booklist 47:291 Ap 15 '51

"Mr. Coffman gives a thoroughly well informed account of the course of the movement, and a well balanced appraisal of its values and shortcomings." W. E. G.
+ Christian Century 68:1018 S 5 '51 200w
Nation 173:176 S 1 '51 350w

"Mr. Coffman's chapter in the history of modern poetry is a useful one; it is deliberately limited in its scope, careful and accurate in its documentation and modest in its conclusions." Andrews Wanning
+ New Eng Q 24:402 S '51 800w

"The book looks cleanly written, and for the most part is so. At any rate, it is written as if by a man of letters and not an intelligence officer. It is humorless. But so is every other literary history that I know—I suppose the convention was too strong to break even with this subject. And at least Mr. Coffman doesn't make any pretenses; he keeps his dignity; there are none of the creaky capers of professional wit that always make the absence of humor the more obvious in these scholarly performances." J. E. Hardy
+ Poetry 78:294 Ag '51 1500w

"Well-written study."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:140 Je '51 180w

COGGINS, JACK, and PRATT, FLETCHER. Rockets, jets, guided missiles and space ships [foreword by Willy Ley]. il col il $1 Random house

629.13 Rockets (aeronautics)—Juvenile literature. Interplanetary voyages—Juvenile literature 51-7326

An illustrated account of the history and development of rocket science from the Chinese inventions in the thirteenth century to the present. For grades five to ten.

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

"The illustrations in color, charts, and diagrams are dramatic and informative. A fascinating book for boys." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ja 6 '52 150w

"Recommended for all ages." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:1947 N 15 '51 110w

"A color picture book on these subjects, at this low price, is a boon for the thousands of youngsters from ten up who are absorbed in such matters. The brief text is far from childish; it would interest boys up to fourteen." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 11 '51 180w

"Should delight all interplanetary pioneers. . . Jack Coggins' eye-popping illustrations are enough to make any boy dissatisfied with his drab, earth-bound existence and right away start building a pair of electro-magnetic boots for use on the outside of a space-station." Creighton Peet
+ N Y Times p32 N 11 '51 130w

"Jack Coggins's fine drawings, printed in black and white and in color, made this look at first like a picture book. It is really a highly technical affair—up-to-date, practical, and thorough—on a subject that fascinates older boys. It should be very popular."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:72 N 10 '51 50w

COHANE, TIMOTHY. Yale football story. 369p il $6 Putnam

796.33 Yale university. Football 51-13447

"A full length history of football at Yale, by the Sports Editor of Look, emphasizing the many important contributions of Yale to the development of the game, with some account of its origin in America." Library J

Booklist 48:96 N 15 '51

"An interest-sustaining, valuable 'record' book. Recommended." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1812 N 1 '51 40w

"The large photographic sections will appeal to the unaffiliated reader as well as to nostalgic sons of Old Eli. It is refreshing to read of football as an exciting, high-spirited game played for free rather than as heavy industry." C. K. Larrabie
+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 D 2 '51 170w

COHEN, BERNARD LANDE. Case for conservatism. 143p $3 Exposition

330.15 Economics. Economic policy 50-35742

"This book sets out to expose the errors of Marxism, socialism, liberalism, and internationalism. . . It argues that a society based on equality is impossible; that the communist economy has much in common with the capitalist economy; that no system is perfect, least of all the Soviet system; and that all systems contain evil, waste, and woe. The author presents some apt historical illustrations." Canadian Forum

"The book lacks the eloquence of Mill's work On Liberty and Hayek's The Road to Serfdom, but it contains some striking passages and in general is well informed. Aside from emphasis, informed readers will find in it little that is new, while economists and others will criticize it on some points. Most of it runs to description and criticism rather than to the argument which its title suggests; but the general reader, for whom it is intended, should learn something from it." Edmund Whittaker
Ann Am Acad 273:263 Ja '51 350w

"The best thing about the book is its fairly consistent attitude of disenchantment and pessimism. This spirit is a strong challenge to liberals and socialists. The worst thing about the book, from my point of view, is its style. The author is obsessed with big, literary words, and the argument bogs down in them. The fact that Mr. Cohen is a Montrealer will make this book of interest to some Canadians." D. C. Corbett
+ — Canadian Forum 31:115 Ag '51 130w

COHEN, ISRAEL. Contemporary Jewry; a survey of social, cultural, economic, and political conditions. 410p $5.50 British bk. centre

296 Jews—Political and social conditions [50-58318]

"Contents include historical and modern appraisals of distribution, solidarity, education, culture, migrations, persecutions, exterminations, anti-semitism, and the State of Israel. Outdating all existing one-volume works on the subject, this book will enjoy long permanency. Latest statistical data, classified bibliography, serviceable index." Library J

"Despite some oversights the book is a valuable reference volume which contains latest information on its subject. It is not simply a statistical gazeteer but presents a brief history of Jewish education, a discussion of anti-Semitism, a record of Jewish services in the war and other germane topics. The author's encyclopedic attempt at compression of this information has enabled him to give in fewer than 400 pages a good picture, sometimes vivid, of the Jew today." F. A. Levy

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Je 24 '51 200w

Foreign Affairs 30:166 O '51 10w

"Great reference value in public and college libraries for its 'who's who' and 'what's what' aspects." J. M. Scherr

+ Library J 76:776 My 1 '51 110w

Reviewed by Norman Bentwich

Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 1 '50 250w

"A short bibliography and an excellent index increase the value of this book as a brief encyclopedia of Jewish life and of the Zionist movement. Though its general viewpoint is rather conventional and apologetic and hardly does justice to the fascination and complexities which a strange and unique fate has conferred upon Israel and the world, it makes many interesting facts easily accessible to the layman." Hans Kohn

+ — N Y Times p14 Je 17 '51 400w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 O 14 '51 140w

"Here and there throughout the book there are indications that some sections are by no means as up-to-date as they might be, but this is obvious in the cultural section. It is regrettable that Mr. Cohen, like many Jewish writers who are eager to embrace to their scholarly hearts quarter Jews, Jews who were converted to Christianity, and other fractional Jews, includes many not considered Jewish by Jewish communities throughout the world. All in all, however, this is a valuable volume, full of basic information." H. U. Ribalow

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:11 Ag 25 '51 400w

"This book is boring, irritating and rather dishonest."

— Spec 184:192 Ag 11 '50 220w

"The book is ill-arranged; there is much repetition; much material takes the form of dehydrated summaries from printed sources; and the tone is at times petulant. Mr. Cohen can occasionally be misleading."

Times [London] Lit Sup p73 F 2 '51 550w

COHN, ALFRED EINSTEIN, and LINGG, CLAIRE. Burden of diseases in the United States. 129p $10 Oxford

614.15 U.S.—Statistics, Medical 51-1304

"Two eminent representatives of The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and The New York Heart Association, respectively, denominate their unusual book 'an essay,' since it is a critical interpretation of the numerous graphs and charts in the text. A 'beginning' attempt to make 'frozen' U. S. Census Bureau vital statistics tell a dramatic story of the human aspects of the 'grievous' disease burden that afflicts all ages in our population. Invaluable contribution toward solving the political issue of socialized medicine. Folio 9x12, double columns, 106 technical references, no index; with color-chart slip case and celluloid box-cover." Library J

"The data presented, while not new, are usefully summarized, and could have served as a quick source of reference. Unfortunately, however, the book has been designed in a pretentious, oversized manner which makes it unwieldy to handle. Furthermore, the price is excessive in view of the nature of the contents. A small, simple volume that might have served as a quick source of reference, would have been more useful." George Rosen

Am J Pub Health 41:1012 Ag '51 220w

Reviewed by E. L. Linn

Am J Soc 57:99 Jl '51 750w

"To those who are new to the study of the health status of the people of the United States, this book provides a fairly well-rounded discussion. To others, however, it offers little that has not been previously available in the literature." C. G. Sheps

+ — Am Soc R 16:574 Ag '51 500w

Reviewed by S. D. Collins

Ann Am Acad 275:201 My '51 450w

"Primarily for scientific libraries, yet easily informative for educated lay readers on modern medical problems." J. M. Scherr

+ Library J 76:42 Ja 1 '51 130w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:195 Je '51 280w

COLBERT, EDWIN HARRIS. Dinosaur book; the ruling reptiles and their relatives; il. by John C. Germann with additional illustrations previously published, by Charles R. Knight and others; pub. for the American museum of natural history. 2d ed 156p $4 McGraw

568.19 Dinosauria. Reptiles, Fossil 51-11524

"This book has been prepared to fill a definite need, namely, to tell the story of amphibian and reptilian evolution. The book is written to supplement the displays of fossil amphibians and reptiles in the American Museum of Natural History, but the subject matter is handled in such a way that it may be used by anyone interested in the subject, whether he has access to our Museum halls or not." (Pref) This is a revised edition of a book previously issued privately by the American Museum of natural history, where the author is a curator. See Book Review Digest 1946.

Booklist 47:402 Jl 15 '51

"Beautifully illustrated and simply written book. [The author] combines science, detective adventure, and humor into a truthworthy and charming account of those fascinating boneheads." L. T. Heron

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 Ag 5 '51 100w

"Mr. Colbert has sketched his beasts with authority and simplicity. His attempt to bring out the essential drama and appeal of his subject is praiseworthy, but falls short of the goal. Somehow his language couldn't quite free itself from academic explicitness to reach the sparkle and flow that popular exposition demands." R. C. Cowen

Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 12 '51 320w

"A scholarly simplification, done with care, wit, and imagination." N. S. Chasteen

+ Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 70w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 2 '51 220w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:54 Jl '51

COLBY, CARROLL BURLEIGH. Gabbit, the magic rabbit. [30p] il $1.50 Coward-McCann 51-1099

"Gabbit was one of those rabbits that are pulled out of hats in magic shows. One day Gabbit decided to fool the magician and in so doing fooled everyone including the audience and himself." Library J

Christian Science Monitor p6 Je 16 '51 100w

"A delightful bit of nonsense illustrated in wash drawings by the author. Recommended for children 5-7." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 76:526 Mr 15 '51 50w

"Mr. Colby's smooth-talking style is a welcome trait not too common in even the better books to read aloud. The cartoon illustrations are lively enough not to warrant his occasional use of lettered-in dialogue. It is a digression that detracts from the art and interrupts the story." Miriam James

+ — N Y Times p24 Je 17 '51 100w

COLBY, CARROLL BURLEIGH. Our fighting jets. 46p il $1 Coward-McCann

623.746 Airplanes, Military. Jet propulsion 51-12280

Photographs, diagrams, and brief text describing 22 jet planes. For grades five to eight.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

"A book that will fascinate—and enlighten—boys and men of all ages." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 S 30 '51 110w

Kirkus 19:485 S 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by M. I. Ross
Library J 76:1947 N 15 '51 110w

"Boys will be thrilled at such dramatic facts and pictures." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 16 '51 180w

Reviewed by Creighton Peet
N Y Times p32 N 11 '51 30w

Reviewed by W. F. Harmon
Springf'd Republican p12C Ag 26 '51 120w

COLBY, FRANK OLIVER, ed. American pronouncing dictionary of troublesome words. 399p $4.50 Crowell

421.5 English language—Pronunciation 50-10743

"Not a complete dictionary, but a list of the 3000 words most commonly mispronounced in the U.S., with explanations of the author's choice of pronunciation and notes on the derivation of most of the words. Introduced and concluded by chapters arguing that American speech should not be regarded as uncultured English, but as a separate language, derived from many sources and shaped by conditions of life in the U.S.; also, discusses affectations and slovenly speech, the art of reading a dictionary, the fallacy of the broad A, the speaking voice, and microphone technique." Booklist

---

Booklist 47:183 Ja 15 '51

"The book will be helpful, not only to the radio announcer and public speaker, to whom it is especially addressed, but to the general reader as a convenient adjunct to his unabridged dictionary." H. R.
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 D 30 '50 440w

COLE, DAVIS, pseud. Real book about trains; il. by David Millard. 183p $1.25 Garden City bks.

385 Railroads—Juvenile literature 51-12205

"A comprehensive coverage of back-stage information on railroads and railroading and also the history of this very vital business. Into the history are brought those inventions and developments that have made railroading what it is today. These facts are presented in storylike manner. Adequate index. Grade 6-9." Library J

Kirkus 19:320 Jl 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by E. C. Alexander
Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51 40w

"The only objectionable thing about 'The Real Book About Trains' is its title. According to the publishers, there are now 30 titles under contract for the 'Real Books' series. . . If the other 29 are as interestingly and accurately written as this, however, perhaps much can be forgiven."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 N 25 '51 220w

COLE, GEORGE DOUGLAS HOWARD. Essays in social theory. 252p $3 Macmillan

304 Social sciences [51-9216]

"The essays collected in this volume have all been written in the last 10 years, some before, some since, Mr. Cole's appointment as Chichele Professor of Social and Political Theory at Oxford. Most of them had previously been published in one form or another elsewhere; the rest are lectures now printed for the first time. . . The fare provided is various, ranging from an essay on the place of social and political studies in a modern university curriculum to the place of nationality in the modern world." Times [London] Lit Sup

---

"The individual essays stand alone: each of them is complete, and I may add that many of them are at once brilliant and penetrating. They are all lucidly written, and, while they force to reflection, they are not difficult or obscure. Where appropriate, they show a background of a great, but not labored or conspicuously displayed, historical learning or a wide range of knowledge of contemporary issues—from politics and policy to administration and education. They reveal, what is more, a wise, balanced, and mature judgment." T. I. Cook
+ Ann Am Acad 275:213 My '51 750w

Reviewed by Henry Sowerby
Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 19 '51 600w

Foreign Affairs 30:156 O '51 10w

"There is much in these essays which a logician would discard as lose, and a sociologist as old-fashioned. But there is no better introduction to the work of G. D. H. Cole, and their present relevance is evidence that his work is not yet done." W. J. M. M.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 N 7 '50 310w

Reviewed by David Spitz
New Repub 125:19 Jl 2 '51 900w

Reviewed by R. H. S. Crossman
New Statesman & Nation 40:594 D 9 '50 300w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Bruun
Sat R of Lit 34:11 Jl 28 '51 250w

"Professor Cole is always an accomplished and stimulating writer. . . In such a collection unity has to be supplied by the personality and point of view of the author. In this respect Professor Cole leaves little to be desired. The reader is never in doubt where he stands."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p681 O 27 '50 1200w

COLE, LAWRENCE EDWIN, and BRUCE, WILLIAM F. Educational psychology. 768p il $4.50 World bk.

370.15 Educational psychology

Textbook on educational psychology for college students. Includes many case histories. Bibliography. Sources of instructional films. Indexes.

Reviewed by W. W. Brickman
School & Society 74:198 S 29 '51 210w

"Although this excellent textbook differs from many others in the field in tending, at times, to talk about the subject rather than to present the details, in an inspirational role rather than in an instructive one, it is consistent with the authors' purpose of orienting the prospective teacher to the problems of guiding today's children in the current social scene under today's educational philosophy." A. B. Smith
+ School R 59:180 Mr '51 1200w

COLEAN, MILES LANIER. Impact of government on real estate finance in the United States. (Financial res. program. Studies in urban mortgage financing) 171p $2.50 Nat. bur. of economic res.

333.33 Real property. Real estate business. Mortgages—U.S. 50-11733

"The author has had long and broad experience as governmental and private research consultant on housing and real estate financing. This monograph is an examination of the historical development of real estate financing from colonial times, showing how abuses and hardships led to ever-increasing mitigating action by government regulation and active intervention." Library J

"Admirable monograph." H. R. Bowen
+ J Pol Econ 59:182 Ap '51 500w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 75:2004 N 15 '50 70w

"Of great interest to persons directly connected with real estate finance, Mr. Colean's excellent survey should also be of value to others who are concerned with the institution of property and with the nature and function of the state."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:43 Mr '51 300w

COLEMAN, HARRY SHIPP, ed. Laboratory design; with an introduction by Roland Wank. 393p il $12 Reinhold
727.5 Laboratories

"The volume is replete with suggestions as to the selection of the site, the arrangement, design and provision for future expansion. Materials of construction, equipment, maintenance, and services are well covered. The laboratory may be for general purposes such as for teaching or for covering a wide range of industrial work; or the emphasis may be aimed specifically toward one phase of science, be that chemical, physical, high-pressure, radio-active, metallurgical, or biological as examples." Chem & Eng N

"This book is recommended as a prerequisite to the planning of any type of laboratory. Prior reading will enable the executive, engineer, and director to outline to an architect the objective sought and to understand better the ultimate details of design." L. A. Watt
+ Chem & Eng N 29:2222 My 28 '51 210w
Eng N 146:41 Je 14 '51 250w

"An authoritative and comprehensive reference book on modern teaching and research laboratories."
+ N Y New Tech Bks 36:25 Mr '51

COLEMAN, LONNIE. See Coleman, W. L.

COLEMAN, ROY V. Liberty and property. 606p il maps $5 Scribner
973.2 U.S.—History—Colonial period 51-11587

Narrative history of the American colonies, later to become the United States, from 1660 to 1765. By the author of The First Frontier (Book Review Digest 1948). Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:46 O 1 '51
Reviewed by Clarence Ver Steeg
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 19 '51 300w
Kirkus 19:312 Je 15 '51 210w

"Maps are fine. Index good. An adequate sequel to First Frontier. In spite of Mr. Coleman's reputation as an erudite editor he has proved himself a brilliant and readable author." K. T. Willis
+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 80w

"Mr. Coleman's device of characterizing a period by means of a vignette of one of its prominent people is pleasing. The accounts of Indian wars, of Spanish activities and of Louisiana are very well executed. Twenty-eight clear and unusually useful maps offset in considerable measure sixty-two badly reproduced illustrations. This is old fashioned history told with an appealing naïveté, but it communicates no sense of the travail, drama and exhilaration in the spectacle of a great civilization being born, which is after all the true theme of early American history." Carl Bridenbaugh
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ag 26 '51 700w

"The virtues of 'Liberty and Property' are the same as those exhibited in the author's 'First Frontier.' He approaches colonial history as an exciting story, and he is an excellent storyteller who charges his narrative with color, suspense and, on occasion, a ready wit. . . Sometimes, it is true, Mr. Coleman sacrifices depth of analysis for surface color, and his technique, while well adapted to catching the external drama of Indian war and political conflict, is not so successful in showing the internal conflict of ideas involved in the Salem witchcraft hysteria or the great religious revival of the Seventeen Thirties." Douglas Adair
+ — N Y Times p16 Ag 19 '51 450w

"Many a reader who has had only his routine smattering of battles-and-dates history in his school days might do worse than to read this book (with 'First Frontier' also), and get a new notion of what his country's beginnings were like in human terms, not to mention a fresh idea of how some of our characteristic American beliefs were planted and enabled to send out their strong and lasting roots." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 S 11 '51 800w

"It is part of Mr. Coleman's achievement that he has brought together so many events and so many personalities, familiar and unfamiliar, great and trivial, without losing the trend of his narrative. He is no less a historian because he refuses the jargon and the solemnity of his professional colleagues. Even if, in his attempt to enliven and humanize his account of the past, he sometimes uses slang, and excessive familiarity with historical characters, the occasional error is outweighed by the general success of his method, and the one substantial complaint against Liberty and Property is the unnecessary profuseness of inferior illustrations."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p592 S 21 '51 650w

COLEMAN, WILLIAM LAURENCE. Sound of Spanish voices. 252p $3 Dutton
51-12492

Novel about a group of American expatriates living in a Central American country. The pension is presided over by a pretentious woman who has driven her husband to suicide. Two of her guests are writers; the others are an army officer and his wife. The younger of the two writers falls in love with the intelligent young native servant. The romance comes to an end when the girl takes her part in fomenting a revolution.

"Lonnie Coleman is a versatile writer and a fine craftsman. . . Tho [he] prefers to remain a precise and uninvolved observer of the human comedy, he shows an understanding of those who throw themselves into life." Chad Walsh
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 21 '51 450w
Kirkus 19:361 Jl 15 '51 170w

"A sound and often moving story. He has a good way with people and a good way with words in that he is real and honest with both. The only phony thing in his book, is Mrs Fitzsimmons, and that was her fault, not Mr. Coleman's. In this day of too much fiction that is merely meretricious it is good to encounter a book with depth and human values." V. P. Hass
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 S 23 '51 400w

"Very little happens, despite [the] standard typecasting. Even the revolution is an affair of alarums off stage. That Coleman has striking gifts of language and imagery, that he can create strong scenes and exciting dialogue, he has certainly proved. Yet he disperses them in discussions, rumination, dead retrospects and aborted symbols." Mary Ahern
N Y Times p26 S 23 '51 190w

"This novel shows unmistakably that Mr. Coleman has stature as a writer of fiction. It shows also that he'd do better not to occupy himself with socio-economic problems politically reflected. Because he attempts it here, this novel doesn't quite come together. But it's plenty good enough to make the reader who is interested in good fiction await his next with anticipation." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 O 10 '51 700w

"This is a well-meaning book, neatly written, giving its due to 'symbolism,' and now and then actually lit up by a piece of astute observation, a good bit of repartee, or a deftly constructed little scene." Robert Pick
Sat R of Lit 34:25 S 29 '51 270w

COLERIDGE, SAMUEL TAYLOR. Inquiring spirit; a new presentation of Coleridge from his published and unpublished prose writings; ed. by Kathleen Coburn. 454p $5 Pantheon bks.
828 51-7691

An anthology composed of excerpts from Coleridge's prose writings, and drawn from both his published and unpublished works. The items are arranged according to the subjects they treat of: psychology; education; logic; criticism; nature; science; society; or religion. Index.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 15 '51 210w

"The selection is admirable and yet I think Miss Coburn would agree that one could dig out several other volumes equally striking from the great Coleridgean mine. Here is a national treasure which has long lain as neglected as the wolfram deposits in Devonshire. All honour and gratitude to Miss Coburn, of Toronto University, for leading the way to it." Charles Madge

+ New Statesman & Nation 41:600 My 26 '51 1050w

"Admirably arranged and edited selections, one-third of which are new to print. There is enough even in these for several fresh portraits of this 'myriad-minded' man; Miss Coburn justly transfers the epithet Coleridge suggested for Shakespeare to himself." I. A. Richards

+ N Y Times p6 Ja 13 '52 1300w

"'Genuine self-research,' language, literary criticism, marriage relations, science and political philosophy: Each is touched upon and to our eyes a century or more later illumined in a vigorous and lucid prose and with acumen by an incredibly vast mind. Thorough references and annotations are in the end section of 'Notes' in this, a book for the shelves of scholars and of those who, perennially curious, enjoy new perspectives drawn between ages." C. E. M.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 S 30 '51 180w

"It must not be lightly regarded, for it has great and unique values. If, indeed, at some future time a uniform edition of Coleridge's prose works is issued . . . 'Inquiring Spirit' might well serve as the initial volume, a sort of prospectus of the whole, and its introduction as a keynote to all that was to follow." C. D. Thorpe

+ Sat R of Lit 34:11 O 20 '51 650w

"I do not wish to give the impression that this is an introspective book, because it does so much to dispel the popular idea of Coleridge as hopelessly unpractical and metaphysical. One is continually struck by the modernity and the sound commonsense of what he says. There is, too, something unsuspected—wit." Michael Swan

+ Spec 185:822 Je 22 '51 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p324 My 25 '51 2100w

COLERIDGE, SAMUEL TAYLOR. Portable Coleridge; ed. and with an introd. by I. A. Richards. (Viking portable lib) 630p $2.50 Viking 821 50-10902

Includes The Ancient Mariner, Christabel, Kubla Khan, and most of the shorter poems; ample representation of the Biographia Literaria; and selections from the other literary criticism, political essays, notebooks, and letters.

Booklist 47:189 Ja 15 '51

"The Portable Coleridge provides a sound and sensitive introduction to one of the liveliest and most original English minds by one of its liveliest and most original critical progeny." Kathleen Coburn

+ Canadian Forum 31:46 My '51 650w

"It is a pity that more space could not have been found for the lectures on Shakespeare. But the one hundred and fifty pages devoted to Coleridge's own poetry are ample enough to reveal how much he wrote of high quality besides the three great pieces for which he is best known." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Ja 21 '51 180w

"Dr. Richards has devoted years to the task of bringing a self-buried Coleridge to light, and in this volume he has succeeded, by skillful editing, in placing before the reader proof of the existence in Coleridge of a mind unrivalled for originality and acumen in his time."

+ New Yorker 27:123 Mr 10 '51 90w

"That the selections have been made, arranged, and introduced by one of the most famous of living critics makes the volume doubly interesting. . . In his introduction the editor sketches Coleridge's troubled life. . . If there is any fault in this introduction it is that it might lead an uninformed reader to believe that Coleridge as a systematic metaphysician came closer to his goal than he really did. But his attempt to establish general principles was heroic and, as he himself might have worded it, irremissive." B. R. Redman

+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Ja 6 '51 270w

COLES, KAINES ADLARD. North Atlantic; boat against boat over 3,000 miles. 191p il maps $3.50 Norton
797.14 Yacht racing 51-10665

"Editor of a British yachting periodical and author of many a tale of cruising in the narrow waters adjacent to England, Adlard Coles here narrates the experiences of his first trans-Atlantic race, together with the events leading up to it and a precis of the log of one of his two small competitors." (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R) No index.

Booklist 47:341 Je 1 '51

"Mr. Coles' style is easy and he makes good reading of his successful efforts to prepare his little sloop Cohoe for her undertaking." A. F. Loomis

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Jl 1 '51 650w

"A thumping good race and a lively yarn." W. B. H.

+ N Y Times p16 Jl 29 '51 280w

"Mr. Coles writes well and straight, and the book is illustrated with many maps, drawings, and photographs, some in color. It is a fine addition to the literature of ocean racing."

+ New Yorker 27:86 Ag 25 '51 130w

COLES, MANNING, pseud. of ADELAIDE FRANCES OKE MANNING and CYRIL HENRY COLES. Now or never. 250p $2.50 Doubleday 51-3931

Mystery story.

Booklist 47:382 Jl 1 '51
Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52
Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51
Kirkus 19:196 Ap 1 '51 50w

"Amusingly competent, and with a smack of authenticity that one has missed in some of the British Intelligence man's latest adventures."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Jl 15 '51 140w

"The result is very nearly Grade A Coles." Anthony Boucher

+ N Y Times p14 Jl 8 '51 90w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 17 '51 70w

"Thriller with a smile." Kathleen Sproul

+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Jl 7 '51 60w

COLLEGE blue book, 1950; ed. by Huber William Hurt. (V6) maps $8 Christian E. Burckel & associates, 33-25 Washington st, Yonkers 2, N.Y.
378 Colleges and universities—U.S.

"The first edition of The College Blue Book, published in 1924, was based upon research conducted by Dr. Huber William Hurt for his Doctorate at Teachers' College, Columbia University in 1923. According to an introductory statement, data for the present edition 'were gathered and compiled in June, July and August of 1949'. . . A classified Table of Contents lists four main divisions of material in the book: (1) Sections, (2) Special Pages, (3) Tables, and (4) Addenda. The first covers the bulk of the book; the others consist only of a few pages of material scattered throughout the volume. . . The status, affiliation, name, etc. of several institutions have changed since the fifth edition. These changes are listed by state near the end of the volume. The book has been expanded by 64 pages. Eight new tables and nineteen engineering headings have been added to the Professional and Technological Schools section." Subscription Bks Bul

---

"Although the arrangement is poor and although there are inaccuracies, because of the amount of information included in one volume, The College Blue Book, sixth edition, is recommended for supplementary purchase in libraries having the other guides in this field, and for possible consideration as a substitute for them where the budget permits purchase of one work only."
+ — Subscription Bks Bul 22:19 Ap '51 1300w

COLLIER, JOHN, 1901-. Fancies and goodnights. 364p $4 Doubleday
51-14145

"A collection of short stories on Mr. Collier's usual themes: devils, loose young women, murders and general hardheartedness." Library J

Booklist 48:159 Ja 1 '52
Kirkus 19:587 O 1 '51 120w
Reviewed by E. F. Walbridge
Library J 76:1928 N 15 '51 90w

"Collier's stories are . . . written with a combined dexterity of narrative technique, a force of imagination, and a precision of prose style. It is possible that the more sober judges may decree that these dazzling jeux d'esprit are not litreature; if that is true, so much the worse for literature." H. H. Holmes
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 25 '51 450w

"The special readers who are John Collier's constituency—and no doubt many, many new readers—will relish this collection of his odd and whimsical and bizarre stories and pieces. There is in Mr. Collier's stories a cruelty, a savagery of humor and cold-brained irony which our time seems to produce abundantly. Yet beneath this glacial consideration of the human situation there lies very often a shy and genuine tenderness which, if it ever got good hold of one of Mr. Collier's stories, could quite demoralize it. But Mr. Collier's art lies in his knowledge of this peril, and his stories are never detroyed by tenderness." William Goyen
+ N Y Times p5 N 25 '51 450w

"Once or twice tenderness nearly or quite breaks in, and most vividly in the most unrealistic stories. . . But in general Mr. Collier remains the master of an irony so perfectly balanced that his horror is hardly ever quite free of humor, nor his humor of horror." Basil Davenport
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 D 22 '51 500w

"Though Author Collier sometimes tries to point a subtle moral in his tales, he is not so much a moralist as an entertainer. In his own little department of the bizarre, he is as good as they come."
Time 58:116 D 3 '51 350w

COLLIER'S, THE NATIONAL WEEKLY. Collier's best; a selection of short stories from the magazine with an introd. and notes by Knox Burger. 299p $3 Harper
Short stories—Collections 51-10596

Contents: National honeymoon, by Paul Horgan; Courtesy of the road, by Mack Morriss; Letters from Cairo, by J. R. Miller; I hate a dumpy woman, by Margaret Chase; The man who flew into a rage, by Walt Grove; The second pasture, by Christine Weston; The auction, by Dillon Anderson; The kissing kind, by Al Hine; Matthew and the lace curtain, by Joseph Carroll; Second table, by J. D. Weaver; Breakfast in bed, by Jack Finney; Summer's ending, by Jack Weeks; Rosinback, by J. M. Young; The red dog, by Howard Maier; The rise of Carthage, by Lawrence Williams; Straight life, by Joseph Petracca; Monday come home, by J. A. Rice; The pest, by W. R. Scott; Zone of interior, by James Ross.

Booklist 47:329 My 15 '51
Reviewed by William Yates
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 5 '51 100w
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Je 17 '51 230w

"Comparable, on every count, to the similar volume of Saturday Evening Post fiction, these nineteen short stores from Collier's offer slick-paper reading at its best." Melville Heath
+ N Y Times p18 My 13 '51 220w
Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 Je 19 '51 800w

"'Collier's Best' is very good indeed, and if you like to turn pages for entertainment you will get your fair share of exercise. . . Mr. Burger's general introduction answers dozens of questions the aspiring writer would like to ask the editor of one of the nation's top magazines." Charles Lee
+ Sat R of Lit 34:12 Je 2 '51 390w
Wis Lib Bul 47:189 Jl '51

COLLIN, HEDVIG. Nils, the island boy; il. by [the author]. 92p $2 Viking 51-10249

Story of nine-year-old Nils whose summer home was on an island in southern Denmark, and whose winter home was near Copenhagen. He was happy with his pony, his baby sister, and his father and mother, but when he found he was going to America with his father he was even happier. America was where the Indians lived. The last part of the book is a description of Nils' trip to the land of the Indians.

Booklist 47:315 My 1 '51

"There is no plot to this little tale, and it seems rather aimless and unfinished, but the atmosphere is true to life for it is laid on an island the writer knows well, and characters in it are taken from her own family." M. G. T.
+ — Christian Science Monitor p7 My 19 '51 150w

"A fine story with distinguished drawings." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:101 Mr '51 120w
Kirkus 19:62 F 1 '51 100w
Reviewed by Inger Boye
Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 70w

"Each short chapter subtly combines the action and humour children like with descriptions on their own level. Most parents would enjoy reading it aloud to younger children, and those of about eight or nine can read it themselves. It is just as unusual as was the beautiful 'Wind Island' by the same artist." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune p12 Je 17 '51 200w

"The setting, presented almost in still view, has reality and value—more than do the characters. Even a thread of plot would have strengthened and popularized this book. It is an attractive looking volume illustrated with the author's sketches of her Danish home country." Irene Smith
+ — N Y Times p22 My 6 '51 170w
+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 My 12 '51 170w
Wis Lib Bul 47:152 Je '51

COLLINS, NORMAN. Children of the Archbishop. 576p $4 Duell
51-10883

The children are the five hundred orphans living in the Archbishop Bodkin Hospital in England; the time is from 1920 to 1938. The two singled out for most attention are Sweetie, a charmer, and Ginger, a lively, red-headed lad with a mind of his own.

COLLINS, NORMAN—Continued

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 N 4 '51 260w

Cleveland Open Shelf p28 N '51

Kirkus 19:456 Ag 15 '51 170w

"The book on the whole falls flat, most of the characters don't come alive and the plot becomes too evident after less than one quarter of the book has been read." H. L. Roth
— Library J 76:1932 N 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel
Manchester Guardian p4 N 2 '51 140w

"Norman Collins is sometimes touching and sometimes genuinely funny. . . He bows to modernity by cutting a Cinderella theme short of its extreme potentialities and by refraining from demanding the ultimate in the confusion of the ambitious and unimaginative. Nevertheless, I cannot help feeling that at points he is writing with tongue in cheek. The book is good-humored, lively and colorful, with the attractiveness of a well-managed fancy-dress party." Mary Ross
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 N 4 '51 450w

"Billed as being 'in the Dickens tradition.' . . Alas, it doesn't come off. I think it must be because the characters are not rich enough. Margaret, for instance, is not really very enigmatic: her secret is all too obvious before the first hundred pages are done. Ginger's exploits are occasionally original, once fairly exciting—and yet not gripping. Dr. Trump (for all the Dickensian flavor of his name) is really a poor stick of a villain." Elizabeth Janeway
N Y Times p33 O 28 '51 650w

"Mr. Collins tells about all this in a confidentially humorous tone, and sometimes succeeds in being funny, but the pleasure one might derive from his book is tempered by the tiresomeness of the author's morbid preoccupation with self-sacrifice, which he apparently regards not simply as a virtue but as the crowning virtue of them all."
+ — New Yorker 27:161 N 10 '51 140w

"We are well entertained, but, perversely, sigh for something more." L. A. G. Strong
Spec 187:614 N 9 '51 380w

"Children of the Archbishop, readable though most of it is, shows too many traces of being a work conscientiously composed upon the best models."
Times [London] Lit Sup p725 N 16 '51 180w

COLLINS, RUTH M. Horace, the hound that howled [story and pictures]. [60p] $2.50 Dodd 51-10443

In this picture book for the age of six and over Horace, the hound, lived in a little village in Brittany. Early in life he discovered the delightful results of howling, but it finally brought him banishment from his beloved Patrick. Later Horace howled at the right time, and his reward was just what he wanted.

Booklist 47:348 Je 1 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Jl 1 '51 70w

"Real humor with a touch of sophistication." Anne Izard
Library J 76:969 Je 1 '51 50w

"Lively and charming, it will evoke nostalgia on the part of many adults, who will then read it aloud successfully to youngsters of about six to nine." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 13 '51 170w

"This is a very funny story. Young children may not appreciate all the fine points of the humor, but there is plenty of fun on their own level, in text and pictures." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p30 Ap 22 '51 110w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 25 '51 60w

"This is a delightful and a most amusing book. For some reason it makes it funnier to have the background of Horace a little Breton fishing village than it would if Horace had lived in America."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 My 12 '51 270w

COLLIS, MAURICE. Grand peregrination; being the life and adventures of Fernão Mendes Pinto. 313p il maps $4.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Mendes Pinto, Fernão. Voyages and travels. East (Far East)—Description and travel [50-233]

Biography of Fernão Mendes Pinto, a Portuguese sixteenth century adventurer, who left Portugal in 1537 as a common soldier, in search of wealth. During his travels, lasting twenty years, he visited Abyssinia, India, Malacca, and the Far East. When he returned to Portugal after twenty years, a wealthy man, he married and spent the last years of his life writing his memoirs. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by John Randolph
Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 Ap 1 '51 130w

"Mr. Collis writes with wit and charm, and with the enormous advantage of having the Far East as his own background. Through his efforts Pinto should emerge again into the consciousness of English readers." Francis Russell
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 12 '51 180w

"The prose labors a bit with the effort, but the book is readable, and its looks and interest are increased by good illustrations, and its utility by an index." Philip Burnham
+ Commonweal 53:570 Mr 16 '51 2150w

"Mr. Collis has written an exciting book. To have reintroduced Pinto to this country is a public service. Even if Pinto was not quite the artist Mr. Collis supposes, the method ascribed to him might with advantage be used by a writer for describing Asia to-day. Mr. Collis's book is beautifully illustrated by reproductions of the Goa tapestries which were seen at the Tate in the recent Viennese exhibition." Guy Wint
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 13 '50 850w

Reviewed by Michael Ramsbotham
New Statesman & Nation 38:668 D 3 '49 900w

Reviewed by W. B. Hayward
N Y Times p19 Ap 29 '51 210w

"A very interesting piece of detective work."
+ New Yorker 27:113 Mr 3 '51 160w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 Ap 1 '51 250w

Spec 184:226 F 17 '50 170w

Time 57:114 Mr 19 '51 650w

"Mr. Collis maintains that Pinto was a literary genius with a prodigiously retentive memory and a superb flair for the romantic ordering of facts. . . Lacking literary models or any standards of criticism, he produced a work of art because he arranged the whole body of material in the only way it seemed possible to him to write it down, by placing himself at the centre of every episode of his narrative, whether he had in fact occupied that position or not. Pinto's Peregrination is in this estimate a masterpiece which defies classification as travel book, romance, history, or autobiography, and baulks the apparatus of historical criticism."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p763 N 25 '49 900w

COLTON, JOEL G. Compulsory labor arbitration in France, 1936-1939. 220p $3.25 King's Crown press

331.154 Arbitration, Industrial. Labor and laboring classes—France 51-11278

"This study is a history of the French experiment (a legal system of arbitration prohibiting strikes before attempts at conciliation had run their course) from its origins in the sitdown strikes of June, 1936, until its wartime suspension." (School & Society) Bibliography. Index.

"A detailed, scholarly study. . . This volume contains information of interest to students of industrial legislation, for whom the chapter notes and bibliography will also prove of value. For college and special collections only." D. K. Oko

+ Library J 76:1569 O 1 '51 100w

Management R 40:791 D '51 80w

School & Society 73:383 Je 16 '51 40w

"Avoiding any pretense of being a history of the labor movement or a full study of the Popular Front, this volume is a carefully documented account of a limited phase of the struggle between capital and labor in France. It is on the basis of such studies as this that a fuller comprehension of France's economic problems will gradually be developed."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:269 S '51 160w

COLUMBIA encyclopedia; in one volume, ed. by William Bridgwater and Elizabeth J. Sherwood. 2d ed rev & enl 2203p thumb indexed $25 Columbia univ. press

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 50-11218

"The second edition of The Columbia Encyclopedia. . . As its preface suggests the volume is a first aid to knowledge, written in language understood by the 'ordinary man,' in no sense a tool which serves to instruct a specialist in his own specialty. It gives special attention to American and Canadian place names and to Biblical proper names, and is American in outlook and emphasis." (Library J) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1935, 1936.

Reviewed by C. J. Rolo

Atlantic 187:89 F '51 200w

"No reasonable person will overlook the fine skill and the care that have gone into the making of this practically indispensable book. . . The topics are well chosen and well treated, the arrangement is methodical, the cross references make it possible to locate the information with a minimum of difficulty. The present reviewer notes with satisfaction that the new edition is free from six objectionable passages to which he drew attention in The Catholic World in March, 1936. Sharper editorial vigilance, however, should have been directed to certain items in this new edition." Joseph McSorley

+ — Cath World 172:395 F '51 250w

"If I could have only one compendium of general information in my library, this would be it. . . What makes this work particularly commendable is that there are no frills about it. The articles follow one another in alphabetical order, with no elaborate system of classification to trip one up, and with a minimum of cross-references. Since no illustrations are used, this method makes the pages look rather monotonous, but don't be deceived —the monotony is only in the appearance." Kelsey Guilfoil

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 D 10 '50 330w

"There are places in which the lack of illustrations is a disadvantage; but in a comparative study of other encyclopedias one finds that a good many of the illustrations are either more decorative than informative or else are technical beyond the ordinary reader's needs. Undoubtedly some well chosen illustrations would help; but they could not be included without omitting text that is more valuable or increasing the size of a book that is already as big as a book ought to be. The omission of highly technical material is the most important single principle that makes a one-volume encyclopedia possible, and the use of sound editorial judgment as to what is too technical for inclusion is one large reason why this encyclopedia is a good one." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 67:1551 D 27 '50 1350w

Reviewed by Horace Reynolds

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 9 '51 800w

Commonweal 53:310 D 29 '50 30w

"There is enormous scope of new material on areas made familiar by World War II, USSR, Asia, Indonesia, the Middle East, as well as excellent concrete data on the war itself. Individually, the articles, both long and short, are well done and easily read. Answer to the need of households with limited space, where the old type many-volumed encyclopedia has to be banished; to the budget limitations of school and small public libraries. And don't overlook it as an acceptable commencement or wedding gift."

+ Kirkus 18:722 D 1 '50 180w

"Comprehensive and compact within the orbit of its objectives it deserves a place on the ready reference shelf of any library. . . This volume is a valuable adjunct to the college student's desk for ready reference purposes which do not require specialized treatment or exhaustive articles. To answer quickly many general reference questions it serves a very good purpose." W. A. Fitzgerald

+ Library J 76:42 Ja 1 '51 350w

Reviewed by J. R. Newman

New Repub 125:19 O 1 '51 400w

Reviewed by Jacques Barzun

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 2 '51 800w

"Expanded, brought up to date, yet still in workable one-volume format, it is ideal to have at hand for quick and (for most occasions) full enough reference." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ja 22 '51 900w

"In the libraries of the world 'The Columbia Encyclopedia' is established as a basic reference book. This second edition has strengthened that position and added inducements for home purchase. If this reviewer may borrow a phase used in the library profession he would like to use these words to say under his own name—'Recommended for library and home.'" Louis Shores

+ Sat R of Lit 34:35 F 3 '51 800w

Reviewed by B. R. Redman

+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 My 19 '51 60w

"It is a grand and sonorous book of facts; it is a pleasure to handle, to read, and to learn from. All over the world it is acclaimed as a monument to American scholarship, and it has won universal recognition as the definitive encyclopedia of its kind. It should be in every home that can afford it; it will add to the dignity of that house." W. B. Ready

+ School & Society 73:250 Ap 21 '51 490w

"Contains ten thousand more entries than the first edition which was published in 1935. . . Each article is written in simple language which requires no specialized knowledge of any subject. In addition to thousands of articles of universal interest and importance, this book presents entries of special interest to Americans."

+ Special Libraries 42:31 Ja '51 140w

Springf'd Republican p12B D 31 '50 450w

"The majority of deletions and additions bear witness to the attention given current topics and personalities, events since the mid-thirties, and material of particular interest to Americans and Canadians. . . Although for the most part, the material deleted in the second edition is of a relatively obscure nature, some of it, particularly that in the categories of biography and geography, may still be of interest. Some libraries may prefer, therefore, to use the 1950 edition in conjunction with, rather than in place of, the earlier one. The Columbia Encyclopedia, second edition, is recommended for purchase for all types of libraries and also for home use."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:46 Jl '51 1400w

"The editors of the second edition of the Columbia Encyclopedia are greatly to be commended for a most useful work."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p297 My 11 '51 210w

COLVER, MRS ALICE MARY (ROSS). Joan Foster in Europe, by Alice Ross Colver (with Jack and Phyllis Colver). 243p $2.50 Dodd
51-11588

"This volume of the Joan Foster series finds Joan spending a year at the University of Zurich. Besides gathering material for writing a book, she is trying to decide whether or not to marry Tod, who is also in the student group. She meets an attractive Swiss, adding to the uncertainty of her heart." Library J

"Much description of sight-seeing and other information are included, but the romantic angle will hold girls of the middle teens." E. E. Frank
Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p34 N 11 '51 270w
Springf'd Republican p12C Ag 26 '51 80w

COLVER, MRS ALICE MARY (ROSS). The parson. 272p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.
51-9217

A liberal minister in a suburban community near New York takes sides with an inspired young high school teacher. The town objects to the teacher, but the pupils do not. The climax is a great community meeting in which all religions unite and the teacher stays, altho the minister loses his parish.

Booklist 47:219 F 15 '51

"Pleasingly told, unpretentious novel. . . The characters, perhaps of too unsullied white or too unrelieved black, are still human enough to be interesting while they voice the theme."
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '51 190w
Kirkus 18:660 N 1 '50 150w

"Characters are well drawn, story is convincing with pleasant touches of humor and romance while the underlying problem has timely significance. Heartily recommended for the many readers interested in novels about ministers." R. P. Tubby
+ Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 80w

COMMAGER, HENRY STEELE. America's Robert E. Lee [il. by Lynd Ward] (America's ser) 111p $3 Houghton
B or 92 Lee, Robert Edward—Juvenile literature
51-6327

Companion volume to Esther Forbes' America's Paul Revere, and Stewart Holbrook's America's Ethan Allen. This describes the life of Robert E. Lee from birth to the surrender at Appomattox. Grades six to nine.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51
Bookmark 11:35 N '51

"The progress of the war is described vividly and impartially. There could be no more moving account of a surrender than the one on the closing pages taken from a Union officer's diary. This is a book for all Americans." M. B. K.
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 N 11 '51 180w
Kirkus 19:531 S 15 '51 180w

"Highly recommended for fifth grade up." E. J. Bowland
+ Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51 110w

"Mr. Commager's brief, clear story compresses the Civil War very ably, a summary to be recommended to history teachers of elementary grades. Mr. Ward's color pages, twenty-four of them, are stunning, some more successful in reproduction than others. Some are fine portraits; many are very moving or exciting scenes of war action. The black-and-whites, breaking nearly every page, have a new quality of clarity and depth that gives them great distinction, and are beautifully printed." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 11 '51 250w

"Mr. Commager, historian, author and editor of many learned books for adults, has the knack of writing for boys and girls. His style is direct, almost conversational in tone. His narrative moves at a brisk tempo. . . The book ends at Appomattox. This is certainly a dramatic ending, but it does seem rather a pity to ignore Lee's last years, which were also heroic." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p30 S 9 '51 190w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:185 D 1 '51 80w

"Critics may feel that this book does not have the verve of Esther Forbes's 'America's Paul Revere,' with which it will inevitably be compared. Yet few will deny that it is an outstanding biography that few young people will be able to resist. The illustrations, in color and black and white, half page, full page, and double page, are superb. Mr. Ward has caught the spirit as well as the substance of events and of the people." R. A. B.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:50 N 10 '51 200w
Wis Lib Bul 47:219 S '51

COMMAGER, HENRY STEELE, ed. Living ideas in America. 766p $6 Harper
973 U.S.—Civilization. U.S.—History—Sources. U.S.—Politics and government 51-13936

"A collection of over 200 excerpts from letters, speeches, historical documents, essays, fiction, memoirs and poems, this volume was designed for groups exploring the American Idea but the valuable source material it contains makes it of first importance for libraries. Commager develops his theme topically from the viewpoint of a 'Jeffersonian liberal.'" Library J

Booklist 48:21; 98 S 15 '51; N 15 '51
Bookmark 11:31 N '51 20w

Reviewed by Roland Sawyer
Christian Science Monitor p15 N 29 '51 450w
Current Hist 21:356 D '51 110w

"Important reading in these days in which our concept of Americanism is undergoing some rational and irrational bruiting about, is this fine anthology compiled with commentary by the popular historian, critic and commentator."
+ Kirkus 19:548 S 15 '51 240w

"Conservatives may carp because FDR is quoted 14 times while Herbert Hoover rates only one item. Liberals may wonder why Bellamy, Veblen and Henry Adams are omitted. Still there is an admirable range of opinion included, some of it probably difficult to locate in other sources. Excellent bibliography and detailed index." E. T. Smith
Library J 76:1930 N 15 '51 100w

"In fourteen general categories Henry Steele Commager has drawn upon the ideas of our past for the light they may throw upon the continuing issues that confront the United States, in diplomacy, in politics, in economic policy, and in education. The whole is tied together by a suave commentary that helps the faltering reader from lump to lump of wisdom. What is gained thereby is difficult to say. . . Nor does the volume offer a representative cross-section of American thinking, even upon the subjects it touches. And what is included is all too often trite and unimaginative; at least a fifth of the selections are pasted together from Mr. Commager's own earlier anthologies. . . Finally, inaccurate editorial comment obfuscates the meaning of the text." Oscar Handlin
— Nation 173:527 D 15 '51 550w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ja 6 '52 180w

Reviewed by W. S. Lynch
Sat R of Lit 34:16 D 8 '51 400w
School & Society 74:366 D 8 '51 20w
Wis Lib Bul 47:250 N '51

COMMONS, JOHN ROGERS. Economics of collective action; with a biographical sketch by Selig Perlman; manuscript ed, introd. and supplemental essay contributed by Kenneth H. Parsons. 414p $5 Macmillan

330.1 Economics 50-7600

"The basic ideas of the late John R. Commons formed during sixty years of activity as an observer and participant in American economic life. Professor Commons was a pioneer in many fields—accident compensation, unemployment insurance, social security, public utility regulation, labor history, and labor conciliation. We find in this work two of Professor Commons' most important contributions to the study of economics: his theory of valuation and his belief in the differences between the physical and social sciences." (Current Hist) Bibliography. Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:287 Mr '51 20w

Current Hist 20:40 Ja '51 50w

"The book under review adds nothing that is substantially new to The Legal Foundations of Capitalism(1924) and Institutional Economics(1934). It does clarify Commons' point of view and bring into focus more sharply than any of his previous works the forms of economic activity which he spent a life-time investigating. But it will hardly make his ideas more digestible for the orthodox." A. L. Harris

Ethics 62:61 O '51 2100w

"An important work, for broad distribution." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 75:1412 S 1 '50 60w

"There is little in this volume that would not be found in Commons' earlier writings, particularly in the voluminous Legal Foundations of Capitalism and Institutional Economics. But in the book under review the author's ideas are presented more compactly and clearly. Thus, according to the editor 'this last book is . . . logically the first book in understanding Commons' thought.' With the publication of this volume Professor Parsons has made Commons more accessible to a wider audience." S. A. Levitan

+ Pol Sci Q 66:460 S '51 500w

COMPTON-BURNETT, IVY. Darkness and day. 298p $3.50 Knopf

51-1832

In brief, the plot of this novel centers in a retelling of the Oedipus story of incest set in a modern—i.e. a Victorian England scene. However the interest lies mainly in the author's satirical probings of life and character set forth in lengthy conversations among the members of two neighboring households, including children and servants as well as adults.

Atlantic 187:87 My '51 60w

Kirkus 19:32 Ja 15 '51 190w

"If the reader has yet to meet the unique English novelist, Darkness and Day is an excellent beginning. It is sharp and hilarious, well made and beautifully printed and almost the novel of the spring." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:513 Mr 15 '51 170w

Reviewed by H. I'A. Fausset

Manchester Guardian p4 Ap 20 '51 240w

Reviewed by Ernest Jones

Nation 172:427 My 5 '51 600w

Reviewed by Louise Bogan

New Repub 124:28 My 7 '51 430w

"Miss Compton-Burnett's awareness of the human abyss is so intense that one sometimes feels she must surely break through the framework of her own irony. That she never does so and that she remains the supreme personal ironist of her age is due to discretion, that great passive quality which, though it fits some writers like a strait-jacket, others wear as an aegis." John Raymond

+ New Statesman & Nation 41:486 Ap 28 '51 800w

Reviewed by Ernestine Evans

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Mr 18 '51 850w

"Why should we laugh uproariously at all this perversity, horror, farce, cruelty, kindness, malice and pity reduced to capsules of wisdom? If the author ever came to a sound conclusion or stood in judgment, we should probably stop laughing. However, by allying herself with the puzzled bystander who does not know the answers, she invites universal laughter; the helpless relieved recognition of man's ludicrous inability to be a god. 'Companionable' is a word we use nervously in this connection, but that is just the kind of laugh we have with Miss Compton-Burnett about our mutual follies." Isabelle Mallet

+ N Y Times p5 Mr 18 '51 550w

"'Darkness and Day' is exactly as good and bad, as witty and maddening, as Miss Compton-Burnett's earlier novels. Anybody who has previously complained, tossing one of her books aside, 'But, my God, people just don't talk and talk and talk like that!' will do the same with this one. And he will be right; people have never talked as Miss Compton-Burnett, in her infinite malice, lets them talk, and luckily they never will. If they did, it could mean the end of human society." Brendan Gill

New Yorker 27:102 Mr 24 '51 320w

"This may not be and does not seem to be one of Miss Compton-Burnett's best books, but it is still one to be thankful for." Lewis Vogler

San Francisco Chronicle p12 Mr 24 '51 700w

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst

Sat R of Lit 34:31 Ap 14 '51 550w

Time 57:108 Mr 26 '51 330w

"Darkness and Day is perhaps not Miss Compton-Burnett at quite so high a level as, say, A House and its Head, but at the same time it is a book that contains a number of good things. The dialogue retains its accusing, bitter intensity. The characters are keenly felt in their inescapable unhappiness. It is all the expression of an inner life so strongly felt that the most improbable circumstances are accepted."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p241 Ap 20 '51 500w

Reviewed by Paul Pickrel

Yale R n s 40:766 summer '51 220w

COMYNS, BARBARA. Our spoons came from Woolworths. 217p $2.75 Holt

51-86

An English story of an unhappy marriage. Sophia knew little about life when she married Charles, an artist and lazy one. Sophia struggled along for a time, but the marriage did not last. After three years spent cooking for an uncomplaining family in the country Sophia made a happier marriage.

Booklist 47:165; 188 Ja 1 '51; Ja 15 '51

"It is a curiously attractive novel; its style and the story it tells are strangely reminiscent of 'Moll Flanders,' altho Sophie's morals were on a slightly higher plane. But the characterizations are similar. . . Miss Comyns' novel is not a great one nor is it intended to be. But it reads easily and well and proves the author knows how to tell a story." Richard Blakesley

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 F 18 '51 250w

"The narrative gambols along at a breathless pace. The sentences are strung conversationally together with 'and's' and 'but's' and 'so's.' But for all its one syllabled artlessness, this turns out to be a work of artistry. The grubby details are not gilded over, but neither are they crusadingly painful. And the portrait of a naive English girl who gains insight without bitterness is as deft as it is delightful." C. H. Weiss

+ Commonweal 53:571 Mr 16 '51 600w

+ Kirkus 19:5 Ja 1 '51 180w

"Fresh, ingenuous style pulls this author's work right out of the melodramatic into the believable. Buy it for many different kinds of readers in the small public library." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 76:179 F 1 '51 90w

"This small, straightforward tear-starting novel has humor as well. If a movie producer could put the story on as artlessly as Miss

COMYNS, BARBARA—Continued
Comyns has written it, the management doubtless would have to dish out sheafs of paper handkerchiefs. . . . The ingenuousness of the telling makes the book a lively and appealing picture of pleasures and pains of being young and of minor miracles that might conceivably have happened." Mary Ross

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 F 18 '51 450w

"Perhaps the most surprising thing about this book is that it ever got written in these times. There is, at best, a haphazard appeal in these courageous but pathetic adventures. Only here and there is there a flash of real perception, or of genuine technical skill." Richard McLaughlin

N Y Times p16 F 18 '51 260w

"The author resembles an English Anita Loos, and her false innocence and genuine good humor make her simple story considerably more attractive than the chronicle of chins-up middle-class life in London that it threatens at first to be."

New Yorker 27:98 F 24 '51 80w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 27 '51 550w

Reviewed by Pamela Taylor
Sat R of Lit 34:55 Ap 14 '51 400w

Reviewed by Marghanita Laski
Spec 184:126 Jl 28 '50 180w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p8C Mr 4 '51 200w

"Rather commonplace story; though a plea for pity is certainly implicit, Sophia arouses none, for she shows herself to be shallow, foolish, and capable of the complete ruthlessness which is a sign of retarded emotional growth. . . . Like her heroine, Miss Comyns does not appear to have quite grown-up yet."

Times [London] Lit Sup p465 Jl 28 '50 370w

CONANT, JAMES BRYANT. Science and common sense. 371p il $4 Yale univ. press

507.2 Science—Methodology. Science—Experiments 51-1078

"In his book On Understanding Science Dr. Conant proposed that the educated layman could obtain an understanding of the methods of science through the 'close study of a relatively few historical examples of the development of science'. Here, in a volume dealing with the techniques and approach of experimental science, he puts this proposal into effect. Through the case history method, that is the examination of outstanding advances in the early history of science, he endeavors to provide the intelligent citizen with an appreciation of what science can accomplish and of the point of view of the laboratory scientist." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Bernard Barber
Am Soc R 16:735 O '51 800w

Booklist 47:267 Ap 1 '51

Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 30w

Reviewed by Fritz Leiber
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Mr 4 '51 420w

"The reader must not expect to find here, or anywhere, a short cut to an understanding of the methods and results of modern science. He will, however, find a well cleared and signposted way which can be followed without a guide and which will lead him a good distance in that direction." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 68:618 My 16 '51 480w

Reviewed by R. C. Cowen
Christian Science Monitor p9 F 28 '51 440w

Reviewed by Raphael Demos
J Philos 49:11 Ja 3 '52 6200w

Kirkus 18:747 D 15 '50 160w

"Although avoiding the specialized vocabulary of science, the book demands careful reading and an appetite for something more solid than the pre-digested fare of many science popularizations." J. E. Brown

+ Library J 76:109 Ja 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by J. W. Krutch
Nation 172:329 Ap 7 '51 700w

Reviewed by F. De W. Bolman
New Repub 125:19 Jl 23 '51 750w

"The final two chapters are a ringing declaration of Dr. Conant's leadership in science. But the book as a whole expresses his leadership in education. His social and political conclusions are based on a fundamental understanding of science which he who reads may share." Gerald Wendt

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 F 18 '51 1250w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:77 S '51

"Though Dr. Conant's exposition of the relation of science to common sense tells the reader nothing of the revolution in thinking that followed the discovery of X-ray and radioactivity, the promulgation of Einstein's theory of relativity and Planck's publication of his quantum theory, it is a notable and necessary contribution to the popular literature on science. American citizens owe it to themselves to understand science and scientists. Dr. Conant has made the understanding as easy as it can be made." Waldemar Kaempffert

+ N Y Times p6 F 18 '51 1050w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 25 '51 450w

"This is an important book, but it is more than that. It is one step in a definite program aimed at a better understanding of science and scientific methodology by laymen." Vannevar Bush

+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 F 17 '51 800w

Reviewed by B. C. Gruenberg
Survey 87:238 My '51 500w

Times [London] Lit Sup p569 S 7 '51 1000w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:192 Je '51 300w

Reviewed by J. R. Killian
Yale R n s 40:725 summer '51 350w

CONCORDIA, CHARLES. Synchronous machines: theory and performance. 224p $5.50 Wiley

621.3134 Electric machinery 51-11022

"A book of interest to graduate electrical engineers whose work involves a thorough understanding of synchronous motors and generators. It deals largely with mathematical analysis of the behavior of sychronous machines under various conditions such as starting loads, transient short circuits, and steady state current. The author is associated with the Analytical Engineering Department of the General Electric Company." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:1032 Je 15 '51 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:54 Jl '51

"In this highly mathematical text, a comprehensive review is given of the electric, magnetic, and mechanical reactions in synchronous machines. For complete understanding the reader must have a substantial theoretical knowledge of basic electric and magnetic circuits. . . . At the end of each chapter there is a helpful summary of its purpose and accomplishment, followed by a few problems by which the reader may check his understanding of the text."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:321 S '51 200w

CONFERENCE ON BUILDING A PROGRAM OF GENERAL EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA. General education in transition. See Morse, H. T., ed.

CONKLIN, GROFF, ed. Possible worlds of science fiction. 372p $2.95 Vanguard

Short stories—Collections 51-10781

An anthology composed of twenty-two science-fiction stories.

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51

"Exceptional editing has collected stories (never before printed in book form) that depict a very possible program for the conquest of the solar and stellar systems."
+ Kirkus 19:165 Mr 15 '51 80w

"Mr. Conklin's sixth anthology (I think; it's hard to keep track of so prolific an editor) is probably his best to date, and the best value for the money of any of the current spate of anthologies." H. H. Holmes
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ag 19 '51 170w

"An anthology containing stories by Isaac Asimov, Ray Bradbury, Hal Clement, Robert Heinlein, Murray Leinster, Theodore Sturgeon and A. E. Van Vogt, to name a few of the twenty-two authors represented in this excellent book, is a guarantee of a fascinating evening spent on terra incognita." Villers Gerson
+ N Y Times p13 Jl 29 '51 100w

CONNERY, ROBERT HOUGH. The Navy and the industrial mobilization in World war II. 527p $6 Princeton univ. press

359.8 U.S. Navy—Supplies and stores. World war, 1939-1945—Supplies. Industrial mobilization (for war) 51-9828

"Authorized, but not official, this is the well-documented, analytical recital of the administrative problems encountered by the Navy in developing its procurement policies, and the internal organization to carry them out." Library J

"This is the first comprehensive study of the wartime industrial mobilization experience of any of the armed forces to appear since World War II. Though not an official Navy Department history, it was written by a former Naval historical officer and received the blessing of Navy officials. Its appearance is especially timely in view of the current industrial mobilization program; also it goes far toward filling the void represented by the absence of publicly available histories of the major wartime procurement agencies." R. E. Smith
+ Am Econ R 41:998 D '51 750w

"This is a valuable addition to the administrative histories dealing with experience during World War II. The author, a well-known scholar in public administration, worked, after other experience in the Navy Department, for three years under the leadership of Professor Robert G. Albion, the Adminitsrative Historian for the Navy. He had the benefit of access to naval records, assistance of Navy staff, and consultation with persons who carried large responsibilities during the war. Yet the fact that this is not an official history preserved for the author independence of responsibility and judgment. The result is a study which links the perspective of administrative science with penetration into detail and practice in an area where the experience of the past warns of the needs of the future." E. S. Redford
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:1187 D '51 1000w

Reviewed by Wallace Parks
Ann Am Acad 277:233 S '51 850w

Current Hist 21:95 Ag '51 50w

"A fitting tribute to Secretary Forrestal's pioneering work in reorganizing and expanding the Navy's procurement organization, and a useful contribution to the study of economic mobilization."
+ Foreign Affairs 30:160 O '51 20w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:601 Ap 1 '50 130w

Reviewed by Walter Millis
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ap 15 '51 800w

"Princeton is building a monument to Forrestal. But the Princeton University Press, in this latest of its series of monumental additions to America's literature of mobilization and strategy, is carrying on his work in the area of his most creative aspiration." Eliot Janeway
+ N Y Times p3 Mr 18 '51 1300w

"The work is full of lessons for future industrial mobilizations, and it throws light on many peacetime problems of public administration, government procurement, and planning. It is a significant and welcome addition to the recorded history of World War II." J. W. Fesler
+ Pol Sci Q 66:621 D '51 500w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:162 Je '51 200w

CONRAD, EARL. Public school scandal. 270p $3.50 Day

379.73 Public schools—U.S. Education—U.S. 51-10250

"The author, an experienced newspaper man, conducted a personal survey of education conditions, practices, and attitudes in our public schools, especially concentrating his microscopic eye on New York City. His exposure of many of the existing practices of the teaching of reading and of testing for reading readiness and their effects on our children will come as a shock to many parents." Library J

"If this book had been written with less heat and more light it might have been just what our ailing public school system needs. As a long time critic of the system, I must applaud Earl Conrad's blunt disregard of educational palaver and his ability to smell out the rotten spots of the schools. But I can't help wishing that his idol breaking fist had more purpose and direction. . . Whatever its defects—and they are many—Mr. Conrad's book deserves a much wider reading than it is likely to get." Kelsey Guilfoil
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ap 29 '51 500w

"The author's sincerity and intense feeling about these wrongs and their need for correction is obvious. A strong emotional undercurrent tends to weaken the original objectivity. . . The method of document insertion gives the book the appearance of a tract. In spite of these shortcomings it is worthy of the attention of all parents and educators." C. J. Roth
Library J 76:774 My 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by John Pilley
Nation 173:135 Ag 18 '51 350w

Reviewed by Albert Deutsch
New Repub 124:20 Je 4 '51 330w

"Whatever Mr. Conrad's intentions, the net result of his 'expose' is hardly constructive. Although he pleads briefly for citizen support and adequate spending toward the end of the book, it would be difficult to imagine any reader willing to come to the aid of the system if he believed it to be as outright dangerous as the author paints it." F. M. Hechinger
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ap 15 '51 1150w

"In the main, Mr. Conrad's pessimistic picture is overdrawn, sensationalized, and just plain poor reporting. He subtitles his book 'A documented exposé.' Much of the material is not documented. Frequently he draws general conclusions from one or two isolated examples. Of course, the nation's schools are far from perfect. Yet that is a far cry from condemning, as Mr. Conrad does, everything about the public schools." Benjamin Fine
— N Y Times p26 Ap 15 '51 380w

"There is a wide public composed of educators and ordinary citizens anxiously waiting for a good and fearless book which will point up the ills and inadequacies of the public schools along with their great achievements, so that much-needed reforms can be brought about. Mr. Conrad still keeps us waiting for that book." F. M. Hechinger
— Sat R of Lit 34:15 Je 30 '51 800w

"It is all too easy to catalogue Conrad's misstatements and misinterpretations as well as numerous instances of faulty thinking, misrepresentation and distortion of facts, and one-sided interpretations. He follows the Blanshard line on the Catholic Church, with the consequent gross exaggerations, and is guilty at least once of a sweeping anti-Catholic generalization. His suggestions regarding the expenditure of more money to relieve congested classes and the introduction of Federal-aid legislation are to the point, but his rational criticisms are greatly overshadowed by sensationalism and factual insouciance." W. W. Brickman
— + School & Society 74:266 O 27 '51 270w

CONRAD, EARL—Continued
Reviewed by G. A. Panichas
Springf'd Republican p8C My 27 '51 300w

CONSIDINE, ROBERT BERNARD. Panama canal; il. by Fritz Kredel. (Landmark books) 179p $1.50 Random house

386.444 Panama canal—Juvenile literature 51-13939

"The Considine story of the Panama Canal first emphasizes the canal's historic importance, then the contributions to its success of five great men. The final chapters are on our relations with Panama, and on plans for a better, sea-level canal." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:148 D 15 '51

Reviewed by M. B. King
Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 N 11 '51 90w

"A straight, reportorial treatment which slants toward the older age group, but which in its deft marshalling of facts, figures and personalities should attract all potential engineers and the historical minded."
+ Kirkus 19:439 Ag 15 '51 160w

"No writing down, but the book as a whole is somewhat choppy with rather long extracts from government documents. Ages 10-14. Recommended." A. B. McCreary
+ Library J 76:1433 S 15 '51 70w

"It is a factual book, perhaps a bit above the elementary age, but valuable for ages twelve to fourteen." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 N 11 '51 60w

"It is perhaps to be expected that in such a generalized and selected account there would be some historical errors—but more serious is the slow pace that brings with it lessened interest." R. A. Brown
N Y Times p36 N 11 '51 90w

COOK, BEATRICE GRAY (MRS WILLIAM COOK). More fish to fry. 280p il $3 Morrow

799.12 Fishing 51-10251

The author of Till Fish Do Us Part (Book Review Digest 1949) has survived fifteen years of marriage to a fisherman and here continues her story. Her husband still alternates fishing with his medical practise, and the family, which now includes two sons and many animals, still goes along.

Booklist 47:229; 291 Mr 1 '51; Ap 15 '51

Bookmark 10:228 Jl '51 30w

"A perfectly delightful account." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:779 My 1 '51 70w

"There's a lot more to this book than fish and fishing, and not only in such incidents as the finishing of the new house, the open-air fish-fry and the buying of an island farm. There's a fine feeling for the water and the mountains, and the sturdy self-reliance of island life. But mostly there's a warm-hearted, unpretentious American family that it's a real pleasure to meet." J. R. De La Torre Bueno
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p27 My 13 '51 360w

"It must be said that Mrs. Cook has done a lot more than write a book which will appeal to fishermen. Her story will appeal to anyone who has ever wanted life to be peaceful and natural and, at least for a decent interval, purposeless." Raymond Holden
+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 Ag 11 '51 270w

"Mrs. Cook's stories take her readers into new country and among unfamiliar people, with much satisfaction to the reader." P. F. C.
+ Springf'd Republican p12C Ap 22 '51 150w

COOK, FRANKLIN HENRY. Principles of business and the federal law. 563p $5.50 Macmillan

347.7 Industry and state. Commercial law 51-11605

"A combination text and case book examining the application of constitutional provisions to business and labor practices, and surveying various types of federal economic legislation." (Am Pol Sci R) Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:908 S '51 30w

"You will find this book a valuable service." Winifred Baum
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 S 30 '51 40w

"Aside from use in courses based on it, book has some reference usefulness, but little attraction for the general reader." J. E. Cross
Library J 76:1338 S 1 '51 70w

COOK, FREDERICK ALBERT. Return from the Pole; ed. with an introd. by Frederick J. Pohl. 335p $4.50 Pellegrini & Cudahy

919.8 Arctic regions. Peary, Robert Edwin 51-12709

"The author, who died in 1940 at the age of seventy-five, wrote this book during the nineteen-thirties 'to clear his good name,' which had been under a shadow since he returned to this country from the Arctic in 1909, announcing that he had discovered the North Pole. The book describes the year during which he and his two Eskimo companions tried to get back to their Greenland base after having, as he stoutly maintained, reached and stood over 'the Great Nail.'" New Yorker

Booklist 48:83 N 1 '51

"Whether Cook reached the pole or not, his account of his travels is a thriller of first rank." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 23 '51 220w

Reviewed by C. W. E. Morris
Christian Science Monitor p9 O 29 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:421 Ag 1 '51 150w

"Cook's account, which is merely an extension of a portion of his earlier narrative, 'My Attainment of the Pole,' is well written and exciting, but not deserving of any extended treatment. . . The most charitable thing that can be said of Cook is that he was unable to suppress a desire to pull the long bow; he cannot be shrugged off only as a liar. On the contrary, his travels, including those related in this book, even though in the opinion of this reviewer he did not reach the Pole, were of no little significance. He had served Peary with ability and loyalty on one of his earlier expeditions, and as a member of the Belgian Antarctic Expedition he had done excellent work. Undoubtedly he was a resourceful man of resolution and courage. It is too bad his last published work has to be reviewed as fiction." W. S. Carlson
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 O 28 '51 1300w

"The first part of Cook's posthumous book is rather vague and contains nothing to show that he went to the pole beyond his statement that he did go there, but the last part of it about the winter he was holed up at Cape Sparbo on Devon Island is excellent reading. There is no doubt about his acute observation of animal life, as he tells of his desperate efforts to get food." Russell Owen
+ N Y Times p41 O 14 '51 750w

"The writing is memorable for its intensity and for a certain nobility of sentiment, and it makes one doubt whether a man capable of such a book would also be capable of perpetrating the hoax he was accused of. Frederick J. Pohl, a writer on explorers and exploration, who is convinced that Dr. Cook did find the Pole a year before Admiral Peary, has edited the book and written a long introduction telling why he thinks so."
+ New Yorker 27:121 S 29 '51 250w

San Francisco Chronicle p33 N 4 '51 600w

"This tale contrasts with Peary's in that the more you study it, the less able you are to believe it. . . The question arises whether 'Return from the Pole' is less fictitious than Cook's 1911 book. It is not, so far as Cook's own part in it is concerned. As an attempted rehabilitation, it is pathetic; but its very pathos brings to mind the possibility that it may possibly be literature, like the 'Ballad of Reading Gaol,' which few read without having their judgment to an extent swayed by the feeling that through it a guilty man is fumbling for sympathy. And Cook, by most accounts, was easier to sympathize with, more likable, than Wilde. . . One of the merits of the present 'Return' is its excellent bibliography, less slanted in Cook's favor than you would expect." Vilhjalmur Stefansson
Sat R of Lit 34:26 D 8 '51 800w

COOK, GEORGE HENRY. Portrait of Lincoln cathedral. (English cathedrals ser) 65p 58il $3.50 Chanticleer

726.6 Lincoln cathedral A51-9064

"In its setting high on the hill overlooking the valley of the Wilham, Lincoln Cathedral is, even more than Durham, the most spectacularly sited church in England. . . Modern photography, as in this book, can be used to great advantage in re-interpreting the structure of such architectural treasures. And often one needs to see them in a new light, to peer through the murky accretions of guide books to the living force that made these stone piles possible." Christian Science Monitor

---

"One might have thought that there was not much more to say about English cathedrals. But Mr. Cook in his series of monographs, of which this one on Lincoln is number four, has proved by his skillful fusion of text with a novel photographic interpretation that there indeed is." F. R.
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 25 '51 160w

"An inspired example of modern British popular archeology." Lincoln Kirstein
+ New Repub 123:25 D 11 '50 90w

Times [London] Lit Sup p528 Ag 25 '50 450w

COOK, LYN. Bells on Finland street; il. by Stanley Wyatt. 197p $2.50 Macmillan 51-9740

A story of a little Finnish girl living in a Canadian mining town, whose dearest wish it was to learn figure skating. How granpa, newly come over from Finland, helps Elin achieve her ambition is herein told for readers of the middle grades.

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and E. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:101 Mr '51 90w

+ Kirkus 19:62 F 1 '51 180w

"Though melodramatic in spots and containing poor and unnecessary broken English, tone of the book is very good. Recommended for ages 11-14." Sonja Wennerblad
+ Library J 76:606 Ap 1 '51 80w

"American children can easily transfer the Canadian and the Finnish angles to their own situation, and they will love all the details about skating. The one defect, for easy reading at ten or eleven, is the odd use of broken English by Granpa and the parents. Even if they really talked this way it seems unnecessary for this sort of book. But bright readers should not mind it, for all that Grandpa says is beautiful and worth thinking about." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 25 '51 180w

Reviewed by Irene Smith
N Y Times p24 Ap 8 '51 180w

Reviewed by B. W. Shaffer
Sat R of Lit 34:44 My 12 '51 210w

COOK, ROBERT CARTER. Human fertility: the modern dilemma; with an introd. by Julian Huxley. 380p $4.50 Sloane

312.1 Fecundity. Population 51-10252

"A frank attack on the double-edged population problem: over-population and the genetic erosion evident in inadequate replacement of the intelligent. The author traces the development of medical science and the resultant decreasing death rate. . . He recommends a vigorous educational campaign among both educated and uneducated, to gain a voluntary balance between births and deaths, adequate family aid and improved economic and social conditions." (Booklist) Bibliography. Index.

"Certain to raise controversy but a necessary addition if only to provoke thought and discussion."
Booklist 47:303 My 1 '51

Reviewed by W. M. Krogman
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 13 '51 550w

Reviewed by W. J. Gibbons
Commonweal 54:605 S 28 '51 1250w

Kirkus 18:717 D 1 '50 110w

"Any book which covers so much ground, ignores traditional boundaries, and draws upon so many sources—238 items are cited in its bibliography—is bound to invite professional criticism. Scholars will cavil at its misspellings and pounce upon some misstatements of fact; prose purists who deprecate the exclamatory style of American popularization of science may feel that they have lost another round; and specialists will envy its air of assurance on many moot points. But the book's general message has an import for free peoples which should override such reservations. It needs to be widely read and understood, for it can add a cubit to the layman's knowledge of himself." S. W. Reed
+ — Nation 172:494 My 26 '51 1000w

Reviewed by Anthony Barnett
New Repub 125:18 S 17 '51 390w

"'Human Fertility' is an admirable example of popularization on a very high level. It will undoubtedly anger many and disturb more. In any event it should bring to the attention of a wider public the problems with which it deals." J. W. Krutch
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 My 27 '51 850w

"Mr. Cook is a scientist of great integrity and mature wisdom. If as private citizens and public officials we do not read and heed what he says, it may not matter very much what else we do read or heed." Wendell Johnson
+ N Y Times p13 My 6 '51 500w

New Yorker 27:75 Jl 28 '51 170w

"There is much in 'Human Fertility' that deserves every reader's thoughtful consideration, but you'd better dig it out for yourself. At the very least, even though you may disagree with Mr. Cook on some points, his book will give you much that is worth thinking about." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ap 27 '51 750w

Reviewed by W. C. Boyd
Sat R of Lit 34:20 Je 9 '51 700w

Reviewed by F. H. Hankins
Social Forces 30:238 D '51 550w

"Mr. Cook, who is managing editor of the 'Journal of Heredity,' presents his point of view forcefully. His findings deserve serious attention. But how true they are, or what we can do about them if they are true is another matter. One of the oldest fears in recorded history is that the present generation (whether that of Homer, Horace, or Hakluyt) is not living up to the standards of the past. . . This author differs from most of the pessimists mainly in the fact that he carefully documents his worries." Donald Derby
+ Springf'd Republican p20A My 13 '51 500w

Reviewed by Frank Lorimer
Survey 87:396 S '51 550w

Times [London] Lit Sup p728 N 16 '51 800w

COOK, WHITFIELD. Roman comedy; an impolite extravaganza. 204p $2.75 Coward-McCann 51-11670

A satire on Hollywood combined with an even more bitter satire on the American cult of motherhood. The chief character is a middle-aged movie actor who leaves Hollywood for a time to go to Rome to appear in a picture directed by an Italian woman-genius.

Reviewed by Richard Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Jl 29 '51 240w

Kirkus 19:367 Jl 15 '51 130w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 D 9 '51 120w

"This saga of the 'Pink Silk Cowboy' from the moment he lands in Rome to be taken in hand by director Anna Stagnaro, a tough but sentient craftswoman, until the completion of his film, 'A Night With Mr. Primrose' is not unprecedented stuff. It is somewhat prosaically descended from 'Once in a Lifetime' and Evelyn Waugh's 'The Loved One.' The author, in short, seems to be having a high time thumbing his nose while wielding a scalpel." A. H. Weiler
N Y Times p11 Jl 29 '51 250w

— New Yorker 27:78 Jl 21 '51 70w

Reviewed by George Oppenheimer
Sat R of Lit 34:14 Ag 25 '51 440w

"Mr. Cook's satire is much more biting and cruel than the usual American brand, but is relieved from time to time by episodes that are frankly slap-stick and undeniably funny. It is [a] most entertaining novel but only occasionally impressive, due primarily to Mr. Cook's too rugged lashing about with a whip. Most of the characters are grotesque to the point that while they unmistakably call attention to Mr. Cook's meaning, they are so repulsive that they fascinate rather than horrify." R. F. H.
+ — Springf'd Republican p4C Ag 5 '51 200w

COOKE, DAVID COXE, ed. Best detective stories of the year, 1951. (V6) 250p $2.75 Dutton
Short stories—Collections (46-5872)

Contents: The gentleman from Paris, by J. D. Carr; Nearly perfect, by A. A. Milne; Florian Slappey—private eye, by O. R. Cohen; Burden of guilt, by John and Ward Hawkins; A boy's will, by Q. Patrick; The Chinese dagger, by S. H. Small; McGarry and the television frame-up, by Matt Taylor; Trouble on 98th street, by Frank Taubes; The orderly world of Mr Appleby, by Stanley Ellin; Foolproof frame-up, by Harry Klingsberg; Into the web, by D. M. Newell; The walking corpse, by Clayre and Michel Lipman; Murder without clues, by Ellery Queen.

Kirkus 19:337 Jl 1 '51 80w

"Of the thirteen stories included, three indeed are excellent (by John Dickson Carr, Stanley Ellenby, and Q. Patrick)—and those three appeared a year ago in the last volume of 'The Queen's Awards.' Cooke's own discoveries are passably publishable commercial stories deserving their original magazine appearances but hardly the permanence of an anthology." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p29 S 30 '51 60w

"Even if you don't agree with Cooke's definition of 'best' you can't go far wrong with such a collection. B plus." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 S 30 '51 40w

"Readable in own right, for the fun of it, and also as examples of what editors are buying." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 S 22 '51 40w

COOLIDGE, MRS OLIVIA E. Legends of the North; il. by Edouard Sandoz. 260p $2 Houghton
293 Mythology, Norse 51-9247

Collection of myths and hero tales which could serve as an introduction to Anglo-Saxon mythology for ages eight to twelve. The sections are: Tales of the northern gods; The last of the Volsungs; Tales of the northern heroes; Tales from the sagas. List of proper names.

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

"Excellent collection of myths and legends." A. L. Shea
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 F 18 '51 150w

Kirkus 19:27 Ja 15 '51 160w

"Excellent collection for the general reader and one the storyteller will find valuable." C. A. Hulton
+ Library J 76:416 Mr 1 '51 110w

"To this reviewer's mind, it does not rise to the prose skill of Colum's 'Book of Northern Myths,' but it may well surpass that established volume in general appeal for ages ten to fourteen, because of the brevity of chapters, the arrangement and explanations, and the modern beauty of its bookmaking." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 F 18 '51 240w

"The selection of the episodes themselves is sound, although one wonders a little at the conclusion of the entire epic of Sigurd for children as young as those for whom this book seems intended." Eulalie Steinmetz
+ N Y Times p30 F 18 '51 180w

"A vigorous retelling, with solid scholarship behind it, of the Northern myths, for readers of ten and over." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:187 D 1 '51 60w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 25 '51 60w

"This collection of legends will serve as a good introduction to the gods and heroes of Norse mythology. . . Based on original sources, the stories are retold with a feeling for drama and beauty in easy-to-read style."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 90w

Wis Lib Bul 47:93 Ap '51

COON, CARLETON STEVENS. Caravan; the story of the Middle East. 376p il maps $5 Holt
950 East (Near East) 51-14082

"This volume provides a background of geographical and cultural information for Americans interested in the Middle East—defined as that part of the Islamic world ranging from Morocco to Afghanistan. The author, an anthropologist, attempts to 'demonstrate the practicability of the techniques of applied anthropology in complex literate civilizations as well as in simpler, preliterate cultures.'" (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:57; 99 O 15 '51; N 15 '51

Reviewed by W. M. Krogman
Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 D 16 '51 440w

"The worth of such a book as 'Caravan' is not only in what it tells us about the little-known individuals with whom we share this globe but also in what it helps us to feel about them. . . Dr. Coon helps us all realize, for everyone's good, that the people of the Middle East have the same basic aspirations which we have in the West, that they must be treated as self-respecting human beings, that, given half a chance, they will cooperate with us for peace and democracy, but that if turned away they can destroy hope of peace and freedom."
+ Christian Science Monitor p17 D 1 '51 400w

Current Hist 21:357 D '51 50w

"Students of the Middle East, as well as the growing audience for information about this combustible area, will find this study valuable and the travel fans will be interested also in the author's presentation of some of the traditionally colorful elements."
+ Kirkus 19:550 S 15 '51 250w

"Written with sympathetic understanding with passages and occasional spots of humorous relief, this work represents a valuable contribution to the increasing number of American books about this critically important region of the post-war world." J. C. Shipman

+ Library J 76:1800 N 1 '51 150w

"Mr. Coon has produced the best popular account of the Middle-East for Americans young or old of every persuasion." J. H. Breasted
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 D 2 '51 650w

"Mr. Coon, a distinguished anthropologist, draws on field experience stretching back nearly three decades for fascinating accounts of villagers, townsmen, mountaineers, herdsmen, men of the desert—and how they live. Honest borrowings from other scholars give his book the sparkling contrasts of good mosaic work." Farnsworth Fowle
+ N Y Times p18 N 25 '51 330w

"Professor Coon's story is set not to the lumbering gait of a desert caravan, but rather is tuned to the scampering pace of a tumultuous movie cavalcade. Yet so skilfully in general does he order the multifarious masses of detail . . . that even he who runs may read with profit, while he who stops to ponder is appropriately rewarded. The salient characteristic of the book, however, is neither the knowledge nor the craftsmanship displayed in it, but the forthright common sense and wisdom which inspire the exposition and keep it reasonable and very human." William Thomson
+ Sat R of Lit 34:25 D 8 '51 700w

COOPER, SIR ALFRED DUFF. Operation heartbreak. 153p $2.50 Viking 51-9666

Story of an English army man, too young to fight in the first world war, too old to fight in the second, who, in death, achieved his deepest ambition, to be of service to his country in war.

Booklist 47:236 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:133 Mr '51 30w

Reviewed by Warren Beck
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 6 '51 470w

"In less than half the length of the average novel, Duff Cooper has performed a brilliant job of narrative and characterization. His exploration into the lives and motives of his people are done with a scalpel, where so many of his contemporaries would be content to wield a pick-axe. His style is deceptively simple, low-pitched, but beneath its calm surface there is a deep sympathetic comprehension of the complexities of human existence and the universal effort to find out 'where one fits.' " P. V. Farrell
+ Commonweal 53:525 Mr 2 '51 800w

Kirkus 19:7 Ja 1 '51 230w

"This is an exceedingly deft first novel with a twist ending both devious and intriguing. Recommended." H. L. Roth
+ Library J 76:408 Mr 1 '51 100w

"It is a rare book, written with wonderful economy and perfect timing; rare, too, in its shape—fifty thousand words or less,—which normally goes whistling for a publisher. Not its least service is to reinforce the case that somewhere between the story and the novel lies one of the most effective literary forms, and in English one of the most neglected." Norman Shrapnel
+ Manchester Guardian p4 N 17 '50 200w

Reviewed by Harvey Swados
New Repub 124:31 My 7 '51 180w

"A veil of rich fatuousness hangs over Sir Duff Cooper's nouvelle like a Scotch mist. A glorious amalgam of Young England, Dornford Yates and Lady Addle Remembers, its inspired silliness has to be read to be believed." John Raymond
— New Statesman & Nation 40:514 N 25 '50 900w

"Work of this jewel-like brevity and intensity is more expected in French than in English, and it may be that Duff Cooper's ample French culture, shown a good many years ago in his admirable 'Talleyrand,' has influenced his rather late development as an artist. The beauty and originality of the story gain by the deployment of a masterly gift, a gift so exceptional that we are obliged to regret every year Duff Cooper spent on parliamentary politics when he might have been writing books." Vincent Sheean
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 F 25 '51 650w

"Continually frustrated in life, Willie was fated in death to play a dramatic part in the war. His highly improbable end is a shockingly macabre, unexpected climax to a leisurely tale written with a suave, courtly precision of language." Nancie Matthews
+ — N Y Times p20 F 25 '51 310w

"Duff Cooper is a master of a pared-down, spare prose that is immensely effective for its purpose in this gently ironic yet sympathetic reflection of a man who wanted only the best, but never got much of anything he wanted until it was too late for him to know it—the final irony. American readers, I believe, will find 'Operation Heartbreak' as readable as the British have done." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 F 19 '51 800w

"Though Duff Cooper is a veteran biographer, this short novel is his first book of fiction. It seems the work of a man of action—it is always direct, concrete, economical. Willie Maryngton is thoroughly understood; he is a very simple man, and his story is appropriately told in plain statement, without analysis or subtlety." Walter Havighurst
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Mr 10 '51 650w

"The story is based on a good idea, and superficially this idea is ably worked out; what makes the book, in my view, something less than a 'little masterpiece' is that the language, for the most part, is undistinguished and the characters mere puppets who never come to life." Derek Hudson
+ — Spec 184:478 N 10 '50 1250w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p8C Mr 4 '51 330w

Times [London] Lit Sup p721 N 17 '50 550w

COOPER, MARTIN. French music; from the death of Berlioz to the death of Fauré. 240p il $4.75 Oxford

780.944 Music, French

"The period [the book] covers (1869-1924) is by far the richest and most varied in the history of French music. The author has adopted the sensible expedient of dividing the book into decades, so that, instead of being given a series of discrete essays on individual composers, the reader is shown the gradual evolution of each one in relation to the others and to French art as a whole. The volume concludes with a table of incidence which enables us to see at a glance the more important artistic events in any one year." Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by Desmond Shawe-Taylor
New Statesman & Nation 42:602 N 24 '51 650w

"This is a neat, literate, pungent little book. It covers a fascinating period and is treated in an equally fascinating manner." Harold Schonberg
+ N Y Times p57 N 25 '51 300w

"The author makes a perceptive distinction between Debussy and Ravel—'[Debussy's] technique is wholly at the service of his imagination, whereas Ravel's imagination seems to be stimulated by technical problems'. . . Again, Mr. Cooper very commendably reacts against the Cocteau-inspired adulation of Satie and Les Six, but occasionally this judicial attitude carries him too far. . . These are minor quibbles. The major news is that a book on French music has appeared written by a critic who thinks for himself and is no slave to parti-pris. It is a book rich in substance, adroit in style, and deserving of wide attention." Roland Gelatt
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:21 O 27 '51 750w

"Mr. Cooper sees his period with this general historical perspective; his comments on specific developments are the more acute because he is aware of the relationship of one thing to

COOPER, MARTIN—Continued
another. His accounts of the key figures—Saint Saens, Gounod, Franck, Massenet and d'Indy—are especially helpful. . . Admirable as is his account of the Franck movement, I think Mr. Cooper over-estimates the extent to which Chausson is victimised by the period atmosphere of Franck's mystique. I think too that the importance of Milhaud's major works should not be lost sight of in dismissing his innumerable ephemera. . . However, what matters is that Mr. Cooper has written a book which is civilised and wise. He has achieved objectivity without the loss of compassion. That, in critical writing about music, is very rare." Wilfrid Mellers
+ — Spec 185:868 Je 29 '51 900w

"The appreciation of French music is a matter of fine shades, and not the least admirable quality of this most intelligent study is the author's ability to hold in a true balance the work of Fauré, Ravel, Debussy, and (especially perhaps) Massenet, whose shortcomings have usually blinded English musicians to his very real merits. . . There are a few slips in the book."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p448 Jl 20 '51 1100w

COOPS, HELEN LESLIE. Health education in elementary schools; activities, materials, methods. 287p il $3.50 Barnes, A.S.
371.7 Hygiene—Study and teaching 50-6066

"The author, drawing upon her experiences in teacher education and as a consultant in health education, provides the reader with many practical suggestions for the teaching of health. The book is divided into four sections. In the first section, a setting is given for what is to follow by sketches of adult personalities involved in the problems of modern living. . . The second section is devoted to a discussion of organization and planning for health education. . . In Section Three are described many activities which have proved effective in actual classroom situations. Emphasis is on pupil activity planning. Teaching units which grew out of actual classroom situations form the content of Section Four." Am J Pub Health

"The author shows originality in the presentation of health and educational principles as applied to health teaching of younger children. . . The book should be a useful reference for both the preservice and inservice education of elementary teachers." R. E. Grout
+ Am J Pub Health 40:1019 Ag '50 320w

"A unique handbook for elementary-school teachers and for elementary-school administrators and supervisors who are interested in a modern program of health education. The activities, materials, and methods described in the book have been tested in actual school situations—a fact which recommends its use in the health-education programs of prospective teachers." J. E. Clettenberg
+ El School J 51:109 O '50 500w

COPE, HARLEY FRANCIS, and KARIG, WALTER. Battle submerged; submarine fighters of World war II. 244p il $3.75 Norton
940.5451 World war, 1939-1945—Naval operations—Submarine 51-9593

"The primary purpose of this book is to describe the extraordinary versatility of what will probably be the most important fighting craft in the next war—the submarines. The method the authors have chosen is to relate each of the war missions that the submarines of the United States Navy were sent out to perform, in the narratives of as many ships." (Foreword) No index.

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '51

"The 'Silent Service' gets its due in this book. The submariner's war in the Pacific is told in prose that equals that of the best novels. The action is as thrilling as a good western." Gilbert Twiss
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Mr 11 '51 450w

Reviewed by F. L. Oliver
Christian Science Monitor p9 Mr 28 '51 370w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

+ Kirkus 19:40 Ja 15 '51 190w

"Admiral Cope and Captain Karig give us in highly organized and workmanlike form what is essentially a picture of the versatility of the modern submarine. From the hundreds of battle reports and war-patrol diaries they have skillfully arranged by type of mission a number of outstanding exploits to fill in a concept of each type of duty." Alfred Stanford
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Mr 4 '51 950w

"A book that not only tells as much as is proper to tell about U. S. submarines in the Pacific during World War II, but as much as may be told about the service in general. It is a highly dramatic and fast-moving narrative, moreover, and thoroughly good reading." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 F 16 '51 850w

Reviewed by Fletcher Pratt
Sat R of Lit 34:10 Je 2 '51 420w

Springf'd Republican p8D Mr 11 '51 420w

Time 57:100 Mr 5 '51 500w

COPELAND, MELVIN THOMAS. Executive at work. 278p $3.75 Harvard univ. press
658.3124 Management. Executives 51-12811

"The care and feeding of executives has been the subject of many recent studies, many under the direction of the present author. Much of the resultant data is here presented in a discussion of the elements of executive achievement. The fundamentals of administration and organization, the qualities required, the rewards, the social importance of effective leadership, illustrated by concrete examples and case histories drawn from life." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 48:79 N 1 '51

Cleveland Open Shelf p25 N '51

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:1933 N 15 '51 60w

COPP, JOHN DIXON. Samoan dance of life; an anthropological narrative; with the help of Faafouina I. Pula; and with a pref. by Margaret Mead. 176p $2.50 Beacon press
919.61 Samoan islands—Social life and customs 50-10744

In fiction form this is a picture of Samoan life presented thru the story of a Samoan boy from his first day in school to young adulthood.

Kirkus 18:629 O 1 '50 120w

"Read simply as a story of young people finding a biological basis for life on a lovely island far away, slowly being entangled with the life of the five great continents, this is an interesting book." Ernestine Evans
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 F 4 '51 650w

Reviewed by J. A. Michener
N Y Times p6 Ja 7 '51 700w

COPPEL, ALEC. Mr Denning drives north. 253p $3 Dutton
51-10203

Mystery story.

"An above-average thriller." Basil Davenport
+ N Y Times p12 Je 17 '51 140w

"Silly but reasonably entertaining."
— + New Yorker 27:124 Ap 28 '51 120w

"There are some nice twists in the story, evident in spite of an indefinably naive flavor in the writing." L. G. Offord
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 22 '51 80w

"Denning's Rolls-Royce makes more sense than any of the alleged human characters. Descriptive detail loosely glued—gypsies and countryside all seem at such helter-skelter random." Kathleen Sproul
— Sat R of Lit 34:39 Je 9 '51 60w

CORBETT, ELIZABETH FRANCES. Portrait of Isabelle. 254p $3 Lippincott
51-1833

Chronicle of family life from the last years of the nineteenth century to the present. Isabelle spent her youth in Illinois; later she moved to Milwaukee; and after the death of her husband she went to New York to live with her youngest daughter. It is a record of the small things which go to make up daily life in small middle class families.

Booklist 47:294 Ap 15 '51

"Miss Corbett's book is a tale of utmost simplicity, told in strangely moving language. . . The book details the day-by-day living of this family cast of characters. They have their ups and downs, their delights and difficulties. But thruout, the tale is one of happiness on the whole, of loving and giving in love, of courage at the high points without despair in the depths." Henry Cavendish
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 29 '51 420w

Kirkus 19:33 Ja 15 '51 150w

Reviewed by Ruth Tremain
N Y Times p20 Ap 22 '51 130w

"Mrs. Corbett has called this latest novel the life story of a happy woman. She has, alas, become so obsessed with creating the 'happy' story of a 'happy woman' that she has eliminated not only unhappiness and disaster from the life of her heroine but also all interest and excitement. Her characters end up by appearing almost lifeless, her plot drags, and her net result is a very dull novel." S. B. Mahin
— Sat R of Lit 34:31 Je 2 '51 350w

Wis Lib Bul 47:189 Jl '51

CORBETT, PERCY ELLWOOD. Law and society in the relations of states. 337p $4.75 Harcourt

341 International law. International relations 51-4385

"Princeton professor discusses in first, shorter part of book the idea of a law of nations, giving historical background and emphasizing relation of international to municipal law. Main part takes up specific topics, such as land, waters, immunities, individuals, war, preceding each with brief historical introduction and giving very good picture of present day status. Concluding smaller part examines modern international organizations." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by J. N. Hazard
Am Pol Sci R 45:1181 D '51 2000w

"This is a very important and original contribution to the theory of international law, which may well inject new life into a branch of learning which has largely become sterile and content with legalistic manipulations." H. J. Morgenthau
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 Ag 19 '51 550w

"This book is a textbook in the sense that it traces the history of international law, examines its concepts, and cites its application. However, it is of importance to more than the student of the subject. Within its covers lies an appeal to the millions who want a better, safer place in which to live. Whether the millions will be able to find their way through this learned treatise, lucid as the style may be, is another matter." Godfrey Sperling
+ Christian Science Monitor p9 Ag 14 '51 600w

"Thoroughly documented work with realistic approach will be welcomed by specialist and by layman who has enough stamina to work himself through part one." H. H. Bernt
+ Library J 76:1335 S 1 '51 100w

"Professor Corbett combines a mass of relevant and unostentatious learning with sound practical judgment. He is on terms of easy familiarity with the classics of international law, with judicial decisions, and with modern writings. He alternates doctrinal discussions with detailed examination of typical cases in a manner that opens new avenues for reflection by professional international lawyers. His easy style may even attract some lay readers." Quincy Wright
+ Yale R n s 41:137 autumn '51 1000w

CORBETT, SCOTT. Sauce for the gander; il. by Don Freeman. 238p $3 Crowell 818 51-12673

The author of The Reluctant Landlord (Book Review Digest 1950) describes another venture in earning a living. With a Chinese friend, the Corbetts attempted to manufacture their favorite sea food sauce in their home. He describes their mishaps and handicaps in this book.

Booklist 48:27 S 15 '51

Kirkus 19:371 Jl 15 '51 130w

"Greatest value of this slight book is to warn anyone who would merchandise a home-made product!! It just might amuse some readers." K. T. Willis
Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 50w

"Mr. Corbett, who wrote 'The Reluctant Landlord,' has a quiet wit, a sense of the ridiculous, and a companionable prose style. 'Sauce for the Gander' is a gay book, and a warning to the unwary. It will curb your culinary impulses and probably to your profit."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p24 N 25 '51 160w

N Y Times p28 O 28 '51 140w

+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 11 '51 170w

CORES, LUCY MICHAELLA. Woman in love. 274p $3 Harper
51-10389

Character study of a charming young woman who could not fall out of love with the one man. Her infatuation lasted thru her own marriage and his, to another woman. The break came at last with the birth of the man's son—to his wife.

"It is a convincing and highly readable story of their life and of the efforts and frustrations of a woman all too seriously in love. Miss Cores has written an effective and perceptive novel." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Ap 22 '51 440w

"One may think Bennet a fool and Richard an arrogant heel, but their story, without question, has moments of genuine intensity." E. H. Walton
N Y Times p17 Je 17 '51 130w

Reviewed by M. L. Muller
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Jl 1 '51 110w

"Miss Cores has done an excellent job in her psychological study of a woman fighting to hold her lover with every weapon and stratagem at her command. . . The characters of Miss Cores's novel are the high-powered sophisticates of New York's magazine, publishing, and publicity circles, and her book is excellently conceived and skilfully written." S. H. Hay
+ Sat R of Lit 34:12 Je 9 '51 310w

"Despite the hackneyed theme, this book contains some brilliant writing and entertaining incidents." S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 90w

COREY, EDWIN RAYMOND. Direct placement of corporate securities. 233p $3.50 Harvard univ. Division of res.

332.63 Securities

"An analysis of the trend toward direct placement, especially to large insurance companies, of large security issues of industrial corporations. Features examined and explained include: saving of time and flotation expense by avoiding government requirements on public offerings; nature and advantages of direct negotiation, and of the resulting relationships. Viewpoint of institutional lenders as well as corporate issuers are considered." (Library J) Index.

COREY, E. R.—Continued

"A useful treatment of a subject of current importance." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 76:412 Mr 1 '51 60w

"In this excellent book, Dr. Corey provides the first thorough examination of direct placement."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:153 Je '51 230w

COREY, PAUL. Homemade homes. 309p $3.95 Sloane
728.6 Architecture, Domestic. Building
50-11160

"Informal but practical volume for the amateur, explaining how people in different walks of life have built or are building variously-styled homes. Numerous plans. Index." (Bookmark) Index.

Booklist 47:200 F 1 '51
Bookmark 10:81 Ja '51 30w

"A few chapters are nail by nail how-to-do it. But there are great gaps, as was the case in his Build a Home [Book Review Digest 1946]. This is better written, more serious, and full of sound information. But it is not enough."
+ — Kirkus 18:546 S 1 '50 200w

"The book makes pleasant reading and the author knows whereof he speaks." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 75:2008 N 15 '50 140w

"It makes as good reading as a seed catalogue in winter or a cookbook in a hall bedroom."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Mr 4 '51 200w

"Highly recommended."
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:58 Mr '51

CORKILL, LOUIS. Fish lane. 220p $2.75 Bobbs
51-6229
Detective story.

"'Fish Lane' appears to be a western extension of 'Tobacco Road' peopled with a grisly crew of the desperately poor and ignorant scrambling for mere subsistence... The author's style is rather conscientious than compulsive." James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p31 O 7 '51 110w

"Chaotic construction and occasionally lurid overwriting detract from the morbid fascination of the crude and sub-human goings-on; but the book does have a peculiar individuality." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p21 S 23 '51 40w

"This certainly avoids the chiffon-and-emeralds type of background. Unluckily the people still don't seem quite real." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 9 '51 70w

"Original, unusual." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:24 N 10 '51 40w

CORLE, EDWIN. The Gila river of the Southwest; il. by Ross Santee. (Rivers of America ser) 402p $4.50 Rinehart
978.9 Southwest—History. Gila river and valley
51-6152

"Author traces history of this fabulous land of New Mexico and Arizona from the days of the dinosaur to the present-day dam building and land reclamation through irrigation. Every phase of development is taken up in detail. Long the stronghold of the Apache, the area finally was made safe for the inroads of the white man, with his agriculture, cattle raising and mining. Still a land of mystery, author implies that anything may yet happen in the Gila watershed." Library J

Booklist 48:21; 28 S 15 '51

"'The Gila' is a remarkable bit of Americana, written by a man who knows every inch of the country. It is fascinating reading and a great addition to the Rivers of America series." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 28 '51 420w

Reviewed by DeWitt John
Christian Science Monitor p7 D 19 '51 390w

Reviewed by Philip Burnham
Commonweal 55:308 D 28 '51 200w
Kirkus 19:475 Ag 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by L. R. Etzkorn
Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 70w

"The plan of the book implies that history is primarily a storehouse of anecdotes from a remote past rather than the study of a continuing process. The effort to make the material attractive to the general reader threatens to strip it of historical meaning. The problem faces every popularizer of academic scholarship; perhaps it is insoluble. Nevertheless, it would be pleasant if a way could be found to bring history to a wide audience in less diluted form." H. N. Smith
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 4 '51 650w

Reviewed by J. F. Dobie
N Y Times p7 N 18 '51 440w

"Mr. Corle, who knows a great deal about the Southwest, has been handed a writer's dream of an assignment and has carried it out in fine style."
+ New Yorker 27:167 N 24 '51 100w

"Mr. Corle has shown before this that he knows how to swing a book of this kind—a combination of history, geography, anecdote and atmosphere. He accomplishes the task here, moreover, in particularly fine style. 'The Gila' belongs up among the top few in the Rivers of America Series. Mr. Corle's done a real job on it." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 O 30 '51 800w

Reviewed by E. E. Dale
Sat R of Lit 34:15 N 17 '51 600w

CORLISS, CARLTON JONATHAN. Main line of mid-America; the story of the Illinois central. 490p il maps $4.75 Creative age
385 Illinois central railroad company
50-11034

A history of the Illinois Central railroad, chartered February 10, 1851. Its picturesque story includes an episode with Abraham Lincoln—a dispute over a $5,000 fee. Casey Jones, of railroad and ballad fame was an Illinois Central man. There is a chapter on the Chicago fire. Illustrated with maps, photographs, and drawings. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:199 F 1 '51

"Mr. Corliss has written a book so fascinating that this reviewer found it difficult to put it down for even so important a thing as resting the eyes. The history of a railroad, it is as exciting as adventure fiction. Within its pages are unfolded scores of stories." Philip Hampson
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 D 10 '50 600w
Kirkus 18:670 N 1 '50 100w

Reviewed by E. W. Walbridge
Library J 75:2072 D 1 '50 90w
Management R 40:380 Je '51 50w

"Mr. Corliss's fat book is in essence a court biography and a very good one it is. For many years he was employed in responsible positions by the road he writes about and is currently on the staff of the Association of American Railroads. His knowledge of his subject is thorough." Stewart Holbrook
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ja 28 '51 850w

"This comprehensive and satisfactory history, written by a railroad authority, marks the centennial year of a great railroad." W. A. Howe
+ N Y Times p19 Ja 21 '51 180w

Reviewed by Ruth Teiser

San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 18 '51 70w

Reviewed by J. T. Winterich

Sat R of Lit 34:21 Mr 3 '51 170w

CORMACK, MARIBELLE. First book of trees; pictures by Helene Carter. 93p $1.75 Watts, F.

582.16 Trees—Juvenile literature 51-4522

Following a general discussion on trees, text and pictures describe over fifty North American trees. Points studied are leaves, buds, bark, shape, habits, flowers, seeds, roots, and identification. For ages six to ten. Index.

Booklist 47:385 Jl 1 '51

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"Interesting, and accurate text. . . Excellent for the camp and the school library, as well as for the child's own home bookshelf." M. J. T.

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 30 '51 70w

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 S '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:257 Jl '51 120w

"An attractive, simple and useful forest guide, including both general information and an identification section."

+ Kirkus 19:230 My 1 '51 140w

"Children will find the book attractive, but, because of the confusing arrangement, misleading and not useful as far as information goes. Worth buying for the illustrations." N. S. Chasteen

Library J 76:1232 Ag '51 80w

"Here is brief, intelligent general information, plus exact short descriptions." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Jl 1 '51 40w

Reviewed by G. A. Blough

+ N Y Times p18 Jl 15 '51 50w

Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 18 '51 60w

Wis Lib Bul 47:193 Jl '51

CORNELIUS, ROBERTA DOUGLAS. History of Randolph-Macon woman's college. 428p il $6 Univ. of N.C. press

376 Randolph-Macon woman's college, Lynchburg, Virginia 51-11124

A history of Randolph-Macon college for women, at Lynchburg, Virginia, from its founding in 1891 thru 1949-1950. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

"All of the minutiae of school life have been so carefully preserved by Miss Cornelius that at times one barely sees Randolph-Macon for the people. This thorough compendium can best be described as more than adequate." J. K. Bettersworth

N Y Times p10 Jl 15 '51 360w

"Much detailed information is presented on buildings and courses of study and dedications and inaugurations but very little attention is paid to the educational philosophy of those responsible for the development of the college and almost no effort is made to understand and present the institution in relation to the aims and values of the society out of which it grew. . . Its value is that of a chronicle which records the successive happenings in the restricted community of the college." Vernon Carstensen

Sat R of Lit 34:33 S 8 '51 300w

CORNELL, BETTY. Glamour guide for teens; il. by Abbi Damerow. 100p $2.95 Prentice-Hall

646 Beauty, Personal 51-3868

A successful model sets down some of the basic principles of good health, good grooming, dressing and use of cosmetics for high school girls. Style is informal and chatty but not flippant.

"Not essential, but girls will enjoy and possibly profit by its suggestions."

Booklist 47:383 Jl 1 '51

"A simple, attractive approach to the grooming and appearance problem—excellent for the young teens."

+ Kirkus 19:298 Je 15 '51 140w

"Emphasis on the teen-age gets a little silly in such headings as 'Teen-Age Exercises' and 'Teen-Age Calorie Table,' but most of the advice is sound enough, and many teen-age girls need and want it. . . Her chapter on modeling tricks will be an added attraction to young charm seekers." Lillian Morrison

+ — Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 60w

CORNER, JOHN. Theory of the interior ballistics of guns. 443p $8 Wiley

623.53 Ballistics 50-10691

"This book is devoted to the physics and thermochemistry of what goes on inside a gun once the propellant is ignited, rather than to trajectories and other topics that are classed as external ballistics. Good accounts are given of both the classical and the modern theories. Apparently the author's aim was to provide his readers with a knowledge that could be put to immediate practical use in ballistics research and design and at the same time to inform them of recent developments that promise to lead to more accurate calculations and predictions in ballistics. . . The author is a British scientist who played a prominent part in interior ballistics research during World War II." N Y New Tech Bks

Bookmark 10:167 Ap '51

"Excellent book. . . That this book is not a rehash of the older 'classics' is evidenced by some of the newer devices which are discussed, such as high-low pressure guns, tapered barrels, and recoilless guns. This is also apparent from the inclusion of the topics heat transfer, worn gun behavior, erosive burning of propellants, and other refinements which have become necessary as the art of gunnery has changed to the science of ballistics." C. A. Boyd

+ Chem & Eng N 29:1679 Ap 23 '51 200w

"Probably the book will be used most as a text for upperclass students in military colleges, but it should be a boon to any physicist or mathematician who is just beginning work in ballistics." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 150w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:3 Ja '51

CORNISH, JOHN. The provincials. 258p $3 Sloane

51-3440

Follows the lives of the various members of a wealthy British Columbian family from the 1920's thru the 1940's. The Dunseiths had made their money in lumber; their manners and their unconventionality were forgiven because of their wealth. The narrator is a school friend of the Dunseith boys who married their highly amoral sister, Bunty.

"This book, lacking in charm and true wit, is not civilized. The word for it is decadent." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 174:74 O '51 170w

Kirkus 19:212 Ap 15 '51 170w

"The special charm of 'The Provincials'—and it is considerable—inheres, I believe, in the curiously mature and sympathetic nonchalance with which Mr. Cornish develops his story of the strange yet lovable Dunseiths and in a real and very casually employed knack for the perfect phrase." F. H. Bullock

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Je 3 '51 420w

"The book is divided into two parts. The first, dealing with life in an Okanagan Valley preparatory school, is almost perfect. . . The second half in which the Dunseith children grow up . . . is not quite so successful. . . Yet [the author] to his credit is never dull. Vancouver comes alive in these pages." Stuart Keate

+ — N Y Times p14 Jl 1 '51 500w

CORNISH, JOHN—Continued

"A really good first novel . . . one which is good evidence that its author is naturally a novelist and which suggests, moreover, that he is likely to go places." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 My 30 '51 700w

"It is a novel written with wit and spirit, with vividness and knowledge, but with strangely little emotion. . . Nowadays it is a temptation to a young novelist to be scornful of emotion. But the preciousness of fiction lies in the revealing of the human heart, not the deriding of it." Walter Havighurst

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:14 Jl 14 '51 450w

CORNUELLE, HERBERT C. Mr. Anonymous: the story of William Volker. 212p il $4 Caxton printers, ltd.

B or 92 Volker, William 51-11808

Biography of William Volker, a penniless German when he first came to this country, who became a successful businessman and philanthropist.

San Francisco Chronicle p32 N 4 '51 140w

"The uniqueness of Volker's character makes this biography not a 'rags-to-riches' account but a well-defined portrait of a selfless man who kept his gifts secret from the world."

+ School & Society 74:79 Ag 4 '51 60w

Reviewed by G. A. Panichas

Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 170w

CORSON, FRED PIERCE, bp. Your church and you. 171p $2.50 Winston

260 Church. Church membership 51-12831

"The chapters of this book are intended to help us see the place and significance of the Church in our daily life and to relate ourselves to it by intelligent understanding of Church membership and by effective expressions of this Church and member relationship. If these chapters are to become a usable manual in church and member relations, they should be read in a devotional rather than in a critical spirit. They should be thought of as describing the broad field of evangelical churchmanship rather than a section of it." Something About the Book

"Bishop Corson of the Methodist Church has given us a manual on church membership which pastors will no doubt find useful to put into the hands of new members coming into the church to enable them to understand the implications of the step they are taking. . . While not denominational in its emphasis, it is likely to have a wider sale in Methodist circles where Bishop Corson is well known."

Kirkus 19:566 S 15 '51 110w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 N 11 '51 140w

Springf'd Republican p28A N 25 '51 240w

COSPER, LLOYD CLAGGETT, and LOGAN, HARRY BRITTON. How to grow vegetables; phot. and drawings by Lynette Arouni. 263p $3.50 Duell

635 Vegetable gardening Agr51-505

"The complete garden guide to planning, growing, preserving, and storing vegetables, fruits, and berries." (Subtitle) Contains photographs and drawings, maps, tables, and an index.

Booklist 47:247 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 30w

Kirkus 18:41 Ja 15 '50 230w

"Here, at last, is a food-gardening volume for beginners that credits its readers with being sincere and sensible adults in search of information clearly presented and geared to the facts of their own lives and limitations. Human, entertaining, level-headed and immensely helpful." R. S. Lemmon

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ap 15 '51 230w

"Recommended."

+ Wis Lib Bul 47:58 Mr '51

COSTAIN, THOMAS BERTRAM. Magnificent century. 384p il maps $4.50 Doubleday

942 Great Britain—History 51-12404

The second in the author's The Pageant of England series begins after Magna Carta, and covers the reign of Henry III ending with his death in 1272. For the first volume in the series see The Conquerors (Book Review Digest 1949). Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:47 O 1 '51

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 O 14 '51 460w

"Here is popular history at its best." W. S. Hudson

+ Christian Century 68:1408 D 5 '51 700w

Reviewed by M. W. Stoer

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 27 '51 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p26 N '51

"The Magnificent Century is a good specimen of popular historiography, but it illustrates the difficulty of writing colorfully about a period inadequately documented and poorly illustrated by its contemporaries. Mr. Costain has done his best, but the novelist and the student within his breast are at odds, and at times he suffers from creditable scruples. . . It should be added that those who like pageants of history will enjoy The Magnificent Century and learn much from it; and they will look forward to the next volume." G. B. Harrison

+ — Commonweal 55:204 N 30 '51 460w

"There is much of romance and pageantry and adventure in those years; there are great men and beautiful women; there are changing tides and awakening minds. Costain paints it with vigor and broad sweeps of superb narration."

+ Kirkus 19:370 Jl 15 '51 260w

"Marked by careful, thorough scholarship, yet eminently readable. Intensely interesting. Strongly recommended for all libraries." R. W. Henderson

+ Library J 76:1213 Ag '51 80w

"There are slips, of course. . . A glance at the nearest encyclopedia should have persuaded him to strike out the suggestion that the flying buttress first 'came into existence' in England. But Mr. Costain is writing for the public, not for the pedants. Readers who want to enjoy a book about the reign of Henry III that is crammed with human interest and popular appeal will find 'The Magnificent Century' magnificent history." Geoffrey Bruun

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 S 23 '51 700w

"It is a stirring story, and although Mr. Costain more than once goes back to being a novelist, it is, on the whole, soundly told. The author could well reduce the number of unfamiliar words he uses. In his mind they may add color, but the net effect is to send the reader too frequently to his largest dictionary. Nor is he always consistent. . . These are small faults to carp at in a volume that deals with such great deeds, such colorful individuals, and that paints an age so effectively and with such vividness." T. C. Chubb

+ — N Y Times p10 S 23 '51 350w

"Mr. Costain writes history in terms of personalities, somewhat in the same way he writes his historical novels, and he pays a good deal of attention to such trivia as physical peculiarities, dress, food, palace gossip, and the like. The result is an entertaining, easygoing book that needn't be taken too seriously."

New Yorker 27:150 O 13 '51 130w

"Like the earlier book, it is a pageant of color and drama mixed with fact and like that first volume it is admirable reading. . . As in the author's 'The Conquerors,' the reader will find this manner of retelling history a fascinating one. Whatever professional historians may think, the fact is that thousands will get from Mr. Costain a notion of England's past they never had before. And if this kind of reading sends some to the history books, then even the professional historian should be pleased." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 S 17 '51 600w

"If there has been a more readable, accurate and thoroughly enjoyable history of that turbulent reign than Mr. Costain's current work, it certainly has not come to general attention. For this is history at its best; history written by a man who combines a love of his subject matter with an understanding of the all-too-often overlooked fact that history—accurate, factual history—is the most fascinating tale of all. Above all, he has a unique and surpassing ability to write a good story." C. W. Weinberger

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 23 '51 850w

"As informative factual history this is questionable stuff, but as impressionistic, romanticized history, it is first-class entertainment." Arthur Stockdale

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:34 O 13 '51 700w

COTES, PETER, and NIKLAUS, THELMA. The little fellow; the life and work of Charles Spencer Chaplin; with a foreword by W. Somerset Maugham. 160p il $3.75 Philosophical lib.

B or 92 Chaplin, Charles Spencer 51-13515

This most recent biography of Charlie Chaplin is in two parts: the first containing a sketch of his life; the second containing a study of his films. Illustrated with photographs. No index.

Booklist 48:77; 100 N 1 '51; N 15 '51

Kirkus 19:521 S 1 '51 210w

Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 17 '51 130w

"It is waste of time to turn through The Little Fellow with an appetite for more than padded fact and varnished opinion. Such being inherent defects, I think the authors, who show a genuine love and understanding of their subject, have done not badly... In fact, as an interim offering of memories, gossip, criticism and affection, The Little Fellow can vary agreeably a couple of hours, while we wonder when we shall see our next Chaplin film." William Whitebait

New Statesman & Nation 42:319 S 22 '51 650w

Reviewed by A. H. Weiler

N Y Times p57 N 25 '51 350w

"A short book, excellently illustrated and written completely without humor." Philip Trower

Spec 187:374 S 21 '51 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p690 N 2 '51 500w

COTTERELL, GEOFFREY. Strait and narrow. 384p $3.50 Lippincott

51-9340

Postwar England is the setting for this novel of an unhappy marriage. The hero, Richard, is a lawyer; his wife the daughter of a wealthy industrialist. When the Dutch woman Annetje who had hidden Richard during the war arrived in England for a visit the situation resolved itself thru a tragedy.

Booklist 47:236 Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes

— Cath World 173:74 Ap '51 200w

"A novel of substance and strength. It has the appearance of having been effortlessly written, but it is undeniably authentic. It is in a sense a sociological novel, a study of a segment of contemporary British society, ably and perceptively done. Surprisingly free of the flaws so commonly found in this kind of novel, 'Strait and Narrow' manages to be convincing as well as highly entertaining." August Derleth

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 F 18 '51 420w

Reviewed by Ruth Chapin

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 19 '51 250w

"Mr. Cotterell has constructed his story with skill, and the plot is well-paced and engrossing. The characters have substance; more than that, they give the impression of being significant human beings. With restrained irony the author probes into their lives, but even when they stand revealed as shoddy or prosaic or pathetic, they retain a certain human dignity." C. H. Weiss

+ Commonweal 53:651 Ap 6 '51 700w

Kirkus 18:707 D 1 '50 450w

"It is a seriously meant book, well constructed and full of shrewd observations of regrettable aspects of the contemporary scene." Paul Bloomfield

Manchester Guardian p4 O 6 '50 360w

"In the matter of background Mr. Cotterell is a devastatingly competent writer, with a flair for authenticity that is little short of ventriloquism. . . His new novel is witty, entertaining and immensely readable, yet like its predecessors, it wholly fails to succeed as a work of art." John Raymond

+ New Statesman & Nation 40:376 O 21 '50 280w

"Geoffrey Cotterell writes, as do so many other Britons, with light irony and wit. His dialogue has pleasant flow and it is always quite easy to believe that in this fashion people might really talk, were they as nimble of mind as is Mr. Cotterell himself. And in addition to these graces of professionalism, Mr. Cotterell has sound skill in the handling of a story." Richard Lockridge

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 F 25 '51 700w

"Comparing their authors to J. P. Marquand is an old publishers' trick, but here, for once, the comparison is anything but far-fetched. . . Mr. Cotterell largely shares Mr. Marquand's gifts of observation, wit, irony and narrative skill; and in technical structure 'Strait and Narrow' follows 'Point of No Return' so closely that the Marquand book seems certainly to have been Mr. Cotterell's model. . . Yet it would be entirely wrong to suggest that Mr. Cotterell is only a shadow of Mr. Marquand. . . As Mr. Marquand is first a satirist, Mr. Cotterell is first a story-teller." John Brooks

+ N Y Times p4 F 18 '51 750w

New Yorker 27:98 F 24 '51 60w

Reviewed by Don Pitt

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Mr 7 '51 800w

Time 57:108 F 19 '51 440w

"Mr. Cotterell's new novel is accomplished and credible and sound, yet leaves no very deep impression."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p641 O 13 '50 180w

Reviewed by Paul Pickrel

Yale R n s 40:575 spring '51 130w

COTTRELL, LEONARD. Lost pharaohs; the romance of Egyptian archaeology. 256p pl $6 Philosophical lib.

913.32 Egypt—Antiquities [51-23346]

A popular book on Egyptology by a script writer for the BBC who says in his preface: "This is a book for the amateur by an amateur... My main object has been to interest the many thousands who would like to know more about Ancient Egypt, but are bewildered by the multitude of learned works, many of them on highly-specialized branches of Egyptology, which confront them in the Reference Libraries." Bibliography. Index.

"Leonard Cottrell dedicates this highly readable, informative book to the future of Egyptology—if any." Richard Blakesley

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 30 '51 300w

"This is an unusually live book about people and a culture long dead." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 68:1254 O 31 '51 120w

"This one-volume compression of the archeological history of Egypt is readable and interesting."

+ Kirkus 19:381 Jl 15 '51 140w

COTTRELL, LEONARD—Continued

"This book succeeds very well in its purpose; and since most books on ancient Egypt are either too scholarly or too sensational for the general reader, there was a need for it. The author's writing lacks any of the vulgarization, the talking down, that so often marks the 'popular' book." W. B. Ready

+ Library J 76:1704 O 15 '51 100w

"The story is dramatic without being in the least bit hopped up."

+ New Yorker 27:168 N 24 '51 140w

COULTON, GEORGE GORDON. Five centuries of religion; 4 v; v4, Last days of medieval monachism. 833p $9 Cambridge

270.3 Church history—Middle ages (23-9819)

This is the final volume of a monumental work of which the first three were published in the 1920s and '30s. The author had projected two more volumes, but with the coming of the war he laid aside work on the fourth volume, and turned to the task of writing this concluding volume, which he was able to finish before his death in 1947.

Reviewed by G. C. Sellery
Am Hist R 56:542 Ap '51 600w
Churchman 165:17 F 1 '51 250w

"It is fortunate that Dr. Coulton, before his death in 1947, although unable to complete the full plan of his monastic history, had finished the fourth and final volume. This magnum opus is a history book of an unusual kind. . . Coulton never lost sight of his main objectives: to get a general view of the average monk's way of life in different periods and places and to observe the changes which came over monastic institutions between A.D. 1000 and A.D. 1500. Now that we have the whole work we can see that in its unconventional way it achieves a great deal; its good points far outweigh the bad, and it is better, because more concerned with fundamental problems, than any other history of mediaeval monasticism." C. R. Cheney

+ Manchester Guardian p2 S 26 '50 800w

Reviewed by H. R. Trevor-Roper
New Statesman & Nation 40:507 N 25 '50 2600w

"Though many eventful years have passed since the third volume appeared, and some of the present chapters give the impression of having stood for some time, the book as a whole in its scope, its zest, its earnestness and in the force and justice of many of its judgements and criticisms, is an impressive and characteristic monument of an unforgettable personality and of a mind that did not grow old. Unlike many posthumous books, it is not only a notable addition to, but is in many ways the crown of, Coulton's work." David Knowles

+ Spec 184:621 D 1 '50 1550w

"The dust has not yet settled after all the controversies which Dr. Coulton's work has aroused, and the time has not yet arrived when his place among the historians of medieval monasticism can be calmly or confidently assessed. In the meantime those who are still reluctantly constrained to find something perverse—something perhaps even unhistorical—in his approach to the past will certainly not wish to revive old disputes in the absence of one who was always so courageously ready to do battle with his critics. They will prefer to make the posthumous appearance of the last volume of a highly individual and immensely learned work the occasion for calling attention to the erudition and to the personal sincerity of its author."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p646 O 13 '50 1450w

COURANT, RICHARD. Dirichlet's principle; conformal mapping and minimal surfaces. 330p il $4.50 Interscience

517.5 Surfaces, Representation of 50-9753

"Dirichlet's principle is of wide interest in analysis and higher geometry. In this book the author not only presents the principle and its proofs but illustrates the application of the concept to various problems in mathematics, especially problems of minimal surfaces. Though no applications to technology are indicated in the book, nevertheless the book's contents are applicable to such practical problems as the analysis or mapping of electromagnetic fields." N Y New Tech Bks

N Y New Tech Bks 35:91 N '50

"The historical materials as well as the newer developments are presented with ample motivation, and with an indication, too often wanting in mathematical expositions of existence theorems, of the connection with physical or geometrical problems. In fact, this is a very readable account of a branch of mathematics the importance of which has been tested by time, but which is still actively growing. The book should have a wide appeal and be of particular interest to students of function theory and of mathematical physics."

+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:496 D '50 160w

COURBET, GUSTAVE. Gustave Courbet, by Marcel Zahar [tr. by D. I. Wilton]. (Masters of painting) 17p 39pl $3 Harper

759.4 Paintings, French 50-10788

Reproductions of 39 of this French artist's paintings, four of them in color. The text discusses Courbet's life and art, and their relationship to each other.

Booklist 47:221 F 15 '51

Reviewed by A. S. Plaut
Library J 76:43 Ja 1 '51 50w

"Zahar's unlimited praise of Courbet is a little naive. The key to Courbet, it seems to me, lies in the conflict between his plastic power, which metamorphoses his crass sensuality into art, and his literal-mindedness. Many of his forceful images are marred by the inclusion of sheer inventories of fact. . . Courbet's dark and massive pictures are difficult enough to reproduce, but even under these circumstances the eight color plates can hardly be considered adequate, particularly in areas where an impasto of rich green dominates. It was this green which shocked so many of Courbet's contemporaries. . . The selection of works for reproduction is admirable." S. L. Faison

Nation 172:17 Ja 6 '51 410w

"The plates are indifferently produced. . . The text is tidy and the condensed critique tasteful." Lincoln Kirstein

+ — New Repub 123:25 D 11 '50 60w

"Short and interesting monograph. . . The reproductions give a good idea of the range of his art, though hardly any of its quality." Stuart Preston

+ — N Y Times p27 D 10 '50 120w

"A sympathetic and yet thoroughly discerning study of the founder of the French nineteenth-century realistic school of painting."

+ New Yorker 27:115 Mr 3 '51 60w

"Mr. Zahar, who has written the commentary on Courbet for this volume, explains the reasons for the reaction against Courbet in his own time and shows how that reaction has colored even current critical appraisals. In the end, however, it is the pictures which speak for themselves. In the reproductions given in this book they speak eloquently." W. R. W.

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ja 7 '51 120w
Wis Lib Bul 46:33 D '50

COWARD, NOEL PIERCE. Star quality; six stories. 308p $3.50 Doubleday

51-1321

Six short stories about English theatrical people. Contents: A richer dust; Mr. and Mrs. Edgehill; Stop me if you've heard it; Ashes of roses; This time to-morrow; Star quality.

"Coward's shallowness and sentimentality are more obtrusive in the short story than on the stage. He is still, however, a pretty reliable hand at lightweight entertainment."

Atlantic 187:81 Ap '51 120w
Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51

"With one exception the stories are thin, superficial, and carelessly composed. After the reader has polished off the book, the question apt to arise in his mind is, 'How glib can you get?'" Fitzroy Davis
— Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Mr 11 '51 460w

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '51

Kirkus 19:4 Ja 1 '51 100w

"Highly recommended for pay and regular circulating collections; recommended for reference, short-story and theatre collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:866 My 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by H. I'A. Fausset
Manchester Guardian p3 My 18 '51 90w

Reviewed by John Raymond
New Statesman & Nation 41:574 My 19 '51 260w

"Each of these stories, except one only, might have been told by somebody else. . . But with 'Star Quality' the case is altogether different. This gem of a long short story set backstage could have been written only by Noel Coward himself and none other." F. H. Bullock
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Mr 11 '51 750w

"The author is never boring, however thin or hackneyed his material: his hard schooling in the theatre has taught him to keep things moving. And while his sophistication may show signs of age, he still dispenses a generous ration of wit. 'Star Quality' is not likely to disappoint readers in search of lightweight entertainment." Charles Rolo
N Y Times p4 F 25 '51 650w

New Yorker 27:111 Mr 3 '51 40w

"As long as Mr. Coward can keep up the pace he has set for himself he will always be a superb entertainer. But he has not advanced, nor should he be expected to. He is the Noel Coward of ten or twenty years ago, and that should be enough for any reasonable reader." Harrison Smith
Sat R of Lit 34:26 Ap 7 '51 600w

"I have greatly enjoyed Mr. Coward's sextet, and am left with an increased respect for his qualities of heart and head." L. A. G. Strong
+ Spec 185:598 My 4 '51 500w

Springf'd Republican p30A Mr 18 '51 130w

COWGILL, CLINTON HARRIMAN. Building for investment; introd. by Roy A. Wenzlick. 482p $7 Reinhold

690 Building 51-1923

"This book written for the real estate investor covers the subjects of building finance, design, procedures of construction, building management, appraisal, and real estate law." Cleveland Open Shelf

"Everyone connected with constructing, financing, or owning real estate will need this guide. . . No other book handles this subject so thoroly." Winifred Baum
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 7 '51 30w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '51

COWLEY, MALCOLM. Exile's return; a literary odyssey of the 1920s. rev ed 322p $3.50 Viking

810.9 Authors, American. American literature—History and criticism 51-4022

"First published in 1934 [Book Review Digest 1934] Exile's Return has been out of print for many years. In preparing this new edition Mr. Cowley has left the body of the text substantially unchanged, but has added new material about Ezra Pound, Scott Fitzgerald, Hart Crane, and other literary figures. He has written a new introduction and an epilogue, setting the period in perspective, and, as appendix, has furnished a calendar of birth dates of literary figures born between 1891 and 1905." Publisher's note

Booklist 47:364 Je 15 '51

"Mr. Cowley is, of course, too thoroughly involved with his memories and the achievements of his friends to repudiate the past, but he provides on the whole, a remarkably objective and convincing treatment of his subject." Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:79 O '51 250w

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Je 17 '51 430w

Reviewed by O. D. Hormel
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 21 '51 700w

Reviewed by Kelly Cook
Commonweal 54:315 Jl 6 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:224 Ap 15 '51 200w

Reviewed by Perry Miller
Nation 173:356 O 27 '51 480w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan
New Repub 125:19 Ag 27 '51 550w

"Present-day readers will find it an unusual and important book. The most vivacious of all accounts of literary life during the fabulous 1920s, 'Exile's Return' offers an intimate, realistic portrait of the era that produced a renaissance in American fiction and poetry." Lloyd Morris
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Jl 8 '51 1100w

"'Exile's Return' was a good book about this generation in 1934. It is a better book now. Cowley has revised out of it what was merely temporary or ill-considered, and he has added a new beginning and ending to frame the story and give it a new historical perspective. However, it is a better book now, too, because like all genuine books, it has improved with age." Arthur Mizener
+ N Y Times p9 Je 10 '51 650w

New Yorker 27:80 Je 30 '51 100w

Reviewed by Lewis Vogler
San Francisco Chronicle p16 Jl 22 '51 1250w

"Mr. Cowley's estimate of his most successful elder contemporaries, including Joyce, Eliot, and Proust, is cool and on the whole rather remarkably far this side of idolatry. But these evaluations do not seem unjust, and his picture of life on the Left Bank and in Greenwich Village is highly colored without being exaggerated, if it be taken merely for what it professes to be, namely, the description of a particular group." J. W. Krutch
Sat R of Lit 34:11 Je 30 '51 1200w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 500w

COWPER, WILLIAM. Selected letters; ed. with an introd. by Mark Van Doren. 306p $3.50 Farrar, Straus

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
51-12906

"The present volume is a selection from [William Cowper's] letters. . . In justice to Cowper the man Mr. Van Doren has declined the sundial editorial principle that would number only the serene hours of Cowper the letter-writer, and has thereby justified this new selection from his corespondence. . . Each of the 140 letters in the volume is given entire, its original unity unmarred." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:158 Ja 1 '52

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 O 14 '51 90w

"They are rewarding reading, though not for everyone."
+ Kirkus 19:313 Je 15 '51 210w

Nation 173:506 D 8 '51 190w

Reviewed by D. A. Stauffer
New Repub 125:20 O 22 '51 400w

"Whatever the content or mood, every line is written in a pure and limpid language that is not so much style as English running spontaneously into its natural, predestined channels. The editorial apparatus is helpful and unobtru-

COWPER, WILLIAM—Continued
sive. Only the brief bibliography might have contained a little more." George Genzmer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 S 2 '51 650w

Reviewed by Milton Rugoff
N Y Times p4 S 9 '51 480w

"Professor Van Doren has made this selection from a much larger collection of Cowper letters, and has done a first-rate job."
+ New Yorker 27:122 S 29 '51 170w

"His complete letters and his poetry together form a fascinating autobiography. Fully cognizant of the part played by the letters, Mr. Van Doren has made a selection with the purpose of giving as comprehensive a view as possible of Cowper's character, his tragedy, and his genius. The achievement is a commendable one." Lodwick Hartley
+ Sat R of Lit 35:12 Ja 5 '52 850w

"Mark Van Doren's excellent selection of Cowper's letters, pieced out with biographical sections, tells the heartbreaking story of this gentle, tormented genius."
+ Time 58:102 S 10 '51 700w

COX, DORIS E. (MRS G. H. THOMAS), and WARREN, BARBARA KATE. Creative hands; an introduction to craft techniques. 2d ed 381p il $6.50 Wiley
745 Handicraft 51-11326

"Much the same as the first edition published some years ago; still valuable for young and old who want to apply 'principles of good taste and good design to many crafts.' Presents designs that are easy to follow, instructions that are clear, and shows careful regard for readers' pocket-books when it comes to buying materials." (Library J) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1945.

Booklist 48:33 S 15 '51

"The excellent taste and sense of design displayed by the authors are evident thruout the book and add greatly to its instructive value." Gary Sheahan
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Jl 1 '51 100w

"Every home economist should find this a delightful book." M. I. Mann
+ J Home Econ 43:808 D '51 170w

"If first edition is on hand it is doubtless nearly ready for replacement. If it isn't in the collection, then surely, this second edition should be." A. S. Plaut
+ Library J 76:1126 Jl '51 100w

"A how-to-do-it book with all of the major crafts clearly and easily explained and illustrated for you. . . Both authors are eminently qualified to write this book of crafts. And it reflects their combined experience and conviction that such a book, applying the principles of good taste and good design to many crafts, will be helpful in both the school and home."
+ School Arts 51:10a S '51 110w

COXE, GEORGE HARMON. Man who died twice. 240p $2.50 Knopf 51-11095

Detective story.

"The story is competently plotted and written for diversion." Drexel Drake
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 N 4 '51 60w

Kirkus 19:457 Ag 15 '51 60w

"Mr. Coxe sets his twenty-ninth semi-annual detective story on the Island of Barbados and gives us an impostor hero in a prettily arranged ethical and romantic dilemma involving two and a half murders and a solution with springs. The sum is workmenlike and should keep the more voracious lending-library readers in a state of saturation." James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 O 28 '51 130w

"Minor ingenuities and a neat double twist at the end make it satisfactory, if less than the best Coxe." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p30 O 28 '51 50w

"Chief characters are alive and attractive, but the male suspects all sound rather alike, which may confuse readers." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 O 28 '51 60w

"Slow starter, owing to necessity for getting large cast on stage; this done, speedometer needle picks up. Average." Sergeant Cuff
Sat R of Lit 34:38 D 22 '51 40w

COXE, GEORGE HARMON. Widow had a gun. 233p $2.50 Knopf 51-9581

Detective story.

Kirkus 18:739 D 15 '50 70w

"Coxe as usual details his story coolly and efficiently and produces some good technical knowledge to back it up."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ap 1 '51 140w

"This is not the best Coxe, but it is well worth reading." Elizabeth Bullock
+ N Y Times p18 Mr 25 '51 180w

"This one is tightly plotted, and Murdock's detection by his own special knowledge is as solid as ever." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 Mr 18 '51 90w

"Skilled but contrived."
Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 21 '51 60w

COXHEAD, ELIZABETH. One green bottle. 254p $3 Lippincott
51-11188

Character study of Cathy Canning, a precocious girl from the Birkenhead docks, near Liverpool. While her "boy" was in prison Cathy went for a week end in Wales with a stranger, and that week end with its mountain climbing opened a new world for her. From that time Cathy lived for the week ends in Wales, with its mountain climbing, and the friends she made at the hostel.

Booklist 48:22; 31 S 15 '51

Reviewed by Pat Patten
Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 O 14 '51 130w

+ Kirkus 19:363 Jl 15 '51 190w

"In its modest way the book is very successful." Elizabeth Jenkins
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 6 '51 70w

"Despite the sterling quality of the climbing narrative and Miss Coxhead's forthright handling of Cathy's pre-marital sex experimentations, the book has, basically, a flavor of unreality which dates back to the late Victorian novel in which all the persons we deign to be interested in can be counted on, sooner or later, to do the right thing." F. H. Bullock
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 N 18 '51 390w

"It is a pity then that just as Cathy conquers her mountain she must commit an act of self-abnegation which places her in the realm of minor saints. The novel is too original and fresh to need such a grande finale of symbolism." Isabelle Mallet
+ — N Y Times p23 S 30 '51 240w

"This is an unpretentious and straightforward novel; the characters are sharp and clear, and so is the excitement and the atmosphere of the mountains; it is, in fact, a film in search of a director."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p129 Mr 2 '51 190w

COY, HAROLD. Real book about George Washington Carver; il. by Elinore Blaisdell. 191p $1.25 Garden City bks.
B or 92 Carver, George Washington—Juvenile literature 51-12206

"This will fill the need for both a biography and a readable science book. Can be used by the middle-aged children who find Graham's

Dr George Washington Carver too difficult." Library J

Booklist 48:107 N 15 '51
Kirkus 19:320 Jl 1 '51 100w

"Teachers and librarians will find the book useful and enjoyable. Recommended." Augusta Baker
+ Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51 70w

"This biography of the great Negro genius is well written and will be interesting to quite a wide range of young people."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p4 N 11 '51 220w

CRAGG, GERALD ROBERTSON. From puritanism to the age of reason. 247p $2.75 Cambridge

283 Church of England 51-9405

"A study of changes in religious thought within the Church of England, 1660-1700." (Subtitle) Bibliography. Index.

"Although Dr. Cragg does not offer us many novel insights into the process of intellectual change during the Restoration, his account of that process is solid, scholarly, and very handy to have." J. H. Hexter
+ Am Hist R 56:386 Ja '51 450w

"Dr. Cragg's excellent book has grown out of an essay submitted for the Archbishop Cranmer prize at Cambridge and bears new witness to the stimulus given to historical study by such prizes. The author claims with justice that his subject has suffered from neglect: he deserves all the more credit for the lucidity and judgment with which he has treated it."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p40 Ja 19 '51 800w

CRAIG, LILLIAN K. Singing hills. 242p $3 Crowell

917.5 Mountain whites (South) 51-6287

An account of the author's experiences among the Virginia mountaineers. She was often in danger because of her interest in all their ways—their moonshining activities especially—but her quick wit and courage and the real friends she made saved her.

Booklist 47:394; 48:49 Jl 15 '51; O 1 '51

"There's a nice quality here which should extend its appeal beyond the regional market."
+ Kirkus 19:372 Jl 15 '51 170w

"Can be read with profit by any student of the mountain people. Highly entertaining, readable, and suitable for intermediates as well as adults." L. R. Etzkorn
+ Library J 76:1422 S 15 '51 70w

"Scarcely orthodox, this is a lively and refreshing book." Frances Witherspoon
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 30 '51 370w

CRAIG, MRS MARGARET (MAZE). Trish. 242p $2.50 Crowell

51-1164

"A self-conscious high-school senior, in the throes of first love, adores from afar and eventually captures the interest of a football hero who is intrigued by her naivete and high standards. He eventually lets her down, but there is promise of another, more mature love." Library J

Booklist 47:258 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"Teen-age girls will read with delight this exceptional novel which speaks their language and sympathizes in all the right places. . . A charming sense of humor for the 'awkward moments' in dating and parties will bring chuckles of recognition."
+ Kirkus 19:3 Ja 1 '51 250w

"To an adult the plot seems rather contrived and unconvincing, but there is a wholesome emphasis on ideals throughout, and high-school girls, seeing themselves as the ugly ducklings, will love it." M. B. Snow
+ Library J 76:530 Mr 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 My 13 '51 250w

"Mrs. Craig joins humor with sensitivity in this story of a girl's entry into social life. She knows the awkward silences of the first date, the uncertainties of the first dance, the heightened awareness that comes with first love." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p26 Mr 11 '51 150w
Sat R of Lit 34:57 My 12 '51 80w
Wis Lib Bul 47:93 Ap '51

CRAMER, EDITH. Handbook of early American decoration; drawings by the author. 90p $3 Branford

747.94 Decoration and ornament. Stencil work 51-1626

"Explanations, full-scaled designs, historical information, lists of supplies needed for stencilling, lacquering and antiquing; emphasis on trays, but nice bits, too, about chairs and chests, mirrors and clocks. Such don'ts as 'Never varnish on a cloudy day.'" Library J

Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 30w
Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51

"An excellent and very down-to-earth book."
+ Kirkus 19:19 Ja 1 '51 170w

"Readable and practical. Useful in preparing for next Christmas." A. S. Plaut
+ Library J 76:410 Mr 1 '51 40w
+ School Arts 50:adv Ap '51 100w

CRAMPTON, GERTRUDE. Further Pottleby adventures; il. by Anne Merriman Peck. 93p lib ed $2.25; trade ed $1.75 Aladdin

51-12423

Six stories about the Pottleby family and their gay adventures.

"Six complete stories that will tickle the ribs of young and old. . . It is gratifying to find such a jolly book for 5 to 9 year olds." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 O 14 '51 90w
Kirkus 19:346 Jl 15 '51 80w

"Third- and fourth-graders will enjoy the humor of the happenings of this happy-go-lucky family." Elizabeth Johnson
+ Library J 76:1573 O 1 '51 40w

CRANE, MRS FRANCES (KIRKWOOD). Polkadot murder. 239p $2.50 Random house

51-10598

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

"Plenty of excitement and false-clueing, good reading to the end, but an after-sense of inconclusive evidence being put in the reader's hands."
+ — Kirkus 19:166 Mr 15 '51 90w

"The relationships among all these people are as complicated as an early Shakespearean comedy, but the plot is straightforward enough, and it's told in Miss Crane's familiar breezy and feminine manner."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 17 '51 180w

"A chatty, pleasant story in which attractive people busy themselves against a brilliantly colored background." K. S. Cole
N Y Times p21 My 20 '51 100w
New Yorker 27:132 My 12 '51 60w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p24 My 13 '51 70w

"Grade A." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 Jl 14 '51 40w

CRANE, MILTON. Shakespeare's prose. 219p $3 Univ. of Chicago press

822.33 Shakespeare, William—Criticism and interpretation 51-10894

"Mr. Crane does not simply excerpt blocks of prose from the context of the plays and subject them to stylistic analysis for such elements as cadence, image, rhetoric; it is not his purpose to show us why Shakespeare's prose, in itself, deserves the supreme approval he gives it. What he is interested in doing is in demonstrating the dramatic relevance of the prose; he shows that Shakespeare has a dramatic reason for using prose, or for shifting from blank verse to prose and back again." Chicago Sunday Tribune

"Scholarly and yet pleasantly readable account." J. F. Nims

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 27 '51 420w

Reviewed by H. B. Charlton

Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 31 '51 320w

"One regrets that Crane's illuminations were not placed earlier in this book. Instead, the first sixty-five pages offer a study of prose in the plays of Shakespeare's predecessors and successors. In none of these does Crane find an over-all practice that seems significant. Shakespeare's development in the use of prose, moreover, 'is almost entirely independent.' This comparative study, then, might come later or in an appendix. But this is to cavil. The heart of the book offers a fresh angle from which to appraise the art of Shakespeare." E. C. Dunn

+ — N Y Times p20 D 2 '51 380w

"The present book is not popular in its approach, but it makes the right kind of demand upon the reader—that he constantly refer to the text of the play that is being discussed. The abiding impression will be that Shakespeare's happy effects are never accidental." Alfred Harbage

+ Sat R of Lit 34:25 Je 16 '51 500w

Spec 187:749 N 30 '51 110w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:237 S '51 190w

CRANKSHAW, EDWARD. Cracks in the Kremlin wall [Eng title: Russia by daylight]. 279p $3.50 Viking

947.084 Communism—Russia. Russia—Politics and government 51-12177

"Mr. Crankshaw was attached to the British Military Mission to Moscow in 1941-43 and visited the Soviet Union again in 1947. Upon the basis of these experiences and on subsequent study from afar he here attempts to analyze the international position of the USSR and the probable course of Stalin's foreign policy at this crucial juncture of world affairs." (Sat R of Lit) No index.

"One comes away from the book with the sense that the author has attempted to do an overwhelming job singlehanded; that he has rejected (out of the Lord knows what, perhaps egotism) the coöperation of economists, political scientists, biographers, historians; that he has banked on his own energy and his own everyday psychological insights. He has made an excellent and stimulating contribution. But what he banked on is not enough. Instead of a revelation, Crankshaw has created an interesting and dramatic fiction, something that a minor and conservative Stendhal might have tossed off." Harvey Breit

— + Atlantic 188:80 S '51 2400w

Booklist 48:28 S 15 '51

"The book is written with spirit and brilliance and contains a good deal of information about soviet developments since the war and also about the shift from Leninism, which he regards as a Russian perversion of Marxism, to Stalinism, from which, as he is convinced, the Marxist content has been entirely eliminated." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 12 '51 500w

"The author makes a number of interesting points, particularly in his attempt to debunk the myth of Stalin's 'extreme political shrewdness and farsightedness.' All this is a welcome contrast to the gloomy tunes played by most of the other western interpreters of the Russian scene and actions. But are the cracks in the Kremlin wall likely to endanger the Soviet Union's structure? Some doubt on this score keeps lingering on after reading Mr. Crankshaw's optimistic account." Ernest Pisko

Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 28 '51 650w

Reviewed by R. M. Weaver

Commonweal 54:582 S 21 '51 430w

Current Hist 21:357 D '51 130w

Foreign Affairs 30:162 O '51 30w

Kirkus 19:289 Je 1 '51 260w

"This lively book with a strongly expressed point of view, although rather uneven, ought to prove interesting to educated laymen and specialists." H. H. Bernt

+ Library J 76:1214 Ag '51 110w

Reviewed by S. Dobrin

Manchester Guardian p4 Je 12 '51 300w

"Here is a thoughtful study, based on wide reading and first-hand experience, that stands head and shoulders above the trivia and fatuous prophecy so often encountered in contemporary writing on Russia." Barrington Moore

+ Nation 173:137 Ag 18 '51 1000w

Reviewed by Joseph Barnes

New Repub 125:18 O 8 '51 800w

Reviewed by R. H. S. Crossman

New Statesman & Nation 41:453 Ap 21 '51 500w

"Excellently written and stimulating volume." Michael Karpovich

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Ag 12 '51 1350w

"An acute and perceptive book. . . His basic thesis, that the Soviet Union is by no means as powerful physically or as astutely directed politically as many believe, will be disputed (this reviewer happens to agree with it), but few can criticize the steady fluency of Mr. Crankshaw's writing or the sanity and reasonableness with which he addresses his subject." Drew Middleton

+ N Y Times p3 Ag 12 '51 950w

New Yorker 27:85 Ag 18 '51 280w

"A thoughtful, provocative, and highly readable book." M. T. Florinsky

+ Sat R of Lit 34:8 Ag 11 '51 1100w

Reviewed by Richard Chancellor

Spec 185:626 My 11 '51 350w

Springf'd Republican p6D Ag 19 '51 600w

"Mr. Crankshaw is conspicuously honest and well meaning. He is a sincere liberal. He has, however, the faults of his virtues; and in the press of conflicting emotions some of his most reasonable and acceptable conclusions lose their effect on account of the contradictions in which they are clothed."

Times [London] Lit Sup p399 Je 29 '51 800w

CRAWFORD, MARION. Mother and queen; the story of Queen Mary [Eng title: Queen Mother]. 232p il $3.50 Prentice-Hall

B or 92 Mary, consort of George V, king of Great Britain 51-13997

A loving biography of Britain's dowager Queen Mary, written by the author of The Little Princesses (Book Review Digest 1950).

Booklist 48:84 N 1 '51

Reviewed by Gwen Morgan

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ja 6 '52 350w

Reviewed by Leila Flower

Christian Science Monitor p15 N 8 '51 650w

"Fluttery peeps at royalty with a ready feminine, plush-hungry market."

Kirkus 19:510 S 1 '51 180w

"This 'story,' too personal and informal a record to be called a biography, shows why the royal family holds so secure a place in the hearts of the democratic British people and, though we may sometimes deprecate its plentitude of rhetorical questions and explanations, will carry genuine interest to their cousins across the sea in portraying both an individual and an institution." Mary Ross

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 N 25 '51 350w

"Until we can read some of the 'hundreds and thousands of words' that are now locked in the Queen Mother's diaries, it is doubtful if anyone can give a more delightful picture of one of the most unselfish women of our times." Nancie Matthews

+ N Y Times p43 O 21 '51 420w

Springf'd Republican p41A D 9 '51 500w

CREASEY, JOHN (ANTHONY MORTON, pseud). Blame the Baron. 252p $2.50 Duell 51-9601

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:139 Mr 1 '51 80w

"Properly this type of romantic yarn belongs to a rather old-fashioned school, but Mr. Morton gives it a modern zip and pace."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Je 10 '51 80w

"The book has an aura of high-handed dash about it that is often truly delightful—even though one doesn't believe it for a second." Elizabeth Bullock

N Y Times p12 Je 24 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p26 Ap 29 '51 40w

Sat R of Lit 34:45 Je 23 '51 50w

CREASEY, JOHN (ANTHONY MORTON, pseud.) Career for the Baron. 255p $2.50 Duell 50-10397

Detective story.

Kirkus 18:647 O 15 '50 70w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p27 N 26 '50 130w

"This nice, old-fashioned yarn is a refreshing contrast to the dubious moral atmosphere in which most fictional American sleuths achieve their ends by shady means, with the connivance of cynical policemen. Apparently Scotland Yard is still rigidly opposed to breaking and entering, even by the most right-minded hero." Hillis Mills

+ N Y Times p27 Ja 21 '51 150w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p20 O 29 '50 60w

"Good enough."

Sat R of Lit 33:52 N 18 '50 50w

CREDE, CHARLES EDWIN. Vibration and shock isolation. 328p il $6.50 Wiley

620.1123 Vibration 51-12022

"This book deals with the engineering aspects of resilient mountings (often called 'shock mounts'). It is potentially of wide interest among engineers, especially machine designers, for the reduction or isolation of vibration and shock enters into the design of many devices and machines, from electronic tubes to gun mounts. The principles of isolation and the design of resilient mountings are stressed. The theory and the general aspects of design are treated mathematically, but the practical aspects are covered descriptively with the use of only a little mathematics. Selected bibliographies are appended to the chapters." Library J

Eng N 147:43 N 22 '51 60w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1707 O 15 '51 90w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:79 S '51

CREED, VIRGINIA. All about Ireland; maps by Gert Hounsell. (New Europe guides) 346p $2.50 Duell

914.15 Ireland—Description and travel
51-10166

"Like others in the series this is a combined guide and travel book, containing all pertinent information, but also more in the way of description and colorful detail than most straight-out guidebooks have. No pictures, naturally, at the price, though there are street diagrams of Dublin and Cork and end-paper maps of Ireland itself." (San Francisco Chronicle) Glossary. Index.

Reviewed by C. J. Rolo

Atlantic 188:84 Jl '51 140w

Booklist 47:308 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:179 My '51 10w

"Highly informative, up to the minute book. This is ideal reading for those who have never been to Ireland as well as for those who have been there but didn't get to see very much of it." J. M. Flynn

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 1 '51 170w

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51

"Practical handbook, and good travel reading as well."

+ Kirkus 19:44 Ja 15 '51 150w

"An excellent travel book. Armed with this and say, Lovely Is the Lee [See Gibbings, R. Book Review Digest, 1945] (as a guide to the conversation) one could enjoy Ireland to the full. Conscientious and spirited about scenery, architecture, transportation, etc., this is especially noteworthy for its keen insights into national character and culture." E. L. Lewis

+ Library J 76:595 Ap 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ap 6 '51 80w

"Very few of her punches are pulled, and she does supply the Eire-bound traveler with a complete tour of the republic and a portfolio of useful travel-accommodations data tacked in the back. It's the best and most complete work on the country to date." H. S.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 My 12 '51 120w

CREEKMORE, RAYMOND. Fujio; story and lithographs. [38p] $2 Macmillan

Children in Japan 51-12194

"The book tells a good deal about the children's life in the little village of Subashiri at the foot of the volcano, Fujiyama, and of Fujio's great desire to climb the mountain. His father was a guide who took pilgrims to the top. When Fujio was ten, one day his father had to make the trip to the highest station with supplies, and he said Fujio might go. The story tells in detail of his experiences in the long, difficult climb." Christian Science Monitor

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:35 N '51

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 13 '51 80w

"A fine regional story for second and third year readers."

+ Kirkus 19:481 S 1 '51 120w

"The lithographs by the author are excellent, and the book is recommended principally because of them." L. G. McCusker

Library J 76:1815 N 1 '51 70w

"For a simple, pictorial introduction to child life in Japan today, you will find 'Fujio' most attractive." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p30 O 7 '51 90w

"Information about Japanese life is inserted so deftly that it never becomes more important than the story. The pictures are done with beautiful simplicity. The story will be useful not only with the youngest readers, for whom it is intended, but also with slightly older children who have some reading difficulty." Phyllis Fenner

+ N Y Times p13 D 30 '51 140w

CREEKMORE, RAYMOND—Continued
Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:172 D 1 '51 60w
+ Sat R of Lit 34:56 N 10 '51 50w

CREMIN, LAWRENCE ARTHUR. American common school; an historic conception. 248p $3.50 Teachers college

379.73 Public schools—U.S. 51-10599

"Study into the origins of some of our educational conceptions and institutions. It deals with the most creative period in the history of American education and with the most basic unit of our educational system—the common school. . . Dr. Cremin has related more clearly and fully than any of his predecessors, the origin of the common school to the play of social forces and ideas agitating the young republic. . . Secondly, Dr. Cremin has demonstrated through abundant documentation that the 'founding fathers' of the common school understood the relation between education and political systems. . . Thirdly, Dr. Cremin has laid bare the original meaning of the designation of the common school." (Foreword) Bibliography. Index.

"A significant and scholarly contribution to the history of American education. . . Considering the scope of the book, the reader may feel that a disproportionate amount of space is devoted to matters of support and control. . . Certain sections of the book seem repetitious, but the topical treatment of the subject necessitates such repetition. The volume is replete with significant excerpts from important sources, and all of the material is very carefully documented. In short, The American Common School should serve as a source of information and inspiration for students of the history of education." Q. A. W. Rohrbach
+ — Ann Am Acad 278:222 N '51 600w
School & Society 73:254 Ap 21 '51 50w

CRESSEY, GEORGE BABCOCK. Asia's lands and peoples; a geography of one-third the earth and two-thirds its people. 2d ed 597p il maps $9 McGraw

915 Asia 51-11381

"This is the second edition of Mr. Cressey's text. Each chapter has been revised and there are new maps and up-to-date figures. Mr. Cressey has grouped the nations of Asia into five regions: China; Japan and Korea; Soviet Union; Southwestern Asia; India and Pakistan and Southeastern Asia. He treats the historical, political and cultural background of the peoples of each nation. Economic conditions are examined." (Current Hist) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1944.

Booklist 47:402 Jl 15 '51
Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 9 '51 60w
Current Hist 21:35 Jl '51 70w
Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ag 19 '51 100w

"A fully revised second edition of Dr. Cressey's excellent geography of 'Asia Lands and Peoples' is an important contribution in a neglected field. It contains many new photographs, new or rewritten, chapters on Korea, Pakistan, Israel, Indonesia, etc." G. G. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ag 19 '51 100w

"Inevitably there are some aspects that should or might be altered in subsequent editions. . . In general more space should be devoted to Southeast Asia, which is covered in some fifty pages, as compared with more than sixty for Japan alone. These criticisms are decidedly subordinate to the book's merits. This is a volume, moreover, which can be used advantageously on many levels of reading and study. Some parts are quite technical, others simple; some discussions detailed, others brief. It is a virtue of the style and organization that a reader will readily find the kind of material he is interested in or the type that is suited to his own level of understanding of the subject." L. K. Rosinger
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:47 Ag 4 '51 1000w
Wis Lib Bul 47:251 N '51

CRICHTON, KYLE SAMUEL (ROBERT FORSYTHE, pseud). History of the adventures of George Whigham and his friend Mr Claney Hobson; il. by Carl Rose. 262p $3 Crown

51-10003

"A diverting account of events before, during and after a society wedding in New York. . . It's all about Miss Elsie Pollard, who is marrying Arthur Ellsworth when she's really in love with Mr. Whigham, the first name in the title. Mr. Hobson (second in the title) tries to help out, and others involved are a New York employee, a bar owner, a minister and his wife, the mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Westlake, and a musician named Wappinger who doesn't seem to be necessary." Springf'd Republican

Kirkus 19:71 F 1 '51 160w

"A mild farce which never quite comes to the caricature of reality which satire must be in order to succeed; at best it is comic fantasy and at worst it is farce, but at no point does it bring any of its characters to a position where they are recognizable as people. . Mr. Crichton leans heavily for humor on a mock heroic style, a formula which states simplicities with polysyllabic unction and tries for humor by shouting complexities in one syllable words." Thomas Sugrue
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ap 8 '51 340w

"The denouements, when you get to them, are sometimes funny and sometimes kind of a shock. If the book has any moral, it is that persons of a literary bent should never leave the sanctity of McDevitt's saloon. Mr. Rose, the illustrator, has carefully avoided making anybody look like anybody." Rex Lardner
N Y Times p21 Ap 22 '51 350w

"'George Whigham,' to cut it down to usable length, is fun even if it is completely mad. Mr. Crichton must have had a wonderful time writing it, and I'd guess a good many people who don't demand seriousness in their fiction every minute, might have a wonderful time with it too." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 18 '51 700w
Reviewed by N. L. Rothman
Sat R of Lit 34:38 Je 23 '51 350w

"It is frankly just an attempt to have some fun with a comedy situation, and with the aid of some good writing and a little bawdiness the novel furnishes an amusing evening. The illustrations, by Carl Rose, add considerably to the fun." R. F. H.
Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 170w

CRISPIN, EDMUND, pseud. See Montgomery, R. B.

CROCE, BENEDETTO. Croce, the king and the allies; extracts from a diary, July 1943-June 1944; tr. by Sylvia Sprigge. 158p $3 Norton

B or 92 World war, 1939-1945—Italy

Extracts from the diary of Benedetto Croce covering the period July 1943 to June 1944. Biographical notes. No index.

Reviewed by Oscar DeLiso
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 4 '51 550w
Reviewed by G. A. Carbone
Current Hist 20:344 Je '51 1300w
Foreign Affairs 30:162 O '51 20w
Reviewed by Elizabeth Wiskemann
Manchester Guardian p4 N 14 '50 350w

"Croce's diary shares with his other works that noteworthy, conscious clarity, that real limpidity of expression, only possible for those who know what they are thinking and doing (Sylvia Sprigge's translation is, by the way, splendid). In its pages he does not equivocate, and the dates of its entries should end once and for all the factious, continuing quarrel over his attitude toward the monarchy." Frances Keene

+ Nation 172:182 F 24 '51 900w

"The record is fascinating to anybody who had knowledge or experience of these events." Vincent Sheean

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 F 4 '51 1700w

"The importance of this portion of the diary to historians will be its account of the political struggle of the time, especially the effort that was made under Croce's leadership to get rid of King Victor Emmanuel III but to save the monarchy. . . The fact that the translation is by the distinguished Rome correspondent of The Manchester Guardian, Sylvia Sprigge, is a guarantee of its accuracy and faithfulness. The only criticism is that it is too faithful, leaving the often misspelled names of foreigners and sometimes indulging in Italianisms, instead of English English." H. L. Matthews

+ — N Y Times p5 F 11 '51 700w

"With a rare integrity, both father and child to his philosophy, Benedetto Croce recorded in his diary (normally kept as a literary register) his experience between Mussolini's dismissal and the allied occupation of Rome. During that period his position was a key one, and his diary, therefore, became a historical document of unusual importance. . . The translation is only too often unfaithful and inaccurate."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p719 N 17 '50 850w

CROCKER, MRS CONSTANCE HOMER. Creative carpentry. 39p il $2 Houghton

684 Carpentry—Juvenile literature 51-1107

"Good carpentry books are always in demand, and here is an interesting approach to carpentry. The author, in attempting to escape from blueprints, offers instead a system in which no dimensions are given and the measurements are made with objects. The basic principles of joining, bracing and so on are discussed in four 'construction charts' with plenty of careful diagrams, and bright ideas for projects." Kirkus

---

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w

"The book might discourage the younger child or one who lacks rudimentary knowledge in this field, but is excellent for the one who is ready for it." A. L. Shea

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ap 8 '51 130w

"It gives valuable ideas on what to make, and teaches the fundamentals of making them rather than simply emphasizing copying. Sketches and diagrams are abundant, but the carpenter works out his own measurements. Mother and Dad will like it, too." M. J. T.

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 Mr 17 '51 110w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:256 Jl '51 120w

"Unorthodox but stimulating. Recommended with adult supervision."

+ Kirkus 19:65 F 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by Evalyn Willey

Library J 76:604 Ap 1 '51 80w

"Intended for amateur carpenters 'of all ages,' it is a book for a father with a workshop to share with his youngsters, for manual arts or other workship teachers, or for various age scout projects. The approach really is new." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 My 27 '51 200w

N Y Times p26 Je 10 '51 40w

+ Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

CROCKETT, LUCY HERNDON. Pong Choolie, you rascal! il. by the author. 246p $3 Holt

Children in Korea 51-13516

"Written from first hand experience and research and based on the present Korean conflict. While the story centers on the activities of a South Korean boy and his attachment to the American soldiers, the book is filled with customs, superstitions, wise sayings, folklore, religion, and local color of Korea." Library J

Reviewed by M. F. Kieran

Atlantic 188:104 D '51 140w

Booklist 48:149 D 15 '51

"This is a thoughtful, extremely well written, and important book for older children—and their parents." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 N 18 '51 200w

Kirkus 19:637 N 1 '51 290w

"Miss Crockett's fascinating illustrations with the comical spirits ever present add appeal to the text." R. W. De Angelo

+ Library J 76:1650 O 15 '51 60w

"Highly recommended." L. G. McCusker

+ Library J 76:2125 D 15 '51 100w

"A pressing problem for librarians during the last war was to choose war books for demanding boys of about thirteen to fifteen. Here is the first one we have seen, and one to be heartily recommended, about the Korean War." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 11 '51 320w

"This is well-knit, breathless adventure; it is also an important picture of the betrayal into tyranny and slavery that follows allegiance to Communist precepts. Subtle humor threads the story; Korean superstitions, prejudices and daily customs are seen through American eyes, and American ways through Korean eyes." Eleanor Brent

+ N Y Times p16 N 11 '51 180w

"Though its details are often painfully graphic, this tale of the buffeting a South Korean lad endures in the present war is rich in action, wit, and the knowledge of that country's customs, and should intrigue readers between thirteen and fifteen." K. T. Kinkead

+ New Yorker 27:180 D 1 '51 100w

"The author has had first hand experience in Korea and has obviously done careful research for this book, and she writes with a light touch in spite of the grimness of the subject. The result is a bitter testimony against the futility of war and hatred. There is no idealization of any group." R. H. Viguers

Sat R of Lit 34:47 D 15 '51 230w

CROFTS, FREEMAN WILLS. Dark journey. 240p $2.50 Dodd

51-13035

Detective story.

"Smartly meshed plot and crescendo of interest in its unraveling." Drexel Drake

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 O 14 '51 70w

"It has been three years and more since we had a detective story from Mr. Crofts and it should be very good news indeed that there is a new one. But the mystery he sets out to untangle is imperfectly plausible at the outset and, by the time it has run its course, a deplorable tangle of improbability. . . Perhaps it's time to issue one of those omnibus volumes to remind us how able a craftsman Crofts can be. . . 'Dark Journey' is a disappointment . . . [but] it is welcome anyway." James Sandoe

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 21 '51 160w

"It's sad to report that one of the grandest of Grand Old Masters, Freeman Wills Crofts is below par in Dark Journey. No old-line devotee will want to miss any exploit of Inspector (now Superintendent) French; but newcomers will find this business of family feuds and entail pretty conventional, and the multiple-guilt solution both implausible and exasperating." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times p50 N 18 '51 110w

CROFTS, F. W.—Continued

"French's usual patience and excellent work with material clues characterize this straight detective story. You may get the brothers mixed up, and find the murder plot too fancy for complete credibility." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 O 7 '51 90w

"Honest detection all the way—Ol' Marse Crofts is still in there pitching." Sergeant Cuff

+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 O 27 '51 40w

CROMPTON, JOHN, pseud. See Lamburn, J. B. C.

CRONE, ANNE. This pleasant lea. 317p $3 Scribner

51-6678

Another novel of County Fermanagh in northern Ireland by the author of Bridie Steen (Book Review Digest 1948). This one tells of Faith Storey and the two men who love her, of her sufferings and sorrows, and how she found happiness at last.

Booklist 48:2; 49 S 1 '51; O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:33 N '51 30w

"For all its beauty and perception, 'This Pleasant Lea' fails to measure up to Anne Crone's first novel, 'Bridie Steen.' It is more cluttered, less inevitable. Miss Crone has in her recent work developed a rather unfortunate way of constantly philosofizing about life, and this gets in the way of her characters." Chad Walsh

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 30 '51 300w

"It would be pleasant to be able to say that inevitability of atmosphere was matched by inevitability of plot. Unfortunately it is not so. Illness and other fortuitous circumstances happen right on schedule to fulfill an all-too-obvious timetable. But why quibble? There is a good beginning, happy ending, and much excellent reading in between. Few novels today fill such old-fashioned requirements so well." Ruth Chapin

+ — Christian Science Monitor p11 N 1 '51 350w

Kirkus 19:405 Ag 1 '51 180w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis

Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 70w

"Armed with a sensitivity to the smallest forces in the earth, [Miss Crone] shows how man and his surroundings can strengthen one another. She says this quietly, and one must take passages in some length to understand all the beauties of her writing, for this is a work of art." Sylvia Stallings

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 S 30 '51 480w

"If 'This Pleasant Lea' offered nothing but its style it would yet stand above nine-tenths of the novels now appearing. . . There are some things to criticize about Miss Crone's portraiture. The heroine's plaintive and unreasonable mother is brilliantly done for half the book—and then rather knocked on the head by a conversion. The weak lover is too much apologized for. Yet we always discover that the subjects of the portraits are real people; and this is a measure of Miss Crone's art." Donald Barr

+ — N Y Times p22 S 30 '51 260w

"Miss Crone's prose, self-assured, elaborate, and passionless, is well suited to this heavy tale."

New Yorker 27:115 S 22 '51 140w

"A mature, civilized novel that portrays the foggy dews of Ireland with the sharpness of a dry point, and tells a love story that for all its quietness, is passionate and true." Dorothy Van Doren

+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 N 3 '51 400w

CRONIN, JOHN FRANCIS. Catholic social principles. 803p $6 Bruce pub.

301 Church and social problems—Roman Catholic church. U.S.—Social conditions

50-13609

"The social teaching of the Catholic church applied to American economic life." (Subtitle) "The book is divided into three parts: 'The Christian Social Order'; 'Social Principles in Economic Life'; and 'American Catholic Social Thought.' Each chapter begins with excerpts from official pronouncements of the Catholic church. These are followed by thoughtful interpretations of the applications of these documents to our modern life. Some of the basic areas discussed are: labor unions, management, housing, social security, wages and income, taxes, and the family." (Ann Am Acad) Annotated reading list. Index.

"Very interesting volume." F. J. Brown

+ Ann Am Acad 275:204 My '51 330w

"It is a satisfying, authoritative work, all the more important because as the author reminds us, 'not many Catholic colleges or universities today offer formal courses in Catholic social principles.' One can well believe that the writing of this book took something like eight years; and the discriminating reader will regard as far too modest the author's claim that 'he tried to make the book reasonably complete.' "

+ Cath World 172:159 N '50 220w

"The book is designed for general reading by Catholics interested in this field, for the clergy and for teachers in Catholic schools and colleges. But non-Catholics too will be impressed and edified by this authoritative statement of the Catholic position on some of the most important issues of our day."

+ Kirkus 18:593 O 1 '50 220w

"The volume will serve many and varied purposes. It offers, first of all, a challenge to Catholic students, laymen, priests and Church officials to bring their overt action more into harmony with the explicit authoritative pronouncements of the Church. Second, it sets forth in bold relief and in readable fashion, the socioeconomic principles of the Catholic tradition. Third, it should serve to meet the needs of teachers and students in college courses which deal with Social Encyclicals and socioeconomic reform. . . While Father Cronin mirrors American life from a Catholic perspective, his treatment is most readable and scholarly, illuminating and challenging, tempered and fair." M. J. Williams

+ Social Forces 29:457 My '51 650w

CROSLAND, MRS JESSIE (RAVEN). Old French epic. 304p $4 Macmillan

841.1 French poetry (Old French) [51-8969]

"The object of this study is not to break a lance in support of any of the conflicting theories which have been put forward as to the date, the origin, or the historical accuracy of the Old French national epic, but to give a plain account of this remarkable genre, this outburst of epic poems during the 11th and 12th centuries which is unparalleled in the history of French literature." School & Society

"It is easy to read five of six chansons de geste and be delighted: less easy to read sixty and still to feel the great merits of the good ones. Mrs Crosland has lost neither her enthusiasm nor her critical standards." D. R. G.

+ Manchester Guardian p4 Je 1 '51 500w

School & Society 73:399 Je 23 '51 60w

"Miss Crosland has supplied an indispensable introduction to one of the most enthralling periods of French literature, and her book will provide both pleasure and profit for scholars and for those readers who come new to this vigorous childhood of French literature."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p306 My 18 '51 1000w

CROSS, JOHN KEIR. Blackadder; a tale of the days of Nelson and Trafalgar; the various documents collected and edited by Stephen Macfarlane, and the whole now presented for the first time in book form; with il. by Robin Jacques. 223p $2.50 Dutton

51-5442

A tale of smuggling, spies, and imprisonment for grades seven to ten. The time is during the Napoleonic wars, and closes with the death of Nelson at the battle of Trafalgar.

Booklist 48:37 S 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 S 30 '51 180w

"A good yarn, well told, with lots of bloodcurdling episodes and characters."
+ Kirkus 19:396 Ag 1 '51 100w

"The book certainly creates the mood of the period, and the style of writing is so vivid that it seems to be fact and not fiction. Recommended." C. W. Field
+ Library J 76:1343 S 1 '51 70w

"Mr. Cross, author of a popular British radio series for young people, has written in lively simulation of nineteenth-century style. Readers who like historical adventure in the romantic tradition will enjoy it all very much." F. C. Smith
+ N Y Times p18 Ag 26 '51 130w

CROSS, WHITNEY ROGERS. Burned-over district; the social and intellectual history of enthusiastic religion in western New York, 1800-1850. 383p maps $5 Cornell univ. press

277.47 U.S.—Religion. New York (state)—Church history. Enthusiasm 50-12161

"Burned-over district was a name applied to a small region, during a limited period of history, to indicate a particular phase of development. It described the religious character of western New York during the first half of the nineteenth century." (Pref) This is a history of the religious revivalism which swept the district from 1800 to 1850. Index.

"Professor Cross analyzes the origins and manifestations of religious enthusiasm along the Erie Canal towns and their hinterlands west of the Catskills and Adirondacks. He has lived long and observantly in this region. Writing from the basic assumptions of modern liberal and social Christianity, he brings perspective but not harsh judgment to his intimate observations. He uses a wide range of sources, and treats the evidence, queer or sensational as some of it is, with discrimination." Thomas Bassett
+ Am Hist R 56:592 Ap '51 600w

"This is an excellent piece of social historical writing." S. D. Clark
+ Am J Soc 57:95 Jl '51 420w

"Professor Cross's style is sometimes heavy and forbidding; and he has a scholar's prejudice against the audacious and far-reaching speculation, particularly in the field of abnormal psychology. Occasionally his own generalizations are not convincing: I think he is more to the point, for example, when he describes Millerism as the product of 'deep pessimism' than when he claims generally that 'in religion, optimism took the form of belief in an early millennium.' But this does not detract from his positive accomplishment. . . Professor Cross has written an indispensable chapter in our intellectual history." Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.
+ — Nation 172:282 Mr 24 '51 480w

"An informed and accurate knowledge of New York history has equipped him well for the task. . . I have only two reservations. The first is that, in my opinion, he does not take into account sufficiently the interest of the people in affairs outside their community and country. . . My second reservation is merely a novelist's and therefore probably not valid: but it does seem a pity that a book offering so many rewards might not have conveyed a livelier sense of the human entity of leading figures in the revival drama." W. D. Edmonds
+ — New Eng Q 24:254 Je '51 850w

Times [London] Lit Sup p359 Je 8 '51 650w

"Thorough research and penetrating thought characterize this history. . . Intensive analysis of a limited but important region, and deliberate effort to see the interactions of religious with economic, social, and political forces make the self-styled 'microcosmic study' a notable contribution to knowledge. . . The book is not easy reading, but students of religion and reform movements, sociologists, and social psychologists will find that it enriches their understanding of much more than western New York."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:51 Mr '51 250w

CROUSE, WILLIAM HARRY. Automotive electrical equipment; its operation and maintenance. new 2d ed 330p il $4; text ed $3.20 McGraw

629.25 Automobiles—Electric equipment 50-12519

"An introductory but fairly comprehensive textbook on automobile batteries, starters, generators, voltage regulators, horns, ignition systems, lighting systems, etc. . . There are more than 300 illustrations in the book, most of which illustrate electrical equipment of present day cars. Much new material has been added in this edition, including information on electric windshield wipers, window and convertible top operating mechanisms, and direction signals." Library J

Booklist 47:157 D 15 '50

"The author has not assumed that his readers will have had any previous education in electrical terms or elementary physics; hence, when terms such as 'inertia' are first introduced, they are carefully explained." R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 120w

CROW, LESTER DONALD, and CROW, MRS ALICE (VON BAUER). Introduction to guidance; principles and practices. 430p $4 Am. bk.

371.42 Personnel service in education 51-9635

"The authors have presented an over-all view of guidance and its relation to human adjustment and development. The extensiveness of the volume is evidenced in the fact that it considers guidance practices for all age and educational levels—from guidance of young children to guidance of the adult. While the purpose of the book is largely that of developing a wholesome guidance attitude, many of the guidance techniques commonly used in educational institutions are treated." School R

School & Society 73:93 F 10 '51 30w

"An Introduction to Guidance is designed to be a first book for anyone interested in helping others. It satisfactorily meets this purpose, but persons interested in careers in guidance or personnel services will need to continue their studies in specific guidance areas. The volume will prove helpful to all adults, especially teachers, who want to help individuals of any age achieve desirable life adjustments." O. D. Froe
+ School R 59:500 N '51 750w

CROWLEY, MAUDE. Azor and the blue-eyed cow; a Christmas story; pictures by Helen Sewell. 70p $2.25 Oxford

51-12458

At eight years of age Azor still believed in Santa Claus, and tho opposed by his older brother, he proved his point with the help of Clara, the Blue-eyed cow.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51
Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p41 D 2 '51 120w

"Christmas, fantasy and dry New England humor are skillfully blended to make this an unusual and delightful story." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:414 D '51 90w
Kirkus 19:530 S 15 '51 120w

Reviewed by S. J. Johnson
Library J 76:2120 D 15 '51 70w

"Families who read it aloud will find a very special feeling of a happy family at Christmas, with all their homely preparations. Azor, with his love for the 'cow from Away,' and his unsentimental yet deep understanding of the spirit of Christmas, offers a great deal more than fun to small boys and others." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 14 '51 160w

CROWLEY, MAUDE—Continued

"This third tale of Azor's adventures is as funny as its predecessors and so full of a small boy's kindliness and faith that its reading shouldn't be confined to Christmas time." E. L. B.

+ N Y Times p36 S 23 '51 120w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead

New Yorker 27:181 D 1 '51 40w

Sat R of Lit 34:46 D 15 '51 140w

CUMMINGS, CHARLES SUMNER. Everyday ballistics. 138p $2.85 Stackpole & Heck

623.5 Ballistics 50-10746

"What is the meaning of the various names of cartridges, or of such terms as 'three dram equivalent' on packages of shotgun shells? How is the velocity of a bullet measured, and how are velocity, time of flight and drop related? What determines the killing power of a bullet? This book provides answers to such questions and, in addition, tables of useful data on such matters as the effect of rifle barrel length on velocity, the velocities of bullets at various distances from the rifle muzzle, and the relation between muzzle velocity and wind deflection. Much of the material is reprinted from the Remington News Letter." Library J

Booklist 47:152 D 15 '50

Bookmark 10:167 Ap '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 130w

CUMMINGS, MRS FLORENCE. Good Mrs Shephard(!). 288p $3 Crown

50-14251

"Portrait of a woman with no inner graces who masks the emptiness of her personal life by a fine show of civic virtue. She interests herself in good causes as a vent for her bitterness. Uninterested in her own children, Mrs Sheppard is active in parent-teacher groups and writes for magazines on the training of children. Tired of her husband, whose worst sin is that he's uncomplicated and a bit dull, she has an affair with a doctor. The author traces her feverish course with clinical detachment." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Kirkus 18:429 Ag 1 '50 130w

"A surface study that seldom touches reality."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 19 '50 120w

"Unfortunately, Florence Cummings asks magazine questions too often and has Laura give too many magazine answers. And yet, though the principal characterization is shaky, the story line has speed and tension and the basic problem is an interesting one." Lily van Ameringen

N Y Times p13 D 31 '50 250w

"With her main theme—that self-deception is never more insidious than when its victim prides himself upon his insight into human nature—hardly anyone could disagree. But Mrs. Cummings's treatment of the theme is too thin and theoretical. This seasoned writer of radio and magazine fiction has not yet become at home in her new medium." D. K. Bestor

Sat R of Lit 33:36 O 28 '50 330w

CUMMINGS, PARKE. I'm telling you kids for the last time; il. by Robert Osborn. 172p $2.75 Schuman

649.1 Children—Management 51-13648

Advice, not wholly without point, but couched in humorous terms, on the care and management of children. Based, the author affirms, on two qualifications: "1. I am a parent. 2. I am an observing parent."

Booklist 48:117 D 1 '51

Reviewed by F. D. Heron

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 18 '51 90w

"This is no strict child-guidance to lofty standards, but a crafty, compromising approach to the amenities of domestic accord which should offer a palliative emollient for lightly to badly, slow to quick, burned progenitors. The sly, smug, grotesques of Robert Osborn's illustrations add to the hilarity of the soothing sound of innocent wool-gathering."

+ Kirkus 19:629 O 15 '51 200w

"The entire volume is written in the patient, didactic, a-b-c tone of a book-writing expert on child care. Cummings has really taken the tone over, and the experts are going to have to get another one. Otherwise everybody's going to be laughing in the wrong places. Robert Osborn has helped out with a number of unloving illustrations." Ted Robinson

+ N Y Times p16 N 11 '51 340w

School & Society 74:271 O 27 '51 30w

CUNNINGHAM, ALBERT BENJAMIN (GARTH HALE, pseud). Skeleton in the closet. 223p $2.50 Dutton

51-9341

Detective story.

"One of Sheriff Roden's sharpest exploits in picking up and putting together clews to long concealed killing." Drexel Drake

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Mr 4 '51 70w

Kirkus 18:711 D 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by Nancie Matthews

N Y Times p27 F 18 '51 90w

"There are some fine country characters, and Roden's detection is quiet and solid as ever." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 F 25 '51 100w

CUNNINGHAM, ALBERT BENJAMIN (GARTH HALE, pseud). Substance of a dream. 315p $3 Dutton

51-9487

"When Gayle meets Lester, life for both of them seems to take on an incandescent glow. Then they get married—and the glow immediately begins to lose wattage. Lester turns out to be something less than the full answer to a woman's dream. Indeed, he turns out to be something of a sap. And he drinks. . . How Gayle resolves her problem is the nub of Mr. Hale's plot." N Y Times

Kirkus 18:732 D 15 '50 140w

"Rather tedious novel about commonplace people in ordinary situations. . . Not recommended." R. P. Tubby

— Library J 76:180 F 1 '51 70w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Ap 22 '51 80w

Reviewed by Robert Hagy

N Y Times p28 Ap 1 '51 130w

"It is a wise, sound, readable book, essentially moralistic in tone but never pontifically or too obviously so. And it is lightened by acute and vivid observation." S. H. Hay

+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 Ap 7 '51 400w

CUNNINGHAM, RUTH, and others. Understanding group behavior of boys and girls. 446p il $3.25 Teachers college

370.15 Social psychology 51-9636

"Report of an investigation into human relations and group dynamics, cooperatively conducted by pupils and teachers, with some help from parents. Sociometric techniques were used to determine the place individuals held in the group, and group patterns were studied to determine causes and effects. It was found that even very young children could be asked to study themselves—there was one first-grade group—and that the children and parents often brought in problems not foreseen by the investigators." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 47:303 My 1 '51

"Should become a widely used source of help to elementary- and secondary-school teachers and to others who work with children in groups. . . This book supplies a wealth of experimental and anecdotal material from which any interested person can get ideas for studying and understanding the behavior of a group in relation to individuals and the behavior of individuals in relation to a group." E. J. Swenson

+ El School J 52:177 N '51 800w

School & Society 73:110 F 17 '51 30w

CUNNINGHAM OF HYNDHOPE, ANDREW BROWNE CUNNINGHAM, 1st viscount. Sailor's odyssey; autobiography. 715p il maps $7.50 Dutton

B or 92 Great Britain. Navy—Sea life. World war, 1939-1945—Naval operations. World war, 1939-1945—Personal narratives, British 51-14146

The autobiography of Viscount Cunningham, best known as Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean in 1940 and 1941, when Britain was fighting the naval war almost single-handed. Index.

Booklist 48:143 D 15 '51

Bookmark 11:80 Ja '52 30w

"Excellent photographs. Blue water—not surface froth." H. A. Wooster

+ Library J 76:2005 D 1 '51 100w

"In his autobiography Lord Cunningham records many of his private (and often irreverent) opinions on naval matters. He has recorded them, and a great deal of history as well, in lucid economical English frequently enlivened by a really memorable phrase, the kind of phrase which explains even to a land-lubber precisely how ships and men can behave at sea." Mark Arnold-Forster

+ Manchester Guardian p4 Mr 30 '51 650w

"'A Sailor's Odyssey' has its slow passages but in view of its graphic and authoritative discussion of the Mediterranean conflict and its superb descriptions of combat on the seas, it may well come to be regarded as one of the great personal narratives of the last war." G. A. Craig

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 N 25 '51 1100w

"To the growing pile of war memoirs, Andrew Browne Cunningham has added one of the most remarkable. It is candid, unassuming and exciting. . . 'A Sailor's Odyssey' is remarkable in another way. Viscount Cunningham is a plain man, a Scot, and he tells a great story as 'a round, unvarnish'd tale.'" Drew Middleton

+ N Y Times p3 N 11 '51 900w

New Yorker 27:188 N 17 '51 120w

Reviewed by W. D. Puleston

Sat R of Lit 35:11 Ja 12 '52 750w

"The narrative is admirably clear, it holds the reader and leads him on, and yet the page does not glow. . . If there is something that he thinks it unwise to say, he jumps on to the next paragraph. He knows almost too well how to simplify. As a result, a general reader is never lost. The story goes steadily on, never failing, if for a moment detail threatens to become embarrassing, to clear itself with an illuminating paragraph of forward looking or of summary." Charles Morgan

+ — Spec 185:454 Ap 6 '51 1000w

"Modest and matter-of-fact narrative."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p210 Ap 6 '51 1200w

CUPPY, WILLIAM JACOB. How to get from January to December; ed. by Fred Feldkamp; drawings by John Ruge. 279p $3 Holt

817 51-12876

A paragraph of Will Cuppy's prose for each of the 365 days in the year, excluding February 29. The material sometimes is appropriate for the day, sometimes not, but most of it is informative and humorous at the same time.

Booklist 47:373; 48:62 Jl 1 '51; O 15 '51

"Another incomparable mixture of comedy and erudition."

+ Bookmark 11:30 N '51 20w

"A highly irregular almanac, providing an informative chuckle a day—a perfect antidote for this year's literary pains." Richard Blakesley

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 14 '51 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p26 N '51

+ Kirkus 19:425 Ag 1 '51 150w

"Uneven, of course, but usually pure essence of Cuppy." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:1326 S 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by Herbert Kupferberg

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 O 14 '51 600w

"Feldkamp seems to have selected very well. There's a fat, informative paragraph or so on something or other for every blessed day in the year and there are a lot fewer dull paragraphs here than there are dull days. The paragraph usually has something to say about the date itself, but not always. It is frequently funny, always informative." Ted Robinson

+ N Y Times p34 O 7 '51 600w

New Yorker 27:127 O 6 '51 70w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 N 11 '51 290w

Reviewed by Martin Levin

Sat R of Lit 34:19 N 24 '51 420w

Wis Lib Bul 47:250 N '51

CURRAN, CHARLES HOWARD. Insects in your life. 316p il $3.50 Sheridan

632.7 Insects, Injurious and beneficial 51-10474

The curator of insects and spiders at the American museum of natural history presents an introduction to the life and habits of some familiar insects of household and further afield. Included, among others, are flies, clothes moths, carpet beetles, termites, Japanese beetles, the human bot fly, and ticks. Index.

Booklist 47:323 My 15 '51

"A readable, authoritative introduction to the curious habits of familiar insects."

+ Bookmark 10:180 My '51 30w

"Pleasant and interesting reading." R. R. Hawkins

+ Library J 76:874 My 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by J. W. Krutch

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Je 24 '51 600w

Reviewed by J. N. Leonard

N Y Times p10 Ap 29 '51 400w

Reviewed by Edmund Wilson

New Yorker 27:73 Jl 14 '51 260w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 My 6 '51 150w

"C. H. Curran has written a book that deals primarily with the insects that every householder is likely to encounter in the course of daily living—clothes moths, carpet beetles, termites, cockroaches, worms in salads or in cocktail olives. I should think it would be a handy book to have in the house because of its explanations of the habits of the common household pests and its suggestions about the proper ways of dealing with them." Marston Bates

+ Sat R of Lit 34:31 Je 9 '51 650w

Wis Lib Bul 47:184 Jl '51

CURRY, MRS PEGGY (SIMSON). Fire in the water. 304p $3 McGraw

51-10094

Novel of life in a Scottish fishing village. The title refers to the shout of the fishermen in the night when the herring rise to the surface with a brilliant glow of phosphorescence.

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51

"Is this a novel worth reading? Quite decidedly yes. Mrs. Curry was born and reared among the people she writes about; now a citizen of Wyoming, she portrays with sympathy the scenes of yesterday." Ney MacMinn

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 My 6 '51 450w

Kirkus 19:71 F 1 '51 180w

CURRY, P. S.—Continued

"Mrs. Curry has told her story of hearty, often bigoted fisherfolk with great skill." George Conrad

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ap 15 '51 450w

"[Mrs] Curry gives the old exposé a new look by skillfully exploiting the Scottish locale, the tartany character and their loamy humor. The scenes exhale lifelike whiffs of herring scales and heather. The lowland dialect is freely but gracefully applied to augment the local-color scheme without becoming an obstacle to easy reading." Wilmott Ragsdale

+ N Y Times p16 Ap 15 '51 230w

CURTI, MERLE EUGENE, and others. An American history. 2v 657;683p maps $12.50; college ed ea $4.50 Harper

973 U.S.—History 50-6780

"A history of the United States from 1492 to the present. The first volume covers events in four periods of our history: the colonial period; 1763-1815; 1815-1850 and 1850-1877. Volume two covers events from 1877-1896; 1896-1919 and 1919 to the post-war period. Social, economic, political, and cultural trends in each period are examined. . . Maps illustrate the text." Current Hist

"This is history told in a steady, dry tone, lacking the play of banners and the disturbing throb of drums and human folly, and, as such, is a really impressive performance. I cannot forbear mentioning that the diplomacy of the American Revolution and its peace treaty are recounted before the story of the military operations, nor protesting that the 'Federalist' is described only in terms of special pleading and propaganda [which it was] and not as the masterpiece of political wisdom and reasoning which it preeminently is." M. A. Fitzsimons

+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Ag 19 '51 400w

"The distinguished group of authors has combined most effectively a topical treatment of our history within a chronological outline."

+ Current Hist 21:166 S '51 70w

"The writing is excellent and proves that good scholarship can prevail in a readable work that is easily understood as well as in the drier, lifeless, over-footnoted tome. Splendid simple maps and an excellent selected bibliography make these two volumes as excellent for home and library use as they would be as texts in a preliminary college history course." H. L. Roth

+ Library J 76:1564 O 1 '51 150w

"The two volumes fulfill the stated aims of the authors. They provide an account of the rise of our civilization, and an interpretation of the processes that have shaped it, which is comprehensive, well integrated and remarkably lucid." Lloyd Morris

+ New Repub 125:19 O 15 '51 650w

CURTIS, JEAN LOUIS. Forests of the night; tr. from the French by Nora Wydenbruck. 309p $3.50 Putnam

51-14085

"This Goncourt Prize novel, first published in France in 1947, is a portrayal of the complex life lived in France during the German Occupation in World War II. The author knows his people and the reader is able to see their development in the light of their changing milieu." Library J

Booklist 48:171 Ja 15 '52

Reviewed by Edmund Fuller

Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 O 14 '51 440w

"In essence this book is valuable to most of its readers in helping develop sensitive understanding of a people usually thought of in a strictly romantic vein. Recommended." H. L. Roth

+ Library J 76:1420 S 15 '51 70w

"A fine and unsensational book, shedding light on the natures of many of the sorts and kinds that make the world. Very clever—but with no twisting of the reader's arm to rub it in. True to life, but with artistic tact." Paul Bloomfield

+ Manchester Guardian p4 D 1 '50 290w

"His book is readable and witty but uncompelling; an air of unreality hangs over his characters, and especially his haute bourgeoisie. The blimpish, good-natured Count with his genealogical pretensions and English literary references; the ex-monk turned criminal who bores his mobsters with digressions on Maurice Barrès; the musician's widow holding astral communication with Vincent D'Indy—amusing, certainly, but out of place in this kind of novel." John Raymond

New Statesman & Nation 40:630 D 16 '50 270w

"Here is a story of conflict, suspense and tragedy, with a pace that holds your attention. But beyond the events, the book has significance for us. It shows that even the right side in a battle of ideas is never wholly pure, never 'an army of Parsifals'; that justice and honor can have ugly seams, yet be valid." Virginia Peterson

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 S 30 '51 600w

"His novel is not a great one. It is traditional in its technique, but comprehensive, skillfully built and intelligent without any unique display of cleverness. It presents its characters in action and through lively dialogue, without any deep analysis of their motives. The author has made very discreet use of the characteristics (as the Europeans have seen them) of the American novel: violence,, cruelty, sadism and sex unlimited." Henri Peyre

+ N Y Times p4 N 18 '51 1500w

New Yorker 27:182 N 17 '51 100w

"Jean-Louis Curtis' excellent style of writing, although original enough, can best be described as something akin to a mixture of Jules Romains and Ernest Hemingway. There have been greater novels published in France since the end of the war, but 'The Forests of the Night' is, nevertheless, a work of considerable literary merit." J. A.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 D 23 '51 750w

"Writing in the tradition of Balzac, M. Curtis is merciless and mordant. His view is bleak, his counsel one of despair. But his grim portrayal has persuasive power, and his cynicism—unpalatable though it may be—gives a sharp edge to the wit he weaves through an absorbing study of modern man in a world at war with itself." E. J. Fitzgerald

Sat R of Lit 34:21 D 15 '51 340w

"A candid and capable novel in its way, but too fluent. The translation is marked now and then by phrases like 'the typical ape-like type.'" R. D. Charques

+ — Spec 185:26 Ja 5 '51 240w

Times [London] Lit Sup p17 Ja 12 '51 200w

CURTISS, MRS URSULA (REILLY). Noonday devil. 207p $2.50 Dodd

Mystery story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake

Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 O 7 '51 110w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 S 16 '51 120w

"A curious blend of harsh suspense and feminine-slick; but writing, characterization and plotting are so strong and solid throughout that the unlikely blend comes off most satisfactorily." Anthony Boucher

+ — N Y Times p22 O 7 '51 100w

"The author writes no worse than the majority of her contemporaries and plots a good deal better, and her book is one you can safely include on your list."

New Yorker 27:124 S 29 '51 130w

"Suspense and romance good; plot beautifully articulated; writing in the best glossy-paper style. B plus." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 23 '51 70w

"Nicely handled." Sergeant Cuff

+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 O 20 '51 60w

CUSACK, ELLEN DYMPHNA, and JAMES, FLORENCE. Come in spinner! 500p $3.50 Morrow

51-9342

"Account of the impact of the American 'army of occupation' on the women of Sydney and the impact of the women of Sydney on the American armed forces. At the center of the novel are the girls of the Marie Antoinette Beauty Salon in the Hotel South Pacific. From their adventures and those of their sisters and friends, the book proliferates to carry the reader from the most expensive night clubs to the sorriest brothels of Campbell Street and King's Cross." N Y Times

Booklist 47:213; 236 F 15 '51; Mr 1 '51

"One of the major characters in this prize-winning Australian novel complains bitterly against some minor characters who spend their time 'giving a play-by-play description of their filthy love life.' This quotation may, without injustice, be applied to the content of this sordid and depressing book." Riley Hughes

— Cath World 173:75 Ap '51 220w

Kirkus 18:734 D 15 '50 300w

"Much conversation and realistic writing make this a fast moving, but not a pleasant book; recommended nevertheless." Anne Whitmore

Library J 76:408 Mr 1 '51 90w

"Lively, tough and tender tale of white slavery and black markets down under during the late war. The result is a success, for no seams are left showing and the range between innocent love in an amusement park and the brutal methods of luring young girls into 'houses' gives the book its range and emotional roominess." Bradford Smith

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Mr 4 '51 650w

"Clever, swiftly written, and convincing enough within its limits." C. H. Grattan

+ N Y Times p21 F 25 '51 230w

"The dialogue is brisk, the action swift in this robust novel slanted to the tastes of feminine readers who are not averse to gossip in beauty parlors, to what goes on in Australian brothels or what may happen in an abortion room." J. V.

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 22 '51 450w

CUSTINE, ASTOLPHE LOUIS LEONARD, marquis de. Journey for our time; ed. and tr. by Phyllis Penn Kohler; introd. by W. B. Smith. 338p $4 Pelligrini & Cudahy

914.7 Russia—Description and travel

51-10253

"In the summer of 1839 the Marquis de Custine visited Russia. . . Monarchist in sympathy he returned to France 'a partisan of constitutions.' Tyranny, an indifference toward human life, ambition for conquest, and suspicion of the foreigner, epitomized the Russia of 1839 to the Marquis. His report, first published in France in 1843, in England in 1844, and in the United States in 1854, is again made available in English in this translation by a former employee of the American Embassy in Moscow." Library J

"The students of Soviet society will welcome this book, despite the fact that it throws light only on social continuities." A. Vucinich

+ Am Soc R 16:588 Ag '51 220w

Atlantic 187:87 Je '51 150w

Booklist 47:364 Je 15 '51

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ap 15 '51 420w

Reviewed by Paul Hutchinson

Christian Century 68:712 Je 13 '51 950w

Current Hist 21:35 Jl '51 80w

Kirkus 19:168 Mr 15 '51 140w

Reviewed by J. H. Berthel

Library J 76:595 Ap 1 '51 130w

"'Journey for Our Time' is useful in that it makes a part of De Custine's writings more readily available to students of Russian history. It also has value as a startling illustration of continuity in history. But as a study of the Soviet Union it is more likely to obscure than to illuminate." W. B. Walsh

Nation 173:264 S 29 '51 1000w

"Custine's brilliant and indispensable book will help the present generation to understand Bolshevik Russia. But it must not be forgotten that modern Russian history has known happier times than the deadening tyrannies of Nicholas and Stalin." Hans Kohn

+ New Repub 124:19 My 21 '51 600w

"The astonishing travel journals of the Marquis de Custine are one of the great travel books of history, a garrulous, moving, sensitive, colorful classic with unexpected felicities of style and insights that are like shafts of light penetrating into a black and nearly featureless landscape, in which one senses more than one sees. This 'Journey for Our Time' is more than 100 years old, yet on every page there are passages which cause the reader to cry aloud, 'Why this is Russia as it is today!'" B. D. Wolfe

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 1 '51 1200w

Reviewed by P. E. Mosely

N Y Times p1 Ap 1 '51 1500w

New Yorker 27:140 Ap 14 '51 240w

"The vast technological and political changes of the past century, and they alone, made possible the totalitarianism of Stalin—a despotism uniquely modern and tragically closer to Orwell's Nineteen Eighty-Four than it is to Nicholas I, the most authoritarian of Russia's modern Czars. Only with this in mind—and not as a storehouse for foolish analogies—can the present-day reader appreciate Custine's book, a work unusually suggestive of the eternal essence of despotism." George Fischer

Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 14 '51 900w

School & Society 73:222 Ap 7 '51 30w

Time 57:100 Ap 2 '51 900w

D

DAICHES, DAVID. Robert Burns. 376p $3.50; pa $2 Rinehart

821 Burns, Robert 50-11495

"This study of Burns is intended primarily as a critical examination of his poetic achievement rather than as a biographical work. However, in my endeavor to explain his development as a poet and the forces that helped to condition this development, I have been drawn to some degree into biography. Thus I have found it necessary to discuss at length his education and his early friendships and associations, for these were important factors in his poetic growth. I have tried to quote from primary sources wherever it is necessary to document my interpretation." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 47:270 Ap 1 '51

"The life of Burns . . . Mr. Daiches handles with frankness and brevity. His emphasis is on literary evaluation; close criticism of poem after poem explodes the legend that Burns was simply a 'heaven taught plowboy'—it shows Burns as a poet who knew what he was doing with the resources of his craft." J. F. Nims

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 F 25 '51 350w

"Professor Daiches knows as much about the Scottish literary tradition as he does about Burns, and puts his sitter in perspective in the first chapter. . . In fact, his scholarship is impeccable, but that is not the main reason why you ought to read his book. He deserves a nobler title than scholar—that of humanist. . . As far as I know, no critical study has done fuller justice to Burns' work as a song-writer or supplied more information about it than the last chapter of this book." Vivian Mercier

+ Commonweal 53:500 F 23 '51 1100w

"If Mr. Daiches doesn't altogether succeed in concentrating and ordering his case for Burns, the book does send us back to the poetry with a strong feeling of the very special claims on us of, say, 'The Jolly Beggars,' of the best of the songs, of dramatic monologues like 'The rantin dog, the daddie o't' or 'Tam Glen.' "

DAICHES, DAVID—Continued
+ — Nation 172:525 Je 2 '51 130w

"Daiches is enough of a Scotsman to know his subject sympathetically, enough of a cosmopolitan to keep the tears out of his voice at mere mention of Scotia or Kilmarnock . . . [He] does what should be done in the study of Robert Burns: he concentrates on his poems, almost line by line. This volume is the first in the Rinehart Critical Studies; the series is off to a good start." D. A. Stauffer
+ New Repub 124:19 Mr 26 '51 550w

"This volume, the first number in a series of Rinehart Critical Studies, is notable for its vigorous grasp of crucial issues and for its success in clearing the air of misapprehensions that have often blurred the understanding of Robert Burns' position and achievement. From insights made possible by recent scholarship, from a thorough knowledge of the background of Scottish literature in the eighteenth century and from a minute study of the structure and style of the poems Mr. Daiches has constructed a basis for a convincingly sound interpretation." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Ag 26 '51 500w

"Criticizing certain lyrics is not easy, yet Mr. Daiches succeeds admirably. No reader of Burns can afford to be without this delightfully erudite book It will certainly enhance his enjoyment of the greatest of Scottish poets whom we salute 'for auld lang syne.' " H. F. West
+ N Y Times p5 My 6 '51 600w

"Solid little book; it is a first-rate critical study of the poetry and of the man who produced it."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 Jl 14 '51 200w
Time 57:94 F 12 '51 700w

"Although a good deal of what Professor Daiches has to say sounds like classroom lectures, this critical study is, nevertheless, a fine appraisal of the work of a fine poet."
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:237 S '51 250w

DAICHES, DAVID. Willa Cather; a critical introduction. 193p $2.75 Cornell univ. press
813 Cather, Willa Sibert 51-9710

"This book was written in an attempt to answer the question: 'What do you think of the work of Willa Cather?' I am no expert in American literature and have not attempted to give my answer in terms of movements or backgrounds. I have written my reasoned opinion of the novels in chronological order and followed this with some discussion of Miss Cather's poetry and critical writing, in the hope that my critical analyses and appraisals will increase perception and appreciation on the part of both the general reader and the serious student of Miss Cather's work." (Pref) Index.

"Prof. Daiches has written the most extensive commentary upon Miss Cather's fiction that has yet appeared. I have read it with an absorbed pleasure that I think all her admirers will share." Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Mr 11 '51 500w

"The World of Willa Cather is a book which had to be written now or not at all, and only a writer like Mrs. Bennett, with her woman's perseverance and affectionate curiosity, could do it. It is more valuable in its way than David Daiches' more urbane and profound book, which could be written by a hundred others, at any time in the future; the books will be there." Francis Sweeney
+ Commonweal 54:18 Ap 13 '51 360w

"Mr. Daiches demonstrates how much can be accomplished by a qualified critic who refuses to be content with the impression produced by a whole and resolutely determines to discover by the analysis of specific passages how certain effects were achieved. . . [His] minimum achievement is to establish solidly and in very clear outline certain characteristics which go to make up the general impression the attentive reader gradually formed as the novels appeared one after another." J. W. Krutch
+ Nation 172:281 Mr 24 '51 1200w

Reviewed by Charles Poore
N Y Times p4 Mr 4 '51 500w

"Professor Daiches has, among other talents, the ability to write books of literary criticism that are pleasant to read. . . This study of the works of Willa Cather is both a balanced estimate of her worth as novelist, short-story writer, poet, and thinker (the worth declines, one gathers, in that order) and a stimulus to read or reread her books."
+ New Yorker 27:107 Mr 24 '51 100w
School & Society 73:127 F 24 '51 30w
Times [London] Lit Sup p482 Ag 3 '51 1300w

Reviewed by J. W. Beach
Yale R n s 40:748 summer '51 400w

DALLIN, DAVID J. New Soviet empire. 216p $3.75 Yale univ. press
947.084 Russia—Foreign relations. Russia—Social conditions 51-9488

"Well known writer, Russian refugee, dwells mainly on such aspects of Soviet Russia as preference given to Great Russians over the many other ethnic groups, the Communist party, and the social structure of the country." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Marc Szeftel
Ann Am Acad 277:266 S '51 470w

"Mr. Dallin's findings, if often controversial, are always well documented and, in the main, highly encouraging." + Atlantic 187:86 My '51 140w
Booklist 47:234 Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley
Cath World 173:77 Ap '51 650w

"Dallin, who intimately knew Russia and the Communist party before he came to America, drew his material from persons who have direct knowledge of Russia. He has written a highly informative book, perhaps the best current text on the soviet system." Gilbert Twiss
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Mr 4 '51 460w
Christian Century 68:1077 S 19 '51 170w

"This book shares one defect with its predecessors; Mr. Dallin seldom tells us what his authority for even his most important statements is, and this time he has not troubled to include a bibliography. Still, I know of no reason to question his statements of fact, and although I believe that the regime may enjoy somewhat more support among its citizens than Mr. Dallin will admit, I consider his book one of the best studies of the Soviet Union to be published in recent years." H. C. Hinton + Commonweal 53:498 F 23 '51 1000w
Current Hist 20:346 Je '51 160w
Foreign Affairs 29:676 Jl '51 40w
Kirkus 19:18 Ja 1 '51 220w

"Much as we are in debt to Dallin for many of his earlier contributions, present work is marred by tendency towards such sweeping statements as the assertion that neither Stalin, nor any other member of the Politburo 'possesses an outstanding intellect or personality.' . . While interesting reading, much of the book must be accepted with certain reservations. Recommended for collections specializing in Russian affairs." H. H. Bernt
Library J 76:323 F 15 '51 140w

"An unscholarly and fundamentally disappointing book." Max Beloff
— Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 28 '51 120w

Reviewed by Michael Karpovich
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Mr 4 '51 800w

" 'The New Soviet Empire' is not a monumentally documented volume like Dallin's 'Soviet Russia's Foreign Policy.' Drawing heavily on its author's earlier work, it is rather a balance sheet of present conditions, readable, comprehensible, occasionally profound." A. A. Berle
+ N Y Times p3 F 25 '51 1350w
New Yorker 27:106 Mr 24 '51 200w

Reviewed by J. N. Hazard
Pol Sci Q 66:449 S '51 650w

Reviewed by C. W. Weinberger
San Francisco Chronicle p14 Mr 11 '51 650w

"The weakest point in the book is that it tries to cover too many things and therefore covers none of them thoroughly and well. What we need most at the present moment is a systematic study of the new Soviet imperialism as it operates abroad and the consequent structural changes which it introduces at home. Mr. Dallin treats both of these subjects and contributes many valuable insights on each but fails to make a thoroughgoing study of either. What is lacking is the sense of historical irony." B. D. Wolfe
Sat R of Lit 34:21 Mr 17 '51 750w
Times [London] Lit Sup p559 S 7 '51 360w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:175 Je '51 250w

DALY, ELIZABETH. Book of the crime. 181p $2.50 Rinehart 51-9249

Detective story.

Booklist 47:255 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w
Kirkus 18:711 D 1 '50 90w

"Miss Daly's Henry Gamadge is one of the more captivating sleuths in detective fiction. His elliptical wit, his erudition, his friendship for the underdog, and his relationship with his steadily growing family, all add up to a great deal of charm."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 Mr 4 '51 240w

Reviewed by Hillis Mills
N Y Times p20 Mr 11 '51 110w

"Literate and ingenious."
+ New Yorker 26:108 F 10 '51 80w

"The central idea is oddly reminiscent of an earlier Daly novel, but it's developed with beautiful clarity and in the subdued easy style that is the author's hallmark." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 F 25 '51 70w
Sat R of Lit 34:38 F 17 '51 50w

DALY, JOHN JAY. Song in his heart; introd. by Harry F. Byrd; il. by Marian L. Larer. 102p $3 Winston

B or 92 Bland, James A. 51-12425

"A slight, fictionalized story built around the few known facts of the life of the popular Negro minstrel, composer of Carry Me Back to Old Virginia and other favorites. Includes eight songs and reproductions of handbills." Library J

"Although we wish that the author had used more of the fascinating minstrel show history rather than opulent dialogue to fill out the meagre biographical record, the subject will be of interest to the minstrel-banjo minded."
Kirkus 19:231 My 1 '51 150w

Reviewed by C. K. Miller
Library J 76:1425 S 15 '51 40w

"John Jay Daly discovered when he began to work on the biography of Bland that there is very little factual material concerning him. He has, under the circumstances, written a very ingenious account, full of feeling, of this almost unknown composer of some of America's most widely known songs." Carl Carmer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 D 30 '51 490w

Reviewed by Horace Reynolds
N Y Times p12 O 14 '51 480w
Springf'd Republican p10B S 30 '51 310w

DALY, MAUREEN, ed. Profile of youth; by the members of the staff of the Ladies home journal. 256p $2.95 Lippincott

301.1584 Youth 51-10016

"This collection of studies of American youth appeared in the Ladies Home Journal in answer to the question 'What are the facts about our teen-agers?' The work of fifteen editors, writers and researchers, this final report presents a composite view of the young people of this country, their problems and the means used to cope with them. The case studies are not setups, but present the facts in 12 specific cases with ten cross-sectional chapters on problems ranging from 'Going Steady' to 'Fads and Fun, High School Variety.'" Library J

Booklist 47:267 Ap 1 '51

"This is an important book—a very important book. . . It is edited intelligently, sympathetically, and objectively by the gifted Maureen Daly who, since her own early novel, Seventeenth Summer, has been accepted as the voice of youth. . . This book is essential reading for everyone concerned with the education of teen-agers, but the time for parents to read it is long before their children grow up." B. J. Thompson
+ Cath World 173:156 My '51 260w

"Youth counselors, teachers, church leaders and parents should read and discuss this book. It may not be the whole picture of youth today. But certainly here is a bold profile with hair let down—with a freedom and an individuality that are a credit to American democracy." F. D. Heron
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 15 '51 500w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Horn Bk 27:241 Jl '51 200w
Kirkus 19:44 Ja 15 '51 190w

"A well balanced job that will be useful in all libraries to serve as a guide in understanding the problems of youth for young people, parents and teachers." H. L. Roth
+ Library J 76:510 Mr 15 '51 130w
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p26 My 13 '51 230w
Wis Lib Bul 47:182 Jl '51

DANIELS, WALTER MACHRAY, comp. Defense of Western Europe. (Reference shelf) 242p $1.75 Wilson, H.W.

940.55 World politics, Europe—Defenses
51-17

Reprints of articles bearing on various phases of the problem of America's interest in the defense of Western Europe, arranged under the headings: Is the North Atlantic Treaty necessary?; The Treaty in operation; Whom shall we defend?; Military and industrial potentials; The cost of rearming; Strategy under the pact; Measures of economic defense; Words and ideas as weapons; Proposals for political union; Bibliography.

Booklist 47:189 Ja 15 '51
Current Hist 20:105 F '51 60w

"A more timely subject could not have been chosen by the editor, who had to look well ahead. . . Several scores of our best known publicists are represented and all phases of the defense of Europe are considered pro and con." L. V. Updegraff
+ N Y Times p23 Mr 18 '51 140w
School & Society 72:448 D 30 '50 20w

DARBY, ADA CLAIRE. Island girl; il. by Jane Castle. 215p $2.75 Lippincott 51-11162

Historical story for girls of ten to fourteen. The scene is North Carolina on the eve of the Revolution. Sturdy little Carolina is the heroine. Whether on the little island off the coast, where she lived with her grandmother, or in her uncle's home on shore, Carolina always seemed to have adventures. Her most exciting feat was the carrying of an important message to her patriot uncle, which saved the town from the British.

Booklist 48:107 N 15 '51

"Good period detail strengthens the setting of this story." O. D. Hormel
+ Christian Science Monitor p7 S 20 '51 50w
Kirkus 19:442 Ag 15 '51 170w

DARBY, A. C.—Continued

"This book will appeal to girls of 10-14 years and will be welcomed by librarians for its freshness of content and style. Recommended." M. V. Greene

+ Library J 76:1715 O 15 '51 80w

"The story moves slowly, and has no very exciting plot to sustain it. But there is real interest in Carolina's doings, and a pleasant thread as we wonder whether the cat she rescued from the sea will stay with her or go back to the proud Tory girl at the Governor's Palace. The severe grandma'am, the stern patriot uncle, the runaway bondboy Carolina helped, all are interesting." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 23 '51 150w

"Well-written book. . . The author, as in her earlier books, has brought knowledge and authenticity to the historical background of the tale; the fast-moving story, which girls will enjoy, gives a clear picture of those stirring times." Eugenia Garson

+ N Y Times p42 O 7 '51 110w

"Carolina is a lovable young person, and Grandma'am is an unusual character, strong and very individualistic. The historical background is sketched in lightly, but it succeeds in giving a convincing picture of the early days of the United States." M. G. Davis

+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 O 20 '51 270w

DARINGER, HELEN FERN. Country cousin; il. by Edward and Stephani Godwin. 277p $2.50 Harcourt

51-9582

A combination of mystery and romance for teen aged girls. The scene is Long Island and New York city in 1683; the heroine Susannah Endicott, who is sent to live with wealthy relatives in the city in order to learn to be a lady.

Booklist 47:260 Mr 15 '51

"The total effect is somewhat passive, for action is described as Susannah sees it and interprets it, and conversation is usually indirect rather than direct. But girls who will identify themselves with Susannah will enjoy the keenness of her observation, her quick reactions to a wide variety of friends and acquaintances, and the domestic details of everyday living." S. M. Andrews

+ — Horn Bk 27:186 My '51 120w

"Good picture of the customs of that period. Shows some of the problems of adolescence. Recommended." C. W. Field

+ Library J 76:530 Mr 15 '51 50w

"Miss Daringer's style has always had a rather sober distinction: here it oddly casts aside most direct conversation and on page after page, gives us the happenings through Susannah's eyes and thoughts. The spirited heroine finally over-rides this dry method. She is a well rounded, charming and very real girl." L. S. Bechtel

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Mr 11 '51 190w

"Straightforward, impulsive and generous, Susannah is a lovable girl, and the family life portrayed is warm and wholesome." Elizabeth Hodges

+ N Y Times p30 Ap 22 '51 120w

"Miss Daringer's delicate, effortless humor runs all through the story, and she paints in the background so well that the period, the places, and the people all come vividly to life. The one weakness seems to us to be that there is rather too much of Susanna."

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:48 Mr 17 '51 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

DARRAH, WILLIAM CULP. Powell of the Colorado. 426p il $6 Princeton univ. press

B or 92 Powell, John Wesley 51-11671

"[Biography] of the famous explorer of the Colorado river country. Major Powell was the first to explore the Colorado river by boat, starting from Green River Station on the Green River and ending at the southern terminus of the Grand Canyon (1869). Up to this date, this large area was a blank space on the map. Subsequent trips augmented the original information, until finally a complete record of every detail was recorded for government use. He was the founder of the Bureau of Ethnology and of the Geological Survey. Based primarily upon original and unpublished sources. Footnotes, bibliography and index." Library J

Booklist 48:9 S 1 '51

Christian Century 68:942 Ag 15 '51 230w

"Mr. Darrah has laid out the facts for the record and indicated the sources in a bibliography that should be most useful in such a definitive project. Much of the book is taken from original and unpublished sources. . . Here is a man. And because of this it is not the last book that will be written about John Wesley Powell. He was an American prophet, the right man at the right time when the American West came of age." R. R. Brunn

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 2 '51 550w

"A thorough, sympathetic and well-documented study." L. R. Etzkorn

+ Library J 76:1214 Ag '51 130w

"William Culp Darrah has written his biography of this great American scientist with meticulous care (the book was ten years in the writing) and with impeccable scholarship. In his eschewing of all temptations to overdramatize the many dramatic incidents the author adheres to a matter-of-fact style of prose so consistently in one key that it sometimes becomes monotonous. But this weakness, if such it be, is the only flaw in a superb job." Edwin Corle

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Ag 5 '51 850w

"This is an admirable biography, somewhat long and detailed, but constantly human and useful." Russell Lord

+ N Y Times p6 Jl 29 '51 460w

"Mr. Darrah has recounted the exploits of this gallant well, but just possibly at too great length; still, if yau want to read about a man like Powell, you probably want to read all about him."

+ New Yorker 27:134 S 15 '51 180w

"William Culp Darrah, scholar in the fields of geology and paleobotany, and student of the history of science in America, has written an admirable life of the Major. To my knowledge it is far and away the best study of Powell that has ever been put into print." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Jl 17 '51 850w

DARRELL, ROBERT DONALDSON, comp. Schirmer's guide to books on music and musicians; a practical bibliography; with an introd. and notes. 402p $6 Schirmer

016.78 Music—Bibliography 51-5558

"A non-critical, annotated bibliography. . . The basic author-subject list (dictionary order) is for available books in English. There are appendices for selected foreign and juvenile titles. Includes material to May 1951 as well as some forthcoming titles. . . Includes prices, edition and reprint information, and other pertinent information." Library J

Booklist 48:4 S 1 '51

"The Schirmer Guide should fill a long-felt need for a handy bibliography to help music students, practicing musicians, or musicologists. Music lovers who desire to deepen their appreciation of music through auxiliary reading should also find this book of great assistance." Harold Rogers

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 9 '51 180w

Reviewed by C. K. Miller

+ Library J 76:1425 S 15 '51 100w

"If Mr. Darrell had not banished the foreign-language books to the appendix, thus necessitating much skipping back and forth, I could pronounce his compendium without fault. With this one reservation let me hasten to add that the 'Guide' is well worth inclusion in any musical library. A necessary adornment, in fact." Roland Gelatt

+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 Jl 28 '51 200w

DARWIN, CHARLES ROBERT. Autobiography; with his notes and letters depicting the growth of the Origin of species; ed. by Sir Francis Darwin; and an introductory essay, The meaning of Darwin, by George Gaylord Simpson. (Life of science lib) 266p il $3.50 Schuman

B or 92 50-10428

"This condensation of Sir Francis Darwin's longer work, now out of print, consists principally of the interesting Autobiography, written for the children of the elder Darwin, and a collection of letters addressed mainly to Asa Gray, Sir Charles Lyell, and Sir Joseph Hooker. Of value is the inclusion in the volume of incidents in the daily life of the great naturalist, written by Sir Francis, and an able summary of Darwin's career by George Gaylord Simpson." Am Hist R

Reviewed by C. R. Hall
Am Hist R 56:643 Ap '51 240w

Kirkus 18:500 Ag 15 '50 190w

Reviewed by J. E. Brown
Library J 75:1503 S 15 '50 120w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Ja 21 '51 130w

"The portrait is detailed and necessarily absorbing, but it is also sentimental and obviously screened. As for the letters, most of the references made in them will remain hopelessly obscure except to a naturalist, and the nonspecialized passages serve chiefly to underscore Darwin's intense modesty and reserve." Charles Spielberger
Sat R of Lit 34:32 F 17 '51 260w

DAUGHERTY, JAMES HENRY. Of courage undaunted; across the continent with Lewis and Clark [il. by the author]. 168p $3.50 Viking

917.8 Lewis and Clark expedition—Juvenile literature 51-13518

A retelling of the whole story of the Lewis and Clark expedition for grades seven to ten.

Booklist 48:88 N 1 '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 N 11 '51 180w

Reviewed by E. C. Ince
Christian Science Monitor p14 D 6 '51 60w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 27:401 D '51 30w

+ Horn Bk 27:420 D '51 50w

"Superb pictures by the author, as energetic as the text, enrich the book." J. L. G.
+ Kirkus 19:445 Ag 15 '51 160w

"An important book, highly recommended for all libraries." M. A. Herr
+ Library J 76:2125 D 15 '51 100w

"Basing his tale on records written along the way, quoting often the journals of the leaders Mr. Daugherty has written a stirring piece of history in a way that youth from eleven or twelve on into the teens will read with absorbed interest." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 11 '51 230w

"Few books provide as clear a contrast between the present and the robust, uncertain, daring life of yesterday. The illustrations by the author are numerous, and reflect the spirit and vigor of the expedition itself." M. R. Brown
+ N Y Times p52 N 25 '51 130w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:186 D 1 '51 40w

San Francisco Chronicle p7 N 11 '51 220w

"Far and above the finest record of the Lewis and Clark expedition that has yet appeared for young people."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 N 10 '51 290w

Wis Lib Bul 47:260 N '51

DAUGHERTY, MRS SONIA V. (MEDWEDEFF). Ten brave men; makers of the American way; with drawings by James Daugherty. 152p $2.75 Lippincott

920 U.S.—Biography—Juvenile literature 51-11163

Fictionized accounts of incidents in the lives of ten men important in America's history: William Bradford; Roger Williams; Patrick Henry; Samuel Adams; Thomas Jefferson; George Washington; Benjamin Franklin; John Paul Jones; Andrew Jackson; Abraham Lincoln.

Booklist 48:129 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:61 D '51

Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 N 11 '51 150w

"This is a book that can help every young American to understand more fully the heritage they prize. And may it have a wide audience among youth of other lands who are seeking to know America." E. C. Ince
+ Christian Science Monitor p8 O 18 '51 110w

"An unusual group of character sketches of American greats, illuminated in semi-fictional incidents revolving around famous actions and decisions in our history. . . We were disappointed in the James Daugherty illustrations."
+ — Kirkus 19:581 O 1 '51 170w

"Recommended." L. E. Cathon
+ Library J 77:69 Ja 1 '52 70w

"The book is intended for readers of about twelve. It is not very well written, but its material is a forceful supplement to other histories. The lively, decorative, strongly symbolic pictures by the author's husband will also give the young food for thought." L. S. Bechtel
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 11 '51 260w

School & Society 74:207 S 29 '51 30w

Springf'd Republican p8C D 16 '51 80w

DAVENPORT, BASIL, ed. Ghostly tales to be told; a collection of stories from the great masters, arranged for reading and telling aloud. 317p $3 Dodd

Short stories—Collections 50-10165

"An anthology of stories of the supernatural which [the compiler] recommends for telling aloud. A preliminary essay based on personal experience explains how it should be done. The stories range from Algernon Blackwood's fearsome yarn of an unseen malignance haunting the primeval forest of the north to Janet Rice's sardonic fantasy of a butcher's daughter in Nazi-dominated, meatless Paris, who knows just what to do when she encounters a werewolf." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:156 D 15 '50

"Given an audience in the right state of expectation, and even an amateur rendition of any of these eerie shockers can be guaranteed to curdle the spinal fluid."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p52 D 3 '50 120w

"The real value of the book to the novice story teller lies in the preface, which gives suggestions as to judicious cutting and transposing. For the purposes of suspense this is advisable with many of the stories. There is also a knowledgeable and helpful introduction to each one." L. G. O.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p31 D 10 '50 200w

Springf'd Republican p5C S 24 '50 90w

DAVENPORT, RUSSELL WHEELER. U.S.A., the permanent revolution. See Fortune (periodical)

DAVEY, HAROLD WILLIAM. Contemporary collective bargaining. 532p $6.65; to schools $5 Prentice-Hall

331.116 Collective bargaining 51-11687

"The author [is] professor of industrial economics at Iowa State College. . . He presents opinions, both old and new, with objectivity and his own judgments with clarity. The general statement on the nature of collective bargaining is followed by more detailed examination of basic problems and procedures which are illustrated by well-known labor agreements." (Library J) Index.

DAVEY, H. W.—Continued

Booklist 48:60 O 15 '51

"While keeping economic theory to a minimum, he does not neglect it entirely for the human relations aspect of collective bargaining. The several contracts reproduced in the appendix and the bibliography at the end of each chapter will prove useful to students of the subject. For representatives of labor or management and for other practitioners in the field, there is much other useful information. Not a book for the layman." D. K. Oko
Library J 76:1935 N 15 '51 160w

DAVID, LILY MARY. Economic status of library personnel, 1949. 117p pa $2 A.L.A.
023.8 Librarians—Salaries, pensions, etc.

" 'This study of earnings and working conditions of library employees was made early in 1949 by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics in cooperation with the American Library Association.'—Introd. The libraries selected to receive questionnaires were expected to provide a balanced picture of all types of libraries and library workers, and all regions of the country; 19,000 replies received from professional and nonprofessional workers are summarized here. Appendixes give charts, tables, and sample questionnaire." Booklist

Booklist 47:198 F 1 '51

"If the library profession is to develop higher standards of salary and prestige, it should know more about itself and communicate this knowledge to the public. This report offers a guide for reference, a first step towards improvement of economic rewards which are such that the status tends to be 'a kind of shabby gentility rather than professional and financial security.' " F. L. Schick
+ Library J 76:402 Mr 1 '51 500w

DAVIDSON, CHALMERS GASTON. Friend of the people; the life of Peter Fayssoux of Charleston, South Carolina. 151p $2.75 Medical assn. of S.C, Columbia, S.C.
B or 92 Fayssoux, Peter Dott 50-9230

Biography of an American Huguenot doctor, who was well-known in South Carolina at the time of the Revolution. "When the Southern Department of the Army was organized Fayssoux became chief physician of the Charleston Hospital at a salary of $140 a month, plus two rations per day and forage for two horses. For the rest of his life (he died in 1795 at the age of fifty) he maintained an active interest in political affairs and remained in the forefront of his profession." (Sat R of Lit) Bibliography. No index.

"In this latest historical study Professor Davidson has handled a difficult study with proficiency and has made a definite contribution to our knowledge of certain aspects of the history of Revolutionary South Carolina and its society. . . The absence of an index is not too serious an error in such a brief study." C. G. Singer
+ — Am Hist R 56:679 Ap '51 400w
Am Pol Sci R 45:575 Je '51 30w

"His competent biographer, drawing heavily on manuscript sources, calls him the father of medicine in his native state, and the record justifies his claim to distinction alike in science and in public affairs."
+ Sat R of Lit 33:34 O 21 '50 140w

DAVIDSON, JAMES NORMAN. Biochemistry of the nucleic acids. 163p il $1.75 Wiley
612.0141 Nucleic acids 51-2642

"A compact introductory survey. It is designed for readers who have a fair knowledge of general chemistry and preferably some knowledge of biochemistry in addition. The author has elected to touch upon the main aspects of the subject and to be selective about the information included on each." N Y New Tech Bks

"The author has undertaken to present an elementary outline of certain features of the biochemistry of the nucleic acids with stress on the more recent biological aspects. As such the book has a definite merit. Those who anticipate a comprehensive monograph will find it lacking. To the reviewer a most serious defect is that the volume is pocket size, hence annoying to handle and chapter references which are placed at the end of the book are difficult to consult. A more extensive bibliography would have added to the general usefulness of the book." F. Allen
+ — Chem & Eng N 29:2512 Je 18 '51 180w

"This book can be recommended to anyone educated in chemistry who wants a reliable introductory outline to the nucleic acids and nuclear proteins." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:522 Mr 15 '51 50w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:19 Mr '51

DAVIDSON, JO. Between sittings; an informal autobiography. 369p pl $5 Dial press
B or 9 Artists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. Sculpture 51-14393

The autobiography of the well-known sculptor, which includes prose portraits of many of his famous sitters. Illustrated with many photographs.

Booklist 48:123 D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:80 Ja '52 40w

"Recommended."
+ Library J 77:51 Ja 1 '52 110w

Reviewed by F. H. Bullock
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 D 23 '51 600w

"There will be numerous readers of 'Between Sittings,' Jo Davidson's informal autobiography, because many will want to know how he persuaded so many famous people to pose for him and to hear his stories about them. They will not be disappointed; he describes his sitters for the most part with liveliness, sympathy and understanding of their effective force." A. B. Toklas
+ N Y Times p20 N 25 '51 700w

"Jo Davidson's life and work, as 'Between Sittings' reminds us, triumphantly affirm that character has not vanished from the world, suggesting how practice differs from theory, which may have abolished character while in fact we deal with character all day long. . . Jo Davidson is a natural story-teller who is able to recount the tale of his passage through the world, a world to which, with his high spirits and his joy of living, he took, as he took to London, 'like a duck to water.' " V. W. Brooks
+ Sat R of Lit 34:22 D 1 '51 1100w

"Jo Davidson's autobiography is just like his sculpture. Short on profundity, it glows with gusto and innocence."
+ Time 58:112 D 3 '51 800w

DAVIDSON, LEVETTE JAY. Guide to American folklore. 132p $2 Univ. of Denver press
398 Folklore, American 51-10205

"A study outline which defines briefly the types of folklore to be studied, gives basic reading lists for each type, suggestions for further study and for the collection and use of folk material." Booklist

Booklist 48:24 S 15 '51
Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 120w

DAVIDSON, MARSHALL. Life in America. 2v maps set $20 Houghton
973.3 U.S.—History—Pictorial works 51-7084

"The purpose of this truly far-reaching work is to provide a survey, pictorial and written, of America's cultural, social, and economic history from Columbus's discovery to the present." New Yorker

Atlantic 188:98 D '51 140w

Booklist 48:121 D 1 '51

"The text of this work, tho subordinated to the pictures, has not been skimped. It is very well written and it makes use of many unhackneyed sources. The way in which text and picture have been integrated is remarkable. Endless ingenuity and patience in adaptation must have been employed. I shudder to think of the labor the 'dummy' must have entailed. Among other things, this book will give you an overwhelming sense of the variety and scope of the American adventure. Don't be frightened by the price asked. 'Life in America' is one of the best buys of the year." Edward Wagenknecht

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 O 14 '51 450w

Reviewed by Dorothy Adlow

Christian Science Monitor p11 O 25 '51 460w

Cleveland Open Shelf p26 N '51

Reviewed by John Cournos

+ Commonweal 55:46 O 19 '51 240w

Reviewed by Keith Hutchison

Nation 173:550 D 22 '51 750w

"These fascinating volumes, sponsored by the Metropolitan Museum of Art and produced by a member of its staff, exemplify, on a very high level of achievement, a new kind of history which, during the past decade, has won a large popular audience. Its particular novelty consists in reversing the traditional relation between text and illustration, making the writer's function that of interpreting the pictures he has chosen to use." Lloyd Morris

+ New Repub 125:26 O 29 '51 600w

"It is not a 'picture book,' though unquestionably thousands of copies will ornament living rooms at Christmas time and looking at its pictures is a rich pleasure. It is history—historical exposition, interpretation, and comment—which uses pictures to extend and enhance historical realization." Bernard De Voto

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 O 21 '51 1600w

"We welcome these two volumes all the more gladly because they constitute an able marriage of text and pictures. They should be introduced with a strong admonition that although their thousands of judiciously chosen and admirably reproduced illustrations will inevitably receive first attention, buyers will miss the larger worth of their purchases if they do not read the quarter million words with care. The text was not written around the pictures; rather, the pictures were chosen for and fitted into the text. This is as it should be." Allan Nevins

+ N Y Times p6 O 14 '51 950w

"It is not the text but the illustrations that make up the chief value of the book, and these, selected from an immense store of sources, number over twelve hundred and range from old maps and woodcuts to modern photographs. They constitute a running commentary of a variety and richness that have rarely been achieved before."

+ New Yorker 27:149 O 20 '51 80w

"A book so large in scope and so rich in detail is all but impervious to review in the ordinary sense. Only a battery of experts . . . could do it full justice. In the field of art-history its achievement is thoroughly sound, immensely important and highly original; to the best of my knowledge its dealings with other fields are equally valid, but I suspect they are not so far-reaching in their assemblage of new material." Alfred Frankenstein

San Francisco Chronicle p9 O 21 '51 850w

"Mr. Davidson reveals the hand of the master rather than the imitator. As a former associate curator of the American Wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and its present editor of publications, he has become expert in his understanding of our social history. But his gifts as editor and writer are not limited to mere knowledge of our arts and our artifacts. Throughout his two volumes there runs the current of a strong faith in our democratic ways and a high hope that, in the hard struggle which we now face, we shall never put away from us 'the habit of the free.' Such faith and hope make this pictorial pageant significant and exciting." J. A. Krout

+ Sat R of Lit 34:20 N 3 '51 900w

Time 58:124 N 12 '51 360w

DAVIES, ARTHUR POWELL. Man's vast future; a definition of democracy. 58p $1.50 Farrar, Straus

321.8 Democracy 51-11728

"Dr. Davies sees democracy as a positive and uplifting faith in contrast to the negative and debasing communistic beliefs. He argues that many people turn to communism, not because the democratic way of life is decadent, but because it is difficult, and that if we adhere to the tenets of democracy we have little to fear. Finally he shows that the threat of extinction which the Kremlin holds over the United States and other democracies can only be met by the continued extension of democratic principles." (Library J) The author is the clergyman of All Souls Unitarian Church in Washington, D. C.

"The rector of All Souls' Church in Washington has packed a good deal of substance for thought into these brief pages."

+ Kirkus 19:312 Je 15 '51 180w

"The thirty minutes required to read this encouraging and clear statement of what is meant by democracy, is time well spent." J. E. Brown

+ Library J 76:1335 S 1 '51 130w

New Repub 125:20 N 12 '51 110w

"This little book says more in a brief compass than a great many fat tomes on the subject of democracy and communism." Marquis Childs

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p32 D 2 '51 270w

Reviewed by Charles Spielberger

N Y Times p9 D 16 '51 290w

DAVIES, RHYS. Boy with a trumpet, and other selected short stories; with an introd. by Bucklin Moon. 304p $3 Doubleday 51-1161

"Rhys Davies is a Welshman. In this group of twenty short stories, selected from seventy-odd which he has written, he mines his boyhood and background thoroughly with skill and success. It is obvious that many of the tales represent a fictional treatment of actual incidents; there is the terror of small-town reality in them and there is the brutality of people obsessed with the knowledge that even as they keep an eye on all who are in the neighborhood, all who are in the neighborhood keep an eye on them." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:253 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by J. F. Nims

Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ap 8 '51 360w

Kirkus 18:735 D 15 '50 160w

Reviewed by Paul Bloomfield

Manchester Guardian p4 N 11 '49 120w

Reviewed by Kate Simon

New Repub 124:29 Je 25 '51 550w

Reviewed by Angus Wilson

New Statesman & Nation 38:656 D 3 '49 270w

"Plot, as the professional storyteller knows it, does not exist for Mr. Davies; he exposes raw material, examines it and leaves it; he does not even offer a use, morally or sentimentally, for what he exhibits. His writing, therefore, is almost reportorial, except that by cunning selection and delicate emphasis it enters the field of art." Thomas Sugrue

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Mr 11 '51 550w

"Much of the best work of a regional writer of skill, warmth and wit, and no sentimentality at all." John Brooks

+ N Y Times p4 F 25 '51 550w

DAVIES, RHYS—Continued
"Mr. Davies' admirable regard for his fellow human beings occasionally betrays him into sentimentality, but the best of the stories are wonderfully good, mixing laughter, compassion, and the weakness of the flesh with a likely touch of countryman's malice."
+ New Yorker 27:111 Mr 3 '51 80w

"The satirical humour that edges its healthy way into many a situation is by no means at odds with a poetic wraith in the middle distance. No derivations need be sought for Mr. Davies's work; it gives the effect of self-generation on a virile scale." Sylva Norman
+ — Spec 184:56 Ja 13 '50 300w

"Mr. Davies is convincing and amusing when he writes of Wales and the Welsh; though a word of warning should perhaps be given on the subject of 'regional' writing. . . We do not suggest that Mr. Davies oversteps a reasonable limit required by such themes—and many of his stories are of quite a different sort—but the danger is there. It would be a great pity if his manner became stylized."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p729 N 11 '49 300w

DAVIES, SHEILA. Young marchesa; a story of Malta; il. by Victor J. Bertoglio. 278p $2.75 Dodd

51-13650

A novel for older girls about the 1798 uprising on the island of Malta. The heroine is young Francesca de Reda who returned to claim her ancestral estate on the island after the death of her father.

Booklist 48:173 Ja 15 '52

Reviewed by R. W. De Angelo
+ Library J 76:1650 O 15 '51 50w

Reviewed by B. W. Schein
+ Library J 76:2016 D 1 '51 80w

"The author is daughter of an English army officer who lived on Malta during its worst siege years. Her enchantment with the island took her back to the days when it was invaded by the French. The story is full of exciting action, with an interesting background of island ways in that era. It is very well written, with a heroine both vivacious and thoughtful. It may not be important history, even from the English angle, but it is a rarely good, long romance for older girls." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p34 N 11 '51 150w

"The story gives a fascinating glimpse of a little-known chapter in European history. Its author knows Malta well and her descriptions make both place and period come vividly alive. Francesca is a very real and charming heroine and girls will be delighted at the prospective romance which brings her adventures to a happy conclusion." Eugenia Garson
+ N Y Times p10 N 11 '51 150w

DAVIS, ADELLE. Let's have healthy children. 314p il $3 Harcourt

618.2 Pregnancy. Nutrition. Infants—Care and hygiene 51-12151

The author, a nutritionist, offers advice to mothers for their own diet before, during, and after pregnancy, and for the diet of infants and young children.

"A faddist to fanatic emphasis, and one questions whether you can lead your youngster to yeast and yogurt."
Kirkus 19:418 Ag 1 '51 120w

"Interesting, informative, sometimes provocative material." Dorothy Barclay
+ N Y Times p17 Ag 26 '51 270w

San Francisco Chronicle p20 O 14 '51 110w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter
Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 250w

DAVIS, BEN ARTHUR. Holland's handbook for southern gardeners, South and Southwest. 240p il $3 Farrar, Straus

635.9 Gardening 51-3208

Guide for amateur gardeners of Florida, Alabama, Texas, Oklahoma, and other southern states. Lists plants best suited for acid or alkaline soils, perennials for shady and sunny locations, and gives a month by month review of gardening tasks. Index.

Booklist 47:340 Je 1 '51

"The garden editor of Holland's Magazine here supplies an important need in a practical handbook for the amateur southern gardener with small space available. . . The calendar is an important guide. And the glossary of Latin terms will prove very helpful."
+ Kirkus 19:148 Mr 1 '51 160w

"A concise and practical guide." J. E. Brown
+ Library J 76:595 Ap 1 '51 110w

"Many gardeners in the central and lower South will welcome the appearance of this straight-forward down-to-earth manual of what to do and how to do it, written by a man who knows his region from long personal experience." R. S. Lemmon
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 My 27 '51 150w

DAVIS, BURKE. The ragged ones. 336p $3.50 Rinehart

51-3028

Historical novel based on the Revolution, especially the southern campagn of 1781, when General Morgan and General Nathanael Greene and their ragged troops were harrying the British under Cornwallis.

Booklist 47:301; 329 My 1 '51; My 15 '51

Bookmark 10:207 Je '51 20w

"Mr. Burke is particularly gifted in transforming major historical figures into human beings. . . On only one score would I quarrel with Mr. Davis: the romantic interest. He has paired young Blount with an unconvincing camp follower named Anna and their affair is as unimportant as it is wearisome." V. P. Hass
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 27 '51 400w

Kirkus 19:138 Mr 1 '51 140w

"Mr Davis tells the tale brilliantly, wholly avoiding the usual pitfall of the historical novel, cluttering detail. The story goes forward swiftly and surely, giving a clear picture of the march of events, of the remarkable and strikingly different leaders of the two little armies—hardly more than guerilla bands—and the men who followed them, and of warfare itself. It is a book you are likely to read at a sitting even if, like this reviewer, you ordinarily shun descriptions and maps of battles and campaigns." Mary Ross
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 My 20 '51 480w

"Mr. Davis' narrative is well written and soundly researched—but is very far from being a kind of 'Naked and the Dead' of the American Revolution, as the jacket implies. Somehow all the male characters have a remote, impersonal quality—and the lone female is an incredible girl who looks like Hemingway's Maria." Richard Match
N Y Times p18 My 13 '51 330w

"There is a good deal of that curious stopwatch lovemaking peculiar to historical novels, which takes the breath out of the heroine and the heart and soul out of the hero, without ever really getting beyond a romp, a shriek, and an imprecation."
New Yorker 27:125 My 12 '51 60w

Reviewed by M. L. Mueller
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 120w

"Hardly a writer of war novels in our generation has been able to escape the influence of Ernest Hemingway. Burke Davis proves no exception. Quite obviously fashioning his heroine after the accommodating Catherine of

'A Farewell to Arms,' with a further bow to the venerable custom of bundling, so congenial to our twentieth-century conception of the sex life of the Revolutionary fathers and mothers, the author gives us a little hellion named Anna. . . Davis manages to keep his narrative of military events at a high level of excitement and at the same time to create some vital portraits of those who fought in Greene's tattered and starving army." R. B. Morris
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:15 My 12 '51 440w

DAVIS, CLYDE BRION. North woods whammy. 219p $2.50 Lippincott
51-9795

Two greenhorns from the States, father and son, go off into the Canadian wilderness to fish with an Ojibway Indian as guide. When Pete Fox becomes ill a vacation trip seems to be heading for a tragic ending, but the father's good sense and understanding of another man's nature works a cure and the trio make their way back to civilization.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51
Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51

"Good atmosphere as well as character development." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:249 Jl '51 150w

"Well-intentioned, kindly humor with a wonderful wilderness setting."
+ Kirkus 19:128 Mr 1 '51 100w

"Boys may consider the father's counter-whammy worked on the Indian guide a feeble climax, but fishing and camping enthusiasts will appreciate the realistic details of the Canadian wilderness. Good father-son relationship and respect for the Indian guide." Eleanor Kidder
Library J 76:715 Ap 15 '51 100w

"This is a well written story, full of woods lore, Indian ways, good fishing, exciting incidents and human relations well handled. Boys from eleven to fourteen will find it an honest introduction to wilderness camping with all its hazards and discomforts as well as its thrills." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 29 '51 260w

"This is a grand adventure story full of action that will delight campers, fishermen and woods-wise sportsmen." H. B. Lent
+ N Y Times p22 Mr 25 '51 190w

"This story will appeal to any boy or to any adult who loves fishing and an outdoor life. The characterization is excellent, the conversation convincing. There is considerable suspense and a sympathetic insight into Indian character." M. P. Allen
+ Sat R of Lit 34:53 My 12 '51 140w

DAVIS, DOROTHY SALISBURY. Gentle murderer. 187p $2.50 Scribner
50-11035

Detective story.

Booklist 47:255 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:86 Ja '51
Kirkus 18:709 D 1 '50 70w

"This is the subtly ironic story of a man's destructive quest for absolute beauty and goodness, told with compassion and skill." M. H. Oakes
+ N Y Times p29 Mr 4 '51 180w

"Mrs. Davis not only has written one of the most exciting suspense novels to come along in some time but has shown herself to be capable of really serious and even distinguished fiction."
+ New Yorker 26:87 Ja 13 '51 130w

"This book is not only an excellent suspense item, it's a fine and convincing novel." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 21 '51 80w

"Masterly."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:34 Ja 20 '51 60w

DAVIS, FREDERICK CLYDE. Lilies in her garden grew. 223p $2.50 Doubleday 51-9954

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:38 Ja 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by Ralph Partridge
New Statesman & Nation 42:504 N 3 '51 90w

"A credulity stretcher, but colorful and readable."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 6 '51 140w

"While not as original as 'The Deadly Miss Ashley,' this mystery is still gay enough—and good enough—to keep one reading (and chuckling) to the finale." Nancie Matthews
+ N Y Times p31 Ap 29 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 15 '51 70w

"Rather senseless nightmares."
— Sat R of Lit 34:31 Je 2 '51 50w

Reviewed by Esther Howard
Spec 187:310 S 7 '51 50w

"The dialogue is bright and the story easy to read."
Times [London] Lit Sup p625 O 5 '51 200w

DAVIS, HAROLD EUGENE. Social science trends in Latin America; issued in cooperation with the Inter-American bibliographical and library association. 136p pa $2.50 Am. univ. press
300 Social sciences 50-13154

"The chief purpose of this survey is to assess general trends in the remarkable cultural development reflected in the notable broadening in scope and quickening of spirit of the social sciences in Latin America. Conclusions are presented in two brief introductory chapters; each of the social sciences is then reviewed in turn, with a statement of particular conclusions for each discipline, followed by a summary of trends in selected countries." U S Quarterly Bkl

"Within the limitations of space he had to contend with, the author has rendered a useful service to students of Latin America in nearly all the social sciences. It is to be hoped that Mr. Davis' pioneering introduction will provide the impetus for a detailed analysis of the social sciences in Latin America." William Ebenstein
+ Am Hist R 56:692 Ap '51 370w
Foreign Affairs 29:334 Ja '51 20w
School & Society 74:319 N 17 '51 20w

"Bibliographers and librarians, as well as social scientists, will find the survey valuable both for specific reference and for general information."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:444 D '50 120w

DAVIS, JULIA (MRS PAUL WEST). Cloud on the land. 404p $3.50 Rinehart
51-12036

Historical novel of the period following the war of 1812. The hero is a Virginia plantation owner who on a trip to the West meets and marries an unworldly girl who does not believe in slavery. After nine years they return to Virginia where Lucy has to face the problem of owning slaves.

Bookmark 11:34 N '51 30w

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 9 '51 550w

"Good adventure, and lots of it, for period, picaresque entertainment."
+ Kirkus 19:331 Jl 1 '51 130w

"Where borrowers are interested in historical romance, may be recommended for pay collection." H. L. Roth
Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 80w

"Miss Davis tells her story with high effectiveness. She seems intimately at home in the history of the period, and projects a vivid sense of its color and movement." Coleman Rosenberger

DAVIS, JULIA—Continued
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 S 16 '51 600w

"For those who have read nothing about Indians and frontier life, the first part will have some interest; for those who like a developed story, the latter part has some touching passages. And, while it must be admitted that portions of 'Cloud on the Land' are contrived for specific effects, its over-all impact is superior to that of the average historical novel." H. C.
+ — N Y Times p37 O 14 '51 320w

"It is a little disappointing that the author's fine sense of place does not create as convincingly here as it is capable of doing. . . The characters are types. We do not quite believe in their passions or understand what motivates them. And none of this may be the novelist's fault. There is no rule of her craft that she has broken, she knows the period, she has worked out her story with thought and care, she has made no obvious errors one can put the finger on. Many readers will enjoy her book. It does everything but live. And this quality of life is something we who write historical novels cannot consciously give to our work. We can only pray that it will be there." Shirley Barker
Sat R of Lit 34:51 S 8 '51 360w

DAVIS, KINGSLEY, ed. Population of India and Pakistan [under the editorial sponsorship of Office of population research, Princeton university]. 263p maps $7.50 Princeton univ. press

312 India—Population. Pakistan—Population 51-415

"A comprehensive study of the population of India and Pakistan as well as a careful interpretation of the social and economic structure. Trends in the birth and death rates, migration, urbanization, education, literacy and occupation have been studied. There are excellent charts, graphs, maps and diagrams to illustrate the text." Current Hist

Reviewed by George Rosen
Am Econ R 41:747 S '51 750w

Reviewed by S. C. Seal
Am J Pub Health 41:1304 O '51 500w

Am Pol Sci R 45:585 Je '51 40w

"There is much sociological analysis incidental to the demography which is a valid contribution in itself to an almost untouched field. The cogent chapter on the necessity and difficulties of a population policy may be contrasted with the almost studied inattention to the problem in many official circles in India and Pakistan. The appendixes on the techniques for estimating life tables and fitting logistic curves with the type of data found in non-Western countries are extremely useful." R. D. Lambert
+ Ann Am Acad 276:173 Jl '51 500w

Current Hist 20:230 Ap '51 50w

Foreign Affairs 30:167 O '51 10w

"This excellent volume, the fruit of eight years' work largely at Princeton's Office of Population Research, is indispensable for those concerned with the past and future of this densely populated subcontinent. It can be strongly recommended also to all who seek ways to raise levels of living in areas where the masses of people are extremely poor." J. S. Davis
+ J Pol Econ 59:367 Ag '51 700w

Reviewed by W. N. Brown
N Y Times p12 S 16 '51 400w

Reviewed by R. B. Vance
Social Forces 30:238 D '51 500w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:186 Je '51 220w

DAVIS, MRS LAVINIA (RIKER). Reference to death; pub. for the Crime club. 221p $2.50 Doubleday

50-11183

Detective story.

Booklist 47:258 Mr 15 '51

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51

Kirkus 18:665 N 1 '50 70w

"A sensitively written mystery, in which however, the motivating factor for crime seems hardly sufficient."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ja 21 '51 160w

Reviewed by Hillis Mills
N Y Times p16 F 4 '51 80w

"The problem of who's bad and who's good is handled with unusual skill, with some nice character development through the story; there are bits of useful learning about the hatter's trade, painlessly presented, and the print is excellent." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p11 Ja 14 '51 90w

"Nice job."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:34 Ja 20 '51 50w

DAVIS, MARTHA W. (WIRT VAN ARSDALE, pseud). The professor knits a shroud. 217p $2.50 Doubleday

51-9945

Detective story.

Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

Kirkus 19:38 Ja 15 '51 60w

"A literate mystery, peopled by some moderately convincing characters."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 6 '51 140w

N Y Times p31 Ap 29 '51 110w

"This one's nicely plotted and modestly written, sounds like a promising first try." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 15 '51 60w

"Intelligent, original." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 Je 9 '51 50w

DAVIS, NORMAN. Picken's exciting summer; il. by Winslade. 46p $2 Oxford

51-9583

Picken is a real boy, the son of a Gambian chief in the African jungle. In this book "Picken and his monkey Benjie watch the fishing with bow and arrow, see a fight with a shark, share the tribal celebration of the full moon, try to kill a leopard, go to a 'big palaver,' and finally must flee from the great fire." (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R)

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

"A fresh and lively story with nothing hackneyed about it." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:181 My '51 100w

"Writing is heavy, type and page makeup are not appealing to the age for which text might have interest. Fragile format (boards). Limited purchase." V. K. Fitch
Library J 76:604 Ap 1 '51 80w

"A well written tale for readers of about nine or ten." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 1 '51 180w

Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

DAVIS, WILLIAM COLUMBUS. Last conquistadores; the Spanish intervention in Peru and Chile, 1863-1866. 386p $5 Univ. of Ga. press

983 Peru—History. Chile—History. Spain—History 50-11390

"Two European interventions in the Western Hemisphere during the American Civil War have received considerable attention. There was a third challenge to the Monroe Doctrine, the seizure of the Chincha Islands by Spain in 1864, which launched a long controversy between that nation and Peru, provoked a war with Chile, and led in turn to a quadruple alliance of Chile, Peru, Bolivia, and Ecuador to resist Spanish encroachment. William C. Davis has told this neglected story and simultaneously shed welcome light on the behavior and thought patterns of Latin-American governments and peoples." Am Hist R

"In this pleasing and well-written volume Mr. Davis has thoroughly explored a neglected incident in Latin-American history. He has also demonstrated the excessive concern irresponsible governments can devote to 'honor' and 'reputation' without inquiry into antecedents. A full bibliography and copious footnotes are included in a text singularly free of typographical errors. This is a book that the specialist may read with profit and for its color and interest should attract the general reader." W. D. Beatty

+ Am Hist R 56:626 Ap '51 600w

Reviewed by Leon Harpole

Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 Ja 7 '51 70w

Reviewed by J. T. Winterich

Sat R of Lit 34:49 D 8 '51 160w

"The author is, perhaps, overcautious in his refusal to make interpretations and to draw conclusions from the evidence. Nevertheless, the carefully assembled facts and the thorough documentation provided will enable specialists in Latin American history to make their own generalizations."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:163 Je '51 280w

DAVY, MARIE MAGDELEINE. Mysticism of Simone Weil; tr. by Cynthia Rowland. 84p $1.75 Beacon press

149.3 Weil, Simone [51-5041]

"In this short essay Marie-Magdeleine Davy deals with the personality and religious consciousness of the French mystic who, as she points out, achieved 'at a very early age an absolute inward honesty that few philosophers, theologians or mystics have succeeded in attaining.' " N Y Times

"The author shows successfully that one cannot apply a label to the thoughts of Simone Weil. At the same time, she overemphasizes Simone Weil's relationship to the great mystical tradition; for Simone Weil's Christian existentialism is most apparent in her complete fidelity to the spirit of the Gospels." M. F. Sulzbach

+ — N Y Times p34 N 25 '51 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p360 Je 8 '51 800w

DAWES, CHARLES GATES. Journal of the McKinley years; ed. and with a foreword by Bascomb N. Timmons. 458p $3 Towers, inc.

B or 92 U.S.—Politics and government. McKinley, William

"A book that illuminates natural history, politics, business and social life in Washington, Chicago, and New York from 1893 to 1913. . . It is the diary in which the future Vice President set down almost daily his activities with the great and near-great of the republic and his reflections thereon." Chicago Sunday Tribune

"This book obviously will be of chief interest to scholars. It is most unfortunate, as a result, that the editor, newspaperman Bascom N. Timmons, failed to indicate by ellipses those parts of the Journal material that he deleted. Furthermore, the editor failed to supply explanatory material for obscure events and even more obscure individuals. If properly edited, the Journal would have been far more valuable. All the editor seems to have done is to cut the Journal to publishable size and write a foreword. The title page to be strictly accurate should read: 'Selected, and with a Foreword, by Bascom N. Timmons.' " Walter Johnson

Am Hist R 56:598 Ap '51 600w

Am Pol Sci R 45:240 Mr '51 40w

"This is a dull book with occasional passages which make it worth examining." K. W. Hechler

Ann Am Acad 274:224 Mr '51 750w

Booklist 47:250 Mr 15 '50

Reviewed by A. S. Henning

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 19 '50 950w

Reviewed by N. G. Goodman

N Y Times p14 N 19 '50 450w

"As the raw material of history, a good part of the book is valuable—especially the chapter dealing with the Presidential campaign of 1896; . . the passages about the murder of McKinley; and those chapters concerning McKinley's administration and the character and abilities of the man himself, in which General Dawes is somewhat at variance with the consensus of scholarly opinion on McKinley's worth. For the rest, the book can be of only professional interest."

+ New Yorker 26:191 N 18 '50 200w

"Actually, this is not so much a book for the general reader . . . but a book for the historian interested in that period who is willing to dig out the pertinent facts of foreign and domestic policy and reinterpret from the Dawes record. For such historians the value of these notes lies in the fact that they are not the recollections of an old man but notes made at the time by a young one who was close to both Government and business. For the ordinary reader the volume is frankly hard slogging, and it will not attract many." J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p12 D 16 '50 400w

"The journal itself is just what it should be: an intimate personal account, concerned almost exclusively with straight reporting and not with speculation or prophecy. It makes interesting reading, particularly for those who have memories of their own of this same period." J. T. W.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 Mr 24 '51 230w

"Dawes' close contact with Republican financing in the campaigns of 1896, 1900, and 1904 lends authority to his statements on the matter. Unfortunately, the editing has not been carefully done. There are a number of lapses which a painstaking blue pencil should have corrected. Furthermore, the index is not complete."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:126 Je '51 170w

DAY, ARTHUR GROVE, ed. The sky clears; poetry of the American Indians. 204p $3 Macmillan

897 Indians of North America—Poetry 51-347

Some 200 examples of American Indian songs and chants have been assembled by the editor. The translations have been studied as contributions to American literature. The introductory material to the poems provides a review of the form and content of this poetry. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:291 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Anne Marriott

Canadian Forum 31:93 Jl '51 270w

"As a result of [the editor's] careful selection and obviously extensive reading, this is probably the finest book of its kind." Paul Engle

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Mr 18 '51 400w

"A fascinating insight into the culture of the first Americans. Scholar market."

+ Kirkus 18:717 D 1 '50 130w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald

Library J 76:518 Mr 15 '51 80w

"An interesting, thoroughgoing, and informative volume."

+ Nation 172:161 F 17 '51 140w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 Ap 1 '51 300w

Springf'd Republican p8D Mr 11 '51 120w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:183 Je '51 250w

Wis Lib Bul 47:188 Jl '51

DAY, DONALD, and DAY, MRS BETH FEAGLES. Will Rogers, the boy roper; il. by William Moyers. 201p $2.25 Houghton

B or 92 Rogers, Will—Juvenile literature 50-10083

"Authorized by the Rogers family, this is a simply written story of the exciting adven-

DAY, DONALD—Continued
tures and amusing escapades of the cowboy who became America's best-loved comedian." Publisher's note

Booklist 47:224 F 15 '51

"Unfortunately, the boys and girls of 7 to 12 for whom this book is written cannot claim Will Rogers in their memories. Their parents will be glad, therefore, that they can obtain this simple, heartwarming biografy that reads almost like fiction." F. D. H.
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 N 12 '50 140w

"Recommended as a book to save face for the individual or for groups needing remedial reading. However, since it lacks distinction, it should not be substituted for the much superior biography by Shannon Garst, Will Rogers, Immortal Cowboy." F. W. Butler
Library J 75:2083 D 1 '50 80w

"With large type and fine pictures by William Moyers, it is attractive for ages ten to twelve." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ja 21 '51 60w

DAY, ENID. Adventures of a nurse's aide; foreword by Bob Hope; introd. by E. Roland Harriman [il. by E. Warren]. 116p $2.50 Womans press

610.73 Nurses and nursing 51-12224

A radio personality relates some of her experiences working as a Volunteer Nurse's Aide. Written lightly, but with underlying seriousness.

Booklist 48:44 O 1 '51
Bookmark 11:30 N '51 30w

DEAN, AGNES LOUISE. Good luck, Mary Ann! il. by Katharine R. Wireman. 160p $2 Abingdon-Cokesbury

51-12140

Mary Ann Clintock is left by her father and mother to spend a "trial week" with Aunt Sophia Ames in her cottage on Cape Cod. If at the end of the week Mary Ann and Aunt Sophia find they are suited to each other, the plan is for Mary Ann to spend the summer there while father and mother go traveling. This story relates the adventures and day-by-day doings of that trial week.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

"The lovely place, the long days on the Cape will be as much fun for the reader as they are to Mary Ann."
+ Kirkus 19:434 Ag 15 '51 130w

"Recommended." Virginia Russell
+ Library J 76:1433 S 15 '51 50w

"There are only small adventures in this story of that trial week. There isn't much suspense—not even when Mary Ann breaks an heirloom cup. Still, this book should please little girls. Its flavor is genuine. So is Mary Ann's feeling for the newly discovered pleasures of everyday living." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p18 Ag 26 '51 100w

DEAN, AMBER. August incident. 182p $2.50 Doubleday

51-5561

Detective story.

"Ingenious trick for a kidnapping lifts it out of the rut, but the exploration of the mystery leaves a good deal to be desired."
Kirkus 19:281 Je 1 '51 90w

"A rather empty plot lacking in any essential suspense."
— N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ag 26 '51 80w

"A great deal longer than its plot justifies. . . [It] is somehow stretched out to book-length, with irrelevant side-issues and a great deal of dialogue unlike anything heard by human ears." Anthony Boucher
— N Y Times p20 Ag 26 '51 40w

"A few FBI and Treasury men are in this and it certainly brisks along at an admirable pace to the inevitable but satisfactory end." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 19 '51 50w

Reviewed by Kathleen Sproul
Sat R of Lit 34:52 S 8 '51 60w

DEAN, AMBER. Ticket to Buffalo. 219p $2.50 Doubleday

51-9250

Mystery story.

"Unique atmosphere and circumstances for mildly interesting puzzle." Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Mr 4 '51 70w

Kirkus 18:685 N 15 '50 70w

"Enough suspense to carry the reader along, but its effectiveness is dependent on some rather artificially stepped-up emotions."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 F 25 '51 170w

"A mediocre plot is rescued from dullness by realistic atmosphere and convincing terror." M. H. Oakes
+ — N Y Times p18 Mr 25 '51 110w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 11 '51 110w

Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 10 '51 50w

DEAN, JOEL. Managerial economics. 621p $6.65; to schools $5 Prentice-Hall

658 Economics. Industrial management 51-2414

"Purpose is to show that economic analysis can be used as a practical contribution to the determination of top-management policies in the large industrial firm. Contents: 'Profits'; 'Competition'; 'Cost'; 'Advertising'; 'Basic Price'; 'Product-Line Pricing'; 'Price Differentials'; 'Capital Budgeting.' In each is provided a background of concepts and methods for attacking the practical problems, bringing economic theory and analysis to bear on high-level planning and decision-making. Much illustrative use is made of analyses and articles from government and other sources." Library J

"Although the text material is of a technical nature, it is so well organized by subject and sub-topic breakdown that reading and understanding are greatly facilitated. . . Business executives such as controllers, sales managers, treasurers, and advertising managers, as well as economists, will find many stimulating ideas and economic analysis techniques presented by the author." J. F. Mee
+ Ann Am Acad 278:210 N '51 600w

Booklist 47:304 My 1 '51

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:869 My 15 '51 70w

DEAN, LILLIAN. This is our land; il. by Frank Adams. 221p $3 Vantage Press, Inc, 230 W 41st St, N.Y. 18

917.3 U.S.—Description and travel 51-1

Personal narrative of the automobile trip taken by the author and her husband, from Long Beach, California to Washington, D.C. and back.

"This is neither guidebook nor literary affair; it is the kind of thing Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Doakes would set down if one of them had the patience for that much writing after any one of a million auto-tours Americans make every year." J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p10 F 24 '51 390w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p30A D 17 '50 130w

DEAN, ROBERT GEORGE. Body was quite cold; a new Tony Hunter story. 224p $2.50 Dutton 51-3178

Detective story.

Booklist 47:382 Jl 1 '51

"A thin cast of characters previews the unveiling at the half way mark."
Kirkus 19:140 Mr 1 '51 70w

N Y Times p12 Je 24 '51 100w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p21 My 20 '51 60w

DEAN, ROBERT GEORGE. Case of Joshua Locke; a new Tony Hunter story. 218p $2.50 Dutton 51-12812

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p22 O 21 '51 40w

Kirkus 19:413 Ag 1 '51 50w

"The materials and mechanics are not unfamiliar but the assembly is new and the handling fresh and unobtrusively artful." James Sandoe
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 O 14 '51 120w

"Just plain dull." Anthony Boucher
— N Y Times p22 O 7 '51 20w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 O 14 '51 80w

"Straightforward, competent job. Good." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 O 20 '51 20w

DE ARMOND, FREDERICK FRANCIS. Selling sense for the route salesman. 135p $3.50 Lloyd R. Wolfe & associates, 135 S. La Salle st, Chicago 3

658.8 Salesmanship

"In this compact guide the author encourages you to be a successful route salesman by telling you how to canvass for new customers and to meet competition. Although this is for salesmen to retail and wholesale distributors it contains principles used in door-to-door selling." Chicago Sunday Tribune

Booklist 47:358 Je 15 '51

Reviewed by Winifred Baum
Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 S 23 '51 30w

DEASY, MARY. Ella Gunning. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 336p $3 Little 50-10020

A marriage-versus-a-career novel. Ella Gunning was determined to become a singer, although she had to struggle for everything she got. At twenty when she was only starting her career she lost her voice, and only then decided to marry the much older composer who was in love with her.

"A book of more than usual merit and compulsion by an accomplished writer." W. K. R.
+ Christian Science Monitor p6 D 16 '50 180w

Kirkus 18:435 Ag 1 '50 80w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p46 D 3 '50 280w

"The scenes at the music institute and those with the musicians who are [Ella's] friends are full of color and authentic touches; in fact, the composer Ella finally marries is a more believable person than she. The story moves along easily with its numerous stock touches. . . Against this cinematic background it is not surprising that Ella seldom rises above her aura of make-believe." Andrea Parke
— + N Y Times p37 N 26 '50 200w

"Ella's courageous ascent from office clerk to scholarship student at a Midwestern music school to church singer and lead in local operas is described with realism and sympathy. The petty jealousies and conflicts she encounters at the institute and the staff members who further her career are thoroughly believable. But somehow Ella herself does not seem to have the intelligence or temperament to be the great soprano she is purported to be, and it is equally difficult to accept Max Tallan as a composer capable of turning out a symphony played by the New York Philharmonic. They are both rather lifeless people. But perhaps this is the fault of an uninspired theme." Ray Pierre
Sat R of Lit 33:15 D 16 '50 260w

"Mrs. Deasy has endeavored to write sincerely and earnestly, but unfortunately her novel is static and somewhat ineffectual." L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p7B D 24 '50 360w

Wis Lib Bul 46:35 D '50

D'EAUBONNE, FRANCOISE. See Eaubonne, F. d.'

DE BELOT, RAYMOND. See Belot, R. de.

DE CAMP, LYON SPRAGUE. Rogue queen. 222p $2.75 Doubleday
51-11464

The time is three centuries in the future; the scene is Niond, a new world governed by egg-laying queens. To this strange land comes a space ship from Earth, bringing among other things, new ideas of love. What happened after Iroedh read A Girl of the Limberlost completes the tale.

Kirkus 19:237 My 1 '51 60w

"A really hilarious science-fiction hayride." E. F. Walbridge
Library J 76:1225 Ag '51 90w

"Mr. de Camp's new book would be welcome in any case as a successful combination of stirring action, scientific thinking and witty commentary—quite the best story he's written in many years. It's trebly welcome for its courage in breaking down the tabus of the form to treat the sexual life of a mammalian race which has settled into a beelike culture." H. H. Holmes
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 S 16 '51 180w

"A completely new science-fiction plot." A. B.
+ N Y Times p13 Jl 29 '51 100w

"Mr. de Camp often permits his fantasy to get out of hand, and 'Rogue Queen' is too bizarre to satisfy those science fiction fans who want their adventures ungarnished with eroticism, no matter how humorously presented. Other SF addicts, probably the majority, like a good yarn and don't mind a little humor. They will find Mr. de Camp's latest flight of fancy a very ingenious concoction and a great deal of fun." R. F. H.
Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 230w

DECKER, DUANE WALTER. Fast man on a pivot. 221p $2.50 Morrow
51-1377

"Another story about the famous Blue Socks. This one concerns Bud Walker who is trying to take over second base. Because he is not a flashy player, he is almost sent back to the minors, but then Bud, the team, and the manager find that a fast man on the pivot is just what the Blue Socks need." Library J

Booklist 47:258 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 27 '51 20w

Kirkus 19:66 F 1 '51 120w

DECKER, D. W.—Continued

"Excellent baseball. Recommended for all young people's collections and children's rooms." M. D. Read

+ Library J 76:606 Ap 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 My 6 '51 90w

Reviewed by R. A. Brown

N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '50 40w

Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 70w

Wis Lib Bul 47:154 Je '51

DECKER, MARY (BELL) SLOAN (MRS C. R. DECKER). World we saw with Town Hall [introd. by Eleanor Roosevelt; foreword by George V. Denny]. 281p $3 Smith, Richard R.

910.4 Voyages and travels 50-9946

In 1949 the members of the Town Hall seminar made a trip round the world via plane. One of the participants, the author of this book, kept a diary thruout the entire trip. This is her diary, describing each place visited, the atmosphere of the place, the people visited, etc.

Booklist 47:93 N 1 '50

Kirkus 18:450 Ag 1 '50 180w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter

+ Springf'd Republican p10C D 10 '50 480w

DECONDE, ALEXANDER. Herbert Hoover's Latin-American policy. 154p $3 Stanford univ. press

327.73 Hoover, Herbert Clark. U.S.—Foreign policy—Latin America 51-9668

"With the publication of the Foreign Relations volumes and with access to the Hoover papers, Dr. DeConde has been able to present President Hoover's policy toward Latin America in its proper environment. Beginning with the good-will mission before inauguration, President Hoover's efforts to maintain peace and good will in the Americas are effectively portrayed. . . Herbert Hoover himself expressed the fundamental principle of his policy when he declared that one of his greatest satisfactions as President was the opportunity which it gave him to show his sympathy and interest in the well-being of our sister republics." Foreword

---

Reviewed by F. H. Harrington

Am Hist R 56:991 Jl '51 410w

Am Pol Sci R 45:595 Je '51 30w

"This volume provides a straightforward, readable, and complete survey of the Latin-American policies of the Hoover administration, which scholars, in their preoccupation with other problems of the period, have tended to overlook. In view of the extent of the study, the narrative inevitably had to be general but the footnote references and impressive bibliography reveal the author's mastery of the literature of his subject." J. J. Talman

+ Canadian Hist R 32:171 Je '51 220w

"Mr. DeConde's book is valuable. In manner it is a bit too compact and scholarly for easy reading; the condensed accounts which are supplied for such intricate affairs as the Cuban revolt against President Machado are likely to baffle those not familiar with more extended versions. But the substance, the very real change in the policy of the United States which was initiated by President Hoover, is stated clearly enough." Harry Baehr

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Mr 11 '51 600w

Reviewed by S. F. Bemis

N Y Times p20 Ap 8 '51 380w

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 25 '51 500w

"Mark this down as another book that attempts to resuscitate Herbert Hoover's reputation as a skilled and able President. Mark it down also that in its genre this is one of the best. For Professor DeConde deals here in scholarship, not partisanship. He works on the novel premise that what may bring credit to Mr. Hoover's Administration need not detract from the substantial accomplishments under Roosevelt." P. R. Levin

+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 Jl 21 '51 440w

DEE, SYLVIA, pseud. See Proffitt, J. M.

DEEGAN, MRS DOROTHY YOST. Stereotype of the single woman in American novels; a social study with implications for the education of women. 252p $3.75 King's Crown press

813.09 Spinsters. American fiction—History and criticism 51-11718

"This is a study of the single woman as she is represented in 125 carefully selected American novels, a significant project if we agree with the author that nowhere can social attitudes be more easily recognized than in fiction. Famous old maids, from Hepzibah Pyncheon to Mattie Silver are discussed, compared, and analyzed. On the whole they have been pictured as a rather ineffectual lot, not much respected by the rest of society, a presentation which is not entirely in agreement with facts, and becomes increasingly less so." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"The reviewer feels that the content of novels, movies, radio programs, etc., can be profitably analyzed only in the context of the social groups in which they are produced and consumed. An analysis in these terms would have brought the author much more important information on the problem of the single woman than was achieved purely through the analysis of novels." H. S. Becker

Am J Soc 57:407 Ja '52 550w

Booklist 48:81 N 1 '51

"A provocative book for the student of sociology and literature, if a little too technical for the general reader. Recommended for large collections." Shirley Barker

+ Library J 76:1422 S 15 '51 130w

School & Society 74:319 N 17 '51 30w

DE FORD, MIRIAM ALLEN (MRS MAYNARD SHIPLEY). Who was when? a dictionary of contemporaries. 2d ed [166p] $6 Wilson, H.W.

902 Chronology, Biographical 51-796

"The original publication of ten years ago [Book Review Digest 1940] is brought up to the end of 1949. The same arrangement of names in columns indicates by entry of birth and death date contemporaries in 11 categories, from government and law to music." Booklist

---

Booklist 47:221 F 15 '51

"Chief usefulness for high school and college students wishing to obtain a clear picture of contemporaries in any era." R. P. Tubby

Library J 76:777 My 1 '51 70w

"It should be a useful reference work for libraries as well as for individual owners who like to look up things to be sure of them." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 F 10 '51 70w

DE FRANCIS, JOHN FRANCIS. Nationalism and language reform in China. 306p $4 Princeton univ. press

495.117 Chinese language—Writing 51-119

"Chinese is written today in ideographs that have undergone no basic change in over two thousand years. . . The first systems of alphabetic writing for Chinese were devised by Christian missionaries who wished to popularize the Bible printed in easily learned Latin letters. With the spread of western influence in China, proposals for alphabetization were put forward by Chinese reformers, educators, and propagandists of many political colorations. The present volume is a discussion of the history and theory of these proposals, and of the relationship between language reform and Chinese nationalism." Christian Science Monitor

---

"This book is a discussion of a linguistic and historical problem by a man who is prejudiced in his political science and ignorant of history, especially of the history of Chinese literature. So biased and ignorant is he that he actually seriously believes that the language reform movement has been 'tied in closely' with the nationalist movement in China." Hu Shih

— Am Hist R 56:897 Jl '51 1350w

"The linguistic part of the author's book is unsound in many points. . . Mr. De Francis' book contains some interesting material—especially on the language efforts of the early missionaries—but it has a political rather than an academic value." Franz Michael

Am Pol Sci R 45:890 S '51 800w

"This study, which is of the utmost thoroughness, historically and linguistically, will reward a careful reading by professional or amateur Sinologists and by any who are interested in the social and language problems of the Far East." W. E. G.

+ Christian Century 68:177 F 7 '51 550w

"The most valuable parts of the book are the chapters on the history of Chinese language reform. Much material is presented that was previously not easily available. However, the chapters devoted to the discussion of linguistic theory as it affects the romanization proposals presents a viewpoint that is probably too controversial for the average reader. . . The book is weakest in its discussion of nationalism, even allowing for its limited scope. . . Despite its shortcomings this is a topical book. The Communist regime in China has already demonstrated its continuing interest in language reform problems. Studies such as the present one by Dr. De Francis may help clarify for American readers the meaning of the language policies that may eventually be adopted in China." P. W. Colm

Christian Science Monitor p16 Ja 6 '51 450w

"All in all, Mr. De Francis' book is enlightening and interesting, not only to the sinologist, whether linguist or historian, but also to all those desirous of understanding modern China. It will be no less useful to scholars and administrators who are faced with similar problems in other parts of the world." A. F. P. Hulsewé

+ Pacific Affairs 24:201 Je '51 550w

Sat R of Lit 34:56 Je 16 '51 250w

DE GOUY, LOUIS PULLIG. Burger book; tasty ways to serve ground meat. 120p $2 Greenberg

641.5 Cookery (meat) 51-3267

A hundred and eighty-two recipes for cooking hamburger, from cabbage stuffed with chopped meat to chop suey and short cake. Index.

"Burger books have been done before but there are artistic touches in this one that make it different and practical." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 20w

Reviewed by Charlote Turgeon

N Y Times p14 My 13 '51 50w

Sat R of Lit 34:25 Je 9 '51 40w

DE GOUY, LOUIS PULLIG. Cocktail hour. 386p $4.50 Greenberg

641.81 Cookery (hors d'oeuvre). Beverages, Alcoholic 51-2859

More than a thousand recipes for canapes and drink concoctions for the cocktail hour. Index.

"From the simple to the complicated the delightful recipes never fail if one is planning this most popular of entertainments." K. T. Willis

+ Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 50w

Reviewed by Charlotte Turgeon

N Y Times p14 My 13 '51 50w

"The text is about evenly divided between the tidbits that hostesses like to provide at cocktail parties and the beverages. . . To my mind, the fewer of those deceptively filling tidbits the better. . . But many don't agree with me, wherefore a book like this most certainly has its uses. As for the beverages—well, there it is again. Most men, I think, will side with me when it comes to something made of brandy and a liqueur called Forbidden Fruit, even if lemon juice is added. The Beverage section, by the way, does have a long and good list of punches." J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p14 Jl 23 '51 120w

Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 9 '51 30w

DE GOUY, LOUIS PULLIG. Oyster book. 175p il $3 Greenberg

641.6 Cookery (sea food) 51-14411

"In which you will find 266 recipes for ways to use oysters, from appetizers to a complicated Creamed Oysters with Mushrooms." San Francisco Chronicle

"For all libraries that are in the 'oyster' district." K. T. Willis

Library J 76:2007 D 1 '51 60w

"Interesting facts and anecdotes about the oyster make this a good stocking present for the oyster lover."

+ N Y Times p54 D 2 '51 40w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p22 N 19 '51 270w

DEGRAS, MRS JANE (TABRISKY), ed. Soviet documents on foreign policy; 3v; v 1, 1917-1924; issued under the auspices of the Royal institute of international affairs. 501p $7 Oxford

327.47 Russia—Foreign policy. Russia—History—Sources (51-3107)

"Under auspices of Royal Institute of International Affairs first of three promised volumes, which will cover years 1917-41, solves well difficult problem of selection of documents. Treaties and agreements already published in League of Nations Treaty Series have been omitted. On the other hand a regime as unorthodox as that of the Bolsheviks made narrow interpretation of 'document' impossible; thus now and again speeches, interviews, articles have been included. Many of the 250 odd documents are now for the first time available in English. List of sources, index." Library J

"Used in conjunction with Louis Fischer's The Soviets in World Affairs, which has just been republished, this volume and the next one will be the standard works on this period of Soviet diplomacy for some time." W. B. Ballis

+ Am Pol Sci R 45:921 S '51 350w

"Provides a badly needed service to all students of Soviet foreign policy. While one-fourth of the selections are available elsewhere in non-Russian languages, Mrs. Degras has gathered them together chronologically and made a careful check with Russian originals wherever possible." A. S. Whiting

+ Ann Am Acad 276:176 Jl '51 550w

Foreign Affairs 30:162 O '51 40w

Reviewed by Oleg Hoeffding

J Pol Econ 59:554 D '51 500w

"Recommended for all larger libraries with reader interest in Soviet Russian policy." H. H. Bernt

+ Library J 76:1226 Ag '51 70w

Reviewed by Joseph Kraft

Nation 173:380 N 3 '51 600w

"As a convenient reference work supplementing other collections, the series will be invaluable to every student of the history of Soviet foreign policy." Barrington Moore

+ New Repub 125:18 O 8 '51 850w

Reviewed by A. J. P. Taylor

New Statesman & Nation 41:278 Mr 10 '51 300w

Reviewed by Max Beloff

Spec 185:349 Mr 16 '51 900w

"The reader who relied on this volume alone would be condemned in many respects to an imperfect and one-sided view of Soviet policy. But this is not a criticism of the immense diligence and impartiality of its compiler; nor does it diminish the gratitude which the student of Soviet history will feel to the Royal Institute of International Affairs for having contributed so materially to lightening the labour of his research."

DEGRAS, JANE—Continued
Times [London] Lit Sup p509 Ag 17 '51 3600w

DE GRAZIA, ALFRED. Public and republic; political representation in America. 262p $5; text ed $3.50 Knopf 324.22 Representative government and representation. U.S.—Constitutional history. Suffrage 51-9540

"A scholarly description and analysis of currents of belief and practices concerning political representation from Magna Charta to present day. It emphasizes values citizens hold in common, but points out weaknesses in direct representation and majority principle. Certain interest-groups have important values independent of approval or disapproval by the state, and the author maintains that in order to provide morale, stimulus and initiative to these interest-groups, a condition necessary if the foundations of the general sentiment are to remain healthy, they should have special representation in government. He does not state how this is to be achieved." Library J

Reviewed by M. J. Fisher
Am Pol Sci R 45:882 S '51 650w

"The book is scholarly and well done, and can be read with profit by any student of government." Frank Paddock
+ Ann Am Acad 276:141 Jl '51 350w

Booklist 47:232 Mr 1 '51

Reviewed by R. A. Preston
Canadian Hist R 32:170 Je '51 350w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:408 Mr 1 '51 130w

"A sober scholarly volume, authoritative in its field." August Heckscher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Mr 18 '51 450w

"A thoroughgoing examination of the meaning of representation, the fundamental element in any definition of republic." W. E. Binkley
N Y Times p6 Ag 26 '51 350w

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:163 Je '51 210w

DE HARTOG, JAN. See Hartog, J. de

DEHN, ADOLF ARTHUR, and BARRETT, LAWRENCE LOUIS. How to draw and print lithographs. 119p il $6 Am. artists
763 Lithography 50-10658

"Both the drawing and printing techniques are precisely and thoroughly explained and illustrated, the drawing techniques by especially made plates, and by reproductions of Dehn's own work, and the printing methods by drawings. Helpful in guiding a print lover in appreciation of techniques as well as for instruction of artists and printers." Booklist

Booklist 47:184 Ja 15 '51

"Essential for every art library!" Karl Kup
+ Library J 76:964 Je 1 '51 180w

"The book, while it is aimed primarily at the student, should interest also many print-collectors who have sufficient enthusiasm for their hobby to want to know more about how a lithograph is actually produced. Mr. Dehn and Mr. Barrett have worked together for many years, and their book develops naturally out of this association." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p35 D 10 '50 120w

DEJONG, MEINDERT. Smoke above the lane; il. by Girard Goodenow. 58p $1.75 Harper 51-9759

Story of a tramp and a baby skunk, in which the little skunk holds up a whole town and a Labor Day parade. For ages ten and eleven.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 13 '51 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

"An unusual animal story, both amusing and appealing, with illustrations that catch the spirit of it very well." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:181 My '51 170w

Kirkus 19:59 F 1 '51 120w

"Not wholeheartedly recommended." Juanita Walker
Library J 76:415 Mr 1 '51 80w

"This author brings to a simple story for about eight to ten-year-olds, a deep feeling and emotional expression, unusual in children's books." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Mr 25 '51 200w

"Written with humor, sympathy and true feeling for nature, this story has all the distinction of Mr. De Jong's earlier books. Lively illustrations by Girard Goodenow add to its appeal." Eugenia Garson
+ N Y Times p24 Je 3 '51 150w

"It is difficult to express the appeal of this story. The illustrations are unusual and interesting."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:44 My 12 '51 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

DE LA MARE, WALTER JOHN. Winged chariot, and other poems. 160p $3.50 Viking 821 51-13808

A combination of two volumes first published in England with titles: Winged Chariot and Inward Companion. The first part, Winged Chariot, is a long poem about time; the second part, Inward Companion, is a collection of lyrics.

Booklist 48:120 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:56 D '51 30w

"The de la Mare of this volume is a new de la Mare; he is the de la Mare we have always known and loved grown old and wise but never tired. As daring in his freedom as any of the youngsters who make a cult of freedom because they are not free, he has lost none of the magic he knew in the days of 'The Listeners' and 'Peacock Pie.'" Edward Wagenknecht
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 N 18 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:512 S 1 '51 170w

Reviewed by Gerald McDonald
Library J 76:2115 D 15 '51 120w

"Inward Companion, though it contains some old pieces and does not compare with his last volume, 'The Burning Glass,' continues to gather in the late harvest. Nearly all the poems are short, and a large proportion of them are very short. But they can fix in a narrow circle of words all the overtones of a complex situation or a mood." L. F. D.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ja 30 '51 230w (Review of Inward Companion)

Reviewed by Rolfe Humphries
+ Nation 173:483 D 1 '51 400w

"Many living poets have experimented more daringly than Mr. de la Mare; but none can surpass him in the art of improvising, the spontaneous creation of new forms. This rare gift can be discerned even in his epigrams, of which there are a good many in the new collection; the subject-matter is never conducted into a ready-made form, but flows freely into the shape best suited to it." Michael Hamburger
+ New Statesman & Nation 40:516 N 25 '50 400w (Review of Inward Companion)

"If Winged Chariot comes off as a long poem, instead of a series of connected meditations, it is because of the utterly consistent personality behind the verse. It is close-grained verse of great strength and imagination by a wise and amused man with a calm and not in the least complacent mind. . . Mr. de la Mare is not an up-to-date poet: to read him we need to take a holiday from our ill-natured dogmas. It is fair to complain about minor points, for instance, the way he sometimes puts italics when the word already contains the emphasis he wants—an unrespecting use of language. But you cannot condescend to Mr. de la Mare in matters of technique: he has been one of the most skilful and conscious verse-writers in English for fifty years." P. D. Smith

+ New Statesman & Nation 42:316 S 22 '51 550w (Review of Winged Chariot)

"At least two of these poems were written as many as fifty years ago, but most of them are the work of recent years. And while they are collected in America for the first time, these poems have the accustomed grace of de la Mare's older and more familiar poetry. If they fail to break new ground in technique or temper, they are at least the masterful examples of a tried and established poetic development." Gene Baro

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 N 11 '51 550w

"His inspiration is his power to create a ceaseless verbal comedy. His lyrics are the debris of an adventure from which he is always returning, heartened and terrified. He looks at our world as if from some planet, and sees it chaotic and dazzling. His resources are profuse, as are the ages he knows, and yet there are moments in his verse when rhetoric and metaphysics are silenced to give way to direct bare simplicity. The landscapes he evokes appear in hundreds of changes as if the poet could never stop trying to make transparent what is by nature opaque." Wallace Fowlie

N Y Times p4 O 28 '51 600w

Reviewed by Stephen Spender

Spec 184:626 D 1 '50 440w (Review of Inward Companion)

"His conception of Time is necessarily experimental and inconclusive. Rejecting the conventional emblem, starved, bald and daft, with scythe and hour-glass, he finds it only 'a term to mark our sense of life's erratic sequence of events, though not their scope and range or consequence.' He longs for liberty in Time—to be clocked and calendared by sun and season." Siegfried Sassoon

Spec 187:31 Jl 6 '51 850w (Review of Winged Chariot)

Springf'd Republican p3D D 23 '51 120w

Times [London] Lit Sup p766 D 1 '50 2500w (Review of Inward Companion)

"Winged Chariot is the longest poem he has yet given us. If it has not the immediacy of The Traveller—it is, after all, a different kind of long poem, an accumulation rather than a single architectural whole—in detail it is richer and more finely wrought. Some readers may decide that Mr. de la Mare is more at home here than in the more strictly philosophical vein of the former poem, interesting and impressive though that was."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p527 Ag 24 '51 1750w (Review of Winged Chariot)

DE LA ROCHE, MAZO. Renny's daughter. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 376p $3 Little

51-12443

The latest Jalna novel is about Renny's eighteen-year-old daughter, so much like the original Adeline. On a trip to Ireland with her uncle Finch and her cousin Maurice she falls in love with an impoverished Irishman, and on returning to Canada finds an unexpected ally in her father.

Booklist 47:286; 48:31 Ap 15 '51; S 15 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes

Cath World 174:236 D '51 130w

Reviewed by Olive Carruthers

Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 S 23 '51 500w

"The truth is that by this time the Whiteoaks are so numerous and so much already has been said about them that the author is hampered. When she creates a totally new character, she shows more zest. . . In spite of frowns from the faithful, it is impossible not to surmise that 'Renny's Daughter' would have been a better novel had not Miss de la Roche tied herself so closely to the past; better had she concentrated on the novel she was writing without thought of the next one, and less thought of those already written." W. K. Rugg

Christian Science Monitor p9 O 2 '51 450w

Kirkus 19:189 Ap 1 '51 190w

"It will be welcomed by Jalna enthusiasts, but perhaps unappreciated by others." R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:1333 S 1 '51 80w

"Miss de la Roche writes well, but not with outstanding distinction. Her hold on the interests of hundreds of thousands of readers comes from the vitality and variety of the individuals whom she has brought to life and maintained in being." Mary Ross

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 O 14 '51 550w

"This is the twelfth of the Jalna series, and though the lode ran rich a while back, it is getting almost too thin to mine now and I fear 'Renny's Daughter' is not quite up to previous standards." H. F. West

N Y Times p4 S 23 '51 490w

New Yorker 27:119 S 29 '51 70w

San Francisco Chronicle p28 O 28 '51 350w

"Probably it wouldn't be fair to hold too rigid a yardstick up against 'Renny's Daughter.' It will surely prove absorbing to the faithful followers of the Whiteoaks, if to more detached observers it seems a trifle slapdash and random, the characters paper-doll-like, and the situations manufactured. One interesting thing about the book is that the non-Whiteoaks, that is to say grumbling servants, poachers, grave-diggers, and jam factory Gem, all have more of the breath of life in them than the Whiteoaks themselves." L. F. Cooper

Sat R of Lit 34:17 S 22 '51 700w

Wis Lib Bul 47:215 S '51

DE LEEUW, ADELE LOUISE, and PARADIS, MRS MARJORIE (BARTHOLMEW). Golden shadow. 218p $2.50 Macmillan

51-13611

A romance for older girls. The time is just after the Civil war and the heroine is Cleo Wallace, the elder daughter of a Pennsylvania farm family. The story is of the ups and downs of the family when they sold the farm and went to the oil fields in the western part of the state.

Booklist 48:146 D '15 '51

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

Christian Science Monitor p14 D 6 '51 110w

"An unusually good book for older girls, which combines historical background, convincing character development and a clear sense of values in a well-balanced story." S. M. A.

+ Horn Bk 27:419 D '51 80w

Kirkus 19:445 Ag 15 '51 160w

"Excellent study of family and sibling relationships with an appealing love story which will hold greatest interest for the mature, thoughtful girl." R. W. De Angelo

+ Library J 76:1649 O 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by Ruth Urban

Library J 76: 2125 D 15 '51 80w

"[Cleo] is a complicated, seriously considered, interesting character, especially in her relations with her spoiled small sister. Lincoln's death, and other incidents of the period are brought in quietly and cleverly. Girls of about thirteen to fifteen will like it." L. S. Bechtel

DE LEEUW, A. L.—Continued
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 D 9 '51 150w

"A well-paced story." Irene Smith
+ N Y Times p8 N 11 '51 140w

DE LEEUW, CATEAU (JESSICA LYON, pseud). From this day forward. 215p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.
51-9829

This novel written for young girls relates the love story of Ginny Kerr from the evening she first goes on a blind date with Grant Jordan until their wedding day. Ginny's love affair is shadowed by her unhappiness over her parents' divorce but in the end she comes to maturity with the knowledge that marriages can be happy.

Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

"A well-intentioned novel. Our only carp is the glossy background with money pleasantly in view and slick young people."
+ — Kirkus 19:27 Ja 15 '51 180w

"Wholesome book that will be popular." E. E. Frank
+ Library J 76:782 My 1 '51 70w

"The book is less a tract against divorce than against shrinking from life because one may not be quite safe in it. It is one of those novels lately developed for youth, not strictly speaking, children's books." M. L. Becker
+ N Y Herald Tribune R p13 My 20 '51 230w

"All in all, an engaging blend of teen-age romance and first-class advice." C. J. Roth
+ N Y Times p18 Jl 1 '51 90w

DELMAR, MRS VINA (CROTER). Marcaboth women. 288p $3 Harcourt
51-13520

Old Mrs Marcaboth and her sons became fabulously wealthy as merchants, and their prestige was enormous. All the Marcaboth wives looked up to their mother-in-law and obeyed their husbands. There came a day when Simon, the oldest son, married a cheap little gold digger, and her defiance of the family rule gave courage to the other younger women. The fear of years was gone, but the family name was held inviolate.

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

"As in all Vina Delmar's work, it isn't the story that counts here, it is the people. They are unforgettable." Olive Carruthers
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 28 '51 400w

"I didn't think Vina Delmar could do it, but she has. The Marcaboth Women is not only first rate entertainment, but it is like G. B. Stern's The Matriarch, one of those books that sets up in the reader's mind successive widening circles of thought beyond the central thought of the book itself."
+ Kirkus 19:537 S 15 '51 250w

"'The Marcaboth Women' is somewhat rigid in form, but it displays Vina Delmar's assured handling of her characters and her trim, sharp command of dialogue." Lisle Bell
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 18 '51 500w

"A thin work in size and literary accomplishment." T. M. Pryor
— N Y Times p47 N 18 '51 200w
New Yorker 27:149 O 20 '51 30w
San Francisco Chronicle p24 N 18 '51 440w

"This brief conflict, lasting one day, is a key in the expert Delmar hands to unlock the hearts of a dozen people, no one very lovable, no one very happy, and no one even very good. They are, however, so human and so sad and are presented with such warmth and compassion that it is possible to feel pity for each in turn." Josephine Lawrence
+ Sat R of Lit 34:69 N 17 '51 600w

DE LORENZO, LEONARDO. See Lorenzo, L. de.

DEL REY, SISTER MARIA. Pacific hopscotch [phot. by the author and others]. 181p $3 Scribner
275 Foreign mission sisters of St Dominic
51-10254

"In her lively account of hazardous travels to various Catholic missions throughout the Pacific islands, a Maryknoll Sister describes the courageous work of the nuns among the war-torn communities of the Far East. Photographs." Bookmark

Booklist 47:395 Jl 15 '51
Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 40w

"Every page in Pacific Hopscotch is rich in entertaining incident, but Sister Maria del Rey's visit to the charming and guileless French Sisters of St. Paul de Chartres, who were giving such loving care to the poor little orphans of Seoul in Korea, is one of the most delightful." B. J. Thompson
+ Cath World 173:397 Ag '51 240w
Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"Since Sister Maria del Rey was a reporter for the Pittsburgh Press before she entered Maryknoll, it may be assumed that she had early ambitions to write. Her style is smooth and easy as she tells of her year's trip to Maryknoll missions in China, the Philippines, Guam, Palau, Japan, Korea and Hawaii." H. W. Flannery
+ Commonweal 54:126 My 11 '51 220w
Wis Lib Bul 47:182 Jl '51

DELVES-BROUGHTON, JOSEPHINE. Officer and gentleman. 480p $3.50 McGraw 51-9470

Historical novel of life in England before and during the Crimean war. It is the story of an English army officer who was not a gentleman, and of his oldest son who was. The novel closes shortly after the battle of Balaklava, where the hero was severely wounded, but survived to live down his father's unsavory memory.

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Mr 4 '51 470w

"Miss Delves-Broughton's flair for handling pageantry and color serves her in good stead in writing of the Russian court and life in the Hussars, but it was a period nonetheless when pageantry in everyday affairs was beginning to be an anachronism. The greatest appeal of 'Officer and Gentleman' is in small, incidental scenes." Ruth Chapin
Christian Science Monitor p9 Mr 27 '51 420w

"Dependable historically, and reliable in narration and character."
+ Kirkus 19:5 Ja 1 '51 240w

"Perhaps most important of all in this sort of work is the sense of authenticity in the picture of the time. The reader feels that he is seeing the period as it was, good or bad, idyllic or dreadful, but at any rate real. Even the charge of the Light Brigade has a reality as a tragic incident of history that it never had as a poem." E. L. Acken
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 F 25 '51 450w

"Miss Delves-Broughton's novel fails partially because having created so magnificent a tyrant in 'Flogging Tom' she couldn't quite bring herself to let him go. And when belatedly she did turn to Quintin she dropped his father so completely that the essential counterpoint between the good of the son on the one hand and the evil of the father on the other was somewhat lost. For all that, 'Officer and Gentleman' is exciting and fascinating reading." V. P. Hass

Sat R of Lit 34:35 F 17 '51 270w

DE MONTHERLANT, HENRY. See Montherlant, H. de

DE MONTULE, EDOUARD. See Montulé, E. de

DENING, KENNETH ALVIN, and others. Ambulation; physical rehabilitation for crutch walkers. 188p il $3.50 Funk
616.83 Disabled—Rehabilitation, etc. 51-4173

"This book will make available to the general public the techniques and training used in one veteran rehabilitation project. It presents a complete program of physical rehabilitation for the severely disabled person who requires crutches or cane as supplementary aid in ambulation or other daily activities. It is designed to carry the patient from bed to a point of physical independence." Springf'd Republican

Booklist 47:377 Jl 1 '51

"With the help of numerous pictures, the book presents its course of training for paraplegics graphically and simply so that it may be followed by the patient in his own home or in a hospital where rehabilitation facilities are not available."
Springf'd Republican p8C F 11 '51 160w

DENNIS, EUGENE. Ideas they cannot jail; introd. by William Z. Foster. 192p $1.25 Int. pubs.
335.4 Communism—U.S. 50-9625

A collection of speeches, articles, and public statements by the general secretary of the Communist Party of the United States.

Am Pol Sci R 44:1067 D '50 30w

"The book is not an analysis of Communist doctrine. Moreover, it does not undertake to answer in specific terms the charge of conspiracy. It is difficult, therefore, to understand what useful purpose is served the Communists in its publication. . . . The publication of the volume is a healthy sign, however, for it indicates that our hysteria is not completely unrestrained. The publication of such a volume is in fact the best possible answer to Eugene Dennis. A reversal of the situation in a Communist-controlled country would be unthinkable. It is good to know that our democracy is not committing suicide by using totalitarian methods in its own defense." E. A. Helms
Ann Am Acad 273:226 Ja '51 390w

DENNIS, MORGAN. Skit and Skat; story and pictures. 42p $1.50 Viking 51-9955

Pictures showing the antics of a black cocker puppy and a Persian kitten. Brief text explains the pictures. For four to six year olds.

"Gayly the pair races across the pages of this delightfully humorous picture book in large pictures, each accompanied by a few words of text beneath. Small children—and all dog and cat fanciers—will want to join in the fun." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 Ap 22 '51 90w
Christian Science Monitor p10 Ap 14 '51 80w
Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:177 My '51 80w
Kirkus 19:60 F 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by Juanita Walker
Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 40w

"The text is quite dull accompaniment for the charming pictures. Mr. Dennis seems to be in closer touch with the dog world than with the children's world." Miriam James
+ — N Y Times p26 My 20 '51 140w

"Skit's expression when Skat begins to make herself at home in his house is irresistible, as is the contrast between his absurd and lovable poses and Skat's grace and dignity."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 My 12 '51 90w
Wis Lib Bul 47:152 Je '51

DENNIS, WESLEY. Flip and the morning; story and pictures. [56p] $2 Viking 51-13521

A picture story book for young readers, about Flip the colt who was a very early riser and disturbed the other animals.

Booklist 48:89 N 1 '51

"A gay tale, easily read by a beginning reader." Marcia Winn
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 11 '51 80w
+ Kirkus 19:433 Ag 15 '51 90w

"Recommended for ages 3-7." F. W. Butler
+ Library J 76:2009 D 1 '51 80w

"Here is a lovely gift for children under six who are keen on horses." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 11 '51 220w
Wis Lib Bul 47:256 N '51

DENNISTON, ELINORE (RAE FOLEY, pseud). Ape in velvet. 242p $2.50 Dodd 51-11607

Detective story.

"A story of suspense which also boasts a neat, tight plot."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 100w

"Both writing and plotting evince intelligence, ingenuity, and psychological plausibility." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p15 Ag 12 '51 40w
New Yorker 27:88 Ag 18 '51 120w

"Hospital background interesting, as always; plot sound, writing capable." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Jl 22 '51 50w

"Intelligent, convincing." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 11 '51 50w
Springf'd Republican p10D O 7 '51 60w

DENNY, NORMAN. Arrival in Wycherly. 308p $3 Dodd
51-13049

On a dark rainy night a stranger arrived at Wycherly, a small unspoiled English town. He called himself Lancelot Cavanna and a kind of magic seemed to come with him. The story is of Mr Cavanna's stay in Wycherly and the changes he worked during his stay.

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

"An enchanting work of fiction that touches the border of fantasy but stays within the realm of reality—a wise and glowing comedy in which the laughter is kind and the satire unenvenomed." Lisle Bell
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 S 23 '51 500w

Reviewed by B. V. Winebaum
N Y Times p26 Ja 13 '52 180w

"Mr. Denny writes cheerfully about an interesting collection of people, but he occasionally allows them to engross him so thoroughly that he digresses and dawdles while the story hangs in midair, which is hard on the reader."
New Yorker 27:124 O 6 '51 100w

"Mr. Denny's delightfully sustained and highly amusing novel keeps its secret to the very end and its denouement is convincing and pleasantly surprising. An amused and affectionate picture of English village life, with its scandals and intrigues, its love affairs and quarrels, this is a book for light moments, which keeps the reader interested and wondering to the end." Pamela Taylor

DENNY, NORMAN—Continued
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 O 27 '51 260w

DE QUATTROCIOCCHI, NICCOLO. Love and dishes; drawings by Roger Duvoisin. 416p $4 Bobbs
B or 92 Cookery 50-10592

The first part of this book contains the author's autobiography from his childhood in Sicily thru his years as a moving picture actor in Europe and America, ending with the story of his establishment as a restaurateur at the El Borracho in New York city. The second half of the book is a compilation of recipes, some borrowed, with due acknowledgment, from other clubs and restaurants in New York, Hollywood, and abroad.

"A spicy and sometimes witty amorous autobiography along with an excellent collection of recipes that he has gathered from famous restaurants, principally 'foreign' restaurants in New York City." Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p67 D 3 '50 60w

"A beguileful book on all counts. Scattered drawings by Roger Duvoisin add to the fun and flavor." Lawton Mackall
+ Sat R of Lit 34:35 Ja 6 '51 600w

"We are inclined to give the recipes the benefit of the doubt as being the book's better half." V. P.
Springf'd Republican p8C Mr 4 '51 130w

DERLETH, AUGUST WILLIAM. Memoirs of Solar Pons; with an introd. by Ellery Queen. 245p $3 Arkham house

"It was in April, 1927, that the last Sherlock Holmes story appeared in The Strand; it was in February, 1929, that the first adventure of Solar Pons was published in Dragnet. . . Solar Pons is not precisely either an imitation or a parody of Sherlock Holmes. One might almost call him an understudy, and a triumphant one—a necessary replacement filling the abhorrent vacuum created by The Master's retirement." (N Y Times) The eleven short stories here are all concerned with the detective doings of Solar Pons.

"It is an excellent series of adventures in detection in its own right. A genuine Sherlockian will be grateful to August Derleth for this series [incidentally, the second volume of three which follow the original pattern of 'Adventures,' 'Memoirs,' and 'The Return'], for he has preserved the characteristics of the great master without dulling their luster." Ney MacMinn
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Ag 26 '51 400w

Reviewed by James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 S 30 '51 130w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p20 Ag 26 '51 320w

"Even if you've never read a word of Conan Doyle you should enjoy these charming short stories about a great detective, displaying 'the pristine effectiveness of the science of deduction.' Holmesian scholars, of course, will be doubly pleased at the spirit of the pastiches." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 2 '51 120w

Wis Lib Bul 47:215 S '51

DERLETH, AUGUST WILLIAM, ed. Outer reaches; favorite science-fiction tales chosen by their authors. 342p $3.95 Pellegrini & Cudahy
Short stories—Collections 51-13540

An anthology of science-fiction stories. Each of the seventeen stories was chosen by its author as his or her best story not previously anthologized.

"This reviewer liked Mr. Derleth's collection and heartily recommends it to beginners and old-timers alike in this most fascinating field of imaginative adventure." Melvin Korshak
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 N 25 '51 320w

"A few topnotch stories of the imagination . . . and a few specimens of as unreadable trash as has yet appeared in hard covers. The authors' introductions to their own work range from the attractively unassuming through the justifiably confident to the painfully pretentious." H. H. Holmes
— + N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 O 28 '51 180w

"Altogether, this is the most uneven collection of several seasons." Basil Davenport
N Y Times p30 D 9 '51 270w

Reviewed by Don Fabun
San Francisco Chronicle p24 N 18 '51 50w

DEROUNIAN, ARTHUR (JOHN ROY CARLSON, pseud). Cairo to Damascus. 474p il $4.50 Knopf
956.9 Palestine—Jewish-Arab problem. East (Near East) 51-11068

An account of the author's trip to the Middle East in 1948. "He saw much of the Arab-Israeli war from the Arab side, living with the fanatical Moslem Brothers, taking part in gun-running between Cairo and Beersheba, witnessing the bloody seizure of Jerusalem. The victory of little Israel was generally regarded as a miracle; Carlson reveals the tangible reasons for the outcome." (Publisher's note) Index.

"I have to hand it to Carlson: he has a genius for pushing beyond the conventional reportorial track and he has exceptional guts and stamina. The story he has brought back from the Middle East is full of high adventure and strong in human interest. On the strictly political side, it is not a balanced picture and some of it is old stuff. But Carlson does present a fair amount of little-known and fascinating information; and he presents it with a lively flourish." C. J. Rolo
+ — Atlantic 188:90 N '51 360w

Booklist 48:98 N 15 '51

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p26 N 11 '51 550w

Reviewed by J. G. Harrison
Christian Science Monitor p11 O 25 '51 500w

Kirkus 19:380 Jl 15 '51 160w

"Because Carlson is a quick-moving, alert, foolishly courageous reporter his narrative is exciting, fast-paced, and amazing in its coverage. He seems to have been everywhere and talked with every one." Thomas Sugrue
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 O 21 '51 800w

"Had anyone else written this astonishing chronicle of adventure called 'Cairo to Damascus,' he might be accused of kinship with the late Baron Munchausen. However, in 'Under Cover' and 'The Plotters,' Carlson established a reputation for veracity and accuracy which was never seriously challenged, and there is no reason to doubt the authenticity of his newest cloak-and-dagger tale." Quentin Reynolds
+ N Y Times p3 O 14 '51 800w

"Despite his flamboyant methods, he has come up with some authentic-sounding documentation for his thesis, as well as with a number of photographs."
New Yorker 27:153 N 3 '51 220w

"As a personal adventure story 'Cairo to Damascus' is entertaining enough, but as for bringing 'both Arabs and Jews into truer focus for the reader,' it doesn't." Merle Miller
Sat R of Lit 34:17 O 27 '51 900w

"Carlson's latest book appears to be a valuable contribution to current information on a part of the world where present tension may lead to extremely serious developments in the fairly close future." H. H.

Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 650w

DESANI, GOVINDAS VISHNOODAS. All about H. Hatterr; a gesture. 300p $3 Farrar, Straus 51-10898

"In the subtitle of this elaborate presentation of moral and instructive tales or 'autobiographicals' of H. Hatterr's encounters with life and its law of contrasts we find this curious book called a 'mosaic organon of Life' and a 'medico-philosophical grammar.' The scene is India, where Mr. Hatterr is mishandled by his wife, his club, his employers, and a delightful procession of roguish 'holy men.'" Library J

Reviewed by J. F. Nims
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 1 '51 240w

"Confusing, infuriating. The style hops and gurgles, parenthesizing and italicizing itself to death."
— Kirkus 19:70 F 1 '51 110w

"Lavishly articulate and impertinently humorous, the book has its moments—but a cold reception is foreseen." G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:516 Mr 15 '51 70w

"Mr. Desani is more than an original. 'All About H. Hatterr' can hardly be adequately summarized, but one might think of this guffawing Indian writer as a lunatic hybrid by S. J. Perelman out of James Joyce." Harvey Swados
Nation 172:572 Je 16 '51 400w

"Mr. Desani, an Indian journalist, and broadcaster, pleads eloquently, sprinkling curry powder in the King's English with the generosity of an amorous cook. This book 'isn't English as she is wrote and spoke,' but it is a rewarding feast of fish and fowl, fiction and philosophy, hilarity and hope." R. D. Graff
+ N Y Times p10 Jl 8 '51 210w
Time 57:110 Je 18 '51 550w

DEUTSCH, LEONHARD. Guided sight-reading; a new approach to piano study. 107p $2 Crown

786.3 Piano—Instruction and study. Sight reading (music)

"Primarily a manual for the piano teacher, but a chapter entitled 'Self-Instruction' may be helpful to those working independently. . . Dr. Deutsch, a follower of the Vienna Adlerian school of psychology, has enjoyed a broad experience, ranging from teaching children to adults and the untalented to the most promising, and comes up with any number of tested ideas." Library J

Reviewed by C. K. Miller
Library J 75:2153 D 15 '50 70w

"Deutsch writes this book very much the way his fluent sight-reader plays. The gist is clear enough and on the whole very sound, in my opinion, but the details are generally wanting or slipshod. Very little of an immediately practical nature is nailed down sufficiently to help the teacher. . . Notwitstanding certain negative reactions, I recommend this book to every pianist able to make his own reservations and eager for stimulating new ideas on teaching and learning methods." W. S. Newman
+ — Music Lib Assn Notes 8:351 Mr '51 1450w

DEUTSCH, MORTON, and COLLINS, MRS MARY CATHERINE (EVANS). Interracial housing; a psychological evaluation of a social experiment. 173p $3 Univ. of Minn. press

325.26 Negroes—Segregation. Housing 51-10851

"Comparable interracial housing projects in New York City and Newark were studied by the Field Foundation's Research Center for Human Relations, in order to investigate the effects of such projects on prejudice. In general, this report on the study indicates that in those projects where Negroes and whites live side by side there is a reduction of prejudice and an increase in harmonious, democratic intergroup relations; but where the races occupy separate wings or buildings, original prejudices are likely to be retained." Booklist

Reviewed by J. T. Liell
Am Soc R 16:899 D '51 200w

"Here is a very helpful book, a valuable contribution to the literature on the subject. It is scholarly, stimulating, and greatly needed." I. W. Underhill
+ Ann Am Acad 277:254 S '51 440w
Booklist 47:338 Je 1 '51

Reviewed by D. M. Cantwell
Commonweal 54:375 Jl 27 '51 750w
Nation 173:18 Jl 7 '51 30w
San Francisco Chronicle p19 Jl 22 '51 90w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:297 S '51 220w

DEUTSCH, OTTO ERICH, and WAKELING, DONALD R., comps. Schubert; thematic catalogue of all his works in chronological order. 566p $8.50 Norton

780.81 Schubert, Frans Peter [51-33606]

"A chronological listing of the thematic incipits of Schubert's works is just one feature of this valuable volume, which parallels that of Köchel-Einstein for Mozart. It also gives date and place of composition of each work, location in the Complete Works, location of autograph, first edition information, history of and selected bibliographical references to the works. Concordances and indexes." Library J

"A volume necessary to all collections that pretend to pay any attention to Schubert." C. K. Miller
+ Library J 76:1425 S 15 '51 80w

"There is no man, living or dead, who has contributed more to our knowledge of Schubert's life and work than Otto Erich Deutsch. He has laid the foundation of thorough and genuine research. This book is the keystone, the final document of 'lungo studio e grande amore.'" Alfred Einstein
+ Music Lib Assn Notes 8:692 S '51 1250w

"Although the Thematic Catalogue contains nearly 1,000 items, 2,500 single-stave quotations, and a vast mass of relevant information, the book is easy to handle and amazingly cheap. Every Schubertin will delight to browse in its pages; my only complaint, a small one, is that I should like to have been informed (as in Köchel) of the number of bars to which each piece or fragment extends." Desmond Shawe-Taylor
+ New Statesman & Nation 42:209 Ag 25 '51 300w

"For a work of such specialised interest, this is rather unambitious; it is an 'austerity catalogue,' no companion to Dr. Einstein's revised edition of Köchel. . . It does not give—and this is a serious omission—the length of any work, even of those unpublished; nor any dedication or inscription on the autograph." Andrew Porter
Spec 187:278 Ag 31 '51 100w
Times [London] Lit Sup p631 O 5 '51 500w

DEUTSCHER, ISAAC. Soviet trade unions; their place in soviet labour policy. 156p $1.75 Royal inst. of int. affairs

331.880947 Trade unions—Russia 50-9161

"Account of the history of trade unions in Russia and the role they have played prior to and since the Russian Revolution. In following the fate of the trade union, we glimpse many aspects of the transformation that occurred in the Marxian philosophy under the Bolsheviki. The steps which changed a democratic autonomous movement into an automatic tool of the totalitarian regime are interesting in and of themselves, and also as an indication of techniques used by Communists in Russia and elsewhere." Library J

DEUTSCHER, ISAAC—Continued

"This is a thoroughly admirable book, and it is required reading for anyone who desires an understanding of contemporary Russia." Walter Galenson
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:582 Je '51 240w

"This excellent little book fills a widely felt need. . . Mr. Deutscher, the author of a well-known biography of Stalin, has rendered a real service in writing this study." Adolf Sturmthal
+ Ann Am Acad 274:265 Mr '51 400w
Foreign Affairs 29:327 Ja '51 30w

"The author, known also for his very able book on Stalin, is on the staff of the Economist and the Observer, two very respectable British publications, and shows great fairness and objectivity in all his statements. While his approach is scholarly and the material well-documented, this is a book that can be read with interest and profit by anyone trying to understand Russian economic life or the possible role of the labor movement in a socialist economy." D. K. Oko
+ Library J 75:2006 N 15 '50 140w

Reviewed by Herbert Tracey
Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 11 '50 400w

"This is an illuminating study both of the Soviet trade unions and of the fundamental problems of trade unionism in a period when the conditions of its origin and growth have begun everywhere to crumble."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p717 N 17 '50 3600w

DE VALERA, SINEAD (O'FLANAGAN) (MRS EAMONN DE VALERA). Emerald ring, and other Irish fairy tales; il. by Eileen Coghlan. 210p $2.50 Dodd
398 Fairy tales, Irish 51-10255

Seventeen tales retold from Irish folklore, by Mrs Eamonn de Valera. For grades four to seven.

Booklist 47:332 My 15 '51

"Children of all ages will find this book, illustrated in black and white drawings by Eileen Coghlan, a fascinating introduction to Tir na n-og, The Land of the Young." Riley Hughes
+ Cath World 173:314 Jl '51 150w

"Recommended." C. A. Hulton
+ Library J 76:604 Ap 1 '51 80w

"The plots are so unadorned, so ordinary, bare bones of stories that interest flags. They are no contribution to fairy-tale literature." Phyllis Fenner
N Y Times p18 Jl 1 '51 120w

DEVER, JOSEPH. A certain widow. 312p $3 Bruce
51-4039

"The story centers upon Catherine Ronayn's championship of her husband's ideals as owner of a newspaper he had founded and her resolve—after his death—that her sons should have careers fulfilling her husband's hopes. One studies law and the other is destined for the priesthood. As often happens, she learns too late that there are limits to the wisdom with which one can make decisions for one's children." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

"Although Mr. Dever's first novel, No Lasting Home, was an inexpert job, it was possible to come at his meaning. In this second glimpse of the author's Boston, we have at once a more ambitious and more cryptic undertaking." Riley Hughes
Cath World 173:392 Ag '51 300w

"This second excursion into the drama of elfin Irish and brooding Brahmin in Boston's liveliest ward is excellent narrative, constructed with a sound understanding of the novelist's single purpose, and not suborned by the much-extolled virtue of compassion into awarding shining destinies to all the participants like medals at a prize day." Francis Sweeney
+ Commonweal 54:266 Je 22 '51 480w

"'A Certain Widow' is a valid and thoughtful work of fiction."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Je 24 '51 160w

"Live, vibrant people walk or race through the pages of this book and give the reader no dull moments." S. M. N.
+ Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 130w

DEVINE, STEWART. Listen for a stranger. 222p $2.50 Doubleday 51-9422

Detective story.

Kirkus 18:738 D 15 '50 70w

"A carefully and honestly plotted story which bogs down somewhat because of a superfluity of people and details."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Mr 18 '51 190w

"It would require more than a reasonable amount of patience to follow the involved activities of these Virginians, were they not so attractive and alive that it seems to matter what happens to them." N. M.
+ — N Y Times p25 Mr 18 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p23 F 18 '51 90w

"Good going."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 F 10 '51 30w

DEVOE, ALAN. This fascinating animal world. 303p il $3.75 McGraw 591.5 Zoology. Animals, Habits and behavior of 51-12556

"The book, illustrated with attractive line drawings, is divided into nine sections. In each section the author asks questions and answers them. The questions are those that people most often ask about mammals, birds, insects, snakes, and animals in general. Forty years ago as a boy on a New Hampshire farm, this reviewer was asking his father these same questions." N Y Times

"Mr. Devoe's information is graphic and wisely related, a quiet stimulant for any age as one waits for the coming spring." Edward Weeks
+ Atlantic 189:84 Ja '52 420w
Booklist 48:117; 127 D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:83 Ja '52 10w

"Here is the kind of sensitive, informed, imaginative, and scientifically accurate book which is the highest type of good nature writing. Here is a book written without sentimentality by an author who has never lost his sense of wonder at the almost incredible miracles of the natural world." August Derleth
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 N 18 '51 450w

Reviewed by Leslie Richardson
Christian Science Monitor p5 D 27 '51 550w

"Encyclopedic in its coverage but in tone it reads like a fascinating story should. 'Animalizing is a good and happy adventure,' the author writes, and he hopes with this book to get others to join him in it."
+ Commonweal 55:102 N 2 '51 170w

"An excellent reference book for the layman nature lover who is interested in the history, characteristics, habitats, and other pertinent statistics regarding the world's animals."
+ Kirkus 19:596 O 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by E. M. Cole
Library J 76:1930 N 15 '51 130w
Nation 173:530 D 15 '51 180w

Reviewed by J. W. Krutch
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 11 '51 450w

"A general nature book which can be recommended without reservation is a substantial achievement. . . Devoe is factually accurate and writes entertainingly." H. S. Pearson
+ N Y Times p20 N 11 '51 230w

DEVOTO, BERNARD AUGUSTINE. The hour 84p il $2 Houghton

394.1 Beverages, Alcoholic 51-14257

"'The hour' is the interlude before the evening meal when toil-stained sinners partake of the benison of spiritous liquor. DeVoto hymns the praises of fine whiskey; celebrates the marriage of good gin and dry vermouth; and lays down simple commandments which will arm the tippler against heresy and preserve him from the demon, Rum." Atlantic

---

Atlantic 188:99 D '51 130w

"A barbed wit pricks many an American custom as the author reflects on human nature in connection with alcohol. For sophisticates."
Booklist 48:115 D 1 '51

Reviewed by R. L. Blakesley
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 16 '51 320w

Kirkus 19:553 S 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by G. W. Johnson
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 D 2 '51 500w

Reviewed by John McNulty
N Y Times p6 N 18 '51 750w

"Quite a few of the points Mr. De Voto makes are, to be sure, sound ones, but he presents them in a manner almost as pixy as the inspiration behind the gadgets he so roundly berates."
New Yorker 27:159 D 15 '51 140w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 16 '51 1000w

Sat R of Lit 34:15 D 29 '51 200w

DE VRIES, LOUIS. German-English technical and engineering dictionary. 928p $20 McGraw

603 Technology—Dictionaries. German language—Dictionaries. Engineering—Dictionaries 50-12204

"The dictionary is a cooperative undertaking in that Dr. De Vries was able to incorporate into his work a number of glossaries compiled for office use by persons and institutions working on special groups of documents, or in special branches of engineering or technology. The terminology of the older branches of engineering—electrical, civil, mechanical—is well represented. Specialists in radar, electronics, television, jet propulsion, and guided missiles will also find, among the 125,000 entries, many which will solve their linguistic problems. . . A most useful section of the dictionary is the list of abbreviations." U S Quarterly Bk R

"In this period when many multilingual dictionaries in special fields are being published it is unusual to find a general technical dictionary of this kind. It may best be described, briefly, as an up-to-date American counterpart of the well-known dictionary by Weber, published in England some years ago." T. E. R. Singer
+ Chem & Eng N 29:954 Mr 5 '51 150w

"It is a book which is well worth adding to the library of every chemical engineer."
+ Chem Eng 58:267 Ja '51 110w

"The apparently high price of this new reference book will probably lead some technical librarians to postpone or forego its purchase. However, it should be bought if there is anything at all left in the fund for new technical books. It is the most complete German-English technical dictionary that has been published in a long time, and the chances are that its comprehensiveness and other good qualities will not be surpassed for a number of years." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 140w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:6 Ja '51

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:112 Mr '51 260w

DEWEY, MELVIL. Decimal classification; standard (15th) ed [ed. by Milton James Ferguson]. 661p $16 Forest press, inc, Lake Placid club, N.Y; Wilson, H.W.

025.4 Classification, Decimal 51-2653

"The fifteenth edition of the Dewey Decimal Classification is a standard library edition, with the schedules developed fairly evenly and as a rule with not too much detail. All the tables have been completely reworked, simplified, brought up to date, and generally improved. . . The revision has been designed primarily to serve the needs of the medium-sized library. 'Overelaboration,' says the Introduction, 'which too often appeared in parts of previous editions, has been avoided. Numbers for which no book can be found have been omitted.'" Library J

Booklist 47:295 Ap 15 '51

"This is the work for which librarians have longed for many a year. Not perfect, but a fine work, just the same. And since the editors have made their break with tradition, we may confidently expect that the Decimal Classification will continue along the lines established by the standard edition. . . Such points of criticism as have been raised should not be allowed to detract from the very solid accomplishments of the standard edition. The editors are definitely on the right track." A. D. Osborn
+ Library J 76:1118 Jl '51 2150w

"The new Dewey represents an enormous amount of careful consideration and hard work; in many ways it is vastly superior to its predecessor, but it is disappointing that one can still find so much to criticize in it. Perhaps the Classification's main fault is that although it is used internationally, it remains predominantly American."
+ — Library World 53:299 Jl '51 4000w

Wis Lib Bul 47:117 My '51

DEWEY, THOMAS B. Handle with fear. 218p $2.50 Mill

51-1780

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:38 Ja 15 '51 80w

"A good puzzle, and plenty of action, but for all that singularly colorless."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 27 '51 110w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p16 Jl 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 15 '51 70w

"Grade-A hard-boiled." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 My 5 '51 50w

"Entertaining reading." D. F. M.
+ Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 80w

DEXTER, MRS ELISABETH WILLIAMS (ANTHONY). Career women of America, 1776-1840. 262p $4 Jones, Marshall

396.5 Woman—Employment 51-812

This study of American career women during the years 1776 to 1840 gives a picture of many types of work in which women were pioneering at that time. Partial contents: The midwife and doctress business; The inky-fingered sisterhood; Behind the counter; The compleat seamstress; And when she span. Bibliography. Index.

"Informative and entertaining book."
+ Christian Century 68:337 Mr 14 '51 210w

"Mrs. Dexter's sympathetic, humorous, and scholarly book will be read not so much for sociological or historical theory as for her personal histories of 'the feminine side of a masculine civilization' in this formative period in American national life." H. M. Hacker
+ Nation 171:465 N 18 '50 950w

DEXTER, E. W. A.—Continued
"The author handles her research with humor and understanding, presenting a fascinating account for the general reader." E. B. Schlesinger
+ New Eng Q 24:123 Mr '51 700w

"A glimpse of the clever chapter headings gives an idea of the scope of the book and piques the interest, for outstanding women of the various periods are recognized for what they were—pioneers in their different fields." Ethel Dexter
+ Springf'd Republican p10C Ja 21 '51 480w

DIAMOND, JOSEPH S. Door of hope. 281p $3 Greenberg
51-10646

The hero of this novel of Central Europe seventy years ago, is a young Rumanian Jew who returns from America to his native land to lead a rebellion of the oppressed against their oppressors—a struggle in which Gentile peasants and a few aristocrats join. In the end David and his family depart again for America "the door of hope."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 3 '51 100w

"The author's tendency to engage now and then in religious, political and medical dissertations of the more naïve sort hampers the flow of the story. Yet on the whole this is a moving tale of a period and a country which many American immigrants still remember." Philip Rubin
+ — N Y Times p14 Jl 22 '51 200w

Reviewed by Don Pitt
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 10 '51 160w

"As a work of fiction 'Door of Hope' has little to commend it, for the speeches are editorials and the men and women mere megaphones. Dr. Diamond clearly knows the Rumanian scene, but he probably would have done better had he written his book as straight reminiscence." Charles Angoff
Sat R of Lit 34:30 Jl 7 '51 250w

DIAT, LOUIS. Sauces, French and famous. 144p $2.50 Rinehart
641.81 Cookery (sauces) 51-10516

"Helen Ridley writes the preface to this book by the famous Ritz chef and includes his recipe for the Vichyssoise which has gone round the world. Sauces hot, cold, brown, white, game and dessert as well as truly French sauces are here. Index." Library J

Christian Science Monitor p12 N 2 '51 50w

+ Kirkus 19:149 Mr 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 40w

"Here are invaluable recipes for the six categories of sauces, each with its own introduction filled with words of wisdom. It would take a lifetime to master all these recipes, but there is no reason why the average cook should not begin with the simpler ones." Mary Poore
+ N Y Times p18 Je 24 '51 190w

"His explanations are more than mere formulae; it's as though we were looking over the master's shoulder as he stirs and combines." L. M.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:25 Je 9 '51 150w

DICKINSON, EDWIN DE WITT. Law and peace [lectures delivered at Northwestern univ. in Feb, 1950 on the Norman Wait Harris foundation]. 147p $3.25 Univ. of Pa. press
341.04 International law 51-1852

"Four lectures on the community of nations, international law, and the developing relations between law and world peace." Foreign Affairs

Foreign Affairs 30:152 O '51 20w

"'Peace and the good order must be built on experience,' runs the basic message of a well-written book."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:175 Je '51 330w

DICKINSON, EMILY. Letters; ed. by Mabel Loomis Todd; with an introd. by Mark Van Doren. 389p $3.75 World pub.
B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-9898

In 1894, eight years after Emily Dickinson's death, Mabel Loomis Todd published a collection of her letters. In 1931 a new edition was published with additional letters and formerly deleted passages added. This reprint of this "classic of American literature" contains a new introduction by Mark Van Doren which summarizes the story of Emily's life and gives a critical appreciation of her work. For reviews of the 1931 edition see Book Review Digest 1931.

Booklist 47:256 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by Clorinda Clarke
Cath World 173:157 My '51 250w

Reviewed by J. F. Nims
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 My 6 '51 470w

Christian Science Monitor p14 Mr 15 '51 900w

"Addressed to her friends ('my friends are my estate'), in her later years her only lien with the outside world, to her brother, Austin, and her sister Vinnie, enclosing with them a poem, or a flower, these for her audience have a special charm."
+ Kirkus 19:17 Ja 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:327 F 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by Richard Chase
Nation 172:380 Ap 21 '51 70w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 Mr 18 '51 70w

New Yorker 27:123 S 29 '51 60w

San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ap 8 '51 450w

"How do the letters stand up today? The answer is better than ever, for in them we discover the essential stuff of poetry, a true and unequivocally human expression of the life we share in common. For Emily was at once democrat, realist, idealist, and artist." H. W. Wells
+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 My 19 '51 650w

DICKINSON, EMILY. Letters to Dr and Mrs Josiah Gilbert Holland; ed. by Theodora Van Wagenen Ward. 252p il $4 Harvard univ. press
B or 92 Holland, Josiah Gilbert. Holland, Elizabeth Luna (Chapin) 51-10236

"When a first selection from Emily Dickinson's prose was published in 1894, Thomas Wentworth Higginson . . . singled out the letters addressed to the Hollands as even more 'infinitely valuable with their wealth of heart' than those written to her beloved brother Austin. At that time only twenty-eight of the letters were in print. By a fortunate chance an additional budget of sixty has since come to light, and these with a reprint of the original twenty-eight plus five drawn from other sources are now embodied in this volume." (N Y Herald Tribune Bk R) Index.

Booklist 47:285; 292 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Walter Harding
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 My 6 '51 430w

Cleveland Open Shelf p14 Jl '51

"From a literary viewpoint they make an important addition to the published writings of E. D., but they add little to her elusive biography." G. D. McDonald
+ Library J 76:327 F 15 '51 150w

Reviewed by Richard Chase
Nation 172:380 Ap 21 '51 950w

"One is grateful for the sketchiness: it is nice for a change to know a poet who never felt the need for apologies and essays, long paragraphs, or even for long sentences. Yet these letters have structure and strength. It is the sketchiness of the water-spider, tenaciously holding to its upstream position by means of the faintest ripples, while making one aware of the current of death and the darkness below." Elizabeth Bishop
+ New Repub 125:20 Ag 27 '51 550w

"Beginning in 1853 and extending until a few weeks before the poet's death in 1886, [the letters] form the longest continuous series of Emily Dickinson's letters that has survived, and hence the one best adapted to exhibit her growth. In particularity and vividness they are not surpassed by any other portion of her correspondence. The delicate task of editing these papers has been performed to admiration by Mrs. Ward." G. F. Whicher
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ap 29 '51 650w

"The new letters have been edited, the old restudied and set in chronological arrangement, and the whole held together with running commentary. The presentation is handled in the tradition of fine scholarship." T. H. Johnson
+ N Y Times p6 Ap 22 '51 650w

New Yorker 27:123 S 29 '51 130w

"The book is valuable for the skilful and affectionate scholarship of the editor and for the art of the remarkable letters themselves." H. W. Wells
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 S 29 '51 700w

Springf'd Republican p8C Ap 29 '51 650w

"Altogether, this book is one of the most satisfactory items among the steadily expanding Emily Dickinson literature."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:224 S '51 220w

DICKSON, LOVAT. Richard Hillary. 202p il $1.75 Macmillan

B or 92 Hillary, Richard Hope [50-12697]

A biography of a young Englishman, the author of The Last Enemy (American title: Following Through Space, Book Review Digest 1942). Seriously wounded early in the war, after recovering Hillary went back into the air force and was killed late in 1943. The author of this biography was the young man's publisher and a close friend.

Reviewed by Paul Bloomfield
Manchester Guardian p4 S 22 '50 300w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman & Nation 40:301 S 23 '50 1300w

"Mr. Dickson keeps to the periphery of his hero's life, collecting with care the relevant letters, the anecdotes the living had to tell; the central mystery being left for the reader to determine as he pleases." Gore Vidal
N Y Times p5 F 11 '51 650w

New Yorker 26:106 F 10 '51 280w

"Mr. Lovat Dickson's book about Richard Hillary is not very interesting. Most of it consists of a more or less straightforward paraphrase of the account Hillary gave of his own life in his one book, The Last Enemy. That book, though uneven, was a 'natural,' and after it Mr. Lovat Dickson's has the flavour of dried egg." Robert Kee
Spec 184:434 N 3 '50 2000w

Times [London] Lit Sup p323 My 25 '51 300w

DICKSON, MRS MARGUERITE (STOCKMAN). Stairway to the sky. 256p $2.50 Nelson

50-10469

This novel for older girls tells the story of Christine Meredith who, while living in Brooklyn with cousins, enters on her chosen career of writing.

Booklist 47:206 F 1 '51

Christian Science Monitor p6 Mr 3 '51 180w

Kirkus 18:657 N 1 '50 140w

"Recommended for girls 16-18." R. C. Buell
+ Library J 76:187 F 1 '51 80w

"A good deal of practical advice about writing is cleverly woven in. All this is surefire with teen-agers, who will be pleased to find themselves quite critical of the heroine, yet glad when she has remarkable luck after many setbacks." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ja 14 '51 150w

"Girls who want to write should put this book high on their reading lists, for it says so much that is helpful and sensible. . . Christine's romance is rather mechanical, but the story as a whole is warm as well as plausible." E. L. B.
+ — N Y Times p16 N 12 '50 130w

DIETZ, LEW. Jeff White, young guide. 213p il $2.50 Little

51-13290

The third in the author's series about the young Maine woodsman; the first two were Jeff White: Young Woodsman, and Jeff White: Young Trapper.

"The mystery is a little tall, but it develops with such intensity that its implausibilities will be taken in stride." V. I.
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 N 11 '51 160w

Reviewed by E. C. Ince
Christian Science Monitor p11 N 21 '51 140w

"A good thriller, absorbing story, and a tangy sniff of the out-of-doors."
+ Kirkus 19:323 Jl 1 '51 120w

"Should be popular with boys from 12-16. Recommended." Alice Wetherell
+ Library J 76:1236 Ag '51 80w

"The author's feeling for outdoors life and for the people who live it lifts the story above the level of the usual mystery tale. The characters are well drawn, the dialogue is smooth and natural. Readers will enjoy the flashes of humor, and will soak up woods lore." Howard Boston
+ N Y Times p42 D 9 '51 130w

DIETZ, LEW. Jeff White; young trapper [line drawings by William Moyers]. 191p $2.50 Little

51-9343

This second story of Jeff White describes his winter of trapping in the deep woods of Maine. His companion, Skipper Doggett, has a certificate from a correspondence school of detection, and between them the boys solve a murder mystery.

Horn Bk 27:186 My '51 60w

"An above average mystery-adventure story, sparkling, informal style, and career information about game wardens and trappers make this superior fare for boys who love the out-of-doors."
+ Kirkus 18:693 D 1 '50 170w

"Although this is the second book about Jeff White, it can be read separately and will prove popular with older boys. Recommended." Elizabeth Johnson
+ Library J 76:530 Mr 15 '51 70w

"This is more than just a well-written thriller. The life of a trapper in the snowbound woods is described in vigorous fashion, which makes the author's unobtrusive plea for wild life conservation all the more convincing." E. L. Buell

DIETZ, LEW—Continued
+ N Y Times p26 F 4 '51 140w

"This is a good story and a practical guide to living 'on your own' in the northern forests."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:53 My 12 '51 90w

DIMOCK, MARSHALL EDWARD. Free enterprise and the administrative state. 179p $2.50 Univ. of Ala. press

330.15 Capitalism. State, The. U.S.—Economic policy 51-3412

"In a series of lectures delivered at the University of Alabama, and here printed, Dr. Dimock deals with the broad problem of maintaining a proper division of the spheres of institutions and of government. He contends that a fruitful approach to this fundamental problem rests in an infusion of administrative theory into traditional economic thought about free enterprise, its role, and its control." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Index.

"Time and again Mr. Dimock pleads with business leaders to forego gorging themselves indiscriminately at the well-laden tables of business opportunity. But the author himself betrays his skepticism at the efficacy of his or any other sermon, given our social neurosis of unabated drive for power as an end, the goal of life itself." Joseph Rosenfarb
Ann Am Acad 277:239 S '51 550w

"The lectures have value as a convenient synthesis and summary of general ideas relevant to the broad problem of the relation of government to the economy."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:285 S '51 270w

DISHER, MAURICE WILLSON. Pleasures of London. 346p il $4 Macmillan

792 London—Social life and customs. Theater—London [51-10058]

"An anecdotal résumé of the various kinds of entertainment that have been offered, over the centuries, to Londoners by their theatres, music halls, cabarets, show-boats, circuses, fairs, and so on, almost ad infinitum. . . Illustrated with photographs, maps, posters, handbills, and sketches." New Yorker

"His book is rather confusingly organized, despite his scheme of covering London section by section, and it is far too special for the casual, or non-stage-struck, reader."
New Yorker 27:138 My 19 '51 140w

Reviewed by Kenneth Young
Spec 185:19 Ja 5 '51 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p812 D 22 '50 280w

DISNEY, DORIS MILES. Look back on murder. 219p $2.50 Doubleday

51-1624

Detective story.

Booklist 47:312 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:185 My '51

"Good reading."
+ Kirkus 19:13 Ja 1 '51 120w

"A feminine story, well plotted and sensitive, as all Miss Disney's stories are."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Ap 15 '51 140w

"Except for one lapse when the reader is suddenly confronted with an especially grisly corpse, this is altogether a pleasant tale with good characterization and a satisfactory plot." Nancie Matthews
+ N Y Times p27 Ap 8 '51 140w

"Miss Disney has done better stories than this, but it is a reasonably satisfactory and adroit piece of work."
+ New Yorker 27:124 Mr 10 '51 60w

"This one's a bit incredible, but goes along so fast that you probably won't mind."
San Francisco Chronicle p22 Mr 25 '51 100w

Sat R of Lit 34:28 My 12 '51 50w

DISNEY, DORIS MILES. Straw man. 224p $2.50 Doubleday

51-13068

Detective story.

"Here is a shrewdly woven fabric of circumstantial evidence, and a plot with highly dramatic conclusions." Drexel Drake
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 O 28 '51 90w

Kirkus 19:369 Jl 15 '51 70w

"Pretty absorbing. Readers might reasonably complain a little at being whipped into the author's confidence midway because the murderer happens to be less convincing known than unknown. However, most of them will probably still go along for the ride which is fast and full of bumps." James Sandoe
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 O 21 '51 170w

"A somewhat disjointed book, slightly below Miss Disney's high standards, but still more intelligently written and characterized than most." Anthony Boucher
+ — N Y Times p44 O 21 '51 60w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 O 14 '51 90w

"Skill and interesting tale here; but the tactic of giving away the mystery at mid-point lets suspense down with thud and turns plot into cops-and-robbers."
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:48 N 3 '51 60w

DIXON, WILFRID JOSEPH, and MASSEY, FRANK JONES. Introduction to statistical analysis. 370p il $4.50 McGraw

311.23 Statistics 51-2084

"The basic concepts of statistics presented so as to show the generality of the application of the statistical method, with examples drawn from various fields. Requires a minimum of mathematics. Appendix of tables; references, discussion questions, class exercises, problems, at ends of chapters." Library J

"In the present reviewer's opinion, this is an excellent textbook and certainly accomplishes its purpose, but it will not be especially useful for most chemists." T. L. Hill
+ — Am Chem Soc J 73:5518 N '51 90w

"This book should prove of value to both the professional statistician in public health work and to the general public health worker. The former will find a helpful presentation of the concepts upon which many of the modern developments in statistical analysis are based; the latter will heighten his understanding of the logical principles of statistical inference. . . However, that aspect of statistics which is concerned with the formulation of the problem is only touched upon here and there. This is unfortunate because it is an understanding of this aspect of statistics which is most sorely needed by the public health worker, including the public health statistician." P. M. Densen + — Am J Pub Health 41:1537 D '51 750w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross
Library J 76:1129 Jl '51 50w

DOANE, DUANE HOWARD. Vertical farm diversification. 183p il $2.75 Univ. of Okla. press

631.1 Farm management 50-11230

"The title of this book refers to the extension of farm activities so as to include one or more of the processing steps required to prepare the product for the ultimate consumer. For example, a poultry farmer who dressed and froze his own poultry would be diversifying vertically. As head of the Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., a highly successful farm-management enterprise, the author has had wide experience in operating farms profitably." Library J

Booklist 47:248 Mr 15 '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:331 F 15 '51 130w

DOBBY, ERNEST HENRY GEORGE. Southeast Asia. 415p il maps $5 Wiley

915.9 Asia, Southeastern 51-6550

"The aim of this book is to present a picture of environmental conditions and human adaptations in Southeast Asia which shall provide the student with a basic text and at the same time stimulate the sociologist, the administrator, the politician and the businessman to see the relation of their work to the general field. . . The book is divided into three parts. The first pictures the natural setting, the second goes from this basis into the human details of each political unit, and the third ties together the social geography of Southeast Asia, to pose some of its present problems." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 48:47 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Gilbert Twiss
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 S 23 '51 100w

"The loose and inconsistent arrangement is all the more regrettable because the volume contains a wealth of information. In particular, the discussion of Malaya and Burma must be mentioned here. No less informative and well formulated is the comparative study contained in Part III. Reviewing the diverse economic and social structures of the region, the author cannot hide his pessimism regarding the prospects of the emerging independent states. . . Professor Dobby has provided a rather lengthy, though necessarily selective, bibliography. Unfortunately, there are numerous typographical errors in the German and Dutch titles. . . A serious work deserves a serious evaluation. If this reviewer has pointed out certain shortcomings, it is to be taken as an expression of his sincere interest in this first English survey of Southeast Asia." J. O. M. Broek
Geog R 41:693 O '51 900w

"Unfortunately, the quality of his book is very uneven; its aim was apparently over-ambitious. . . By far the best chapters are those delineating the natural landscape, though the highly technical terminology employed may deter the laymen whom the author wishes to reach. . . But in respect to the description of cultural, economic and social factors, there are too many errors and misconceptions for a basic textbook. . . These serious blemishes are regrettable because the general conception of the book is highly commendable and several chapters contain searching and stimulating, if sometimes rather speculative, remarks and prognostics. Both the variety and the unity of the scene are effectively set forth. A careful revision might eliminate the necessity for caution which readers of this first edition will need to exercise in using the book." H. J. Van Mook
— + Pacific Affairs 24:93 Mr '51 750w

San Francisco Chronicle p33 N 4 '51 70w

Times [London] Lit Sup p764 D 1 '50 450w

DODD, CHARLES HAROLD. Gospel and law; the relation of faith and ethics in early Christianity. 83p $1.50 Columbia univ. press

230 Christianity. Christian ethics. Law and gospel 51-11458

"Taken from the Bampton Lectures [this book] concerns itself with the relation between the religious-doctrinal element ('Gospel') and the ethical-practical element ('Law') in early Christianity. Through a discussion limited to textual analysis of the Epistles and Gospels, it is found that in early Christianity the two components are parts of the same whole, with the latter intimately dependent on the former." Ethics

"This little book is Dodd at his best." W. E. G.
+ Christian Century 68:1345 N 21 '51 340w

"Anything Dr. Dodd writes commands attention, and in these Bampton Lectures delivered at Columbia University he makes a notable contribution to the literature of Christian ethics." F. J. Moore
+ Churchman 165:17 N 1 '51 300w

"The author is clear and cautious and limits his scope, dealing with such questions as the relation of grace and law, conscience and authority, only in terms of his immediate problem." William Sacksteder
+ Ethics 62:73 O '51 150w

DODGE, DAVID. 20,000 leagues behind the 8 ball; il. by Irv Koons. 246p $2.95 Random house

918 South America—Description and travel 51-10184

The author of How Green Was my Father, and How Lost Was my Week End (Book Review Digest 1947 and 1948) here describes his experiences going back and forth across South America with his family, in search of cheaper living. They end up in southern France!

Booklist 47:308 My 1 '51
Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51
Kirkus 19:94 F 1 '51 150w

Reviewed by Ernestine Evans
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 My 27 '51 350w

"With a brisk style, Mr. Dodge is an amiable voyager, taking neither his trip nor himself too seriously, playing it for laughs. Usually these are against himself, as chief victim of his own contrivings which misfire back of the 8 ball." Lewis Nichols
N Y Times p27 Ap 22 '51 260w

"Like the others, it is a serio-comic travel book, apparently written in a mood of sheerest light-heartedness but surprisingly informative too. And like his others it has a pleasantly screwball title which suits the text very nicely." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 11 '51 900w

"This saga [is] written in a good-natured, never offensive, mostly interesting way." Lionel Olay
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 Ap 7 '51 550w

DODGE, MARTIN. Know your isms; pub. for American viewpoint. 74p $1.50 Farrar, Straus

321 Political science 50-11084

"At first glance, this looks like blank verse or commentary for a documentary film. What it does is to trace in broad outline, the development in thought, persons and event of the ideas which reach for utopia—democracy, socialism, communism and fascism. Then briefly defines their current meanings and associated ideas in a glossary of 'isms.'" Library J

Canadian Forum 31:92 Jl '51 290w

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 F 4 '51 140w

"A handy, explicit guide to the proper understanding of the many labels and terms in use today, this should be a good reference book for clarifying their use and for understanding their meaning."
+ Kirkus 18:652 O 15 '50 100w

"Timely and useful, once you get over the topographical strangeness. Recommended for general collections." R. E. Kingery
+ Library J 75:2000 N 15 '50 80w

DODGE, MARTIN—Continued
Reviewed by August Heckscher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 F 25 '51 240w
Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p10 F 17 '51 430w

DODSON, OWEN. Boy at the window. 212p $2.75 Farrar, Straus
51-9471

One year in the life of a nine-year old Negro boy, growing up in a Brooklyn neighborhood, is the subject of this first novel.

Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51
Reviewed by Paul Engle
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 1 '51 280w

"Mr. Dodson writes honestly. There is much that is not pleasant in the life of Berriman Street and its people and he does not spare his readers in describing it; but he writes with power, too, and it is the power to evoke the heart and mind of a sensitive child facing the inevitable challenge of life. Coin Foreman, the growing boy, is very close to the heart of Owen Dodson, the writer. There is a haunting quality to the book." Elizabeth Yates
+ Christian Science Monitor p15 Mr 8 '51 360w
Kirkus 18:732 D 15 '50 150w

"The writer is obviously gifted and has created vivid scenes and recorded sensory impressions that have imaginative as well as documentary values. It is not a satisfying book or one for a large audience, but it should be given consideration by libraries." G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:325 F 15 '51 130w

"To the sparsely-populated playground for believable children in fiction, admit Coin Foreman. The nine-year-old Negro hero of Owen Dodson's 'Boy at the Window' is a real boy." Vance Bourjaily
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 F 25 '51 600w

"As a poet's first novel, it is a real achievement. It is an achievement in the kind of writing that steers its tenuous way between the grossness of physical reality and the too nice refinement of emotional truth. 'Clinographic' is the word Middleton Murry applied to this kind of writing in the works of Virginia Woolf. It is perceptive, but emotionally oblique and indirect without being obscure." J. S. Redding
+ N Y Times p4 F 18 '51 400w

"Mr. Dodson writes very gently and produces a sad, true little story that is hurt, but not ruined, by occasional cutenesses in the prose, the result of overeager efforts to see the world and its people through the eyes of a child."
New Yorker 27:129 Mr 17 '51 60w

DOEHLER, HERMAN H. Die casting. 502p il $8 McGraw 621.984 Dies (metal-working) 51-1346

"This book is a comprehensive practical treatment of the subject. Its contents range from descriptions of die-casting machines through the design of parts to be cast by the process, the making of the dies, finishing of the castings and inspecting them, to safety in the die casting plant. Generously illustrated; bibliographies; glossary." Library J

Booklist 47:248 Mr 15 '51
Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:708 Ap 15 '51 110w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:21 Mr '51

DOERFLINGER, WILLIAM MAIN, comp. Shantymen and shantyboys; songs of the sailor and lumberman. 374p il $8 Macmillan 784.4 Sea songs. Ballads. Songs, American 51-577

"This is a collection of songs that sailormen sang aboard deep-water windjammers, in the fishing schooners of the western North Atlantic, and in the West Indies trade; and of ballads of American and Canadian lumbermen. In the running text [the author has] attempted to set the songs against their natural backgrounds of life under sail or in the lumber woods, and to explain their interesting history." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:249 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:153 Ap '51 30w
Reviewed by Al Chase
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 4 '51 360w
Cleveland Open Shelf p19 S '51
Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Horn Bk 27:243 Jl '51 20w
Kirkus 18:585 S 15 '50 150w
Reviewed by C. K. Miller
Library J 75:1508 S 15 '50 100w

"An immense amount of fine material, scholarly without being in the least academic, is set down with an unaffected clarity that I much prefer to the lush and golden superlatives that have come to substitute for the fine color of simple fact in the presentation of folk songs." S. R. Cowell
+ Music Lib Assn Notes 8:522 Je '51 600w

"For twenty years in northeastern United States and eastern Canada William Main Doerflinger has been collecting the songs of sailormen and lumberjacks, workers in two great industries of the region. This book is the monumental and magnificent result of his labors, a contribution to American folk-song so important that it at once takes its place beside those classic volumes, Carl Sandburg's 'The American Songbag' and John A. Lomax's 'American Ballads and Folk Songs.'" Carl Carmer
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 F 11 '51 600w

"Mr. Doerflinger prints the music for nearly all these songs and dissolves their text in a running comment which is both good to read and unpretentiously authoritative." Horace Reynolds
+ N Y Times p31 F 18 '51 400w

"A new, scholarly and very attractively done book." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 F 5 '51 750w

"This is one more book to add to your collection if you are a singer of old songs. Here you will find many favorites in interesting variations and perhaps a few surprises." R. E. Spiller
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 Je 30 '51 650w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:183 Je '51 240w

DOHERTY, JOSEPH FRANCIS. Moral problems of interracial marriage [thesis]. 177p pa $2 Catholic univ. of Am.
348 Marriage (canon law). Marriage (Roman Catholic church). Marriage law. Miscegenation
A50-5647

"In this doctoral thesis Fr. Doherty deals with the problem of interracial marriage from the point of view of Catholic morality as interpreted by canon law and other pronouncements by church councils, the Holy See and Catholic writers. The author gives recent scientific interpretations of race, and also discusses the nature of marriage both as a human institution and as a sacrament." Christian Century

Reviewed by S. R. Harlow
Christian Century 67:1168 O 4 '50 1050w
U S Quarterly Bkl 6:420 D '50 220w

DOLBIER, MAURICE. Torten's Christmas secret; il. by Robert Henneberger. 61p $2.50 Little

Christmas stories 51-12428

A Christmas story about one of the little gnomes who work for Santa Claus, of how he didn't understand about the "rules," and how he and Santa Claus met on a roof in New Jersey and everything was explained.

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 D 23 '51 150w

"I predict a long life and a merry one for the book." A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 27:401 D '51 50w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:415 D '51 80w
Kirkus 19:388 Ag 1 '51 120w

"Fresh and welcome addition to Christmas collections in children's rooms and school libraries. Recommended for wide purchase." M. E. Martignoni
+ Library J 76:1342 S 1 '51 70w

"To us, such a tale seems to pin down the idea of Santa in a rather too exact way; in spite of the happy ending it arouses in us lots of worries we thought buried, as, how about all those letters, how can one sleigh carry all the gifts, how can he do it all in one night, etc. Still, if your own child is at the point of such worries, this might be an answer." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 25 '51 110w

Reviewed by Frances Chrystie
+ N Y Times p39 N 11 '51 100w

"A jolly Christmas story, for readers of around six and a bit older. . . Exuberant pictures in bold color almost overcrowd the pages." K. T. Kinkead
+ New Yorker 27:181 D 1 '51 80w

DOLLARD, JOHN, and MILLER, NEAL ELGAR. Personality and psychotherapy; an analysis in terms of learning, thinking, and culture. 488p $6.50; text ed $5 McGraw

616.8 Psychology. Psychotherapy 50-10853

"The authors bring to this work actual experience and research in the fields of psychoanalysis, experimental psychology, and social science." School & Society

"This is a provocative book. Some psychologists, sociologists, and psychotherapists will undoubtedly take the position that in view of our present limited knowledge such a volume is premature. This reviewer takes the opposite position. . . Books of this type do not frequently appear, when they do, they merit careful reading." Neal Gross
+ Am Soc R 16:414 Je '51 1050w

"To pastors who are willing to be physicians of souls, the detailed analysis of these 488 pages will be a rigorous discipline well rewarding the effort to understand how we learn and unlearn our anxious conflicts. Not that anyone learns to be a psychotherapist by reading books, without supervised training and faithful practice; but theory is as indispensable as practice." P. E. Johnson
Christian Century 68:176 F 7 '51 600w

"There is no doubt that a real need exists for integrating learning and psychoanalytic theory or that this book represents an important step in the right direction. Still, in large part, its major merit is to establish the basis for a common language. The actual integration is yet to come." Bruno Bettelheim
El School J 52:239 D '51 1350w

"It is a teamwork approach, combining the best features, shall we say, of psychoanalysis, behaviorism and the culture concept. Freud, Pavlov and Boas are three convenient symbols. . . 'Personality and Psychotherapy' is not easy reading, but it is mercifully free from the gobbledegook that overpowers meaning in so much of the literature of social science. It will give you a new and deeper understanding of one of the most baffling of human problems." Stuart Chase
+ N Y Times p22 Ja 21 '51 750w
School & Society 72:350 N 25 '50 30w

Reviewed by H. L. Witmer
Survey 87:134 Mr '51 200w

"While there is in it considerable repetition, in the main the book is well written and highly challenging."
+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:182 Je '51 330w

DOLPH, JACK. Hot tip. 223p $2.50 Doubleday 51-1101

Detective story.

Kirkus 18:738 D 15 '50 70w

"A tricky plot, and Connor is a likeable detective within his limits, but they are extreme limitations."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ap 1 '51 140w

"Dolph fans will be happy to know that the new book is more of the same; but readers who, like this reviewer, have been a bit cool toward the earlier efforts should learn that this time the mixture is admirably blended." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p34 Ap 1 '51 130w

"Rather fun." Kathleen Sproul
+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 7 '51 50w

DOLSON, HILDEGARDE. Form divine. 310p $3 Random house 51-9489

Lucilla Webb, middle-aged (37) matron, with certain vague feelings of unrest, joins a class at the Beautiful You salon. The things she learns there are set forth both as they affect her own body and spirit, and also as they impinge on the consciousness of husband, small daughter, maid and even the dog, Sniffles.

Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51

"The story is highly amusing—and informative. Hildegarde Dolson has the same nimble, tongue-in-cheek wit she exhibited in 'The Husband Who Ran Away' two years ago. 'The Form Divine' should be read by every woman who shudders when she sees a mirror or scales." Richard Blakesley
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 F 25 '51 380w

"A surprise package which takes the intangible, female glamour yearnings in a sympathetic Hokinson touch, to which is added a bit from Mr. and Mrs. North, and, as a crazy lead-on, a leer from Harpo Marx. . . Fun."
+ Kirkus 18:709 D 1 '50 250w

"In her hilariously amusing book, 'The Form Divine,' Hildegarde Dolson writes pretty obviously with the first-hand knowledge of one who has been through the 'bump-wumps' and the 'spanky-wankies,' who knows all about the Divine Angle, the B. Q., the P. Q., and the B. C. and who can, if pressed, play a devastating game of marbles with her toes." Rose Feld
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Mr 4 '51 800w

"I recommend this book with extreme reservations. Let the faithful beware. Let also the literary beware, if they are looking for plot, characterization, or upper bracket satire. But if you have ever been curious about what goes on between Before and After in the pictured advertisements, if you are partial to the sound of illusions shattering, or if you simply like a brisk, gay farce then 'The Form Divine' is yours." Phyllis McGinley
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 Mr 3 '51 650w

DOMMASCH, DANIEL O., and others. Airplane aerodynamics. 520p il $6.50 Pitman

629.1323 Aerodynamics 51-9490

"An introductory but rather full presentation of applied aerodynamics. Two of the authors are associated with the Naval Air Test Center, and the book was developed to present the fundamentals of aeronautical engineering to test pilots whose college education did not include the subject. However, the treatment does assume familiarity with basic physics and mathematics through calculus. Mathematics is used freely in the exposition." Library J

DOMMASCH, D. O.—Continued

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:522 Mr 15 '51 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:17 Mr '51

DONAHUE, WILMA T., and TIBBITTS, CLARK, eds. Planning the older years; with a foreword by Everett J. Soop. 248p $2.50 Univ. of Mich. press

618.97 Old age 50-10516

"This is a companion volume to 'Living Through the Older Years,' [edited by C. Tibbitts, Book Review Digest 1949]. Like the earlier volume, it is based on the course for older people and for professional workers given annually at the Institute for Human Adjustment of the University of Michigan." Survey

"Here is a book that will take high rank in the growing literature in the field of gerontology. It is an excellent symposium of clear thinking, keen investigation, and well directed experimentation relating to the problems of older people." R. P. Kaighn
+ Am J Pub Health 41:460 Ap '51 250w

Reviewed by Ethel Shanes
Am J Soc 56:613 My '51 180w

"Planning the Older Years is a welcome addition to the growing literature on later maturity. While the student on aging will find much that is already known, there is sufficient quantity of the new in analysis and research to make this volume a necessary item in libraries on non-medical gerontology." E. H. Moore
+ Am Soc R 15:831 D '50 600w

"This is a book of twelve chapters by as many authors. Some of the chapters are much better than others, but all are a contribution to the much-needed literature on this field of study. The volume is certainly not a monument but does make its contribution to studies in this field both current and needed." T. R. Fisher
Ann Am Acad 274:252 Mr '51 700w

Booklist 47:169 Ja 1 '51

Bookmark 10:154 Ap '51 20w

"This volume is an important one in the library of the home economists for both personal and professional reasons. Many home economists approaching retirement can benefit from the newer knowledge regarding creative living in the later years." Ruth Lindquist
+ J Home Econ 43:451 Je '51 460w

"This volume expresses the happy and constructive spirit which is alive in Ann Arbor. It is a rich source of information and stimulation for everybody who is interested in the old age problem." Martin Gumpert
+ Survey 87:95 F '51 350w

DONNE, JOHN. Prayers; selected and ed. from the earliest sources . . . by Herbert H. Umbach. 109p $2.50 Bookman associates

264.1 Prayers 51-5368

A selection from the prayers of John Donne, who was both poet and clergyman, at one time serving as chaplain to James I. The prayers are introduced by an essay on Donne's idea of prayer.

"The reader of John Donne's poems must proceed at his own risk, but his prayers are a safe and open highway to a richer spiritual life. Dr. Umbach's diligent research and careful editing have made available some authentic treasures." W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 68:1223 O 24 '51 180w

"Donne's prayers are remarkable for the same rich complexity and subtlety which distinguish his poetry. . . The careful reading of these prayers should provide insight into an aspect of Donne which is perhaps not as well known as it deserves to be." W. P. Clancy
+ Commonweal 54:604 S 28 '51 180w

Reviewed by Lawrence Ferling
San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 23 '51 30w

School & Society 74:160 S 8 '51 10w

DONOVAN, FRANK PIERCE. Mileposts on the prairie; the story of the Minneapolis & St Louis railway. 310p pl $4.50 Simmons-Boardman

385 Minneapolis and St Louis Railway 50-11169

A narrative history of the Minneapolis and St Louis railway. Founded in 1870, the road was under a receivership from 1923 to 1942, but in the late '30s it came under the management of Lucian Charles Sprague, to whom the author gives credit for its present status, a well-equipped debt-free railroad. Bibliography. Index.

"Mr. Donovan's treatment of the story, both corporate and human, is accurate, complete, readable, and infused with the warm glow of the personality of a railroad with a distinct individuality." R. S. Henry
+ Am Hist R 56:689 Ap '51 200w

"The story of this railroad and of its vicissitudes is told in a folksy style in the volume under review. By means of anecdote and human interest touches the author gives the road a personality all its own. As a factual history, however, the book has limitations. On many events and developments in the road's history more facts and analysis are needed for the enlightenment of the reader." D. P. Locklin
+ — Ann Am Acad 275:198 My '51 400w

"Compared to the Illinois Central, the M. & St. L. is a small road, but it has had in its 80 years more perils than Pauline. Crises, though no pleasure to those concerned, make interesting telling afterwards, and this history of the M. & St. L. is a thoroughly readable book." Ruth Teiser
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 F 18 '51 150w

Sat R of Lit 34:35 Ag 18 '51 200w

DOR, ANA, pseud. See Ceder, G. D.

DORIAN, MRS EDITH M. Ask Dr Chrismas; il. by Nora S. Unwin. (Whittlesey house publication) 144p $2.25 McGraw

Christmas stories 51-13205

Because Peggy's doctor-father made a hobby of collecting Christmas customs of many lands he was known in town as Dr Christmas. This story is one of special Christmas season when the doctor, his family, and his patients of various nationalities, celebrated Christmas with national trimmings. Contains several recipes for Christmas specialties.

Booklist 48:89 N 1 '51

"A modern story sure to appeal to boys and girls in the middle grades." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:416 D '51 100w

Kirkus 19:438 Ag 15 '51 120w

"Story is weak in spots, but book should be useful, particularly in large city branches which serve different nationality groups. Fifth-grade reading level and interest. . . Recommended where needed." M. J. Meade
Library J 76:2012 D 1 '51 70w

"The story is much less appealing than all the delightful information. Still, whether through child or parent, it may stimulate some families to adopt new Christmas customs more interesting than their own normal ones." L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 25 '51 90w

"The plot is thin, but there are an infectious excitement about the preparations for the Duncans' unique Christmas party and a fine feeling of good will. The book will give youngsters new ideas for their own parties, too." E. L. Buell

N Y Times p48 D 2 '51 90w

Sat R of Lit 34:47 D 15 '51 130w

DORIS, LILLIAN, ed. Corporate treasurer's and controller's handbook; contributors: Sebastian A. Albrecht [and others]. 1277p $12.50; to schools $9.40 Prentice-Hall

658.15 Corporations—Finance 51-9066

"Thirty-two chapters by 26 practising executives on the various actual duties and responsibilities of treasurers and controllers in corporations of varying size, in various kinds of business. Discusses financial planning, budgeting, costing, inventories, accounting and auditing, analysis and reports, credits and collections, records, insurance and pensions." Library J

Reviewed by Winifred Baum

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 5 '51 60w

"Concise but comprehensive, with tables and forms to illustrate the text. Addition of bibliographical references would have increased its usefulness." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 76:182 F 1 '51 70w

"The authors' concise and practical discussion of these subjects is supplemented by illustrations of hundreds of records, forms, reports, and other pertinent documents. The Handbook has been carefully edited to eliminate any overlap in the work of its various contributors. Its chapters are independent of each other, but the book is organized so as to present the material in the order in which it should be learned. In addition to a comprehensive subject index, individual indexes have been prepared for each chapter."

+ Management R 40:159 Mr '51 250w

DORIS, LILLIAN, and MILLER, BESSE MAY. Complete secretary's handbook. 682p il $4.75; to schools $3.55 Prentice-Hall

651.02 Secretaries, Private. Office management. Commercial correspondence 51-1123

"Intended as at once a quick reference guide to those factual and procedural questions which constantly arise in a secretary's work and a text to instruct in the more advanced techniques in higher-ranking confidential positions. Contents: 'Techniques for Usual Secretarial Duties,' 'How to Write Good Letters,' 'Writing Correctly,' 'How to Do Your Employer's Personal Work Effectively,' 'Your Employer's Personal Affairs,' 'Advanced Secretarial Techniques,' 'Appearances and Impressions,' 'Ready Reference Material.'" Library J

Booklist 47:323 My 15 '51

Reviewed by Winifred Baum

Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 7 '51 80w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 76:601 Ap 1 '51 110w

Wis Lib Bul 47:185 Jl '51

DOS PASSOS, JOHN RODERIGO. Chosen country. 485p $4 Houghton 51-7856

Follows the lives of two young Americans of different backgrounds and breeding who finally come together in a wholly satisfying union.

"Chosen Country is a greater success than the three other novels which Dos Passos has written since his political switch from Left to Right. It is not the oppressive sourness of The Grand Design. There is more élan in the narrative, more warmth in the major characterizations, more concern with really showing the attractive aspects of American life. The troublesome thing is that Dos Passos' change in outlook does not suffice to prevent a sense that he has done all this before, and, from the artistic standpoint, more impressively." C. J. Rolo

Atlantic 189:87 Ja '52 430w

Booklist 48:159 Ja 1 '52

Bookmark 11:84 Ja '52 50w

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 D 9 '51 550w

Reviewed by R. R. Brunn

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 3 '52 420w

Kirkus 19:622 O 15 '51 160w

"A peculiarly shaped work, this novel's strength lies in its individual scenes rather than the over-all impact of the ideas. Though shorter than his sprawling U.S.A., it has some of the former's kaleidoscopic characteristics, a technique which prevents our getting to know the characters too well." M. S. Byam

Library J 76:1929 N 15 '51 130w

"The form of 'Chosen Country' is not quite so restlessly experimental, the style not so ebullient, the range hardly as great as in 'U. S. A.' but as a whole it seems more like a major novel (or possibly the first volume of a major novel) than any Dos Passos has undertaken in a long time." Milton Rugoff

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 D 2 '51 1200w

"'Chosen Country' may well be John Dos Passos' best novel." Arthur Mizener

+ N Y Times p7 D 2 '51 1250w

New Yorker 27:65 D 29 '51 130w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p18 D 2 '51 1450w

"In the process of welding the past and the present Dos Passos has written a series of what seem to be short stories, or condensed plots for separate novels. He presents the reader with an embarrassment of riches. They are excellent stories, for there can be no question of the author's ability as a teller of tales." Harrison Smith

+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 D 15 '51 700w

"Chosen Country spraddles some 80-odd years of American life (1848-1930), but the only ground it really covers is from soapbox to soap opera and back. . . Novelist Dos Passos was better when he was angry."

— Time 58:112 D 3 '51 350w

Wis Lib Bul 47:254 N '51

DOUCETTE, EARLE. Fisherman's guide to Maine. 308p maps $2.95 Random house

799.1 Fishing—Maine. Maine—Description and travel 51-9251

Part one describes characteristics of Maine fish: trout, salmon, bass, pickerel, etc., and the lures, bait, and tackle to use in taking them. Part two is a guide to the rivers and lakes of Maine, with maps. It contains the laws of each section, information on camps, and guides. Index.

Bookmark 10:180 My '51 30w

"Any modern Isaak Walton heading Maineway will do well to read this guide through thoroughly before jumping on the train or into the car."

+ Kirkus 18:722 D 1 '50 80w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:50 Ja 1 '51 60w

San Francisco Chronicle p21 Ap 1 '51 70w

"The convenient size, 300 page book, which can be carried in the tackle box, is filled with helpful hints, sound information about roads, accommodations, camping, guides and tackle." Leo Marceau

+ Springf'd Republican p5D Mr 25 '51 330w

DOUGLAS, JOHN SCOTT. Secret of the undersea bell. 242p $2.50 Dodd
51-13649

Mystery story about deep-sea diving, for older boys.

Booklist 48:146 D 15 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

"As well plotted, capably characterized, and deftly told a story of undersea adventure and mystery as any teen age boy could ask for." Al Chase
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 N 11 '51 140w

"Plot is trite (there is too much of everything) and the characters unreal." A. B. McCreary
— Library J 77:69 Ja 1 '52 90w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 N 11 '51 220w

"This is an exciting story, alive with action and suspense. The details of abalone fishing are fascinating and authentic. The description of the strange, colorful world beneath the ocean's surface will stimulate the imagination of young readers." Howard Boston
+ N Y Times p18 N 11 '51 170w

DOUGLAS, LLOYD CASSEL. Time to remember; with il. by David Hendrickson. 238p $2.75 Houghton

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-13038

The first volume of a projected longer work, this portion of the author's autobiography covers his childhood and youth and college days. The author died in 1951.

Booklist 48:81 N 1 '51

Bookmark 11:30 N '51 20w

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 O 7 '51 600w

"The book reads as though Lloyd Douglas was talking. It has a warm human quality, sincerity, simplicity and straightforwardness, occasional colloquialism and that gift for spinning a yarn which, he acknowledges, is born to the true storyteller. Homespun, down-to-earth Americana."
+ Kirkus 19:459 Ag 15 '51 210w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:1704 O 15 '51

"Lloyd Douglas' autobiography is honest homespun. It is as sturdy, unpretentious and shrewd as the Hoosier background which bore him and bred him up." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 O 14 '51 600w

"This memoir is a rocking-chair gossip on a sunny afternoon. Optimistic, affectionate, easy-going and disjointed, it makes up in heart for what it may lack in artistic refinements and intellectual rub. It is a love letter to the American past and a man's memory of boyhood." Charles Lee
+ N Y Times p10 O 7 '51 470w

San Francisco Chronicle p19 N 25 '51 310w

Reviewed by H. J. Kellem
Sat R of Lit 34:35 O 20 '51 250w

Wis Lib Bul 47:252 N '51

DOUGLAS, WILLIAM ORVILLE. Strange lands and friendly people. 336p il $4 Harper

915 East (Near East)—Description and travel. India—Description and travel 51-11901

Reports by Justice Douglas on his trips, taken in 1949 and 1950 to 1951, thru Persia, Greece, Israel, India, and the Arab and Moslem states. Maps on end papers. Index.

Booklist 48:57; 83 O 15 '51; N 1 '51

Bookmark 11:56 D '51 30w

"Justice Douglas is a man of ideals and great simplicity. He must have revealed a genuine, behind-the-scenes Americanism to the peoples of the Middle East whom he visited in 1949 and 1950." J. D. Casgrain
+ Cath World 174:318 Ja '52 240w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 N 18 '51 850w

"The Supreme Court of the United States has either produced or drawn to it many remarkable men, men dedicated to justice, progress and brotherhood. William O. Douglas can be numbered among them. His latest book . . . is proof that Justice Douglas, whatever his merits as a jurist, is a sensitive and far-seeing judge of one of the world's most crucial areas." J. G. Harrison
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 N 1 '51 750w

Cleveland Open Shelf p27 N '51

Commonweal 55:133 N 16 '51 650w

"A book tumbling with memories, with personal interest, with a firm belief in man's possible humanity to men, this, while friendly, is vivid foreign reporting."
+ Kirkus 19:506 S 1 '51 200w

"An urgent 'must' for every library." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1801 N 1 '51 140w

"Our no-punch-pulling Justice should travel even more widely. After a trip across North Africa from Morocco to Egypt, for example, what he might have to report could stir up some interesting and healthy trouble. For such journeys may Allah preserve him." C. S. Coon
+ Nation 173:476 D 1 '51 1250w

"One doesn't have to agree with his conclusions to find delight and intellectual stimulus in this book. In a courtroom, opposing lawyers present the two profiles of truth, and only the judge in the center looks it full in the face. Diplomats and writers have been etching the profiles of Eastern countries for a long time; Justice Douglas is one of the very few to view that unhappy part of the world full face." Quentin Reynolds
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 N 4 '51 1650w

Reviewed by Louis Fischer
N Y Times p1 N 4 '51 1500w

New Yorker 27:173 D 8 '51 160w

"A book difficult to lay down—a horse-sensical, immensely readable first-hand account by a man who went to see for himself and reports what he saw." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 N 2 '51 700w

Reviewed by Eric Sevareid
+ Sat R of Lit 34:17 N 10 '51 900w

"This book is a valuable contribution to knowledge about current conditions in an important part of the world. It ought to be read, thoughtfully and carefully, by our national leaders and by all Americans who take an intelligent interest in the trend of world wide affairs." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p30A D 2 '51 600w

Wis Lib Bul 47:251 N '51

DOUGLASS, HARL ROY, ed. Education for life adjustment; its meaning and implementation, by Maurice R. Ahrens [and others] with a foreword by Raymond W. Gregory. 491p $4.50 Ronald

373.73 Education, Secondary. Education—Aims and objectives 50-7899

"A volume prepared by 20 contributors under the editorship of Harl R. Douglass. This new term, according to Dr. Douglass, signifies '. . . the development of such attitudes, ideals, interests, habits, skills, information, understanding—social, mental, physical, and emotional—as will enable all young people to make the most satisfying and most effective adjustment in all areas of life at present and in the future' (p.43). Accordingly, the secondary-school program is reconsidered in the light of these principles, e.g., 'Education for life Adjustment through the Social Studies.' 'Industrial Arts as Education for Life Adjustment,' etc." (School & Society) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The freshest approach to the secondary school in many a year." W. W. Brickman
+ School & Society 72:87 Ag 5 '50 800w

Reviewed by W. J. Moore
School R 59:369 S '51 650w

"One of the few outstanding books on this subject."
+ Social Studies 41:379 D '50 10w

DOW, EMILY R. What can I do now? il by [the author]. 126p $1.95 Aladdin

790 Amusements 50-12580

"This contains much rainy-day entertainment for the younger children as well as suggestions for things to make and games to play outdoors, at home, at school or in camp. All the materials needed are easily available and very inexpensive." Horn Bk

Bookmark 10:110 F '51 10w

"Because some pages contain puzzles with numbers to be connected with a pencil, the book is better for home than library use. A small convalescent can spend many happy hours with it."
+ Horn Bk 26:488 N '50 70w
Kirkus 18:643 O 15 '50 60w

"If you are besieged with Brownie Scout leaders, etc., you will find this book of some use." D. M. Blasco
Library J 75:2016 N 15 '50 80w
Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

DOWNER, ALAN S. Fifty years of American drama, 1900-1950. (Twentieth-century literature in America) 158p $2.50 Regnery

812.09 American drama—History and criticism. Theater—U.S. 51-13185

"This essay is not intended as a history of the American Drama in its most productive years. Rather it is an attempt to analyze the product: where it came from, how it developed, and where it arrived. It involves, therefore, the inclusion of plays of varying worth, and the omission of many of both historical interest and aesthetic value." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 4 '51 150w
Kirkus 19:381 Jl 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1706 O 15 '51 60w

"Professor Downer argues his thesis ably and on the basis of a thorough familiarity with his material. Most playgoers will agree with him, and he is probably to some extent right, though it will be impossible to say to just what extent until another fifty years have put the plays of the present day into perspective. Inevitably the conventions, the tricks, and the easy solutions of one's own age seem less crude than those of a preceding generation."
Nation 173:456 N 24 '51 440w

Reviewed by Dudley Fitts
N Y Times p28 N 25 '51 320w

"Mr. Downer, who teaches at Princeton, has written a very crisp, informative survey only some one hundred and fifty pages long but seemingly unhurried and reasonably spacious because of the method wisely chosen. . . Mr. Downer's whole attitude is moderate and sensible, neither claiming too much nor unwilling to recognize substantial merit when he finds it." J. W. Krutch
+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 D 22 '51 650w

DOWNES, MRS ANNE (MILLER). High hills calling. 320p $3 Lippincott

51-9989

A mill town in upper New York state during the years before World war II is the scene. Rex Brice, brought up to regard wealth as his birthright, is suddenly faced with the prospect of the failure of his grandfather's mills. From playboy to mill owner is Rex's part for the next few years. His love for a beautiful fragile American girl, divorced from a French count, adds to Rex's difficulties. With the loss of Eunice there comes the gradual realization of his love for the loyal childhood playmate, Cordelia.

Booklist 47:266; 273 Ap 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
— Cath World 173:394 Ag '51 100w
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 24 '51 150w

Reviewed by Charlotte Capers
N Y Times p20 Ap 29 '51 120w

"'The High Hills Calling' has an absorbing romance in it and a number of truly stirring scenes." C. N. Govan
+ Sat R of Lit 34:29 My 19 '51 290w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p26A My 6 '51 120w
Wis Lib Bul 47:121 My '51

DOWNEY, FAIRFAX DAVIS. Cats of destiny; with pen-and-ink il. by Paul Brown. 170p $2.50 Scribner

636.88 Cats—Legends and stories 50-9626

Stories and sketches about cats for ages ten or older. They begin with the sacred cats of Egypt; others are about cats belonging to famous people, and a few are about cats who were famous in their own right.

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p15 N 12 '50 100w
Kirkus 18:522 S 1 '50 120w

"Well-written stories about cats." E. E. Frank
+ Library J 75:2158 D 15 '50 70w

"The pictures as well as the stories are delightful." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ja 7 '51 100w

"The sketches are brief and some are rather pointless, but the list is a long one and includes many entertaining characters, both feline and human." E. L. B.
N Y Times p50 N 26 '50 80w

DOWNS, BRIAN WESTERDALE. Study of six plays by Ibsen. 212p $3 Cambridge

839.8226 Ibsen, Henrik [A51-9006]

"In this sequel to 'Ibsen, the Intellectual Background' [Book Review Digest 1947] Brian W. Downs expands his scholarly study and research on Ibsen, the artist and man. Here he chooses six characteristic plays to establish Ibsen's intellectual background and his importance for Norway and for the rest of the world." (N Y Times) The plays studied are: Love's comedy; Brand; Peer Gynt; A doll's house; The wild duck; The master builder. Bibliography. Index.

"Criticism of Ibsen is still largely in the polemical phase: we lack a cool evaluation. Professor Downs, and the School of Scandinavian Studies in Cambridge, are busy providing a critical apparatus of which the present volume forms a part. Perhaps later they will move towards analysis. At the moment Professor Downs hesitates on the threshold." Montagu Slater
New Statesman & Nation 41:281 Mr 10 '51 420w

Reviewed by Saul Colin
+ N Y Times p48 N 26 '50 460w

"The plays are approached from the critical point of view and are evaluated not as 'theater' but as criticisms of life. In these plays, Professor Downs has summed up admirably Ibsen's contribution to the reflective life of his day." J. V.

DOWNS, B. W.—Continued

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ja 14 '51 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p22 Ja 12 '51 480w

DOWNS, ROBERT BINGHAM. American library resources. See American library association

DOYLE, LAWRENCE EDWARD. Tool engineering; analysis and procedure. 499p il $6.35; to schools $4.75 Prentice-Hall

621.7 Machine tools 50-12008

"Introduction to the principles and techniques of adapting machines and tools to the economical production of specific manufactured products. The main theme of the book is economy, especially economy in labor. From this basic standpoint the author discusses estimating costs of labor, materials and tools; the principles of dimensioning and the specification of tolerances; analysis of manufacturing processes; location of work in relation to tools; the design of fixtures; jigs and other tools; clamping; and, finally, dimensional analysis." (Library J) Index.

"Though designed as a college text, the book can be strongly recommended for home study use as well." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:116 Ja 15 '51 100w

"The book will be useful to students preparing for tool engineering, production and tool engineers, and machinists who wish to gain promotion into tool engineering. It is suitable either for classroom use or home study."

N Y New Tech Bks 36:15 Ja '51

DRACO, F. pseud. Devil's church. 217p $2.50 Rinehart

51-10854

Mystery story.

Bookmark 10:233 Jl '51

Kirkus 19:167 Mr 15 '51 70w

"A light and rather charming novel which doesn't exactly attempt to parody the 'Dracula' school of thriller, but certainly introduces some sprightly overtones to it."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 24 '51 130w

"Artful storytelling." Nancie Matthews

+ N Y Times p12 Je 17 '51 120w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord

San Francisco Chronicle p12 Je 3 '51 70w

DRAFFIN, JASPER OWEN, and COLLINS, WILLIAM LEIGHTON. Statics and strength of materials. 398p $6.50 Ronald

620.11 Statics. Strength of materials 50-9754

"An introductory text expressly written for use by students who are not preparing for civil engineering. The potential audience includes students (and also readers out of school) of architecture, mechanical drawing, etc. No mathematics beyond college algebra is required. The authors have made extensive use of diagrams to aid readers in visualizing the problems physically rather than mathematically. However, when equations are used they are carefully derived. The authors are Professors of Mechanics in the University of Illinois." N Y New Tech Bks

Eng N 146:48 F 8 '51 120w

N Y New Tech Bks 35:96 N '50

DRAPER, NANCY, and ATKINSON, MARGARET FLEMING. Ballet for beginners. 115p il $3.75 Knopf

793.32 Ballet 51-9406

Photographs of the beginning lessons in ballet, with brief text, explaining what the basic exercises are, and why continual practice is necessary. Includes musical scores, describes what everyone in a ballet company does, gives a short history of the ballet, brief stories about some leading dancers, and the stories of a few ballets. Glossary. Index.

Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

Bookmark 10:134 Mr '51 10w

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 5 '51 160w

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '51

"A fascinating book for children and full of interest for anyone." A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk 27:94 Mr '51 70w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:110 Mr '51 120w

"The text is geared for young people and each step is explained slowly and carefully with plenty of necessary repetition. Don't miss this for your library, dance school or home if you have a young ballerina."

+ Kirkus 19:26 Ja 15 '51 180w

"This admirably planned and executed book, though intended primarily for beginning students, will interest all ballet lovers." Maria Cimino

+ Library J 76:530 Mr 15 '51 100w

"Probably no little girl should try to follow all this at home. But it may persuade more parents to let their young daughters join similar classes, and will supplement them most helpfully. Also, it is a charming introduction, for non-dancers, to this art, and to its basic techniques." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 F 25 '51 190w

"'Ballet for Beginners' is an inclusive and honest book—a must for every young student of the art." R. J. Woody

+ N Y Times p18 Jl 1 '51 170w

Reviewed by Ralph Robinson

San Francisco Chronicle p19 F 18 '51 400w

+ Sat R of Lit 34:49 Mr 17 '51 60w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 50w

Wis Lib Bul 47:92 Ap '51

DREER, HERMAN. American literature by Negro authors. 334p il $3.20 Macmillan

810.8 Negro literature—Collections 50-9459

"This volume is intended primarily for use as a textbook. Accordingly much realistic material, though regarded by some as showing artistic skill, has been omitted as unsuitable for classroom use. The aim has not been to cover the entire field, but to present representative authors and some of their works, in order to show how Negro writers have treated each type of American literature. The range of writings is from the age of Phillis Wheatley to current times." Pref

Reviewed by Millicent Taylor

Christian Science Monitor p6 S 30 '50 100w

"In assembling this material which is representative of many generations of his race, the compiler has accomplished a noteworthy beginning. It seems likely that other persons having the opportunity to view the aspirations and ideals of a race of people, encumbered as they were from the start, will take renewed courage from such evidence and push more vigorously on toward the realization of their purposes and their hopes. At any rate, it is good material to put before growing youth." E. S. Lide

+ School R 59:59 Ja '51 700w

DREISER, HELEN (PATGES) RICHARDSON (MRS THEODORE DREISER). My life with Dreiser. 328p il $3.75 World pub.

B or 92 Dreiser, Theodore 51-10332

"Recollections of Theodore Dreiser by his second wife, from their first meeting in 1919 until his death in 1945. Primarily a discreet account of their life together, this is also an autobiographical narrative of the author's life during their frequent separations. A few of Dreiser's letters and some excerpts from his writings are published here for the first time." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 47:292 Ap 15 '51

Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 40w

"Disarmingly honest, simple, and, for the most part, unpretentious. . . But even when one is on the verge of laying the book down, one never quite does, probably because the subject is, after all, Dreiser, and even more probably because of the author's easy, informal way with her narrative." J. A. Clark
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Mr 11 '51 390w

Reviewed by H. W. Hart
Library J 76:409 Mr 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by G. W. Johnson
New Repub 124:26 Ap 16 '51 850w

"Since [the author] was in a position to give us a uniquely penetrating view of Dreiser and plainly cherishes her memories of him, it is a pity she lacks the skill to do justice to her subject. . . There is much here that will interest students of Dreiser, but it will be no less in what the author reveals unwittingly than in what she dwells on at length."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 Ap 1 '51 230w

New Yorker 27:92 Mr 31 '51 160w

"Mrs. Dreiser's adoring attitude toward her late husband precludes the possibility of an objective portrait of him. One has only to read one of Mencken's recent respectful but irreverent pieces on Dreiser to realize how one-sided and filmy is the description we get here. It is a frank and valuable sidelight on one of America's remarkable authors by an admiring wife; but it needs to be supplemented by observations of those who knew them both." Marvin Sargent
San Francisco Chronicle p15 Mr 4 '51 650w

"There is much useful information here on the history of Dreiser's career from the middle 1920's to 'The Bulwark' and the unpublished 'Notes on Life.' In its own way 'My Life with Dreiser' gives a more essential feeling about him than the best scholarly study, for he was after all an artist who broke all the academic canons to describe what he believed to be the essence of American life." Maxwell Geismar
Sat R of Lit 34:16 Mr 17 '51 360w

DREPPERD, CARL WILLIAM. Victorian, the Cinderella of antiques. 281p il $3.95 Doubleday

749.224 Antiques. Collectors and collecting. Furniture, American 50-11085

The story of Victorian furniture, and other Victorian elegancies, of the years 1830 to 1860. Partial contents: Cabinets, sideboards, desks, and other case furniture; Tables, stands, and beds; Mirrors; Maze of lamps and a glare of light; Glass; Ceramics; Textiles of importance; Jewelry for everybody; Elegancies. Index.

Kirkus 18:586 S 15 '50 160w

San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 18 '51 270w

Reviewed by R. L. Howell
Sat R of Lit 34:47 Ap 7 '51 290w

DRESSER, DAVIS. Framed in blood, by Brett Halliday [pseud]. 248p $2.50 Dodd 51-10018

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Je 10 '51 60w

"One of the lesser adventures of the hard-hitting red-headed Miami detective. But Brett Halliday is experienced enough to be counted on for speed and a tight plot even in one of his minor yarns."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 20 '51 150w

Reviewed by Anthony Boucher
N Y Times p16 Jl 1 '51 110w

"Plenty of violence and a certain amount of invention."
New Yorker 27:144 Ap 14 '51 70w

"This straight detective story is uncluttered by atmosphere, romance or fantasy. Women may find it rather dry." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 15 '51 70w

Sat R of Lit 34:40 Ap 28 '51 50w

DRESSER, DAVIS. When Dorinda dances, by Brett Halliday [pseud]. 215p $2.50 Dodd 51-13039

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 O 28 '51 40w

"Possibly Brett Halliday's best achievement yet in the saga of Michael Shayne." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p22 O 7 '51 50w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 O 14 '51 90w

"Top flight Mike Shayne." D. F. M.
+ Springf'd Republican p14C O 28 '51 80w

DRESSLER, DAVID. Parole chief. 310p $3.50 Viking

364.62 Probation system. Crime and criminals—New York (state) 51-2827

A former executive director of the New York State parole board explains parole work by discussing cases and incidents from his own career.

Booklist 47:245; 303 Mr 15 '51; My 1 '51

"There is, on the whole, a sort of sketchy, grab-bag quality in 'Parole Chief' which this reviewer regrets, but there is plenty of informed and plain-spoken comment here and there as well." John Lardner
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p23 My 13 '51 800w

"Since Mr. Dressler was a social worker before embarking on his career in parole work, and since he is, in addition, an intelligent and perceptive man, his book is more than the mere personal history of a law officer. It is an effort to spell out what parole systems are and what they seek to accomplish, and it is told in a simple and understandable fashion." Emanuel Perlmutter
+ N Y Times p22 Je 3 '51 300w

"Unfortunately the author has picked up, somewhere along the line, a bag of journalistic tricks that give some of his tales, which are undoubtedly true, a false ring. Mr. Dressler is now preparing a serious study of the whole system; it will be called 'Probation and Parole Practice,' and since he will feel on compulsion to liven up the copy for the layman, it is likely that it will be a more rewarding account of his interesting experiences."
New Yorker 27:126 My 12 '51 200w

"A warm, informative book well worth reading." Frank O'Leary
Sat R of Lit 34:12 My 5 '51 850w

Springf'd Republican p5D Je 3 '51 300w

DREWRY, CARLETON. Time of turning. 96p $2.75 Dutton

811 51-10517

"Clean, refreshing images, a purity and steadiness of thought pervade these collected lyrics, drawn from themes of nature—old and always new—and of the self, which draws thought and sustenance from the earth." Booklist

Booklist 47:378 Jl 1 '51

DREWRY, CARLETON—Continued

"Carleton Drewry appears to be a slavish imitator of the Frostian technique without either the wit or felicity of that poet. Obviously a poem must contain more than innocuous statements about the habits of insects or the positions of light on a landscape." Howard Griffin

— Sat R of Lit 34:36 Jl 21 '51 200w

DRIGGS, HOWARD ROSCOE. Nick Wilson, pioneer boy among the Indians; il. by L. F. Bjorklund. 88p $1.75 Aladdin

Wilson, Elijah Nicholas—Juvenile literature
51-12429

"True story of a twelve-year-old white boy who was lured away from his home by Shoshone Indians and lived for two years with the tribe as the adopted son of Chief Washakie's mother." Booklist

Booklist 48:107 N 15 '51

Reviewed by O. D. Hormel

Christian Science Monitor p7 S 20 '51 80w

"A first-rate frontier story."

+ Kirkus 19:350 Jl 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by A. B. Martin

Library J 76:1944 N 15 '51 60w

"The details of Indian life are unusual, the hunting exciting." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 N 18 '51 110w

DRIGGS, HOWARD ROSCOE. Pitch pine tales; il. by L. F. Bjorklund. 101p $2 Aladdin

A dozen easy-to-read stories of colonial and pioneer days in America. Some of the stories are about Indians. For grades four to six.

Booklist 47:385 Jl 1 '51

Reviewed by O. R. Way

Library J 76:1234 Ag '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 29 '51 50w

"The blending of history and legend, of comedy and tragedy, will be especially enjoyed by younger readers who want exciting stories of America." C. E. Van Norman

+ N Y Times p30 Ap 29 '51 140w

DRIOTON, ETIENNE. Egyptian art; phot. by Etienne Sved. (Golden griffin bks) 168p $8 Arts, inc.

709.32 Art, Egyptian

"Handsome photographs of sculpture, architecture and landscape, and arranged as a rational history." New Repub

"An inspiring picture-book." A. S. Plaut

+ Library J 76:43 Ja 1 '51 50w

"The sharp plasticity of the miraculous stonecutting is admirably rendered. The lighting is frequently melodramatic, but it does not sacrifice form or edges for a flashy picture. Details are composed well, and the inking and printing of the plates (in France) are rich and deep. As for the material itself, the supreme mineral anonymity and terrible absoluteness of Egyptian sculpture renders almost all subsequent Western achievement—even Greek and Gothic—small in scale and tentative in execution." Lincoln Kirstein

+ New Repub 123:24 D 11 '50 110w

"Able photography and imaginative selection of photographs make this volume one of unusual interest."

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 N 19 '50 180w

DUBOIS, ELFRIEDA THERESA. Portrait of Léon Bloy. 125p $2 Sheed

B or 92 Bloy, Léon
51-9670

"In this 'Portrait of Leon Bloy,' Elfrieda T. Dubois, a Viennese born lecturer in French at the University of Durham, England, has made a summary of Bloy's life and beliefs." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 9 '51 40w

"Her quotations are well chosen, her comments informative and she provides a useful bibliography. Mrs. Dubois' aim is to send the reader to the original texts and if, at times, these seem to frighten her, if she approaches them somewhat gingerly, that is just as well—it serves to warn the reader that Bloy is explosive material." Gouverneur Paulding

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 16 '51 350w

"An accurate and useful introduction to the work of Léon Bloy, but it is not quite the book about Bloy that one has been waiting for. She avoids the fervours of those disciples whose following of Bloy was inspired by personal knowledge, and she sees through to the profound and disturbing paradox of his personality; but her criticism is still timid and insufficiently detailed."

Times [London] Lit Sup p344 Je 1 '51 450w

DU BOIS, MRS THEODORA (MCCORMICK). Fowl play. 189p $2.50 Doubleday 51-12100

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:309 Je 15 '51 70w

"An amiable adventure which involves some good detection."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 S 9 '51 100w

"Despite the painful title, this is a highly attractive novel." Anthony Boucher

+ N Y Times p11 S 2 '51 90w

"Dr. Jeffrey McNeill and his wife, a pair of pretty coy sleuths, finally put all the pieces together, but it is a strain on their ingenuity, and their solution may tax the reader's credulity a little bit, too."

New Yorker 27:88 Ag 25 '51 120w

"Pretty good plot and characterization are somewhat obscured by a awkward narrative style." L. G. Offord

+ — San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 2 '51 60w

"Excellent writing as usual—but somehow mystery drags." Kathleen Sproul

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:28 D 8 '51 40w

DU BOIS, MRS THEODORA (MCCORMICK). Solution T-25. 218p $2.75 Doubleday
51-1623

"The plot revolves around the the accomplished fact of the invasion of the United States by Soviet Russia and the enslavement of the population with the exception of a small segment of government in exile in the West. Also escaping the invasion was a Yale scientist, Dr. Sheridan, who was working on a secret weapon that ultimately leads to the overthrow of the enemy. How a small resistance movement, composed of ostensible collaborators with the new order, works to bring Dr. Sheridan's secret weapon into play is the theme of this exciting tale." Springf'd Republican

Bookmark 10:185 My '51

Kirkus 19:13 Ja 1 '51 100w

"Should make for diverting reading. However, so dolorous a theme cannot be rescued from bleakness, not even when a scientist invents a drug which destroys enemy resistance." N. M.

N Y Times p19 Je 3 '51 110w

Reviewed by Don Fabun

San Francisco Chronicle p18 Mr 25 '51 70w

"A rather ordinary science fiction yarn." D. F. M.

Springf'd Republican 26A My 6 '51 120w

DU BOIS, WILLIAM PENE. Bear party [il. by the author]. $2 Viking

Story, with many pictures, about what happened when the little Koala bears in an Australian park had a session of not speaking to each other. The wise old bear discovered a way to make all peaceful again.

Booklist 48:149 D 15 '51

Bookmark 11:85 Ja '52

"A more enchanting little gift book would be hard to find." P. G.

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 N 11 '51 110w

"There is fun and wisdom and friendliness; there are colors and costumes and merriment, all strung on a thread of story. There are pages of bears in fancy dress, in the most delightful color combinations and contrasts. This is a beautiful piece of book-making." E. C. Ince

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 11 '51 50w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '51

Reviewed by A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk 27:400 D '51 50w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:403 D '51 80w

+ Kirkus 19:432 Ag 15 '51 100w

"Highly recommended as a gift item and for all libraries." Margaret Martignoni

+ Library J 76:2019 D 1 '51 70w

"An amusing little full-color book for younger children. . . A good deal of the story appeared in Life Magazine, and we regret to report that we think their printing was better. But the book is rare fun, and will be widely enjoyed by a new age audience for Mr. Du Bois." L. S. Bechtel

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 N 11 '51 230w

"This little book, with all its glowing color, calm and wit, is almost like music, such is the rhythm of its words and pictures. Children will want to hear and see it over and over—which will work no hardship on the adults who share the fun. Highly recommended." Marjorie Fischer

+ N Y Times p41 N 11 '51 140w

Wis Lib Bul 47:257 N '51

DUCKETT, ELEANOR SHIPLEY. Alcuin, friend of Charlemagne; his world and his work. 337p $5 Macmillan

B or 92 Alcuin. Eighth century 51-3328

A combination of biography and history concerning the famous eighth century English scholar Alcuin. Bibliography. Index.

"Miss Duckett has given us the first biography of Alcuin in English since Gaskoin's study, which dates from 1904. Hers is a story well worth the retelling and few will take it up without profit." H. G. J. Beck

+ Commonweal 54:340 Jl 13 '51 450w

"Recommended for student of history." O. G. Lawson

+ Library J 76:595 Ap 1 '51 110w

"Miss Duckett is completely at home in the eighth century. She succeeds effortlessly in giving her reader the feeling of the age. Her scholarship is prodigious and impeccable, as any reader of her 'Anglo-Saxon Saints and Scholars' must know. She is equally thorough whether she is treating the history of Carolingian handwriting or the origins of the Adoptianist heresay." Richard Winston

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ag 12 '51 700w

"Mostly this is a book for the research library. The animated portrait of Charlemagne's scholar remains to be done." T. C. Chubb

N Y Times p21 Ag 19 '51 240w

School & Society 73:286 My 5 '51 40w

"It was as a practical man and educational administrator the author believes he did his best and most lasting work. By presenting him in that light Miss Duckett has restored Alcuin to his rightful place and has also reconstructed the story of Charlemagne's cultural 'renaissance' with patient scholarship and a charming style." Donald Derby

+ Springf'd Republican p5D Je 3 '51 550w

"One weakness of this work is in the area of politics. In spite of Dr. Duckett's efforts to sketch in the political background, she never really describes Frankish government, and she dodges all the hard questions connected with the imperial coronation of 800. This is a flaw, since Alcuin had political influence, even though he despised politics. But it is the only serious flaw in an admirable book, which gives us a better portrait of Alcuin as a man and as a scholar than we have had before in English."

+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:224 S '51 250w

DUFFY, BEN. Profitable advertising in today's media and markets. rev ed 416p il $5.95; to schools $5.75 Prentice-Hall

659.1 Advertising 51-10985

"A study of advertising media—newspapers, magazines, radio, television and outdoor media—with attention to position, frequency, and judging results. Published in 1939 as Advertising Media and Markets, now brought up to date." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 47:403 Jl 15 '51

"Author is a top-flight advertising agency executive. . . [This is] a highly effective and useful presentation." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 76:1129 Jl '51 80w

DUFFY, CHARLES, and PETTIT, HENRY JEWETT. Dictionary of literary terms. 111p $2; pa $1 Univ. of Denver press

803 Literature—Dictionaries, indexes, etc. English language—Terms and phrases 51-9765

A handbook, designed chiefly for the use of students, giving definitions and examples of use of some four hundred literary terms. Authors are, respectively, Professor of English and Head of the Department of English, University of Akron, and Professor of English, University of Colorado.

Booklist 47:270 Ap 1 '51

Reviewed by E. F. Walbridge

Library J 76:517 Mr 15 '51 100w

Sat R of Lit 34:60 Je 16 '51 120w

Special Libraries 42:197 My '51 20w

"No such modest book could exhaust this field, hence such common words as composition, eulogy, fantasy, manuscript, novella and others may come quickly to mind as demanding inclusion. Nor is there any attempt at a guide to pronunciation. While the definitions in any standard dictionary may often be found quite as comprehensive, this small volume has the advantage of compactness and unanimity of subject, convenient for students and teachers, as well as for the general reader." D. B. B.

+ Springf'd Republican p16A Ap 1 '51 190w

DUGGAN, ALFRED LEO. Knight with armour. 306p $3.50 Coward-McCann

51-11259

The first great pilgrimage to the Holy Land at the end of the eleventh century is the background of this historical novel. The hero is Sir Roger, younger son of one of England's Norman conquerors.

Booklist 47:401 Jl 15 '51

"A truly delightful book." Riley Hughes

+ Cath World 174:152 N '51 230w

"An Englishman, Mr. Duggan writes with too much taste to indulge in any flamboyant romantics. His considerable knowledge of feudal society, warfare, armor and armament solidly bases the story; a generous mixture of urbanity, epigram, and wit generously spices it." R. C.

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 Jl 5 '51 300w

DUGGAN, A. L.—Continued

"Although the roster of characters is meagre, this novel has more than most in research and perspective."

Kirkus 19:234 My 1 '51 160w

"Mr. Duggan's descriptions and pictures of the ways of eleventh-century life have that unmistakable touch of detailed exactitude which makes his narrative sound singularly convincing. Nevertheless, one reader finds himself wishing that the novelist had dipped a little more into Walter Scott than he gives any evidence of having done." John Cournos

N Y Times p23 Je 10 '51 150w

"How Roger married and how he fought and what became of him provide the narrative interest that links together this lucid and authoritative account of Medieval battle tactics. If Mr. Duggan's manner with his characters is sometimes a little stiff and a shade naive, it may be that he is brushing the archaic with his individual brand of whimsy." M. L. Mueller

+ — San Francisco Chronicle p15 Jl 29 '51 140w

DUGO, ANDRE, pseud. See Szenes, A.

DU JARDIN, MRS ROSAMOND (NEAL). Class ring; a Tobey Heydon story. 207p $2.50 Lippincott

51-9796

Sequel to Practically Seventeen (Book Review Digest 1949). In this story Tobey has reached seventeen, and is involved with her best friend, one of her high school classmates, in the advantages and disadvantages of wearing a boy's class ring. For ages twelve to sixteen.

"The combination of close family life and gay date-full whirl promises sure popularity for the book."

+ Kirkus 19:154 Mr 15 '51 120w

"The subject is treated practically and sanely and will exert far more influence than innumerable lectures by parents and teachers. Girls will love the story and, while not great literature, it is well written, wholesome, and suited to the teen age." E. E. Frank

+ Library J 76:606 Ap 1 '51 60w

"Everything takes place in so good-natured a home atmosphere and is seen through the eyes of so likable, honest a girl, that one puts down the book with a sense of having spent some time with people it is good to know." M. L. Becker

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 My 20 '51 200w

"A thread of humor gives Tobey's story lightness and proportion."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:57 My 12 '51 40w

DUNCAN, DAVID. None but my foe. 233p $3 Macmillan

50-10571

Stephen Smith, a novelist living in a small west coast community, feels that his wife, Ellen, was practically murdered by the town's pompous mayor and other civic leaders. Ellen had contracted pneumonia and died while attempting to combat baseless rumors about a friend. In a crude effort at revenge Stephen spreads the story that the town water supply has been poisoned. The resultant panic is more than even he bargained for.

Booklist 47:156 D 15 '50

Kirkus 18:488 Ag 15 '50 170w

"The ethics of this study in the power of a lie seem a bit confused, but its depiction of the vanities and chicaneries of small-town life is always interesting. Not up to its predecessor, The Serpent's Egg [Book Review Digest 1950] however." E. F. Walbridge

Library J 75:1660 O 1 '50 110w

"Weakened dramatically by the presence of a muddled hero, subdued heroine and likable heavy, 'None But My Foe' nevertheless packs a wallop in its close-up of community fear. The doer, the idealist, the thinker, the megalomaniac and the artist all have their places on stage." James Kelly

+ — N Y Times p25 D 10 '50 260w

San Francisco Chronicle p25 F 25 '51 140w

"This is a good story judged as a melodramatic yarn. Embodied in it is an idea of some depth and much force of timeliness. . . 'None But My Foe' is not much as a novel, being strictly mechanical. But the comment it makes on a public state of mind is important and effective." Edmund Fuller

Sat R of Lit 33:26 D 30 '50 360w

DUNCAN, DAVID DOUGLAS. This is war. unp $4.95 Harper

951.9 Korea—History—War and intervention, 1950- 51-11345

A photographic record of the U. S. Marine corps in the War in Korea. The photographs, mostly of men's faces, are without captions, but there are a general introduction and introductory prefaces to each section. These are headed: The hill, The city, "Retreat, hell!"

Booklist 47:399 Jl 15 '51

Reviewed by J. H. Thompson

Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 8 '51 240w

Kirkus 19:344 Jl 1 '51 110w

"Mr. Duncan has one unusual bit of technique, which may bother some readers, especially the hasty ones. He uses no captions. Instead, he writes a three or four page preface for each of his three pictorial short stories, in which he explains what is taking place in the subsequent set of pictures. You have to read the text in order to understand the pictures. This is not a photographic book to be thumbed through rapidly and effortlessly. It is a book to be studied, and it richly repays the study." Marcus Duffield

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Je 24 '51 850w

"Duncan has done for Korea what none of the hundreds of men with cameras achieved in World War II. He has caught war's essence as well as most of its facets: the anxiety, the loneliness, the comradeship, the humor, the terror, the heroism, the futility, the chance, the boredom and the wonder of war are here as nowhere else outside the battlefield itself. . . The twenty-odd pages of text Mr. Duncan has written for the book show by contrast the lucidity of his uncaptioned pictures. The prose is professional and adequate and still it is mute beside the photographs." Charles Simmons

+ N Y Times p3 Je 24 '51 250w

"The author is an extraordinarily talented photographer, and he has been able to achieve a sense of continuity in his story and an integration that these books usually lack."

+ New Yorker 27:79 Jl 21 '51 170w

Reviewed by C. X. Larrabee

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Jl 15 '51 310w

"This superlative assemblage of photographs from Korea is an epic of battle in pictures." J. T. Winterich

+ Sat R of Lit 34:10 Jl 14 '51 400w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 300w

"Life Photographer David Douglas Duncan has shot the best and truest pictures of the Korean war. . . In This Is War!, Duncan explains what he set out to do: 'I wanted to show what war did to a man. . . I wanted to tell a story of war, as war has always been for men through the ages.' No one who looks through This is War!, with its vivid combat scenes and unforgettable warrior faces, can doubt that Duncan has succeeded magnificently."

+ Time 57:94 Je 25 '51 300w

Wis Lib Bul 47:188 Jl '51

DUNCAN, RONALD FREDERICK HENRY, ed. See Gandhi, M. K. Selected writings

DUNHAM, CLARENCE WHITING. Foundations of structures. 679p il $7.50 McGraw

624.15 Foundations 50-12284

"Every new foundation is a new problem. Nothing is more valuable to the engineer who must solve it than an extensive experience either actual or vicarious. Accordingly, a wide variety of foundation problems and designs is discussed and illustrated in this work. The material includes not only standard solutions to common problems but ingenious solutions to unusual ones. Examples of foundation failures are analyzed also. The book is intended primarily for upper-class students of civil engineering." Library J

Eng N 147:47 Ag 16 '51 160w

"It will be useful to practicing engineers who are not specialists in foundation work, but occasionally must solve an unusual foundation problem." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:332 F 15 '51 150w

"An authoritative and important work on the design of foundations for most of the important types of structures."

+ N Y New Tech Bks 36:9 Ja '51

DUNKIN, PAUL SHANER. How to catalog a rare book. 85p il pa $1.75 A.L.A.

025.341 Cataloging 51-9739

"Unexpected humor enlivens and clarifies this technical manual, which lays down the principle that a rare book is important as a physical entity, and must be described in such a way that people who consult the library's catalog will know in what ways the book is unique." Booklist

Booklist 47:231 Mr 1 '51

"His explanation of why cataloging rare books differs from cataloging ordinary books is good reading for administrators and catalogers alike. . . Unfortunately, special emphasis is laid on details of physical description which, while occasionally needed to distinguish one issue from another, can safely be omitted in cataloging most of the rare books in a general collection. . . It is not as a manual for catalogers of all kinds of rare books that it will find its greatest use, but as a reference tool for catalogers handling sixteenth and seventeenth century English printing. For them it may be a life-saver; but if followed without discrimination it will bring back the old problem of cataloging costs out of proportion to the value of the catalog card." M. M. Root

+ — Library J 76:768 My 1 '51 480w

"Mr. Dunkin's book is a useful, if controversial, introduction to a thorny field, and neophyte catalogers can be grateful to him for compressing into its small compass a great deal of valuable and clearly stated instruction. . . Mr. Dunkin's sections on format and collation are thorough, clear, and succinct, and it is this part of his book that will probably be of most use to most catalogers. . . In a book of this sort Mr. Dunkin could surely have found room for a few general pointers out of the fund of his long experience. Such omissions will perhaps not be felt by catalogers in small libraries, but Mr. Dunkin has presumably written his book for all rare-book catalogers, and there are enough large rare-book collections in the country for his rather incomplete treatment of his subject to cause disappointment to at least some of his colleagues." J. E. Walsh

+ — Library Q 21:230 Jl '51 500w

DUNKLIN, GILBERT T., ed. Wordsworth; centenary studies presented at Cornell and Princeton universities, by Douglas Bush [and others]. 169p $3 Princeton univ. press

821 Wordsworth, William 51-11526

Contents: Wordsworth: a minority report, by D. Bush; The eye and the object in the poetry of Wordsworth, by F. A. Pottle; Wordsworth through Coleridge's eyes, by E. L. Griggs; William Wordsworth: notes toward an understanding of poetry, by J. C. Ransom; Wordsworth and the European problem of the twentieth century, by B. I. Evans; Wordsworth and the iron time, by L. Trilling; Wordsworth's religion, by W. L. Sperry.

Booklist 48:46 O 1 '51

Reviewed by W. A. Borst

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 11 '51 650w

DUNLAP, MRS KATHARINE. Glory and the dream. 181p $2.50 Morrow

Lecouvreur, Adrienne—Fiction. Saxe, Maurice, comte de—Fiction 51-10601

Fictionized account of an eighteenth century love story, the romance of a French actress, Adrienne Lecouvreur, and a soldier and nobleman of the French court, Comte Maurice de Saxe.

Booklist 47:329 My 15 '51

Kirkus 19:136 Mr 1 '51 120w

Reviewed by Sylvia Stallings

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p40 D 2 '51 360w

"Though faithfully documented and written with a zeal for presenting each detail honestly and without distortion, the full emotional sweep of this historic romance never lifts itself off the pages. Compared with the usual historical novel, where adjectives and action run the gamut, Miss Dunlap's style is refreshingly reserved. Yet, for all the author's care in presenting the details of her love-idyll, the spark of life is lacking." Anne Richards

— + N Y Times p19 My 13 '51 100w

DUNLAP, ORRIN ELMER. Radio and television almanac. 211p il $4 Harper

621.38 Radio broadcasting. Electronics. Television broadcasting 51-9096

Chronologically arranged reference guide to "men, events, inventions and dates that made history in electronics from the dawn of electricity to radar and television." (Subtitle) Index.

Bookmark 10:105 F '51 30w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:332 F 15 '51 130w

DUNLOP, JOHN THOMAS, and HILL, ARTHUR D. Wage adjustment board; wartime stabilization in the building and construction industry. 166p $3.50 Harvard univ. press

331.22 Wages. U.S. Wage adjustment board

"An account and analysis of the wage stabilization program in the construction industry in World War II. The WAB was unique in being created in advance of the general program by voluntary agreement between procurement agencies and AFL unions. There was a large measure of co-operation among all parties, based on mutual understanding of the special character of the industry with its seasonal and on-site features, and this study should be helpful in the event that such a program is required again." (Library J) Index.

"The present volume is a useful addition to the literature of wartime wage stabilization and labor dispute settlement. Mr. Hill was a member of the Wage Adjustment Board from its beginning, and Professor Dunlop during its later stages. This account of the operations of wage control in the construction industry unquestionably benefits from the insights gained by the authors as participants in the process." H. M. Douty

+ Ann Am Acad 274:237 Mr '51 480w

Reviewed by H. R. Northrup

Eng N 146:43 Ap 5 '51 600w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 76:45 Ja 1 '51 80w

"Most timely because of current developments in wage-price stabilization, this book presents an unofficial but authoritative history and detailed exposition of the Wage Adjustment Board, the wartime stabilization agency for the construction industry."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:66 Mr '51 200w

DUNN, FREDERICK SHERWOOD. War and the minds of men. (Council on foreign relations. Publication) 115p $2 Harper

341 International relations. Propaganda 50-10747

"Mr. Dunn, director of the Yale Institute of International Relations and adviser to the American delegation at several Unesco conferences, has made this study of how peace can be promoted in the minds of men, especially through the efforts of Unesco. . . Mr. Dunn outlines what Unesco can do to reach the minds of men in the kind of world we have. For the present, he indicates, it can ease tensions only among peoples that still have a free choice." N Y Times

Reviewed by Royden Dangerfield
Am Pol Sci R 45:922 S '51 280w

Reviewed by J. S. Roucek
Am Soc R 16:425 Je '51 150w

"The present reviewer can find no flaws in Professor Dunn's analysis. The reader is left, however, with a feeling of deep discouragement. Professor Dunn's own mood, however, does not appear to reflect a similar degree of discouragement." E. C. Tolman
Ann Am Acad 275:163 My '51 400w

Booklist 47:232 Mr 1 '51

Foreign Affairs 29:317 Ja '51 30w

"A comprehensive, closely reasoned, clearly arranged book which glosses over none of the complexities and difficulties of communication among peoples." Emery Neff
+ New Repub 124:19 Je 18 '51 550w

"His book should be read and studied by everyone interested in promoting world peace." Neil MacNeil
+ N Y Times p18 D 3 '50 380w

"With most of his pungent criticism of UNESCO's confusion of purpose and dispersion of effort few informed persons will disagree. At the same time, in this reviewer's opinion, fuller recognition might fairly have been given to the inherent limitations of an inter-governmental agency, obliged to operate on a niggardly budget, for the manipulation of education, science and technology in the quest for peace and security. . . These observations, however, are not meant to detract from the value of Professor Dunn's pioneer analysis. With shrewd insight, it reveals the complexity of the task that lies ahead of UNESCO not only, but of the social sciences as well." W. R. Sharp
+ — Pol Sci Q 66:458 S '51 600w

San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ja 28 '51 200w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:175 Je '51 230w

DUNN, LESLIE CLARENCE, ed. Genetics in the 20th century; essays on the progress of genetics during 50 years; ed. for the Genetics society of America. 634p $5 Macmillan

575.1 Genetics 51-11606

"A collection of original papers written for and presented at the Golden Jubilee of Genetics at Ohio State University in September, 1950. Though the historical development of genetics is in the background of most of the papers, many of them deal with the current state of knowledge of a particular area within genetics. The book is addressed not to lay readers but to advanced students of genetics and professional geneticists. Many of the papers are accompanied by substantial reference lists." N Y New Tech Bks

Reviewed by S. C. Harland
Manchester Guardian p4 N 20 '51 480w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:71 S '51

DUNN, WILLIAM PARMLY. Sir Thomas Browne; a study in religious philosophy. 2d ed 182p $3 Univ. of Minn. press

B or 92 Browne, Sir Thomas 50-10370

A study of the life and writings of the seventeenth century philosopher physician, author of Religio Medici and Urn Burial. This is a revision of the 1926 edition. Index.

Reviewed by T. H. Maren
N Y Times p7 D 31 '50 370w

"Because it presupposes some knowledge of seventeenth-century England, this is a book for the informed layman or scholar rather than the casual reader. To persons properly equipped, Professor Dunn brings a fresh vision of the speculative philosopher and the enduring personality who will attract a devout if not a very large following in every age."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:33 Mr '51 350w

DUNSHEATH, PERCY, ed. Century of technology, 1851-1951; written by specialist authors. 346p il $5 Roy pubs.

609 Great Britain—Industries and resources [51-5033]

"A collection of short original papers, each of which is designed to review the high spots of development in a special field of technology during the past century. . . Since the book was published in connection with the Festival of Britain, it is only natural that the author should emphasize British events. Nevertheless, some attention is paid to developments in the United States and elsewhere." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

"Undoubtedly some readers will read the book through, but its main use will be as a reference book." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:2119 D 15 '51 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:78 S '51

Times [London] Lit Sup p136 Mr 2 '51 500w

DUPEE, FREDERICK WILCOX. Henry James. (Am. men of letters ser) 301p $4 Sloane

B or 92 James, Henry 51-2012

"A critical biography in which an account of the life of the man and an analysis of his development as an artist are perfectly blended." New Yorker

Booklist 47:309 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 30w

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Ap 8 '51 600w

"Henry's bachelorhood, his disappointment over his failure as a playwright, his life at Lamb House, his friendships, his attitude toward World War I—all this Mr. Dupee discusses clearly, keeping the narrative line free and clear. His discussion of the work is equally clear. He is particularly good on the three last great novels—'The Ambassadors,' 'The Wings of the Dove,' and 'The Golden Bowl.'" Horace Reynolds
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 My 9 '51 450w

"Recommended for all libraries." B. B. Libaire
+ Library J 76:774 My 1 '51 130w

"The book is an exhibition of a sound and subtle judgment exercising itself upon a subject that has been thought through. Mr. Dupee has gained an easy familiarity with his subject through long study." Elizabeth Stevenson
+ Nation 172:377 Ap 21 '51 1200w

Reviewed by Perry Miller
+ New Eng Q 24:381 S '51 1000w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman & Nation 42:736 D 22 '51 2100w

"It can be said of this book, as Mr. Dupee says of the volume on Hawthorne contributed by Henry James to the English Men of Letters Series, that it is 'a persuasive portrait.' Without fuss or strain it meets the double standard set by its exacting subject and sustained by its admirable forerunners in the present series." Harry Levin
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 My 27 '51 850w

"Detached yet sympathetic, objective yet interested, Dupee gives the reader the happy feeling of sitting in discriminating judgment on the Jamesian work without passing sentence upon it. He is concerned essentially with candid evaluation of a great American creative personality. Unlike some of the earlier critics who have tended to make James seem more complicated than he really is, Dupee makes him engagingly simple." Leon Edel

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 8 '51 650w

"The critical parts of the study are excellent, and the author has been able to synopsize the plots he discusses without making them sound silly."

+ New Yorker 27:140 Ap 14 '51 200w

"F. W. Dupee has carried out the difficult assignment of adding a volume on Henry James to the American Men of Letters Series with conspicuous success. Coming to his task at a time when there had recently been much admirably close study of James's texts, he was in a position to select from the accumulation what he concluded were truly valid insights. He has had the discrimination firmly to reject anything rather overblown, such as Lionel Trilling's estimate of 'The Princess Casamassima.'" C. H. Grattan

+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 Ap 28 '51 1000w

"The general reader will be grateful for an admirable introduction to Henry James, impressive in the totality of its grasp and its prevailing sanity. But it really offers no novel insights into the major fictions, no significant reinterpretation of his art as a whole. As formal literary criticism it lacks direction and is not keyed to any clearly defined set of principles, so that it offers little to the special student beyond convenient summary and occasional illumination."

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:140 Je '51 250w

"The narrative is fluent and the critical analysis enlightening. The best biography of James thus far, it leaves room for a more detailed treatment but gives all that is needed for an understanding of the novelist's essential quality and the relevance of his work to some of our current concerns." K. B. Murdock

+ Yale R n s 41:115 autumn '51 350w

DU PONT, MRS MARCELLA MILLER. Sonnets and lyrics. 56p $3 Spiral press, 350 W. 31st st, N.Y. 1

811 50-56232

A collection of short poems by an American writer. "Mrs. du Pont is the former wife of Alfred Victor du Pont of the famous Delaware family, and is a native of Denver. After contributing poems anonymously to such publications as the Saturday Review of Literature and after an active Washington career as writer and war time volunteer worker, she won the Wilmington Poetry society's 1949 award with this collection." (Chicago Sunday Tribune)

"In several respects Mrs. du Pont recalls the steel-hard poetry of the late Edna St. Vincent Millay. Both are poets with a strong sense of physical sensation—the passion of love, the pain of separation—and both speak in spare, chiseled phrases, often memorable but rarely light and smiling. . . And like Miss Millay, Mrs. du Pont has the technical mastery to make something memorable of this deep but channeled emotional life." Russell MacFall

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 4 '51 300w

Manchester Guardian p4 Je 5 '51 20w

"[Mrs] du Pont, as Dixon Wecter's preface makes clear, is neither mannered nor derivative (though he makes oblique reference to 'the shy laureate of Amherst'). . . On the whole, her poems have simplicity, charm and clarity." Maurice Irvine

+ N Y Times p9 D 24 '50 200w

Times [London] Lit Sup p418 Jl 6 '51 50w

DURHAM, FRANKLIN P. Aircraft jet powerplants. 326p il $6.65; to schools $5 Prentice-Hall

629.13435 Jet propulsion 51-3631

"A compact textbook in which the main emphasis is on thermodynamic aspects. There is relatively little on metallurgical or mechanical problems and details of jet powerplants, but the illustrations include a fair number of photographs and diagrams of engine and engine elements. The reader will need a knowledge of basic thermodynamic terminology and concepts. The author is a member of the faculty of the University of Colorado." Library J

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1132 Jl '51 50w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:49 Jl '51

School & Society 73:366 Je 9 '51 10w

DURKHEIM, EMILE. Suicide; a study in sociology; tr. by John A. Spaulding and George Simpson; ed. by George Simpson. 405p maps $5 Free press

394.8 Suicide 51-9585

"This classic remained until now the last of the four major works of the renowned French sociologist (1858-1917) to be translated. With an eye to the historical significance of Le Suicide (1897) as a milestone and to its modern application for rigorous socio-psychological investigations, the translators offer to the English-speaking world Durkheim's fascinating analysis of the interconnection of suicide with the social milieu. . . Original detailed table of contents; no index." Library J

"Such weaknesses as appear in the study lie in its details and in the method. . . Some readers may find the translation disconcertingly close to the French idiom and thus awkward to read and perhaps in places misleading. A translation is for the convenience of persons who do not read French and who might not therefore understand that 'collective conscience' does not refer to what we know in our language as 'conscience.'" R. E. L. Faris

Am J Soc 57:100 Jl '51 950w

"Suicide undoubtedly reveals Durkheim at his best, and, at the same time, points up his weaknesses. . . We see in Suicide the extravagant and cavalier manner in which Durkheim used the method of elimination, his intransigence vis-à-vis conflicting viewpoints, the excesses and ambiguities resulting from his polemical style, his sophistry in substituting conjecture for empirical fact, the ineptness of phraseology stemming from his belligerent defense of the reality of social facts, and his uncritical eagerness to resort to crude rates when they helped support his contentions. Despite these faults, none can gainsay the brilliance and originality of this sociological classic." Harry Alpert

+ — Am Soc R 16:565 Ag '51 950w

"Wide demand will come from educated readers and college students." J. M. Scherr

+ Library J 76:515 Mr 15 '51 140w

DURRANT, THEO, pseud. Marble forest. 235p $2.50 Knopf

51-9345

Mystery story.

Booklist 47:312 My 1 '51

Kirkus 18:710 D 1 '50 130w

"The author writes excellently and he does not hesitate either at the ghoulish or the violent, but he loses some of the essential excitement of his story by his own constant checks."

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 Mr 4 '51 180w

"A unique production method and an original theme combine to make a memorable thriller. Twelve experienced authors have pooled their resources under one pseudonym to produce a whodunit that is brilliantly conceived and smoothly written. . . At one point the book does become grotesquely over-involved with a pair of psychotic sadists, but for the most part the authors maintain a discipline which gives tension and immediacy to the story." M. H. Oakes

DURRANT, THEO—Continued

+ — N Y Times p34 Ap 1 '51 170w

"Don't miss it."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 F 17 '51 60w

DUSHMAN, SAUL. Fundamentals of atomic physics. 294p il $5.50 McGraw

539.1 Nuclear physics. Matter—Constitution 51-11776

"An introduction to atomic physics that is especially suited for engineers. The author has assumed a knowledge of elementary calculus, college algebra and basic physics on the part of his readers; but, otherwise, the text is not difficult. A fair amount of attention is given to the historical development of the knowledge that now constitutes atomic physics. Experiments that resulted in important advances are described, and there are diagrams of apparatus, such as Dempster's mass spectrograph, the cyclotron and the synchroton." (Library J) Index.

"Much of the material is handled in a concise and interesting fashion. However, this reviewer found that the sections on nuclear phenomena fell short of giving a coherent picture of the subject. The grouping of subject matter was in some instances puzzling, some important omissions were noted, and an unfortunate number of factual errors and antiquated concepts were encountered." Isadore Perlman

Chem & Eng N 29:4987 N 19 '51 220w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1707 O 15 '51 70w

DUTCHER, RAYMOND ADAMS, and others. Introduction to agricultural biochemistry. 502p il $6 Wiley

630.24 Biological chemistry. Agricultural chemistry 51-9595

"The greater part of this book is devoted to plant and animal nutrition, but other biochemical subjects of interest in agriculture such as biological oxidation and enzymes are discussed also. The reader will need a fair knowledge of basic organic and inorganic chemistry, but for those with this preparation the book will not be difficult to understand. Undoubtedly its main use will be as a textbook in college courses." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:522 Mr 15 '51 60w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:33 My '51

DUVALL, EDWARD J. Show card writer. 158p il $4 Drake, F.J.

659.134 Show cards 51-9218

"An outstanding characteristic of this new book is the absence of gingerbread and flourishes on the examples of show cards that are chosen. The student who reads by himself, will therefore, not be misled into practicing a style that is no longer salable. The importance of a sound grasp of the principles of lettering is stressed, and there is equal emphasis on doing good work with a minimum of labor. About half of the book is devoted to reproductions and discussions of examples of modern show cards." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

Booklist 47:248 Mr 15 '51

N Y New Tech Bks 36:14 Ja '51

DUVOISIN, ROGER ANTOINE. Petunia and the song; il. by [the author]. [32p] $1.75 Knopf 51-11088

Further adventures of the goose, Petunia. She was unhappy because she could not sing—only honk. The pictures and story describe how her honking won her a reward.

Bookmark 11:35 N '51

"Petunia, the wise goose, makes another appearance this season, in her usual gay and amusing vein." E. C. Ince

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 11 '51 50w

+ Kirkus 19:432 Ag 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by S. J. Johnson

Library J 76:1942 N 15 '51 50w

"We like Petunia's silly doings, which will interest not the youngest picture-book lookers, but those of about six to nine. We like the way the artist spreads her huge form in bold, masterful lines, all over the pages, with pattern and style very clear for young eyes." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 190w

Reviewed by Lois Palmer

N Y Times p13 D 30 '51 120w

Wis Lib Bul 47:257 N '51

DWYER, PAUL SUMNER. Linear computations. 344p $6.50 Wiley

512.8 Equations, Linear. Calculating machines 51-11714

"A practical textbook of special interest to scientists and others whose work involves the finding of numerical solutions for sets of simultaneous linear equations. Various methods are dealt with, such as computation with approximate numbers, the method of determinants, and matrix algebra. Stress is placed on solving such problems with computing machines, both hand and automatic." Library J

"Though no previous education in mathematics other than high school algebra is assumed, the reader will need a firm practical interest in the subject in order to get the most out of the book. Many worked examples are included in the exposition, thus facilitating the use of the book for home study. The computational methods dealt with are especially useful in statistical work including the interpretation of data from scientific experiments." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1231 Ag '51 140w

"The book is of interest to workers in many fields, including statistics. Though organized as a textbook with exercises at the chapter ends, it will also be found useful for self-instruction and reference."

+ N Y New Tech Bks 36:73 S '51

E

EAGER, EDWARD MCMAKEN. Red head; il. by Louis Slobodkin. 24p $1.25 Houghton 51-7699

Rhymes and pictures describe the adventures of a little boy named Fritz whose red hair got him into and out of a lot of trouble.

Booklist 48:130 D 1 '51

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

Christian Science Monitor p11 O 11 '51 70w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:403 D '51 80w

Kirkus 19:528 S 15 '51 90w

"This book is lots of fun with its clever rhymes." Phyllis Fenner

+ Library J 76:1942 N 15 '51 80w

"If there is a boy under six within your ken who has red hair and hates it, offer him an odd little book 'Red Head.' . . For non-redheads, it seems very forced and not important." L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 11 '51 70w

EAMES, MRS GENEVIEVE TORREY. Ghost town cowboy; il. by Paul Brown. 176p $2.50 Messner 51-10059

The background for this story for boys of ten to fourteen is a ghost mining town in the West. The hero is Steve, who lives with his "Uncle Pete" in the ghost town. The story is about what happens when the boy runs away to save his pet calf.

"Unusually well illustrated by Paul Brown. Recommended." Averil Randall
+ Library J 76:879 My 15 '51 70w

"A fine portrait of a very real boy." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 8 '51 50w

"A fine blend of mystery, action and achievement." Marjorie Burger
+ N Y Times p18 Jl 1 '51 160w

EARL, LAWRENCE. Yangtse incident; the story of H.M.S. Amethyst, April 20, 1949 to July 31, 1949; with a foreword by J. S. Kerans. 240p maps $3 Knopf 951.042 Amethyst (frigate). China—History
51-4998

"A slightly fictionized reconstruction of the ordeal undergone by the survivors aboard H.M.S. Amethyst, the British frigate that was heavily shelled by a Communist land battery in the course of a routine mission up the Yangtse River in the spring of 1949 and was immobilized there for over a hundred days, despite all attempts at rescue." New Yorker

---

Booklist 48:7 S 1 '51

"There is no space here to detail the story Mr. Earl has set down but it is a splendid piece of reporting, factual, spare, almost laconic at times. When you have reached the last page you understand the pride with which Amethyst messaged: 'Have rejoined the fleet. . . God save the king.' It would have been a pity had Amethyst's story remained untold. There is a quality of greatness about it." V. P. Hass
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 22 '51 400w

Reviewed by R. R. Brunn
Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 13 '51 420w

Kirkus 19:287 Je 1 '51 280w

"Mr. Earl, who got his facts from interviews and cross-interviews with survivors, obviously succeeded in acquiring the full flavor of the lives and thoughts of the crew. He shows singular ability in passing this flavor on to his audience. Fine reading." H. P. Linton
+ Library J 76:1224 Ag '51 110w

New Repub 125:21 O 1 '51 110w

"The author does not go into the diplomatic complexities of his subject, or even very deeply into the motives of the Communists. His primary concern is with men thrust suddenly into action, improvising when the delicate machinery of their ship is smashed, enduring a long, uncomfortable captivity in daily expectation of some new attack. . . He presents an impressive tribute to human courage and to the Royal Navy, and that is his main point. But the reader without losing sight of these things, may still find the strange facets of the Chinese Communist mentality, as studied from the scarred decks of H.M.S. Amethyst, among the most absorbing and pertinent features of the book." H. W. Baehr
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 22 '51 750w

"There is nothing dull or pedantic about its pages. Professional historians might scorn its free-and-easy style, yet 'Yangtse Incident' will probably be a source-book for future historians, and the painstaking reconstruction of H.M.S. Amethyst's moment in the sun of fame is undoubtedly complete and accurate. It is also readable." H. W. Baldwin
+ N Y Times p3 Jl 22 '51 700w

"Since the Amethyst incident contains all the elements of a superior adventure story, Mr. Earl has wisely refrained from furbishing it up and from commenting overmuch on the admirable behavior of the officers and ratings—some of whom carried on while seriously wounded—whose first-hand accounts form the basis of his narrative. One of his most successful bits of characterization is that of Lieutenant Commander John Kerans."
+ New Yorker 27:75 Jl 28 '51 150w

"Highlights of the account are the first engagement, of course, narrated with a slow-motion effect; the appearance and retreat of HMS Consort under a Communist barrage; and the final night dash for freedom. For readers interested in following the action, the author has included two maps. For all who, recalling the incident, are curious over what happened on board and would enjoy frequent flashes of insight into Chinese character, this book should prove an absorbing tale." C. E. Miller
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 5 '51 550w

"Mr. Earl has gone to a great deal of pains in resurrecting and setting down the actual conversations that took place, the detail of such incidents as a two-foot rat being snared above somebody's bunk and since he interviewed every Amethyst survivor, some of them for several hours, there can be no possible doubt of the accuracy of his reporting." Fletcher Pratt
Sat R of Lit 34:14 Jl 28 '51 500w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 29 '51 270w

Time 58:86 Jl 23 '51 800w

EARLE, EDWARD MEAD, ed. Modern France; problems of the Third and Fourth Republics. 522p $6 Princeton univ. press
944 France—History—Third republic, 1870-1940. France—Politics and government 51-9909

"Twenty-eight-contributors analyze the problems of present day France. All are Americans except André Siegfried, who starts off the discussion with an interpretation of French psychology, explaining its contradictions, its strengths, and its weaknesses. . . The American contributors discuss such varied topics as: The Decline of the French élan vital, French letters and science, Politics, Social and economic problems, Security, and France in world affairs." Booklist

---

"In reading the various essays one has the feeling that the numerous authors not only know objective facts but, what is more important, the social psychology of the French people. The volume is worthy of its distinguished sponsorship. . . Many important phases of French life are omitted or merely mentioned. One wishes that there would be another conference in which might be discussed such topics as social security, health, housing, civil service, taxation, budget, administrative techniques, and the educational system. The present volume is so good that it calls for more." E. H. Ketcham
+ Am Pol Sci R 45:883 S '51 600w

Reviewed by W. R. Sharp
Ann Am Acad 277:271 S '51 420w

Booklist 47:291 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 My 13 '51 90w

Current Hist 20:346 Je '51 70w

Foreign Affairs 29:673 Jl '51 50w

"Imperative for academic and larger public libraries." F. E. Hirsch
+ Library J 76:774 My 1 '51 130w

"As is inevitable in a collective enterprise of this sort, the chapters are uneven in value and in interest. Some, like those on French politics, are brilliant; others, like those on French letters and science, are entirely inadequate. However, on the whole the book is a distinct contribution to our knowledge and understanding of conditions in France. Though addressed to the general reader it will prove an invaluable aid to those especially interested in European affairs." J. S. Schapiro
+ — Nation 172:542 Je 9 '51 1800w

EARLE, E. M.—Continued

Reviewed by Hans Kohn

New Repub 125:18 O 1 '51 250w

"Edward Mead Earle . . . who edited these essays, knows how to collect a panel of historians, focus their diverse talents upon a complex theme, and fit the results into a whole that is greater than the sum of its parts. He demonstrated this happy gift in 'Makers of Modern Strategy' [Book Review Digest 1943]. . . Now he has repeated the performance, choosing a more protean subject and co-ordinating the contributions of twenty-eight instead of twenty collaborators. The present inquiry, which covers fourscore years instead of four centuries, has less unity and momentum than 'Makers of Modern Strategy.' But it is in its way an equally remarkable achievement, rich, provocative and enlightening." Geoffrey Bruun

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ap 29 '51 1100w

"Quite obviously a university publication designed to assist students, the book is at times too pedagogical. It is a pity that the editor, Edward Mead Earle (a scholar and writer on widely different international subjects) has not tried to prune out this pedantry; as it is, the book is not only by experts but for experts. Nevertheless, within its designed scope, it provides some well-founded and optimistic views of convalescing France." C. L. Sulzberger

N Y Times p12 Je 3 '51 700w

Reviewed by J. P. T. Bury

Pol Sci Q 66:456 S '51 750w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 My 13 '51 350w

"A book so thorough, lucid, and well balanced that it will be indispensable to students of French affairs." Albert Guerard

+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 Mr 31 '51 1350w

Times [London] Lit Sup p408 Je 29 '51 2150w

"The casual reader will find the book stimulating and interesting; the more serious reader will be rewarded by both the breadth and depth of the papers of these scholars who have joined together under Professor Earle's direction to produce so full and accurate a survey."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:164 Je '51 270w

EARLE, OLIVE LYDIA. State birds and flowers [il. by the author]. 64p $2 Morrow

598.2 State birds. State flowers 51-1157

Arranged alphabetically by states, this book contains a sketch map of the state with capital indicated; sketches of the state bird, with description and feeding and nesting habits; and sketches of the flower, with description.

Booklist 47:261 Mr 15 '51

"The volume makes a delightful addition to any child's library, and certainly belongs where campers from every state can pore over it."

+ Christian Science Monitor p6 Ap 28 '51 140w

"Although the prose sometimes descends into the stuffy, over-condensed jargon of the adult handbook, this is an attractive presentation of nature material with many uses in the classroom and home. The lovely accurate sketches by the author make this an attractive browsing lure."

+ — Kirkus 19:26 Ja 15 '51 120w

"Excellent introduction to the geography of the states as well as a book for nature lovers of all ages, especially those from 9-11." Elenora Alexander

+ Library J 76:604 Ap 1 '51 70w

"The text is necessarily brief and purely factual. The many drawings are most attractive. It makes an unusual gift for bird and plant-lovers of any age." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 My 27 '51 160w

N Y Times p18 Ap 15 '51 90w

Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ag 18 '51 30w

Reviewed by Ethel Dexter

Springf'd Republican p10D Ap 15 '51 80w

Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

EARLE, OLIVE LYDIA. Thunder wings; the story of a ruffed grouse; il. by [the author]. 46p $2 Morrow

598.2 Grouse—Juvenile literature 51-4483

Story of the ruffed grouse from the time it is hatched to maturity. For ages six to eight.

Booklist 47:405 Jl 15 '51

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:336 S '51 40w

"The author has done some lovely illustrations for this authentic story of the adventures in the year of a ruffed grouse."

+ Kirkus 19:293 Je 15 '51 120w

"Recommended." Anne Izard

+ Library J 76:1232 Ag '51 50w

"The many line drawings are exact and also beautiful, with such fascinating details as true nature lovers would include. We get a charming, very real feeling of a clever, beautiful, wild creature through such an introductory nature book." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 9 '51 140w

Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 50w

Wis Lib Bul 47:191 Jl '51

EARLY medieval illumination; introd. by Hanns Swarzenski. (Iris books) 19p 8 il 21 col pl $6 Oxford

745.67 Illumination of books and manuscripts

"The book contains 21 color plates of excellent examples of illumination dating from 800 to 1200 A. D. . . The introduction by Hanns Swarzenski is an adequate history of this art form: its birth in antiquity among the Egyptians and Greeks; its spread across continental Europe; its first great flowering in the British Isles in the 8th century, and the joining of Celtic and Mediterranean traditional forms which resulted in stylistic features which surged back across the channel and permanently influenced medieval manuscript decorations thruout the continent of Europe." Chicago Sunday Tribune

Reviewed by Gary Sheahan

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p33 D 2 '51 160w

"A superb picture book containing twenty-one color plates whose quality as reproductions could hardly be improved." Stuart Preston

+ N Y Times p26 D 2 '51 270w

EATON, CHARLES EDWARD. Shadow of the swimmer. 88p $3 Fine editions

811 51-10188

"Although Mr. Eaton, in his middle thirties, can still be classed among the younger poets, 'The Shadow of the Swimmer' is his third book, and his poems have appeared extensively in magazines here and in England. His work is distinguished by an unusually firm and varied technique, colorful but balanced imagery, and a peaceful delight in the world." N Y Times

"Contains a wealth of sensuous observation and imagery, marred by some carelessness or ignorance in the motion and texture of line, marred too by a tendency to force unnecessary labels on the symbols, to obtrude the flat abstract morality on the illuminated fable." Rolfe Humphries

Nation 172:449 My 12 '51 110w

"I am not sure that Mr. Eaton writes under the influence of the Georgians, but he is akin to them, and, in his best lyrics, a worthy successor. There is much here to win the highest praise from a responsive reader." Robert Hillyer

+ N Y Times p12 Jl 22 '51 260w

"The Shadow of the Swimmer is a book of brightly coloured land and sea pictures, overloaded with colour sometimes, so that the reader is dazzled by too many words of description, and may wonder if this poet ought not to be a painter and to use colours, not words, for the vivid world in which he lives. But then one finds such poems as Mountains at Noon. . . It is obvious that the poet is indeed using the right medium."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p418 Jl 6 '51 150w

"These poems are simple, sensuous, but not quite passionate, although they often approximate the quality. They sacrifice that last ounce of force, which in art means utter conviction, for an admirable enough control of form."
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:243 S '51 330w

EATON, EVELYN SYBIL MARY. Give me your golden hand. 309p $3 Farrar, Straus 51-9671

A historical novel of England and America in the time of George III. The hero is an unacknowledged son of the king, and the novel traces the vicissitudes of his life, up to the time when he joined the American Quakers living in the Oblong.

Booklist 47:273 Ap 1 '51

"Despite the author's difficult style and her rather pedestrian use of the materials of historical research, the persistent reader will find considerable romantic interest in her book. Some of the characterizations are moderately lifelike, and occasional scenes blaze forth with unmistakable evidences of artistry. But the burden of carrying on to the end is, on the whole, not an easy one." Henry Cavendish
+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ap 1 '51 360w

Kirkus 19:30 Ja 15 '51 190w

"'Give Me Your Golden Hand' is unusual among historical novels in two ways: It is a short book, quietly written, and its effect is to give the spirit of a time and place rather than a romance in fancy dress. . . As a novel per se, 'Give Me Your Golden Hand' is uneven and loosely organized. . . The very considerable interest of the book lies much less in the story itself than in its picture of varieties of eighteenth-century life and the glimpses of historical events and personages." David Tilden
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p17 F 25 '51 550w

"Few so-called historical novels cover so much ground with such refreshing precision and brevity. Not one in twenty will leave such a lasting impression with the reader." James MacBride
+ N Y Times p20 Mr 25 '51 400w

"For a historical novel, this is quite short, which must not be taken to mean that Miss Eaton deprives her readers of any of their proper quota of seductions, secret orgies, intrigues, betrayals, knifings, or other favorite evidences of the sprightly and inexhaustible nature of eighteenth-century fictional folk."
New Yorker 27:98 F 24 '51 80w

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ap 8 '51 250w

EATON, JEANETTE. Washington, the nation's first hero; il. by Ralph Ray. 70p $2 Morrow

B or 92 Washington, George—Juvenile literature
51-4508

Washington's part in the French and Indian war and the Revolution is here retold for grades four to six. A few final pages summarize the rest of his life until his death in 1799.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51

"A great disappointment."
— Kirkus 19:295 Je 15 '51 220w

"A worth-while contribution. It would be valuable to use as an introduction to the author's Leader by Destiny or with older readers who are not quite up to that title." N. L. Rathbun
+ Library J 76:1434 S 15 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p2 N 11 '51 200w

"It is so ably done that the book is proof that the easiest text can stand proudly next to more full-length treatments when the aim of the work is respected and when the telling is built on a solid foundation of knowledge." I. S.
+ N Y Times p38 N 11 '51 130w

San Francisco Chronicle p11 N 11 '51 60w

"A refresher course in the history of the American Revolution which teachers and parents will appreciate. Miss Eaton's history is a live active story not just pages of words." S. M. N.
+ Springf'd Republican p7C S 16 '51 100w

Wis Lib Bul 47:219 S '51

EAUBONNE, FRANCOISE D'. Flight of falcons; tr. from the French by Naomi Walford. 351p $3.75 McGraw 51-13541

"A Spanish-Dutch painter named Jan van Sterteen, suffering from an especially tragic love affair, sets out with three companions to explore life by seeing the world. In his travels, he finds another love, Mirabella, the mistress of a pirate named Cigala, but this affair also has a bad ending, and the story finishes with the public hanging of Mirabella, while her lover lies at the foot of the gallows in a dead faint. This is a historical novel, laid in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth century." New Yorker

Booklist 48:101 N 15 '51

Bookmark 11:59 D '51 20w

"If Francoise d'Eaubonne frees herself from pirates and all such historic clutter, and writes of life as she has known it, she may prove a very superior novelist." Warren Beck
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 28 '51 400w

"Save for the bedroom interludes, this is a natural for Sabatini fans."
Kirkus 19:450 Ag 15 '51 170w

"Despite its bizarre plot, this is a strangely convincing story, fascinating from start to finish. It has color, action—and persons. Naomi Walford deserves much credit for what must have been a most difficult task of translating." David Tilden
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 D 9 '51 370w

New Yorker 27:181 N 17 '51 120w

"'A Flight of Falcons' is a more reflective historical novel than most. Mlle. d'Eaubonne is evidently familiar with the intellectual history of the period, and attempts to integrate the anti-Aristotelian views of two early empiricists, Bernardino Telesio and Tomasso Campanella, into the plot. There is too much incident for the philosophical thread, however, and it becomes lost in a welter of action and purple passages." Martin Levin
Sat R of Lit 34:32 N 24 '51 300w

"An attempt by a young Frenchwoman to write a historical novel in the grand manner of The Cloister and the Hearth, and she achieves a considerable success."
+ Time 58:130 N 5 '51 330w

EBERHART, MRS MIGNON (GOOD). Never look back. 240p $2.50 Random house 51-9711

Detective story.

Booklist 47:312 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:185 My '51

Kirkus 19:14 Ja 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by Ralph Partridge
New Statesman & Nation 42:504 N 3 '51 80w

"For romantic suspense you can't beat Mignon Eberhart. She is one of the foremost in the field for enveloping a well bred heroine in a cloud of suspicion and terror. . . And Miss Eberhart, as always, manages to maintain the atmosphere of high suspense until the very end."
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 Ap 22 '51 160w

EBERHART, M. G.—Continued

"Set in a penthouse among the ultra-smart and wealthy, 'Never Look Back' is full of suspense and terror, with neatly shifting suspicions and a full quota of romance. Eberhart fans should rank this one high among her twenty-eight novels." Anthony Boucher
+ N Y Times p31 Ap 29 '51 100w

"Mrs. Eberhart does her usual smooth and highly atmospheric job on this yarn, nearer to the psychological suspense type than to straight mystery." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 1 '51 90w

"Disappointing for this Eberhart fan."
Sat R of Lit 34:42 Ap 21 '51 50w

EBERHART, RICHARD. Selected poems. 86p $2.50 Oxford
811 A51-7654

"Contains a representative collection of Mr. Eberhart's best work over the last 20 years. It includes poems from 'A Bravery of Earth,' 'Reading the Spirit,' 'Song and Idea' and 'Burr Oaks.' Compared by some to William Blake, Mr. Eberhart is seen here as the fine, intellectual singer he is." San Francisco Chronicle

Reviewed by M. L. Rosenthal
New Repub 125:27 D 10 '51 390w

"Apart from the famous The Groundhog there are three or four of Mr. Eberhart's earlier poems, and several later ones, that ought to be considered for any anthology of modern verse, particularly The Return of Odysseus. . . It is pleasant at this time when the world is learning very well how to get along without words, to come across a man who can make them fly." P. D. Smith
+ New Statesman & Nation 42:78 Jl 21 '51 550w

"The book is uneven. A few pieces are unnecessarily emphatic in statement, others overly involved, and the reader occasionally longs for smoother cadences than Eberhart employs at his most lyrical. But there are things here that in their concentration of thought and feeling, their intensity, be it somber or radiant, are as eloquent as any English poems of our time." Babette Deutsch
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 Jl 8 '51 600w

"The poems have been read these twenty years; this book will be read many times twenty more." John Holmes
+ N Y Times p5 Ag 19 '51 500w

Reviewed by Lawrence Ferling
San Francisco Chronicle p17 Jl 22 '51 40w

EBERSOLE, LUKE EUGENE. Church lobbying in the nation's capital. 195p $2.75 Macmillan
261.7 Lobbying. Church and state in the U.S. 51-9346

"Another work, indicating growing recognition of the importance of pressure groups, in which author explores hitherto neglected field. After brief historical survey Mr. Ebersole discusses those Protestant and Catholic groups which, he believes, function as lobbies although some of them deny this. Organization, personnel, financial resources are described, as well as activities of the various church bodies." (Library J) No index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:572 Je '51 40w

"Informative, simply-written, and factual account." Lewis Troyer
+ Am Soc R 16:435 Je '51 200w

"A useful collection of information which should be of particular interest to political scientists, sociologists, and churchmen." C. W. Smith
+ Ann Am Acad 275:176 My '51 450w
Booklist 47:302 My 1 '51

"This is a handbook indispensable, one would think, to editors, editorial writers, and to teachers of civics and the social sciences. It can also be helpful to the perceptive reader who seeks to identify news sources, to distinguish between objective and 'slanted' reporting." Neil Martin
+ Christian Science Monitor p9 Ap 25 '51 500w

"The book will likely be sought by libraries, editorial offices and all concerned with church-state relations." J. M. Dawson
+ Churchman 165:18 Ap 1 '51 180w
Cleveland Open Shelf p18 S '51

"Work is based on thorough investigation of available published material, but due to scantiness of this, mainly on personal interviews and inquiries. A thorough, well-planned factual report, but author intentionally refrains from any evaluation of the material, e.g. as to effectiveness of church lobbying. Recommended for reader interested in the working of our democracy." H. H. Bernt
+ Library J 75:2073 D 1 '50 140w

"The book is probably the most complete study of the history (briefly summarized), organization, and methods of the denominational and inter-denominational church lobbies in the United States that is now available." Donald Derby
+ Springf'd Republican p8D Mr 11 '51 430w

Reviewed by Hillier Krieghbaum
Survey 87:236 My '51 140w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:164 Je '51 250w

EBERT, VIRGINIA. Broken image. 312p $3 Morrow
51-765

While waiting in prison for her trial on a treason charge, the woman, Helvy Reysenal, wife of an American naval officer, tells the story of how she came to be where she is—of her love for three men, of her part in the formation of a secret code, and of her life in a prison camp in the Philippines and in German-controlled Paris.

Booklist 47:213; 253 F 15 '51; Mr 15 '51

"A curious and haunting sort of book. I didn't like it, but I couldn't put it down."
Kirkus 18:736 D 15 '50 220w

"This fascinating novel has a plot that is fantastic and unimportant. It is the beautiful, intelligent writing and an unusual emotional quality that make this portrait of a woman completely charming." Anne Whitmore
+ Library J 76:406 Mr 1 '51 80w

"'Broken Image' is a vividly and beautifully written novel which sweeps one along with its romantic intensities. In addition it offers a particularly interesting insight into life in occupied Paris, on whose streets the expensively dressed Helvy, marked out as a collaborator, dared not appear alone. And the adventures into Scan itself—how the code was made and broken—share first place in interest with Helvy, and considerably enrich this novel of many loves in the midst of war." F. H. Bullock
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Mr 18 '51 650w
San Francisco Chronicle p27 My 6 '51 180w

ECCLES, MARRINER STODDARD. Beckoning frontiers; public and personal recollections; ed. by Sidney Hyman. 499p $5 Knopf
B or 92 Finance—U.S. U.S.—Economic policy 51-11280

"Documenting the history of banking in the stormy years since 1932 this apologia of the Keynesian Eccles reaches back in personal history to the building of the family fortune by David, his father, and its subsequent management by Marriner. After 1930 he became convinced that the laissez faire policy demanded by individualists could no longer solve the problem of bank failures, and was converted to the belief in federal assistance. Most of the book is taken up with his struggles to introduce reforms in the banking system." Library J

Booklist 47:375 Jl 1 '51

Bookmark 11:30 N '51 30w

Reviewed by Melchior Palyi
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ag 5 '51 240w

Reviewed by Roland Sawyer
Christian Science Monitor p9 Jl 11 '51 1050w

Reviewed by C. L. Thompson
Current Hist 21:164 S '51 1150w

Kirkus 19:203 Ap 1 '51 220w

"As an inside story by one of the participants in the New Deal it should endure. Recommended for general reading." Walter Hausdorfer
+ Library J 76:958 Je 1 '51 110w

"In addition to providing the best economic history of the New Deal so far available, the book is a fascinating and eminently readable personal story. The account of his remarkable father, who left abject poverty in Scotland to become a Mormon and a millionaire, is just as interesting as the many significant anecdotes about the great names of the last twenty years." C. E. Noyes
+ Nation 173:97 Ag 4 '51 700w

"His book tells more of what is permanently important in the economic history of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations than any other memoir. Other books will give him his due as the hero of that story." Basil Rauch
+ New Repub 125:19 Jl 30 '51 850w

" 'Beckoning Frontiers' is Mr. Eccles' story, and a remarkable one it is. It is one of the best of the personal memoirs that has come out of Washington, and it comes from the band that made up one wing of the New Deal host." L. M. Hacker
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Je 24 '51 1900w

"Taken all in all, this book is valuable for the insight it gives into the inner workings of our monetary and banking policies during the last twenty years. Its high literary quality is a tribute both to Mr. Eccles and his skilled collaborator, Sidney Hyman." P. H. Douglas
+ N Y Times p3 Je 17 '51 1500w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p12 Jl 12 '51 950w

Reviewed by C. E. Ayres
Sat R of Lit 34:18 Jl 14 '51 1250w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:225 S '51 270w

Wis Lib Bul 47:213 S '51

ECHARD, MARGARET. Return of Christopher. 304p $3.50 Doubleday
51-10933

The spiritual biography of Christopher Gayle, brought up in an upper class Southern home. Christopher always resented snobbery and dishonesty and when he differed with his strict Calvanistic father he left home. Years later, married to a childhood playmate who was not quite "upper crust" but a fine understanding woman nevertheless, Christopher returned to his home town as a minister.

Booklist 47:381 Jl 1 '51

"Through intricate narrative devices the author pieces together Christopher's story, but the mind and personality she gives her protagonist hardly merit the lovingly prolonged attention lavished on them." Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:74 O '51 180w

Reviewed by Clarence Seidenspinner
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Jl 22 '51 320w

Kirkus 19:215 Ap 15 '51 200w

"The author makes the childhood experiences and episodes of small-town life fresh and satisfying." Andrea Parke
+ N Y Times p14 Jl 1 '51 180w

"Miss Echard tells [the story] well—almost a little too well, for there are times when the sheer slickness of narrative distracts us from the fact that there is a genuine, contemporary drama here, honestly faced for those who are willing to consider its premises at all. It is a compelling story and it has that currently disputed factor—values sharply defined and boldly affirmed." Edmund Fuller
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:16 Jl 21 '51 450w

EDE, CHARLES, ed. Art of the book; some record of work carried out in Europe and the U.S.A. 1939-1950. 214p il $10 Studio
655 Book industries and trade. Printing
51-13523

"This volume attempts to give a bird's-eye view of book design in Europe and America since 1939. There are no fewer than 39 written contributions from experts in each country and it is divided into five sections—type design and lettering, printing the text, illustration and graphic reproduction, commercial binding and hand binding—each sub-divided into countries." (Times [London] Lit Sup) For earlier volume see same title, edited by B. H. Newdigate, in Book Review Digest 1938.

Reviewed by Karl Kup
Publisher's Weekly 160:808 S 1 '51 470w

Times [London] Lit Sup p560 S 7 '51 750w

EDELSTEIN, DAVID SIMEON. Joel Munsell: printer and antiquarian. 420p $5 Columbia univ. press
B or 92 Munsell, Joel. Printing—U.S.
50-10137

"This book records with care and industry the history of Joel Munsell, who was born in Massachusetts but spent most of his life as a public-spirited citizen of Albany, New York, and was the outstanding American printer of the mid-nineteenth century. Although he was a commercial printer and thus had to meet competition, he achieved both distinction and renown in the field of typography. He was not merely a printer, however, he was also a binder, a publisher, a seller, a compiler, a writer of books, and collector of Americana. He did much, his biographer indicates, to gather together source materials of American history, he encouraged and promoted authors, and he attempted to give their works wide distribution as well as attractive format." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Elmer Adler
Am Hist R 56:408 Ja '51 450w

Bookmark 10:86 Ja '51

Reviewed by Karl Kup
Library J 76:965 Je 1 '51 160w

"The story of his career is here accorded a competent and detailed preservation that would have delighted his alert and inquiring mind." J. T. Winterich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:61 Je 16 '51 160w

"The author of this work is in sympathy with his subject, even admiring; yet he manages by objective presentation and analysis of the facts to avoid hero worship. . . Profuse and accurate in particulars, this biography affords a revealing and welcome portrait of a printer and antiquarian whose ideals and enthusiasm were matched by his achievements."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:3 Mr '51 230w

EDEY, MARION. Do not awake me, and other poems. 83p $2.50 Macmillan 811 51-9637

Collection of brief lyrics about many subjects and places, by an American poet.

Booklist 47:249 Mr 15 '51

Kirkus 18:743 D 15 '50 120w

Reviewed by Milton Crane
N Y Times p17 Ap 8 '51 40w

"There is too much that I want to quote from these vivid and charming poems for a brief review. I can only suggest that you buy 'Do Not Awake Me' and enjoy the poems yourself." S. H. Hay
+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 Jl 21 '51 430w

EDMAN, IRWIN. Under whatever sky. 246p $3 Viking

814 51-13542

"Over a period of seven years EI has written these miniature essays on all sorts of subjects that have played through his mind. There is no arrangement and the reader may turn at random to the first or last page and be rewarded. There is a point to the book however; each sketch has a significance and is definitely a reflection on the way of the world. A pleasant continuation of Lamb, Emerson, Brooks Atkinson; not essential for all libraries but an addition to any collection of belles-lettres." Library J

Booklist 48:21; 82 S 15 '51; N 1 '51

Bookmark 11:30 N '51 20w

Reviewed by Warren Beck
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 N 18 '51 280w

Reviewed by Ruth Chapin
Christian Science Monitor p5 D 27 '51 140w

"Charm and urbanity again mark these highly personal essays from the pen of Columbia's well-known professor of Philosophy."
+ Kirkus 19:475 Ag 15 '51 130w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
Library J 76:1327 S 1 '51 60w

"It is undoubtedly a refreshment to come upon a page or so of Edman every three months in an otherwise solemn periodical, but this volume is over-abundant in tidbits. It becomes clear, for one thing, that the author is too much concerned with his not unusual status of middle-aged teacher; it becomes oppressive, for another, to encounter so many observations with which no sane reader could disagree."
New Repub 125:20 N 12 '51 180w

Reviewed by G. W. Johnson
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 D 16 '51 440w

"A pleasant volume of casual meditations." Brooks Atkinson
+ N Y Times p14 N 4 '51 500w

"New proof that the art of the essay, which is mourned every once in a while as dead, is still very much alive and in good hands. . . [This book] constitutes a nice little conducted tour of a civilized and witty mind."
+ New Yorker 27:163 N 10 '51 80w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p14 D 11 '51 1150w

"Give this wise and comfortable book to a friend for Christmas and he will thank you for lighting a candle in the dark." David McCord
+ Sat R of Lit 34:27 D 1 '51 500w

EDMONDS, SIR JAMES EDWARD, comp. Short history of World war I. 454p maps $7 Oxford

940.4 European war, 1914-1918

"This history, almost outline in form, covers the military campaigns and strategy of the War of 1914-18. All nations, all theatres and all services are included, but the emphasis is centered upon land warfare, particularly the Western Front. The compiler, Official Historian for English military affairs from 1919-1949, has based this work upon the whole vast range of documents issued by the participating countries. The scope is exclusively military." Library J

"Recommended for reference collections of large libraries." Abner Gaines
+ Library J 76:1337 S 1 '51 140w

"There could be no better guide to the First World War than Sir James Edmonds, who modestly describes himself as the 'compiler' of this book, though it is highly individual in tone, and bears his mark in every chapter." C. E. Carrington
+ Spec 187:224 Ag 17 '51 450w

"In general the book is a great achievement. As a 'short history' it will stand comparison with the best of its kind in any department, and there are few that are so completely reliable in every detail. As a work of reference where the long official histories are not available it will prove most useful. On an occasional point it actually corrects these."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p431 Jl 13 '51 900w

EDMONDS, WALTER DUMAUX. They fought with what they had; the story of the Army air forces in the southwest Pacific 1941-1942; with an introd. by G. C. Kenney [and] map sketches by the author. 532p il $5 Little

940.544973 World war, 1939-1945—Pacific ocean. U.S. Army air forces. World war, 1939-1945—Aerial operations 51-14150

A semi-official narrative history of the Army Air Force in the Philippines and the Pacific during the last months of 1941 and the early months of 1942. "This account of the United States Air Force units that were sent out to hold the Philippines against the Japanese is not intended as military criticism It is essentially the story of the men themselves. In a way they are also its authors. For in their interviews, written statements, and their personal, group, and squadron diaries, they have supplied the material from which this book was written." (Foreword)

Booklist 48:169 Ja 15 '52

Bookmark 11:56 D '51 40w

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 D 16 '51 600w

Kirkus 19:463 Ag 15 '51 190w

Reviewed by A. J. Gaines
Library J 76:1700 O 15 '51 120w

Reviewed by Walter Karig
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 N 18 '51 1350w

"Mr. Edmonds' inspiration does not serve him as well here as it does in his fictional works such as 'Drums Along the Mohawk'; neither does it compare in excitement with Samuel Eliot Morison's volumes on the Navy. But there is a story to tell—and a moral." Chandler Thomas
N Y Times p48 N 25 '51 950w

"'Judgment is outside the province of this book,' Mr. Edmonds says, and it is fortunate that he takes this attitude, for his chronicle of unpreparedness, mismanagement, armchair generalship, and Air Forces' claims of destruction that were apparently inspired by the little tailor in Grimm call for harsh judgments indeed. Mr. Edmonds writes from the viewpoint of the men in the field, and their bitterness, confusion, and unbelievably heroic record is all here, compiled from books, articles, reports, unit histories, and a staggering number of interviews. It is a heartbreaking book."
New Yorker 27:182 N 17 '51 160w

EDWARD VIII, king of Great Britain [abdicated 1936]. King's story; the memoirs of the Duke of Windsor. 435p il trade ed $4.50 Putnam

B or 92 Kings and rulers—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10339

Reminiscences of the present Duke of Windsor, covering his life from birth to his abdication as Edward VIII in 1936. No index. A list of all the author's travels chronologically arranged from 1898 to 1936.

"I do not see how it can fail to be the most popular autobiography of the mid-century." Edward Weeks
+ Atlantic 187:77 My '51 1300w

Booklist 47:292 Ap 15 '51

Bookmark 10:180 My '51 40w

Reviewed by G. E. Sherry
Cath World 173:238 Je '51 480w

"These Memoirs give a new meaningfulness, bring a genuinely satisfying richness, and lend accuracy, dignity, and courtesy to that empty phrase, 'a human interest story.' The early chapters are positively enchanting." J. A. Clark
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ap 15 '51 700w

"This is a dignified book, and it remains throughout in good taste. Restraint is manifest in many passages." E. D. Canham
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 19 '51 1000w

Foreign Affairs 29:678 Jl '51 40w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Horn Bk 27:242 Jl '51 10w

Kirkus 19:217 Ap 15 '51 300w

Reviewed by H. A. Wooster
Library J 76:776 My 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by F. W. Dupee
Nation 172:519 Je 2 '51 2600w

Reviewed by Noel Annan
New Statesman & Nation 42:344 S 29 '51 1250w

"The most interesting and appealing part of this book to me is the beginning, describing the childhood of a Prince. This is written with great charm and humor. . . 'A King's Story' will undoubtedly be widely read, and it deserves to be. But it is far from the whole story of one of the most spectacular and ill-starred careers of modern times. It will receive plenty of attention from future historians, and quite probably from poets and playwrights as well." R. E. Sherwood
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 Ap 15 '51 2200w

"All the people in the royal drama are incisively described, conversations are tersely recorded with a sure sense of drama and the whole abdication crisis lives before the reader. Yet 'A King's Story' remains on the level of serious comedy rather than tragedy. This may be to the good, because a situation pregnant with disaster ended with comparative happiness all around." Stephen Spender
+ N Y Times p1 Ap 15 '51 2500w

New Yorker 27:117 My 26 '51 210w

"Edward, though he professes to be neither a man of letters nor a social historian, tells his story, simply and well, with a singular lack of bitterness or ill feeling. True, he makes plain his deep dislike for Mr. Stanley Baldwin and for the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury. Otherwise, his story has no villains." Edith James
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Ap 22 '51 900w

"The Duke's book, expertly written, is more than merely a recapitulation of what H. L. Mencken once irreverently called 'the greatest story since the Crucifixion.' It describes in effective, touching detail what almost everybody would agree is the most incandescent love story of the twentieth century, but it has value to the historian—and the student of human nature—beyond just that. 'A King's Story,' better than anything I have read in more sober volumes, symbolizes the twilight—the sunset—of an epoch. This is England (and Europe) as it was and will never be again." John Gunther
+ Sat R of Lit 34:26 Ap 14 '51 1150w

"Never before has there been an ex-king, living the inconspicuous life of an ordinary citizen, able, as the Duke of Windsor has done, to write objectively and in admirable temper, of a Prince's childhood and the life of his family, and of his long preparation for the high office he was destined in the shaping of events, to relinquish so soon. About the closing chapters of this book it will, unhappily, be necessary to say something later. For all the Duke has written about the royal circle in the midst of which he grew to manhood there can be nothing but praise." Wilson Harris
+ — Spec 187:385 S 28 '51 1600w

Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 750w

"The duke tells his story with simple sincerity."
+ Time 57:119 Ap 16 '51 500w

"In his author's note the Duke tells his readers that he has to acknowledge assistance from many people, he himself being no professional writer. That is emphasized by the simple style of his letters and diaries. . . Nevertheless, the reader is conscious that it is the Duke's own book and that he has worked with care over every page; even if he has needed help to put his thoughts into words, his own personality, his likes and strong dislikes, spring to life as well as his keen sense of humour."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p605 S 28 '51 4750w

Wis Lib Bul 47:119 My '51

EGGAN, FREDERICK RUSSELL. Social organization of the western pueblos. 373p $6 Univ. of Chicago press

970.3 Pueblos. Indians of North America—Culture 50-9388

"The socio-ceremonial organization of the Western Pueblo Indians—the Hopi, Zuñi, Acoma, and Laguna of Arizona and New Mexico—has been the subject of innumerable scientific papers and monographs. The present volume presents a long-needed synthesis and interpretation of this welter of material for the student, scholar, and informed general reader." (U S Quarterly Bks) Bibliography. Index.

"In theoretical orientation, as in organization and method, the volume is wholly admirable. . . Eggan's interpretations, though perhaps not always definitive, are invariably thoughtful and reasonable. The volume under review unquestionably ranks as one of the most substantial in the entire field of social organization, and among regional surveys easily takes first place." G. P. Murdock
+ Am Anthropol 53:250 Ap '51 700w
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:430 D '50 240w

EGGLESTON, WILFRID. Scientists at war. 291p il $4 Oxford

940.53185 World war, 1939-1945—Science 50-11383

"Radar, rubber from Canadian wheat, aircraft-carriers made of ice and wood-pulp, atomic energy piles and better dried eggs: these are some of the projects described in Scientists at War, a record of the achievements of Canadian science during the Second World War. Mr. Eggleston makes clear that Canadian achievements were part of a much greater whole, the work accomplished by a close partnership of British, American and Canadian scientists. Yet he equally shows that Canada played no small part in the joint endeavors." Canadian Forum

"An entertaining and a valuable book." J. M. S. Careless
+ Canadian Forum 30:210 D '50 650w

"Although intended primarily for the general reader this volume will be of considerable interest to students of history since the work of Canadian scientists during the Second World War has not hitherto been generally known." J. M. Hitsman
+ Canadian Hist R 32:89 Mr '51 400w

Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 10 '51 210w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:61 Jl '51

"This book is a model chronicle for completeness and does well the tortuous business of giving credit by name where credit is due. Inevitably the book has some passages in an official-report style which will be slow going for the general reader." Michael Amrine
+ — N Y Times p3 Jl 8 '51 500w

"Mr. Eggleston's history is a model of concise, fast-moving reporting and will hold the interest of scientists and laymen alike." J. E. Pfeiffer
+ Sat R of Lit 34:11 Je 2 '51 320w

Times [London] Lit Sup p399 Je 29 '51 600w

EHRSAM, THEODORE GEORGE. Major Byron; the incredible career of a literary forger. 217p il $6 C. S. Boesen, c.o. Baker & Brooks, 3 W. 46th st, N.Y. 19

B or 92 Byron, George Gordon de Luna 51-10562

"A biography of the greatest of all the literary forgers. . . If the man who called himself Maj. George Gordon De Luna Byron, and who claimed to be the illegitimate son of Lord

EHRSAM, T. G.—Continued
Byron, could read Mr. Ehrsam's book he would glow with regrettably justifiable pride. No other crook on record so successfully roiled the waters of biography and bibliography. . . By luck and cunning, he acquired a store of genuine holographs, and used these as models. His Byron documents deceived John Murray, the poet's publisher and friend; his Shelley documents the poet's widow bought as authentic." N Y Times

---

New Statesman & Nation 42:320 S 22 '51 230w

"Mr. Ehrsam has done a superb piece of detective work. Though he has not located every suspected document, his analysis of those available is so thorough that all subsequent scholars can start from firm ground." De Lancey Ferguson
+ N Y Times p5 Je 24 '51 400w

Reviewed by Sylva Norman
Spec 187:164 Ag 3 '51 450w

"In Major Byron, N.Y.U.'s Professor Ehrsam has done the best job of literary detective work on the forger in print. He is himself sadly handicapped because: 1) the slippery major left few biographical traces, 2) Major Byron was first written as a Ph.D. thesis, and after two rewritings is still more awkward and pedestrian than even most doctoral dissertations. Yet Dr. Ehrsam sometimes proves himself a shrewder hand than his literary betters in the treacherous field of literary hokum."
+ — Time 57:98 Je 25 '51 400w

"Unfortunately not a good book. Its pages are knee-deep in footnotes; but too often they do not tell the reader what he needs to know about the authority for the statement in the text to which they refer. Dr. Ehrsam adopts the posture of scholarship, but his judgment of his diligently assembled evidence is uncertain and his presentation of it confusing. . . His book was well worth writing, and it is well worth reading; but 'Major Byron' still awaits the treatment which Dr. Ehrsam has shown us he deserves."
Times [London] Lit Sup p498 Ag 10 '51 400w

EINSTEIN, ALFRED. Schubert; a musical portrait [tr. by David Ascoli]. 343p $5 Oxford

B or 92 Schubert, Franz Peter 51-578

"A parallel volume to the musicologist's book on Mozart, the Schubert study traverses the composer's artistic life, interweaving biographical and musical data and illuminating the works with perceptions and side-references that reveal their place in Schubert's creative growth and in the musical epoch as a whole." New Repub

---

"Of greatest interest are the commentaries on the countless writers and poets whom the composer's settings have made immortal; there is much beautiful description of Schubert's gift of boundless friendship. . . Digressions into such things as Vienna's tense political atmosphere and the censorship of all stage libretti strike a sad and familiar note in these days. In the lengthy essays on Schubert's little-known and neglected operas Dr. Einstein's insight, humanity, and enormous scholarship become immensely rewarding, and the reader begins to comprehend the subtitle 'A Musical Portrait,' for he can hear this blessed musician with the eye and see him with the ear." K. G. Roy
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 8 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:96 F 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by C. K. Miller
Library J 76:865 My 15 '51 140w

Manchester Guardian p3 My 4 '51 160w

"I know less of and about Schubert's music than Dr. Einstein, but I am no less than he its admirer. His description of it, therefore, I personally find welcome, although portions of the writing are so subjective that some readers may be inclined to protest. My own objections are rare." E. N. Waters
Music Lib Assn Notes 8:338 Mr '51 1150w

"Like so many examples of Teutonic scholarship, the book is relentlessly detailed; but nobody understands Schubert better than Einstein, and the many revelatory passages make it easy to forgive the laborious ones." Cecil Smith
New Repub 124:30 F 26 '51 80w

Reviewed by Desmond Shawe-Taylor
New Statesman & Nation 42:209 Ag 25 '51 500w

"Since all the documentary evidence of Schubert's life is laid out in Otto Deutsch's remarkable piece of German scholarship, translated as 'The Schubert Reader,' Alfred Einstein has wisely refrained from going extensively into the life story again. His book is in effect a description of the music. . . The result is a book which every lover of Schubert's music will wish to have." J. N. Burk
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 F 11 '51 900w

"Mr. Einstein does not rest his case on mere personal opinion. He buttresses it with evidence. He examines closely the important works, analyzes their structure, touches on their distinctive characteristics. He follows with enormous appreciation the flowering of Schubert's genius. Strewn through the book are many fresh ideas on Schubert." Howard Taubman
+ N Y Times p29 Ap 29 '51 450w

New Yorker 27:118 Je 9 '51 130w

"This is a 'must' book for everyone who reads about music. It will interest and instruct both the musicologist—although it is not written for him—and the ordinary intelligent concert-going, radio-listening, record-collecting music lover—who should not find it beyond him. . . The translator, too, deserves more than a word of praise; David Ascoli has done a first-rate job." Gerald Abraham
+ Sat R of Lit 34:22 Mr 31 '51 650w

Reviewed by Andrew Porter
Spec 187:276 Ag 31 '51 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p631 O 5 '51 500w

"The writing is distinguished by a lack of ostentatious learning, by a sensitive literary style, by a remarkable ability to stay within an essentially musical atmosphere, and by warm human sentiment. Biography is called upon to the extent that it contributes to the understanding of the works discussed, and it is skillfully blended into the explication."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:138 Je '51 270w

EL GRECO. See Theotocópuli, D.

ELDERFIELD, ROBERT COOLEY, ed. Heterocyclic compounds; v2, Polycyclic five- and six-membered compounds containing one O or S atom. 571p il $15 Wiley

547 Heterocyclic compounds (50-7589)

For Volume I of this work, dealing with monocyclic compounds containing one O, N, and S atom, see Book Review Digest 1950. This volume covers polycyclic compounds containing one oxygen or sulphur atom. "As in the first volume of the series, emphasis here is on the chemical principles of the substances treated rather than on presenting an exhaustive compilation of physical constants. Approached from the standpoint of modern organic chemistry, full use is made of the newer concepts as bases for explanation and correlation of observed facts. On the other hand, the author and the contributors avoided theoretical speculation unsubstantiated by experimental fact." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by C. R. Noller
Am Chem Soc J 73:4502 S '51 800w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:204 Je '51 210w

ELEGANT, ROBERT S. China's Red masters; political biographies of the Chinese communist leaders. 264p il $3.50 Twayne

951.042 China—Biography. Communism—China 51-10445

"Treats the history of Chinese communism and to a certain extent the history of China as well, through the lives of a dozen or more principal leaders from 1915 to 1950. . . The 'Red masters' whose life stories are told, in greater or lesser detail, include the early leaders of the Chinese Communist movement such as Ch'en Tu-hsiu, the founder (afterward expelled as a Trotzkyist), and others who have died or been executed. The main part of the book concerns those who are at present responsible for the organization of the central government in Peiping—civilian in theory only—and of the 'military areas.'" N Y Times

"He has done an excellent job. His work shows a great deal of research of Chinese, Japanese, and other records and provides the reader with vivid pictures of the Red leaders." George Scharschug

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ap 29 '51 140w

Christian Century 68:1078 S 19 '51 150w

Current Hist 21:353 D '51 110w

Foreign Affairs 29:680 Jl '51 50w

Reviewed by Victor Purcell

New Repub 125:18 Jl 23 '51 320w

"Elegant's research in the literature of the Communist movement has not turned up any spectacularly new material. But he has put it together in a readable form and he has been remarkably successful, by and large, in winnowing the facts from the myths that abound in Communist literature about Communist leaders. It is true that the form he has chosen forces him to a good deal of repetition and leaves the chronology a little fuzzy, but this is not necessarily a fault." H. R. Isaacs

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 My 20 '51 700w

"'Interpreting history by analyzing the careers of leading figures,' says this author, 'is a delightfully facile method.' Yet the reader of his book is hardly likely to agree. The author has worked hard—largely at the East Asiatic Library of Columbia University—and has consulted sources in Chinese, Japanese and English to construct his interrelated biographies. He has also spoken to a considerable number of persons acquainted with the subjects of these biographies. The resulting work may be valuable, and I believe it is, but it could not be called 'delightfully facile.'" Vincent Sheean

N Y Times p6 Ap 29 '51 750w

Reviewed by Robert Payne

Sat R of Lit 34:43 Ag 4 '51 1100w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:225 S '51 230w

ELIOT, ELIZABETH. Henry. 287p $2.75 Duell 51-9612

The scene is alternately London and the gloomy family estate of the Pallisser family in Devonshire; the time, the post-war period. The account of their everyday lives is told by the youngest Pallisser, Anne, ex-Wren, whose adoration for her spoiled brother Henry, prevents her from realizing his depressing characteristics.

Booklist 47:329 My 15 '51

"The book has certain deft, satiric touches, certain specialized character insights, and some comedic reflections on socialist Britain. And there is a dreadful artificiality in its style." Edmund Fuller

+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 My 27 '51 340w

Kirkus 19:192 Ap 1 '51 180w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Jenkins

Manchester Guardian p4 S 1 '50 180w

"On its surface 'Henry' is an inconsequent little novel, funny but not too funny, requiring a good many seemingly innocent rambling pages to pile up enough substance to make a solid bite. And though charmingly written on the whole, it occasionally gets a bit out of hand. . . But the final effect of the reading of 'Henry' is to make one feel that one has really been privileged, through the limpid eyes of Anne, to take a deep and revealing look into certain facets of contemporary English life." F. H. Bullock

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 My 20 '51 550w

Reviewed by Nancie Matthews

N Y Times p14 Jl 15 '51 240w

New Yorker 27:136 My 19 '51 90w

Reviewed by Marghanita Laski

Spec 184:264 S 1 '50 240w

"Although Henry is never a bore, it is weakened by its diffuseness, disorder and the short-story ending that is a disappointment as well as a surprise. And Lady Elizabeth Eliot's delightful light-heartedness, malicious wit and humanity lurking beneath the surface—these assets are not used to their greatest advantage."

Times [London] Lit Sup p545 S 1 '50 260w

ELIOT, THOMAS STEARNS. Poetry and drama. 44p $1.50 Harvard univ. press

808.2 Drama 51-1861

The Theodore Spencer memorial lecture delivered at Harvard in 1950. In it Mr Eliot discusses his own plays, examining their weak points, and explaining their technical devices.

Reviewed by Katherine Brégy

Cath World 174:76 O '51 150w

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '51

"Stimulating, occasionally enlightening, but too leisurely for concentrated analysis."

Kirkus 19:37 F 1 '51 90w

"Highly recommended." George Freedley

+ Library J 76:867 My 15 '51 50w

Manchester Guardian p3 D 18 '51 170w

Reviewed by Michael Redgrave

New Statesman & Nation 42:370 O 6 '51 1000w

Reviewed by Francis Fergusson

N Y Times p14 Je 10 '51 410w

"Mr. Eliot . . . is a great deal more interesting on this subject—a specific aspect of literature almost always brings him to life—than he has recently been in his more general essays on religion and education. This paper confirms the impression that Eliot's championship of the revival of drama in verse is due not to any real need for such a revival or even to the inevitability of Eliot's writing his own plays in verse, but simply to the fact that he is not at home in prose, verse happening to be the medium he has mastered for his imaginative work."

New Yorker 27:122 Ap 28 '51 280w

"Although Eliot has not yet succeeded in writing a really great drama, he has examined his own aims, techniques, and partial successes in relation to the poetic ideal in such a thoughtful spirit that this essay becomes a useful blueprint for future dramatic poets." F. J.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ag 26 '51 200w

"Many of the points he makes are familiar. Some of them find him repeating simple truisms so that they sound like difficult discoveries. And all of them are trenchantly phrased by a man embarked earnestly upon an admirable quest. . . I follow him completely when he mentions emotions which only music can express. I must admit, however, I cannot follow him at all when he seems to be pleading that as theatre-goers we should not be allowed to be conscious of the fact that the music to which we are listening is dramatic poetry." J. M. Brown

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:24 Ap 28 '51 1150w

School & Society 73:400 Je 23 '51 20w

ELLENWOOD, JAMES LEE. So you're going to make a speech. 122p $2 Scribner

808.5 Public speaking 51-2801

Simple advice and suggestions on speech making of all kinds, based on the author's long time experiences as a public speaker.

ELLENWOOD, J. L.—Continued

Booklist 48:27 S 15 '51

Bookmark 10:183 My '51 20w

"Delightful, amusing, informative and helpful, this book has the three marks which the author says a good speech should have. It entertains, instructs and exhorts—urges one to action." G. F. Taylor

+ Churchman 165:16 Ag '51 160w

"Sound suggestions in not too serious terms, with lots of personal anecdotal material to illustrate points that might otherwise seem labored."

+ Kirkus 19:172 Mr 15 '51 130w

"Those poor novice after-dinner speakers whose knees turn into castanets as they hear the toastmaster's introduction will find this brief volume a mine of good-sense and sound advice." R. H. D.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 Je 17 '51 110w

ELLINGTON, RICHARD. Exit for a dame. 246p $2.50 Morrow

51-2020

Detective story.

"An intriguing situation—and except for a couple of red herrings, which aren't entirely cricket—a sound plot. One of Mr. Ellington's best."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Je 17 '51 120w

"One explanation may disappoint you slightly; the story as a whole should delight you." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 My 6 '51 70w

"Excellent realistic fantasy." Kathleen Sproul

+ Sat R of Lit 34:39 Je 9 '51 50w

ELLIS, ALBERT. Folklore of sex. 313p $5 C. Boni, 3 Grove ct, N Y 1

392.6 Sex. U.S.—Moral conditions 51-2347

"Dr. Albert Ellis, chief psychologist of the Department of Institutions and Agencies of the State of New Jersey, offers herein an intensely interesting survey on American beliefs in the field of sex. The sources of the author's material were the mass media available to Americans on January 1, 1950—the newspapers of that day, the current magazines, best-selling books, movies, plays, radio programs and television shows. From them he has sifted all sexual references and subjected them to analysis to see what they show about our attitudes toward all phases of sex." San Francisco Chronicle

"The matter of taste is probably irrelevant in such a study, but wit might have salvaged something for it. Many of Ellis's conclusions, attesting to the contradictory and ambiguous character of our sex attitudes, which both he and most readers of course recognized long before this book appeared, seem to represent much more his personal conjectures than the result of this specific investigation." John Sirjamaki

Am Soc R 16:435 Je '51 200w

Reviewed by Otto Pollak

Ann Am Acad 277:252 S '51 500w

Kirkus 18:716 D 1 '50 160w

"The voluminous data are frequently redundant, and it must be stated that toward the end the book wears thin. However, as a counterbalance, the author is a facile writer with an engaging sense of humor and a knack for spoofing the very material he is dissecting." Lionel Ovesey

+ — Nation 173:265 S 29 '51 1000w

Reviewed by H. M. Parshley

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Mr 18 '51 850w

"The end result, according to Ellis, is that the folklore surrounding American sex beliefs is just that—folklore, and bears little resemblance to our actual practices as a people." G. P.

San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ap 8 '51 330w

ELLIS, AMANDA MAE. Elizabeth, the woman. 319p $3.50 Dutton

Elizabeth, queen of England—Fiction

51-12226

Historical novel based on the life of Queen Elizabeth of England. It covers her career from the age of ten to her death at seventy.

Booklist 48:85 N 1 '51

"The author, a professor of English at Colorado college, is a first rate biografer. She knows her subject well but is too good a craftsman to paint it in the outrageous colors of sympathy and adulation." Richard Blakesley

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 S 2 '51 280w

"Satisfactory reading."

+ Kirkus 19:306 Je 15 '51 160w

"With neither an alluring title nor a very distinctive style, here nevertheless is a fiction biography that will be useful to the school and college students." K. T. Willis

Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 140w

"As the portrait of a period, Miss Ellis' novel has much to recommend it. It has the color and pageantry, the brutality, the cruelty and the intrigue that make these years stand out in the pages of history. But as a portrait of Elizabeth, it is less successful." Rose Feld

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 2 '51 450w

"Not too-engaging novel. . . It has the faults of many books of the genre which goes under the name of fictionized biography. The facts of history are dramatized where they concern the emotional life of the Queen—but the background is for the most part made up of big chunks of solid history written down to suit the popular taste." John Cournos

N Y Times p10 S 2 '51 230w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal

Springf'd Republican p5C S 23 '51 180w

ELLIS, HAVELOCK. Genius of Europe. 288p $3 Rinehart

914 Europe—Civilization 51-10504

"A collection of essays, most of which appeared in periodicals or reviews, but not in Ellis's books. He was working them over in the spring of 1939, shortly before his death, and they have been edited for publication by Mme. Françoise Delisle. By far the longest is the essay on Russia, written in 1917 and to be read with mixed emotions now. The article on Spain treats Blasco Ibañez with considerable respect. England, France, and Germany are also included." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 47:343 Je 1 '51

"These chapters in this posthumous book include critical studies of the genius of England, of France, Germany, Spain, and Russia. The wisdom of a long life time of travel, study, and experience make these reflections an accurate index to the national characteristics of the major countries in Europe. Here is social and psychological insight into the political events, the diplomatic maneuvers and the profound problems affecting the peace of Europe today." C. Seidenspinner

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p9 My 6 '51 290w

Reviewed by N. S. Timasheff

Commonweal 54:292 Je 29 '51 600w

"The style is musical and many of the judgments are acute, i.e.: England is as impervious to ideas as to invasion; the only real poets in France are the social rebels, Villon and Verlaine, since the genius of France trends so strongly towards prose. A rich though dated collection; recommended." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:511 Mr 15 '51 120w

Nation 172:593 Je 23 '51 50w

"Even in passages where we feel he is reasoning from a false premise to a prearranged conclusion the turns of his thought are spontaneous, the sudden insights so illuminating and seductive, it is hard to resist his cajolery. These essays may be a questionable guide to the genius of Europe, but they afford one more proof of the genius of Havelock Ellis." Geoffrey Bruun

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ap 29 '51 600w

Sat R of Lit 34:12 Jl 21 '51 240w

"This is not perhaps the most fortunate moment to have chosen for the publication of Havelock Ellis's reflections upon national genius. The essays this book contains were mostly written during the 1914-18 war, or, as in the case of 'France and Great Britain,' some time earlier. Much that they say may seem to us today self-evident or faintly absurd, and the manner in which it is said a little trite." Elizabeth Wiskemann

Spec 184:156 Ag 4 '50 550w

ELLIS, LEWIS ETHAN. Short history of American diplomacy. 604p maps $5 Harper

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations 51-11346

"A brief chapter on the art of diplomacy precedes the main body of the text, which is a concise history of American foreign affairs from colonial times to the present." Booklist

"Professor Ellis has succeeded admirably in his attempt to compress the story of American foreign policy within 550 pages. He has a fine eye for the essentials, and his judgments are extremely sound. But, what distinguishes this book from others in the same field is that he has, to a greater degree than his predecessors, thought in terms of the development of broad principles, and so arranged his chapters as to bring out these principles." Dexter Perkins

+ Ann Am Acad 278:192 N '51 430w

Booklist 48:5 S 1 '51

"A well-written comprehensive text, this volume deals with the development of American foreign policy from the founding of our nation to the present. Its principle is to 'give the reader a working tool for understanding the main forces which shape American foreign policy and the chief avenues which that policy has followed.' "

+ Current Hist 21:295 N '51 400w

Wis Lib Bul 47:247 N '51

ELLISON, EARL JEROME. John Brown's soul. 352p $3 Duell

51-2442

When John Brown, middle-aged architect, and his wife begin to have marital troubles, John is persuaded first to try psychoanalysis, later Alcoholics Anonymous, and finally religion. When this last provides him with a knowledge of his own soul, he makes the break with his past life and receives the promise of future happiness.

"A fairly glossy glossing over of a few theories and some very fundamental feelings, this is uninhibited, unimpressive."

— Kirkus 19:71 F 1 '51 150w

"Never moralizing, Ellison manages an inspiring story which deserves popularity it undoubtedly will receive." E. P. Nichols

+ Library J 76:513 Mr 15 '51 110w

"Mr. Ellison brings considerable insight to the underlying problem. His portrayal of the wife is excellent, though it is regrettable that his original rounded view of her gradually slips into hostility as he develops Brown's tortured psyche." John Nerber

+ — N Y Times p21 Ap 22 '51 180w

"That the author has a message is certain. That it has to do with the efficacy of religious faith is also clear. (Father Stark, his religious protagonist, has a few conversational gambits that run for fifteen pages or more). But beyond that all is darkness." E. J. Fitzgerald

— + Sat R of Lit 34:31 Je 2 '51 300w

ELLISON, WILLIAM HENRY. Self-governing dominion; California, 1849-1860. (Chronicles of California) 335p $4.50 Univ. of Calif.

979.4 California—History 50-62714

"Ten chapters, or ten essays, on the early history of California from 1848 to 1860." (Ann Am Acad) Bibliography. Index.

"The book, despite [some] criticisms, is an important study. The author has made a real contribution to historical scholarship and literature. The bibliography is adequate, and the format is excellent. The study is also well annotated and satisfactorily indexed." G. D. Harmon

+ — Ann Am Acad 274:225 Mr '51 900w

"The volume as it stands makes a very real contribution to our understanding of an important, frequently ignored, and sometimes grossly misinterpreted phase of California history. It is written in a clear, readable style and is printed by a press that knows how to make good books." R. G. Cleland

+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 Ag 18 '51 420w

Times [London] Lit Sup p627 O 5 '51 1000w

"Although it is addressed to the general reader, this book will be of interest also to professional historians. They will be impressed by the author's skill in summarizing the work of other scholars who have dealt with this decade of California's history, as well as by his sound judgment and fresh insight into problems connected with the land and the Indians. All readers will be pleased with the vividness of style that brings to full life one of the least-known but most colorful eras in California's extraordinary history."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:52 Mr '51 240w

ELLSWORTH, MARY GROSVENOR. Birthday parties for boys and girls from one to fourteen. 158p il $2.50 Woman's press

793 Entertaining. Amusements 51-4745

Hints, suggestions and detailed directions as needed for the "psychology" of parties for different ages, the entertainment, decorations, and menus.

Booklist 47:398 Jl 15 '51

Bookmark 10:229 Jl '51 20w

"Recommended for parents' collections and general adult collections." M. E. Martignoni

+ Library J 76:1234 Ag '51 90w

"A useful book." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Je 24 '51 50w

"This book is so good that it should be a 'must' for all mothers. Obviously Mrs. Ellsworth is a most experienced lady, not only as a mother but as a food and party specialist. Her style is brisk, humorous and objective."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:73 N 10 '51 150w

ELLSWORTH, PAUL THEODORE. International economy: its structure and operation. 922p il $5.50 Macmillan

380 Commerce. Economic policy. Commercial policy 50-14463

"An attempt to develop a new pedagogic approach by combining history, and analysis (theory), and factual data, in the belief that to appreciate the complexities of current international problems it is necessary to pay attention to the conditioning environment in which economic forces operate." Library J

"This book is a worthy successor to International Economics. It is thoroughly up-to-date. The selection of theoretical and institutional topics, though not as inclusive as some would wish, will nevertheless make this book useful to a wide variety of courses in international economics." Wytze Gorter

+ Am Econ R 41:226 Mr '51 1000w

Reviewed by T. J. Kreps

Ann Am Acad 274:235 Mr '51 440w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 75:1666 O 1 '50 130w

Social Studies 42:48 Ja '51 10w

ELTING, MRS MARY (BENJAMIN BREWSTER, pseud). First book of Indians; pictures by Ursula Koering. 69p $1.50 Watts, F.

970.1 Indians of North America—Juvenile literature 50-10587

Presents the elements of American Indian life for ages six to ten. Begins with theories as to their origin, and gives locations of various tribes, their habits, and tribal organization. There are five stories about Indian boys of different sections of the country.

Booklist 47:141 D 1 '50

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ja 14 '51 160w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:107 Mr '51 80w

"His presentation in general might be more dramatic, less expository, but an enormous amount of material is concentrated into limited space."

+ — Kirkus 18:354 Jl 1 '50 170w

"The topic of Indians is a perennial favorite with all ages, and we never seem to have enough material on it. Therefore, it is especially wonderful to have this book, so easy to read, so attractively illustrated." Phyllis Fenner

+ Library J 75:2157 D 15 '50 90w

"A really fine job." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 N 12 '50 110w

"Tells just enough about Indians to make the first reader want to know more about them, which is one of the functions of a good primer." L. B.

+ N Y Times p35 N 12 '50 80w

ELTING, MRS MARY (BENJAMIN BREWSTER, pseud). First book of nurses; pictures by Mary Stevens. [42p] $1.75 Watts, F.

610.73 Nurses and nursing—Juvenile literature 51-1142

The training of nurses, the different kinds of nursing, and nurses in other lands, are described in this "first" book. For grades three to five.

Booklist 47:261 Mr 15 '51

"A handy book for school and girl scout libraries."

+ Kirkus 19:153 Mr 15 '51 100w

"Recommended for all libraries." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 76:531 Mr 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Jl 8 '51 80w

Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

ELUARD, PAUL. Selected writings; with English translations by Lloyd Alexander, and introd. notes by Aragon [and others]. 218p $3.50 New directions

841 51-12202

Paul Eluard is a poet who "since 1918 has been one of France's most original and imaginative poets." This selection from his work is composed of love lyrics, some of them addressed to his wife; others are "poems of savage compassion for the insulted and injured, more particularly the victims of the Falange, the Jews, and all the others who knew the prisons and the death camps of Europe." (N Y Times) The French text appears on one page and an English translation opposite.

"What distinguishes Eluard's verse is the continual and surprising utterance of the unexpected. Never is he content with the trite, the outworn image, or the accustomed phrase. While often the poems run a little thin, in all of them there is this thrust of freshness to keep them moving. Above all, in the French, they have a high richness of sound from which an American poet can learn much about the shaping of words to the ear's delight." Paul Engle

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 S 30 '51 120w

Reviewed by Rolfe Humphries

Nation 173:312 O 13 '51 110w

"Eluard's writing cannot separate his poetry from his life. The tenderness, the passion, of the one is inextricable from the passion, the tenderness of the other. . . Eluard is still, in the fullest and best sense of the words, a poet of the Resistance." Babette Deutsch

+ N Y Times p24 O 21 '51 500w

San Francisco Chronicle p17 N 25 '51 170w

ELWOOD, LOUIS BUTLER, and ELWOOD, J. W. Rebellious Welsh. 235p il $4.50 Anderson & Ritchie

942.9 Wales—History

A short history of Wales to the union of Wales with England under Henry VII. Written primarily to acquaint Americans of Welsh descent with the history of Wales. Includes chapters on the church and on Welsh literature. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:379 Jl 1 '51

"The book was written to acquaint Americans of Welsh descent with the history of their forefathers and is a good general introduction." J. W. H.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p17 Ag 19 '51 100w

ELWOOD, MURIEL. Web of destiny. 311p $3 Bobbs

51-1163

"This is the fourth of Miss Elwood's Canadian novels. Famous historic figures such as the Marquis de Montcalm and Sir William Johnson, as well as fictional characters carried over from her other novels, appear in this story. The central character is Philippe, grandson of Paul de Courville Boissart, heir to the Courville Seignury at Montreal." San Francisco Chronicle

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 1 '51 90w

"While Miss Elwood is prodigal in details of costume and manners, she always manages to recreate some of the passions and problems of the time." J. V.

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 1 '51 270w

"Colorful and constantly interesting reading. Miss Elwood has mixed her ingredients with a deft and practised hand, and the result is an interesting and stirring novel." C. N. Govan

+ Sat R of Lit 34:30 My 5 '51 260w

EMERSON, VICTORIA, and THOMPSON, JAMES J. Into the world; il. by J. Everett Draper. 125p $2 Womans press

612.6 Sex instruction—Juvenile literature. Reproduction—Juvenile literature 50-10801

In story form shows young Ellen learning how life is created—in peach blossoms, at the birth of a calf, thru the family-approved love affair of an older brother.

"The book, intended chiefly for boys and girls of from 9 to 13 years to read for themselves, is also suggested to parents for reading with younger children. . . The book confirms previous evidence, however, that it is hard to give satisfactory information on this topic through the fiction medium, and parents selecting Into This World for their children's sex education are advised first to read the book themselves, and second to prepare themselves to supplement the story as may be needed." J. B. Pinney

+ — Am J Pub Health 41:460 Ap '51 290w

"There is real narrative interest as well as good family relationships and wholesome attitudes, and accurate, but not encyclopedic information skillfully integrated into the story. Grades 5-8."

+ Booklist 47:240 Mr 1 '51

EMERY, RUSSELL GUY. Robert E. Lee. 176p $2.75 Messner

B or 92 Lee, Robert Edward 51-9830

Biography of Robert E. Lee for ages twelve to sixteen. Altho the author stresses Lee's military career he also considers his subject's character. Index.

Booklist 47:296 Ap 15 '51

"Easy reading for the junior high school age." S. M. A.
Horn Bk 27:190 My '51 60w

"Well written, lively reading."
+ Kirkus 19:65 F 1 '51 150w

"Guy Emery has written a lively, understanding life of the man whose career was governed by the words 'honor' and 'duty'. . . The account of the Civil War is extremely interesting not only for Lee's rise above the petty squabbles of politicians but also for his development as master general. The accounts of Lee's battles and tactics are clear and vivid." M. C. S.
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Je 3 '51 230w

"This is a vivid, sympathetic but unromanticized portrait of General Lee." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p26 My 13 '51 80w

EMERY, RUSSELL GUY. Warren of West Point. 202p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.

50-10023

"Larry Warren, self-conscious because of his height (6'6"), makes a place for himself at West Point. Cross-country and basketball are the two sports featured, and other aspects of plebe life are brought out. . . Ages 12-16." Library J

Booklist 47:175 Ja 1 '51

"Authentic West Point background makes this much more than just another sports story." Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 N 12 '50 100w

Kirkus 18:518 S 1 '50 140w

"Author does an excellent job of combining the sports, West Point life, and the development of Larry, and it is not often we get a book which makes cross-country running so attractive a sport." Lillian Morrison
+ Library J 75:2158 D 15 '50 80w

"Satisfying and well-told tale." T. L.
+ N Y Times p8 N 12 '50 80w

EMMENS, CLIFFORD WALTER, ed. Hormone assay. 556p il $10 Academic press

615.36 Hormones 50-11997

"The fullest treatment available of biological and other methods of hormone assay. It is addressed to biochemists and others whose professional work requires a knowledge of practical methods or of the current state of development of the field. Each of the chapters is essentially a compact monograph based on the author's own work and the published literature." N Y New Tech Bks

"For laboratories continuously engaged with one or more assays as well as for the investigator confronted with only periodic need for assay techniques, 'Hormone Assay' will enjoy a useful function. The clinical laboratory with limited facility for seeking appropriate methods should find this volume indispensable." D. A. McGinty
+ Chem & Eng N 29:1775 Ap 30 '51 230w

N Y New Tech Bks 36:3 Ja '51

"The wide range of hormonal bioassays so adequately covered in the twenty chapters will afford the reader ready reference material which has hitherto been scattered in scores of journals published in several different languages. With the growing emphasis upon careful quantitation in endocrinology, this manual will be frequently sought out by both the beginning investigator and the experienced worker in research."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:96 Mr '51 200w

EMMERICH, HERBERT. Essays on federal reorganization. 159p $2.50 Univ. of Ala. press

353 U.S.—Executive departments 50-10783

"Today's challenge to Americans is to make the know-how of their democratic government as much a byword as the know-how of American industry. . . These essays will concentrate on one element of this general problem, the element of administrative responsibility in the structure of the federal executive organization. . . In focusing here on the problems of the organization of the executive branch I am fully aware of the omission of great areas of relevant material from other facets of political science and from other social sciences. I have felt, however, that there was enough to be said on the subject of the problems of the top administration of the executive branch at the federal level and the reorganization of its activities to warrant undivided attention here." (Pref) Index.

"This book is an invaluable response to our need of a general analytical essay on governmental reorganizations. The insights are astute and numerous. There are new and illuminating facts offered with assurance by an author who participated in the work of the President's Committee of 1937 and has observed closely and wisely the shifting administrative scene in Washington." L. W. Koenig
+ Ann Am Acad 274:220 Mr '51 400w

"A judicious, incisive, stimulating book." P. R. Levin
+ Sat R of Lit 34:50 Je 16 '51 330w

"There are few persons better qualified than Mr. Emmerich to comment authoritatively on the basic problems of federal organization and recurrent attempts to meet them. He was associated with the two major efforts in this generation, the Brownlow Committee of 1937 and the Hoover Commission of 1948, but not too closely to imperil his objectivity. He has himself been a bureau chief, as commissioner of the Federal Public Housing Authority, and at the center of a great coordinative control agency, as secretary of the War Production Board. He has a sense of history and a philosophic bent of mind." C. S. Ascher
+ Survey 87:94 F '51 490w

EMORY, WILLIAM HEMSLEY. Lieutenant Emory reports; a reprint of [the author's] Notes of a military reconnoissance; introd. and notes by Ross Calvin. 208p maps $4.50 Univ. of N.Mex. press

917.8 Southwest—Description and travel

"In the year 1846 Kearny's Army of the West was marching across the continent to seize—largely by accepting—New Mexico and California from Mexico. With it went a detachment of topographical engineers under Lieut. Col. W. H. Emory to collect 'data which would give the Government some idea of the regions traversed.' . . In 1848 the Government printed 10,000 copies of a 614-page book, 'Notes of a Military Reconnaissance,' which for a century has been a standard work for lay readers as well as historians. It includes not only Emory's journal but the journals of Abert, St. George Cooke and A. R. Johnson, along with special reports on botany, meteorology, etc., illustrated by scores of superior steel engravings. Now, under the editorship of Ross Calvin, the University of New Mexico Press has reprinted Emory's 'Notes,' about one-fifth of the original volume." N Y Times

Booklist 47:343 Je 1 '51

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Jl 22 '51 230w

"Priority in time has insured remembrance to numerous chroniclers of early America. Emory was not a mediocre man, though his journal lacks the freshness of Zebulon Pike's made forty years before, and it is cursory rather than complete like Josiah Gregg's 'Commerce of the Prairies.' Yet it is so specific that it illuminates the land for those most familiar with it and will surely attract those who are not." J. F. Dobie
+ N Y Times p7 Je 3 '51 400w

EMORY, W. H.—Continued
"The editor has dispensed with most of the technical data of the original edition, and what remains is a unique and ingenious travel diary."
+ New Yorker 27:121 My 26 '51 160w

EMPSON, WILLIAM. Structure of complex words. 449p $5 New directions

422 English language—Semantics. English literature 51-12406

"Students of poetry and criticism know William Empson as a follower of I. A. Richards, both teacher and pupil being brilliant English formulators of what is called the New Criticism. . . In his new book Empson finds a way to analyze the emotions, implications, pregnancies, period moods, personal associations and such of complex words . . . so that a reader can grasp what a complex word means at a given time in a given context. He tells his readers what not even 'the great dictionary' does—that two senses of a word can combine and interact in one use." N Y Times

Reviewed by John Randolph
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 14 '51 140w

Reviewed by Norman Shrapnel
Manchester Guardian p2 Ag 7 '51 300w

"No writer has shown a finer perception of the structure of words, their ironies, ambiguities and complexities, than William Empson. As far as he is concerned, the more complicated they are the better, but he is able to write about them in an English that is beguilingly plain and suggests a great fund of self-knowledge and detachment." Charles Madge
+ New Statesman & Nation 42:232 S 1 '51 1000w

"Empson is the meteor of modern criticism in English, a living figure of almost legendary brilliance. As a critic he has almost every conceivable virtue. He has wit, imagination, patience and restraint. His learning is not only both large and precise; it is volatile with surprise. If Empson has a fault, it is the Schoolman's tendency to worry his word beyond reason, to overplay a situation." Horace Reynolds
+ — N Y Times p18 S 9 '51 550w

Reviewed by J. M. Cohen
Spec 187:372 S 21 '51 500w

EMRICH, DUNCAN, ed. Comstock bonanza; western Americana of J. Ross Browne [and others]. 363p $3.75 Vanguard

917.93 Short stories—Collections. Frontier and pioneer life—Nevada 50-10854

An anthology of articles and stories from the works of J. Ross Browne, Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Dan de Quille, and others. The pieces are taken from rare periodicals and out-of-print books. They present a picture of frontier life in Nevada.

Booklist 47:154 D 15 '50

"A rich mother lode of Americana and Nevadana that can be recommended to all Western enthusiasts."
+ Kirkus 18:502 Ag 15 '50 160w

"Source book, full of vigorous if tedious prose, important to students of U.S. humor, and goldrush period. For university and special collections." E. L. Lewis
Library J 75:1504 S 15 '50 80w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 F 4 '51 180w

"The Folklore Division of the Library of Congress has done a job of anthologizing that will be vastly appreciated by collectors of early Far Western history and also by students." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p12 D 9 '50 600w

"The excellent and valuable anthology [Mr. Emrich] has evolved is as impressive as a source book of Nevada letters as it is fascinating as a repository of the work of such Comstock notables as Sam Davis . . . and Dan De Quille, who stands head and shoulders above any other mining-town reporter." Lucius Beebe
+ Sat R of Lit 33:40 D 2 '50 750w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:74 Mr '51 240w

ENCYCLOPEDIA americana [A. H. McDannald, ed. in chief; exec. ed: Lavinia P. Dudley] 1950 ed. 30v il maps $180 Americana

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 50-3901

"The preface to the 1950 printing of the thirty-volume Encyclopedia Americana states that in 'narrating the history of man and his achievements [the set] has endeavored, since its first publication in 1829, to present philosophies and facts with a minimum of technical terms and with scholarly impartiality.' Previous printings of the Americana have been reviewed in the Subscription Books Bulletin of January 1932, October 1936, October 1939, July 1941, and October 1945. An analysis of the index volume was published in the October 1943 issue of the Bulletin. . . According to the publisher's statement, the 1950 Americana has been more extensively revised than any other in the past five years and contains 1,525 new articles, 2,757 new pages not including those in the revised index volume, 333 new text illustrations, 317 new half-tone illustrations and 9 new four-color plates. . . Numerous subjects have been revised and brought up to date but many still need attention and some bibliographies are badly in need of revision. . . Sometimes revision is made in one article but not in related articles. . . Coverage is sometimes uneven. . . Examples of careless editing may be found. . . Illustrations in the 1950 printing are plentiful. . . The new plates and drawings examined are clear and well-chosen." Subscription Bks Bul

"The Encyclopedia Americana is unquestionably a reference work of great value in spite of its very evident defects. Much revision has been accomplished in the present printing and some balance achieved in its distribution over several subject fields. The policy of 'continuous revision' as carried out by its editors, however, leaves a good deal to be desired. The 1950 printing of the Americana is recommended for consideration by those persons and libraries that wish either to buy a new encyclopedia or to replace worn out copies. For libraries having a 1945 or later printing and the current yearbooks, it does not seem an essential purchase."
+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:26 Ap '51 3250w

ENCYCLOPAEDIA britannica; a new survey of universal knowledge [Walter Yust, editor]. 24v il maps $255.50-$671.50 Encyclopaedia britannica

032 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 50-4840

"This review of the 1950 printing of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is the sixth review of that work to appear in Subscription Books Bulletin. Previous reviews were included in Bulletin issues of January 1930, October 1936, October 1939, July 1941, and October 1945. . . The publishers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica instituted the present policy of continuous revision in 1932. They planned to scrutinize and revise certain categories of articles each year and give special attention to the fields of knowledge in which progress was most significant. . . There has been some notable revision in the physical and applied sciences. . . The need for revision in the field of Medicine was mentioned in the Subscription Books Bulletin review of 1945. That need is still apparent. . . In contrast to the categories of science and technology, the historical and social science topics examined show little sign of receiving such careful attention. . . Though revisions have been made in some fine arts articles, for example, in Painting, others are seriously out of date. . . Illustrations in the 1950 printing have undergone considerable revision. . . There are innovations in this printing that facilitate use of the set. The index volume has been rearranged with the index for volumes 1-23 first, followed by the Atlas and its index. Smaller paragraphs and many more subheadings are used." Subscription Bks Bul

Reviewed by Paul Nemenyi
New Repub 124:17 F 19 '51 5000w

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is a work of basically good quality. The 1950 printing will be a useful addition to reference collections requiring systematically revised encyclopedic coverage in the scientific field. The program of continuous revision for the set, like that for others, does not accomplish all that might be desired, but in general, the revision that has been done is well done. The 1950 printing is recommended for home use and for secondary school, college, university, and public libraries needing replacement copies or lacking a postwar edition."
+ Subscription Bks Bul 22:21 Ap '51 2950w

ENGEL, HARRY CHARLES, and others. Structural plastics. 301p il $4.50 McGraw

668.4 Plastics. Building materials 50-14774

"A useful summary of the present state of plastic materials having properties which suit them to structural uses. It is designed for readers such as architects, aircraft designers, and structural engineers. . . Such aspects as methods of manufacture, types, and official grades (when the latter have been established for the particular materials), structural properties, and effects of environmental conditions upon the finished products are covered. The presentation is compact, but liberal references are made to source publications." N Y New Tech Bks

"The treatment is good and the coverage of principles is broad for a book of this size. The chapters on laminated plastics and sandwich constructions contain the data and formulas of value to designers, but it seems surprising that practically all of the data on sandwiches are drawn from only one or two sources, even though these are based upon the authors' experience. The chapters on molding, adhesives, resins, and reinforcing materials contain the essential information of greatest value to fabricators." A. G. H. Dietz
+ Chem & Eng N 29:1254 Mr 26 '51 270w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 75:2008 N 15 '50 130w
N Y New Tech Bks 35:92 N '50

ENGLAND, ROBERT. Twenty million World war veterans. 227p $3 Oxford

355.115 Veterans—Canada. Veterans—U.S. 50-3870

"Sets out to examine the problem and progress of rehabilitating ex-service men and women in Canada and the United States. . . As a veteran himself and an acute observer, Dr. England writes with obvious authority about the emotional strain of the period following demobilization. As an economist he has many conclusions to draw from the impact of twenty million subsidized citizens on a free society." Canadian Hist R

"Dr. England has written a workmanlike and informative book which will be useful to many far beyond the academic circle, because of the abundance of information which only the special experience of the author could have assembled in one place." S. H. S. Hughes
+ Canadian Hist R 31:421 D '50 400w
Foreign Affairs 30:156 O '51 20w

Reviewed by Lucy Freeman
N Y Times p33 Ap 1 '51 150w

ENGLE, PAUL. Word of love. 39p $2.50 Random house

811 51-10256

A group of poems all of which have as a theme the power and need of love.

"Of the books of Mr. Engle that I recall now, it seems to me that 'The Word of Love' is the strongest in intensity and honesty of passion, in appropriateness and control of form." J. F. Nims
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 15 '51 320w

"Stimulating."
+ Kirkus 19:147 Mr 1 '51 90w

"The lyrics in this collection have the impact of a direct, almost desperate, and at times embarrassing urgency and immediacy of feeling; where they fail is in the writer's lack of command of his medium, his innocence of the art of verse." Rolfe Humphries
+ — Nation 173:76 Jl 28 '51 140w

"'Parachutists' and 'Long Distance' (a more successful telephone call) are excellent sonnets that give distinction to the second half of the volume. Sonnets like these, together with the skillful use of the two- and three-stress lines in some of the lyrics, are evidence of Mr. Engle's metrical range, to which the verbal range is not always adequate." Robert Hillyer
+ — N Y Times p27 S 30 '51 330w

Reviewed by Harry Roskolenko
Poetry 79:111 N '51 900w

"Although the triumph here is mainly on the surface, and the success of morale is largely unearned, this book represents an unpretentious but very real and attractive achievement."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:244 S '51 200w

ENGLEBERT, OMER. Lives of the saints; tr. by Christopher and Anne Fremantle. 532p $5 McKay

922 Saints 51-11328

Brief sketches of the lives of some 2300 saints of the Catholic church. The sketches vary in length from one line to a page or more, and at least one biography is given for each day of the year. List of saints specially invoked. Index.

"An interesting, valuable study and ready reference book."
+ Commonweal 54:318 Jl 6 '51 90w

"The author has occupied much space by mentioning saints of whom nothing, or nothing of interest, can be said... There are some slips... It would be ungracious to multiply such cavillings; the book would be invaluable had the author given references to standard 'lives' to which we might refer for supplementing his often meagre information."
Times [London] Lit Sup p424 Jl 6 '51 400w

ENNIS, LAMBERT. Thackeray, the sentimental cynic. 233p $5 Northwestern univ. press

B or 92 Thackeray, William Makepeace 51-2323

"With the aid of modern psychiatric theory, the author of this study seeks to show that the attitudes and characters in Thackeray's novels had their origin in specific events and personal relations in the novelist's private life." U S Quarterly Bk R

"Lambert Ennis deserves credit for fruitfully probing his patient's mind and delivering a well-worded diagnosis. While Mr. Lambert's study concentrates mainly on Thackeray's attitudes and conduct at pertinent moments of his life, he also joins the large coterie of scholars who have been tracking biographical intimations in the works of Thackeray."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 S 29 '51 280w

"The author is thoroughly familiar with his materials, and throws new light on many episodes in the work of the most autobiographical of all the great English novelists. Many readers, however, will question the apparent assumption of the validity of clinical analysis in establishing hard and fast relations between a novelist's life and his works."
+ — U S Quarterly Bk R 7:141 Je '51 220w

ENRIGHT, ELIZABETH (MRS ROBERT GILLHAM). Spiderweb for two; a Melendy maze; il. by [the author]. 209p $2.50 Rinehart
51-13712

The two youngest Melendys were expecting a dreary year with their father and the three oldest of the family away. But their ingenious brothers and sister had foreseen that, and left clues for the youngsters to follow all thru the nine months of the school year. Their experiences in their prolonged treasure hunt provides the story.

Booklist 48:161 Ja 1 '52

"Elizabeth Enright's children are so real they seem to step right out of the pages to become one's close friends. No one can resist their lively good humor, their mental alertness, their devotion to each other, to their friends, and to their home. Don't miss them." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ja 6 '52 160w

Kirkus 19:483 S 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by E. W. Turpin
Library J 77:66 Ja 1 '52 80w

"The author's brilliant observation of, and probably remembrance of, childhood, makes every page a delight." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 N 11 '51 320w

"In this fourth chronicle, Elizabeth Enright gives evidence again of her rare ability to create real children in real situations and to write about their relationships with humor and distinction." Eulalie Steinmetz
+ N Y Times p30 N 11 '51 140w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:176 D 1 '51 90w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p4 N 11 '51 70w

ERASMUS, DESIDERIUS. Inquisitio de fide; a colloquy; ed. with introd. and commentary by Craig R. Thompson. 131p $3 Yale univ. press
879.7 Reformation. Luther, Martin 50-14222

A Latin tract of Erasmus on the subject of Martin Luther. The translation by Bailey (1725) corrected and revised by the editor, is on opposite pages, and the brief tract is preceded by a long introduction describing the relations between the two men. There is a critical commentary at the end of the book. Index.

"Since the relations between Luther and Erasmus were always complicated and have been the theme of much discussion by historians, this Inquisitio de Fide is an item of lively interest to students of Reformation history, and Dr. Thompson's study of this piece, its setting and its implications is a substantial contribution to knowledge. The dialogue shows quite conclusively that Erasmus recognized and welcomed the basic doctrinal harmony between himself and Luther even while their controversy over free will was at its hottest." W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 68:81 Ja 17 '51 320w

"Students of church history and historical theology will find the study rewarding."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:420 D '50 210w

Reviewed by Heinz Bluhm
+ Yale R n s 40:352 winter '51 240w

ERDMAN, CHARLES ROSENBURY. Your Bible and you. 180p $2.50 Winston 220.6 Bible. Whole—Introductions 50-10629

An interpretation of the King James version of the Bible aimed at making the reader a daily reader of the scriptures. The author is professor emeritus of practical theology at Princeton University. No index.

Booklist 47:150 D 15 '50

"Suitable for those just starting out in their Bible reading and study, if the theological presuppositions are acceptable."
+ Kirkus 18:604 O 1 '50 100w

San Francisco Chronicle p16 D 17 '50 170w

Springf'd Republican p10C D 10 '50 240w

ERICKSON, PHOEBE. Black Penny; il. by [the author]. 183p $2.50 Knopf 51-11084

Story of a Swedish-American family living in Door County, Wisconsin. Emmy and Axel, the two children, each had a longing for a special thing: Axel wanted a bicycle, but Emmy wanted a horse. Emmy's wish was granted when her father gave her the colt, Black Penny, to raise. The love of Emmy for Black Penny overcame many obstacles, even having the horse sold to the city people next door. For ages eight to twelve.

Booklist 48:174 Ja 15 '52

"Youngsters will find Emmy's unaided efforts to train the colt very funny. . They will sympathize with the love and care she gives him and rejoice in the story's happy ending. This is a good family story for 8 to 12 year olds." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 N 18 '51 170w

"A superior child and animal story, unusually rich in its depth of understanding of the rough-and-tumble but crisis-filled life of growing youngsters."
+ Kirkus 19:392 Ag 1 '51 200w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Burr
Library J 76:2122 D 15 '51 80w

"How Emmy trains and cares for the colt, and what finally will happen to him, makes a plot that will be absorbing to both boys and girls of about nine to eleven. The story is a bit over-long, but well written, and Emmy is most real and likable. The family life and the difficulties of a farmer in a year of drought are well done, and Morfar (Grandpa), the blacksmith, is a fine character." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 N 11 '51 230w

"Like Frances Frost's Windyfoot books, this is a family story. This first-generation Swedish-American family enjoys its homemade pleasures fully and sticks together in time of trouble." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p30 N 11 '51 140w

Wis Lib Bul 47:258 N '51

ERNST, MARGARET (SAMUELS) (MRS MORRIS LEOPOLD ERNST). More about words; sketches by W. A. Dwiggins. 233p $3 Knopf
422 English language—Words 51-2800

Brief essays on the origins of some 230 English words, arranged alphabetically. Black and white drawings illustrate the point of each brief discussion. Index.

Booklist 47:304 My 1 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 20w

Reviewed by Robert Cromie
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 8 '51 50w

"Since the passing of the classical languages from school and college, fewer and fewer educated men and women are prepared to recognize the etymon in the words they use. . . Books like this one help to repair that loss. They stimulate the reader to explore for himself the bracketed words in italics which follow the entries in his dictionary. Therein lies much of the history of mankind for him who has the will to read it." R. M. Hammond
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 My 15 '51 490w

Kirkus 19:156 Mr 15 '51 70w

"Almost a collection of anecdotes, as well as being surprisingly informative, it is a book easily picked up and put down, a good companion for restless moments. Recommended." Shirley Barker
+ Library J 76:864 My 15 '51 90w

"An endearing feature of the book is that while it deals with one word it keeps branching out into another; as this is exactly what any one who really enjoys the dictionary does when he converses with a friend of like tastes, the effect is most congenial." M. L. Becker
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 6 '51 300w

"Scholarship here is, in the main, correct, as Mrs. Ernst claims, except that the 'New English Dictionary' is not the most up-to-date guide to the usage and etymology of some Americanisms. . . The author's touch is light, cool and personal." Horace Reynolds
+ N Y Times p10 Ap 22 '51 360w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 2 '51 450w

"This is a delightful book for desultory (i.e., skipping about) reading." Basil Davenport
+ Sat R of Lit 34:15 S 1 '51 700w
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

ERNST, PAUL. Hangman's hat. 220p $2.50 Mill
51-11731

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:282 Je 1 '51 60w

"Lively and amusing enough in spots, but slow getting started and pretty implausible throughout." Anthony Boucher
— + N Y Times p20 Ag 26 '51 50w

"Narration is crisp without being flippant, and the criminal's identity may surprise you nicely." L. G. Offord
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ag 19 '51 50w

Reviewed by Kathleen Sproul
Sat R of Lit 34:29 Ag 25 '51 50w
Springf'd Republican p22A S 9 '51 120w

ERSKINE, MARGARET, pseud. See Williams, W.

ESSIPOFF, MRS MARIE (ARMSTRONG). Making the most of your food freezer. 310p il $3 Rinehart
641.485 Food, Frozen. Cookery 51-11492

From her own experiences the author gives practical advice on what to put into a home freezer, how to freeze the various foods, and how to cook what comes out of the freezer. Includes such foods as skate, whale, or goat meat. Index.

Booklist 47:397 Jl 15 '51

"In addition to careful, well-illustrated instructions for packaging foods for the freezer, this text includes valuable information on the types of food one should buy for a freezer and the preparation of them." E. C. L.
+ Christian Science Monitor p2 Ag 3 '51 80w

"The book contains much practical help for the busy homemaker for whom the food freezer is a means of saving the surplus and of helping stretch a limited food budget. Its greatest appeal will be to the gourmet with more than the average amount of time, money, and freezer space, and for whom gardening, poultry raising, dairying, and food freezing are interesting hobbies as well." E. B. Owens
+ J Home Econ 43:808 D '51 240w

"Trade names and sources of supplies make this a very practical book for every food freezer, home variety or professional."
+ Kirkus 19:286 Je 1 '51 180w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
Library J 76:966 Je 1 '51 30w

ESTES, MRS ELEANOR. Ginger Pye [il. by the author]. 250p $2.50 Harcourt 51-10446

The Pyes lived in the little New England town of Cranbury. There was Mr Pye, a famous ornithologist, his pretty young wife, their two children Jerry and Rachel, and Gracie the cat. Later there was the dog Ginger. The story is about the loss of Ginger, and his return to his beloved family, thru the cleverness of Uncle Benny, aged three.

Booklist 47:333 My 15 '51
Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

"The book's charm lies in its telling, in its humor, in its true awareness of the strength of feeling and imagination, of pain and ecstasy, that is part of childhood." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Je 3 '51 220w
Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '51

"Calling all lovers of the Moffats! Here is the book for which we have been waiting since the day we read the last page of Rufus M. in 1943." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:182 My '51 160w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 27:238 Jl '51 200w
Kirkus 19:266 Je 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by M. B. Snow
Library J 76:969 Je 1 '51 70w

"The many naive pen sketches offer exactly what this gifted writer wants to add to our ideas of people, action and setting. Sometimes funny, sometimes touching, they give added assurance as to the reality of all these lovable characters." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 My 13 '51 250w

"Told with a real feeling for childhood—its desperate earnestness, its melodramatic imaginings, its unconscious humor. The mood is right, but the trouble is there is more mood than substance. Rachel's flashbacks of memory, suggestive of a juvenile Proust, may well irritate readers who want to know what happened to Ginger." E. L. Buell
+ — N Y Times p30 Ap 22 '51 160w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:175 D 1 '51 100w

"Not many writers can give us the mind and heart of a child as Eleanor Estes can. . . [She] has illustrated [the book] with her own drawings—vivid, amusing sketches that point up and confirm the atmosphere of the story. It is a book to read and reread, this chronicle of the Pyes."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 My 12 '51 280w
Springf'd Republican p8D Jl 1 '51 100w

"This is an amusing story of a delightful family, and includes some truly inspired episodes told with real humor and insight into the realm of childhood."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:246 S '51 100w

"An excellent choice for reading-aloud."
+ Wis Lib Bul 47:124 My '51

ETS, MRS MARIE HALL. Mr T. W. Anthony Woo [story and pictures] the story of a cat and a dog and a mouse. 54p $2 Viking 51-10174

Mr. T. W. Anthony Woo was a mouse who lived in a hole in a cobbler's shop. The cobbler also kept a dog and a cat, bitter enemies. One day the cobbler's managing sister came to live with them and the results were terrible. Mr. T. W. Anthony Woo solved their difficulty and peace descended at last on the cobbler's shop. Ages 4 to 8.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 My 13 '51 180w

"The story is full of fun and the pictures in black and white are wonderful. I have seldom seen such convincing proof that color is not essential for a perfect picture book if it has

ETS, M. H.—Continued
life, good drawing and fine bookmaking." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
+ Horn Bk 27:177 My '51 100w

Reviewed by A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 27:163 My '51 20w

"An amusing lesson in comradely teamwork."
+ Kirkus 19:60 F 1 '51 110w

"A clever and original story remarkable for its very real elements of drama, suspense, and humor. Charming illustrations. H. M. Brogan
+ Library J 76:880 My 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 My 13 '51 270w

"This original story has the heartiness and the coziness of a folktale. It is good fun at any time, but it will be handy to have around when the children begin to bicker. Its special qualities are emphasized by Mrs. Ets' noteworthy illustrations—robust black and white drawings on paper batik." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p36 Ap 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:172 D 1 '51 80w

"The end papers alone are more than worth the price of this irresistible picture book. Like 'Mr. Penny' and 'In the Forest,' it has the quality that gives it enduring value. The children of today will claim it, and it will lose nothing with the passing of time."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Ap 21 '51 180w

"A clever and original story remarkable for its very real elements of drama, suspense, and humor. The drawings in black and white are delightful. A picture book for children aged four to eight."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:247 S '51 70w
Wis Lib Bul 47:152 Je '51

EUCKEN, WALTER. Foundations of economics. 358p $4.75 Univ. of Chicago press
330.1 Economics. Economic policy [51-1764]

"History and theory in the analysis of economic reality." (Subtitle) The author was a German economist "whose nationalism was tempered by a measure of old-time liberalism and who manifested a good deal of independence from the rigid tenets of the historical school." (Ann Am Acad) Indexes.

"It is not clear what purpose the translation is designed to serve. In the main flow of the tradition of economic science, Eucken's central issues have been settled long ago. His problem, the justification of economic theory, is bound to impress as strange all readers who are nurtured by the Anglo-American tradition of theoretical economics and do not stand in need of emancipation from a narrow historism. . . Many of its formulations are trite and antiquated commonplaces, defending in earnest positions which have become standard content of our elementary texts." H. W. Spiegel
Ann Am Acad 276:152 Jl '51 600w

Reviewed by H. M. Oliver
J Pol Econ 59:538 D '51 550w

Reviewed by Palmer Harmon
N Y Times p18 S 30 '51 220w

"The present volume was written at the beginning of the war and published in 1940—Professor Eucken remained in his chair throughout the Nazi persecutions. It is this peculiar circumstance which explains the exasperating character of the book. . . His irritatingly pompous ponderousness in proving commonplace conclusions which are no longer at issue in this country, the aggravating indirectness of his discussion of the most elementary theoretical problems, can only be understood if we recall that at the time of writing Rosenberg and Goebbels were at the zenith of their power, and Britain a small beleaguered island."
Times [London] Lit Sup p729 N 17 '50 400w

EVANS, MRS EVA (KNOX). People are important; il. by Vana Earle. 86p $2.50 Capitol pub.
572 Anthropology—Juvenile literature

Describes some of the differences in language, name, food, clothing, shelter, and manners among the peoples of the earth, and some of the reasons for these differences. For grades four to eight.

Booklist 47:276 Ap 1 '51
Bookmark 10:158 Ap '51
Christian Science Monitor p6 Je 16 '51 130w

"An entertaining statement of an elementary ethical concept."
+ Kirkus 19:153 Mr 15 '51 170w

"An interesting, informal presentation of certain anthropological data. Teachers and librarians will find the book especially good for use with social studies." Augusta Baker
+ Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 90w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 15 '51 300w

"This book is a further development of the theme of the author's 'All About Us,' done from a different angle—a disarmingly frank plea for getting along with people." E. L. Buell
N Y Times p26 Mr 11 '51 190w
San Francisco Chronicle p21 N 25 '51 60w
Sat R of Lit 34:48 Jl 21 '51 70w

EVEREST, RALPH JAY. Voltage regulator manual. 185p il $2.85 Macmillan 629.2544 Automobiles—Electric equipment
51-2446

"A descriptive book giving practical explanations of automobile voltage regulators. Mechanical and electrical details are described at length and servicing information is included. Many diagrams and tables." Booklist

---

Booklist 47:324 My 15 '51

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 76:874 My 15 '51 90w
N Y New Tech Bks 36:66 S '51

EVERETT, JOHN RUTHERFORD. Religion in human experience; an introduction. 556p il $5 Holt
290 Religions 50-8225

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"This informative work serves to illustrate certain recurrent dilemmas that are inherent in any subject so comprehensive as religion and human experience." W. P. Lemon
+ Christian Century 68:19 Ja 3 '51 700w

"An excellent reference book, it is a clearly written and absorbing account of the religious record which he feels must convince us of 'the inevitability of change.'" J. H. Titus
+ Churchman 165:17 F 1 '51 90w

"Professor Everett, the new president of Hollins College, has written an attractively designed and illustrated volume to give laymen an historical background for a better understanding of the importance of religions in the formation of cultures. . . A glossary is provided for students, who will find an excellent textbook in this interesting work." Bernhard Mollenhauer
+ J Philos 48:426 Je 21 '51 370w

"The approach to the subject is scholarly, and the author displays his competence in the analysis of the religions treated, their historical development and major concepts. A chief criticism might be that the author does not sufficiently indicate the debatable character of some of the historical reconstructions he proposes; for instance, his presentation of the nature of the Mosaic religion. But with broad strokes he does give a generally dependable picture, and shows that he is familiar not only with the history of religions, but also with theology and philosophy. The book is provided with a glossary and a selected bibliography."
+ U S Quarterly Bkl 6:421 D '50 240w

EVERITT, CHARLES P. Adventures of a treasure hunter; a rare bookman in search of American history. 264p il $3.75 Little

B or 92 Book collecting 51-14091

Reminiscences of the famous dealer in Americana who died in March 1951 shortly after his book was completed. Anecdotes of his more than fifty years in the book business are a large part of the book.

Booklist 48:117 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:56 D '51 20w

"His reminiscences are rambling, discursive, and digressive—but completely fascinating to anyone afflicted with bibliomania. He is a born yarn-spinner and makes the most of that gift." Walter Harding

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 N 25 '51 170w

"This volume is packed with book lore of a nature to commend itself to the bookishly-inclined. But most alluring of all are the anecdotes." Margaret Williamson

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 N 29 '51 600w

+ Kirkus 19:522 S 1 '51 130w

"Recommended." E. F. Walbridge

+ Library J 76:1930 N 15 '51 110w

"The book is written very much as he talked it, which means that it is delightful. . . Whoever likes bright talk will like this book. Besides giving out brightness, it is full of information solid enough for a bibliography but never heavy." J. F. Dobie

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 D 16 '51 420w

Reviewed by Delancey Ferguson

N Y Times p43 D 9 '51 500w

"It is absorbing and often funny stuff, enlivened by the peppery, intransigent personality of the narrator."

+ New Yorker 27:157 D 15 '51 90w

"Excellent and very amusing reading." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 D 21 '51 750w

EWAN, JOSEPH. Rocky Mountain naturalists. 358p il $5 Univ. of Denver

925.7 Naturalists 51-115

"This book has been written out of a personal conviction of the usefulness of a regional guide to the naturalists of the Rocky Mountains, who they were, when and where they lived, and what they did to advance the biological sciences in the Great West." (Pref) Includes biographical chapters on: Edwin James; John Charles Fremont; Charles Christopher Parry; Edward Lee Green; Thomas Conrad Porter; Harry Norton Patterson; Marcus Eugene Jones; Eugene Penard; Theodore Dru Alison Cockerell. Bibliography. A roster of Rocky Mountain naturalists. Index.

"Ewan's materials are of special interest to professional botanists and to amateur students of the Old West. Written in a prevailingly infelicitous style, the book is sure to prove useful to specialists and to hold a secure if an obscure position among reference works." A. C. Ames

+ — Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 18 '51 120w

"This compilation, a formidable accomplishment for one individual, gives the book a high referential value in its particular field—it is hardly surprising that the schedule of acknowledgments runs to nearly four pages of name-listings. The nine main papers are crisp little studies of a fascinating assemblage of human beings—men of diverse natures, backgrounds, and accomplishments made one in their devotion to the marvels of growth to be found in the mountain country."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:35 Ag 18 '51 150w

Springf'd Republican p16A Ja 28 '51 240w

"Valuable and interesting as the appreciative sketches are, the more enduring part of the book, the real meat of it, is the second half, in which are given, in dictionary form, thumbnail vignettes of 798 natural-history collectors who have worked in the Rocky Mountain area."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:112 Mr '51 220w

EWEN, DAVID. Story of Arturo Toscanini. 142p $2.50 Holt

B or 92 Toscanini, Arturo 51-1021

A brief portrait of Arturo Toscanini. Includes an essay on the art of the conductor, and a short history of conducting. Chronology. Some important world premieres conducted by Toscanini. List of Toscanini recordings. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:239 Mr 1 '51

"How a serious, sensitive Italian boy became the great maestro and humanitarian is related with simplicity and perception."

+ Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 50w

"The book has value as a coherent and well written account of Toscanini's career." Edward Barry

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Mr 4 '51 180w

Reviewed by K. G. Roy

Christian Science Monitor p9 S 15 '51 300w

Horn Bk 27:114 Mr '51 80w

"An evocative and informative tribute, this book should be in every young person's music library."

+ Kirkus 19:3 Ja 1 '51 180w

"Easily and simply written, skirting technical matters. As usual with Mr. Ewen's books there is something in it for most types of libraries." C. K. Miller

+ Library J 76:328 F 15 '51 80w

"Recommended for all children's and young people's collections." C. A. Hulton

+ Library J 76:715 Ap 15 '51 60w

"The Story of Arturo Toscanini should really be entitled A Story of the Musical Activities of Arturo Toscanini. Skipping lightly up the ladder of time, Mr. Ewen chronicles Toscanini's musical career. The result is pleasant and interesting reading, but when finished we know very little of Toscanini as a person." Virginia Cunningham

Music Lib Assn Notes 8:717 S '51 240w

"To David Ewen, as to practically everybody else who has heard him conduct, Toscanini is the maestro, and this little book constitutes a combination biography and appreciation of the great conductor. Toscanini's well known aversion to interviewers, publicists and other intrusive personalities doesn't ease a biographer's task, so if Mr. Ewen's viewpoint is generally that of a gallery god, at least he has plenty of company." Herbert Kupferberg

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 F 18 '51 200w

"This is a readable introduction to conducting and to Toscanini for young people." M. C. Scoggin

+ N Y Times p36 Ap 1 '51 200w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead

New Yorker 27:186 D 1 '51 60w

"David Ewen has written a concise, informative biography." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Mr 25 '51 250w

"Toscanini's successful conducting of a major orchestra at nineteen, his drive for perfection, his rages and humility, his respect for the composer of the music that he played, and, above all, his hatred of oppression and tyranny make this biography a fascinating one." M. R. B.

+ Sat R of Lit 34:51 My 12 '51 230w

Wis Lib Bul 47:213 S '51

F

FACTORY MANAGEMENT AND MAINTENANCE. Materials handling case book. See Urquhart, L. K., and Boyce, C. W., eds.

FAIRCHILD, HENRY PRATT. Prodigal century. 258p $3.75 Philosophical lib.

901 Nineteenth century 51-9203

"This little book by the Professor-Emeritus of Sociology of New York University is a study of the ideas, values, standards, and objectives that dominated the social and economic thought of the nineteenth century, especially in the United States. Its record of extravagance, ruthlessness, and flagrant waste of the good things of the earth has well earned the designation of the Prodigal Century." Social Studies

"Fairchild writes with his usual clarity, fearlessness, and sincere interest in his country's welfare. He presents a unique history of nineteenth-century United States and makes many suggestions for the present and the future." E. S. Bogardus

+ Am J Soc 57:408 Ja '52 550w

"This popularly written, controversial volume contains a multitude of interesting anecdotes, suggestive, ideas, and basic principles. Of particular interest to the sociologist is the synthesis of a portion of Fairchild's thinking in the fields of population, economics, and social conflict." E. O. Smigel

+ Am Soc R 16:431 Je '51 200w

Reviewed by F. N. House

Ann Am Acad 275:198 My '51 210w

"The sweep of the social history of the past century and a half, as recorded in these pages with astonishing accuracy, leaves one breathless. . . It is when the author comes to grips with the remedy for our prodigality and stupidity that his touch seems less sure." J. M. Versteeg

+ — Christian Century 68:559 My 2 '51 600w

Reviewed by Walter Watson

Ethics 61:330 Jl '51 500w

"A succinct and intelligent analysis of modern history and the root problems of our time." Anthony Netboy

+ New Repub 124:21 My 28 '51 420w

Reviewed by Stuart Chase

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p19 S 23 '51 300w

School & Society 73:47 Ja 20 '51 50w

"This very stimulating and provocative book merits careful study by students of current problems. Teachers of social studies can ill afford to be without it." M. S. Greth

+ Social Studies 42:230 My '51 320w

FAIRCHILD, HENRY PRATT. Versus: reflections of a sociologist. 203p $3.75 Philosophical lib.

304 Sociology 51-9204

"From the noted educator's papers, 11 that have previously appeared in magazines have been selected to show the continuity of his thinking on 'the essential tragedy of choice which besets the human individual from the cradle to the grave.' Index." Bookmark

"Because I happen to hold beliefs which run closely parallel to those expressed by Professor Fairchild in these volumes, I liked them very much. . . I think that any reasonably intelligent and open-minded reader would find them stimulating, especially the papers collected in Versus." F. N. House

+ Ann Am Acad 275:198 My '51 210w

Bookmark 10:106 F '51 40w

"If history has the edge, the prophecy is not therefore to be despised; it is decidedly instructive and unfailingly interesting." J. M. Versteeg

+ Christian Century 68:559 My 2 '51 260w

"In a day when it appears that our choices are generally not between moral white and immoral black but between two kinds of murky grey, we could do worse than read a man who has wrestled with the problem long and conscientiously." W. B. Spofford

+ Churchman 165:15 F 15 '51 240w

Reviewed by Walter Watson

Ethics 61:330 Jl '51 80w

"These papers reveal a mind alert and poised, aware of the complexity of human arrangements and not given to seeking panaceas, well informed but modest to a fault. They amount to quietly helpful suggestions for the maintenance of common sense." G. F. Whicher

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p21 S 16 '51 120w

School & Society 73:47 Ja 20 '51 30w

"The soundness of Professor Fairchild's insight into his fellow men and their 'institutions' is evidenced more remarkably by the light these essays cast forward on the even more sweeping course of events in the world and the United States during the last fifteen years." Mary Ross

+ Survey 87:237 My '51 420w

FALKENBURG, JINX (MRS JOHN REAGAN MCCRARY). Jinx. 273p il $3.50 Duell

B or 92 51-10413

A well-known television, radio, movie, and stage personality tells her life story from her birth in Barcelona, Spain, to the present in New York.

Booklist 48:100 N 15 '51

Reviewed by Larry Wolters

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 30 '51 320w

Kirkus 19:375 Jl 15 '51 120w

"Strictly 'pulp' but amusing and should be bought for paid circulation and the largest theatre collections." George Freedley

Library J 76:1706 O 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by M. D. Read

Library J 76:2127 D 15 '51 40w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 O 14 '51 310w

"The book is full of the first names of all the famous people Miss Falkenburg has come to know and has a foreword by Bernard M. Baruch, who said that 'it has given me two evenings of charming, interesting and wholesome reading.' " Gilbert Millstein

N Y Times p24 S 23 '51 320w

"A book full of her own bubbling enthusiasm and joie de vivre. Well told, in an informal, conversational style." J. C. C.

+ Springf'd Republican p10B S 30 '51 130w

FALKNER, JOHN MEADE. Moonfleet; il. by Fritz Kredel. 247p $3 Little 51-4955

This is the first American edition of a novel written and published in England more than fifty years ago. It is an adventure tale reminiscent of Stevenson's Treasure Island or Kidnapped, laid in England in the eighteenth century and dealing with hidden treasure, smugglers' caves, and dangers at sea.

Atlantic 188:85 S '51 240w

Booklist 48:11 S 1 '51

"At long last Falkner comes before the American public. If readers have not become hopelessly addicted to an exclusive diet of sex and neuroticism, Falkner may take his deserved place beside Stevenson as a benefactor of those who love the adventure story at its best. 'Moonfleet' is a book that may be unreservedly recommended for family reading." A. C. Ames

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ag 12 '51 400w

Reviewed by T. M. Longstreth

Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 9 '51 440w

Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '51

Kirkus 19:300 Je 15 '51 150w

"Altogether 'Moonfleet' is a fascinating relic of those happier years when men (even literary men like Mr. Falkner) could be boys.

Today, when so many boys have to be men, it still reads well and with perhaps an added flavor." James Hilton

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Ag 19 '51 650w

"It is not the quantity of hairbreadth, hair-raising moments that takes the story's measure, though these are many and legitimate. It is the authentic tone in 'Moonfleet,' the human texture of its characters, the strong sense of winds and weathers it purveys, of the broken windows and fallen stone of a neglected manor house, of the flash of morning sun on matchlocks, the glint of candlelight on pewter and porcelain—it is these excellences that bring Mr. Falkner close as may be to the Stevenson of 'Kidnapped.'" Mary Steele

+ N Y Times p5 Ag 12 '51 650w

"This well-written yarn is top entry for the junior-high-school set and up." K. T. Kinkead

+ New Yorker 27:180 D 1 '51 80w

"A great tale of adventure, one of the kind that does—I'll vouch for it—'transport you into its own world' as Walter Edmonds has said." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Ag 3 '51 600w

Springf'd Republican p14A S 2 '51 190w

Time 58:106 Ag 13 '51 470w

Wis Lib Bul 47:254 N '51

FARBER, MARVIN, ed. Philosophic thought in France and the United States; essays representing major trends in contemporary French and American philosophy. 775p $7.50 Univ. of Buffalo, Buffalo 14, N.Y.

194 Philosophy, French. Philosophy, American 50-12100

"The first part of this volume is composed of seventeen essays (mostly historical) on contemporary French philosophy, supplemented by an extended list of the principal publications on the philosophy of science in France since 1900 (compiled with comments by André Lalande) and concluding with a summary and critical survey of the essays by Richard McKeon. Part II, on contemporary American philosophy, contains eighteen essays (approximately two-thirds historical and one-third topical) and a critical summary by André Lalande." Ethics

---

"At a time when an understanding of mental trends is absolutely imperative, a book such as this is an illuminating report on contemporary thought, in two countries, on man's relation to ultimate reality—a subject which knows no distinction of nationality. It is, therefore, a valuable contribution toward furthering both understanding and appreciation." H. W. S.

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '51 300w

"Translations of the French contributions to the volume are very uneven in quality; and in some instances, the reader must suppose, they are quite inadequate to the original. But the volume remains an important source of information concerning trends in contemporary American and French philosophy and is a valuable addition to the bibliography of the subject." G. W. Cunningham

+ — Ethics 61:162 Ja '51 700w

"The idea behind the present massive symposium was a fortunate one, and I should judge that it has been very well carried out. In the first place, a very useful work of reference has been compiled. In the second place, some good philosophical essays have been published in a manner that should ensure for them an attentive and fruitful reception. In the third place, considerable light has been thrown on the state of philosophical studies in the two countries." H. B. Acton

+ Hibbert J 49:189 Ja '51 1250w

"This bulky volume, published simultaneously in French and English, represents a major contribution to international understanding. To have brought it to completion within five years of the liberation of France is no small achievement." H. A. Larrabee

+ J Philos 48:247 Ap 12 '51 2000w

"The book as a whole is a useful addition and is instructive as well in the manner in which it exhibits certain differences between French and American approaches to philosophy, differences which the concluding commentaries elaborate in detail. It is being published concurrently in French, in two volumes."

Sat R of Lit 33:35 Ag 19 '50 290w

"Although some of the essays are, in the nature of the case, somewhat technical, most of them should prove valuable and enlightening to the nontechnical reader interested in contemporary philosophy. Not least among the features of the book which make it particularly useful as a source of information about recent philosophical thought in the two countries are the selected bibliographies that are appended to nearly all the essays."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:34 Mr '51 220w

FARJEON, ELEANOR. Poems for children. 236p $3 Lippincott

821 Children's poetry 51-11164

"This book contains the complete text of four volumes of verse by Eleanor Farjeon: Sing for your supper; Over the garden wall; Joan's door; Come Christmas. In addition there are twenty poems from her Collected Poems which heretofore has been published only in England." Explanatory note

---

Booklist 48:51 O 1 '51

Reviewed by A. C. Moore

Horn Bk 27:399 D '51 220w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

Horn Bk 27:414 D '51 120w

"Airy, lyrical and possessed of a sunny charm, although the idiom is somewhat outdated."

Kirkus 19:347 Jl 15 '51 140w

"All children who like poetry, and perhaps many who think they do not, should enjoy these lilting rhymes." M. C. Skinner

+ Library J 76:1712 O 15 '51 50w

"A reading-aloud mother can dip into this anywhere, any night, and find something treasureable for a child to sleep upon. Teachers will find it endlessly quotable, for children of six to about ten or eleven." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p35 N 11 '51 150w

Reviewed by S. V. Jacobsen

N Y Times p6 N 11 '51 290w

"It is a happy choice for the individual child or for a school or public library. Put it on the shelf and do not doubt that the children will find it. It is illustrated with graceful line drawings from the earlier volumes."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:70 N 10 '51 160w

FARLEY, MIRIAM SOUTHWELL. Aspects of Japan's labor problems; with a supplement by William T. Moran; issued under the auspices of the International Secretariat, Institute of Pacific relations. (Asia Press bk) 283p $3.50 Day

331.88 Trade unions—Japan 50-11392

"'This book constitutes part of a group of studies on the postwar political and economic problems of Japan . . . published under the auspices of the Institute of Pacific Relations.' (Foreword). This 'part' presents a very concise but informative account of the labor movement in Japan from its earliest beginnings through 1950. Details of the postwar development give a very clear picture of the problems confronting the various forces involved—labor, government, the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers and his organization, not to mention business interests." Library J

Foreign Affairs 29:680 Jl '51 10w

"All told with great objectivity and substantiated by ample documentation from a variety of sources. The author, who worked at SCAP headquarters on Japanese labor and other problems, seems well equipped to discuss this crucial aspect of Japanese economy." D. K. Oko

FARLEY, M. S.—Continued
+ Library J 76:47 Ja 1 '51 140w

"It is a very superficial book. It assumes, because there is a nominal correspondence in Japan to Western labor institutions, that there is a real correspondence. But what may outwardly appear to be a progressive union may very well be a persistently feudal institution." Harold Straus
Nation 172:90 Ja 27 '51 320w

Reviewed by Schichiro Matsui
Pacific Affairs 24:204 Je '51 240w

FARLEY, WALTER. Island stallion's fury; il. by Harold Eldridge. 243p $2 Random house 51-11818

"Again we meet the boy Steve Duncan on Azul island in the Caribbean, where he has gone to be with his friend Pitch, intent on historical exploration, while he renews his friendship with the great red stallion Flame, leader of a band of wild mares in a lost valley. The finding of a twin colt, abandoned by its mother, brings a new interest and a new purpose in Steve's life." Chicago Sunday Tribune

---

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p17 O 15 '51 150w

"The tremendous Farley following assures the success of this one, although there is too much blood spilt for our taste."
Kirkus 19:297 Je 15 '51 180w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 11 '51 50w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p38 O 14 '51 70w

FARMER, FANNIE MERRITT. Boston cooking school cook book; 9th ed. completely rev. by Wilma Lord Perkins; drawings by Barbara Corrigan. 878p col pl $3.95 Little
641.5 Cookery

"'I have expanded the introductory part of the book to give the fullest information about selecting and using kitchen equipment, detailed description of all the mixing and cooking techniques and practical menu and shopping suggestions for families of one or two as well as larger ones.'—Preface. Some new recipes and color illustrations have been added." (Booklist) For eighth edition see Book Review Digest 1946.

Booklist 48:67 O 15 '51
Christian Century 68:1438 D 12 '51 50w
Christian Science Monitor p12 N 2 '51 60w

"Fannie Farmer devotees will not be disappointed as this remains a very adequate general manual." K. T. Willis
Library J 76:2008 D 1 '51 40w

"Except for a recipe for brandy cocoa and a helpful hint on how to remove claret stains, there is no mention of anything alcoholic in the early editions of the book. In what she asserts is her aunt's forward-looking spirit, however, Mrs. Perkins, in editing this ninth edition, has catered to modern interests by including chapters on cocktails and long drinks with recipes for cocktail spreads and canapes, chapters on wine cookery and the use of herbs and one on the now fashionable tortes and other rich desserts. These innovations stand right along with the time-honored recipes for Miss Farmer's bread and muffins, roasts and stews, ice cream, cakes and custards. Directions for using beaters, blenders, pressure cookers and freezers replace aids for dusting rattan furniture and cleaning granite ware, but the book still has the same encyclopedic quality which has made it the backbone of the kitchen library." Charlotte Turgeon
N Y Times p54 D 2 '51 750w

"From the opening of its water-proofed and colorfully decorated cover to its last page every inch of space in the book is filled with concrete, definite information and recipes. Measurements, substitutions, temperatures, definitions, and oven heats take the guesswork out of cooking while the ever-present question of when is a teaspoonful not a teaspoonful is answered over and over again with the statement 'all measurements in this book are level.' Some of the old recipes may have disappeared but even more intriguing ones have taken their places." Ethel Dexter
+ Springf'd Republican p14C N 4 '51 250w
Wis Lib Bul 47:248 N '51

FARMER, PAUL. European world; a historical introduction. 618p il maps $5 Knopf
940 Europe—History. Colonization 51-10934

College textbook designed for use in an introductory course. Covers history of European or Western civilization from pre-historic and ancient times (in Egypt and the Near East) to the end of the eighteenth century and the era of colonial expansion.

Booklist 48:28 S 15 '51

"Well-organized, intelligently written volume. . . May be useful not only for academic purposes, but also for adult education. List of memorable dates and good selective bibliography; pictures and maps. Recommended for college and public libraries." F. E. Hirsch
+ Library J 76:1026 Je 15 '51 100w

FARNHAM, MARYNIA L. FOOT. The adolescent. 243p $3 Harper
136.7354 Adolescence 51-10718

Written for lay readers, this is a serious study of the physical, emotional and intellectual development of the adolescent, and how these changes affect him in himself and in his relations with others. Special chapters are given to delinquency, homosexuality, and psychosis and neurosis. A final chapter presents a "program for parents." Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:338 Je 1 '51
+ Kirkus 19:149 Mr 1 '51 120w

"Dr. Farnham has not only succeeded in giving a psychological description of the teenager; she has also given good advice on how to deal with him. Her broad social views on solving the delinquency problem and creating a healthier citizenry make a less favorable impression. Except for this single doubtful point, The Adolescent is an instructive and absorbing study." Charles Spielberger
+ — New Repub 125:21 O 15 '51 400w

"It is not easy to write a sound non-technical book describing the problems of adolescence from the standpoint of dynamic psychiatry. Yet Dr. Farnham has successfully translated the complexities of Freud's observations into a readable and human volume which makes available much that parents need to know about themselves and their growing children. Teachers also will find this a useful handbook for the understanding of those unconscious conflicts which block the emotional and intellectual development of pupils." Margaret Naumburg
+ N Y Times p6 S 2 '51 330w

"Dr. Farnham has written a full and sympathetic account of many adolescent problems, often drawing on her own case histories to illustrate a point. 'The Adolescent' is likely to give good new insights to any parent who has sincere questions about his growing child." M. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Jl 22 '51 180w
School & Society 74:319 N 17 '51 30w

Reviewed by M. F. Langer
+ Survey 87:332 Jl '51 170w
Wis Lib Bul 47:182 Jl '51

FARNSWORTH, PAUL RANDOLPH. Musical taste; its measurement and cultural nature. 94p pa $1.50 Stanford univ. press

780.1 Music—Psychology 50-9990

"For many years Professor Farnsworth has been studying 'musical eminence,' using primarily the questionnaire method. He has collected rated lists of composers from such groups as members of the American Musicological Society, high school seniors, and college sophomores." (Music Lib Assn Notes) "The first three of the eight chapters comprising the main contents deal with laws governing musical taste, results of the author's own earlier studies, and a description of the formal tests that attempt to measure musical taste. . . The remainder of the monograph deals with a discussion of 'Polling and Some of Its Problems' (chapter iv); 'The More Operational Procedures' (chapter v); 'Some of the Conditioners of Taste' (chapter vi); 'Selected Lists of Eminent Composers,' on the basis of space allotted to them in encyclopedias, general and musical, musical treatises and histories of music (chapter vii); and 'Concluding Remarks' (chapter viii)." (School R) Index.

"Farnsworth is aware of some of the dangers of polling methods and devotes a short chapter to the problem. To me it seems axiomatic that such methods are not valid ways of gaining scientific knowledge." C. W. Fox

Music Lib Assn Notes 8:362 Mr '51 200w

"A casual glance at the footnote citations of studies, found on almost every page of Farnsworth's Musical Taste: Its Measurement and Cultural Nature, will disclose many interesting and provocative titles that should lure the curious reader forward to explore their contents. . . It is unfortunate that Farnsworth does not begin by telling us what the elements of musical taste are; he somewhat arbitrarily selects one—the determination by rank of eminence among a selected group of composers—and presents the results of polling procedures done by him in an earlier project and by others. This is the element which is stressed by the author throughout the rest of the work as reflecting current conditions of musical taste. . . Farnsworth does not aim to give final answers to cover the entire field of musical taste but rather to prepare the way for further investigation." V. H. Talley

School R 59:124 F '51 750w

FARQUHARSON, RONALD. Confessions of a China hand. 212p $3 Morrow

915.1 China—Social life and customs. China —Foreign population 51-9003

Reminiscences of the author's experiences and observations in China in the 1920s and '30s, when he served as a representative of a British chemical company. Sketches are informal and slightly fictionized in form.

Booklist 47:165; 186 Ja 1 '51; Ja 15 '51

Bookmark 10:130 Mr '51 40w

"Good reading."

+ Kirkus 18:672 N 1 '50 150w

"'Cheerful reminiscences. . . While sketchy and much too brief, it is an interesting and comforting book to read at this time. Author appears to believe that China will come out of this present tragic period still stronger and with much of its 'elegance' intact." Donald Wasson

+ — Library J 76:38 Ja 1 '51 70w

"Taken as a whole, 'Confessions of a China Hand' seems to be a book written from the most laudable motives by a person who is not always entirely conscious of everything that he is saying." J. J. Espey

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 Ja 14 '51 700w

San Francisco Chronicle p24 F 25 '51 150w

Reviewed by Robert Payne

Sat R of Lit 34:20 F 17 '51 850w

"Mr. Farquharson enjoys the comic look of a matter, though too prone, perhaps, to arch Kiplingesque circumlocution about it, but this is compensated. He is modest and self-critical and never oracular."

Times [London] Lit Sup p105 F 16 '51 550w

FARRELL, JAMES THOMAS. This man and this woman. 205p $2.75 Vanguard

51-13556

The story of a marriage which had lasted for half-a-lifetime, but which finally ends in disaster.

"The latest novel by the author of Studs Lonigan is probably the most dismal work of the year turned in by any serious fiction writer of established reputation."

— Atlantic 188:99 D '51 150w

"In This Man and This Woman the sociological context is missing; we are shown only Walt and Peg Callahan, and there is nothing there. The unfortunate result is a book which lacks all meaning, which is, in the final analysis, merely tedious and dull. It reminds us that the tedious and dull, the stupid and commonplace, can never, of themselves, be made the subject matter of art. They must be in some way illuminated and universalized by vision." W. P. Clancy

— Commonweal 55:123 N 9 '51 1200w

Kirkus 19:447 Ag 15 '51 190w

Reviewed by Herbert Kupferberg

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 D 16 '51 310w

"There is certainly a real, important and touching subject for a novelist in an aging couple plagued by forces dividing them which they cannot understand or begin to deal with. It is even quite possible that the particular pathological situation Farrell describes is much more common than most people suspect. Still the conclusion can't be escaped that his treatment contains more vulgarity than dignity—and that it entirely lacks the vitality of tragedy." John Brooks

— + N Y Times p32 O 28 '51 450w

"Mr. Farrell never showed his artistry, his power to a greater advantage than in these constantly recurring domestic scenes. I was surprised, shocked at the horrible, melodramatic ending of 'This Man and This Woman.' . . Anyway, I was mightily stirred by Mr. Farrell's story-telling artistry, the description of this chamber of horrors which is inhabited by two people, once young and once in love." C. V. Little

+ Sat R of Lit 34:18 O 20 '51 1050w

FARRELL, JOHNNY. If I were in your golf shoes. 87p il $2 Holt

796.352 Golf 51-4108

"A golf professional writes on the fundamentals of the game for those who play, illustrating his points with 18 action photographs." Bookmark

Booklist 47:359 Je 15 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 20w

"Unpretentious but solid." Robert Cromie

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Je 3 '51 100w

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson

Library J 76:1127 Jl '51 30w

FARRELL, M. J., pseud. See Skrine, M. L.

FARREN, ROBERT (ROIBEARD O'FARACHAIN). Selected poems. 180p $2.50 Sheed

821 [A51-10212]

"Mr. Farren has taken a line by James Stephens for the title of one of his shorter poems, 'Where is an eye is beauty,' and this might well stand as the text for the whole book. The poems are selections, reprinted from four volumes, and span nine years, 1936-1945. Some are translations from the Gaelic and others are coloured and influenced by the poetic

FARREN, ROBERT—Continued
traditions of that language." Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by Katherine Brégy
Cath World 173:316 Jl '51 120w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald
Library J 76:1029 Je 15 '51 120w

"Mr. Farren is a most uneven writer; just when you begin to think he is no good except when translating from the Gaelic he comes up with something, apparently original, with all the dash and surprise in the world." Rolfe Humphries
+ — Nation 173:77 Jl 28 '51 180w

"Robert Farren's metric, full of assonance and internal rhymes, is fascinating. . . A strange and delightful book coming from a little understood country." M. M. Colum
+ N Y Times p23 My 6 '51 750w

Times [London] Lit Sup p339 Je 1 '51 450w

FARRINGTON, SARA HOUSTON (CHISHOLM) (MRS SELWYN KIP FARRINGTON). Women can fish; drawings by Betty Shonnard. 238p il $6 Coward-McCann
799.1 Fishing 51-7009

"The author has writen this book so that more women can enjoy the sport of fishing and accompany their husbands and sons on fishing trips. It tells how women should conduct themselves as well as how to pack and what to wear. It tells many interesting anecdotes and incidents in her seventeen years of married life with Kip Farrington." Publisher's note

Booklist 48:26 S 15 '51

"Recommended for all sports lovers, male or female." R. W. Henderson
+ Library J 76:1812 N 1 '51 40w

"It is entertaining reading—and for men, too." Jack Pegues
+ San Francisco Chronicle p4 N 25 '51 90w

FARRINGTON, SELWYN KIP. Railroading the modern way. 395p il $6.75 Coward-McCann
385 Railroads—U.S. 51-4750

Another volume by a prolific writer on American railroads, author of Railroading from the Front End, Railroads at War, etc. Partial contents: The American freight car; Denver & Rio Grande Western; New train styles on the Southern Pacific; The Seaboard Air line; Wabash Blue bird; The Shasta daylights; General Motors diesels; Highway traffic is tough.

Reviewed by Al Chase
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Ag 5 '51 220w

San Francisco Chronicle p34 N 4 '51 250w

FARRIS, EDMOND JOHN, ed. Care and breeding of laboratory animals [by] a staff of fifteen contributors. 515p il $8 Wiley
636.9 Animals. Breeding 50-10593

"The fifteen author-specialists of this volume have succeeded admirably in their task of presenting needed information on the management of laboratory experimental animals. . . In most chapters the following points are covered: cages, equipment, record keeping, handling, reproduction, diet, disease, shipping regulations and procedure. References to the literature accompany each chapter. The book was written primarily for professionally trained personnel associated with university and other experimental laboratories." N Y New Tech Bks

"The information will for the most part be invaluable to anyone undertaking without previous extensive experience, to raise any of the animals considered." Geoffrey Edsall
+ Am J Pub Health 41:459 Ap '51 410w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins
Library J 75:2008 N 15 '50 160w

N Y New Tech Bks 35:90 N '50

FATHER X, pseud. See Hilkert, R. C.

FATIO, LOUISE (MRS ROGER ANTOINE DUVOISIN). Anna the horse; il. by Roger Duvoisin. [42p] $1.75; lib ed $2.25 Aladdin
51-12407

Pictures and story tell about a little girl with a great love of horses. When she asked her father to buy her one he replied that a horse is an anachronism in these days of airplanes. When the snow arrived father learned differently and Sally got her horse.

Booklist 48:52 O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:61 D '51

"This is a very amusing, rhythmically told story which would be fun to read aloud to the youngest. The pictures are as gay as can be." Polly Goodwin
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p41 D 2 '51 110w

Reviewed by E. C. Ince
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 13 '51 100w

Reviewed by J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews
Horn Bk 27:407 D '51 110w

"A delightful poke at the infuriating adult logic which rules out the purchase of a horse for the garage."
+ Kirkus 19:348 Jl 15 '51 90w

"The illustrations are not Roger Duvoisin at his best, and this is an expensive little book, though a pleasant story." M. C. Skinner
Library J 76:1709 O 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p38 O 14 '51 50w

FATOUT, PAUL. Ambrose Bierce, the devil's lexicographer. 349p pl $4 Univ. of Okla. press
B or 92 Bierce, Ambrose 51-10020

The life story of Ambrose Bierce, or as much of it as is known, from his birth to his disappearance in Mexico in 1914. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:309 My 1 '51

"Mr. Fatout has dug up considerable in the way of fresh Bierce material, some from unpublished letters and some from direct interviews, and all of it contributes significantly to this analysis of the Bierce character which is conducted thruout with sympathy and understanding." J. H. Jackson
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Ap 22 '51 500w

"The style is sometimes rather high-pitched but so was the subject. Recommended." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:595 Ap 1 '51 110w

"Mr. Fatout's book does full justice to his picturesque, irascible and highly contentious subject. The Bierce that emerges is an engaging combination of warring beliefs and prejudices." Oscar Lewis
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Ag 26 '51 480w

Reviewed by Ralph Thompson
N Y Times p4 Je 17 '51 300w

"[This] has a certain importance for students of Bierce, because it contains new information, but it is otherwise a pretty bad book, written in a species of provincial journalese and characterized by a badgering and boorish tone that cheapens such distinction as Bierce possesses." Edmund Wilson
New Yorker 27:159 D 8 '51 2900w

"For anyone who knows Bierce's work, Mr. Fatout's study is a must. . . In general the book does what it sets out to do. It sums up the character of Bierce as no study of his life up to now has done. It goes far to explain the fact that even today, nearly 40 years after the mysterious disappearance, 'There is still no middle ground on the subject of Bierce; he meets either wholehearted acceptance or wholehearted repugnance.'" J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ap 2 '51 900w

"Dr. Fatout sees Bierce plain and seeks only to make an accurate record of his doings. This, I think, he does and he puts his report in lively prose. Anybody wanting to know the facts about Bierce's life can be thoroughly satisfied with the Fatout and McWilliams books. Nobody else has much of significance to offer on this score that one or the other does not incorporate." C. H. Grattan

+ Sat R of Lit 34:11 Ag 18 '51 800w

Time 57:102 Ap 2 '51 900w

"Having had access to some new material and having studied carefully the old, Professor Fatout provides here a thorough and scholarly biography of Ambrose Bierce."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:126 Je '51 300w

FAULKNER, HAROLD UNDERWOOD. Decline of laissez faire, 1897-1917. (Economic history of the U.S.) 433p il $6; text ed $4.50 Rinehart

330.973 U.S.—Economic conditions 51-5244

"This is the seventh volume in sequence and the fourth to appear in a projected nine-volume series, The Economic History of the United States, which will provide a detailed picture of growth and change in the American economy from our Colonial beginnings to the beginnings of the Second World War. . . [This volume] contains an analysis of American economic life in the period between the end of the 'nineties and the beginning of the First World War, [and] is the story of the growth of big business and of government regulation—the decline of laissez faire." Publisher's note

"In telling a full story of economic progress and lapse in two decades, all in some four hundred pages, the temptation to sacrifice interpretation to narrative must have been strong. This author has resisted it and has given us supported judgments which are compliments to his discernment. That the economist, as such, has his important office is evident in increasing recognition of his contribution to public opinion and administration. But the best workmen in the craft will be persuaded, in volumes such as this, how they may guide their scrutiny and apply their recommendations in the light of historical hindsight." Broadus Mitchell

+ Ann Am Acad 278:211 N '51 500w

Booklist 48:24 S 15 '51

FAULKNER, WILLIAM. Requiem for a nun. 286p $3 Random house 51-12731

A sequel to the author's Sanctuary (Book Review Digest 1931). It tells partly in prose, partly in play form, the story of Temple Drake, eight years after the time of Sanctuary. The action begins with the death sentence pronounced on Nancy, Temple's nursemaid, for the murder of Temple and Gowan Stevens' child. Temple's effort to have the death sentence commuted involves a night visit to the governor, with a long explanation of her own guilt in the affair.

Booklist 48:49 O 1 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:232 D '51 260w

Reviewed by Paul Engle
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 O 7 '51 460w

"In this complex, difficult-to-read, compelling relation of a simple tragedy Faulkner says about all that it is necessary to say about the part of today that yesterday is. . . That places cannot distract you completely when, briefly, you realize that you have a soul." William Pfaff

Comonweal 54:601 S 28 '51 950w

Kirkus 19:356 Jl 15 '51 220w

"This is a powerful novel and a great one reaching lyrical and emotional heights never before played upon by Faulkner. It has truth without being true and reality without being real. It will almost sing itself." M. S. Byam

+ Library J 76:1220 Ag '51 110w

"If this play is produced, it is likely to suffer from the same weaknesses it reveals in print: Faulkner hardly troubles to dramatize his story, the bulk of it is told by Temple—after many tedious hesitations—to auditors on the stage. . . The strength of the play rests in its characterization of the whites. In previous books Faulkner has expressed a striking distaste for the doings of young women, partly as an accommodation to folk humor and partly from an obscure governing bias; but Temple, one of the foulest of his females, is treated with surprising sympathy and a fine sense of how even slight aging can modify character." Irving Howe

Nation 173:263 S 29 '51 1200w

Reviewed by Richard Match
New Repub 125:19 N 5 '51 900w

"Among the most successful of Faulkner's many experiments in narrative form. . . By writing the three narratives, Faulkner translates the past into present and gives his action a sense of historical depth, like a fourth dimension. A book that might otherwise be merely a printed play, without actors or setting, now reads like a thoughtful novel." Malcolm Cowley

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 S 30 '51 1750w

Reviewed by R. P. Warren
N Y Times p1 S 30 '51 1700w

"One's feelings about this concoction as the work of the one unchallengeable and unquestionable genius at present functioning at the full tide of his creative powers on the American literary scene cannot be very happy. . . But the puzzle remains: why the genius who has given Jefferson and the County such reality and substance should have populated it with such people, so brutishly and incredibly entangled." Anthony West

New Yorker 27:109 S 22 '51 1500w

Reviewed by Luther Nichols
San Francisco Chronicle p19 O 14 '51 1200w

Reviewed by Harrison Smith
Sat R of Lit 34:12 S 29 '51 750w

Time 58:114 S 24 '51 430w

FAUROT, DON. Football; secrets of the split T formation. 362p il $3.50 Prentice-Hall

796.33 Football 50-10438

A handbook on the "Split-T" offense, by the originator of the system, who is head football coach at the University of Missouri.

Booklist 47:170 Ja 1 '51

"If you're a coach, player, or dyed-in-the-wool fan, you'll find the book of interest." Robert Cromie

Chicago Sunday Tribune p18 N 26 '50 110w

San Francisco Chronicle p15 D 24 '50 90w

FAUST, FREDERICK (GEORGE CHALLIS, pseud). Bait and the trap. 213p $2.50 Harper

Borgia, Cesare—Fiction 51-9032

Novel of sixteenth century Italy in which Tizzo, hero of The Firebrand [listed under Challis, Book Review Digest 1950] is again to the fore. He has entered a three months' service to Cesare Borgia, believing in the Duke's goodness of heart. His awakening is accompanied by murder, torture, plunder, and final escape.

"Dependable and colorful romanticized history."

+ Kirkus 18:660 N 1 '50 110w

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Mr 4 '51 140w

Reviewed by Howard Clark
N Y Times p19 Ja 28 '51 240w

"This particular specimen is light fiction—light as gauze—and a delight for those who crave costume pieces with lots of action and a liberal letting of gore. . . Sure-fire for adolescents and, perhaps, convalescents." R. H. D.

San Francisco Chronicle p15 Mr 11 '51 160w

FAY, CHARLES RYLE. Huskisson and his age. 398p il $6.50 Longmans

B or 92 Huskisson, William. Great Britain—Politics and government. England—Social conditions 51-13067

The first of two volumes on the life and times of William Huskisson, the "liberal-tory" 19th century statesman who was killed in an accident at the opening of the Liverpool and Manchester railway in 1830. Index.

"A highly impressionistic study. Whereas most biographers are content with the sequence of beginning, middle, and end, Dr Fay spins round in circles. . . It does not need to be said to those who know Dr Fay that this is a fascinating book to read, and that it is based on a detailed study of original material, much of it gleaned not from books but from journeys by push-bike and steamboat. . . It is the genius of Dr Fay that not only has he a vivid sense of the past in the middle of the present, but that he can discover the liveliest illustrations of the presence or lack of it in other people." Asa Briggs

+ Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 31 '51 300w

"Books of this rambling kind are occasionally written by amateur adventurers into the field of history; hardly before by a distinguished economic historian, his mind crammed with stimulating ideas and his text grounded on original material. Much of this book can be read for entertainment and some for instruction. All the same, it seems a pity that such a gift for exposition and so much research should have been presented so chaotically. At the end the reader has no clear picture of Huskisson and not much even of his age." A. J. P. Taylor

New Statesman & Nation 42:186 Ag 18 '51 1000w

Reviewed by Edward Hughes

Spec 187:222 Ag 17 '51 700w

"The reader who expects to get a clear and coherent picture of Huskisson and his age from Mr. C. R. Fay's discursive book will be disappointed. It contains the raw material of history, mainly in the shape of letters, loosely strung together by comments not always free from puerilities. . . Huskisson deserves, but must still await, a competent, well-knit and soberly written study of the man and his times."

Times [London] Lit Sup p502 Ag 10 '51 800w

FAY, CHARLES RYLE. Palace of industry, 1851; a study of the great exhibition and its fruits. 156p $3 Cambridge

606 London. Crystal palace. London. Great exhibition of the works of industry of all nations, 1851 [52-48]

A short history of the Great Exhibition in London in 1851, illustrated with photographs. It contains a chapter on the benefits still enjoyed which owed their inception to the Great Exhibition. Indexes.

"Of the many books commemorating the centenary of the Great Exhibition of 1851 none is more attractive than Dr C. R. Fay's Palace of Industry, 1851. . . There is much illuminating stuff about Victorian life and industry in Dr Fay's book which makes it far from ephemeral in its interest."

+ Manchester Guardian p4 Jl 13 '51 220w

"Short and beautifully produced study."

+ New Statesman & Nation 42:24 Jl 7 '51 190w

Spec 185:828 Je 22 '51 70w

Times [London] Lit Sup p435 Jl 13 '51 370w

FEAREY, ROBERT A. Occupation of Japan; second phase: 1948-50; pub. under the auspices of the Int. secretariat, Inst. of Pacific relations. 239p $3 Macmillan

940.5352 Japan—History—Allied occupation, 1945- 50-10855

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"We have no empirically derived data to prove Fearey wrong or right. History helps us little, for never before have we sought to remake a nation of mature and sophisticated level of civilization. Fearey does not make enough of the warning of Professor Kimura: the release of occupation pressure may produce strange results. Yet in terms of Western experience in government, and in terms of criteria laid down by such anthropologists as the late Ruth Benedict, Fearey's optimism is probably justified. We have a right to expect that our relatively gentle treatment of Japan will accomplish genuine reform and win for us firm allies. The unknowns of the social psychology of a people occupied for five years or more in the crucible of power politics in Asia may tragically twist our expectations." R. J. D. Braibanti

Am Pol Sci R 45:230 Mr '51 1050w

"With American attention increasingly directed toward Asia, this volume can do much to prevent both self-congratulation and undue pessimism as to the future course of Japan." M. B. Jansen

+ Christian Science Monitor p14 Ja 5 '51 550w

Foreign Affairs 29:505 Ap '51 40w

Reviewed by Guy Wint

Manchester Guardian p4 Je 26 '51 100w

"Mr. Fearey's book . . . has knowledge if not always understanding. Although Mr. Fearey has no appreciation of Oriental cultural values, he at least has eyes to see the clash between them and Western values, and admits as often as necessary that powerful traditional forces have negated Western reforms." Harold Strauss

+ Nation 172:90 Ja 27 '51 700w

"There is little fault to be found in the relation of the main events of the Occupation between early 1948 and mid-1950. All of the important fields are covered, and comment on this part of the book would be merely repetition. For a succinct account of this nature, the book is admirable. The main points of criticism arise from the way these events are related to the thoughts and actions of the Japanese government and people, or, sometimes, from the failure to relate them in this way at all." E. E. Ward

+ — Pacific Affairs 24:322 S '51 1050w

Times [London] Lit Sup p815 D 21 '51 90w

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:165 Je '51 270w

FEARING, KENNETH. Loneliest girl in the world. 238p $3 Harcourt

51-11347

"Ellen Vaughan describes herself as one of the best audio engineers in the world, and her favorite companion, after her scientist father's death, is Mikki, her pet name for a monstrous invention of his that is capable of housing and playing back four hundred thousand hours of selected recordings. Besides classical music and readings of philosophical works, this collection includes transcriptions of all her father's business contracts. . . After listening to a staggering amount of this material, Ellen not only revises her opinion of her father but also decides to perform a drastic operation on Mikki's insides." New Yorker

"Fearing in the thirties, was one of the most inventive of the young poets. In his new novel he reveals an easy mastery over language, and in the business of creating atmosphere and expectancy, a mastery possibly too sure-fire. For just about one half of his book Fearing holds the reader. . . But the author succumbs to the temptation of the genre: the easy solution, the intoxicatingly gay resolution—and the jig is really up." Harvey Breit

+ — Atlantic 188:82 Ag '51 360w

Booklist 48:11 S 1 '51

Reviewed by V. P. Hass

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Ag 5 '51 290w

Kirkus 19:278 Je 1 '51 150w

"The slightly suspenseful story with its science-fiction machine is told by eight people and Fearing is a good enough writer to make each chapter sound like the person who supposedly wrote it. But nothing much develops in the way of plot and we get only some tiresome accounts of business deals from the fabulous spools of recordings." G. D. McDonald

Library J 76:1125 Jl '51 100w

"A novel, tenuous and incompletely developed as to story, but powerful because of the atmosphere it creates."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ag 5 '51 130w

"For readability, humor, sound characterization and firm but understated dramatic significance 'Loneliest Girl in the World' is a story worthy to stand beside Mr. Fearing's justly famous 'The Big Clock.'" John Brooks
+ N Y Times p4 Jl 29 '51 550w

"Mr. Fearing's book is too much like science fiction to be believable, and sadly lacks the excitement he provided in 'The Big Clock' and 'Dagger of the Mind.'"
New Yorker 27:76 Jl 28 '51 80w

"Conclusion seems a bit obscure, but fine style, characterization and a sense throughout of not-quite-tangible terror make this a notable item. B plus." L. G. Offord
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p19 Ag 5 '51 80w

"Author Kenneth Fearing has tried to clamp a humanist allegory on a science-fiction frame. His real villain, the Industrial Revolution, is 200 years old, and his moral (Destroy the machine before the machine destroys you) has an antique creak. The author of that high-voltage thriller, The Big Clock, Fearing seems to have forgotten for the moment what time it is."
Time 58:84 Jl 30 '51 290w

Wis Lib Bul 47:189 Jl '51

FEARON, ETHELIND E. Me and Mister Mountjoy; il. by Bernard Reynolds. 240p $3 Crown

630.1 Country life Agr51-531

A story of farm life thru the seasons in a southern England county. The "Me" of the title is the wife of a prosperous farmer, Mr Mountjoy is the little pig she wins playing skittles at a country fair. Tho other events are recorded, other characters pictured, it is the growing friendship between these two (the pig turns out to be a lady) that forms the main thread of the story.

Reviewed by V. P. Hass
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 O 28 '51 380w

"A very domestic diary which has a well-bred charm."
+ Kirkus 19:460 Ag 15 '51 130w

"A delightful story." M. H. Zipprich
+ Library J 76:1422 S 15 '51 50w

"This is a discursive, agreeable and a sedative book, distinguished by a facile style that most of its American equivalents lack. It would be interesting to see what Mrs. Fearon might do with something into which she could get her teeth deeper and more solidly." F. F. Van de Water
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 S 16 '51 350w

"This is Mr. M.'s saga, but, like its author's earlier book, 'The Happiest of Men' [Book Review Digest 1947] it is also a pastoral parade seen through eyes that miss nothing—from the 'marmalade-cat' stripes on a marrow at Harvest Home to the carved bobbins on the strake of an old wagon. It is quick with the sound of birdsong and the accent of Essex. . . If Mrs. Fearon farms as well as she writes, she should prosper—even if she does cosset her pigs." Roger Pippett
+ N Y Times p29 S 16 '51 280w

"Mrs. Fearon is a gifted writer, with a distinct flair for witty whimsical composition that does not become stale or repetitious as the book progresses." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p14C O 14 '51 200w

FEILING, KEITH GRAHAME. History of England; from the coming of the English to 1938. 1229p maps $7.50 McGraw

942 Great Britain—History

A one-volume history of England from Roman and post-Roman days and the coming of the English in the fifth century A.D. to the final years before the second World war. Author is Emeritus Chichele Professor of Modern history, Oxford. The book contains genealogical tables, tables of contemporary dates in world history, maps, bibliography, and index.

"There is much to be said on the credit side of this scholarly volume, even with regard to the medieval period, where Professor Feiling might have been pardoned if he had not, after many years of attention to modern studies, been entirely at his ease. Indeed, the medieval section is so good that it should make medievalists take stock of their own inconspicuous efforts to translate the formidable mass of modern research into readable narrative. It would be easy to quarrel with this or that detail; but in the main it can be said that Professor Feiling has covered a remarkable extent of ground in the three hundred pages devoted to the period before the Tudors, and shows an impressive mastery of most of the recent research. . . Mr. Feiling's presentation of modern Britain is a mature and subtle one which is more likely to be appreciated by readers who already know a good deal about the subject than by newcomers." B. Wilkinson and others
+ Canadian Hist R 31:406 D '50 1600w

"Professor Feiling claims to have written a narrative rather than a version of the main course of English history; and he challenges comparison with Green's 'Short History of the English People.' All the same this, like Green's, is a very personal book, stamped on every page with the individuality of the author. . . Professor Feiling has his failings. There is sometimes a lack of precision: modern taste could have done with fewer genealogical trees and would have welcomed instead tables of statistics or even graphs. . . [However] though probably not a great book, this is a very honest one. If people are still reading the history of England in fifty years' time this is one of the books they are likely to read." A. J. P. Taylor
+ — Manchester Guardian p4 Ap 11 '50 650w

Reviewed by A. J. P. Taylor
New Statesman & Nation 39:517 My 6 '50 2200w

"Professor Feiling's style lacks the animation which made Green so popular, but its sobriety is in better accord with the present taste. The new book is more comprehensive than its predecessors; Green stopped at 1815, but Mr. Feiling covers the whole period from Roman Britain to 1938; unlike Mr. Trevelyan, he integrates political and social history into one narrative." Hans Kohn
+ N Y Times p21 Mr 18 '51 400w

"It is not a text-book, nor a hand-book, nor a class-book, but a book, a mental and spiritual achievement, the work of a teacher who has won the affection and esteem of many generations of undergraduates, including many who have risen high in various kinds of careers, and of a writer and scholar of distinction. Receptive of what is new, his narrative gives us history as he has come to see it." F. M. Powicke
+ Spec 184:433 Mr 31 '50 1600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p294 My 12 '50 3000w

FEINBERG, SAMUEL MAURICE. Allergy: facts and fancies [pref. by Austin Smith]. 173p $2.50 Harper

615.37 Allergia 51-2466

A specialist in the various types of allergy discusses the differences between true allergy and other ailments which may be confused with allergies. Dr Feinberg rejects the idea that allergies are induced by personality difficulties; he considers it more likely that it is the other way around. Partial contents: The allergic

FEINBERG, S. M.—Continued
state; Foods and allergy; do not touch; Resisting the invader; Secondary maneuvers; Looking forward. Index.

Booklist 47:305 My 1 '51
Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 30w
Reviewed by T. R. Van Dellen
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 My 20 '51 100w

"This book strikes the sound middle road between the fancies of old wives' tales and the still rather revolutionary theory (not held by Dr. Feinberg) that the causes of allergy are strictly psychosomatic."
+ Kirkus 19:95 F 1 '51 120w

"He recounts, simply and clearly, some of the interesting history of medical advances in the allergy field, and tells of the newest treatments—but he urges the allergee to go to a doctor about them." M. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p21 My 20 '51 40w
Time 57:84 Ap 30 '51 400w
Wis Lib Bul 47:118 My '51

FEIPEL, LOUIS NICHOLAS, and BROWNING, EARL WHITNEY. Library binding manual; prepared under the direction of the Joint committee of the American Library Association and Library Binding Institute. 74p il pa $1.50 A.L.A.

025.7 Bookbinding 51-10120

"The manual explains the processes of rebinding books, magazines and newspapers for library use and emphasizes the characteristics of good library binding in addition to outlining procedures for libraries to follow in their binding program. The pamphlet is especially valuable in pointing out the economies of good binding. It is the result of many years of study by the Joint Committee and contains the latest revision, July 1950, of the minimum specification for class 'A' library binding." Booklist

---

Booklist 47:267 Ap 1 '51

"The Library Binding Manual will be welcomed by library schools and libraries everywhere as an indispensable part of the librarian's professional library." Louis Shores
+ Library J 76:1316 S 1 '51 490w

FEIS, HERBERT. Diplomacy of the dollar; first era, 1919-1932. 81p $2.25 Johns Hopkins press

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. Investments 50-12862

"This 'booklet' is mainly a 'skeleton summary' of the rationale and history of our Federal screening of proposals by American investment bankers to underwrite issues of foreign securities." Ann Am Acad

---

"Written so that 'he who runs may read' the book should inform such sprinters and educate them on the pressing need for persistence, patience, and perception in continuing dollar aid to other peoples. The writer matches warning with wisdom. The treatment is temperate—something of an achievement for anyone who has known twelve hectic years (1931-1943) as adviser on international economic affairs in the Department of State. Whether or not one agrees with every aspect of this author's presentation, as a whole it commands respect and admiration." J. P. Nichols
+ Am Hist R 56:670 Ap '51 350w
Am Pol Sci R 45:269 Mr '51 50w
Reviewed by R. O. Hall
Ann Am Acad 273:206 Ja '51 360w
Current Hist 20:172 Mr '51 60w
Foreign Affairs 29:495 Ap '51 40w

"Mr. Feis should know his material; he was at one time economic adviser to the State Department. He makes use of some documentation, but it is official output only, and gives his writing that indecisive quality characteristic of 'officialese.' The result is a lack of substance, a somewhat attenuated argument." B. B. Seligman
New Repub 124:21 F 12 '51 370w
Reviewed by D. W. O'Connell
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ja 28 '51 550w
Reviewed by J. B. Oakes
N Y Times p27 Mr 4 '51 370w
Reviewed by P. R. Levin
Sat R of Lit 34:36 My 19 '51 360w
U S Quarterly Bk R 7:67 Mr '51 200w

FELLMAN, DAVID, and others. Readings in American national and state government. 2v in 1 399; 347p maps pa $2.40 Rinehart

342.733 U.S.—Politics and government—Sources. State governments 50-14465

"A combination volume, containing the second edition of Professor Fellman's Readings in American National Government, first published in 1947, and a new collection—Readings in American State Government—by Professors Lancaster and Breckenridge." Am Pol Sci R

Am Pol Sci R 44:1043 D '50 30w
School & Society 72:223 S 30 '50 10w

FELLOWS, MARGARET M., and KOENIG, STELLA AKULIN. How to raise funds by mail. 342p $4 McGraw

361.73 Money-raising campaigns 50-12023

"Authors are directors of fund raising of Children's Aid Society of New York and Henry Street Settlement (N.Y.), and the book presents effectively the background and techniques they have found useful. Applying the methods of sound mail order business and public relations, they demonstrate how to write effective letters and discuss the seemingly more mechanical features that add to their pulling power, building and maintaining live mailing lists, finding the 'market' suited to your 'product,' and testing results." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:150 D 15 '50

"A valuable handbook for the non-profit organization, it will have a direct, as well as a reverse, interest for the business man, the target as well as the originator of the techniques presented." J. E. Cross
+ Library J 75:2004 N 15 '50 130w

"Every fund-raiser who uses the mails successfully knows that money, time, and goodwill can be wasted through lack of knowledge. This book, carefully followed, should eliminate many mistakes and subsequent losses. The format is attractive and many illustrations are included." M. D. Ross
+ Survey 87:240 My '51 400w
Wis Lib Bul 47:56 Mr '51

FELTON, HAROLD W., ed. Cowboy jamboree: western songs and lore; musical arrangements by Edward S. Breck; il. by Aldren A. Watson; foreword by Carl Carmer. 107p $3 Knopf

784.4 Cowboys—Songs and music 51-10825

"Mr. Felton chooses twenty songs, over half of them very familiar. They are printed in good big type and music, and in keys easy to play and to sing. Each has its prose introduction of 'lore.' Opening with a vivid description of the Chisholm Trail, these items proceed gradually to build up a resumé of cowboy ways, besides explaining how the songs began." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 47:348 Je 1 '51
Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 Ag 12 '51 100w
Cleveland Open Shelf p19 S '51

"Another nice book to own, read, and use as a song book." M. C. Scoggin
+ Horn Bk 27:243 Jl '51 20w
Kirkus 19:245 My 15 '51 190w

"A gay and enchanting collection. . . Recommended for all children's collections." M. D. Read
+ Library J 76:969 Je 1 '51 70w

"Mr. Watson's pictures are adult and satiric. Brown ink is used throughout, with successful clarity. It should be a hit as a gift book, for it is for the whole family to share. Its younger audience might be from twelve up. The gay binding has board sides and cloth back." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 My 13 '51 210w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell
N Y Times p24 Je 3 '51 90w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:188 D 1 '51 70w
Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 9 '51 90w
Wis Lib Bul 47:194 Jl '51

FENG, DOREEN YEN HUNG. Joy of Chinese cooking. 227p il $7.50 Greenberg
641.5 Cookery, Chinese 51-6357

"The story of real Chinese cooking-non-Westernized—with details of history and legend pertaining to food. . . Explicitly described, the recipes and directions will, I expect, frighten all but the real enthusiasts." (N Y Times) The author and illustrator is a graduate of the University of California and daughter of a Chinese consul at San Francisco.

"Fascinating reading. . . The publishers have caught the spirit of the writing and have done their share with beautiful paper, colorful binding and restful spacing in the printing to make an unusually lovely book." Charlotte Turgeon
+ N Y Times p21 S 30 '51 140w

"While it is most carefully worked out from the standpoint of its recipes, the author's running comment on why the Chinese cook as they do makes the volume far more than the ordinary cookbook." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p16 Ap 5 '51 750w

"As an interpreter of Chinese foodways she is lucid, wholly delightful, and so practical as to furnish the address of a Chinese supply house in San Francisco from which ingredients may be obtained." L. M.
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 Je 9 '51 80w

FENICHELL, STEPHEN SIDNEY, and ANDREWS, PHILLIP. United nations; blueprint for peace; introd. by Benjamin Cohen. 115p il $1.50 Winston
341.13 United nations (organization) 51-5737

A brief study of the history, purpose, organization, and activities of the United Nations. Illustrated. Index.

Booklist 48:93 N 15 '51
Bookmark 11:56 D '51 20w

"Exuberant civic leaders will undoubtedly tell you that on top of every TV set—alongside a copy of Webster's Standard Dictionary and the Emily Post—there should be some factual, and concise treatise on the United Nations. And if one were to take their advice [this book] would adequately fit the requirements." G. W.
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 O 25 '51 270w
Nation 173:381 N 3 '51 20w
School & Society 74:255 O 20 '51 30w

FENNER, PHYLLIS REID, comp. Pirates, pirates, pirates; il. by Manning De V. Lee. 287p $2.75 Watts, F.
51-9851

"Stories of cutlasses and corsairs, buried treasure and buccaneers, ships and swashbucklers." (Subtitle) For grades 5 to 8.

Booklist 47:261 Mr 15 '51
Bookmark 10:208 Je '51

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Chicago Sunday Tribune p14 Ap 29 '51 240w
Kirkus 19:154 Mr 15 '51 110w

"A fine collection . . . that will delight any boy who seeks adventure." O. R. Way
+ Library J 76:712 Ap 15 '51 90w

"All these stories are thrillers. You find that there were many kinds of pirates and that some are still busy today. The backgrounds offer glimpses of many strange seas, far places, and odd bits of history. There is even a rare, short bit about a pirate rat." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 29 '51 190w
Wis Lib Bul 47:126 My '51

FENTON, CARROLL LANE, and FENTON, MRS MILDRED (ADAMS). Rocks and their stories. 112p il $2.50 Doubleday
552 Rocks. Mineralogy 51-12152

A work for young people interested in making a collection of rocks and minerals. Partial contents: Let's collect rocks; Rocks and their minerals; Tales told by lava; The granitic group; Coal from ancient plants; Crumpled and broken rocks; Making your collection; Index and pronunciations.

Booklist 48:15 S 1 '51

"This is a sound introduction to correct scientific nomenclature and the text contains a wide range of information. However, the thicket of technical names and difficult process of classification may be too much for the pre-junior high youngster. We suggest saving this for the eleven and twelve-year-olds."
+ — Kirkus 19:294 Je 15 '51 160w

"Recommended for all who wish to start a mineral and rock collection. Good especially for children's collections and elementary school libraries." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:1712 O 15 '51 80w

"This is the book for new members of rock mineral clubs, for field trippers with nature groups, for Scouts, etc. Its brief 112 pages contain fine information under alluring titles, and the many photographic illustrations are superbly chosen and reproduced." L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 S 9 '51 70w

"An authentic treatment for collectors who wish to further their skill and knowledge." G. O. B.
+ N Y Times p12 N 11 '51 130w
San Francisco Chronicle p18 N 25 '51 60w
Wis Lib Bul 47:219 S '51

FENTON, EDWARD. Nine lives; or, The celebrated cat of Beacon Hill; il. by Paul Galdone. 62p $2.50 Pantheon bks.
51-11107

"This chronicle of Moumouth, the famous cat of Boston's Louisburg Square, is freely adapted from a French story called 'La Mère Michel et son Chat' by Emile de la Bedollière. . . Moumouth began life as an alley cat, then was adopted by the wealthy and aristocratic Mrs. Roger Quincy Grenville III and tenderly cared for by her housekeeper, the kindly and affectionate Mrs. MacMichael. Unfortunately, there was an enemy in the Grenville household—the butler O'Boyle. His hatred of Moumouth was based upon jealousy and greed, and if Moumouth had not possessed the nine lives given to cats O'Boyle's evil design would have prevailed. . . In the end good triumphs, O'Boyle is exposed by the boy Smidgin, flees from Boston, joins a ship bound for Australia, is shipwrecked, and finally is eaten by the natives of the Sandwich Islands." Sat R of Lit

"Pleasant enough, but far too waggish for children who may well miss the rapturous pokes at Boston's ladies and their households."
Kirkus 19:292 Je 15 '51 120w

FENTON, EDWARD—Continued

"Neither the cat, nor the Boston widow appeal to our feelings; the villainous butler's attempts to kill the cat do not seem funny to me, nor would they to children of 'eight up' as the jacket suggests. In format a large, cleverly illustrated picture book, one feels that it falls between adult and juvenile interest. Bostonians who enjoy caricatures of rich old ladies on Louisburg Square will perhaps enjoy it, and those with either cats or butlers should give it to each other." L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 Jl 15 '51 140w

Reviewed by Marjorie Fischer

N Y Times p14 Ag 5 '51 70w

"This is an unusual story and the illustrations, beautifully reproduced, are unusual, too. It is for older children than most picture books, and we have an idea that fathers and mothers, also, will enjoy it immensely."

+ Sat R of Lit 34:47 Jl 21 '51 200w

FERENCZI, SANDOR. Sex in psychoanalysis; introd. by Clara Thompson; authorized translation by Ernest Jones. 338p $3.50 Basic bks. pub. co, inc, 357 Bleecker st, N.Y. 14

131.3462 Sex. Psychoanalysis 51-332

A reprint of a psychoanalytical source book, first published as Contributions to Psychoanalysis. "The Hungarian, Sandor Ferenczi, one of Freud's first collaborators, died in 1933. Freud himself said: 'This book, which has mainly spread Ferenczi's reputation, splendidly illustrates his originality, wealth of ideas, and his well-disciplined scientific imagination. His writings make us all his pupils.'" (N Y Times) Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Scherr

Library J 75:1904 N 1 '50 230w

"Consisting of what might be called incunabula of the creative years of psychoanalysis, this volume makes rewarding reading. . . 'Sex in Psychoanalysis' is no book for the layman, but it is required reading for everybody who is professionally interested in psychoanalysis." Martin Gumpert

+ N Y Times p20 D 17 '50 330w

FERGUSON, RUBY. Stable for Jill; il. by Caney. 152p $2.50 Dodd

51-10432

Sequel to a Horse of Her Own (Book Review Digest 1950). In this story Jill's mother spends a summer working in the United States and Jill goes to stay with an aunt and her "sissy" daughter. Almost at once Jill finds three other horse-loving children and her summer is busy and happy.

"This is sure to be popular with those children who dream of having a horse some day. An entertaining story of enterprising children, although their success may seem to be somewhat incredible. Recommended." D. M. Blasco

+ Library J 76:1139 Jl '51 90w

"Limited in appeal to those girls who can take anything as long as it has to do with horses. Not recommended for general library use." Elizabeth Johnson

— Library J 76:1140 Jl '51 90w

"Told in Jill's breezy fashion, this makes a satisfying and amusing story for the jodhpur set." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p24 Je 17 '51 130w

FERGUSSON, BERNARD EDWARD. Black watch, and the king's enemies; with a foreword by Earl Wavell. 384p maps $3.50 Crowell

355.31 Great Britain. Army. Black watch 51-1569

A history of this famous Scottish regiment, which was founded in 1739, and has fought in every British war since. Illustrated with maps. Index.

"There is a certain amount of unavoidable campaign detail in 'The Black Watch' that will appeal more to soldiers than civilians, but in spite of such necessary limitations Brigadier Fergusson has written a tense and stirring account of men who could stand fast. . . For this reviewer, who served in the Canadian Black Watch, it is a source of satisfaction to see how much friendly space is given to the affiliated regiments in Canada, South Africa, New South Wales and New Zealand. It is a pity, however, that the author could not have included some photographs." Francis Russell

+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 20 '50 370w

"Although it is a regimental history, the story that is told here is virtually a story of England's whole participation in the war, so broad and varied were the assignments of the Black Watch. Further, where there are numerous personal references, these are woven into the fabric of the story, so that the book never descends to the rather uninteresting (to the general reader) level of most regimental or divisional histories." C. W. W.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 D 3 '50 200w

"Every regimental history is doomed, by nature, to be at best partly uninteresting to the average reader, at worst wholly uninteresting even to members of the regiment concerned. But able Author Fergusson has done all that can be done to explain the Black Watch to the remotest commuter without ever failing in his duty as scrupulous recorder. The skirl of the Black Watch pipes, the pawky character of its men, and the family feeling that pervades and binds them—all these do much to raise The Black Watch above the level of mere soldierly documentation."

+ Time 56:114 N 20 '50 800w

FERGUSSON, ERNA. New Mexico; a pageant of three peoples. 408p il maps $5 Knopf

978.9 New Mexico—Civilization. Indians of North America 51-11094

The first section of this book deals with the Indians of New Mexico, covering the whole history of the land as inhabited by man from a time possibly twenty-five thousand years ago to the present. The second and third sections deal respectively with the Spaniards and the Anglo-Americans.

Booklist 48:121 D 1 '51

Kirkus 19:551 S 15 '51 120w

"This is a solid, splendid book. Highly recommended." W. K. Harrison

+ Library J 76:2117 D 15 '51 80w

"Erna Fergusson's 'New Mexico: A Pageant of Three Peoples' is without doubt the most comprehensive book ever written about this area. Told with meticulous detail, impeccable scholarship, in an easy, highly-readable prose, here is all any reader can want to know about New Mexico from the earliest known aborigines up to date." Edwin Corle

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 D 9 '51 1300w

"Erna Fergusson's extremely thorough book has all the quality necessary to do justice to the remarkable state of New Mexico and the fusion of three great peoples. . . Her book is distinguished by its scope, its breadth of view, and its catholicity of interest." Raymond Holden

+ N Y Times p60 N 25 '51 320w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 27 '51 500w

FERRIS, THEODORE PARKER. Go tell the people. 116p $2 Scribner

251 Preaching 51-3166

"The author first discusses the purpose of preaching [and states] the words 'ought,' 'should,' 'must,' have no proper place in a sermon. He then shows what the contents of a sermon should be and explains what devices are helpful in the preparation of different types of sermons. He next discusses form, with specific examples indicating how an outline is made and followed to create the best effect. A final chapter is devoted to the personal problems of the preacher." Publisher's note

"There is probably no more original or helpful book for either the young or the old preacher than this little volume." W. L. Caswell

+ Churchman 165:16 Jl '51 200w

"The author of this little book is the distinguished rector of Trinity Church, Boston, who is also a teacher of homiletics in Cambridge. The useful hints and wise counsel which he gives about the preparations and delivery of sermons are, therefore, the fruit of a well-considered experience. Parsons of all denominations can read and ponder to their advantage—and to the advantage of their congregations—the wise advice which Dr. Ferris gives." H. W. Foote

+ Crozer Q 28:286 Jl '51 120w

Kirkus 19:181 Mr 15 '51 90w

FEUCHTWANGER, LION. This is the hour; tr. by H. T. Lowe-Porter and Frances Fawcett. 516p $3.95 Viking

Goya y Lucientes, Francisco José de—Fiction 51-10602

Historical novel based on the life of the famous Spanish painter Goya. The love affair of Goya and the Duchess of Alba is interwoven in the story.

"As a novel, Feuchtwanger's book is no great shakes. The characters give the impression of having been wrenched from real life and told to behave in a manner befitting 'colorful' characters in a historical romance. The writing is an execrable tissue of clichés. . . There is enough genuine drama in Goya's life without this kind of phony overexcitement." C. J. Rolo

Atlantic 187:84 Je '51 500w

Booklist 47:346 Je 1 '51

Bookmark 10:207 Je '51 40w

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan

Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 Je 10 '51 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '51

"It is difficult to concede that Goya's preoccupations were what this story has them to be, and it is unlikely that the characterizations of the other historical figures proceed logically from the natures of the real people. The entire book has a distinct taste of unreality and its representations of characters give it a comic-strip quality." George Miles

— Commonweal 54:341 Jl 13 '51 260w

Kirkus 19:157 Mr 15 '51 300w

"Recommended." Joseph Borome

+ Library J 76:772 My 1 '51 130w

Reviewed by Lloyd Frankenberg

Nation 172:618 Je 30 '51 330w

"The historico-philosophical reflections that are Mr. Feuchtwanger's personal touches to this great Goya fresco are conventionally nineteenth century liberal. The little unrhymed verses that he has placed at the end of each chapter and which are supposed to remind the reader of the cadences employed by Lope de Vega and Calderon sometimes produce the surprising and distracting effects of a parody of Hiawatha. But the richness Goya himself brings to this book compensates any clumsiness, transcends any superficialty and provides the reader with excitement and pleasure." Gouverneur Paulding

+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 My 20 '51 1100w

"Naturally the book is not without faults. 'Frankly,' said the Duchess of Alba, when Goya finally showed her his collection of sketches, 'I find much of it brutal, barbaric. And a good deal of it tasteless.' A harsh critic could say the same of Feuchtwanger's novel. He could also point out that legend is not merely used, but often tampered with; he could, with real justice, take exception to the affectation of the irritating chapter endings in verse. Yet when he was through, the critic would have to admit that, like Goya's etchings, the book rises above such criticisms. And for many of the same reasons. Its truthfulness is one of them." T. C. Chubb

+ — N Y Times p5 My 20 '51 1050w

New Yorker 27:114 Je 9 '51 60w

Reviewed by Jane Voiles

San Francisco Chronicle p11 My 27 '51 650w

"Lion Feuchtwanger has ranged the world over in time and space for his subjects, and it would not be extravagant to call him the greatest living master of the historical romance. Certainly nobody writing in this country of his adoption may even be compared with him for the wide range of his scholarship or for his ability to recreate a past period, doing no violence to essential historical fact and still meeting the primary requirement of all fiction: that it be consistently readable and entertaining. . . 'This Is the Hour' is a suitable enough translation and a good title for a most impressive novel, a book which is unmistakable and heartening proof that Dr. Feuchtwanger's sixty-seven years and his uprooting from the soil of his native Berlin have brought no waning of his exceptional powers in the field of the historical novel." Herschel Brickell

+ Sat R of Lit 34:9 My 19 '51 1250w

Reviewed by L. S. Munn

Springf'd Republican p11D Je 24 '51 380w

Time 57:125 My 21 '51 350w

Wis Lib Bul 47:189 Jl '51

FICHTER, JOSEPH HENRY. Southern parish; 4v; v 1, Dynamics of a city church. 283p $5 Univ. of Chicago press

282.75 Parishes. Roman Catholic church (51-6359)

"With the aid of a good-sized research staff, Father Fichter made a survey of a southern parish. The present volume is the first volume of his report and three others are promised. It consists essentially of statistics and observations bearing on the life of the parish throughout an entire year." Commonweal

Christian Century 69:45 Ja 9 '52 140w

Reviewed by P. H. Furfey

Commonweal 55:158 N 16 '51 700w

Reviewed by Paul Courtney

Commonweal 55:191 N 30 '51 1950w

Discussion by the author

Commonweal 55:257 D 14 '51 600w

School & Society 74:208 S 29 '51 40w

FIELD, FRANCIS T. McDonough; a novel. 511p $3.50 Duell

51-9611

"A novel of behind-the-scenes politics in Lenape County, New Jersey, and of McDonough, the Democratic Party's county leader. He is a likable, quite decent man with a charming wife and step-daughter, but his fight for control of a primary election shows how strings are pulled, some not quite dishonestly, some viciously. Although the election is won it leaves havoc and heartbreak in its wake." Library J

Booklist 47:362 Je 15 '51

Kirkus 19:190 Ap 1 '51 160w

"Characters are well drawn, the story is exciting and moving, but some of the conversation is coarse, even obscene. Recommended." Anne Whitmore

+ Library J 76:861 My 15 '51 80w

Reviewed by Ben Raeburn

New Repub 125:21 Ag 6 '51 500w

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ag 5 '51 350w

"A sympathetic portrait of the leader himself, and generally fine delineation of the types of men in politics." Warren Moscow

+ N Y Times p5 Jl 8 '51 320w

FIELD, F. T.—Continued

"While Mr. Field's effort suffers, perhaps, from the duality of purpose found in the combination of factual journalist and creative novelist, his book, nevertheless, sizes up as an impressive first performance, and an honest presentation of a significant aspect of American political life." R. C.

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Jl 8 '51 400w

"McDonough ought to be required reading in all courses in government. I am reluctant to intrude an observation that often throws readers into a tizzy of indignation. Field has a keen ear for dialogue and political jargon. He paints a true picture, but a sprinkling of obscenities and vulgarities here and there may bar it from some religious colleges and readers." J. F. Dineen

+ — Sat R of Lit 34:16 My 26 '51 450w

Reviewed by Paul Pickrel

Yale R n s 40:768 summer '51 110w

FIELD, MOIRA. Foreign body. 234p $2.50 Macmillan

51-12303

Detective story.

Kirkus 19:336 Jl 1 '51 60w

"Ingenious and affable story."

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 S 16 '51 110w

"[This] is not only thoroughly implausible, it's so childishly simple that one sits back in awed boredom wondering how anyone can take 90,000 words to get to such an obvious answer. There are moments of amusing and intelligent writing; and the most unflagging devotees of the ponderous British novel may welcome it." Anthony Boucher

— + N Y Times p31 S 9 '51 50w

"Nice people in this novel; style thoroughly literate; plot over-leisurely and detailed, sometimes confusing." L. G. Offord

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 23 '51 50w

"Sound and convincing job, professional and workmanlike, despite some slow spots. Refreshingly authentic Inspector Flower is somebody to watch. Nice going." Sergeant Cuff

+ Sat R of Lit 34:42 S 22 '51 40w

Times [London] Lit Sup p673 O 27 '50 70w

FINCH, JAMES KIP. Engineering and western civilization. 397p il $5 McGraw

620.9 Engineering—History 51-3266

"This book outlines the history of engineering from the earliest beginnings, some 50 centuries ago, to modern times, noting and commenting upon the accompanying economic and social conditions and their effect upon technological development and progress." School & Society

Booklist 47:340 Je 1 '51

"'Engineering and Western Civilization' is written with the engineer's aptitude for functional design; it is as readable as a flowsheet. The language, although sometimes suffering from echoes of itself, is bright, virile, human. At the end the reader's continued interest is correctly anticipated with a critical bibliography which is in effect a pioneer appraisal of the literature of engineering." Walter Miller

+ Chem Eng 58:271 Je '51 700w

Reviewed by R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:1032 Je 15 '51 120w

School & Society 73:286 My 5 '51 40w

FINDLAY, BRUCE ALLYN, and FINDLAY, ESTHER (BLAIR). Your rugged Constitution; how America's house of freedom is planned and built; il. by Richard Dawson. (American ideals ser) 281p $3 Stanford univ. press

342.733 U.S. Constitution. U.S.—Constitutional law 50-10751

"A book that rescues the Constitution of the United States from scholarly oblivion and returns it to its vital role in the life of every American." (School & Society) For ages twelve to sixteen. Illustrated. Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:241 Mr '51 30w

Booklist 47:160 D 15 '50

Christian Science Monitor p12 N 10 '51 110w

"Should be invaluable to all newcomers to our country as well as to the young people who are to be its citizens. Clear, detailed, and lively as to text, with numerous drawings which really illustrate the facts, the book helps us to see the form of our government more sharply, and to feel pride in our country's ideals as expressed in its Constitution." S. M. A.

+ Horn Bk 27:108 Mr '51 80w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Horn Bk 27:243 Jl '51 20w

"It is accurate, detailed, intriguingly illustrated and written with descriptive words carefully chosen. This reviewer knows of no comparable book to aid teacher, parent or librarian in explaining our blueprint of freedom." R. A. Brown

+ N Y Times p26 Mr 11 '51 240w

"This is a good book which will bear reading from time to time." R. de R.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p24 Mr 18 '51 270w

School & Society 72:319 N 11 '50 20w

Reviewed by Howard Cummings

Social Educ 15:304 O '51 340w

FINDLEY, FERGUSON, pseud. See Frey, C. F.

FINE, BENJAMIN. Educational publicity; pub. under the sponsorship of the Public relations society of America. rev ed 561p $6 Harper

371.2 Publicity. Advertising—Schools 51-9348

"The 1943 text has been revised and expanded and is a comprehensive guide to the techniques of a publicity program that will inform the public of trends, curricular developments, noteworthy experiments and the other serious, significant aspects of education rather than the superficial extra-curricular activities." (Booklist) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1943.

Booklist 47:221 F 15 '51

"In this book Dr. Fine draws heavily on his experience both as an editor and as a teacher with the result that he has written a highly informative and interesting work. It may well become the 'Bible' of all working in the field of school and college publicity." R. N.

+ School & Society 73:251 Ap 21 '51 300w

FINNEY, GERTRUDE E. (BRIDGEMAN). Sleeping mines. 241p $2.50 Longmans

51-11672

A novel for older boys and girls. The heroine is Susan Claremore who spends a summer with her reluctant mother and butterfly sister in a lonely Montana mining cabin, attempting to locate her father's once famous silver mine. Mystery and romance add to this story for grades seven to nine.

Booklist 48:70 O 15 '51

Reviewed by E. C. Ince

Christian Science Monitor p11 O 4 '51 50w

Kirkus 19:353 Jl 15 '51 120w

"An unusual, credible, and very exciting romance for girls over twelve." L. S. Bechtel

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 Ja 6 '52 200w

"Adventure, danger and love enough to satisfy the most thrill-hungry teenager." C. E. Van Norman

+ N Y Times p10 N 11 '51 80w

+ San Francisco Chronicle p10 N 11 '51 170w

"A very well-drawn and convincing dog character adds to the value of an expectionally good story for older boys and girls."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:45 S 22 '51 220w

FIRBANK, ARTHUR ANNESLEY RONALD. Three novels; with an introd. by Ernest Jones. 425p $5 New directions
51-9910

"This volume contains Firbank's three early novels, 'Vainglory,' 'Inclinations,' and 'Caprice,' the last two of which have never before been published over here." New Yorker

"While none of these three novels is quite as good as the 'Eccentricities of Cardinal Pirelli' or 'Prancing Nigger,' which were included in an earlier collection, 'Caprice,' at least is a wholly successful piece of sustained wit; and 'Vainglory' and 'Inclinations' provide instances of the cagy irrelevance and ironic pathos which characterize Firbank at his best. Ernest Jones has written a pertinent and helpful introduction." L. A. Fiedler
+ — Nation 172:381 Ap 21 '51 950w

Reviewed by Bowden Broadwater
N Y Times p4 Je 17 '51 490w

"Dealing mostly with English life, they are somewhat less exotic and fantastic than his better-known later ones, but they are almost equally brilliant. Ernest Jones, in an intelligent introduction, shares the point of view of those critics who are disposed to take Firbank seriously."
+ New Yorker 27:139 Ap 14 '51 160w

"Delightful trio of Firbank's novels." B. R. Redman
+ Sat R of Lit 34:14 Ap 28 '51 650w

Reviewed by C. P. Snow
Spec 185:82 Ja 19 '51 800w

FIRUSKI, ELVIA, and FIRUSKI, MAURICE, eds. Best of Boulestin. See Boulestin, X. M.

FISCH, MAX HAROLD, ed. Classic American philosophers: Peirce, James, Royce, Santayana, Dewey [and] Whitehead; sels. from their writings with introd. essays by [the editor] Arthur W. Burks [and others]. (Century philosophy ser) 493p $4.75 Appleton
191 Philosophers, American. Philosophy, American 51-15

"Selections from the writings of six great philosophers native to our shores: Charles Sanders Peirce, William James, Josiah Royce, George Santayana, John Dewey, and Alfred North Whitehead. Editing and introductory essays are also by authorities—Arthur W. Burks, Otto F. Kraushaar, Paul Henle, Victor Lowe, Gail Kennedy, Philip B. Rice. The philosophers included are considered to represent the so-called 'Classical Period' of American philosophy, and run from the close of the American Civil War down to the opening, roughly, of the second World War in 1939." Churchman

"The tone of the book is set by Prof. Fisch's general introduction which is, at least for one reviewer, the best brief essay on recent American philosophy that has appeared. The selections are well chosen, and the essays are useful both to students of philosophy and to general readers interested in the intellectual issues of today." C. F. S. Virtue
+ Christian Century 69:17 Ja 2 '52 1950w

"An able compendium." Roger Shaw
+ Churchman 165:18 Ap 15 '51 180w

"On the whole, it is a book which merits and should have wide use in the many courses in American philosophy now being given at colleges over the country." J. L. B.
+ J Philos 48:536 Ag 16 '51 420w

Reviewed by B. R. Redman
Sat R of Lit 34:17 Ag 11 '51 20w

School & Society 73:47 Ja 20 '51 40w

FISCHER, BRUNO. Paper circle. 242p $2.50 Dodd
51-12408

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 S 16 '51 110w

"This is an honest, an earnest and a partly successful exploration of some complications of sex and murder in a small town in New York State." James Sandoe
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p31 O 7 '51 80w

"Though the tone is a bit cheaper than in Fischer's best work, the Fischer virtues are still present: a nice feeling for upstate New York, a fine sense of the impinging of crime and violence on ordinary life, a biting handling of the economic factors in human motivation." Anthony Boucher
+ — N Y Times p22 O 7 '51 50w

Reviewed by L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p20 S 23 '51 60w

"Easy to take." Sergeant Cuff
+ Sat R of Lit 34:32 O 20 '51 50w

FISCHER, EARL KNUDT. Colloidal dispersions. 387p il $7.50 Wiley
541.3452 Dispersion. Colloids 50-11583

Printing inks and house paints are examples of colloidal dispersions. The term takes in hundreds of chemical and industrial products in which finely divided solids are suspended or dispersed in liquids. Both the theoretical and practical aspects of such dispersions are dealt with in this substantial work." (Library J) Indexes.

"It is questionable if this book can justifiably be classified as a supplement to existing literature." E. A. Hauser
Chem & Eng N 29:1254 Mr 26 '51 220w

"The material is presented concisely and readably, and is extensively documented. It is an important addition to the literature of colloid chemistry, and in particular to the technology of paints, pigments, rubbers, inks, ceramics, and other fields where colloidal dispersions are involved." G. F. Kinney
+ Chem Eng 58:269 Je '51 250w

"The book is well organized, well written, and filled with ideas, which will suggest new methods applicable to various industrial problems. It will be read with profit by all persons interested in the field of colloid science, but will quite surely be read with most profit by the increasingly large number of those in industry who are confronted with problems related to the preparation or to the stabilization of colloidal dispersions and who have learned by experience that significant information and data pertaining thereto have been, at best, widely scattered throughout the literature. To those, this book will provide a real service." F. E. Bartell
+ J Phys & Colloid Chem 55:760 My '51 400w

"The book is not comparable to those works which are intended mainly for basement manufacturers and whose texts consist largely of formulas for specific products. Instead, it is a valuable book for industrial chemists whose work with colloids requires a solid understanding of the underlying science and the conditions and limitations of the chief manufacturing techniques." R. R. Hawkins
+ Library J 76:117 Ja 15 '51 150w

"It is heavily documented by references to the book, periodical and patent literature. The author, who is now on the staff of the National Bureau of Standards, is a well-known research scientist in the fields of surface and colloid chemistry."
N Y New Tech Bks 36:5 Ja '51

U S Quarterly Bk R 7:101 Mr '51 120w

FISCHER, GEORGE WILLIAM. Smut fungi; a guide to the literature, with bibliography. 387p $6 Ronald

016.5892271 Smuts—Bibliography 51-9491

"A reference book in which the author has attempted to provide a practically complete guide to the published literature on the smut fungi. It is arranged in two parts. Part II is an alphabetically arranged bibliography containing 3,353 citations of articles and other published material. A useful feature is the quotation of the full titles of the articles. Part I is a fully detailed subject index to the bibliography." Library J

"Certain of the smut fungi are the causative agents in diseases of wheat and other cereals, hence the book is of interest not only to botanists, but to specialists and practical workers in plant diseases as well." R. R. Hawkins

Library J 76:522 Mr 15 '51 70w

"Plant pathologists, mycologists, plant breeders, and others concerned with these fungi will find this book an excellent guide to further studies."

+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:211 Je '51 200w

FISCHER, JOHN. Master plan U.S.A.; an informal report on America's foreign policy and the men who make it [Eng title: America's master plan]. 253p $3 Harper

327.73 U.S.—Foreign policy. U.S. National security council 51-13525

"This is a book which does what the State Department has either been unwilling or unable to do. It tells in simple language what we are trying to do about Russia, why and how we are doing it and what luck we are having." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Booklist 48:115 D 1 '51

Bookmark 11:56 D '51 30w

Reviewed by H. J. Morgenthau

Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 D 9 '51 430w

"Definitely is written for the everyday reader. It is readable in the highest degree, so that the number of pages need be no more formidable than a novel of equal or lesser length." Tully Nettleton

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 O 25 '51 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p25 N '51

"The value of his work and it is definitely valuable, lies in the direct and explicit explanation of how things are done and sometimes undone in Washington in the field of foreign relations, by whom, and why. Reading it, one better understands the problem and is a little more hopeful of its eventual solution." J. R. Lewis

+ Current Hist 21:296 N '51 470w

Kirkus 19:513 S 1 '51 220w

"Recommended." R. S. Taylor

+ Library J 76:1805 N 1 '51 100w

Reviewed by Willard Shelton

Nation 173:452 N 24 '51 700w

Reviewed by R. H. S. Crossman

New Statesman & Nation 42:628 D 1 '51 390w

"It is good and thoughtful reading. . . This is a good book for thoughtful citizens to read, and it would be well for the politicians who discuss these issues to do likewise. It would be particularly good for the jaded party-goers who comprise the major portion of the upper echelons of our Foreign Service officers and who all too often determine the actual course of our foreign policy." P. H. Douglas

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 O 21 '51 1050w

"Fischer has taken what he calls a 'Master Plan' already in operation, pointed out its defects and, as he hopes, improved upon it. The emerging plan, whether Fischer's or the Administration's, can certainly command liberal support. If it does not at this moment command enthusiasm, the reason may be that one cannot be enthusiastic over a bad situation which may call for ten or twenty or more years of strain and sacrifice to correct. One can resolve to do cheerfully what has to be done, and this resolution, rather than a parade with bands and banners, seems to be in the American mood at the moment. Fischer has expressed that mood. He has interpreted, one might say, its First Inaugural. The Gettysburg Speech—and the man to deliver it—may come later." R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p6 O 21 '51 1250w

New Yorker 27:174 D 8 '51 200w

"For detailed explanation you should read Mr. Fischer's book. It is clear and it is simple, and it makes very plain one highly significant point, to wit, if we go wrong on this we may never get the chance to say, 'Ooops! Sorry.' " J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p16 N 28 '51 950w

" 'Master Plan U.S.A.' is to me the clearest, simplest, most attractively written, generally most accurate—in short, best—account that has yet been given of our emerging foreign policy. As such it ought to fill a unique place on the shelf of everyone who feels with the author that, for better or for worse, taking the right attitude toward the world is today our most important task." E. A. Mowrer

+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 O 27 '51 800w

Times [London] Lit Sup p799 D 14 '51 800w

FISCHER, LOUIS. The Soviets in world affairs; a history of the relations between the Soviet Union and the rest of the world, 1917-1929. 2d ed 2v $10 Princeton univ. press

327.47 Russia—Foreign relations. World politics 51-2121

"A key-work of contemporary history first published in 1930 [Book Review Digest 1930] and now reprinted without alteration. Mr. Fischer does, however, add an 'Introduction to Second Printing' in which he contrasts the accessibility of high Soviet officials in the 1920s with the blanket of mistrust that has since been lowered. He also admits that when he wrote the book he felt pro-Soviet sympathies. . . But what he aimed to write was a strictly factual story of the relations of the Bolshevik government with the rest of the world from 1917 to 1929." N Y Herald Tribune Bk R

Am Pol Sci R 45:597 Je '51 10w

"This work, which has long been out of print, deserves renewed study on the occasion of its republication. Its worth may be judged from the fact that Max Beloff, in writing his own recently published history of Soviet foreign policy, chose to begin with the year 1930 and made no attempt to do over again what Mr. Fischer had already done so competently." H. C. Hinton

+ Commonweal 54:19 Ap 13 '51 330w

"Author's unusual gift of presentation makes for fascinating reading. Documentation somewhat scanty, detailed index, many illustrations. Strongly recommended for all large general and educational libraries." H. H. Bernt

+ Library J 76:774 My 1 '51 180w

Manchester Guardian p4 Ag 17 '51 170w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Je 24 '51 200w

"What is of value in these volumes is the factual material. The author had access to archives and private correspondence and the reminiscences of a number of the men who had campaigned with Lenin." Harvey Breit

+ N Y Times p32 Ap 1 '51 320w

Reviewed by B. R. Redman

Sat R of Lit 34:33 Je 9 '51 470w

Times [London] Lit Sup p547 Ag 31 '51 650w

FISCHER, SIEGFRIED. Principles of general psychopathology; an interpretation of the theoretical foundations of psychopathological concepts. 327p $4.75 Philosophical lib.

132 Psychology, Pathological 50-10662

"This book is a survey of the most important psychopathological phenomena and their theoretical bases. The book is divided into four parts. Part I deals with the fundamental of psychopathology, Part II with understandable and causal connections, Part III with syndromes or symptom-complexes of mental disturbances, and Part IV with normal neurotic and psychopathic personalities and the relation between personality and psychosis." (Pref) Indexes

"Whatever other interests may be satisfied by this book, the sociologist will find little meat in it. It should also be said that the bibliography is very short and leaves out a good number of those authors best known in this field in the United States, England, and France." W. Eliasberg

Ann Am Acad 274:249 Mr '51 260w

Reviewed by Walter Watson

Ethics 61:247 Ap '51 100w

"Highly recommended as an elementary textbook in abnormal psychology for general readers and college students." J. M. Scherr

+ Library J 75:2002 N 15 '50 140w

"This is a comprehensive and scholarly work, based on the author's long clinical experience, and will be a valuable reference book for students, practitioners and libraries." I. B.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p25 D 3 '50 140w

School & Society 72:303 N 4 '50 20w

FISH, HELEN DEAN, comp. Boy's book of verse; an anthology. rev ed 276p $2.75 Lippincott

821.08 English poetry—Collections. American poetry—Collections 51-10647

"A revision of the original collection published in 1923 [Book Review Digest 1923]. Some poems have been dropped and more than forty new ones added. The same four headings are used to divide the poems but in different order; the index now combines the author, title and first line." Library J

Booklist 47:370 Je 15 '51

"Fine collection of poems. . . If you have a son or a nephew or younger brother, he ought to have a copy of this anthology for his very own." M. J. T.

+ Christian Science Monitor p7 My 19 '51 150w

"A good collection for personal ownership as well as for schools and libraries." J. D. Lindquist and S. M. Andrews

+ Horn Bk 27:260 Jl '51 40w

Kirkus 19:231 My 1 '51 100w

"Larger libraries will wish to add a copy immediately; smaller libraries will probably want to wait until their copies of the first edition are worn." Eleanor Kidder

Library J 76:970 Je 1 '51 80w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 My 13 '51 50w

Reviewed by S. V. Jacobson

N Y Times p6 N 11 '51 90w

FISHER, CAROLINE E., and ROBERTSON, MRS HAZEL (GLAISTER). Children and the theater; rev. ed. with app. by Edith W. Ramstad. 235p il $4 Stanford univ. press

792 Drama in education. Amateur theatricals. Children's plays 50-14861

"First lists the educational advantages of a children's theater; it then shows how it fits into the recreational pattern of a community, how it can be financed and organized and so on; finally, it covers the problems which will be confronted in the actual production of a play." (San Francisco Chronicle) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1940.

Booklist 47:190 Ja 15 '51

"The discouraging part is that they have illustrated their text lavishly with photographs from Palo Alto productions. The photographs are fine (the Palo Alto Community Center, where the Children's Theater operates is one of the most lavish in the country); but they will be hard to emulate except in a well-equipped theater." W. R. W.

San Francisco Chronicle p33 D 10 '50 200w

"Recommended for art room or school libraries as a reference book. You will use it often in the production of school plays from grade through high school."

+ School Arts 51:adv N '51 110w

"An attractively presented volume, well indexed, and a pleasure to read." Charlotte Perry

+ Theatre Arts 34:92 D '50 650w

FISHER, F. HOPE. Written in the stars; a novel about Albrecht Dürer. 304p $3 Harper

Dürer, Albrecht—Fiction 51-10855

A historical novel based on the life of Albrecht Dürer.

Booklist 47:362 Je 15 '51

"The book is, in most instances, authentic, and it can be read easily and with some profit." John Randolph

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Jl 22 '51 170w

Kirkus 19:163 Mr 15 '51 130w

"All the historical events are recorded with unusual warmth. We have touches of humor, too—and not-too-skillful flashes of melodrama. But on the whole Miss Fisher brings off a difficult tour de force, with a brevity refreshing to this type of fiction." H. E. Jacob

+ N Y Times p15 Jl 1 '51 250w

"Add another name to the still small list of competent, responsible craftsmen working in the field of historical fiction. Miss Fisher has persuasively reconstructed life in the city of Nuremberg in the time of Albrecht Dürer, at the end of the fifteenth century." E. J. Fitzgerald

+ Sat R of Lit 34:37 S 1 '51 300w

FISHER, JAMES TUCKER, and HAWLEY, LOWELL STILLWELL. A few buttons missing; the case book of a psychiatrist. 282p $3.50 Lippincott

B or 92 Psychology, Pathological. Physicians—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-10666

Autobiographical reminiscences of a psychiatrist with one or more "case histories," set forth in informal style, in every chapter.

Booklist 47:344 Je 1 '51

Cath World 173:478 S '51 100w

Kirkus 19:175 Mr 15 '51 150w

"Entertaining and enlivening reading. . . There is much real information here about psychiatric theories and practices, spiked with stories of many of Dr. Fisher's patients. His attitude toward life and suffering is reverent, but his attitude toward almost everything else has a salty tang of personal and individualistic judgment." Lorine Pruette

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 My 27 '51 650w

Reviewed by Hermann Vollmer

N Y Times p16 My 20 '51 550w

"Written with a humor that is full of gusto and masculinity, with an understanding of what makes us tick as human beings and with a belief in the somehow good of life, Dr. Fisher's book is like a lighted path in a shadowed world." J. V.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 Je 17 '51 370w

"Dr. Fisher's 'case book' is not a lurid recitation of confessions he has heard babbling from his couch, but instead is a very much common-sense discussion of what mental treatment has done and can do, with what seems to be some pretty sound advice to both the practitioners of psychiatry and their patients. There are a number of case histories, but they are used to make a point and not to evoke little cries of horror from gratified readers." R. F. H.

FISHER, J. T.—Continued

+ Springf'd Republican p9B My 20 '51 170w

Time 57:82 My 28 '51 650w

Wis Lib Bul 47:187 Jl '51

FISHER, ROBERT MOORE. How about the weather? with a foreword by Ernest J. Christie. 186p il maps $3 Harper

551.5 Weather. Weather forecasting 51-3399

Designed to help the layman understand about the weather and climate, and their influence upon human affairs. Describes how to forecast the weather. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:340 Je 1 '51

Bookmark 10:204 Je '51 20w

"Sound, lively handbook." T. M. Longstreth

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 7 '51 430w

Kirkus 19:149 Mr 1 '51 100w

"It is an easy book to read, conversational rather than instructional in style with good maps and photographs."

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 S 30 '51 90w

"Excellent illustrations, sensibly chosen and representative map sequences, an accurate and useful appendix of terms and a discriminating list of books about the weather give the layman all he needs for understanding and forecasting the weather. The book's only serious weakness—aside from an occasional flippancy —such as, 'will make you weatherwise instead of otherwise'—is rather tedious but necessary analysis of the map sequences." W. R. Connole

+ — N Y Times p23 Je 17 '51 360w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson

San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 10 '51 140w

Wis Lib Bul 47:184 Jl '51

FISHER, VARDIS. Valley of vision. 426p $3.50 Abelard

Solomon, king of Israel—Fiction 51-10836

Novel based on the life of King Solomon. "As Fisher presents him, the biblical king was realistic, sophisticated, sympathetically interested in people unlike himself, fond of fun, beauty and competence. Neither as wealthy nor as wise—nor as abundantly wived—as the Old Testament makes him out to be, he is nevertheless in this book a personality of impressive magnitude and richness." N Y Times

"All in all, 'The Valley of Vision' is a fresh and stimulating interpretation of biblical history. Mr. Fisher's point of view makes quite as good a frame of reference for fiction as the orthodox view. But even if we are willing to grant that the orthodox view is arbitrary and one-sided, Mr. Fisher has surely gone to the opposite extreme." Edward Wagenknecht

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p2 Je 24 '51 320w

Reviewed by R. P. Tubby

Library J 76:773 My 1 '51 70w

" 'The Valley of Vision,' in which Mr. Fisher plunges into the authentic customs of the period in his effort to hook King Solomon and his times turns out to be one of his lesser catches. Not because the underlying conception lacks either the spaciousness or the insight typical of Mr. Fisher's novels hitherto; but rather because he has permitted himself to be impeded in his pursuit of big ideas and swift narrative movement by an unduly heavy load of unassimilated historical gear." F. H. Bullock

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p7 Je 3 '51 800w

"A thoroughly engrossing tale. It is not likely to be surrendered unfinished without a struggle by any literate person who gets beyond the title page." Wendell Johnson

+ N Y Times p16 Je 3 '51 450w

— New Yorker 27:114 Je 9 '51 50w

Reviewed by J. M. Grant

Sat R of Lit 34:19 Ag 18 '51 210w

Time 58:100 Jl 2 '51 210w

FISHER, WILLIAM BAYNE. The Middle East; a physical, social, and regional geography. 514p maps $5.75 Dutton

915.6 East (Near East) [50-11162]

"A study of the physical, social and regional geography of the Middle East is offered in this work. It is strictly a book for advanced scholars. The author limits his middle east to the lands from Cyrenaica on the west to Iran on the east and from Turkey on the north to the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula. He includes considerable detailed information on middle east oil." Chicago Sunday Tribune

Reviewed by Gilbert Twiss

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ja 28 '51 60w

Current Hist 21:35 Jl '51 100w

"It is no small task to analyze and set forth the human environmental influences of a major area in terms of geology, geography and climatology. In accomplishing this comprehensive task so successfully, Dr. Fisher is to be congratulated on a timely and valuable contribution." H. L. Hoskins

+ Geog R 41:690 O '51 750w

"The book is perhaps somewhat too factual for the general reader, but as an advanced geographical text, about an immensely important and relatively little known area it fulfills a great need in a scholarly and professionally competent way." C. W. W.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p23 Ap 1 '51 200w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Bruun

Sat R of Lit 34:58 Ap 14 '51 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p764 D 1 '50 600w

FITCH, FLORENCE MARY. Allah, the god of Islam; Moslem life and worship; il. with phot. sel. by Beatrice Creighton and the author. 144p $3 Lothrop

297 Mohammedans—Juvenile literature. Mohammedanism—Juvenile literature 50-11103

Profusely illustrated with photographs, this is a simply written account, for young people, of the Moslem religion and the life and customs of the Moslems.

Booklist 47:175 Ja 1 '51

Bookmark 10:87 Ja '51 10w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '51

"As in One God and in Their Search for God, the author has brought the fruits of lifelong study and first-hand experience of life in the Orient to a book to be read with the eyes and mind of the youth of our time. The authenticity and beauty of the photographs are in complete harmony with the text." A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk 27:25 Ja '51 150w

"This is a timely book, for it is important for everyone to understand all the peoples who are now making world history, in the Far East and India, and who are not so far away as we once thought. It is equally valuable for its superb illustrations." S. M. A.

+ Horn Bk 27:110 Mr '51 150w

"This book shows evidence of careful scholarship and most important, a hearty respect for the diverse paths by which men worship."

+ Kirkus 18:726 D 15 '50 230w

Reviewed by Siri Andrews

Library J 76:187 F 1 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 F 18 '51 410w

"Fine photographs, fully captioned, amplify and supplement the text. This is the first full-length treatment of Moslem religion and life for young people of which I know. It is an important contribution to our understanding of a large portion of the human race." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p26 Ja 21 '51 230w

"Because of its understanding and its breadth of view this book will help young and old not only to a conception of Islam but of all the Moslem countries and their people recently awakened, who may well recover tomorrow a leadership which was theirs in their glorious past." B. W. Shaffer
+ Sat R of Lit 34:46 F 17 '51 280w

"The conviction of a living culture and the contemporary world is strengthened throughout the book by the fine photographs which emphasize the art and architecture of the Moslem world, as well as showing life in the schools, the desert, and the mosques of present-day Islam."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:30 Mr '51 110w
Wis Lib Bul 47:67 Mr '51

FITCH, ROBERT ELLIOT. Kingdom without end; a prophetic interpretation of history and civilization. 137p $2.50 Scribner
201 Christianity—Philosophy. History—Philosophy 50-14972

"A severe and clean-cut indictment of the false standards of history and so-called civilization. It arraigns them before God's justice and calls for a return to participation in His creative activity as the way out." Churchman

---

"A fine, rich book that makes old truths glow in the murkiness of the present world. The author's analysis of the pride of power and possessions is devastatingly accurate. He is on less sure ground when he writes of pride of intellect and spiritual pride. He tends to strike out rather wildly in all directions and sometimes falls into his own net. But it is a book to arouse the honest courage the times demand." J. H. Titus
+ — Churchman 165:16 Mr 15 '51 110w

"This volume will neither find a niche in The Theological Hall of Fame nor win any prizes for scholarship. There is no bibliography, and his only documentation consists of biblical quotations. A great deal of this volume is homiletical, and herein ministers will find many 'seeds for sermons.'" K. L. Smith
Crozer Q 28:149 Ap '51 1100w

"The book contains theological writing in such fine style and clarity that one may speak of the author as an American C. S. Lewis. He has, however, acceded to the allure of alliteration. Too often the alliterative word rather than the most exact and meaningful one is chosen." Paul Ramsey
+ J Religion 31:142 Ap '51 600w

"More than most essentially theological books, this work will interest clergymen and thoughtful laymen, for Professor Fitch writes clearly and with memorable phrases which reflect his original and fresh insights."
+ Kirkus 18:701 D 1 '50 130w

FITT, MARY, pseud. See Freeman, K.

FITZGERALD, CHARLES PATRICK. China: a short cultural history. 3d rev ed 619p il maps $7.50 Praeger
951 China—History. China—Civilization [50-11632]

"Here is the 'third completely revised' edition of a title first published [in England] in 1935 [in the United States in 1938, Book Review Digest 1938] by a sound British sinologist who has recently been appointed a chair at the new Australian National University." (Library J) "Of its thirty chapters, only nine are given over to political history but six to socio-economic, and fifteen to prehistory, philosophy, arts, literature, religion." (Am Anthropol)

"The volume is written with perspicacity of insight, understanding, and balance, and is extremely readable. . . The book was first published in 1935; the present edition is called 'the third, completely revised' one. It has no doubt all been gone over and retouched here and there. The only notable changes, however, are the addition of two pages to chapter II and of three to chapter VIII. From chapter IX on, the volume seems to be reprinted from the plates of the first edition, with only a change of plus-4 in the pagination. This mention is made in the interest of accuracy and does not detract from the merit of the book, which was admirable in 1935 and is as admirable in 1950." A. L. Kroeber
+ Am Anthropol 53:402 Jl '51 200w

"The 'short' work will continue to be used as an authoritative, reliable guide to the cultural (and, to less extent, economic and political) history of China from pre-history times to rule under the Manchus. Its qualifications as a textbook are happily disguised by Professor Fitzgerald's smooth style, orderly presentation of facts, and generosity of well-chosen and well-reproduced illustrations." H. P. Linton
+ Library J 76:864 My 15 '51 100w

FITZGERALD, FRANCIS SCOTT KEY. Stories; a selection of 28 stories, with an introd. by Malcolm Cowley. 473p $3.75; text ed $2.50 Scribner
51-9861

The first selected edition of Fitzgerald's stories. There are twenty-eight stories, of which eighteen were first published in four different books; the remaining ten have not been collected before.

Booklist 47:310 My 1 '51

Reviewed by J. A. Clark
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Ap 8 '51 360w

"There is certainly a virtue in publishing as many unavailable stories as possible, and twenty-one of these have been out of print for years. I suspect that their appearance together in one volume may force some drastic revisions in the Fitzgerald legend. At his best, Fitzgerald was an immensely suggestive writer, a wizard with the language, and—a point that is usually overlooked—a fine humorist. But most of the time, he was not even approximately at his best; he was broke and in debt and forced to knock out quickly the dreary, imitative Saturday Evening Post fiction that came to be his chief support financially." Daniel Seligman
Commonweal 53:595 Mr 23 '51 1100w
Kirkus 19:72 F 1 '51 450w

Reviewed by Perry Miller
Nation 173:356 O 27 '51 480w

Reviewed by H. D. Piper
New Repub 125:20 Jl 2 '51 450w

"One can, as Fitzgerald well knew, learn and learn and learn and not acquire wisdom. But maybe we have lived a little more through this book—experienced a little more—and that's a thing that can't be said for many books. So, here's thanks to Mr. Scribner and thanks to Mr. Cowley, and—oh, yes—thank you, Scott." J. J. Maloney
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Mr 25 '51 1250w

Reviewed by A. B. Toklas
N Y Times p4 Mr 4 '51 850w

"This whole collection is recommended, but especially fine are 'Absolution' (originally intended as an introduction to 'The Great Gatsby') and 'Babylon Revisited.'" M. S.
+ San Francisco Chronicle p19 Ap 15 '51 220w

"It has taken a novel, a biography, and Life's somewhat sensational article to excite wide contemporary interest in Fitzgerald. Mr. Cowley's selection, which occasionally sacrifices excellence in favor of representativeness, proves how amply deserved is this attention." Hollis Alpert
+ Sat R of Lit 34:13 Mr 10 '51 1150w

Reviewed by J. W. Beach
Yale R n s 40:751 summer '51 70w

FITZGERALD, MAURICE JOHN. Handbook of criminal investigation. 234p $3.50 Greenberg 351.74 Criminal investigation 51-10761

"A basic text in the fundamentals of crime solving that well may be a godsend to small city policemen and wartime auxiliary cops who are confronted by practical problems and who

FITZGERALD, M. J.—Continued
are short on training. Questions at the end of each chapter emphasize the chief points, and answers at the end of the book make sure you don't miss them. There's a 20 page glossary of underworld slang." Chicago Sunday Tribune

"Nearly two decades of police work in the New York City force and in the army—in both of which jobs he has spent some years as instructor and lecturer—give Col. Fitzgerald a practical grasp and an easy familiarity with his subject." L. T. Heron

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 S 30 '51 140w

"The author points out that most books on the subject are highly technical. . . This handbook, therefore, is deliberately elementary, and as such should prove a useful introduction to more specialized study." L. G. O.

+ San Francisco Chronicle p22 O 7 '51 140w

FLACK, AMBROSE. Room for Mr Roosevelt. 244p $3 Crowell

Roosevelt, Theodore—Fiction 51-2725

Syracuse in 1908 and 1909 is the scene of this story of family life. The starting point is a picture of Theodore Roosevelt bought for the father's birthday. From there on the influence of the president is felt in nearly all of the family affairs.

Bookmark 10:231 Jl '51 30w

Reviewed by Harrison Kinney
N Y Times p10 Jl 29 '51 360w

"In other hands this naive little tale might have become the sheerest guff—a kind of nonsense-fantasy that didn't come off. As Mr. Flack does it, the thing turns out to be a curiously winning story." J. H. Jackson

+ San Francisco Chronicle p18 My 21 '51 650w

FLACK, ISAAC HARVEY (HARVEY GRAHAM, pseud). Eternal Eve; the history of gynaecology and obstetrics. 699p il $10 Doubleday

618.09 Gynecology. Obstetrics 51-11009

"Covering the whole field from magic to radium and penicillin, [the author] deals very fully with the main epochs and pioneers of the art, lightening his discourse by many sidelights on the old superstitions and quackeries in the past. There are chapters on Harvey and William Hunter, and a full account of the remarkable Chamberlens, who kept the use of the forceps a family secret for generations. In the age-long battle with puerperal fever the teachings of Charles White, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Semmelweis, are duly appraised as partly anticipating the fuller advent of Listerism, while the chequered story of the beginnings of anaesthesia is vividly retold." Manchester Guardian

"Brightly written and well illustrated, this volume will provide the professional reader with attractive reading, though he may regret its scanty documentation. The laymen, for whom also it is intended, may find it heavy going in parts and may not relish the broadly curious touches which are here and there noticeable." George Fletcher

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 2 '51 180w

"A great deal of medical history is heavy going, and in order to tempt the 'ordinary man and woman' to whom his preface is addressed, the author has leaned heavily on the abnormal, the sensational and the horrible. The result is a book which, unless one is extraordinarily robust, must often be laid aside during moments of faintness. . . My basic objection to the book rests on this incompatability between subject and manner. Obstetrical details, however 'historical,' can never without offence make the theme for a professedly popular book." Margaret Lane

— New Statesman & Nation 41:349 Mr 24 '51 900w

"Essentially a story book, 'Eternal Eve' is suitable for nonprofessional as well as specialized audiences. . . The author's delight in his material is transmitted on every page, and the reader will share his enthusiasm." T. H. Maren

+ N Y Times p44 O 7 '51 180w

Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 40w

Time 57:84 Je 18 '51 400w

FLANAGAN, GEORGE ALEXANDER. How to understand modern art. 334p il $5.50 Studio

709 Art, Modern 51-14381

"Nontechnical explanation of modern art and of the work of its exponents from Cezanne and Van Gogh to Picasso and Dada. Photographs of paintings, diagrams. Bibliography, index." Bookmark

Booklist 48:140 D 15 '51

+ Bookmark 11:57 D '51 30w

Kirkus 19:518 S 1 '51 160w

"Lively and readable."

+ Library J 77:51 Ja 1 '52 100w

"One searches hard for such a thing as a value judgment in Mr. Flanagan's book and the catch is small. Not that much isn't turned up on the way. Never using one word when ten will do, he recounts, in a chatty and banal manner, the stories of Van Gogh's madness; of Gauguin's flight; of Rousseau's innocence; of Picasso's quick changes and so forth. It is an earnest book and, on the whole, a friendly one, except in its closing pages, where buckets of iced water are poured on modern American art." Stuart Preston

N Y Times p26 D 2 '51 240w

FLANNIGAN, MRS KATHERINE MARY (O'FALLON). Faith of Mrs Kelleen; drawings by Daniel Rasmusson. 250p $3 Coward-McCann

51-9159

The story of a murder committed in Ireland many years ago. The mother of the accused refuses to believe her son is guilty and works thruout her life, and even after her death, to prove his innocence. The author is the heroine of Mrs Mike, by Benedict and Nancy Freedman (Book Review Digest 1947).

Booklist 47:125; 188 D 1 '50; Ja 15 '51

Bookmark 10:109 F '51 40w

"The story is untouched by artistry or the intellectual interest, say, of the Archer-Shee case, but it is one simply and appealingly told." Riley Hughes

+ — Cath World 172:472 Mr '51 200w

"If you like this sort of thing, you'll love 'The Faith of Mrs Kelleen.' I do . . . . and I did!" Henry Cavendish

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 Ja 14 '51 600w

"The story is done with such tight-drawn suspense that it would be unforgivable to disclose the ending; yet the way it is done and the portrayal of Honora are more than the story itself. Or better still, let us say that they are one and inseparable. Tender, simple, full of old Ireland—superstitions, folkways, hardships—it has the art that we call artless."

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '51 360w

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '51

Kirkus 18:659 N 1 '50 160w

"The writing, though unremarkable, has a certain quaint charm and people who like peasant-farmer stories with the idioms and superstitions of the Irish country, will find it pleasant reading." M. H. Zipprich

Library J 76:39 Ja 1 '51 70w

"'The Faith of Mrs Kelleen' abounds with sentiment, but it will take a hard heart and a strong will, especially if you have a drop of Irish blood, to lay down this gentle and kindly book before its inevitable conclusion." Mary Ross

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p9 Ja 7 '51 600w

Reviewed by Joyce Geary
N Y Times p27 Ja 7 '51 230w

San Francisco Chronicle p22 F 18 '51 260w

Reviewed by A. F. Wolfe
Sat R of Lit 34:18 Ja 20 '51 400w

Reviewed by S. M. Neal
Springf'd Republican p10C Ja 21 '51 210w

FLAUBERT, GUSTAVE. Letters; selected, with an introd. by Richard Rumbold; tr. by J. M. Cohen. 248p $4.75 Philosophical lib.

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 51-7113

Some 120 letters selected from the 2000 or more left by Flaubert. They cover most of his life and are to his family and friends, among the latter being Baudelaire, Michelet, Renan, Maupassant and Huysmans. Brief notes on the correspondents.

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p7 Ag 19 '51 320w

"There is no cold detachment here, but genuine warmth, and unsuspected pathos." John Cournos
+ Commonweal 54:317 Jl 6 '51 360w

"The choice of letters in this book seems judicious and capable of affording an insight into Flaubert's personality and his time." J. C.
+ Manchester Guardian p4 Ap 18 '50 350w

"The present selection consists of no more than a hundred and twenty-two out of over two thousand letters which have been published in French; but the editor has done his work well and has provided the reader with an excellent sample. He is right in saying that the main value of the letters lies in the portrait they give us of the man." Martin Turnell
+ New Statesman & Nation 39:690 Je 17 '50 480w

Reviewed by Hiram Haydn
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p5 Jl 29 '51 1200w

"Flaubert ranks with Baudelaire and perhaps Mallarmé among the very best letter-writers of nineteenth century France. Yet his correspondence had never been translated into English. This edition is welcome. The translation is done with skill. The introduction is adequate, but could have been more penetrating." Henri Peyre
+ N Y Times p4 Jl 15 '51 350w

"Of the 2,000 Flaubert letters in print, this import from Britain contains 122, or about 6 per cent. Because they were written by a prodigiously intelligent, sensitive, and articulate writer, they are interesting, but few among them would be classed with the most interesting letters Flaubert wrote. The fault is the editor's." Lewis Galantiere
+ Sat R of Lit 34:19 S 29 '51 550w

"I do not know why Flaubert's letters have never hitherto appeared in English. . . Flaubert's letters are more important for what the writer says than they are for the way he says it. Many are beautiful, though, in contrast to his professional prose, they are informal I had almost said, artless. But every one is interesting; and it is the interesting, after all, that is most suitably and usefully translated." Maurice Cranston
+ Spec 184:658 My 12 '50 700w
Time 58:92 Ag 20 '51 550w

"It is a pity that a fuller and better produced volume was not attempted for such an important subject. This book leaves room for a more ambitiously annotated and extensive collection."
Times [London] Lit Sup p290 My 12 '50 450w

FLEISCHER, NATHANIEL S. John L. Sullivan; champion of champions. 242p il $3.75 Putnam

B or 92 Sullivan, John Lawrence 51-10280

Biography of "the greatest boxer of modern times," John L. Sullivan. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

Booklist 47:344 Je 1 '51

Reviewed by R. W. Henderson
Library J 76:780 My 1 '51 20w

"The combination of Sullivan and Mr. Fleischer, the dedicated student and affectionate reporter of all that has happened in the prize ring since the time of the ancient Greeks, could not have failed to make a good book." John Lardner
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ag 26 '51 490w

"The author has compiled a large amount of factual material that has related Sullivan to his time. His book belongs in any collection of literature on sport." Harry Sylvester
+ N Y Times p16 Jl 1 '51 370w
Wis Lib Bul 47:214 S '51

FLEMING, BERRY. Fortune tellers. 442p $3.75 Lippincott

51-11202

"When a Northern newspaperman revives the 20-year-old murder trial of a Negro, complex elements in a small Georgia town are skillfully unraveled and a threatening flood adds tensity to this modern novel." Bookmark

Reviewed by Edward Weeks
+ Atlantic 188:90 D '51 440w
Booklist 48:58; 65 O 15 '51
Bookmark 11:34 N '51 40w

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:233 D '51 300w

"The reader's interest is kept taut in the outcome of the emotional tangle, of the 'Yankee' battle against the south, and of the flood's ravages. Mr. Fleming manages to keep that tautness in a technique which is as deliberate as a chess game." Fanny Butcher
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p26 N 11 '51 700w
Kirkus 19:304 Je 15 '51 190w
Kirkus 19:492 S 1 '51 340w

"Holds the reader's interest, but many factors arise to deflect that interest at too frequent intervals." H. L. Roth
Library J 76:1125 Jl '51 110w

" 'The Fortune Tellers,' coming after such sparkling tales as 'Colonel Effingham's Raid' and 'The Lightwood Tree,' may prove a shock to some of Berry Fleming's admirers. The unhappy fact is that Mr. Fleming has tried to crowd too much into a single book and has, as a result, spoiled three good stories." V. P. Hass
— N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 N 18 '51 430w

"The river of Faulkner-like language which floats this hell-and-high-water plot is broad enough to accommodate a whole townful of people, and smooth enough to mirror their race-conscious, family-loving, Yankee-hating mores. But in his eagerness to give the South a fair hearing on its own terms, Fleming burdens his book with bias." Robert Lowry
N Y Times p27 N 11 '51 500w
New Yorker 27:170 D 8 '51 60w

"A moving and vigorous story of men in conflict with themselves and with each other, the whole embraced by the dark and desperate struggle against nature in the form of a threatening flood. What comes of this is what should come of a novel that sets out to be anything more than just a yarn; i.e., the reader finds himself sharing in a human problem which conceivably might be his own, and at the same time watching character acting and acted upon, and therefore in process of development. This, of course, is what serious fiction is about." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p20 N 25 '51 350w

"Mr. Fleming is not a writer who speaks to all places and all times, but he does speak honestly and with talent. None but the most unperceptive or the most snobbish will ignore 'The Fortune Tellers' or continue to ignore his earlier books. With a craft and an insight that deserve to be admired he presents an interpretation of Man Now and of the South that enlightens." H. C. Webster
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 N 10 '51 600w

FLEMING, BERRY—Continued
Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p12A Ja 6 '52 230w

"Berry Fleming usually succeeds in telling a good Southern story in a moderate Southern accent without resort to miscegenation, lynching, rape or general degeneracy to obtain his effects. In the Fortune Tellers, he has put the race issue into a perspective of human rather than political terms that is probably more accurate than most current Southern writers would have you believe."
+ Time 58:128 O 22 '51 550w

FLEMING, DONALD. John William Draper and the religion of science. 205p $2.50 Univ. of Pa. press
B or 92 Draper, John William, 1811-1882 50-4661

"Both as scientist and as philosopher, Dr. John William Draper is so salient a spokesman for the latter half of the nineteenth century that this study of his personality and works inevitably offers valuable insights into the creative intellectual stirrings of the era. With painstaking detail, the book sets forth the events, particularly the intellectual events, of Draper's life." (U S Quarterly Bkl) Bibliography. Index.

"Donald Fleming has written a splendid biographical essay which recasts the curve of historical appraisal. Draper emerges from these pages as a man who still lives in the immortality of historical results. While this biography is artistically designed, it is free of the conscious artistry of the biographer." B. J. Loewenberg
+ Sat R of Lit 34:38 Je 16 '51 750w
School & Society 73:110 F 17 '51 30w

"Useful in spite of a viscid style, Mr. Fleming's monograph helps set in perspective the very folklore which is the inheritance of present-day science."
+ — U S Quarterly Bkl 6:425 D '50 300w

FLEMING, JOAN MARGARET. Daisy chain for Satan. 223p $2.50 Doubleday 50-11086

Detective story.

Reviewed by Drexel Drake
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 F 18 '51 50w
Kirkus 18:665 N 1 '50 70w

"This is civilized as English mysteries often are, but not built up with sufficient subtlety to carry its theme."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p14 Ja 21 '51 170w

"The yarn has a pleasant English atmosphere, attractive characters and a neat, suspense-filled plot." Hillis Mills
+ N Y Times p16 F 4 '51 200w

"Pleasantly told and very, very English."
+ New Yorker 26:87 Ja 6 '51 90w

"This one has lots of charm, though the style is a bit too leisurely for the dramatic content." L. G. Offord
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p18 Ja 7 '51 90w

"Excellent British."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 Ja 6 '51 50w

FLEMING, PETER. Sixth column; a singular tale of our times. 224p $2.50 Scribner 51-13667

Satire on life in present day Great Britain.

Booklist 48:144 D 15 '51
Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 N 25 '51 210w
Kirkus 19:586 O 1 '51 120w

"A novel [of this type] must be really witty and light-hearted to alleviate rather than increase alarm and despondency. This is Mr Peter Fleming's aim and he achieves it in a style too good for the thriller he has written. The amusement he provides does not seem to be within himself as he writes, but rather to be that elucidation of Folly which is the pure spirit of satire." H. I'A. Fausset
Manchester Guardian p4 Je 15 '51 70w

"Behind the self-conscious urbanity and tweeds-and-dagger facetiousness, Mr. Fleming is a man grimly in earnest. This novel is the work of a professional humorist; it is also a one-man attempt to Stop The Rot. Mr. Fleming sees his country as a land that is losing its moral fibre through its having left the shaping of public opinion to actors and broadcasters, muddled liberals, mollycoddled progressives and intellectual and artistic ninnies generally. All this, he thinks, helps Russia. He developed his theme by skilfully blending Punch and John Buchan until the conspiracy has been foiled and the world been made safe for log fires, riding before breakfast and cartridges on the mantlepiece." John Raymond
New Statesman & Nation 42:78 Jl 21 '51 180w

Reviewed by Anne Brooks
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 11 '51 330w

"In this wise and witty fantasy Peter Fleming gives us the outlines of an exciting thriller and the undertones of a sharp satire." Isabelle Mallet
+ N Y Times p37 N 4 '51 420w

"A very clever and exciting thriller."
+ New Yorker 27:138 O 27 '51 90w
San Francisco Chronicle p14 D 23 '51 150w

" 'The Sixth Column' (you'll have to read the book to get the definition) is spoofing with a sting. The jitters have rarely been packaged with such intelligent jollity." Charles Lee
+ Sat R of Lit 34:72 N 17 '51 250w

"Mr. Fleming's wit and his unfailing delight in all forms of departmental absurdity do not obscure his essential respect for certain logical and orderly forms of procedure, and his detailed knowledge of the ways in which these work, and may presently have to work. I must resist a temptation to quote, because I would have to quote so much." L. A. G. Strong
+ Spec 185:758 Je 8 '51 360w

"Many contemporary habits, and well-known figures, take some heavy knocks [in this book], and if the joke grows a trifle thin before the end, for most of the time it is adequate for the skilful urbanity of Mr. Fleming's satiric prose."
+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p353 Je 8 '51 220w

FLESCH, RUDOLF FRANZ. Art of clear thinking. 212p il $2.75 Harper
153 Thought and thinking. Logic 51-13979

A discussion, from the psychologist's point of view but couched in ordinary layman's language, of what thinking is and how it is done. Partial contents: Robots, apes, and you; Do you see what I see; First aid for word trouble; The rise and fall of formal logic; Why argue; The harnessing of chance; Freedom from error? Index.

Booklist 48:114 D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:57 D '51 20w
Kirkus 19:509 S 1 '51 100w

" 'The Art of Clear Thinking' is a helpful book—and an amusing one as well." H. R.
+ N Y Times p12 D 9 '51 500w
School & Society 74:415 D 22 '51 10w

"You may not think any more clearly after reading Rudolf Flesch's 'The Art of Clear Thinking,' but you will have enjoyed some hours of diverting and highly entertaining reading." V. P.
+ Springf'd Republican p6D D30 '51 150w

FLETCHER, HARRY LUTF VERNE (JOHN GARDEN, pseud). Day of reckoning [Eng title: Murder isn't private] 222p $2.75 Lippincott

51-11200

A novel of suspense in which a murderer attempts to plead guilty without success.

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:236 D '51 150w
Kirkus 19:457 Ag 15 '51 90w

"Thanks to the author's sensibility and success at creating characters in whom the reader believes and grows interested, what might have been a straight cat-and-mouse novel of suspense takes on genuine novelistic overtones. Unfortunately, a certain amount of conscious 'writing' and general pretentiousness cut it down to size again." Elizabeth Bullock
+ — N Y Times p5 N 25 '51 200w

"Mr. Garden is a careful and subtle writer, and somehow or other he makes the complicated motives and relationships involved in this story both plausible and exciting. Probably as expert a novel about morbid psychology (division of crime and punishment) as the season will produce."
+ New Yorker 27:143 O 27 '51 160w

"Story is told well enough so that you appreciate the ironic dilemma, but the end's so inevitable that suspense is at a minimum. C plus." L. G. Offord
San Francisco Chronicle p12 O 21 '51 80w

"Non-mysterious, but refreshing."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 N 3 '51 60w

FLETCHER, LUCILLE. Night man. See Ullman, A.

FLETCHER, SYDNEY E. The cowboy and his horse; with an introd. by Joseph Henry Jackson. 159p il map $2.95 Grosset

978 Cowboys 51-13526

Information of all kinds about the cowboy, his horse and his equipment, and various aspects of cowboy life and work. Copiously illustrated.

"The author, one of the outstanding cowboy artists of America, has written a book which, altho primarily meant for the teen-agers, will be of keen interest to Americana collectors and admirers of waddies and the west." Al Chase
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 O 28 '51 220w

"This is, of course, a must for every children's room. It has all the information that western fans want, together with fine pictures, a good bibliography, and a fine index." M. D. Read
+ Library J 76:2013 D 1 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 N 11 '51 250w

"The chapters on old trail drives, roundups, frontier fun, rodeos, brands and earmarks, saddles and equipment are particularly interesting. Some boys will be surprised to learn that every item of a cowboy's colorful costume has its practical use. . . The many big, bold illustrations are full of action and feeling, and make an excellent pictorial supplement to an engrossing story." F. C. Smith
+ N Y Times p12 N 11 '51 180w

Reviewed by K. T. Kinkead
New Yorker 27:188 D 1 '51 50w

"Here's a book that's as chuck full of Western lore as the old chuck wagon that used to roam the Western trails. There's everything in it from the cowboy's duties to the equipment he wears and the way he takes care of his horse."
+ San Francisco Chronicle p4 N 11 '51 250w
Springf'd Republican p28A N 25 '51 50w

FLEW, ANTONY GARRARD NEWTON, ed. Essays on logic and language; [by] Gilbert Ryle [and others]. 206p $3.75 Philosophical lib.

160.4 Logic. Language and languages. Meaning (psychology) A51-9076

"Nine essays which constitute an introduction to the latest phase of philosophy—or, more strictly, of Anglo-American philosophy." (Spec) Contents: Systematically misleading expressions, by G. Ryle; Time: a treatment of some puzzles, by J. N. Findlay; Bertrand Russell's doubts about induction, by P. Edwards; The philosopher's use of analogy, by M. Macdonald; Is there a problem about sense-data? by G. A. Paul; Verifiability, by F. Waismann; The ascription of responsibility and rights, by H. L. A. Hart; The language of political theory, by M. Macdonald; Gods, by J. Wisdom.

"There recently appeared a slim and entertaining anthology which can be read in an evening by a professional philosopher; the lay public, for whom it is intended as an introduction to contemporary Oxford-Cambridge verbosophy, may well labor perplexing weeks upon it. The perplexity seems unlikely to be 'philosophical' in either the traditional or the grammatical sense of that abused word. The layman will, I suspect, perplex himself very little about the curious syntactical refinements which it contains. He will, rather, puzzle mightily about what manner of men these 'philosophers' be, who renounce their truthright for a mass of verbiage." D. N. Morgan
Ethics 62:55 O '51 4300w

Reviewed by Mary Scrutton
New Statesman & Nation 41:278 Mr 10 '51 1000w
School & Society 73:190 Mr 24 '51 60w

"An anthology of this kind has been much needed; the editor and publisher have rendered a service both to the student and to the general reader in collecting in a single volume nine representative articles from different philosophical journals. . . I think anyone who enjoys philosophy will admire the level of accuracy in these essays and also their plain intelligibility." Stuart Hampshire
+ Spec 185:870 Je 29 '51 900w

FLEXNER, JAMES THOMAS. Short history of American painting. 118p 48pl 4 col pl $2 Houghton

750.973 Painting, American 50-10505

A short history of American painting, which examines the work of fifty-one artists, and includes some biographical material for each one. Catalog of illustrations. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 47:175 Ja 1 '51

Reviewed by Benjamin Rowland
+ New Eng Q 24:130 Mr '51 550w

"In his comments on present tendencies, [the author] is uncertain in his preferences and somewhat confused in his appraisals. As a whole, however, his book is the clearest and most sensible account thus far to appear in outline form, and the illustrations are both numerous and exceptionally well engraved."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p6 F 18 '51 200w

"To tell in 25,000 words, absorbingly and without seeming haste, the story of American painting from the colonial primitives to the moderns, is no slight feat. To have done this in such a way that every movement and major figure assumes a meaningful place in the confused development of an American style is a remarkable critical achievement. Mr Flexner has done these things with great simplicity and yet without ever 'writing down.'" Selden Rodman
+ N Y Times p10 D 17 '50 1000w

Reviewed by Alfred Frankenstein
San Francisco Chronicle p21 Jl 1 '51 440w

"A small book, easy to handle, well written and easy to understand. Especially recommended for the library that cannot afford the expensive, large art books."
+ Wis Lib Bul 46:32 D '50

FLOHERTY, JOHN JOSEPH. Our F.B.I; an inside story [foreword by J. Edgar Hoover]. 155p il $2.75 Lippincott

351.74 U.S. Federal bureau of investigation. Crime and criminals—Identification 51-11165

This book replaces an earlier volume by the author: Inside the F.B.I. (Book Review Digest 1943).

Booklist 48:132 D 1 '51
Bookmark 11:35 N '51
Kirkus 19:444 Ag 15 '51 90w

"Not only is the information brought up to date but the basic material has been simplified as well; the writing is more direct. On the whole, it should be more readable for the junior-high-school boys than was its predecessor. There is no question about their interest in the subject." M. B. Snow
+ Library J 76:2125 D 15 '51 70w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p16 N 11 '51 230w

FLOHERTY, JOHN JOSEPH. Television story; with thirty-two il. from photographs. 160p $2.75 Lippincott

621.388 Television 51-10381

"The author, using tried and true methods of getting facts at the source, has written a book for young people and their elders that reveals the startling pageant of television from its origins and early experiments, down to today's techniques in producing television programs." School & Society

Booklist 47:348 Je 1 '51

"An interesting story about a fascinating new field of communications which is holding millions under its spell. This volume is readable—quite suitable for young people, especially students." Larry Wolters
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 Ag 12 '51 110w

"Floherty is a good reporter and his account is full of human interest stories." M. C. Scoggin
+ Horn Bk 27:243 Jl '51 30w
Kirkus 19:155 Mr 15 '51 70w

"Recommended." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:881 My 15 '51 80w

"We have been hoping Mr. Floherty would get around to TV in his excellent series reporting on thrilling fields of interest to youth of today. Here he covers everything, with his engaging method of saying how he found it all out 'on the spot.'" L. S. Bechtel
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p18 My 13 '51 120w

"Mr. Floherty has covered the new industry from its early gropings to today's sprawling greatness in a sprightly, chatty style. His book is jam-packed with facts and figures, anecdotes and pertinent information. Unfortunately, however, it conveys its intelligence in a manner which is somewhat too advanced for the young reader." Sidney Lohman
+ — N Y Times p16 Jl 22 '51 100w
Sat R of Lit 34:72 N 10 '51 90w
School & Society 73:301 My 12 '51 50w
Springf'd Republican p8D Jl 1 '51 50w

FLOOD, RICHARD THOMAS. Point after; il. by Robert Candy. 216p $2.25 Houghton 51-11764

Story of football in a prep school that was the scene of two earlier stories by the author, Pass that Puck, and Fighting Southpaw.

Booklist 48:89 N 1 '51

"An entertaining tale of a pleasant bunch of youngsters." Robert Cromie
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p13 N 11 '51 50w

"Good football, good fun."
+ Kirkus 19:396 Ag 1 '51 90w

"Nothing special about this, but good football for younger readers." M. D. Read
Library J 76:1342 S 1 '51 40w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 D 16 '51 50w

FLORENCE, PHILIP SARGANT. Labour. 230p $2; text ed $1.60 Longmans

331 Labor and laboring classes

"This textbook is one of a series of educational books designed for the general reader and especially for adult educational classes in Great Britain. Its timeliness and uniqueness lie in its emphasis upon the problems of obtaining labor efficiency under a government policy of full employment where the factor of labor selectivity is minimized. Discussions of various theories of wages and the development of organized labor, which comprise important parts of most American labor problems textbooks, are not stressed; instead, the discussion is focused on the practical aspects of how to attain optimum labor mobility and efficiency under Britain's present full employment and social insurance policy." Am Econ R

Reviewed by Florence Peterson
+ Am Econ R 40:979 D '50 750w

"The book is a real mine of information, draws on much original research, and presents a number of the author's own findings which lack of space unfortunately prohibits discussing. It is highly readable, and especially helpful are the author's illustrations and summarizations in chart form. It would be of much aid to students, novices in industry and the public here if the author would publish an American edition." Ernest Dale + Management R 40:45 Ja '51 600w

FLORINSKY, MICHAEL T. Towards an understanding of the U.S.S.R; a study in government, politics, and economic planning. rev ed 223p $3 Macmillan

947.084 Russia—Politics and government. Russia—Economic policy. Russia—Economic conditions. Communism—Russia 51-11765

"A revised edition of the book first published in 1939. In the new edition, Mr. Florinsky brings the entire book up through the year 1950, incorporating and explaining the numerous important changes that have taken place in Soviet affairs since the beginning of World War II." (Springf'd Republican) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1939.

Am Pol Sci R 45:1218 D '51 40w
Christian Century 68:1193 O 17 '51 100w
Current Hist 21:227 O '51 130w

"A useful text for reference and study."
+ Kirkus 19:288 Je 1 '51 190w

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p20 N 11 '51 30w

"For the general reader this is a competent and honest survey of many important areas of Soviet life, written readably and compressed into rather moderate size. Yet he should be warned that it leaves some important areas untouched while others are touched on briefly and superficially." Harry Schwartz
+ — Sat R of Lit 34:9 Ag 11 '51 600w
School & Society 74:63 Jl 28 '51 20w

"While Mr. Florinsky is thoroughly opposed to communism and makes no apologies for the present Moscow regime, he is able, because of his background, to interpret sensibly many phases of Russian affairs which have not been well clarified before in many English-language publications. His book is valuable reading for serious students of current world affairs." H. H.
+ Springf'd Republican p4C Ag 5 '51 140w

FLOWER, SIR NEWMAN. Just as it happened. 274p il $4 Morrow

655.442 Publishers and publishing. Cassell & company, limited 51-9325

"Born in the village of Fontmell Magna, in Dorset, the Wessex of Hardy's novels, Sir Newman rose through successive stages, among them editing magazines with phenomenal success, to be the owner and head of the ancient publishing firm of Cassells in London. . . Here he writes of authors, famous surgeons, soldiers, sailors, statesmen, his travels, the hazards and joys of the publishing business, and other matters. The reader will learn something new, if not very important, about Thomas Hardy, Arnold Bennett, H. G. Wells, Stefan Zweig, Lord and Lady Oxford, Frederick Treves, Curzon, Birkenhead, Austen Chamberlain, Jellicoe, Haig, Louis Bromfield, and many others." N Y Times

Booklist 47:397 Jl 15 '51

"Recommended." E. F. Walbridge
+ Library J 76:515 Mr 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by B. W. Huebsch
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p4 Mr 11 '51 1600w

"Throughout the book one feels that Sir Newman never quite lets himself go, and though often interesting, and entertaining, the book isn't quite as good as it ought to be considering the material he had to work with. He is at his best, perhaps, in his memories of his friend, the great and simple-hearted son of Dorset, Thomas Hardy." H. F. West
+ — N Y Times p12 F 25 '51 380w

"The book is a genial hodgepodge of salty anecdotes about his contemporaries, stories old hands at Cassell's told him about authors of an even earlier generation, some history of the century-old firm, and ramblings in a past crowded with memorable persons in politics, music (Sir Newman is a noted biographer of musicians), the theatre, medicine, and the arts. Its repetitiousness and lack of organization prove that even editors' books can stand a spot of editing, but, on the whole, the memoir is thoroughly entertaining."
+ — New Yorker 27:122 Ap 7 '51 180w

"His book is marred by two faults, one his own and one his editor's. He cultivates the anecdote, as served up in after dinner speeches, with relentless regularity, and even the good ones are marred by this monotony. His editor's fault is that the book lacks an index which is certainly required in such a potpourri."
Sat R of Lit 34:47 Jl 14 '51 170w

"Sir Newman himself, in all the years in which he presided over the affairs of the great house of Cassell, had the appearance and the manner of serene contentment. His urbane, charitable and affectionate reminiscences disclose, with charming ingenuousness, an almost Cherryble character. They do not make a book of great literary merit, but they are consistently and constantly interesting and agreeable." John Connell
+ Spec 184:387 O 13 '50 750w

"It is to Sir Newman's credit that in an age which loves iconoclasm and sardonic superiority he is free from malice and prejudice. Often he shows an understanding that can find a place for the crankiest crochets in the general make-up of a major talent. . . As a publisher Sir Newman would make no claim that this present work of his has shape and construction, or anything but entertainment value with some lively portraiture."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p64 F 2 '51 850w

FLUBACHER, JOSEPH FRANCIS. Concept of ethics in the history of economics [a dissertation submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of doctor of education in Teachers college, Temple university]. 460p pa $5 Vantage

330.1917 Ethics. Economics—History 50-12213

"This book examines the place given to ethics in economic writings, carrying its account from ancient Greece and Rome down to our own time. Most of the authors treated in the standard histories of economic thought get attention and unusual prominence is given to Catholic material." Ann Am Acad

"The book may prove useful as a guide to the literature on the subject and as another indication of the persistence of a tradition, from antiquity to contemporary economics, which looks upon all social sciences as inevitably normative-ethical in character and content." K. W. Kapp
Am Econ R 41:948 D '51 420w

"The author relies largely on secondary authorities. . . In places, there seems a lack of thoroughness. Discussion of the writings of such a man as Sir John Marriott would gain if information were given on the man himself. . . The chapter on contemporary thought concludes with no mention of the welfare theories of such men as Lerner. . . Despite these limitations, Flubacher's book is a good overall study and will prove useful to all students of economic thought who lack time for more comprehensive investigation of the field and will interest especially those who wish to acquaint themselves with Catholic opinion." Edmund Whittaker
+ — Ann Am Acad 275:192 My '51 400w

"The style is generally pedestrian. Writers usually are discussed and dismissed within clearly demarcated sections of chapters and are introduced with summarizing sentences or paragraphs better suited to lecture notes than to a book of this kind. Most judgments are phrased in such a way that they seem dutiful rather than imaginative, pat rather than profound. However, in places the author's obvious interest in his subject causes him to rise above the book's general level. The pages on Marx and Ruskin are perhaps the best." Henry Oliver
J Pol Econ 59:181 Ap '51 280w

FODOR, NANDOR, ed. Dictionary of psychoanalysis. See Freud, S.

FOLEY, MARTHA, ed. Best American short stories, 1951; and the Yearbook of the American short story; assisted by Joyce F. Hartman. 368p $3.75 Houghton

Short stories—Collections

Contents: Flight through the dark, by Roger Angell; Inland, western sea, by Nathan Asch; A fugitive from the mind, by Peggy Bennett; The end of the depression, by Mary Bolté; In Greenwich there are many gravelled walks, by Hortense Calisher; Sense of direction, by Leonard Casper; Larchmoor is not the world, by R. V. Cassill; The season of divorce, by John Cheever; The hunters, by Harris Downey; The temperate zone, by Elizabeth Enright; The kingdom of Gordon, by J. C. Goodman; The value of the dollar, by E. E. Gordon; Her breath upon the windowpane, by William Goyen; The summer people, by Shirley Jackson; The mother's story, by J. W. Johnson; Fru Holm, by Ilona Karmel; Old century's river, by Oliver La Farge; Old turkey neck, by George Lanning; Portrait, by E. G. Lewis; The glass house, by Dorothy Livesay; The wishbone, by Robie Macauley; The prison, by Bernard Malamud; The butcherbirds, by Esther Patt; Death of a favorite, by J. F. Powers; The tabby cat, by Paul Rader; The nemesis, by Jean Stafford; The last of the grizzly bears, by R. B. West; The resemblance between a violin case and a coffin, by Tennessee Williams.

Atlantic 188:85 S '51 220w

Booklist 48:31 S 15 '51

Reviewed by Riley Hughes
Cath World 174:71 O '51 290w

Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 Jl 29 '51 350w

Reviewed by Horace Reynolds
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 13 '51 550w

"Miss Foley unhesitatingly calls her collection the best American short stories of the current year, and I have no reason to question

FOLEY, MARTHA—Continued
that claim. It is by and large an excellent set of stories." Francis Sweeney
+ Commonweal 54:506 Ag 31 '51 550w
Kirkus 19:335 Jl 1 '51 160w
Reviewed by Harvey Swados
+ Nation 173:158 Ag 25 '51 390w

"Of the twenty-eight stories in Martha Foley's 1951 collection, there are just two to remind us that homo sapiens is a creature with a sense of humor. Can it be coincidence that the two amusing stories are also the two best stories in the book? That, at any rate, is the way my scorecard indicates the order of finish. J. F. Powers' 'The Death of a Favorite,' which is a hilarious item about a clerical cat, and Shirley Jackson's 'The Summer People,' a tongue-in-cheek shirleyjacksonian chiller about a Vermont bungalow, finish one-two on my list; and the rest of the field, the glum twenty-six, trail along anywhere from several light-years behind." Richard Match
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ag 19 '51 420w

"It is not always easy to guess what Miss Foley's criteria are, but one of them, obviously, is integrity. She will have nothing to do with the kind of dishonesty that is so often practiced in the popular magazines, and she is seldom taken in either by a slick finish or by false emotionalism. Her volume leaves the impression that a lot of contemporary writing is not only highly competent but scrupulously honest." Granville Hicks
+ N Y Times p5 Jl 15 '51 420w

"What is significant about all the stories in this collection—and this is due to Miss Foley's firm hand in selection—is that there is not a phony among them. The authors have written honestly and from understanding of what William Faulkner, in accepting the Nobel prize last spring, called 'the old verities and truths of the heart—love and honor and pity and pride and compassion and sacrifice.' This is what Miss Foley sees as the new trend. It is good evidence of the health and vigor of the American short story that so excellent a judge as Miss Foley sees this trend and finds stories of such high quality to prove her point." J. H. Jackson
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 Jl 27 '51 650w
Reviewed by William Peden
Sat R of Lit 34:17 Ag 18 '51 650w
Reviewed by L. S. Munn
Springf'd Republican p4C Ag 5 '51 450w
Wis Lib Bul 47:189 Jl '51

FOLEY, RAE, pseud. See Denniston, E.

FONTAINE, DON. Sugar on the slate. 278p $3 Farrar, Straus
51-12796

A satirical novel about doings in an American junior high school.

Booklist 48:49 O 1 '51

"In spite of some really funny elements and basically good characters, this lacks the spark and sparkle, the stylistic smoothness to carry it off. Fictional pedagogy is better off with a practiced, not a heavy, hand."
Kirkus 19:404 Ag 1 '51 100w

"The fun would be faster if the prose were less mannered."
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p8 S 30 '51 140w

"The general reader (whether he happens to be a pupil, a parent, or even a teacher) should enjoy in equal measure Fontaine's good-natured ribbing at his expense. His narrative style is bright and effortless, and the only serious fault one could find is in the dialogue, which is amateurish and clumsy at times." Joyce Geary
+ N Y Times p17 D 16 '51 190w

"This is an extravanganza, of course, with a core of truth." John Cournos
Sat R of Lit 34:33 O 27 '51 400w

FOOTE, GASTON, ed. Communion meditations; preludes to the Lord's supper. 176p $2 Abingdon-Cokesbury
265.3 Lord's supper 51-1342

"Twenty-five outstanding Protestant ministers offer brief messages prepared to 'deepen the meaning and value' of the sacrament of Holy Communion. Biographical notes." Bookmark

Bookmark 10:81 Ja '51 20w

"The communion meditation is often merely an amorphous expedient. The twenty-five presented here are far from being that. They are excellent expositions in their own right and, in addition, are challenging examples of restraint. A word of gratitude is due the editor for his choice of authors; they are a goodly company of serious men who know how to write." R. E. Keighton
+ Crozer Q 28:189 Ap '51 90w

"The pieces are all of high quality and clergymen will find many new ideas and fresh insights. Highly recommended for clergymen."
+ Kirkus 19:49 F 1 '51 120w

FOOTE, SHELBY. Love in a dry season. 250p $3 Dial press
51-6514

A story of a Southern town in the twenties and thirties. Particularly it is the story of two families, blind Jeff Carruthers and his wife Amy, Major Barcroft and his two daughters, and of the link between them, Harley Drew, the fortune-hunter from the North.

"Dirty and dull, but shrewdly contrived and skillfully executed so that while you loathe practically every character in the book, you believe in them."
— + Kirkus 19:541 S 15 '51 200w

"Mr. Foote has told his story with great skill but one wonders when he will lift his head from the maggots. Surely one so markedly gifted can see something besides rot in American life today." V. P. Hass
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 O 21 '51 360w

"Shelby Foote ably fashions a drama as modern as today's newspaper, as old as the Mosaic law. Character is revealed almost entirely through behavior with relatively little talk and less introspection. The narrative is stripped and summary." Frances Gaither
+ N Y Times p26 S 23 '51 430w
New Yorker 27:146 O 13 '51 170w

FORBES, ROBERT JAMES. Man the maker; a history of technology and engineering. (Life of science lib) 355p il $4 Schuman
609 Technology—History. Engineering—History 50-13194

For descriptive note see Annual for 1950.

"An attractive volume. . . In a brief final chapter entitled 'Technology and Progress,' Dr. Forbes attempts to capitulate some of the anomalies of our present civilization and to suggest some avenues whereby the organic and spiritual may catch up with the material, but this is not a too forceful epilogue, and the book's chief and lasting value will lie in its compact and skillful recounting of man's conquest of some of the laws of nature and his genius in applying new knowledge to the needs of his own comfort and existence." P. H. Oehser
+ Am Hist R 56:374 Ja '51 360w
Reviewed by W. F. Ogburn
Am Soc R 15:829 D '50 700w

"No respectable scholar will henceforth attempt an appraisal of the cultures of Western Civilization without drawing upon the kind of material included in this volume." J. W. Oliver
+ Ann Am Acad 273:265 Ja '51 650w

"To pack the full story of applied science from before 3,000 B. C. to 1950 A. D. into a little more than 300 pages is the difficult job Mr. Forbes has set himself. The result, when he arrives at the last and furious pace of the last two centuries, becomes a survey crowded with names and dates, brief statements and reduced interpretations. To this reviewer, therefore, the first part of the book up to the Industrial Revolution is the more readable. . . In general, 'Man the Maker' is the kind of book that is greatly needed by the modern American layman who subconsciously believes that automobiles, airplanes, electric power and televison just fell into his lap out of the sky." Roger Burlingame

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p11 Ja 21 '51 750w

"The book is not outstanding for readability, but it should find use as an elementary reference book and also as an introduction and guide to further reading for students with a firm interest in the history of technology."
N Y New Tech Bks 35:95 N '50

Reviewed by P. H. Oehser
Sat of Lit 34:53 Ja 20 '51 800w

"It seems doubtful that many secondary-school pupils would read this book. It should, however, be an extremely valuable addition to the reading materials of any survey course at the college level in sciences or social sciences, including courses in Western civilization. Most important of all, no social-studies or history teacher, at any level, could fail to be a better instructor after reading this unusual and stimulating volume." R. A. Brown
+ School R 59:437 O '51 370w

FORD, ALICE ELIZABETH, comp. See Audubon, J. J. Audubon's animals

FORD, CLELLAN STEARNS, and BEACH, FRANK AMBROSE. Patterns of sexual behavior; with a foreword by Robert Latou Dickinson. 307p $4.50 Harper

392.6 Sex 51-9766

"A social anthropologist and a student of animal behavior here bring together for comparison the patterns of sex behavior of 190 human cultural groups in all parts of the world, and of a large number of the animals most closely related to man, that is, the mammals. The primary purpose of the authors is to provide material for determining which features of human sex behavior are based on inheritance as animals, and which are the result of training and experience. The method is description of actual behavior, without reference to the symbolic or the literary-artistic correlates of sex, and without judgments of value or morality." (U S Quarterly Bk R) Bibliography.

"Simply and clearly written, with no axe to grind but to present the facts, Patterns of Sexual Behavior is a book which, for the first time, places the study of sex in a broad scientific perspective." A. R. Holmberg
+ Am Soc R 16:578 Ag '51 1150w

Reviewed by W. M. Krogman
Chicago Sunday Tribune p6 My 6 '51 420w

"This dispassionate, thorough general review is written clearly and with excellent taste. It is provided with a glossary and a bibliography."
+ U S Quarterly Bk R 7:186 Je '51 240w

FORD, LESLIE, pseud. See Brown, Z. J.

FORD, NICK AARON, and FAGGETT, H. L., eds. Best short stories by Afro-American writers (1925-1950). 307p $3 Meador

Short stories—Collections. Negro literature—Collections

"The first anthology of its kind; 40 stories straight from the heart of young Negro authors." School & Society

"Since these are stories written originally for a Negro audience, there are a large number of stories which deal with the special problem of the Negro in our society. Unfortunately, too rigid adherence to the standards of the short short has kept most of the writers from saying anything noteworthy on the subject. One exception can be noted: two stories by Albert Monn—'The Award' and 'Our Country'—show considerable skill and emotional intensity. . . If the collection does not quite achieve these, it is heartening to know they are being striven for." E. J. Fitzgerald
Sat R of Lit 33:37 D 16 '50 220w
School & Society 72:237 O 7 '50 20w

FORESTER, FRANK, pseud. See Herbert, H. W.

FORMAN, HARRISON. Blunder in Asia. 190p $3 Didier pubs.

951.042 China—Politics and government. Communism—China 50-11037

A report on the Red Regime in China from Manchuria to Shanghai, including personal interviews with all the top Communist and Nationalist leaders; their likes and dislikes; their habits and idiosyncrasies. (Adapted from publisher's note)

"Recent events seem to suggest that psychological and political factors outweigh the logic of economics. We must avoid both the specious optimism of Mr. Forman and the contempt in which others have held the Chinese Reds. If some middle path, in which neither side scorns the other as a 'paper tiger' can be found, Mr. Forman's factual reporting can be of the greatest help. The time, however, is running out." M. B. Jansen
Christian Science Monitor p14 D 27 '50 550w

Foreign Affairs 29:680 Jl '51 20w

"Mr. Forman is at his best when writing about what he saw and heard personally. He is a little less convincing when he picks up the crystal ball. His twenty years' experience in Asia should have warned him the Chinese Reds would cross him up on his occasional predictions even before this book was published. Still, these are minor flaws in an otherwise excellent book." Stuart Lillico
+ — N Y Times p10 D 10 '50 450w

"This book, which underwent its final revision last July, is not a polemic; it is mostly personal observations by a veteran Far East reporter who was present in Shanghai last year when thousands of Red Army men . . . paraded victoriously through the streets, and who bases his opinions and conclusions on what he saw and what people on the scene said. As such, it is good, but some of the conclusions are pretty dubious."
New Yorker 26:86 Ja 6 '51 160w

Reviewed by R. L. Walker
Yale R n s 40:540 spring '51 250w

FORMAN, ROBERT. Scene painting. 40p il col pl $3.75 Pitman

792 Theaters—Stage setting and scenery [50-10072]

"Guide to the painting of scenery. . . The author describes the different types of stages, takes up the chief difficulties faced by the designer and deals with material, the preparation of working drawings, various media employed, and the actual process of painting scenery. It also gives hints on reconditioning old scenery, stenciling designs and figures on scenery, and storage and lighting." School Arts

"Though handsomely illustrated, this book is so completely English in its approach that the stage terms are likely to be so confusing to the amateur (an Anglo-American dictionary would be helpful) as to defeat its purpose. Only the largest theatre collections will wish to purchase." George Freedley
Library J 75:1828 O 15 '50 50w

"Will be of equal interest to professional and amateur scene painters. . . Written by a man extremely well qualified on the subject."
+ School Arts 50:7a Ja '51 110w

FORRESTAL, JAMES. Forrestal diaries; ed. by Walter Millis with the collaboration of E. S. Duffield. 581p il $5 Viking

B or 92 U.S.—Foreign relations. Statesmen—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. U.S.—Defenses 51-13009

"Here are the private day-to-day notes, letters, reports, and recorded conversations of a man intimately connected with the people and the events that have shaped the present world situation. The diaries begin in 1944, shortly after James Forrestal became Secretary of the Navy, and end with his resignation in March 1949 as America's first Secretary of Defense." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Mr. Millis labored under many difficulties. Some of Mr. Forrestal's entries had to be taken out. . . Publication of all of these passages would have violated either the secrecy rule for Cabinet meetings or security. There is something unsatisfactory in issuing a diary that is not quite the original. Still, pruned and slightly doctored as it is, the diaries are rewarding. They are a record, however partial, of big events in the making, and, since the record is by one of the principals, they are valuable to the student if not the historian." Herbert Elliston

+ Atlantic 188:73 N '51 5050w

Booklist 48:21; 47 S 15 '51; O 1 '51

Bookmark 11:30 N '51 30w

"The diaries are a tribute to a man intensely dedicated to national service. As such they should provide thoughtful citizens, at a time when administrative malpractices are in the public eye, with an appreciation of the high qualities which such service demands and the complexities which it entails." Lloyd Musolf

+ Cath World 174:317 Ja '52 450w

"Large sections of the diaries are Mr. Millis' condensations of what Forrestal wrote or what Mr. Millis thought Forrestal wrote. The scholar will regret the diaries are not complete. The casual reader will wonder what has been left unsaid. Nonetheless the diaries have value." Walter Trohan

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p3 O 21 '51 800w

"In spite of the spottiness of the volume it is the most valuable source of post-war history yet published because it is a record of things that happened written at the time by a key figure in the events who was writing not to justify himself or to prove a thesis but only to record for his own immediate use the vital events of his public life." J. C. Harsch

+ Christian Science Monitor p9 O 18 '51 950w

Cleveland Open Shelf p25 N '51

Kirkus 19:505 S 1 '51 390w

"Recommended for all libraries." H. L. Roth

+ Library J 76:1558 O 1 '51 110w

Reviewed by Willard Shelton

Nation 173:305 O 13 '51 1650w

"Considering where he sat and the rich materials available to him, Forrestal was an uninspired diarist. He had a knack for draining the color out of dramatic events and an unfortunate faculty for overlooking the highlights of the major transactions of state to which he was witness, and in many of which he took part. Walter Millis has exerted himself strenuously to confer on the diaries the status of major contribution to contemporary history; in this, however, he has been unsuccessful. . . Millis omitted and selected 'on a large scale'; he repaired and 'supplemented' by recourse to other sources; he also filled the gaps with extensive commentary of his own. . . Assuming this drastic treatment was necessary, one is puzzled as to why the diaries were published at all. For the 'processing' to which they have been submitted has diminished their historical value, which could not have been high initially; and Millis' long-winded and often tendentious rehash of events fails to make most of these 555 pages even readable." J. R. Newman

— New Repub 125:18 O 15 '51 1800w

"Take him as he is, self-portrayed, without self-consciousness, in his own matter-of-fact notes, Forrestal is a man for Americans to be proud of, to regret, to learn from and, if they can, to imitate." Joseph Alsop

+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 O 14 '51 2050w

"This is not a book that indulges in either praise or criticism. Forrestal lets the facts speak for themselves. And since the facts that he was recording were written in the form of notes for the sole purpose of subsequent rereading by Forrestal himself, the contents of the book consist of the facts as he saw them, without regard to the construction or misconstruction that might be placed on his words by the public at large. The book possesses, therefore, an authenticity and a lack of affectation that make it one of the most revealing public documents of our time." Marx Leva

+ N Y Times p1 O 14 '51 2150w

Reviewed by R. H. Rovere

New Yorker 27:143 N 3 '51 2300w

"This is a matchless record of an able administrator at work and the background against which he must work as well as the extraneous factors that help and hinder him in his work." C. W. Weinberger

+ San Francisco Chronicle p8 O 21 '51 900w

"The job of putting these disjointed, though interesting, observations into readable form was a difficult one, and Walter Millis has done it well. By consulting other records, by reading other memoirs, and by thorough research into the public problems of the period, he has been able to supply interpolatory text to piece the fragments into a highly readable whole." H. B. Hinton

+ Sat R of Lit 34:28 O 6 '51 1100w

Reviewed by Donald Derby

Springf'd Republican p14C N 4 '51 500w

Time 58:26 O 15 '51 1450w

FORRESTER, GERTRUDE. Methods of vocational guidance. rev & enl ed 463p $4.25 Heath

371.425 Vocational guidance 51-9948

"Specific methods of helping young people plan their vocational lives, rather than the theory of philosophy of guidance. This is a guide to literature, indexes and data furnished by government agencies. . . Revised, enlarged edition." (Booklist) For first edition see Book Review Digest 1945.

Booklist 47:365 Je 15 '51

School & Society 73:173 Mr 17 '51 20w

Wis Lib Bul 47:159 Je '51

FORSTER, EDWARD MORGAN. Two cheers for democracy. 363p $4 Harcourt

824 51-13652

"These essays, articles, broadcasts, etc., were nearly all of them composed after 1936. . . The opening section, 'The Second Darkness,' concentrates on the war which began for Great Britain in 1939, though earlier elsewhere, and which is still going on. . . The second section, 'What I Believe,' covers the same period as the first and sometimes the same subjects, but its climate is ethical and esthetic." (Pref) No index.

"Few of these papers rank with Forster's finest work; a good many are, for a writer of his distinction, rather routine stuff or so slight as to be little more than notes. But the easy grace and lucidity of his style; his humor, his good taste, the wise humanism of his outlook, make the going consistently rewarding. And the book, taken as a whole, is far more impressive than its individual components." C. J. Rolo

+ Atlantic 189:90 Ja '52 400w

Booklist 48:97 N 15 '51

Bookmark 11:57 D '51 20w

Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p12 N 4 '51 410w

Reviewed by Ruth Chapin
Christian Science Monitor p11 N 21 '51 750w

"No other English-speaking writer is quite of his stature, not only qua writer, but qua literary figure: he is our Gide-Proust-Mann. And, since the English language and people have one sure genius, that of the via media, the middle way, how much less he dates!" Anne Fremantle
+ Commonweal 55:126 N 9 '51 280w

Kirkus 19:624 O 15 '51 160w

"Except for the war pieces which show their age unbecomingly, the essays meet the high standard of Edwardian prose writing of which Forster is an acknowledged master." Harold Lancour
Library J 76:1801 N 1 '51 100w

"It is a pity that there should be as much diversity of style as of subject-matter. Too often in this book Mr. Forster goes in for the deplorable sort of over-jauntiness that puts one in mind of the popular parson who turns out to be a bit more popular than his flock." Norman Shrapnel
Manchester Guardian p4 N 6 '51 500w

"If this book shows Forster in a more public and social role than he has ever assumed before—a large share of its contents is made up of war-time broadcasts, peace-time lectures, and literary journalism—it also shows him in another aspect which his fiction and criticism has never lacked, even at their most unconventional." M. D. Zabel
Nation 173:480 D 1 '51 1150w

"A collection of Forster's essays and in them one immediately recognizes his traits of excellence: an utter freedom from stuffiness, an enviable assurance in dealing with the English literary tradition, a readiness to converse with the reader on terms of intellectual equality, and a shy humility—that famous minor tone—which is immensely pleasing and, in this assertive age, frequently moving." Irving Howe
+ New Repub 125:16 D 10 '51 1450w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman & Nation 42:496 N 3 '51 1750w

"It is a fascinating collection and it shows how one civilized and generous spirit has managed to hold firm to the interests of civilization, the claims of generosity while the storm of fear and hatred rages and rages." Gouverneur Paulding
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 4 '51 950w

"Whoever has known and loved his work all these years need not be told what to expect in 'Two Cheers For Democracy.' Others will have a good time finding out. . . He manages to raise two mild cheers for poor old misprized, blasphemed, abused Democracy, who took an awful thrashing lately, but may recover; and he hopes to be able honestly some day to give three. He has long since earned his three cheers, and a tiger." K. A. Porter
+ N Y Times p3 N 4 '51 1250w

Reviewed by Brendan Gill
+ New Yorker 27:179 N 17 '51 700w

"Mr. Forster has a rare combination of virtues: detachment enough to see clearly; involvement enough to understand what the issue is. He may be the proprietor of an ivory tower, but he is not shut up in it. Towers can also be used to look out from." J. W. Krutch
+ Sat R of Lit 34:25 D 1 '51 1100w

Reviewed by Jocelyn Brooke
Spec 187:609 N 9 '51 700w

Reviewed by Richard McLaughlin
+ Theatre Arts 35:35 D '51 200w

Time 58:118 N 19 '51 800w

Times [London] Lit Sup p724 N 16 '51 1500w

FORTUNE (periodical). U. S. A., the permanent revolution; by the editors in collaboration with Russell W. Davenport. 267p $3.75 Prentice-Hall

917.3 U.S.—Civilization. U.S.—Politics and government 51-10804

"The editors of Fortune Magazine might have called this tract 'Apologia pro Vita Americana.' They are defending and expounding their interpretation of the American way of life, conscious throughout that what they think good in our life has not seemed good to many intellectuals, native and foreign. They are defending the American business community; they are defending George Babbitt, defending him from his creator and his commentators. The American proposition they find rooted firmly in the basically Christian doctrine of the sacredness—and hence the equality—of the individual as it is expressed in the doctrine of natural rights expounded by the Founding Fathers in the eighteenth century." (N Y Times) Index.

Am Pol Sci R 45:908 S '51 20w

Booklist 47:399 Jl 15 '51

Reviewed by Melchior Palyi
Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 O 7 '51 420w

"The editors of Fortune have made an excellent beginning. They have put together an eloquent and enthusiastic tract, trying to describe the new meanings of America. They have seen a great deal of truth, and put it into frequently moving words. Often, to be sure (like Fortune itself), it is too grandiose and too self-conscious. It would be better to have these things said by an outsider. Some day they may be, and then we will really have a tract for the times. But so far, so good." E. D. Canham
+ — Christian Science Monitor p15 My 10 '51 1550w

Reviewed by C. H. Weiss
Commonweal 54:290 Je 29 '51 950w

"This is far from easy reading, but there's plenty of ammunition here for controversy and plenty of solid meat for digestion. The end impression left is a heartening one, and should help everyone who reads it through to look at this U.S.A. with new eyes."
+ Kirkus 19:219 Ap 15 '51 410w

"Perhaps the ultimate purpose of a book review is to stimulate the desire to read the book itself, rather than to try to present its highlights. U. S. A. the Permanent Revolution is worthy of reading and re-reading by millions of persons whose judgment and support is vital in this dawning period of Armageddon." H. H. Carey
+ Management R 40:717 N '51 1050w

"This is a book it would be easy to mock. Poorly written, its pages liberally sprinkled with errors, it oscillates abruptly between the empty cliché and the hollow generalization. In its loose exaggerations, its portentous declamation, its meaningless verbiage, it illustrates, unwittingly, many of the faults of contemporary journalism." Oscar Handlin
— Nation 173:358 O 27 '51 1150w

"It is disappointing to come upon a final chapter dealing with foreign policy which seems cut off from the main stream of the book, a critique lacking the perspective and impartiality which characterizes the whole. But that is a comparatively minor flaw in a work which must hold great interest, not only for Americans but for people abroad. The hand of Mr. Russell Davenport is evident in the book's emphasis and many of its most suggestive passages; he and his colleagues have brought forth an example of what journalism can be when it is informed by wisdom and lit by hope." August Heckscher
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 My 13 '51 900w

Reviewed by Crane Brinton
N Y Times p3 My 13 '51 800w

Reviewed by August Heckscher
Sat R of Lit 34:9 My 26 '51 1350w

School & Society 73:416 Je 30 '51 10w

FORTUNE—Continued

"Sometimes the tone of this book is one of smugness and of self-complacency. It is written in the prose that has come to be identified with the editors of Fortune. . . If one discounts the faults, however, this is an honest effort to tell Americans about themselves and the goal that should be theirs to bring peace to a troubled world." Donald Derby

+ — Springf'd Republican p5D Jl 15 '51 480w

"This is an eloquent and stirring volume. Its total impact is one of widened horizons, provocative insights, suggestive hints toward program. It is an American as ham-and-eggs, yet American in a lofty, traditional albeit prophetic way." Ordway Tead

+ Survey 87:500 N '51 350w

FOSDICK, HARRY EMERSON, ed. Rufus Jones speaks to our time. See Jones, R. M.

FOSS, HUBERT JAMES. Ralph Vaughan Williams; a study. 219p $3.50 Oxford

B or 92 Vaughan Williams, Ralph [50-13796]

"Primarily, this is a descriptive and critical study of Vaughan Williams' music. However it is Williams' vivid personality that perhaps constitutes the book's main interest. . . The composer's personality, development and background are dealt with in chapters preceding the major portion of the book. Williams' 'Musical Autobiography' is also included, and at the end there is an 'epilogue' which constitutes a tribute to the 78-year-old composer." N Y Times

"Written by the well-known British critic and personal friend of the subject, this study strikes a happy medium between objectivity and intimacy." C. K. Miller

+ Library J 75:2153 D 15 '50 110w

"Whoever has studied the works of Vaughan Williams has experienced an ambivalence in attitude toward the composer—an intuitive feeling of his greatness and at the same time an awareness of numerous reservations to that feeling which arises with the performance of many of the works. The same ambivalence pervades this first major study of the composer by Mr. Foss, an ardent admirer and honest critic. . . There is, unfortunately, no bibliography of works about the composer and his music. One who is already familiar with Vaughan Williams's music will learn little that is new; one who is unfamiliar with his works will certainly be impelled by this study to seek an opportunity to hear them." William Kimmel

Music Lib Assn Notes 8:341 Mr '51 650w

Reviewed by Cecil Smith

New Repub 123:20 D 18 '50 100w

"It becomes unavoidable to point out that Williams is not one of the composers who seems likely to leave an indelible mark on composers the world over. Nevertheless, there is no question that he has, both through his music and through his personal influence, left his mark, and a wholly admirable one, on the course of musical development in England. One must be grateful to Mr. Foss for helping the non-English world to become better acquainted with him." Roger Sessions

N Y Times p5 D 17 '50 950w

New Yorker 27:122 My 26 '51 140w

San Francisco Chronicle p23 F 18 '51 120w

"To anyone but an Englishman Mr. Foss's valuation of Vaughan Williams is bound to seem a bit exaggerated. But by lifting the composer and his works out of a musicological vacuum into the living, breathing world of literature and daily life the book attains a broader value than many more judicial works of professional musical criticism." Cecil Smith

+ Sat R of Lit 34:23 F 24 '51 950w

"The nationalist note is pitched high by Mr. Foss. . . If Vaughan Williams' music is really, as Mr. Foss seems to suggest, so intrinsically connected with the English language, the English countryside and the English way of life, foreigners may well continue to think it a private taste of the English people, no more to be acquired by the rest of the world than a taste for English cooking and the English weather. This is to diminish the status of a composer in whose finest utterances the national element is only incidental and often unnoticeable." Martin Cooper

Spec 184:248 Ag 25 '50 410w

Times [London] Lit Sup p479 Ag 4 '50 1050w

FOSTER, MRS GENEVIEVE (STUMP). Andrew Jackson; an initial biography [il. by the author]. 112p $2 Scribner

B or 92 Jackson, Andrew—Juvenile literature 51-13713

A brief biography of Andrew Jackson for young readers.

Booklist 48:149 D 15 '51

"Mrs. Foster gives young readers a real and lovable human being—and a true patriot. A distinguished little book." P. G.

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p10 N 11 '51 160w

+ Kirkus 19:618 O 15 '51 170w

"Recommended for grades 4-6." E. J. Bowland

+ Library J 76:2122 D 15 '51 100w

Reviewed by L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p3 N 11 '51 170w

"In this, the third of her 'initial' biographies, Mrs. Foster has captured much of the romance and excitement of Jackson's life." M. R. Brown

+ N Y Times p36 N 11 '51 140w

"Though written in a rather pepped-up style, in an attempt to convey its subject's intensity of feeling and informality of manner, this is a superior biography for eight- to twelve-year-olds, soundly factual yet lively, giving the reader a sense of nearness to the times and setting forth both the strengths and the weaknesses of Jackson's personality." K. T. Kinkead

+ — New Yorker 27:185 D 1 '51 60w

FOSTER, JOHN FARLEY, ed. See Battelle memorial institute. Economics of fuel gas from coal.

FOSTER, MARIAN CURTIS (MARIANA, pseud). Miss Flora McFlimsey's Easter bonnet. [38p] il $1 Lothrop

51-9981

This second story about the lovely old doll, Miss Flora McFlimsey, describes her memories of a long ago Easter when her friend, Peterkins the rabbit, brought her a most unusual Easter bonnet and she won a prize.

Booklist 47:297 Ap 15 '51

"All most charmingly related, with captivating illustrations to delight the youngest book lovers." Polly Goodwin

+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p16 Mr 18 '51 130w

+ Kirkus 19:152 Mr 15 '51 80w

"This slight, somewhat contrived story lacks the sensitive handling and irresistible charm of Miss Flora McFlimsey's Christmas Eve, but will appeal to girls 4-8. Lovely illustrations by Mariana. Recommended." E. E. Beatty

+ — Library J 76:713 Ap 15 '51 80w

"The many sketches, in that loosely flowing, soft-wash style, which has proved appealing on the counters though not to this reviewer, give an overall effect of gayety and a doll's-eye view of the world. Perhaps such pictures may inspire some little girls to paint or draw their own toys. The board binding marks it as a gift book." L. S. Bechtel

N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p10 Ap 1 '51 120w

+ N Y Times p22 Mr 25 '51 140w

FOULDS, ELFRIDA VIPONT (BROWN) (ELFRIDA VIPONT, pseud.) Lark in the morn; il. by Sandra James. 234p $2.50 Bobbs
51-9974

Kit, an English girl of Quaker family, is the central character in this story for older girls. When she visited the family of her dead mother she first realized the pleasure of singing. At boarding school she made a wrong start and had to begin over again, and "the way was open."

Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 30 '51 160w

"An unusual, well-written, and rather elusive story about a present-day Quaker family in England, and especially Kit and her Heryot, a Quaker school for girls." S. M. A.
+ Horn Bk 27:254 Jl '51 90w

"Pleasant girls' story, but very English vocabulary will limit its popularity." C. A. Hulton
Library J 76:717 Ap 15 '51 70w

"The canvas is a bit crowded, the characters done in too sharp contrast, but the tale holds one's interest. American girls of about twelve and thirteen may like it best for the first half is 'young' in approach." L. S. Bechtel
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p12 Ap 22 '51 160w

"Mrs. Vipont, a musician, has written a moving story of a young artist in the making. It is peopled with interesting characters, young and old, filled with the sense of music and with the quiet wisdom of the Quaker way of life." E. L. B.
+ N Y Times p18 Ap 15 '51 150w

Reviewed by B. W. Shaffer
Sat R of Lit 34:46 Je 9 '51 220w

FOULQUIE, PAUL. Existentialism; tr. by Kathleen Raine. 124p $2.50 Roy pubs.
111 Existentialism

"Analysis of existential philosophy and its various interpretations by Husserl, Heidegger, Kierkegaard, Gabriel Marcel, Louis Lavelle, Jean-Paul Sartre and others. In his Foreword, the author suggests that this philosophy might serve as a starting point (for those interested in it) from which to proceed to philosophy proper, or to some other philosophy. 'It might be no less useful than the study of any other particular system.'" Library J

Reviewed by L. T. Heron
Chicago Sunday Tribune p8 O 1 '50 50w

"Brief but clear analysis. . . For mature reader and student." O. G. Lawson
+ Library J 75:1825 O 15 '50 100w

"M. Foulquie has given us here a good, if exceedingly brief and simple, introduction to existentialism. And his exposition is as clear and precise as only a Frenchman can make it." Robert Bierstedt
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Mr 3 '51 270w

"A lucid analysis."
+ School & Society 72:431 D 23 '50 20w

FOWLER, GENE. Schnozzola; the story of Jimmy Durante. 261p il $3 Viking
B or 92 Durante, Jimmy 51-12878

Biography of Jimmy Durante. It describes his career as an entertainer from his Coney Island honky-tonk days to the present, and includes the story of his friendship with his two partners, and his marriage.

"I suspect that Schnozzola is just about as good as you can get it. . . Something of this lovely man Fowler lights up. The comic, tender artist, the piano player, the fellow who can touch you more deeply than anyone else when he walks up and down the stage in front of a line of girls singing his own special 'recitative'—that has to be seen and heard—'in person.'" Harvey Breit
+ Atlantic 188:84 O '51 360w
Booklist 47:393; 48:64 Jl 15 '51; O 15 '51

Reviewed by E. V. Wyatt
Cath World 174:319 Ja '52 250w

Reviewed by Larry Wolters
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 S 23 '51 650w

Reviewed by John Beaufort
Christian Science Monitor p9 O 30 '51 550w

Kirkus 19:381 Jl 15 '51 210w

"This is a lively, readable and accurate account of the Cyrano of the night clubs, the Broadway stage, films, radio, record-making. . . Recommended for general circulation and for theatre and Americana collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1327 S 1 '51 100w

"'Schnozzola' is worth reading. If you brush away the Fowlerisms, you get a great deal of raw material about a first-rate comic. There are excellent photographs. Fowler is no fool, and when he does occasionally try to think, he comes up with some shrewd though entirely undeveloped perceptions." Irving Howe
+ — Nation 173:330 O 20 '51 700w

"Schnozzola, which gets inside the heart of Jimmy Durante with candor and charm, is Fowler's best biography to date." Russell Rhodes
+ New Repub 125:20 N 26 '51 320w

"It was Robert Benchley, if memory serves, who once contemplated an organization of people who not only appreciated Jimmy Durante but appreciated him for the right reasons. Mr. Fowler is obviously one of them, and his rich and sympathetic book invites all and sundry to join." J. K. Hutchens
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p1 S 23 '51 1400w

"This is indeed, one of the fine biographies, partly because it is about a truly fine human being and partly because it is by a skillful and sympathetic writer, who has the wisdom derived from long experience in New York, and the ability to understand Broadway." John McNulty
+ N Y Times p7 S 23 '51 950w
New Yorker 27:125 O 6 '51 200w

Reviewed by J. H. Jackson
San Francisco Chronicle p18 S 26 '51 750w

"As a portrait of a buffoon with a great nose and a greater heart, 'Schnozzola' is fascinating reading. It is also a detailed and valuable document relating to the mores of Manhattan during the era of the speakeasy." J. P. Shanley
+ Sat R of Lit 34:48 S 22 '51 650w

"This book recapturing the multi-faceted, beloved Jimmy Durante, the Jimmy who carries on continual correspondence with a convict, the Jimmy who took a sly poke at Toscanini in a song and then ran when Toscanini mentioned it to him, the Jimmy who will take the secret of Mrs. Calabash to the grave with him, compares most favorably with any that Fowler has written." A. N. P.
+ Springf'd Republican p14C O 14 '51 650w
Time 58:118 S 24 '51 850w
Wis Lib Bul 47:249 N '51

FOWLER, HARLAN DAVEY. Camels to California [a chapter in western transportation]. 93p il $3.50 Stanford univ. press
979 Overland journeys to the Pacific. Southwest, New—History. Transportation—Southwest, New 51-104

In the 1850's Secretary of War Jefferson Davis got the idea that camels would be useful in the opening up of the West. A herd was procured, but the experiment proved a failure. The present volume is a history of that experiment. Bibliographical notes. No index.

Booklist 47:217 F 15 '51

"Mr. Fowler has performed a worthwhile service in his book, since Uncle Sam's camels have become a part of Western folklore and in such cases it is always a good idea to have all the facts available." J. H. Jackson

FOWLER, H. D.—Continued
+ San Francisco Chronicle p14 D 27 '50 850w

"He tells a good story well and illustrates it with striking contemporary prints showing camels prancing daintily among the big trees of California." J. T. Winterich
+ Sat R of Lit 34:16 My 5 '51 250w

FOWLIE, WALLACE. Age of surrealism. (Swallow Press publication) 203p $3 Morrow
701.16 Surrealism 50-10630

Popularly written history of surrealism in art and literature. "Through a series of essays on Lautréamont, Rimbaud, Mallarmé, Breton, Apollinaire, Cocteau, Eluard, and Picasso, Professor Fowlie summarizes and evaluates each individual figure, tracing as well the steady growth of the movement that has been so important in all modern art during the first half of our century." (Library J) Bibliography.

Reviewed by Milton Crane
Chicago Sunday Tribune p11 Mr 4 '51 250w

"It is possible, while reading Age of Surrealism, to be convinced of the importance of the movement, and yet to be wary of Mr. Fowlie's enthusiasm for it as a movement. . . Mr. Fowlie's enthusiasm, however, is a more encouraging reaction than the ponderous rationalism of most critics, to whom the concept of freedom in art means less than nothing." J. H. Johnston
Commonweal 53:260 D 15 '50 1000w

"An intelligent and competent study of the artistic school of thought which arose between the two world wars."
+ Kirkus 18:550 S 1 '50 160w

"A good popular history . . . lucidly written, and elementary enough to interest readers who have hitherto been frightened of the very word, but not over-simplified or condescending." Shirley Barker
+ Library J 75:1504 S 15 '50 130w

"Whether or not Mr. Fowlie gains any converts to the idea that surrealism belongs in importance alongside classicism and romanticism and promises to be the most vital movement of modern thought and art, the fact remains that his critical lobbying has also resulted in a scintillating study of French surrealistic aims and accomplishments."
+ Sat R of Lit 34:40 Je 9 '51 360w

FOWLIE, WALLACE. Pantomime; a journal of rehearsals. 246p $3.50 Regnery
B or 92 51-2808

A literary autobiography in which is traced the author's love and understanding of the literature of France. "Born and brought up in Brookline, Mass., and educated at Harvard, the author fell in love with the French language from his first French class at school. He mastered the language as well as any American ever has, wrote several books of criticism (most recently 'The Age of Surrealism') and became one of the most inspiring teachers in the country." N Y Times

---

"This is one of those books which we do not commonly produce in America: an account of a man's experiences, largely intellectual, which remains valid and suffused with interest while wholly avoiding self-dramatization." Paul Engle
+ Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 My 27 '51 400w

Reviewed by Serge Hughes
Commonweal 54:338 Jl 13 '51 460w

"To those who know Wallace Fowlie's pleasantly garrulous style (a style which masks perhaps the best criticism of contemporary French literature now being written in America), any book that bears his name will appear important. Nor will his readers be disappointed in the present volume. . . There is another side to Fowlie's journal, however, which may not be so evident at first, but which becomes the entire raison d'être when one discovers it. This is the author's acute understanding of the tremendous problem which faces any man who dares assume the rôle of creator." Theodore Enslin
+ Crozer Q 28:282 Jl '51 400w

"Highly recommended for poetry, theatre and belles lettres collections." George Freedley
+ Library J 76:1128 Jl '51 40w

"Here, beautifully told, is the intimate history of an American writer's creative development." Lloyd Morris
+ N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p13 Ag 19 '51 250w

"Perhaps the finest book Wallace Fowlie has written, 'Pantomime' is a moving and sensitive expression of his love for France and a delicate autobiography." Henri Peyre
+ N Y Times p5 Je 3 '51 450w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Bishop
Poetry 79:212 Ja '52 850w

FOX, JAMES M., pseud. See Knipscheer, J. M. W.

FOX, PAUL HERVEY. Daughter of Jairus. 213p $2.75 Little 51-9205

A novel based on one of Christ's miracles, the raising from the dead of the daughter of Jairus.

Reviewed by A. C. Ames
Chicago Sunday Tribune p5 Mr 4 '51 400w

"The action of the piece is impressive if not dramatic and stirring. Familiarity with the geography, customs and the general life of the Jewish folk is evident and the story unfolds neatly. The book makes good light reading." T. F. Opie
+ Churchman 165:16 Mr 15 '51 70w

"The style and artistry evident in this book is a relief from the sentimentality and fuzzy historical sense which mark the majority of religious historical novels, although again this book cannot surmount the almost impossible difficulty of representing the personality of Christ."
+ — Kirkus 18:706 D 1 '50 200w

"Wealth of detail, minor incidents and characters, make an appealing story which never quite attains the stature of a well-rounded novel. Recommended for its sincere purpose, unusual approach and vivid style." R. P. Tubby
+ — Library J 76:179 F 1 '51 80w

"It is earnestly written and has some excellent descriptive passages, but the prose is ponderous. The author is partial to words like illimitable, unfathomable, enormous and unutterable. And one is often in doubt as to what he means, as when he describes the eyes of Jesus as 'having in them something noble and quiet in their profound infatuation.' "
+ — N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p22 F 25 '51 260w

"The story is essentially simple in structure, the characterization is adequate but far from subtle. The result is a narrative that, while it will undoubtedly appeal to many readers because of its subject-matter, achieves only moderate dramatic and emotional effect." N. K. Burger
+ — N Y Times p20 F 11 '51 200w

Reviewed by Bradford Smith
Sat R of Lit 34:44 F 10 '51 550w

FOX, RUTH. Milestones of medicine. 237p $2.75 Random house
610.9 Medicine—History 50-12343

"Factual material on the following subjects: Rontgen and the X-ray, Madame Curie and radium, the drug industry, vitamins, the prevention of diphtheria and yellow fever, insulin, penicillin. The use of the scientific method in medical research is described throughout the book." Library J

Booklist 47:224 F 15 '51

Horn Bk 27:37 Ja '51 60w

Kirkus 18:422 Ag 1 '50 120w

"Recommended." M. I. Ross
+ Library J 76:187 F 1 '51 110w

"Miss Fox exhibits a talent for translating scientific intricacies into simple, readable, non-technical language." Richard Match
+ N Y Times p26 Ja 28 '51 210w

FRADKIN, MRS ELVIRA THEKLA (KUSH). World airlift; the United nations air police patrol. 216p il maps $2.85 Funk

341.65 United nations (organization). Air police patrol (proposed). Aeronautics, Military 50-11013

"A student of international affairs proposes an 'immediately applicable' plan to meet the urgent problem of police action and provide security for all nations without amending the UN charter. Maps, photographs, charts. Documentary material in appendix, index." Bookmark

---

Am Pol Sci R 45:597 Je '51 60w

"This is a serious and thoughtful book which warrants careful study." J. E. Harley
+ Ann Am Acad 274:219 Mr '51 500w

Bookmark 10:81 Ja '51 30w

Reviewed by Chesly Manly
Chicago Sunday Tribune p4 F 18 '51 250w

Foreign Affairs 30:154 O '51 20w

"A utopian plan such as this is interesting, but the arguments as presented here are greatly over-simplified and politically naïve." Donald Wasson
Library J 75:1901 N 1 '50 110w

"Miss Fradkin's chapters on the uses to which such a patrol could be put and the international advantages which would follow are interesting. But, even if one is convinced of the desirability of her proposal, one is forced to question its practicality. . .. Miss Fradkin's additional admission that neither the United States nor the Soviet Union could be expected in the forseeable future to surrender its strategic air bases to UN gives a tone of unreality to a book which is, despite this, an eloquent plea for peace." G. A. Craig
N Y Herald Tribune Bk R p15 Mr 4 '51 550w

Reviewed by J. M. Coleman
Pol Sci Q 66:158 Mr '51 700w

San Francisco Chronicle p10 Ja 14 '51 270w

FRANCESCHI, PIETRO DI BENEDETTO DEI Piero della Francesca, by Kenneth Clark. 212p 219il 7 col il $8.50 Phaidon

759.5 Paintings, Italian

"In 1927 the place won by Piero in the pantheon of Italian painting was recognized in a volume by Professor Roberto Longhi, which is now acknowledged as the standard monograph dealing with the painter. . . At the beginning of his new volume on Piero della Francesca, Sir Kenneth Clark offers a generous tribute to Professor Longhi's book, and his conviction that this 'is not likely to be superseded' is no doubt responsible for the decision to plan his own study as a guide to the appreciation of the artist's work and not as a full-scale monograph." Times [London] Lit Sup

---

Reviewed by Bernard Denvir
New Repub 124:27 Je 25 '51 850w

"Sir Kenneth Clark's book is as much a modern book as Spender's autobiography or the latest Graham Greene, relevant to life in London at the moment, lively, full of suggestive images, shining lights, but not free from those small errors that in biography are so difficult to stamp out. It is altogether more ambitious than art books (outside France) normally are, with their guarded qualifications and apparatus of scholarship, and hence much more vulnerable. It treats a great genius in the only way in which he deserves to be treated, with a broad sweep, with reckless generosity." Benedict Nicolson
+ New Statesman & Nation 41:508 My 5 '51 2150w

"The type face is admirably large and clear, and the copious illustrations, especially made for this volume, both in black and white and in color, should be a revelation even to those who know the works well. It is no exaggeration to say that this is one of the most important and beautiful art books to have appeared in many years." Stuart Preston
+ N Y Times p7 Ag 12 '51 700w

"Sir Kenneth Clarke's book on Piero is a most important contribution. . . And frequently it carries to a very high level that eloquence of phrasing which is often the gift of English art historians and critics." J. T. Soby
+ Sat R of Lit 34:36 Je 2 '51 1400w

"The reader who loves Piero may well find that this magnificent, meticulous yet always vivid book serves as a kind of extension of Piero's own achievement; that Sir Kenneth has, so to say, used for an interpretative standard the very excellence of his subject. From these pages, allied with superb plates that have no rival, the permanence of our contact with Piero becomes secure." Adrian Stokes
+ Spec 185:420 Mr 30 '51 800w

"For the English reader [Clark's] lucid and distinguished text certainly provides a better introduction to Piero della Francesca and his style than does the far from satisfactory translation of Professor Longhi's book. . . The test of any monograph on Piero must be the handling of the Arezzo fresco cycle, and from this Sir Kenneth and his publishers emerge triumphantly. Throughout the entire volume the standard of the reproduction is conspicuously high, and the 60-odd plates devoted to the 'Legend of the Cross' prompt us to ask ourselves whether, in a relatively inexpensive volume, any fresco cycle has ever been more richly or more adequately illustrated."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p173 Mr 23 '51 3050w

FRANCIS, BASIL. Fanny Kelly of Drury Lane. 207p pl $3.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Kelly, Frances Maria [51-591]

Biography of a nineteenth century English actress, which also contains a good deal of the history of the English theatre during the first half of the century. Among other celebrated characters in the story, Charles Lamb is outstanding as the author of a famous love letter addressed to Fanny Kelly.

"Old fashioned in style and in method of presentation this has antiquitarian interest for the large theatre collection only." George Freedley
Library J 76:867 My 15 '51 40w

"Mr. Francis writes informally. He injects himself a little too frequently in the narrative but, on the whole, Fanny's story is told with wit and charm. The 30 illustrations and the playbill endpapers enhance the value of the book for the theatre specialist." J. V.
+ — San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ap 1 '51 320w

